Earl L. Virden, a vice-president of the Chicago Advertising Club, is organizing a sales managers' unit of the association. Mr. Virden has been expending much effort in attempting to bring the sales managers and advertising men of Chicago closer together.

About forty attended the banquet of the sneakers' division of the Cleveland Ad Club on November 15. Almost half of that number spoke from two to three minutes.

Homer J. Buckley, one of the organizers of the Chicago Advertising Association, addressed the Elgin (Ill.) Commercial Club at luncheon last week.

Benjamin T. Goldberg, formerly connected with Chevrolet Motor Company, the Encyclopedia Britannica Corporation and the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, has become secretary to Francis I. Best, advertising manager of R. H. Macy & Co., New York.

Charles G. Percival, advertising manager of the Van Cortlandt Vehicle Corporation, has been commissioned a captain in the army.

Leonard J. Blackman, formerly advertising and assistant sales manager of the Eclipse Light Company, New York, has been appointed advertising manager of Sol Levin & Co., New York, makers of display fixtures.

Speakers from the St. Paul Ad Club addressed the Minneapolis Advertising Forum on Tuesday night.

W. H. Tenenhill has resigned as sales manager of the Scripps-Booth Motor Car Company, Detroit, to become sales manager of the Detroit Weatherproof Body Company, Pontiac, Mich.

Walter Jay Stevens has resigned from the advertising department of the Addressograph Company to take charge of advertising for the James H. Rhodes Company, of Chicago, Ill., manufacturer of industrial chemicals.

J. H. McShane, formerly assistant advertising manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company, is now advertising manager of the Pathe Freres Phonograph Company, Long Island City, N. Y.

L. C. Allman, for two years advertising manager of the Iowa Gate Company, Cedar Falls, Ia., and previously with the Associated Manufacturers Co., Waterloo, Ia., in a similar capacity, has joined the advertising service department of the Joseph Mack Printing House, Inc., Detroit.

Oscar Rosier, for the past two years advertising manager of Hillman's Store, Chicago, has become advertising manager of the May Company, Cleveland. Mr. Rosier came to the United States from Australia three years ago and became advertising manager of the Hub, Chicago.

At the request of the management of the Children's Hospital, the Columbus (Ohio) Advertising Club has appointed Messrs. Haas, Miller, Freeman and Crossland to prepare, without charge, all advertising copy for the charity ball to be given by the hospital November 28. The club engaged in a round-table discussion on "Preparation of Copy."

About eighty men and women attended the meeting of the League of Advertising Women of New York at the Advertising Club on November 20.

Miss Minna Hall Simmons of the Blackman-Ross Company, presided over the first half of the program which touched on "the gentle art of solicitation."

Dan A. Carroll, special representative, took for his subject "The human element in salesmanship."

Miss I. J. Martin, president of the association, and advertising manager of the Sperry & Hutchinson Com-

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING CO.

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
250 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Bromfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PRINTERS' REPRESENTATIVES
905 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
98 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Rutland Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

pany expressed her views from the standpoint of the advertising manager. She advised those selling advertising to sell their proposition to themselves before they go out to sell it to others and stated that if one who has faith in himself or herself and the proposition being sold should work on a commission basis.

The second half of the program was devoted to export advertising and was presided over by Miss Jane Carroll of Women's Wear.

Miss Lucy Goldsmith, export manager of the Aeolian Company, talked upon the subject in a most comprehensive manner.

The speeches were followed by an informal discussion.

ALPHABETICAL ADVERTISING.

The Chicago Post is conducting an advertising feature for small announcements of individuals and firms that ordinarily do not advertise. This feature is called "Everything from A. to Z." and is arranged alphabetically beginning with adding machines and running down to Zenith movies. The page is well patronized and has of late been appearing regularly in the Post.

BILLBOARDS IN BUFFALO.

A campaign is now being conducted in Buffalo against billboards in residential sections of the city. An ordinance has been introduced in the city council making it necessary to secure consent of a majority of property owners in a block before billboards may be erected anywhere in the block.

CHINESE PAPER BANNED.

The Pekin Gazette, which recently published a number of anti-Japanese articles, has been suspended by the authorities.

The suppression of the newspaper, which has denounced the policy of Japan toward China, came after a protest had been made by the Japanese legation.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

The Congregationalist, said to be vance, well known religious papers, were consolidated on November 22. The Journal will henceforth be known by the combined names.

The Congregationalist, said to be the oldest religious paper in the country, always has been published in Boston, and the Advance in Chicago.

R. T. Eaton, formerly with the Butterick Company, New York, is now in charge of the circulation and Western advertising of the Continent, Chicago, succeeding C. F. Carrington, who has gone to the Western office of the Metropolitan Magazine, New York.

R. H. Fairbairn has disposed of the New Hampton (Ia.) Courier to W. N. Crawford publisher of the Gazette, and E. J. Fueling, publisher of the Tribune.

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE ADVERTISING than any other newspaper prints.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION'S REVIEW OF THE BOOK PAPER MARKET.

WHOLE MONTH OF OCTOBER.

The partial statement of book paper production and stocks for October, 1917, issued November 6, 1917, and printed in THE FOURTH ESTATE of November 10, showed that stocks on hand at the mills increased from 34,654 tons at the beginning of the first week of the month to 35,038 tons at the end of the fourth week of the month, and that stocks held by manufacturers at delivery points increased during the month from 8,884 tons to 9,750 tons.

Reports from 108 jobbers showed the following stocks:

	No. 1 Eastern and Western Machine Finish.	No. 1 Eastern and Western Super.	Coated Book Costing 10c or Less.
	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.
Stocks in warehouses first of month..	8,363	4,832	5,449
Stocks in warehouses at end of month	8,437	4,718	5,586

A small increase in the stocks of machine finish and coated, and a small decrease in the stocks of supercalendared book paper is indicated.

Reports from 181 concerns using book paper including publishers, printers and commercial users showed the following results for October:

Stocks on hand at beginning of month.....	52,119 Tons
Stocks on hand at end of month.....	47,798 Tons

The figures indicate a decline in stocks in the hands of consumers of over 4,000 tons.

NOVEMBER.

BOOK PAPER PRODUCTION AND STOCKS FOR FIRST TWO WEEKS.

Weekly reports from 47 book paper companies operating 73 mills show the following results of operations for the first two weeks of November, 1917:

	First Week.		Second Week.
	Total Book Paper.	Periodical Book Paper.	Total Book Paper.	Periodical Book Paper.
	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.
Stocks at mills at start of week..	35,127	4,598	33,930	4,608
At end of week.....	34,189	4,248	34,221	4,007

Periodical paper includes that known by manufacturers to be used for printing magazines and periodicals. The total figures include the periodical book paper.

The figures show a decline in stocks during the first week due to increased shipments especially of periodical paper and an increase in stocks during the second week.

LOSS OF TIME.

The reports for the 242 machines operated show the following hours lost for the two weeks on account of lack of orders and other reasons:

	Down For Lack of Orders.		Down for Other Special Reasons.
	Number of Machines Down.	Hours Lost.	Number of Machines Down.	Hours Lost.
First week	55	2534	21	1114
Second week	59	3077	29	1751

The hours lost for other special reasons include important repairs, lack of materials, car shortage, etc.

BOOK PAPER PRICES.

Eighteen new contracts for machine finish paper were made by manufacturers during October, aggregating 19,435 tons, the prices ranging from $4.90 to $7.50 per 100 lbs., less 3 per cent for cash in thirty days.

Eighteen new contracts, aggregating 32,710 tons were also made for supercalendared book paper at prices ranging from $5.50 to $7.85 per 100 pounds, less 3 per cent for cash in thirty days.

Only four contracts for coated paper were reported, aggregating 1,444 tons. The prices ranged from $7.50 to $8.50 per 100 pounds, less 3 per cent for cash in thirty days.

The variation in the prices of each grade was due in part to differences in quality, form, method of packing, etc.

Open market prices for the different grades of book paper sold in important quantities by the mills were about the same as the contract prices.

JOBBER'S PRICES.

Prices quoted by representative jobbers for deliveries from their warehouses were as follows:

	Ream lots per 100 lbs.	500 lb. lots per 100 lbs.	ton lots per 100 lbs.
No. 1 Eastern M. F.	$7.50-$9.35	$7.50-$8.50	$6.75-$8.75
No. 1 Western M. F.		6.50-8.00	6.25-8.00
No. 1 Eastern Super	7.75-10.00	7.50-8.75	7.00-8.50
No. 1 Western Super	7.50-11.00	7.25-10.50	7.00-10.25
No. 2 Coated Book	9.00-12.00	9.00-10.50	8.75-11.00

The variation in prices was due in part to differences in quality, location, etc. In a considerable number of cases lower prices were quoted during the last week of the month than during the first week. Opinions of jobbers as to the future course of the market varied materially. Some reported that no increase in prices was likely to occur during the year, while others looked for an advance in prices in the near future.

"ONCE-A-YEAR" IS OUT.

The Milwaukee Press Club has just issued "Once-a-Year," the club annual. The book has a larger volume of advertising patronage than ever before.

SAILORS' THANKSGIVING.

The Chicago Tribune is working to get 5,000 sailors from the Great Lakes Training Station, who will have leave on Thanksgiving Day, invitations to dinner from kindly disposed people of Chicago and vicinity.

THE WESTERN ASSOCIATION JOINS A.A.A.A.

The Western Advertising Agents Association has voted unanimously in favor of joining hands with the leading advertising agents of New York, Philadelphia and Boston and the South in the national organization known as the American Association of Advertising Agencies. Announcement was made of this result at an important meeting held at the Hotel La Salle, Chicago.

A new board of governors was

PAUL E. FAUST.

elected for the coming year to manage the affairs of the Western council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies and these directors, together with the officers, are as follows:

President, Paul E. Faust; first vice-president, E. E. Critchfield; second vice-president, Charles F. W. Nichols; secretary, John Benson; J. F. Matteson, W. H. Rankin, William C. D'Arcy, William D. McKinley and Carl M. Green.

William H. Rankin is the retiring president of the Western Advertising Agents Association.

The Southern Advertising Agents Association, and those in New York, Boston and Philadelphia have also become local councils of the A. A. A.

The Blair (Neb.) Democrat has taken over the Tribune.

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home evening paper of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

$19,000

buys small daily newspaper property which returns owner $5,000 to $6,000 annually for personal effort and investment. $10,000 cash necessary. Proposition P. Y.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Newspaper For Sale in the Sunny South

Small daily in growing Southern resort, exclusive field, netting annually close to $7,000. Extraordinary opportunity. Price $20,000, half cash asked. Proposition No. 179x.

Small city daily and high class weekly in desirable Idaho locations. Nos. 7001x and 579x.

Special offer in small city daily in rich Colorado field. No. 598x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

Over One Thousand Jobs

of building and construction work were let to contractors last year through the medium of proposal advertisements in

THE IMPROVEMENT BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

One building alone cost over $80,000. The contractors and architects who bought the millions of dollars worth of materials and machinery used in constructing these buildings, read The Improvement Bulletin. Such firms as H. W. Johns Manville Co., Atlas Portland Cement Co., and Universal Portland Cement Co. advertise in it. Why don't you? Sample copy free.

Afternoon Daily For Sale

For Sale at Big Sacrifice.
AFTERNOON DAILY

in one of the most prosperous small cities in the Middle West. Plant and equipment modern. Most attractive possibilities for the future. Owner obliged to leave city on account of other interests. Address Box 894, care The Fourth Estate.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 30,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.
710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
194 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

"SPECIALS" APPOINTED.

Barnhill & Henning, 23 East 26th street, New York, have been appointed Eastern representatives for the Corn Belt Farm Dailies.

Forman, N. D., is to have a new newspaper issued by the Sargent County Farmers' Publishing Company.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

Sales Purchases Consolidations Appraisals of Newspaper and Magazine Properties

AUBREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON
Harwell & Cannon
Times Building NEW YORK

AMUSEMENTS.

Aeolian Hall—43d st., between 5th and 6th aves.—A new series of symphony concerts for children by the Symphony Society of New York, Walter Damrosch, conductor, will be inaugurated on Saturday morning, November 10, at 11 o'clock. This series will consist of four concerts, the remaining dates being Dec. 1, Jan. 12 and Feb. 16. Nov. 24, Societe des Instruments Anciens; Nov. 27, Dohnanyi Quartet; Nov. 30, Mme. Gabrielle Gilels; Guionmar Norvege; Dec. 8, Beryl Rubinstein; Dec. 7, Helen Stanley.

Astor—B'way & 46th—"The Very Idea."
Belasco—W. 44th—"Polly With a Past."
Booth—45th, west of B'way—"The Masquerader."

Biglow—W. 45th—"Odds and Ends."
Broadhurst—44th, west of B'way—"Her Regiment."

Carnegie Hall—7th ave. and 57th st.—Six symphony concerts for young people, Nov. 17, Dec. 15, Jan. 5, Feb. 3, 23, March 9.

Century—62d and Central Park W.—"Miss 1917."

Geo. M. Cohan—B'way and 43d—"The King."

Cohan & Harris—West 42d—"A Tailor-Made Man."

Comedy—41st, between Broadway and 6th av.—Washington Square Players.

Corino—39th and B'way—"Oh, Boy."

Cort—48th and B'way—"De Luxe Annie."

Criterion—44th and B'way—"Madame Sand."

Eltinge—West of 42d—"Business Before Pleasure."

Empire—B'way and 40th—"The Three Bears."

39th St—Near B'way—"What's Your Husband Doing?"

44th St—"Over the Top."

46th St—Near B'way—"The Gay Lord Quex."

Fulton—B'way and 46th—"Broken Threads."

Gaiety—B'way, near 40th—"The Country Cousin."

Globe—B'way & 46th—"Jack o' Lantern."

Harris—West 42d—"Losing Heloise."

Raymond Hitchcock's 44th St.—"Hitchy-Koo."

Hippodrome—8th av. and 44th—"Cheer (p)."

Hudson—W. 44th—"The Pipes of Pan."

Irving Place—Irving pl and 15th—"A Doctor's Dilemma."

Knickbocker—B'way and 38th—"Ham-ilton."

Lycium—West 45th—"Tiger Kose."

Lytic—42d West of B'way—"Theda Bara in 'Cleopatra'."

Liberty—W. 42d—"The Winding of Eve."

Longacre—W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane."

Manhattan Opera House—West 36th—bet. 8th and 9th avs.—"Chu Chin Chow."

Maxine Elliott—30th st. East of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."

Metropolitan Opera House—B'way and 40th—Grand Opera.

Morocco—45th West of B'way—"Lomhardi, Ltd."

New Amsterdam—W. 42d—"The Riviera Girl."

Park—Columbus Circle—"The Land of Joy."

Playhouse—48th East of B'way—"Elevation."

Plymouth—45th w. of B'way—"The Star Gazer."

Princess—30th near B'way—"Oh, Boy."

Republic—West 42d—"On With the Dancer."

Standard—B'way and 90th—"The 13th Chair."

Shubert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."

Winter Garden—B'way and 50th—"Doing Our Bit."

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 80,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 8011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 or 24 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

For Sale

For Sale—Weekly newspaper plant and job printing office, located at Easton, Maryland. Equipment practically new and very complete. Editor called to colors reason for selling. For further particulars address J. G. Bateman, P. O. Box 542, New York City.

FOR SALE.

Best equipped newspaper plant in New England. Everything new and ready to operate. Five Linotypes and all steel furnishings. Goss press. Plant just closed; other interests demand attention of owner. Price low for immediate sale. Address for particulars, Daily News, Pittsfield, Mass.

LINOTYPES—A few first-class models No. 5, as good as new, at a sacrifice. Address Box 937, care The Fourth Estate.

FOR SALE

Linotype, No. 5. Good as new. Less than half price.

BARGAIN

Wire or write Box 938, care The Fourth Estate.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS
General Offices.
878 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SERVICE CORNER.

618.—"Can you tell me of any book or publication that treats of Linotype and stereotype metals and the care and treatment required to keep them in proper tone and right condition?"

619.—"We saw an advertisement somewhere on an ingredient to be mixed with oil which would keep the journals of a press cool. Do you know the name of this commodity and where we can obtain same?"

620.—"Can you tell me where I can get information showing what daily newspapers have passed out of existence by consolidation or some other process in the past ten years, designating whether these papers were morning or afternoon?"

ISSUES ANNUAL EDITION.

The San Francisco Journal of Commerce, of which Justus S. Wardell, is president and manager, has just issued an important annual edition.

A DISSOLUTION.

The Brownwood (Tex.) Herald Printing Company has filed articles of dissolution with the secretary of state.

HELP WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or

How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field. East, South and West. No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Telegraph editor for Regina Daily Post (evening). City of 50,000 capital of Saskatchewan. Salary $30. References as to character and ability required. Man with Canadian experience preferred.

Live, up-to-date evening paper in city of 20,000 wants managing editor. $35 to start. Combination circulation and advertising man who knows the game from start to finish—four months contract $1,000. Assistant ad man to step into this man's shoes at expiration of contract, salary $25 week to start. Two experienced reporters, $20 week, with chances to rise. This is a new proposition. Excellent field. Address Box 939 care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Man Wanted

There will soon be a fine opening for a good circulation man on the leading paper of one of the big cities of the central states. Place will be offered to man of ability and character. Creative as well as executive ability necessary. Write fully (your own hand) giving your record for the last ten years. Describe yourself closely, mentioning habits and hobbies. State your age and your reasons for wishing to change. Tell what salary you would expect. Address Box 935, care The Fourth Estate.

Bookkeeper-Manager

Southern trade journal in big field wants combination editor and bookkeeper manager. Salary $25 week and monthly bonus. In all will easily pay $150 month. Want a hustler with good record, place permanent. Given full authority, sign checks, direct staff, etc. Owners have other interests. Address Box 402, Godschaux Building, New Orleans, La.

WANTED—An experienced advertising solicitor who can write copy as well as sell space. A man who has worked in a city of not over 50,000 preferred. Cannot consider applications from men subject to draft. State your experience, qualifications and salary expected. Write the Pontiac Press Gazette, Pontiac, Michigan.

ADVERTISING SOLICITOR

Wall Street man wanted by leading special agency representing New York City and other leading daily papers. Want man who knows big financial concerns, advertising agents and advertisers in Wall Street. Address in confidence, giving experience and salary wanted. Permanent position to right man. Address Box 948, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Larger Profits

possible on present business, and a LARGER VOLUME

to get profits from.

Here's a Hired Man to do it.

A publisher's assistant or business manager—a production engineer also, with a successful record—technically and practically trained—a newspaper builder “inside” and “outside” the front door—wants to listen to the publisher of a live or dead proposition who needs a man of ability, reliability and force.

A production record unexcelled, and a man who will organize, administer and get results in every department.

A specialist in manufacture and service; knows when and where to spend, and when and where not to.

Not a novice and not attracted by a novice's salary, though willing to consider a weekly drawing account and a yearly salary based on increased profits. Employed. Gilt edge references. Address Box 929, care The Fourth Estate.

THE SOUTH'S MOST BRILLIANT CIRCULATION MANAGER

would not consider $50 per week, yet the next best would. Have made wonderful record. No schemes or premium man. Excellent references. Now employed. Address for further information in strictest confidence. Box 919, care of The Fourth Estate.

Real advertising salesman, copy writer, service and promotion organizer, open for position on newspaper wanting a salary with “pep” who makes friends and holds them as such; 30 years' practical newspaper work. Printer, pressman, expert dry mat stero typer; efficient in business office accounting and administration; all my life as owner, business manager and advertising manager. Knows how and will work. All habits; health excellent; 47 years; best of references. Address Box 926, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Foreman

Capable of handling any size plant wishes change from present situation. Over four years have been with the largest plant in South. Above draft. Have family. Will not connect with other than absolutely substantial people. Hard worker and fast make-up. Not a boozier or smoker. Address S. S., care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor

Managing Editor—Varied and intensive experience though making but two changes in fourteen years. Capable executive with unexcelled endorsements. Tireless worker. Have built up three papers. Prefer afternoon paper. Address Box 928, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

with twelve years' experience on leading daily newspapers desires to make a change. Prefer daily paper with circulation of 25,000 to 100,000 circulation. Expert in handling boys. Would consider city circulation on large daily. Gilt edge references furnished as to ability and reliability. Address Box 930, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man of long experience offers his services as editor, editorial writer, telegraph editor, city editor, desk man, political man, special or feature writer, or war correspondent. American by birth, British descent, Republican in politics, married, absolutely temperate, well educated, available at any time. Permanent engagement sought. Address Writer, care Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY
which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.
74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation Manager

wants position on small Eastern daily. Has had many years experience on metropolitan newspapers. Salary not so much an object as position with live outfit. Member of the I.C.M.A. with best of references. Address Box 921, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

Resourceful, successful business getter. Using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical; economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 941, care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor

Backed by experience and record of success. Able to produce results and build up real heart of paper. At present engaged in city 300,000. Prefer South. Worked up in ranks, held and supervised every department on metropolitan dailies. Familiar with publisher's problems in cities 75,000 upward. Strictly sober; married. Seek place where can permanently build for paper and city. Thirty-six years old. Require at least 30 days' notice. Address Box 921, care The Fourth Estate.

Right effort insures good results.

Mapping out an advertising campaign for THE FOURTH ESTATE is the right kind of effort.

Our Service Department will help you secure good results.

Managing Editor

Can answer all reasonable requirements, is open for immediate engagement. Salary $40 to $60, dependent on city. Address Box 933, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

Circulation manager now employed desires to make change for position in city news. Address Box 934, care the Fourth Estate.

A woman of literary experience desires position. Topics of interest to women and children or general matters. Booklets, typing, fashions, society, household. Miss F. Seeger, Box 94, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Circulation Manager

now employed desires to make change for position in city of 50,000 or upwards in the East. Experience has fully covered circulation work. Can furnish very best of references. Address Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Man

Not a world beater, simply a fellow who has made an earnest study of advertising and believes he can give sincere, honest service to advertisers. His copy has brought good results. Is not a star solicitor, but can handle and get accounts that depend on real service. Wants position as service man or agency copy writer. Experience: Advertising, business and general manager of small dailies. Age 29, unmarried, exempt from draft. References gladly given. Address Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager

Experience of 9 years as advertising manager and solicitor; now employed; desires change; A-1 references; married; go anywhere. Address Box 941, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Solicitor

first-class, with years of experience, is open for any good offer December 1; know how to get the business, either transient or contracts, also pages and special stunts. References, any publisher I ever worked for. Address or wire “WAR Exempt,” care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

To Newspaper Owners:

Is your plant earning its maximum? Is your circulation in proportion to your mechanical and editorial capacities? If not, why not?

A Newspaper Expert

versed in every department of a newspaper, counting room, press room, composing room, editorial departments and circulation department, will make a careful examination of every detail of your establishment (or one you think of purchasing) from roof to cellar, and report its condition, furnishing, in addition, working ideas and suggestions, and practical and practicable plans for the improvement and increased efficiency of every department.

Circulation scheme, based upon capacity and efficiency of plants, and possible points of economy will be supplied after examination. Correspondence invited. Address “A to Z,” care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Result Getter!

Thirty-two years old, who has been a successful newspaper executive eight years and worked from the ground up. Will sever present connection January first. Is open to proposition from live daily, afternoon preferred. Expects good salary, but expects to earn it or get fired. Can write editorials with a punch in them. Knows how to handle men well. Record in present position shows strong economies. A heavy reduction in reading matter, yet with news so handled that it has been possible to increase advertising rates, increase circulation and increase net income per subscriber from circulation. Essentially the right man when expenses are growing so rapidly. Married. In good health and teetotaler. A Northerner, but experienced principally in the South. Address Box 932, care The Fourth Estate.

Contest Men

WANTED—Three or four good contest men at once; must be producers; state age, experience and give references in first letter; also state salary wanted. Address P. O. Box 593, Shreveport, La.

Circulation Manager

Wanted—Position as circulation manager on daily paper having between 10,000 and 75,000 circulation. Anywhere in the United States. Ten years' experience in circulation work; 35 years old, married, and at present employed, but desire a change. Have record showing fine gain in circulation in department which I have had charge of for last four years. Address G 500, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Managing Editor

Working Managing Editor—Writer of almost any line—editorials, theaters, books, desk man of wide experience. Prefer afternoon paper with full editorial charge. Capable as well as careful. One liberal suit in fifteen years. Have position but want a change to keep from going “stale.” Address Prep, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man wants desk job; knows the game; university graduate; thoroughly experienced in every news and editorial line; never drinks; married; can take entire editorial and news charge; healthy, active, willing. Address Box 936, care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREET
PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

*We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?*

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

“BURRELLE”

ESTABLISHED A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

DEFINITION OF CIRCULATION.

VALUABLE AMMUNITION FOR THE ADVERTISING SOLICITOR.

The November number of "The Voice of the City," issued by the New York American, has just made its appearance and it is a very fine typographical presentation of clever compilation of excellent material.

An article headed "A Word on Circulation" that looks suspiciously like Kenneth Goode's "stuff" is particularly good and worth studying as ammunition for advertising solicitors with the right quantity of circulation.

It follows:

Back in the days when, despite, or may be even on account of, his mother-in-law's protest against his entering a profession so overcrowded, Benjamin Franklin founded the fourth newspaper in the United States—back in those good old days, there dwelt in a nearby township a certain joiner, Criaah Smallbreeches by name.

Emboldened by his neighbor's success, Urian straightway founded him also a newspaper. Almost every day it appeared, morning and afternoon; and its circulation and advertising departments became quite naturally a perquisite of the official Town Crier.

But that dignitary, by his very profession, being too diffident to succeed as a circulation man, the sheet soon reached the point where it began to quote circulation in "readers" rather than "buyers."

Finally the Town Crier gave up in despair.

"Urian," he said, "I haven't got ye a subscriber in a fortnight."

"Never mind," answered the publisher, cheerfully, as he thumped off the day's edition. "Go get me a lot of thick, glossy print stock; and—say, on your way out—double our advertising rates!"

"But," gasped the Town Crier, "that young Quaker in Philadelphia hath ten times our circulation!"

"Yes, and by that same token, our circulation has ten times his quality!" answered the imperturbable Smallbreeches.

Right then and there was born the immortal "Quality-instead-of-size" circulation argument!

"Them that has 'em, mostly wears 'em," is reported as 'Fingy' Connors' answer to some captious comment on the vulgarity of too many diamonds in one's personal adornment. So with circulation!

We once knew a publisher who did spend his days trying to keep down his circulation—but he spent his night trying to beg, borrow or steal another ton of paper. The vast majority of publishers are frankly, openly—and quite properly—after all the circulation they can get; the others remind one of President Hadley's definition of a small college as an institution eagerly advertising its advantages as a small college in order to attract enough students to turn it into a big one.

A publication is known by the circulation it keeps. But even more accurately may it be judged by the new circulation it attracts. If 5,000—or 500,000 readers—are keenly enough interested in a magazine or a newspaper, they not only keep on reading it themselves, but praise it to their friends—and that publication must grow proportionately.

To go forward is, as a matter of fact, the only natural course for any live publication. To fall off in circulation, or even to stand still, is a symptom of incipient dry rot as the very heart-reader interest.

Mightn't a buyer of advertising, then, make a good deal worse rue than to take space only in publications showing continually a certain percentage of circulation gain?

His gain percentage is, as a matter of fact, the only fair criterion—for little basis for comparison is to be found elsewhere. As well compare a steam shovel and a Swiss watch as judge between two entirely different sorts of periodicals merely by looking at their comparative circulation figures.

FOR—

A publication can be edited to interest everybody—if this work is well done, that publication gets a great circulation.

OR—on the other hand—

A publication may be edited to interest only a certain group of known and similar interests; if this work is well done, that publication keeps a small circulation.

But what, you ask, becomes of the publication edited to interest the public generally, which attains, nevertheless, only a small or medium-size circulation. Shall it be allowed to play both ends against the middle; to argue quantity against its smaller competitor and quality against its larger?

The answer is fairly simple:

If the publication in question has a big enough circulation, use it regardless of its claim as to quality; if it hasn't, don't.

Now, quite aside from the real "class" or trade publications, edited for well defined interests and professions, there are a few superlatively good small-scale publications that neither desire nor need a large circulation. Also, there are certain miniature businesses that do not want and could not handle any really considerable volume of trade.

And nothing, certainly, could be more appropriate than these little businesses working together in an atmosphere of exquisite exclusiveness.

BUT—

To expect an advertiser to build up any really great business through media that offer "quality" instead of size, is like asking a swimmer to give an exhibition of fancy diving in an ordinary bath-tub.

If there isn't enough water, it matters little how good it is!

[Nowhere has there been more discussion and less careful thinking than in the matter of circulation values. This is the first of several little analyses by Mr. Goode attempting to define the real issues involved.—EDITORIAL NOTE.]

NON-DISTRIBUTION PLAN IN LOUISVILLE.

The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal and Times plant soon will operate on a "throw-away" basis, as arrangements now are being made to use all lead in the make-up of each form. Casters will turn out lead column rule, slugs, etc.

NOTES OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

To discourage the tendency to make high school courses in newspaper writing professional and to aid in the standardization of such courses is the purpose of the bulletin issued by L. N. Flint, chairman of the department of journalism in the University of Kansas.

Professor Flint has devoted the first half of the bulletin to discussions on such questions as "The Value of a Course in Newspaper Writing for High School Students," "A List of Books on the Newspaper," "Preparation of the Teacher," "Equipment Necessary," "Representative Papers for Class Study," "What a Good Paper Can Do for the School," "How to Organize the Staff," etc.

The last half of the bulletin is devoted to an outline of a model course, giving the subjects for discussion and the assignments, week by week, for two terms of eighteen weeks each.

W. C. D'Arcy, president of the A.A. C.W., opened the winter's advertising course at the St. Louis Y.M.C.A. on October 5. The course is conducted by the local club under the direction of Roy B. Simpson.

The students of journalism at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., have organized the University Press Club. The Scoops and Cuba Clubs have been merged into the new organization.

Lincoln A. Quarberg was elected president of the club.

Much research into American newspaper history is represented in the theses chosen by senior and graduate students in the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin this year. The study is aided by newspaper files of the historical library which are among the most extensive in the country.

Among the thesis subjects decided on so far are "Relation of Newspaper Advertising to Its News and Editorial Policy," "Philadelphia Newspapers as Administration and Opposition Organs from 1790 to 1810," "Washington Newspapers as Administration and Opposition Organs from 1802 to 1860," "Material of Interest to Women in the 18th Century English Essay Papers," "American Women Newspaper Writers Before 1900," "The Beginning of Penny Newspapers in New York City," "The Appeal of Present-Day Newspapers to Women."

The Triad League, whose members are students of advertising at New York University, opened its doors to women members on November 17.

Mrs. George Burton Hotchkiss, acting as toastmistress, first introduced Bruce Barton, editor of Every Week, who gave a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on "Growth."

Jane J. Martin, advertising manager of the Sperry & Hutchinson Company and president of the League of Advertising Women, spoke from the woman viewpoint in advertising. She told the men very simply that the advent of women in the field did not mean that women were planning to "hog" the game. "Give the women a chance," Miss Martin urged. "You will find them square, good fellows, and willing to work shoulder to shoulder with you on the same basis."

Bruce Bliven of Printers' Ink prophesied interestingly about the advertising era of the future.

Lewellyn E. Pratt said that the qualities he would want to find in a man applying to him for a job were ambition, backbone and courage.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Harry E. Hawkins; vice-president, A. Kimball; secretary, Jerome Weinstein; treasurer, E. A. Klepner.

SOME NEW BOOKS.

"THE TRUST PROBLEM," by Jeremiah W. Jenks and Walter E. Clark; Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers.

This edition, the fourth of this almost standardized text book on industrial combinations, is much more than a reprint of the earlier editions. The commercial and economic history of the last few years has made necessary the revision of many entire chapters and the addition of quite new chapters. Chapter X on the "Working Man and the Trusts" is new and will provoke much discussion.

"THE STORY OF PRINCETON," by Edwin M. Norris; Little, Brown & Co., publishers.

Mr. Norris, the editor of the Princeton Alumni Weekly, is thoroughly qualified to present a historical sketch of Princeton University. This book will be of interest to every Princeton man, graduate or student. The present day student life is accurately and sympathetically depicted. Mr. Hornby's excellent drawings of the famous college buildings are a distinctive feature.

The Coshocton (Ohio) Tribune has taken over the Times-Age and has now no opposition in Coshocton

INTERTYPE

The BETTER Machine

—the standardized machine which grows with your business

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

Executive Offices

50 Court Street BROOKLYN, N.Y.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINO TYPE
MONO TYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSON TYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
600 West 39th Street NEW YORK

PUTTING OVER

THE BIG CAMPAIGNS

ARTICLE IX.

HOW AMERICAN RADIATOR COMPANY EMPLOYS CARTOONS FOR ARGUMENTS IN NEWSPAPER SPACE.

By W. LIVINGSTON LARNED.

Perhaps you might surmise that war-time isn't radiator-time, and that the public would scarcely stop, in its tense handling of the greatest problem of all history, to install new heating devices.

Perhaps you are of the opinion that propaganda and patriotism have managed to consume every working minute of every loyal citizen, and that the ordinary, common-place affairs of every-day life have been temporarily placed on the shelf.

Perhaps, in short, you have been led to suppose that business has had a bit of quietus.

The rock-bottom truth is not within gunshot of your supposition.

England's experience is our own. We are busier, thriftier than ever—and in our conventional markets. Ammunition, boats, and the manufacture of fine soldiers are merely side lines. We are, in fact, busier than ever before, because the United States has learned how to create new industries.

Governor Edge of New Jersey talked to New York advertising men at their club not long since. They asked him what they were expected to accomplish—their share in the hour of urgent need.

Governor Edge made this significant statement:

"You will be valuable in your inspired encouragement of American business. I do not refer to military matters—I refer to the average commodities of average commerce—soap, furniture, canned goods, cameras—the big and the little manufactured articles. More and more we are beginning to realize that war must be run along business lines—it must be financed—the people at home must continue, as before, to manufacture and buy and sell."

WAR HASN'T MADE AS MUCH DIFFERENCE AS THE PUBLIC MIGHT THINK.

Casual investigation invites optimism. The manufacturer is going ahead. His advertising plans, save in some peculiar lines, are greater than ever before.

Curtilment has not been decided upon. It hasn't been made necessary. In one Florida town—and it is a town that has given of its sons to no inconsiderable extent—sixty new homes were under construction when the writer looked over the field a little while ago. Those homes were of the most modern type and their equipment characteristic of the spirit of 1917.

American Radiator systems were being installed in about eighty per cent.

We were curious to learn why these things should be—why, for example, American Radiators were so well represented.

The investigation led to the national advertising of the concern—the aggressive magazine and trade paper work, and the remarkably fine newspaper publicity.

The American Radiator Company has its own staff of alert investigators. When members of this staff learn that there is to be building activity in a certain town, they communicate with the home office and local newspapers begin a localized drive.

The owners must be influenced—and rapidly. They must be induced to demand American Radiator installation over all other heating devices. Architects and investors must be made to see the wisdom of the system.

For fifteen years American Radiator copy has not materially changed.

Cartoons play a significant part. And, when you stop to look the field over, you will further discover that there's not much competition in this particular branch of advertising. Cartoons have not been done to death. They are easily assimilated. They convey an idea with remarkable celerity and clarity. They "tell the story" at a glance.

Heating device arguments have their limitations, as far as actual visualization is concerned. It has been found that the average newspaper reader does not care to dissect diagrams and go very deeply into exhaustive mechanical descriptions. Six or a dozen pictures of people sitting in snug rooms might be O.K., but what about a year of them? Monotony is one of the seven deadly sins of advertising. It is taboo.

The American Radiator takes the stand that the installation of an efficient heating system is really an investment. A man is making his home more valuable. A real estate expert is willing to concede that there are cases where houses will not rent—and stay rented—at any price, simply because they can't be "kept warm in winter."

All of which can be put in cartoon form most interestingly.

These cartoons are highly diversified and this is perhaps their most important function. They interest—they are ever-changing and they attract attention. They could not very well be used for any other heating system. They often take the form of "news pictures."

KING WINTER, THE ESKIMO, AND BARON COAL ALL EMPLOYED BY THE ARTIST.

At a time when the coal barons were having things their own way, the American Radiator put out a number of good-natured cartoons, built around the waste of coal by the wrong heating system. The old baron himself sat astride an immense pile of coal, with his black diamond crown afloat on his impertinent head. And below, at the base of the coal pile, Little Mr. Average Home-Owner was shown shoveling away for dear life.

It is contended that the American Radiator system cuts down on the cost of your coal bill. Here is a fruitful field for the cartoonist. Father is visualized, staggering along, with a coal bill of heroic proportions fastened upon his back. It is his own fault if he insists upon installing a wasteful heating system.

These cartoons, while driving a message home, never hurt, never arouse antagonism—are without malice. The old-time furnace is made a fat-bellied and very hungry personality, squatting in the cellar and forever and ever asking for "more," while Mr. Bill-Payer does his best to satisfy the appetite for coal. This same out-of-date furnace is pictured as an undesirable around the house—a maker of dust and dirt and smoke.

The artist animates the furnace—introduces eyes and nose and mouth and the inconvenience he causes is amusingly exaggerated.

Then there is the most vigorous type of cartoon—the one which shows your wife carrying coal, tending furnace, and coping with the innumerable disadvantages of yesterday's ways and means.

The Eskimo is shown in his frozen hut of the Polar region, with an inadequate fire of blubber oil. The natives huddle about it, trying to get warm. And the parallel drawn pictures a family huddled about a stove, with roasting faces and frozen backs. For stoves are still in use, although you may not credit it, and many, many families tolerate their unprogressive features. This is especially true of farm sections where the fat-pouched old wood and coal burner is considered "good enough."

We very much doubt whether these same arguments could be "put over" as well, in any other mode of advertising. Old truths are impressed upon communities in a bantering, good-natured style, and in new guise.

The immortal Thomas Nast, dean of all cartoonists, once said that "Cartoons are worth tons of text."

Ask any politician and he will concede it to this day.

In its newspaper advertising, the American Radiator Company employs very generous space—rarely less than three columns.

Aside from the cartoon feature, which occupies approximately one-fourth of the total space, there is text of a purely educational character, small cuts of installations, etc.

In communities where there is apt to be interchange of real estate and the constant movement of properties, the publicity is shrewdly devised and has an individualistic argument.

Builders of homes are shown that houses equipped with the American system of heating, are more readily sold or rented. There is a constant demand for these houses. Their value is greatly increased.

A full measure of more conventional copy is run in newspapers, aside from the cartoon scheme. But there is careful avoidance of hack-nied compositions.

One of the cleverest of the newspaper illustrations was of two youngsters in a sunny sitting room. Outside, a winter's storm rages. Inside it was so snug that the "kiddies" could almost imagine they were at the seashore. They had secured a box of sand and a basin of water, and, with their toes rolled up, and stockings and shoes off, they were "making believe" playing summer games. The radiator was inconspicuously shown.

The season campaign is "on," and the American Radiator copy is more convincing, more interesting and more attractive than in years back.

War is not stopping people from building homes, and every home-builder, sooner or later, picks up a newspaper in which American Radiator publicity is shown.

The Brook Park (Minn.) Banner has been sold to Mr. Johnson.

INFORMATION ABOUT NEW YORK FOR UNIFORMED.

The National Service Commission of New York has just issued its second bulletin for the information of enlisted men in all branches of the service of the United States, and of its allies, spending off-duty time in this city.

The bulletin is of pocket size, containing thirty-two pages of information useful or interesting to soldiers, sailors and marines visiting New York. It has a map of Manhattan and is illustrated by whimsical thumb-nail sketches by Charles E. Howell, a well-known member of the committee of public information of the Society of Illustrators of New York. The cover of the bulletin tells the enlisted man "Your uniform is your pass."

NEWSPAPERS COMMENDED.

The Southern Medical Association has passed a resolution commending "the action of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, one of the leading dailies of the South, and all other papers which have taken from their columns medical advertisements that mislead and deceive as to cure and remedy of disease and an appeal is made to every reputable newspaper and religious periodical to have such advertisements intelligently censored and to every reputable drug store to refuse to buy or sell such so-called remedies."

TAKE IT TO POWERS!

"Fastest ENGRAVERS on Earth"

Open 24 hours out of 24

On Time All the Time

POWERS PHOTO ENGRAVING COMPANY
154 Nassau Street, NEW YORK
Telephone 4200 Beekman

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service. And we want you to get into the habit of "Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving."

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.
251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-8

At Tempting Prices!
Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving
in all its branches

DEFENDAM ENGRAVING CO.
Inc.
1931 Broadway, NEW YORK.

STANLEY PROCESS
a not TYPE up down to a made price METAL.

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y., and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 234 Street, NEW YORK

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
J. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

VANDERHOOF & CO., 140 S. Dearborn st., Chicago—Placing account of Minerva Laboratories, "Quicks" shaving cream, Chicago. Secured account of Kerosene Burning Carburetor Co., Chicago, and are making up list of publications. Placing copy in Chicago papers for Chicago Arena Co.

HOYT, Leader Bldg., Cleveland—Handling advertising for Printz-Biederman Co., Cleveland, manufacturer of women's garments.

ARMSTRONG, 1463 B'way, N. Y.—Placing 1918 campaign of Blackstone Institute, New York.

Secured account of Alexander Hamilton Institute, N. Y.

ROWLATT, 26 Adelaide st., W. Toronto, Ont.—Reported placing orders in selected list of Canadian newspapers and periodicals for William Cane & Sons, Ltd., manufacturers of lead pencils, Newmarket, Ont.

LORD & THOMAS, Citizens' National Bk. Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.—Handling advertising for "Bean Trackpull" tractor, Bean Spray Pump Co., San Jose, Cal., and Lansing, Mich.

The New York office of this agency, 220 W. 42d st., is:

Reported placing advertising for Daniels Motor Car Co., Reiding, Pa., manufacturer of "Daniels Eight" motor cars.

The Chicago office of this agency, Mellers Bldg., is:

Sending yearly contracts to daily papers in Southwest for Hamlin's Wizard Oil.

Placing orders with Western newspapers for Stone Thompson Mfg. Co.

SEAMAN, 461 8th av., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for Franklin Baker & Co. ("Baker's Coconut"), Philadelphia.

United States Brewers Association is sending out orders to a list of papers.

VAN PATTEN, 50 E. 42d st., N. Y.—Reported again placing orders with newspapers for American Chicle Co., "Black Jack" chewing gum, 1 Madison av., N. Y. City.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing advertising account for Jordan Motor Car Co., Cleveland.

McFARLANE, Chicago—Placing advertising account of McKelvin Pneumatic Tool Co., Grand Haven, Mich.

STREET & FINNEY, 171 Madison av., N. Y.—Reported will later use newspapers to advertise Beech Nut "Jaffee" Beach-Nut Packing Co., Canajoharie, N. Y.

Reported will place advertising for United Drug Co., Boston, manufacturer of "Rexall" products and owner of Liggitt Riker Hageman Drug Stores. Also advertising "Jontelle"

The Open Door to the workshop of the world The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., N.W. YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C.

Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN. Publisher

toilet preparations, and in spring an extensive campaign will be launched to advertise "Klenzo Dental Creme."

BUSH, 100 Broad st., N. Y.—Placing advertising for Locomobile Company of America, Bridgeport, Ct.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with some Southern newspapers for Ferroline Chemical Co., Norfolk, Va.

Placing newspaper campaign in Grand Rapids, Peoria and Cincinnati for Schulze Baking Co.

CAMPBELL-EWALD, 347 Fifth av., N. Y.—Reported making up list for a campaign in newspapers, magazines and women's magazines to advertise "Seedtape" for gardening, for American Seedtape Co., 365 Ogden av., Newark, N. J.

MERTS, Ontario, Cal.—Reported placing advertising in newspapers and magazines for Hotpoint Electric Heating Co., Ontario, Ont., manufacturer of electrical household appliances.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—Reported placing account of Stern & Saalberg Co., 416 West 45th st., N. Y., manufacturer of "Lance's" cough drops, in magazines and newspapers.

ARMSTRONG, N. American Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing advertising in newspapers for Popular Science Monthly, N. Y.

CLOUGH, Merchants Bk. Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.—Placing advertising for Kibler Oil Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

IZZARD, Times Bldg., Seattle, Wash.—Sending out orders to daily papers for Pacific Northwest Tourist Assn., Seattle, Wash.

ROGERS & SMITH, 64 E. Van Buren st., Chicago—Placing orders with Western newspapers for G. E. Conkey Co. ("Conkey Poultry Remedy"), 3039 Woodland av., Cleveland, Ohio.

Placing orders in Central West farm publication for the Cushman Motor Works, Lincoln, Neb.

POWERS, 11 W. 25th st., N. Y.—Placing account of Tate Electro Waterproofing Corp., N. Y.

POTTS-TURNBULL, Graphic Arts Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Secured account of Milkoline Mfg. Co., Kansas City, Mo.

SLOMAN, Schwind Bldg., Dayton, Ohio—Secured account of Elgin Tractor Corp., Piqua, Ohio, and is contemplating campaign in trade and farm publications.

FULLER, Studebaker Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with daily papers and mail order publications for

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION OCTOBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 501,861

The Sunday Post 345,302

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid Guaranteed For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

Consumers Wholesale Grocery Co., Chicago.

MESSENGALE, Candler Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.—Placing orders with Pennsylvania newspapers for Excellent Medicine Co.

MORGAN, 44 E. 23d st., N. Y.—Again making contracts with newspapers for Chas. Cluthe & Sons, 125 E. 23d st., N. Y.

MORSE INTERNATIONAL, 4th av. and 30th st., N. Y.—Renewing contracts where they have expired for the J. C. Enos ("Enos Fruit Sales"), London, England, and E. Forgera, N. Y., selling agents.

PIERRE, Dupont Bldg., Wilmington, Del.—Reported will shortly place orders with selected list of newspapers for Harris paints.

POWER, ALEXANDER & JENKINS, Journal Bldg., Detroit, Mich.—Placing orders with newspapers for Critical Casement Co. ("Critical Steel Casements & Windows"), Detroit, Mich.

PRESBRY, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Again placing orders with newspapers for American Tobacco Co. ("Bull Durham"), 111 5th av., N. Y. Also placing one-time orders with newspapers in large cities for Pinehurst, N. C.

REISMAN, People's Gas Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with newspapers for Illinois Pure Aluminum Co., Lemont, Ill.

Also placing copy in small list of farm papers for Edward Hines Lumber Land Co., Chicago, advertising Wisconsin farm lands.

Sending out orders to newspapers in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota in behalf of Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway Co., advertising "Dixie Flyer" route.

Placing newspaper copy in Illinois and adjoining states for Chicago & Alton Railway Co., advertising that route as quickest to Southern Army camps.

Placing magazine campaign for National Plant Food Co., Eau Claire, Wis., advertising "Red Snapper" plant food.

CHARLES, 23 E. 26th st., N. Y.—Placing orders with farm papers for Soil Improvement Committee, Baltimore.

ATLAS, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in selected sections for Pacific Coast Borax Co. ("Twenty Mule Team Borax"), N. Y., Chicago and Oakland, Cal.

CRITCHFIELD, Brooks Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with Western Covering Saint Paul and the Northwest at a minimum cost can be accomplished by concentrating your advertising in the

ST. PAUL DISPATCH
ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
ST. PAUL SUNDAY PIONEER PRESS

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures. A carrier delivered circulation in over 90% of English reading St. Paul homes, and a broad country circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation Averages for October, 1917:

Dispatch 80,534
Pioneer Press 63,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,751
"In St. Paul it's the Dispatch and Pioneer Press."

YOU MUST USE THE LOS ANGELES

EXAMINER

TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

newspapers for Chandlee & Chandlee, patent attorneys, Washington, D. C.

CROSS, 214 S. 12th st., Philadelphia—Again placing orders with newspapers for S. B. Goff & Sons Co. ("Goff Cough Drops"), Camden, N. J.

GUENTHER-BRADFORD, 64 W. Randolph st., Chicago—Placing orders with Western newspapers for Mills Chemical Co.

BATTEN, 4th Av. Bldg., N. Y.—Reported will shortly place orders with newspapers generally for Lehn & Fink ("Lysol" disinfectant and "Pebecco" tooth paste), 120 William st., N. Y.

DILG, 326 W. Madison st., Chicago—Again placing orders with newspapers in wet states for Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. ("Budweiser" beer), St. Louis, Mo.

KAHN, Marbridge Bldg., N. Y.—Making 5,000-line contracts with newspapers for New York Waist House, 122 W. 125th st., N. Y., in cities where it has stores.

KIERNAN, 135 B'way, N. Y.—Will shortly place orders with newspapers for Adipo Co., fat reducer, Beard Bldg., N. Y.

KIRTLAND-ENGEL, 14 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago—Placing orders with Western weeklies for Gates Mfg. Co.

CHAMBERS, Maison Blanche Bldg., New Orleans—Sending out orders to northern papers for advertising of the Hotel Riviera, Biloxi, Miss., and the White House, Biloxi, Miss.

REMINGTON, 1280 Main st., Buffalo, N. Y.—Placing orders in selected farm papers for Southern Florida Farms Co., Moore Haven, Fla.

DIRECT—Jevne Coffee Company, 2855 W. Madison st., Chicago, is sending out orders direct to farm papers.

Sketch Company, washing powder, 2307 Archer av., Chicago, is placing orders direct with newspapers. The company has moved to the above address from Milwaukee, where it still maintains a branch office.

ASKING RATES—Fenton Kelsey, 666 People's Gas Bldg., Chicago, is asking for rates and other data from daily and mail order papers for Rosenback & Co., shoes, Chicago.

ALL FOR ONE FIRM.

A twenty-page automobile section, devoted exclusively to the Babbitt-Polson Company, distributors, appeared in the Phoenix (Ariz.) Republican of November 24.

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives

John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

NOTES FROM THE FAR EAST.

B. W. Fleisher, proprietor and editor of the Japan Advertiser, Tokio, and his son, B. W. Fleisher, Jr., who recently joined the Advertiser staff, returned to Tokio on November 9 after spending six weeks in Pekin on business.

E. J. Harrison is assisting the Japan Chronicle, Kobe, to get out a jubilee edition.

J. B. Powell, financial editor of Millard's Review, Shanghai, since its initial number last spring, has been rejoined by Mrs. Powell, their two-year-old daughter and his sister, Miss Margaret Powell of Hannibal, Mo.

Japan, the new monthly issued by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, a leading trans-Pacific steamship line, contains an article in its November issue on Kyoto by Carl Crow of San Francisco, former newspaper man of Tokio and Shanghai.

Dr. G. E. Morrison, former Pekin correspondent for the London Times and now an adviser to the Chinese Government, has been given a six months' leave of absence to return home to Australia on a visit. Dr. Morrison's library on China, consisting of books written in all European languages, has recently reached Tokio from Pekin and a special building to house it is to be erected on the campus of the Tokio Imperial University. Baron Iwasaki, the Japanese multimillionaire who recently bought the library for $175,000, will throw it open to all persons "earnestly interested in the study of China and the Chinese."

Ralph H. Turner, United Press correspondent at Tokio, has returned to his desk after spending a ten-day vacation in the Kyoto district.

Miss Madeleine Z. Doty, sister of the editor of the Century, addressed the Tokio Women's Club on "The imminent downfall of the kaiser," during her recent stay in Japan, en route to Russia, where she is now

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpasses the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

820 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 92,088
October, 1917,
Gain over 5,696
October, 1916,

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

preparing a series of articles for Century and Good Housekeeping.

Harrison Smith of the Century staff left Tokio early in November for Russia, to write of the late turns in the Russian war situation for the Century and the New York Tribune.

Oliver M. Saylor, dramatic editor of the Indianapolis News, has reached Vladivostok, on his way to Petrograd to write on the Russian theater.

Rodney Gilbert of Pekin has completed a trip over the flood regions of China, during which he sent telegraphic reports from submerged towns to the North China Daily News of Shanghai. Gilbert first visited the Tientsin flood, and then made the trip from Peking to Hankow, across the erratic Yellow River, and had to walk to the train ahead at several places where breaches had been made in the railway tracks and bridges.

Isah Yamagata, proprietor and editor of the Seoul (Korea) Press, was host at a dinner tendered to the newspaper men of Korea during a recent convention in their capital. The Seoul Press is the only daily published in English in Korea.

On the morning after the recent typhoon in Tokio, Harry E. Ridings, business manager of the Japan Advertiser, called on the chief engineer of the municipal lighting bureau to say that the Advertiser's Linotypes were not being fed their usual alternating currents. "Yes, yes," the engineer said, leaning forward in his swivel chair and seeming to hang on every word. Ridings, inspired, expanded his talk into a twenty-minute exposition of the semi-public service of a newspaper. His peroration finished, and hopeful of an immediate restoration of the electric service, Ridings leaned back in his chair, and the other followed suit. Then, "I am very sorry for you," said the engineer, "but the policy of this bureau is not to advertise."

HITS FREE ADVERTISING.

The state highway department of Missouri has dealt a blow to those seeking free outdoor advertising in that state by a ruling which prohibits the tacking of advertising signs to fruit, shade, or ornamental trees along the public highways.

CAPITAL INCREASE.

The Arts and Crafts Engraving Company of St. Joseph, Mo., has increased its capital stock from $8,000 to $20,000.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.

National Representatives
F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Scolaro, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 742 Market St., San Francisco.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

MUSTACHES ARE BECOMING POPULAR IN JAPAN.

When Gregory Mason went from the Outlook office, in New York, to become managing editor of the Japan Advertiser, in Tokio, the foreign newspaper men of Tokio admired his mustache and many decided to emulate him.

Wishing to "fall in line," Oscar E. Riley, also of the Advertiser, decided first to devote his vacation in late October to that purpose, and, second, to hie away to the wilds of Korea, 1300 miles from the civilization of Tokio.

OSCAR E. RILEY.

After a week in the Diamond Mountain district of east-central Korea, rarely visited by foreigners, Mr. Riley returned to the capital, Seoul, and in the every-day costume of all Korean married men, had his photograph taken to show that after all, perforce, he could raise a mustache. "The Masonic influence in Japan is a compelling one, even if Japan does forbid the existence of secret societies," says Mr. Riley.

GEN. GLENN AS GUEST.

The Cleveland Advertising Club today will tender a reception to General Glenn, commander at the Chillocothe army camp.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREB & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest. The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

WM. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

SPEAKERS FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISERS' BANQUET.

A splendid group of speakers have been obtained by the Association of National Advertisers for its banquet to be held on December 5, at Hotel Biltmore, New York, in conjunction with the annual meeting on December 5 and 6.

The speakers will be Theodore E. Burton, former United States Senator from Ohio, on "The Present Crisis," Stephane Lauzanne, editor of Le Matin, Paris, on "France," and George Haven Putnam on "The Call of the Republic."

Alan C. Reilly, president of the A. N. A., who is the advertising manager of the Remington Typewriter Company, will be the toastmaster.

Banquet subscriptions will be $5 each, and the dinner committee urges that all reservations be made before December 1. Reservations cannot be guaranteed after December 3.

Checks should be sent to the Association of National Advertisers, 15 East 26th street, New York.

The banquet will open at 7 o'clock, and the announcements call for evening dress.

TO HAVE SUMMER CAMP.

Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Post, has tendered the employees of that paper a tract of land in the highlands on the Hudson River, in the Empire State, for a summer camp.

BIG BOOK REVIEW COMING.

The New York Tribune's Holiday Book Review, edited by Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, will be issued on December 1.

Arthur W. Libbey has taken over the Morris (Minn.) Sun.

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburgh

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

PRINTING IN CHINESE.

The compositor of a Chinese newspaper is almost as important a person as the editor. His acquaintance with the language is just as great.

The American typesetter is obliged to be familiar with twenty-six letters, ten figures and a few signs or symbols, as periods, dollar marks, etc., but the Chinese compositor must be familiar with 11,000 characters of this archaic language.

Certain sounds often stand for several words, the difference often vital to the intelligent presentation of an idea depending on certain diacritical marks accompanying each word. There are thousands of these symbols which are engraved, each one representing a type, but a well regulated newspaper will require but 11,000 characters; if others are needed they are made in the office.

A font of type in the Chinese language requires 11,000 spaces and in large and spacious racks each word, instead of each letter, as in the English, has a place for itself.

There is also a peculiar grouping or classification of symbols into groups further to facilitate the mental labors of the typesetters.

Thus in the immediate vicinity of the symbols for fish, would be found the symbols for scales, nets, fins, gills, etc.

This simplifies the labor, which in any event must be so strenuous that it is evident that the compositor's end of the Chinese newspaper should, if perfect justice ruled, be the highest paid.

The compositor is a staid and dignified individual, and as he slowly walks from symbol to symbol, picking those which he requires with provoking calmness, the American compositor might well wonder when the work would be complete.

To set up the limited type required for a four-page daily paper the constant labors of eight or nine skilled Chinese are required for twelve or thirteen hours.—Salt Lake City Deseret Evening News.

John Burt has sold his interests in the South Shore (N. D.) Republican to his partner, Mr. Jacobs.

TIMES PLAZA THE CENTER OF BROOKLYN

The Federal Authorities have recognized Times Plaza as the business center of Brooklyn by renaming Post Office Station L "TIMES PLAZA STATION."

FROM THIS CENTER
THE BROOKLYN
DAILY TIMES
REACHES ALL OF BROOKLYN AND LONG ISLAND.

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON
SUNDAY NEWS
and SPRINGFIELD
SUNDAY NEWS
NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

NEW PLAY BY VROOM.

Lodewick Vroom, a former newspaper man, has just produced a successful play at the Fulton Theater in New York, called "Broken Threads." Mr. Vroom was born in St. John, N. B., in 1881, and after a seven years' course at Rothesay College, went to British Columbia, at the age of eighteen years, to make his fortune.

During the first two or three years he spent in British Columbia and the West Coast he was engaged in various pursuits, from a cattle ranch to reporting for one or two of the mining camp newspapers. He left there with a traveling theatrical company which brought him East.

LODEWICK VROOM.

Sixteen years ago Mr. Vroom came to New York and for several years was in the employ of the Anson Phelps Stokes estate. During this time he established theatrical connections and wrote one or two plays and some sketches. In this way Mr. Vroom came into the theatrical business as a publicity agent and manager and during his theatrical career was for several years acting in this capacity, among others, for Margaret Anglin and later Henry Miller.

J. P. Gruwell has joined the editorial staff of a Grand Rapids (Mich.) daily.

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net AVERAGE 364,637 COPIES
OCTOBER A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

MONTGOMERY F. ESSIG OF WILMINGTON NOT DEAD.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: My friends tell me THE FOURTH ESTATE has printed a paragraph to the effect that my "lifeless corpse" has been found in the North River. Somebody made off with our office copy of the publication (somebody always does), and therefore I can't verify the report they hand me.

But this is to make clear that I'm not dead yet, thank the Lord, and certainly never will voluntarily go by the North River route, being content with what water I get from the good old wagon. I've a lot of friends here, there and everywhere and I'd like 'em to know that it continues to be "business as usual" with me and that I have not yet set out to interview Saint Peter—the newspaper man's last assignment.

Can't you tell me how the yarn originated?

Naturally, I'm interested. I suppose some one has been gallivanting around under my name, found it burdensome and tried to chuck it overboard, and let it pull him in after it. At any rate, I'd like to know what are the outward and visible signs of this inward and spiritual disaster.

With thanks for such information as you can give me.

MONTGOMERY F. ESSIG,
Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening.

[There was found in the East River, New York, on November 4, the body of a man, whose identification was given out by the police as Montgomery F. Essig, a retired newspaper man, forty-two years old. THE FOURTH ESTATE has called the attention of the police department to Mr. Essig's letter, but so far no explanation has been given.]

INDICTED MEN PROTEST.

A demurrer was filed in the United States District Court in Newark, N. J., on November 20, by counsel for members of the Newark (N. J.) Freie Zeitung staff, who are under indictment for treason. They are Benedict and Edwin S. Prieth, publishers; Hans von Hundelshausen, William von Katzeler and Henry J. Waechter. Mr. Steifel said that not even in the Civil War days was an indictment for treason found against a defendant merely for utterances, aside from treasonable acts.

E. E. Retig is now managing the Kingston (Mo.) Mercury.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917
Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid)
CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.
—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening
Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.

C. GEORGE KROGNESS, Chicago
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

ROSE PUBLIC WORKS HEAD IN LOUISVILLE.

David G. B. Rose, for over twenty years circulation manager of the Louisville (Ky.) Post, has been appointed chairman of the new board of public works of Louisville. Mr. Rose has been active in Louisville Republican politics for many years.

Entering the service of the paper in a clerical position, he was made circulation manager four years afterwards. Many of his ideas have been adopted by the International Circulation Managers Association and he has served that organization as president (for two terms) and in various other capacities.

Mr. Rose is president of the Standard Printing Company, one of the largest job offices in Louisville; president of the Louisville Linotyping Company and president of the Standard Flag Company, which he organized this fall.

He succeeded as circulation manager of the Post by P. F. Marshall, long employed in the circulation department of that paper.

TO REPRESENT THE FRENCH PUBLISHERS IN AMERICA.

Mlle. Marguerite Clement has been selected as the representative of the French Publishers Association to bring about closer relations between American and French writers and publishers.

She is a professor in the Lycee of Versailles and also a talented contributor to l'Euvre. She will visit the various American cities which have universities and large libraries and will lecture on the best methods of achieving results.

A Short Story: DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in Advertising and Circulation in 1916

[NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR]

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co.
New York. Chicago. Boston. Detroit.

THE Boston Herald (Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler (Evening)

Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Joliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH) of the West

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.

The Herald-News
ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS.

NONE MORE PATRIOTIC THAN THE NEWSPAPER MEN OF THIS NATION.

The Official Bulletin of the Government Bureau of Public Information singles out the newspapers and their makers for a unique, but well deserved, editorial tribute, when it says:

If ever a list is made of the American citizens who have volunteered their services to their country at war, it will be found that no calling, profession, or business can show a higher percentage (if any can be shown so high) as that of the press of the nation.

The large city dailies, with their tremendous circulations, and the small local weeklies, that penetrate into the humblest homes of the dwellers in villages and on farms, alike have devoted their talents, energies and space to their Government.

The loyal foreign-language papers have been as generously patriotic as the others and have preached Americanism and duty in thirty-six different languages.

In the second Liberty Loan campaign, as in the first, the newspapers of the country have shown their unselfish patriotism, and the splendid results in each campaign are in a great measure evidence of their power and influence.

The following members of the Pilgrim Publicity Association of Boston have enrolled for military service:

Russell Bacon, John Alexander Barron, G. Edward Buxton, Jr., Charles T. Cahill, H. Dwight Cushing, Harold D. Kennedy, J. Ernest

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star	88,752
Evening Times	42,375
Washington Post	47,032
Herald (over)	25,000

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eastern of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A.B.C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

Kerr, R. P. Matthews, Harold A. McKenna, Carl E. Shumway, Carroll J. Swan, Wayland D. Towner and Charles D. Wardner.

Lloyd Learbas, a reporter on the Chicago Tribune, has resigned to enter the aviation corps. His father was born in Berlin and Learbas hopes to visit the parental city before returning to his newspaper duties.

Maurice Shevlin, a twenty-two-year-old South Dakota newspaper man who has worked as pressman, Linotype operator, makeup man, reporter and editor, has been appointed to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Army service has claimed nine men who were students of journalism at the University of Wisconsin, last year.

George B. Rogers, Cleveland (Ohio) publisher, who retired a year ago, has gone to Camp Zachary Taylor at Louisville to do his bit in connection with the Y.M.C.A. work of the camp.

Walter Wood, formerly of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, has been promoted to first lieutenant at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

S. S. Newell, assistant Western manager of the Boot and Shoe Recorder, has resigned to become associated with the quartermaster's department of the camp at Rockford, Ill.

Frank Smith, telegraph editor of the Chicago Tribune, is one of the many newspaper men in training for a commission at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Kendall Banning, formerly art editor of the System Magazine, Chicago, and later connected with the New York office of System, is now serving under George Creel in Government service.

A Breath o' the Heather is the publication recently issued by the Maclean kilties of America from the Montreal branch, and edited by Captain J. D. Black.

A. C. Yokom, formerly sports editor of the Vancouver (B. C.) Sun and later city editor of the Nelson (B. C.) News, has become a member of the royal flying corps.

Six blue stars are placed on the white background of the service flag of the Joplin (Mo.) News-Herald, representing John F. Williams, Harvey Evans, John P. Fletcher, J. Gentry Daggy, Lycurgus E. Lines and A. G. Carter.

The Kansas City (Mo.) Star has an honor roll containing the names of sixty-five men. The editorial department alone furnished twenty-one men.

Edwin F. Henderson, formerly connected with the Associated Press in Chicago and Columbus, is now a

THE CIRCULATION OF THE CHRISTMAS ISSUE
of

The BILLBOARD

is guaranteed to exceed
45,000 Copies

It will be obtainable wherever papers are sold throughout the entire English speaking world.

No advance in rates.
Last form closes Sunday, December 16

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Member A.B.C.
Broadway & 43d Monroe and Dearborn
NEW YORK. CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning
40,655 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending Oct. 1, 1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
738 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

sergeant in battery C, 324th field artillery, and is stationed at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O., as an instructor.

The Sioux City (Ia.) Journal has contributed twelve reporters to the military service since April 1. They are:

Sergeant W. R. Towns, Army; Herman Koch, national guard; Lloyd R. Carter and V. E. Bundy, Canadian cavalry; Lieutenant Everett Tripp, National army; Sam Haislett, Army, John Peterson, J. L. Thompson, Renne Taylor, A. N. Berg, naval radio service; L. N. Hildebrand, Army recruiting.

Lewis Scallbaum, staff photographer of the Journal, has enlisted in the signal corps and has gone to Fort Logan, Colo. He was with the national guard on the Mexican border in 1916.

Tyler H. Bliss, formerly of the Hartford (Ct.) Courant, has been called for examination for the draft quota. He will not claim exemption.

R. G. Cholmeley-Jones, advertising manager of the Review of Reviews, New York, is working for Uncle Sam as an aide to Major Willard Straight.

R. B. Campbell, a Kansas City (Mo.) newspaper man, is now Ensign Campbell and is in the recruiting service as publicity man.

Copeland C. Burg, former assistant secretary of state for Montana, and more recently city editor of the Livingston (Mont.) Enterprise, has resigned his position with that paper and will leave for Eugene, Ore., where he will enter the ordnance department of the University of Oregon for the purpose of later securing a commission in the Army.

The roll of honor of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening contains the names of eight employees.

The Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening has raised its service flag of five stars.

David W. Howe, of the advertising department of Scribner's Magazine, son of W. B. Howe, publisher of the Burlington (Vt.) Free Press, is now a full-fledged aviator, "sonic-where in France."

Tied along the facade of the Newsboys' Home in New Chambers street, New York, is a huge red white and blue service flag bearing one star to

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in CLEVELAND

Over 175,000 Daily. || Over 300,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, People Gas Bg., Chicago

THE JOURNAL

IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

gether with the inscription: "Two thousand five hundred twenty in U. S. service from Newsboys' Home."

Of these 2,520, about 1,000 are in the Navy, the rest being in the Army. All except about seventy-five enlisted.

H. A. Benson, well known Milwaukee newspaper man and a prominent figure in the Milwaukee Press Club, is now serving in the heavy artillery.

Richard J. Burde, at one time editor of the New Westminster British Columbian but of late editor of the Port Alberni (B. C.) News, has been given the rank of major in the British Army.

Richard H. Waldo, formerly of the New York Tribune, has won a commission as captain of infantry, at the Plattsburg officers training camp.

Alfred Charles Bartel, formerly a Topeka (Kan.) newspaper man, has been promoted from captain to major in the 42d brigade of the United States artillery.

Edgar T. Wolfe, son of Robert F. Wolfe, proprietor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, is at the naval reserve training station, Pelham Bay Park, N. Y.

SIoux CITY JOURNAL NOTES.

W. W. Waymack has been appointed chief editorial writer for the Journal, succeeding John A. Coughlan, who recently retired after nineteen years of service and has gone to a fruit farm near Orlando, Fla. Mr. Waymack started work on the Journal seven years ago as Morningside College correspondent. He has been cub reporter, police reporter, courts reporter, night city editor, city editor, assistant editorial writer and now becomes chief editorial writer.

Harry Moore, late of the Des Moines (Ia.) Register, Miss Kathryn Maddock of the Rockford (Ill.) Star, Lucian Parlin, N. C. Wheeler and Willis Forbes are new additions to the reporters' staff of the Journal.

Matrimony has played havoc with the Journal's society staff during the last three months. Mrs. Dorothy Crane, for two years society editor, and Lieutenant Ralph Oliver of the national guard, were married recently; and now Miss Blanch Betz, who succeeded Mrs. Crane, has become engaged and has resigned.

Miss Gertrude Conway is the new society editor.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERRE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING
EXCEPT SUNDAY.
Union Star
AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643
Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.
LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

DAILY PAPER FOR "TOMMIES."

DELIVERED EVERY DAY IN TRENCHES TO OUR ALLIES
FROM CANADA.

The recent action of a group of American newspaper publishers, getting together to give our soldiers a chain of camp newspapers, recalls to mind that the soldiers of the Canadian dominion overseas, even those in the trenches in France and Belgium, receive a daily paper filled with news from Canada.

This little publication is of such immense value to the boys at the front because it contains news of home, is published in London, and goes by the name of the Canadian Daily Record. It is the latest development of the Canadian military authorities in Canada and overseas to meet the demand of the Dominion's soldiers for news of their own country.

Ever since December, 1915 the military authorities in Ottawa have been trying to furnish the boys at the front with news.

At first the news cable despatches were sent from Canada to London, where they were printed in intelligence summaries which formed part of the divisional orders. This method proved unsatisfactory because these intelligence summaries did not reach the rank and file, and moreover, at times pressure of purely military work sometimes crowded out the news.

In October, 1916, the plan of printing news bulletins upon small slips of paper, which were sent forward to the front through the Canada postal corps, was adopted.

This also proved a poor way of handling the news, because the slips were small, easily lost, and, because of their unattractive form, not always read.

Finally, at the beginning of this year, it was decided to publish an interesting daily newspaper under the auspices of the Canadian War Records Office, London, a Government department headed by Lord Beaverbrook. The newspaper started with a modest circulation among units in France and Belgium, and camps and hospitals in Great Britain, and was received with enthusiasm and a demand for more copies.

Owing to the appreciation expressed by officers and men, and at the suggestion of Sir George Perley, Sir

W. D. BOYCE CO.

600-614 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
205 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS.

THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM FOR SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT

Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C.
SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate.
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

Edward Kemp in September decided to extend the news service from Canada, and for this purpose to establish a news bureau in Ottawa to supply the material for the Canadian Daily Record.

Captain William Wallace, M. C., formerly of the Toronto Star, who had been wounded and invalided to Canada, was placed in charge.

The Canadian Daily Record now consists of four pages, magazine size, and each issue contains the happenings of the preceding twenty-four hours in Canada.

The news is furnished from Ottawa by cable nightly, and through the medium of press clippings and special articles forwarded by mail. The Canadian Press, Ltd., gives access to its news service free of charge.

Thanks to the co-operation of the Canadian Army Postal Service, the paper reaches the majority of the units in France on the day of publication, containing news despatched on the previous day. It is hoped to so extend the circulation that every individual member of the Canadian expeditionary force can count on seeing the newspaper daily.

In a recent letter Lord Beaverbrook, the head of the War Records Office informed Sir Edward Kemp that the Canadian Daily Record had now attracted the attention of the Imperial authorities to such an extent that they might undertake the publication of a small journal along similar lines.

BURLESON ANSWERS BERGER.

Postmaster General Burleson on November 16 filed his answer to the suit of the Milwaukee Leader.
Victor Berger, editor, to compel the restoration of second class mailing privileges, cancelled because of publications alleged to be in violation of the Espionage Act.

Besides contending that the discretional power imposed in the Postmaster General by the law is not subject to review or revocation by a court, Mr. Burleson makes the charge that the Post Office has evidence of an organized propaganda to embarrass the Government and that a certain class of publications are daily
"accomplishing results in clear violation of the law."

The Leader, Mr. Burleson charges, is among them.

TOBACCO FOR SOLDIERS.

The Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal is raising a tobacco fund for the soldiers.

The BEST Advertising BUY in

CLEVELAND

THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
260 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Bldg., CHICAGO
301 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

U. S. P. O. and A. B. C. Report THE NEW ORLEANS

ITEM

period ending October 1, 1917
Daily 60,756
Sunday 77,438
Average 63,217

THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

WENT BACK TO NATURE.

Clem Yore who for years has been identified with the advertising world, in Chicago, is now located in Estes Park, Colo., where he is engaged in the hotel business. Four years ago he left Chicago and went to Estes Park to write a book. He fell in love with the country and is now a citizen of Colorado. Upon his recent return to "dear old Chi" he could not be made to talk on anything but scenery.

Mr. Yore was formerly in the Hearst service and graduating from the editorial work he went in the copy service department of the Charles H. Fuller Company and elsewhere in Chicago.

The Big Thompson Hotel in Estes Park was built by Clem and named after the famous river that flows by the ranch of the reformed copy writer.

TO STUDY POSTAL INCREASE

At a regular meeting of the Miami (Ohio) Press Association a committee was appointed to investigate the zone system of postal increases and to protest against measures taken by the state legislature.

The next meeting of the association will be held on December 1.
The committee will make its report at that time.

DRAFTED NEWS MEN TO DINE.

Every drafted newspaper man at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, is to be the guest of Louisville newspaper men at a dinner to be given at one of the Louisville hotels during the Thanksgiving holidays. About 100 scribes from Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois are at the camp.

HICKEY STARTS ANOTHER.

T. A. Hickey, former editor of the Hallettsville (Tex.) Rebel, which was recently barred from the mails, will begin the publication of Hickey's Magazine in Waco, Tex.

AD MEN ON THE STAGE.

The San Francisco Ad Club presented a play "In Ad Land" on November 22, 23 and 24 at the Savoy Theater, in that city.

ON WAR TRADE BOARD.

George Waverly Briggs, managing editor of the Galveston (Tex.) News, has been made a special agent of the war trade board.

THE

PITTSBURG DISPATCH

solicits your business on the basis of genuine and established merit.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooke, 225 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond, Virginia, has 15,309 qualified voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes
In all VIRGINIA it's the name.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

NEW DAILY IN VIRGINIA.

The Hopewell (Va.) Daily Record will be published within the next two months as an evening paper of eight pages, seven columns to the page.

"The population of Hopewell and City Point is approximately 18,000," says W. P. Allen, one of the owners of the new publication. "Of this number there are 10,000 men, all wage earners, earning better than $3 per day, and the majority of them living in Du Pont houses. The people have the money and want a newspaper which is practically all that can be desired. The foreign population of the town is growing smaller each year.
Two years ago we had from 4,000 to 5,000 Greeks at Hopewell; today there are not 1,000, so that we need not figure on this phase of the problem."

TELLS ABOUT POLICE COURT.

H. M. Woodson, a Toronto newspaper man, has put the fruits of his ten years' experience of the Toronto police court into a book of 200 pages.

The tragic part of his story he touches with a rare sympathy, and, for the humorous part, he makes this apology: "People have wondered what there could possibly be to laugh at in a police court. If those whose work takes them there day after day didn't laugh they would go mad."

His book is called "The Whirlpool: Scenes From the Toronto Police Court," and is dedicated to Colonel George Taylor Denison, police magistrate of Toronto. It is privately printed.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish DailyReaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price
from one to two cents.

THE DAY

The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN
daily newspaper in the United States and Canada.The only real guide of 260,000 thrifty
readers and positive success to its advertisers.Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-638 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

OBITUARY NOTES.

W. H. HEATH, editor of the Chilton (Wis.) Independent Journal, is dead.JAMES C. MONAGHAN, at one time editor of the Manufacturer, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on November 12.
Mr. Monaghan was United States consul at Kingston, Jamaica.LIEUTENANT D. N. M'INTYRE, for a number of years news editor of the Victoria (B. C.) Colonist, and prior to that associated in editorial and news work on the Montreal Star, has been killed in action.THEODORE MOORE, financial editor of the New York Sun, died on November 21. He was born in 1870.
He was a news reporter on New York papers and later at different periods financial editor of the Tribune, the Press and the Sun. Three brothers and a sister survive him.AUGUSTINE SIMMONS, for five years editor of the Fairfield (Me.)
Journal, is dead in North Anson, Me.THEODORE F. DAVIS, a former Ohio state senator and newspaper man, died on November 14 in Marietta, Ohio.R. W. MITCHELL, publisher at different times in the last thirty years of the Nevada (Mo.) Mail and the Post, died recently in Tularosa, N.
M., following an operation on his throat, aged fifty-nine years.CHARLES M. REIN, formerly editor of the Orange (Tex.) Tribune and Leader, died recently.IDA GREELY FITZPATRICK, a newspaper woman, died at Hemp-stead, N. Y., on November 12.MRS. FREDERICK W. STONE, wife of Frederick W. Stone, of theThe Circulation of the
NEW YORK
EVENING
MAILrepresents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.THE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POSTreaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN
NEW ENGLAND.

Kuryer Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.

reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.

They want to buy your goods.

Use Kuryer Bostonski

Review of Reviews, New York, died last week at the Mountsides Hospital, Mountclair, N. J.SAMUEL D. OSBORNE, an editor, writer and lawyer, died in New York on November 21.FREDERICK L. DEGENER, for many years a manufacturer of printing presses, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on November 14.MRS. MARY E. THOMAS, wife of Richard P. Thomas, New York representative of the Goss Printing Press Company, died on November 14, aged fifty-eight years.WILLIAM E. PARTRIDGE, formerly editor of the Iron Age, Mechanics, Anthony's Photographic Bulletin and Metal, died on November 22 after an illness of several weeks. He was seventy-four years old.JOHN J. GOLDFRAP, for many years with the New York Evening World, died on November 21 at the Seaside Hospital, Staten Island, New York, at the age of forty years.A. J. STEINMAN, senior editor of the Lancaster (Pa.) Intelligencer, died on November 17 after an illness of several years. He was eighty-two years old.Mr. Steinman was a Yale graduate and a member of the Pennsylvania bar. It was largely through his efforts that the Intelligencer was changed from a weekly to a daily.LOUIS HILB, formerly advertising manager of the Masses and Pearson's Magazine, New York, died on November 19 at St. Lawrence Hospital, New York, at the age of twenty-nine years.

PRESS CLUB TO ELECT.

The annual election of the New York Press Club will take place on November 26. The nominees are:President, Edward Percy Howard; first vice-president, Keats Speed;
second vice-president, Oscar Watson;
third vice-president, Arthur F. Curtis; treasurer, Ralph W. St. Hill; financial secretary, H. Nelson Meade; recording secretary, Timothy Gorman; corresponding secretary, Caleb
H. Redfern; librarian, Clarence E.
Sweeney;Trustees—three-year term, three to be elected—James E. Clauson, William F. Connell, C. Fred Crosby; two-year term, one to be elected—John Burke.George Edison has leased the Filley (Neb.) Spotlight and has gone to Mexico as a representative of a printers' supply house.

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city
—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get circulation figures.

W. M. MORTON CO., Special Reps.

NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.

CHICAGO, Tribune Building.

LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue

Southampton Row.

PARIS, 6 rue du Rocher.

NARODNI List

Brice Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,850 agate lines of Brice advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers

61 Park Row, NEW YORK

Phone 2939 Beekman.

A.N.P.A. SAYS HOLD UP ON PAPER CONTRACTS.The A.N.P.A. paper committee says:
"In view of the rumors which seem to indicate a possibility of an adjustment of the news print paper manufacturers' indictments, any publisher would be unwise to close a contract other than on very satisfactory terms indicated previously in THE FOURTH ESTATE. The committee, therefore, suggests that contract negotiations be suspended until after the trial.The trial is expected to take place on November 26, provided no adjustment is made in the meantime.Publishers should ask for and receive all quotations on paper in writing. It is required that these shall be reported to the Federal Trade Commission, while verbal quotations are not necessarily so reported. Publishers should, therefore, be careful to make a report of all inquiries and receive quotations in writing.Authenticated rumors indicate that action may be taken by the Food Controller both in the United States and Canada which will seriously affect the advertising of foodstuffs and automobiles. It is claimed that there is no necessity now for advertising foodstuffs in view of the great shortage, and regulations may be put into effect which will have the indirect result of substantially curtailing this class of advertising.
Regulations may be in sight restricting the consumption of gasoline and the use of automobile pleasure cars, and the taking over of a part of the productive capacity of automobile plants for other purposes, which will have the effect of substantially reducing advertising in this direction."There is a very strong indication that we must look forward to such a situation which will very seriously affect paper consumption, so that next year publishers should figure very closely on their paper requirements and not contract for more than their minimum requirements.
Extra paper will always be available on the open market under such conditions as would make it undesirable to contract ahead for any surplus requirements."There can be no possibility of a slip-up, since there is practically three months' supply on hand, besides which the prospective consumption for next year will be decreased by reduced advertising now in sight; by economies and further price advances."Other conditions have also developed which make it unwise for aThe only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER
WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription

Everywhere $2.40.

(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free

Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium.

Phone Stuyvesant 3004.

90 East 10th Street, NEW YORK

THE JEWISH
MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITYcarries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.publisher to proceed immediately in making any contracts, for the market situation will undoubtedly be altered materially within the next two weeks."The situation is most hopeful and we believe a final and permanent adjustment of all the troubles which the paper committee has been trying to solve for almost two years is now in sight."TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.Farm and Fireside, a Chicago publication, hereafter will appear monthly instead of semi-monthly.H. C. Lee is now Middle Western representative of the Furniture Merchants Trade Journal, Des Moines, with headquarters in Chicago. HeCarl Acton, formerly with the Western office of O'Mara & Ormsbee, has joined the Western office of
Printers' Ink, at Chicago.VISITORS IN NEW YORK DUR-ING THE WEEK.John B. Woodward, Chicago Daily
News.George M. Rogers, Cleveland Plain
Dealer.Urban E. Dice, Pittsburg Gazette-Times and Chronicle-Telegraph.

Harry J. Grant, Milwaukee Journal.

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON

consolidated with La Tribuna del
Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.

Philadelphia

"The World's Workshop" Offers You Greater Selling Opportunities

Record business is being done by Philadelphia business houses, due to the fact that 58,000 business places and manufacturing plants, employing about 700,000 male and 300,000 female workers, are running to full capacity.

These workers and their families are housed in approximately 375,000 separate dwellings.

Think of the vast daily needs of this big market.

Clothing

Shoes

Hosiery

Underwear

Millinery and Hats

Food and Drink

Soaps and Toilet Articles

Household and

Kitchen Necessities

Furniture, Rugs, etc.

Medicines

Heating and Lighting

Musical Instruments

Automobiles and Accessories

The Bulletin dominates Philadelphia (the third largest market in the United States.)

In Philadelphia Nearly Everybody Reads

The BULLETIN

Net paid daily average for October 364,637 Copies
a Day

NEW YORK OFFICE
Dan A. Carroll
Tribune Building

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

CHICAGO OFFICE
J. E. Verree
Steger Building

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING

Published Every SATURDAY at
232 West 56th St. (near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

DECEMBER 1, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894

No. 1240

Cleveland Is Feeling the Power of Uncle Sam's Wealth

THE millions recently subscribed to Liberty Loans are now being distributed throughout the country, but Cleveland and all northern Ohio is particularly fortunate in receiving these vast sums because Cleveland and the live cities and towns of northern Ohio have means of prompt production so vital at this time.

Everyone is making more money, and spending more. What an opportunity for the advertiser to "cash in" on present conditions! What a chance to market a product now when people are inclined to buy freely!

Whether it be a known article or one you want known—NOW is the time.

You will find Cleveland and northern Ohio the place and the Plain Dealer with its over 175,000 daily and 200,000 Sunday circulation, is the medium.

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

PAPER DIFFICULTIES ARE AGREEABLY SETTLED.

MANUFACTURERS WILL SELL AT THREE CENTS AND DISSOLVE ASSOCIATION--END OF CRIMINAL ACTION.

The announcement in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week of a three-cent paper price marked the end of a controversy covering a year and a half. Federal prosecution of individuals and corporations charged with violations of the Sherman Act in restraint of trade in news print paper resulted on November 26 in a decree by Judge Mayer dissolving the News Print Manufacturers Association of New York, and an agreement being signed by which the maximum price of news print paper at the mills, bought in rolls in carload lots, is to be $3 a hundred pounds, from now until the expiration of the first three months of 1918, after which period a maximum price to be determined by the Federal Trade Commission and subject to review by the three judges of the United States Circuit Court of this district, is to prevail for the duration of the war and for three months thereafter, unless it is altered by the Commission and the court.

The maximum prices for paper bought in sheets and in less than carload lots are fixed tentatively at from $3.50 to $3.75 a hundred pounds, and will be finally determined by the same procedure.

The $3 price will affect the larger publishers of the country, and is approximately what most of them are paying at present, although it is less than some have been forced to pay. Present prices represent a large increase over the prices paid before 1917.

In the future, by a clause in the agreement, the middleman's price will be limited to a reasonable increase over the manufacturer's price.

Thus the saving to hundreds of smaller publishers throughout the country is expected to be one of the chief benefits of the agreement.

"By the plea of 'nolo contendere' the defendants surrendered to the Government without actually admitting violations of the Sherman Act. Its acceptance by the Government was based upon the price agreement.

The action of the court virtually disposes of the prosecution. It is understood that all concerns not under the control of the indicted men will accept the ruling of the court and put their name and seals to an agreement which has been sanctioned by the court and which fixes the price of news print paper generally at 3 cents a pound.

Heretofore, since the control of the News Print Association, the price has been 3.10 and 3.25 cents a pound, f. o. b. at mills, for news print paper in rolls.

The agreement does not restrict competition, because manufacturers are at liberty to sell news print paper at any figure under the stipulated maximum.

Likewise the agreement provides that "if any customer of any of the parties who is offered paper in accordance with the provision of this agreement, prefers to make or retain a contract for a fixed price for a definite period, and any one of the parties of the second part, after duly notifying the Attorney General of his or its intention in the matter, shall make or retain such contract solely in deference to the wishes of the consumer, such agreement so made shall not be construed as a violation of this agreement, even though the price which the consumer pays in furtherance of his own interest is in excess of the prices fixed in this agreement."

Of all the companies represented only the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company and the Fort Francis Pulp and Paper Company refused to accept the three-cent maximum price contending that they cannot sell as low as the others. The Federal Trade Commission will investigate and fix a price for them.

To emphasize the extent to which the defendant companies controlled the market, the petition stated that the total daily output of news print paper in the United States and Canada was 6,300 tons, with an approximate value of $250,000. The approximate value of the output of the defendant companies was estimated at 5,000 tons, valued at $225,000.

Of the seven indicted individuals, five entered pleas of "nolo contendere" and were fined as follows:

Phillip T. Dodge, president of the International Paper Company, fined $2,500; Edward W. Backus, president of the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company and the Fort Francis Pulp & Paper Company, fined $2,500; George Chaboon, jr., president of the Laurette Company and other concerns, fined $2,500; George H. Mead, chairman of the News Print Manufacturers Association and president of the G. H. Mead Company, the Spanish River Pulp & Paper Company and the Lake Superior Paper Company, fined $2,500; and Frank J. Sensenbrenner, vice-president and directing official of the Kimberly-Clark Company, fined $1,000.

On the statement of the Government counsel that the evidence against Gould was not as conclusive as the others, it was recommended his case be dropped. The court, acting on this suggestion, quashed the indictment against Mr. Gould, but he is a party to the remedial agreement.

The case against Alexander Smith, the leading banker engaged in the flotation and sale of the securities of print-paper manufacturing corporations, was put over to January 3. He is abroad on a Red Cross mission.

Mr. Hyman announced that the Government was prepared to prosecute the case against Mr. Smith if he should stand on his plea of not guilty, refusing to plead nolo contendere. As soon as his counsel hears from him, this part of the case will be decided. Whatever results, the agreement with the manufacturers will not be affected, Mr. Hyman said.

While it had been intimated before the opening of court that a settlement was near at hand, a jury was in the box and Judge Mayer had declared himself ready to hear the opening of counsel, when Mark Hyman, who with Herbert C. Smyth has been acting as special assistant to the Attorney General, announced that by agreement between the prosecution and counsel for the several defendants, the defendants desired to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and

(Continued on Seventeenth Page)

CANADA IS TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

U. S. ACTION TO PROBABLY MEAN THREE-CENT PRICE IN CANADA ALSO.

Announcement of the dissolution of the News Print Manufacturers Association and of the temporary fixing of the price of the product at three cents gave a distinct surprise to Canadian producers, and they are as yet at a loss to know what interpretation to place upon the news. THE FOURTH ESTATE correspondent in Ottawa says:

"So far as can be judged, however, the price is not considered as high as is warranted by existing conditions.

"George Millen of the E. B. Eddy Company states that the arrangement affects this concern to but little extent, as it has been exporting only a very small quantity to the United States, the bulk of its output being consumed within the Dominion of Canada. He did not care to express an opinion as to whether the action might be taken as an indication that the Canadian Controller, R. A. Pringle, K. C., would decide upon a similar price for Canada.

"C. Jackson Booth of the J. R. Booth Company was also reticent, saying that the meager outline carried by the Associated Press gave no indication as to what extent the decision would affect producers in Canada.

"However, he did not hesitate in saying that he did not consider the price high enough, considering conditions under which news print is being produced. Three and one-quarter cents he thought would be a fair price. The Borth Company is now disposing of some of its output to American consumers at a higher price than that fixed in the agreement, and will make no change for the present.

"Controller Pringle declined to comment upon the action taken by the American authorities, but it is generally considered that whatever course is taken by him between now and January 20 next, the date on which the 250 order now in effect expires, will be decided in co-operation with the Federal Trade Commission. His recent visit to Washington closely followed by the announcement of November 26, bears out that view.

"Meanwhile, the Controller is arranging to further investigate the situation in Canada and is expected to inquire into several phases of the whole problem before arriving at any decision. The evidence so far taken is considered by the producers to plainly indicate that a higher price than three cents is warranted, and they are hopeful that the finding will be to such effect.

"At the same time the consumers are equally emphatic in their assertions that the price mentioned will drive several of their number—particularly the small publishers—out of business.

"Whatever the outcome it seems certain that the price which will prevail in the two countries until the end of the war will be the same in both cases.

"Indications are not lacking that the American and Canadian authorities are working hand-in-hand in the matter."

NEW INQUIRY INTO MANUFACTURING.
Canadian news print and other paper mills are to be searched from "cellar to garret," regarding their official records from 1914 to June, 1917, by a new questionnaire issued by Paper Controller Pringle this week. The new questionnaire is probably the most exhaustive document that has come into existence in Canada since the news print and paper inquiries began.

From information secured by the correspondent of THE FOURTH ESTATE at Ottawa, the Federal Trade Commission has somewhat swung around to Mr. Pringle's view of cost adjustment as to news print—the outstanding instance being the apt consideration or allowance for stumpage—as an actual cost charge.

If the Federal Trade Commission eventually allows two dollars per cord for stumpage dues (as against interest on the amount of capital invested by Canadian mills in woodlands) it will mean an increase of about $3 per ton on the sale price in Canada of Canadian manufactured news print.

CANADIANS MAY AGREE TO PRICE.

There is some talk, or perhaps it is best defined as rumor, that the Canadian paper manufacturers and publishers may get together soon and work out some sort of an arrangement that will result in a mutual understanding regarding price. From all indications at Ottawa, backed by opinion from reliable sources, the sales price of news print in Canada is going to advance. The new price, when it is set, will, it is expected, range from $57 to $60 per ton, f.o.b. mill in carload lots.

Last week quite a few proprietors of small Canadian publications complained to the Paper Controller regarding the irregularity and high cost of their supply. Some of them were in the habit of buying through jobbers. The price increased and to it had to be added freight rates. At some publishing plants news print cost $5 per 100 pounds, but it was not purchased in carload lots.

The news print inquiry, or the investigation into book paper and other grades of stock is not likely to continue during the next two or three weeks. The date of December 8 set for the resumption of the book and writing paper inquiry has been cancelled owing to the manufacturers not being ready to go on.

THE EDDY MILL SHUTS DOWN; PAPER MEN EXEMPTED.

The Canadian news print mill of the E. B. Eddy Company is now closed down and is not expected to resume operations for some time. The reason is not stated.

The Military Service Act will not affect the paper mills to any serious extent as exemptions until the close of the season are being granted the woodmen in the employ of the Eddy and Booth Companies.

So far, the exemption tribunals have have adopted the attitude that these men are engaged in a necessary occupation and are therefore allowing them exemption until the spring.

On expiration of the period in question, the workmen and their employers will be afforded another opportunity of appearing before the tribunals and asking an extension of the time.

NOW A DAILY.

The Bismarck (N. D.) Public Opinion has launched an afternoon daily. R. S. Wilcox, who was editor of the Public Opinion as a weekly since last January, is the editor of the new daily. Prior to his going to Bismarck, Mr. Wilcox was editor of some University of Minnesota publications.

The Public Opinion is owned by the Non-Partisan Publishing Corporation, recently incorporated to operate several newspaper ventures of the National Non-Partisan League, a farmers' political organization in the Northwest.

The paper has United Press Service.

National Advertising Record for October, 1917

For All St. Louis Daily Newspapers

The Figures Presented in This Advertisement were compiled by the Statistical Department of The St. Louis Star, and show the Gain and Loss of each newspaper in October, 1917, as compared with October, 1916

The St. Louis Star . .	Gain	20,790	lines
The Post-Dispatch	Loss	20,040	"
The St. Louis Times . .	Loss	11,700	"
The Globe-Democrat . .	Loss	32,910	"
The Republic	Loss	16,800	"

The St. Louis Star's Gain for the Month

20,790

Combined Losses of ALL Other Papers

81,450

THE ST. LOUIS STAR

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

STAR BUILDING

STAR SQUARE

ST. LOUIS, MO.

Foreign Advertising Representatives

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY

Trade-Mark Registered.

NEW YORK
Fifth Avenue Building

PHILADELPHIA
Colonial Building

CHICAGO
People's Gas Building

Trade-Mark Registered.

CONVICTIONS FOR DISHONEST ADS.

IMPORTANT CASES DECIDED IN NEW YORK, DES MOINES AND CHICAGO.

The national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs announces that as a direct result of an investigation by Richard H. Lee, formerly special counsel of the National Vigilance Committee (now of the New York Tribune), the Federal Grand Jury at New York City handed down indictments on November 20, against the Alliance Tire & Rubber Company and the following officials: Milton Bejach, president; Warren C. Daniel, broker who handled the promotion of stock, and Raymond M. Bond, a stock salesman. They are charged with using the mails to defraud the investing public out of $160,000.

Mr. Lee's report disclosed statements in the company's advertising circulars which described the business as "keeping factories running twenty-two hours a day, turning away $500,000 worth of orders, with the concern besieged by agents crying for Alliance Tires, and still more Alliance Tires!"

IOWA'S LAW UPHOLD.

Iowa's new law against fraudulent advertising stood its first test in court with the conviction of the Emporium Cloak & Suit Company of Des Moines. In sustaining charges brought by the Associated Vigilance Committee of Iowa, Judge Mershon of the Municipal Court fined the concern $150 and costs. Later the fine was reduced one-half on a plea for leniency by the defense.

The case upholds the new principle of the law that exaggerated price comparisons are in reality statements of fact rather than of mere opinion.

The store advertised $20 winter coats, $10.99; $18 dresses, $8.98, and $4 and $5 silk blouses, $1.98. The vigilance committee secured one each of the articles advertised and submitted them to experts, all of whom swore that the garments were not of the value claimed. The highest retail value placed on the coat was $12.50, on the dress $10 to $12, and on the blouse $2.50. The evidence was that the blouse was a grade ordinarily used as a leader at $1.95.

In rendering his decision Judge Mershon said that technicalities would not hold in a case where the violation of the law was so complete.

"The offense was wilful and intentional," he said, "and a plainer case could not be shown."

The Associated Vigilance Committee of Iowa was represented in court by Frank Armstrong, its secretary, and Sidney J. Dillon, attorney for the association, who handled the prosecution by agreement with the city attorney.

CHICAGO CASE.

THE FOURTH ESTATE mentioned briefly last week the fraudulent advertising conviction in Chicago of the Moneyworth Wholesale Grocers, in which Edward Perlman, manager, was fined $25 and costs in the Municipal Court of that city. The case was brought through the efforts of the Better Advertising Bureau of Chicago.

Details of the case show that the concern had advertised in newspapers and magazines throughout the United States, offering to sell sugar at four cents per pound and "Gold Medal" flour at $8.50 a barrel. Persons sending orders found that additional goods up to a certain amount must be purchased in order to get sugar and flour at the prices quoted. The ad-

THE SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN of the NEW YORK STATE WOMAN SUFFRAGE PARTY

APPEARING IN THE DAILY AND WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS OF NEW YORK CITY AND THROUGHOUT THE STATE

WAS PREPARED AND CONDUCTED BY BERRIEN-DURSTINE INC.
25 WEST 45TH ST.
NEW YORK

ONE OF THE FULL PAGE NEWSPAPER ADVERTISEMENTS OF THIS CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN MADE INTO A LITTLE BOOK. IT IS CALLED "YOUR MOTHER, YOUR WIFE AND YOUR DAUGHTER." SHALL WE SEND IT TO YOU?

vertising had not contained such a qualification.

The national vigilance committee says:

"This is an important victory, not only from the standpoint of advertising but also in connection with steps being taken by the Government to conserve sugar and wheat. The low price of the sugar would induce people to purchase large amounts. Also the Food Administration apparently is opposed to greatly reduced prices on certain items in merchandising assortments."

The prosecution was brought under the ordinance in Chicago which prohibits false and fraudulent advertising.

MILLEN, NOT MILLER.

The new editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune is E. M. Millen, not E. M. Miller, as was mentioned in THE FOURTH ESTATE of November 3.

SIGNS BARRED FROM ROADS.

All advertising signs have been barred from the roads in Lewis County, Wash.

SMASHING THE PRICES IN WILMINGTON.

All of the Wilmington (Del.) newspapers are supporting a campaign inaugurated by H. Ridgely Harrington, a Dover (Del.) farmer, to smash a high price combination in Wilmington, and as a result the people of the city are getting food direct from the farm much cheaper than formerly.

Mr. Harrington has been sending potatoes, apples and turkeys to Wilmington and selling them to the consumer at a greatly reduced price.

HAGERTYS WERE HOSTS.

Dr. James E. Hagerty, dean of the college of commerce and journalism of Ohio State University, and Mrs. Hagerty entertained with a dinner party one night recently at their home in Columbus four members of the faculty of the department of economics and sociology.

SHERIFF WANTS HIM.

Egon Burchardt, formerly editor of the New Ulm (Minn.) Post, is now being sought by the sheriff of Brown County, Minn., for passing worthless checks.

CO-OPERATIVE AD PLAN FOR LOCAL AUTO DEALERS.

A series of co-operative automobile dealer announcements to appear for the next twelve months in the Newark (N. J.) Sunday Ledger offers a suggestion of a plan that other newspapers might conduct along similar lines.

J. B. Keeney of the Ledger's advertising staff, who did the successful soliciting for the series, explained the idea to THE FOURTH ESTATE as follows:

"Each of the dealers mentioned in the announcement pays an approximate share of the cost and receives an equal amount of space. The bulk of each page will be devoted to an article for the general good of the automobile trade. There will be no 'selfish' advertising whatsoever in these articles, and no attempt to recommend one particular car in preference to another."

"The dealers, who are undoubtedly the leaders in the automobile industry of Newark, are throwing aside all selfish interests and working shoulder to shoulder to educate the prospective buyer."

"Due to the conditions arising from the present state of war, it is believed that a more elaborate educational plan of publicity should be used in the future than has been used in the past. If the prospective buyer is shown that an automobile is a necessity and no longer a luxury, he will undoubtedly become a greater asset to the trade."

"Anything that helps the automobile industry or any other line of trade as a whole will help each individual connected with it."

"Therefore these dealers are not only benefiting themselves in this progressive movement, but are promoting the welfare of the few associates who have not joined in this movement."

The popularity of the co-operative plan is illustrated by the fact that thirty-seven yearly contracts were signed up in less than a month by Mr. Keeney.

NOTES FROM NORMAN.

Ed P. Ingle, who established the Norman (Okla.) Transcript in 1889 and sold out in 1898 to J. J. Burke, is to become associated with the Enterprise-Transcript Publishing Company, which recently consolidated three Norman newspapers.

Mr. Ingle will work in both the editorial and advertising departments of the Transcript, now published as a daily only, and the Enterprise, the weekly edition.

Mr. Burke is managing editor of the Transcript and J. O. Fox managing editor of the Enterprise.

The Transcript has recently lost two of its employees. William Harbrough has gone to the McAlester News-Capital as telegraph editor and reporter succeeding C. R. Mooney, who entered military service, and Carl Sheldon has joined the staff of the Oklahoma City Times.

Shaw Anthony, a son of W. B. Anthony, former editor of the Marlow Review, succeeds Sheldon.

Carl Sheldon is a brother to Seward Sheldon, former reporter on the Oklahoma News, and now a captain in the United States field artillery stationed at the school of fire, Fort Sill.

PLANE TALK.

Plane Talk, a little paper edited by men and women who are representatives of every department in the Dayton Wright Aeroplane Company in Dayton and Miamisburg, Ohio, has made its appearance among the employees and deals with matters of interest to all.

“Concentration is the Nation’s Watchword”

You can dominate

Philadelphia

at one cost by concentrating in

The BULLETIN

the newspaper “nearly everybody reads”

Record business is being done by Philadelphia business houses, due to the fact that 58,000 business places and manufacturing plants, employing about 700,000 male and 300,000 female workers, are running to full capacity.

In Philadelphia there are approximately 375,000 separate dwellings.

Think of the vast daily needs of the third largest market in the United States.

*Clothing Shoes
Hosiery
Underwear
Millinery and Hats*

*Food and Drink
Soaps and Toilet Articles
Household and Kitchen Necessities
Furniture, Rugs, etc.*

*Medicines
Heating and Lighting
Musical Instruments
Automobiles and Accessories*

Net paid daily average for October 364,637 Copies
a Day

NEW YORK OFFICE
Dan A. Carroll
Tribune Building

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

CHICAGO OFFICE
J. E. Verree
Steger Building

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE A.B.C.

TO CONSIDER PUBLICITY BY LAW AND RATE READ-JUSTMENT.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Audit Bureau of Circulations last week, plans were formulated for a special mid-year convention of the A. B. C. members to be held in Chicago at the LaSalle Hotel, December 14-15.

General topics affecting the interests of the A. B. C. will be discussed, but the special purpose of the convention will be to consider the "publicity" by-law of the bureau. A referendum was recently submitted to the members providing for a change of by-laws making it impossible for a newspaper member to print excerpts from an A. B. C. report. All reports, so the referendum cited, must be printed in full, if printed at all.

According to an announcement recently made the membership favors the adoption of the new plan by a very satisfactory majority, although press meetings here and there, especially the Inland Daily Press Association, urged members to vote against the plan.

Another important matter to be considered will be the report of a committee on the readjustment of rates. This committee has been at work since the last general meeting and its reports will be taken up as a principal matter of business.

The forthcoming convention will be the first general meeting of the A. B. C. since the election of Stanley Clague as managing director.

AN ADVERTISING BOMB.

The Topeka Daily Capital in conjunction with the Merchants Journal of the same city, recently used a fiftieth anniversary edition in the interests of the Theodore Poehler Mercantile Company, a large wholesale distributor in Kansas.

The Capital carried 39,550 lines of display advertising in that issue and the Merchants Journal carried 34,944 lines, making a total of 74,494 agate lines of display advertising for one purpose, at one time, in one territory and in the interest of one dealer.

Both of these supplements were planned, solicited, and prepared by B. P. Bartlett, promotion manager for the Topeka Capital and other Capper publications.

IN STATE PRINTING OFFICE.

I. S. Dunn, editor of the Divernon (Ill.) News, has been appointed examiner of printing in the office of the Illinois state superintendent of printing.

He has sold his half-interest in the Divernon News to his son, Ted, who is also owner of the Farmersville (Ill.) Post.

The latter will dispose of his interest in the Post.

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of
Black and Colored
News Inks

Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA.

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Philadelphia, San Francisco

1891 THE 1917 DULUTH HERALD'S Twenty-six Years of Progress

Under the Management of A. C. Weiss

On December 1, 1891, The Duluth Herald passed into the hands of A. C. Weiss and his associates, and from that time to the present has been under Mr. Weiss's general directorship. The Herald had then a circulation of 2,200; today it has over 35,000. It was a 4-page publication; today it prints from 20 to 32 pages, and dominates its field (one of the richest in America) as do few newspapers their respective territories.

Not only has The Herald kept pace with the development of Duluth and the prosperous tributary section, but it has been a powerful factor in promoting the best interests of the State of Minnesota, and is known nationally as a Newspaper of Character and Enterprise

Mr. Weiss's unwavering policy has been to give Duluth Herald readers and advertisers the maximum of value and service, and, to that end, has never permitted a premium to be offered in an effort to artificially stimulate circulation. The Herald has always been an all-evening, two-cent newspaper and is the only medium, that unaided, covers in its entirety the most prosperous section of Minnesota—Duluth and the Empire of Steel.

LA COSTE & MAXWELL

Publishers' Representatives

CHICAGO Marquette Building

Monolith Building: NEW YORK

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL'S GAIN IN ADVERTISING.

The Milwaukee Journal announces a gain of 736,344 lines of advertising during the first ten months of 1917. This follows a gain of more than a million and a half lines during 1916.

The Journal claims to be read in more than 85 per cent of Milwaukee English-speaking homes.

The paper is represented in the national advertising field by O'Mara & Ormsbee, Inc.

Harry J. Grant is the business and advertising manager.

NEWSWRITERS NOMINATE.

Members of Newswriters Union No. 3 of Scranton, Pa., recently nominated the following for election as officers:

President, Thomas Murphy; vice-president, Harold Myers, Captain Chauncey Derby; financial secretary and treasurer, Jack Druck; recording secretary, Tom J. Brialin; sergeant at arms, Joseph M. Butler; members of executive committees, Encl Dodge, Edward Hart and Thomas Gerrity.

The election will be held at the next meeting when arrangements for the union's annual banquet will also be completed.

AD SETTING CONTEST.

Printers in Scranton, Pa., recently conducted an ad setting contest among apprentices, offering prizes for the most attractive ads the young men could arrange from submitted copy. Joseph Lalley of the Scranton Republican was awarded first prize.

Frank Whitbeck, manager of the Poli Theater, Scranton, was judge.

The Oskaloosa (Ia.) Globe has been dissolved and G. W. Schockley has taken over the entire management of the plant.

NEW YORK POST'S MANAGING EDITOR RESIGNS.

John Palmer Gavit, for over four years managing editor of the New York Evening Post, will leave active service on that paper on January 1 to become associated with Harper & Brothers. Mr. Gavit continues as a member of the board of trustees of the Post.

"Reasons of a strictly personal character, of interest only to myself and my family," said Mr. Gavit, "make it imperative for me to retire from the daily newspaper business; otherwise nothing that I can imagine could have induced me to leave the Evening Post."

Mr. Gavit was previously with the Associated Press in Chicago and Washington correspondent for the Post.

Action upon the appointment of Mr. Gavit's successor will not be taken until next week.

HILLBORO'S NEW NEWSPAPER.

The People's Press, an organization of farmers, will publish a new newspaper in Hillsboro, N. D. Several hundred dollars worth of stock have been subscribed.

The incorporators of the publication are Henry Strom, J. A. Sorum, A. G. Freundberg, Nelias J. Ydstie, C. A. Kaldor, Leier Thorson and Charles O. Reed.

HELP SWELL Y.M.C.A. FUND.

A special "War Work Edition" of the Cardinal, a student daily at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was sold to swell the Y.M.C.A. war fund.

AUDITOR FOR SCHOOL BOARD.

Harold Myers, court reporter for the Scranton (Pa.) Republican, has been appointed district auditor for the Archbald (Pa.) school board.

NEWSPAPER MEN CONFER IN IOWA CITY.

The third annual conference of Iowa newspaper men given under the auspices of the State University of Iowa was held at Iowa City November 23 and 24. Hopewell L. Rogers, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and business manager of the Chicago Daily News, gave the principal address, on "Some Present Day Newspaper Problems."

E. K. Whiting of the Owatonna (Minn.) Journal-Chronicle, J. F. D. Aue of the Des Moines Register, and N. A. Huse of the American Press Association, gave talks on the business end.

Anna Dawson, one of the few women holding a managing editorship in the state of Iowa, gave an address on "Woman and Journalism."

Other speakers were: Frank D. Throop of the Davenport Democrat; W. P. Wortman of the Malvern (Ia.) Leader; E. J. Fueling of the New Hampton (Ia.) Tribune; W. C. Jarnagin, managing editor of the Des Moines Capital; and S. B. Sloan of the University of Iowa.

Frank Thayer, director of the work in journalism at the University, discussed the work of training newspapermen in the universities of the country.

Seventy-five men were registered for the conference.

WRAPPING PAPER BODY ALSO QUITS.

Pressure of campaign and activities of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, that has resulted in such beneficial work on the news print paper and book paper situations, which dissolved the Book Paper Manufacturers' Bureau and the News Print Manufacturers' Association, has now shown the Wrapping Paper Manufacturers' Association that it should not continue.

The body announced that it has dissolved the association and will form a statistical bureau.

There are good signs of the times and an indication that the work of the paper committee has been generally beneficial to all consumers of news print and associated grades.

SENTENCED FOR LIFE.

Imprisonment for life was the sentence imposed, on November 20, on Charles Edouard Monette, one of the band of alleged dynamiters arrested in connection with the attempt several months ago to blow up the summer home of Lord Atholstan, publisher of the Montreal Star.

We Spend More Than $500,000

per year to produce the features which have created the greatest newspaper following in the world.

"Hearst features always Lead"

Write for booklet "A Half-Million Dollar Feature Service."

International Feature Service

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

ASLEEP AT THE SWITCH

On Saturday, November 24th, at 10:41 a. m., eastern time, the International News Service bulletined from Washington the sinking of a German U-boat by American destroyers.

At 10:56 a. m., FIFTEEN MINUTES LATER, the Associated Press and United Press trailed with the same flash.

At 10:58 a. m., the I. N. S. announced that members of the U-boat crew probably were captives of the American navy.

At 12:45 p. m., the I. N. S. stated positively that the crew of the U-boat had been taken prisoner.

At 4:35 p. m.—THREE HOURS AND FIFTY MINUTES LATER—the New York Evening Mail, served by both A. P. and U. P., went to press with headlines that the submarine “went down with all on board.” Neither of the other news services had awakened.

In Chicago the Evening Post and Evening Journal, served by both A. P. and U. P., went to press at 4:10 p. m., central time—(5:10 eastern time)—also stating that the U-boat “went down with all on board.” I. N. S. papers in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, and all over the country, had a beat of several editions on the capture of the crew.

On Sunday morning, November 25th, papers served by the A. P. and U. P. had stories of the capture of the U-boat crew. These stories were almost as good as the I. N. S. story on Saturday afternoon, but JUST ONE DAY LATE.

The True News FIRST—Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

Tenth Floor, World Building, New York

CONFIDENCE

Back in 1896, the future growth of this company rested upon the sincere faith, confidence, and absolute approval of every collector of SM Green Stamps. These could only be gained by rendering a valuable service.

How well every collector has been satisfied, how well the system benefited each merchant, is today convincingly illustrated in the millions of thrifty women who always trade at thousands of progressive dealers who gladly reward those who "pay as they go" by means of the Sperry Service.

Frugal housewives turn knowingly to SM Green Stamps as offering the soundest, most substantial, and practical of all discounts for cash. It benefits the customer to obtain these tokens and it benefits the merchant. They "come back" when they know their patronage is appreciated and rewarded.

The SPERRY & HUTCHINSON Co.
2 West 45th St., New York

AN EFFICIENCY CLUB

ORGANIZED ON HUNTINGTON PRESS RESULTS IN CO-OPERATION.

Something more than a year ago, the desire on the part of the management of the Huntington (Ind.) Press, to bring every department to the highest working and co-ordinating efficiency in the producing of a newspaper, resulted in the organization of the Efficiency Club of the Huntington Press. A. J. Wilhelm is manager of the Press.

Every employe of the plant was made a member of the club. In a meeting with all present, the plans and purposes of the club were discussed, everyone contributing his share. The result was that every department pledged its heartiest cooperation in promoting any movement that would make for better service, closer co-ordination of departments and a bigger and better newspaper. Meetings were planned every two weeks. It has been in these meetings that the problems of the paper have been threshed out, difficulties and differences adjusted and close harmony and co-operation brought about.

A. J. WILHELM.

In the mechanical department all new steel equipment of modern make has been installed and has resulted in more and better service, as well as much improved working facilities.

In the business department the office has been enlarged, making the business department, advertising department and circulation department separate sections. The offices have been redecorated and new furniture added. For the convenience of advertisers an illustrating service has been installed. About six months ago a free copy service was introduced and some of the most important business firms are taking advantage of this new service. Circulation and advertising volume are both steadily growing as a result of better news and advertising service. Every member of the Huntington Press believes in the Efficiency Club and what it stands for. Every department loyally endeavors to further the best interests of the business.

On October 8, the Press Efficiency Club gave a luncheon, the second get-together of this kind since its organization. It had as its guests the leading business men and bankers of Huntington, and several newspaper men from out of the city. The toastmaster for the occasion was Father Noll, whose Catholic publications are published in Huntington. The principal speaker was Milton Garges, division traffic chief of the Associated Press, Chicago. Another speaker of interest was Ben F. Bilitier, publisher of the Farmer's Guide of Huntington. The Efficiency Club has impressed the idea upon every department that business is secured by service.

DULUTH HERALD'S GROWTH.

Twenty-six years ago, December 1, 1891, Anton C. Weiss took over the management of the Duluth Herald.

The Herald was then a four-page paper that boasted of a circulation of 2,200 and was published in a city with a population of 32,725.

Today, while the population of Duluth, now 100,000, has been multiplied by three, the circulation of the Duluth Herald, now 35,000, has been multiplied by sixteen, and its daily four pages have grown to eighteen to thirty-two pages.

If the Herald had merely kept pace with the growth of Duluth, its circulation today would be less than 7,000—one-fifth of what it actually is.

This handsome growth, which has been paralleled by an equally handsome growth in advertising, has been due to the efforts and ideals of Mr. Weiss—efforts and ideals that have so appealed to the public and the advertisers.

Mr. Weiss is now an active member of the Minnesota state public safety commission, created by the last legislature with broad powers over conditions relating to the state's part in the war.

He is also a director in the Associated Press.

ENCOURAGING MUSICIANS.

To encourage the organizing of orchestras and bands and to further general musical education in America, John C. Freund, editor of Musical America, issued in New York, delivered a lecture at the Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburg, on November 14.

MORE LIBERALITY IN WAR NEWS INFORMATION?

Secretary of War Baker has indicated that an official statement of the number of American troops in France is not to be expected at any time during the war.

But he has caused an inquiry to be made of the military censor, Major General McIntyre, which may result in more liberal regulations as to publication of the designations of regiments, brigades, or companies which are engaged in action on the front from time to time.

If there was no sound military reason for suppressing that information, Mr. Baker said, he desired to give it out.

The secretary's attention was called to the fact that the British official statements recently have named at least by geographical designation the troops used in various offensives. Apparently a new policy in this regard has been adopted in London, and the War Department may do likewise.

FOOD BULLETIN ISSUED.

The first definite step toward giving the New York public daily information on the cost of food staples was taken on November 23, when Frank Lyons, editor of the Fishing Gazette, issued a bulletin giving facts relative to the wholesale prices of fish in local markets, together with advice as to what fish may be expected in great quantities and suggestions to housewives for preparing and serving the cheaper varieties.

The Cream of your Metal is Skimmed off in Dross unless you use Ambone

AMBONE

Conserves and Conditions Metal

CONSTANTLY subjected to a temperature of 600 degrees or even greater heat, lead-tin-antimony combinations gradually disintegrate. Tin is lighter than either lead or antimony. Tin melts at 450 degrees. Being lighter and melting first, the tin in either linotype or stereotype metals has a tendency to come to the surface of the melting pot, where it quickly oxidizes and is skimmed off in dross.

Don't be forced into the present high market to buy tin in order to "sweeten up" your metal.

Ambone is a scientific cleaning and fusing agency for lead-tin-antimony combinations. It is manufactured in solid tablets about an inch thick. Use Ambone daily. Stir the tablets into the bottom of the pot with our special stirring stick so that it will work upward, cleaning, fusing and refining every metal molecule. It will retard oxidation; reduce your dross accumulation 50%; make linotypes run smoother; and cast firm, clear-faced slugs; and it positively will insure non-porous stereotype castings.

Hundreds of American newspaper publishers use Ambone daily to conserve and condition their metal and to stop the waste that their dross pile represents.

Ambone costs 50c per pound (24 tablets to the pound) and our metal stirring stick with wooden handle costs $1 (it lasts forever). Send $2 for two pounds of Ambone and the stirring stick. A trial convinces. Two pounds is enough for a fair trial.

Metal Stirring Stick. Long metal rod with wooden handle and metal cup shaped to hold Ambone tablets or paste. Price $1.

The Stereotype Metal Flux Co.

CANTON, OHIO

HONORS FOR THE HARMSWORTHS.

ALFRED CREATED VISCOUNT AND HAROLD MADE AIR MINISTER.

More high honors have been bestowed on the Harmsworth brothers, Great Britain's noted newspaper publishers.

Lord Northcliffe (Sir Alfred Harmsworth) has been created a viscount.

Alfred Charles William Harmsworth, son of the late Alfred Harmsworth of the Middle Temple, who is well known as the owner of the London Times and Daily Mail among other publications, was born in 1865; he was made a Baronet in 1904, and raised to the Peerage in 1905 with the title of Baron Northcliffe of the Isle of Thanet.

A few days ago on returning to England from this country, where he was head of the British Mission for co-ordinating war work, he declined the portfolio of Air Minister, and expressed his dissatisfaction with the policies of Premier Lloyd George's Government.

Northcliffe's letter resulted in the resignation of Viscount Cowdray from the chairmanship of the Air Ministry because it contained the first intimation to the incumbent that a change was contemplated by the Premier.

Baron Rothermere, (Harold S. Harmsworth), chief proprietor of the Glasgow Daily Record and Mail, and the Leeds Mercury, has accepted the post of Air Minister in the British Cabinet.

Lord Rothermere succeeds Lord Cowdray.

Lord Rothermere is a younger brother of Lord Northcliffe. He was born in 1808 and christened Harold Sidney Harmsworth. He was created a peer in 1914 with the title Baron Rothermere of Henstead. He endowed the King Edward VII Chair of English Literature at Cambridge University, and is one of the most prominent promoters of the Union Jack Club.

MINNESOTA EDITORS MEET.

The editors of the Seventh Congressional District of Minnesota are meeting in Appleton at the time of going to press, with J. W. Whitney of the Marshall News-Messenger presiding.

H. C. Hotelling of the Mapleton Enterprise, president of the National Editorial Association, is scheduled to speak today.

One of the features of the convention was a wheatless, meatless supper served to the visitors by the domestic science department of Appleton High School on Friday evening.

HONES IN TROUBLE.

The Federal authorities are investigating the case of I. William Hones, editor and publisher of the Sullivan County (N. Y.) Review, for an editorial which appeared in last week's issue. The editorial was a denunciation of President Wilson, couched in terms which, the authorities say, will make the author amenable to the law.

"This editorial strikes me as being as seditious as anything which has appeared in the Masses, now under indictment for sedition," said Marshal McCarthy. "I shall make a very thorough investigation of the Review."

NEWSPAPER MAN A PASTOR.

William McClean Work, who was for several years a newspaper man in Pittsburg, Chicago, Denver, Kansas City and Philadelphia, has been installed as a pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Swissvale, Pa.

—And This Amazing Gain On Top Of A Gain Of More Than A Million And A Half Lines During 1916.

During the first ten months of 1917
The Journal gained 736,344 lines.

A gain that is doubly significant when one considers that every other English newspaper in Milwaukee lost tremendously.

The JOURNAL Gained 736,344 lines
Next Five Newspapers Lost 2,587,070

Here are the figures:

NEWSPAPER	First 10 Months 1916	First 10 Months 1917	GAIN	LOSS
JOURNAL	6,177,670	6,914,014	736,344
Wisconsin	3,047,625	2,402,035		645,590
Daily News	1,772,890	1,145,497		627,393
Leader	2,050,713	1,596,053		454,660
Sentinel	4,469,482	4,130,420		339,062
Free Press	2,221,765	1,701,400		520,365

736,344 2,587,070

The Journal's circulation of more than 115,000 net paid is greater than the combined circulations of the next three newspapers. The Journal is read in more than 85% of Milwaukee English-speaking homes. Single handed and without the aid of any other newspaper, The Journal can deliver the Milwaukee market to the advertiser of any meritorious product.

The Milwaukee Journal

O'MARA & ORMSHEE, Inc.
Foreign Advertising Representatives
New York and Chicago

HARRY J. GRANT
Business and Advertising Manager

TALK ABOUT FOOD.

The condition of the nation in regard to food supply was the problem considered by the Association of Manufacturers' Representatives at the tenth anniversary dinner held in Philadelphia on November 14.

The Association of Manufacturers' Representatives was formed ten years ago to eliminate waste and to prevent losses due to unscientific salesmanship following national advertising.

MEETING OF THE CALIFORNIA PRESS ASSOCIATION.

A business meeting of the California Press Association will be held in San Francisco on December 7 and 8. The sessions will be held in Native Sons' Hall and among the topics to be discussed are: "Church Advertising," "News Print Paper," "Curbing Free Publicity Agents," "Food Control," "Trading Stamps," "Cost Finding" and "Better Advertising Rates."

OHIO CITY EDITORS WILL MEET IN COLUMBUS.

The Ohio City Editors Association will hold its annual meeting in Columbus on January 19 and 20. George Creel has been invited to deliver an address.

The Lake City (Minn.) Leader is now owned by Patrick, Ward & Rardin.

DEATH OF FRANK MATTHEWS.

HE WAS A NOTED NEWSPAPER MAN AND INSTRUCTOR
IN JOURNALISM.

Franklin Matthews, associate professor at the Pulitzer School of Journalism, in Columbia University, New York, died suddenly on November 26 in the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Railroad Station. Professor Matthews was fifty-seven years old. The professor left his home at Woodhaven, N. Y., to go to Columbia for his day's task of instructing embryo journalists in the practical side of newspaper making.

Three newspapers, the New York Sun, the New York Times and the Philadelphia Press, and many magazines had during the newspaper life of the professor known him as a staff member or contributor. He was graduated from Cornell in 1893.

One of his most remarkable assignments was that which took him, as the staff correspondent of the Sun, around the world with the American fleet when Colonel Roosevelt, then President, conceived that object lesson as one of the things needed to keep the rest of the world mindful of the fact that the United States had some fighting material behind her commercial greatness. His work on this trip, in the columns of the Sun, from the lecture platform and in books, did much to introduce the country to its navy.

Professor Matthews was born at St. Joseph, Mich., May 14, 1858. As a youth he worked as bookkeeper for a grocer. At that time he took to chime-ringing as an avocation and gained proficiency as a chime-ringer in the Valley Congregational Church in Orange.

Learning of the chimes at Cornell University, he addressed the university authorities with the proposal that in return for his tuition he would ring the college chimes. The offer was accepted and Matthews worked his way through Cornell as chime-ringer and lecturer with the magic lantern. President Andrew D. White of Cornell has said that at that time Matthews was the best chime ringer in the United States.

At graduation President White blocked Matthews' plan to write on an abusive subject, and suggested chime-ringing as a thesis. The educator's suggestion was adopted and subsequently the thesis was published in the Atlantic Monthly.

Following his graduation from Cornell in 1883 he became a lecture agent, with Mark Twain, Carl Schurz, Henry Ward Beecher and others as his clients. Then he became a reporter for the Philadelphia Press and assistant city editor of that paper.

He went on the New York Sun in 1890, where he served as reporter and editor until 1909, when he left the paper to lecture upon the American fleet and its world tour.

He went to the Times as assistant Sunday editor in 1912, and later was night city editor of that paper. His association with the Pulitzer School of Journalism began during the same year. In 1914 he became associate professor at the school.

Mrs. Myra L. Parsons, a daughter, and Crosby Matthews, his son, survive him.

In commenting on the death of his associate, Dr. Talcott Williams, director of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, said:

"Professor Matthews' death will temporarily at least, take away a very important side of our work in the school of journalism. He had an extraordinary knowledge of the details of practical newspaper technique, having learned these details under the great newspaper men of

(Continued on Thirty-ninth Page.)

KROGNESS LIST IS SPLIT.

HIS PAPERS APPORTIONED
AMONG THREE CHICAGO
SPECIAL AGENCIES.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: On December 31, 1917, after twenty-two years of representing newspapers in the Western territory, I shall discontinue my office in the Marquette Building, Chicago, and locate in Minneapolis, Minn., as general manager of the Minneapolis Tribune. I have been associated with the Minneapolis Tribune for eighteen years.

My list of newspapers will hereafter be represented in Chicago by the following gentlemen:

Boston Post—Kelly-Smith Company, Lytton Building.
Baltimore American and Star—Verree & Conklin, Steger Building.
Minneapolis Tribune—Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Building.

Those who succeed me in representing these newspapers in the Western territory are to be congratulated, for those newspapers are a credit to any man's list.

My association of eighteen years with General Felix Agnus of the Baltimore American and Star, and eleven years with E. A. Grozier of the Boston Post, and with the staffs of those papers, has been of the most cordial, helpful and friendly nature, and it is with much regret that I sever business connections with them.

It is only fitting that I should at this time express my deep appreciation to those who have been associated with me in my office, and for the friendliness, helpfulness, good camaraderie and affection I have received from my fellow representatives in the West and from those who know me in the East, and which I full-heartedly reciprocate and hope ever will continue.

And last, but not least, I gratefully acknowledge the good will shown me by advertisers and advertising agents, without which I must have failed, who stood by me during the long illness through which I have passed.

C. GEORGE KROGNESS.

In announcing Mr. Krogness' appointment, William J. Murphy, the publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, in a special notice on the editorial page, said:

"Mr. Krogness has been my personal representative and a valuable and efficient member of the Minneapolis Tribune staff for eighteen years, having been Western manager of its business, with offices located in Chicago."

THE FOURTH ESTATE of November 3 printed the news of Mr. Krogness' appointment.

The Kelly-Smith Company also represents the Boston Post in the East; and the Baltimore American and Star

E. Katz Special Advertising Agency Publishers' Representatives

Have opened a Pacific Coast Office in the Monadnock Building,
San Francisco, in charge of Mr. Clarence Colman for the development of advertising for the publications they represent

NEW YORK
KANSAS CITY

CHICAGO
SAN FRANCISCO

are, likewise, represented in the East by Verree & Conklin.

J. C. Wilberding of New York represents the Minneapolis Tribune in the East.

MORE EDITORS INDICTED.

Charles J. Henninger, editor of the St. Louis (Mo.) County Herald; A. Jablonsky, contributor of a recent article published in that paper, and A. H. Steinbeck, publisher of the Union (Mo.) Republican Headlight, were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in St. Louis on November 28 on charges of violating the Espionage Act.

DAILY FOOD BULLETINS.

The New York State Food Commission will issue daily reports on what New Yorkers should pay for foodstuffs at retail.

Edward L. Young will begin the publication of a new weekly in Earlington, Ky., this month.

H. C. McNew is planning to start a newspaper in Dig Springs, Neb.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

NEW YORK.—Premier Printing Company; capital, $8,000; incorporators, C. Pitchmann, S. Notes, M. M. Greenwald, 2,121 Belmont avenue.

Warner Publications, Inc.; magazines and newspapers; capital, $500; incorporators, Eltinge F. Warner, Arthur W. Sutton, Frederick W. Westlake.

Progress League, Inc.; publishing and correspondence courses; capital, $10,000; incorporators, Arthur W. Britton, Samuel Howard, Louis H. Gunther.

La Sardegna Publishing Company; capital, $10,000; incorporators, F. and J. Pasella, C. Fusco, 208 Nassau street.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—Perth Amboy Printing Company; printer and publisher; capital, $25,000; incorporators, Arthur E. Warner, Leon S. Colby, Welcome W. Bender.

WILMINGTON, DEL.—Delaware News Company; general printing business; capital, $30,000; incorporators, Andrew C. Gray, C. C. Montgomery, H. H. Ward, Jr.

SOUTH CHARLESTON, OHIO.—South Charleston Publishing Company; capital, $15,000; incorporators, Foster B. Houston and others.

MORRISTOWN, N. J.—Passaic Valley Chronicle Company; capital, $25,000; incorporators, A. Vance Pierson, Viva M. Gordon, Morristown; Joseph Weimer, Bernardsville.

NEW RICHMOND, OHIO.—New Richmond Publishing Company; capital, $2,000; incorporators, John W. Haussermann, Lew F. White, H. C. Willette, Thomas Castlen and Harry M. Day.

PORTLAND, ME.—Newfoundland Pulp & Lumber Company; to cut, manufacture and deal in wood, lumber, pulp, paper and all articles consisting in whole or in part of same; capital, $50,000.

MUST HAVE MORE CO-OPERATION.

DEMANDS OF WAR DISCUSSED
BY WESTERN COUNCIL
OF A. A. A. A.

War time measures make necessary the closer co-operation of publishers, advertising agents and advertisers in order to secure the maximum efficiency from advertising. This is the at present dominant thought of the Western Council of the American Association of Advertising Agencies of which Paul E. Faust of Chicago, is president. In line with this general idea, a series of special meetings are to be conducted to secure a closer co-ordination in all branches of advertising.

At the first of this series held at the LaSalle Hotel in Chicago, November 24, Stanley Clague, managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Clague emphasized the convenience and importance of having a standard method by which circulation and hence advertising values of newspapers may be gauged. He pointed out that the A. B. C. offers such a measure and expressed the opinion that advertising efficiency in general is being heightened by the co-operative interests represented in the Audit Bureau.

Mr. Clague reiterated the statement that business conditions have been overturned to a considerable extent by the intrusion of war and that Washington, in addition to being the official center of the country, has already become the merchandising headquarters of the world. Demands of Washington are therefore to be given the utmost consideration, in Mr. Clague's opinion, and since the Government expects close co-ordination of all industries to win the war, it is essential that the advertising interests should set a good example by inside co-operation.

The general trend of thought will be further discussed at future meetings of the association.

INDICTED FOR FORGERY.

George F. Sweeney, who was "advertising, publicity and campaign manager" for the Army and Navy Bazar in New York, was indicted on November 27 by the New York County Grand Jury on a charge of forgery.

The indictment charges that Sweeney forged the name of Edward S. Moore, treasurer of the bazar, without the latter's permission, to letters sent out soliciting contributions and advertising for the bazar.

LOOKING FOR BANDITS.

The Chicago Daily News has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the band of five robbers who held up a Daily News automobile last week and robbed its occupants of almost $1,500.

News for Our Fighters

The New York Times is mailed to U. S. soldiers with the American Expeditionary Forces and to sailors on the warships at the following rates: Daily and Sunday, $10 for one year; $5.50 for six months; daily, without Sunday, $8 for one year, $4.25 for six months; Sunday, $3 for one year, $1.75 for six months.

Remittances must be accompanied by name of soldier, the number of his company and that of his regiment. Name of ship must be given if the Times is to be mailed to a man in the United States Navy.

Address Subscription Department, The New York Times, Times Square, New York.

Curtright Circulation Company

"Premier Promoter of the U. S. A."

Now conducting its Sixth Contest for

The MERIDIAN (Miss.) STAR

More than a Hundred Successful Contests

Temporary Address:

Meridian Star
MERIDIAN,
MISS.

Mr. Publisher!

If you want better results,
send for the Curtright Company for your next contest.

Permanent Address:

P. O. BOX 592
SHREVEPORT, LA.

BIG PULP WOOD PROBLEMS.

CANADIAN EXPERT SHOWS THAT HARDWOODS MUST BE UTILIZED.

At the annual meeting of the Commission of Conservation in Ottawa on November 27, a report, which startled lumbermen in attendance, was presented by Dr. C. D. Howe, who spent the summer in investigating the pulp wood situation in the St. Maurice Valley, Quebec. This study was initiated as part of a broad investigation to determine what technical measures are necessary to ensure the perpetuation of the vast pulp wood forests of Eastern Canada.

Dr. Howe's investigation showed that while the coniferous species comprise about two-thirds of the forest numerically in the section investigated, the proportion is practically reversed when the relative space occupied in the crown cover by the conifers and hardwoods is considered.

That is, the hardwoods monopolize the light to the extent of about two-thirds, while the softwoods fill but one-third of the crown cover.

The hardwoods are biologically dominant, and this dominance is constantly increased.

The results of the investigation show that the optimistic attitude of lumbermen and limit holders in regard to the reproducing power of this type of forest is not justified. The good yields of pulpwood material at the end of each of the several cuttings in the past thirty years do not represent the amount of growth accrued during the intervals between cutting periods, but are obtained by cutting successively smaller trees and in general lower grade material and also, by including a larger proportion of balsam in each cut.

Tables presented showed that there are thirty spruce and fifty-nine balsam trees from four inches to eight inches in diameter already present on the average acre. For them to furnish another crop of pulpwood material, it will require about seventy years for the four-inch trees and about fifty years for the eight-inch trees to reach the twelve-inch diameter limit.

The larger balsam, however, will be merchantable in ten years or less. There are only six spruce and six balsam trees over eight inches in diameter on the average acre in this culled forest. This number is too small to justify exploitation alone, so that the next cutting must be delayed until a sufficient number of the smaller trees reach a merchantable size.

Just how long this will be can not be determined until later, but the figures so far obtained disprove the frequent assumption that such lands can be cut over every twenty years and the same amount of material secured as before.

On these heavily culled lands, it will probably be found that henceforward a period of from thirty to sixty years must elapse between cuttings, if only spruce and balsam are to be removed.

It is of course obvious from the foregoing that one of the fundamental problems most urgently demanding solution is some method of utilizing the very large quantity of hardwoods, principally yellow birch.

BIG PAPER MAN HERE.

W. B. Carmichael, the principal supplier of news print paper in Australia and New Zealand, is now in New York on business. Mr. Carmichael's headquarters are in Sydney, Australia.

TRADE LINOTYPE MARK

THE MACHINE THAT LASTS.

Model 14 (Three Magazines with Auxiliary.)

Model 19 (Two Magazines with Auxiliary.)

LINOTYPES

Built for Your Work

A LINOTYPE is the most profitable composing room investment you can make.

It is built in eleven different models.

You can therefore select a Linotype that will exactly meet your individual requirements.

You will not be required to invest a single dollar more than is necessary—

And the terms of payment will be arranged to suit your convenience.

Your Linotype actually pays for itself out of the daily savings it affects.

We have a Linotype for every office at a price and upon terms within reach of every printer.

MERGENTHALER Linotype Company

NEW YORK, Tribune Bldg.
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

Model 9 (Four Magazines)

KATZ AGENCY OPENS OFFICE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The E. Katz Special Advertising Agency of New York, Chicago and Kansas City, has opened a Pacific Coast office, in San Francisco, to represent its newspapers in the advertising field of that section. The office is located in the Monadnock Building, at Market and Kearny streets, and in charge of Clarence Colman, a newspaper advertising man who is thoroughly experienced in conditions of that part of the country.

G. R. Katz is also at present in San Francisco attending to the final details of the opening. The other offices of the Katz Agency, which was established in 1888, are New York, 15 East 26th street; Chicago, Harris Trust Building; Kansas City, Waldheim Building.

The Katz Agency is the only Eastern publishers' representative having a Pacific Coast office. It has recently been appointed to represent the Ardmore (Okla.) Ardmoreite and the Miami (Okla.) Daily News in addition to the other twenty or so newspapers on its list.

The Katz Agency has just added to its Western staff W. O. Millinger, who was at one time in charge of the foreign advertising of the Scripps newspapers and later was with the Erwin & Wasey Advertising Agency, in Chicago, besides having had experience as an advertising agent on his own account in Pittsburgh.

MISS HELFRICH AT HEAD OF OHIO NEWSPAPER WOMEN.

The Ohio Newspaper Women's Association held its fifteenth annual meeting at Hotel Southern, Columbus, on November 24.

The newly elected officers of the association are:

Miss Pearl Helfrich, Columbus, president; Miss Henrietta DeVillars Grauel, Cleveland, vice-president; Mrs. Ella Proctor Wilson, Lebanon, secretary; Mrs. Amoretta Fitch, Cincinnati, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Freeland, Marion, honorary president.

This association has 150 members all of whom are actively engaged in newspaper work.

F. J. WARBURTON'S WILL.

The will of Frederick J. Warburton, secretary-treasurer of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, who died at Scarsdale, N. Y., on November 2, disposes of an estate estimated at over $300,000. The major part is inherited by the widow during her lifetime, while various other relatives receive valuable legacies.

WITH CHICAGO PRESS CLUBS.

The Chicago Press Club gave a dinner and dance on November 24, with music by its jazz band.

Charles Peigler, manager of the Bohemian Press Bureau, New York, delivered an address at the club luncheon last Thursday.

The Press Writers Club of Chicago enjoyed a fish dinner on November 23, previous to a meeting at which Rev. Thomas Hart spoke on "Literature."

"BIG SIX" BALL HELD.

The sixty-eighth annual ball of Typographical Union No. 6, known all over the United States as "Big Six," took place on November 28 at Sulzer's Harlem Casino, New York. The proceeds, as usual, will be devoted to the hospital fund of the union.

Mrs. F. A. Dare has assumed the editorial and business management of the Walker (Minn.) Pilot, formerly published by her late husband.

J. B. Adams, banker, has purchased the Eldorado (Kan.) Daily Times and will give it his personal direction.

HANDLING CITY CIRCULATION.

KEEPING DISCIPLINE AMONG CARRIERS KEY TO SUCCESS IN ST. PAUL.

By H. S. BLAKE,
Circulation Manager St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press.

When I saw that I was slated to give details as regards the best way to handle city circulation, I first thought of start order slips, stops, transfers, collections, etc. But, after all, isn't there something of more consequence than these things, something really worth talking about?

Any circulation manager who is worthy of the name knows how to draw up a start order blank or any other blank to be used in his own city. We all know that the forms which are perfectly satisfactory to one newspaper cannot always be used successfully in another newspaper, for local conditions affect the situation to a marked extent and I for one have gotten over the habit of filing away every start and stop order blank I see which is in use by other newspapers.

I consider the best way I can explain what I think is the best way to handle city circulation is by telling what we do here on our papers, the St. Paul Pioneer Press and St. Paul Dispatch—for naturally we have what we consider the best system for our local conditions.

In the first place, our papers are delivered to city subscribers for ten cents per week or forty-five cents per month. The St. Paul Pioneer Press is delivered every morning, the St. Paul Dispatch every evening and the Sunday Pioneer Press and Dispatch on Sunday, all for ten cents per week.

Carriers pay us six cents per week for a subscription, making a profit of four cents per week.

About eighty per cent of our collections are made monthly. Weekly collections are made only in those sections of the city and in certain isolated places where it is much more convenient for the people to pay in that way or much more advisable on account of their financial situation.

The city is divided into five districts and every district has its district manager in charge.

The average age of a boy is seventeen years. The average term of service about two years. St. Paul covers about seventy square miles and we use 220 carriers to cover it.

PAYMENTS BY CARRIERS.

Payments by carriers to the office are made between the first and sixth days of each month and bills must be paid by the sixth, in full. This rule is regularly adhered to and carriers are discharged unless their bills are paid promptly. There is one section of the city, however, which is largely populated by railroad men who receive their pay checks on the fifteenth of the month, and the carriers on the routes in this vicinity are allowed to pay their bills on the twentieth of the month.

My next statement will perhaps surprise some of you, but it is true, nevertheless.

Our carriers are all required to pay for their papers one month in advance and in addition must deposit, upon taking charge of their routes, a sum of money equivalent to two weeks' paper bill.

This last sum is to guarantee good service and behavior. In other words, a carrier with 200 subscribers would have to pay in advance, upon taking his route, $51 to cover one month's paper bill, or four and one-third weeks, and in addition would

Unlimited Display Type without Type Casting Problems

THE LUDLOW TYPOGRAPH does not introduce new problems into the composing room. It is not a complex piece of machinery requiring specialized ability to run it.

It is simply a machine for producing display composition which any compositor can use with as much ease and skill as adjusting a mitering machine.

But with all its simplicity and compactness, it is the only machine that makes Non-Distribution complete and economical. It supplies unlimited Display Type without type casting problems.

The Ludlow Typograph

You should know all about the Ludlow Typograph. Send for Descriptive Literature

MERGENTHALER LINTYPE CO.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

have to put up a cash deposit of $24 or two weeks' paper bill.

At the end of the first month the carrier is credited on his bill for the amount of money he paid in, in this case $51, and if during the month the number of papers which he took out for his subscribers exceeded 200 per day, he will be required to pay for the difference. On the other hand, if he loses subscribers and takes out less than 200 papers per day, he will receive a credit balance and our bookkeeper will apply this on his monthly account.

Under this arrangement we have six weeks' paper bill paid in advance on the first of each month on each carrier, or by the sixth, and at least two weeks' paper bill paid in advance even at the end of the month before the carrier pays his next month's bill in advance.

Naturally we sometimes find it exceedingly difficult to get the right sort of carriers who have sufficient money to pay in advance for their paper bills. This is one disadvantage to our system and sometimes has almost made us doubt the wisdom of adhering to this rule, but it has certain advantages, which are as follows:

First, it insures our getting carriers who mean business, for no carrier is going to pay money in advance unless he does mean business.

Second, it adds a responsibility to our carrier staff and makes the boys feel that they are in a man's size game, and not at child's play.

Third, it insures a retiring carrier teaching the new carrier the route which he has been supplying with papers and guarantees that he will take care of his work and give delivery service.

Fourth, and we must not forget this, many carriers must borrow their money from their parents and in this way we get an active interest and therefore, as a natural consequence, the active co-operation of the parent and this, we all know, is worth thousands of dollars to any newspaper.

In regard to service we can mention starts, stops and complaints.

When a start order is received over the phone, our telephone girls get the telephone number of the subscriber, a start notice is sent to the carrier and after the first delivery should have been made, our city girls telephone the new subscribers and ask them if they received their papers all right. If delivery service has not been made satisfactorily, full information is obtained from the subscriber and the matter is taken up with the carrier and his district manager.

When a subscriber telephones or a start is sent in by mail and the subscriber has no phone at his home address, the start order is made in triplicate. The original goes to the carrier, a duplicate to the district manager and a third copy is kept in the office in carrier order number, by districts and date order.

District men are required to check start orders and to report back to the office upon all start orders within two days of date taken.

When a district manager turns in his copy, the corresponding copy is taken from the file, thus leaving in the file only such start orders as have not yet been reported upon. Any orders more than two days old indicate lack of attention on the part of the district men and act as warning that service is being neglected. District men do not like to see their files loaded with unverified orders and therefore they try to keep up to date in their work.

The city circulator checks up daily with the district managers, in order to see that this work is kept up to date.

Stops are handled in the same way, district managers checking both with the carrier and the subscriber as to the reason for the stop and adjusting difficulties wherever possible.

The advantages of this system are obvious for it insures the carrier starting the paper on time and reduces to minimum the loss in subscriptions due to non-delivery and also because it holds certain subscriptions which were turned in as stops for the reason that the carrier was discourteous to the subscriber, or because he did not give delivery service, or, as is sometimes the case, because the subscriber thought that this was so.

Carriers are required to report complaints promptly within twenty-four hours after receiving same and district managers check complaints where there is any doubt as to the truth of the carrier's statement.

We have a great deal of trouble in keeping up this system for after a certain length of time carriers and men are liable to regard it as merely routine, but we believe that it is routine which is absolutely essential and so we keep at it, varying the monotony as best we can and the thing has worked out successfully, for we are now delivering every morning, over 41,000 home delivery papers by carrier and over 41,000 in the evening and 41,000 on Sunday. This is a city which has about 50,000 English speaking homes.

PUNCH-CARD COLLECTION SYSTEM.

For collections our carriers use the punch card system which seems to be the easiest and the best, when considered all around. We use an ordinary card with dates printed on it and a cheap punch which we buy in lots, the dies of which cannot easily be duplicated.

For promotion we rely mainly on our carriers. We do not use canvassers or solicitors in the city, for I for one, think that ordinarily such procedure is bad for a newspaper for the following reasons:

First, the average solicitor expects temporary employment only. He is not out to win his spurs as our carriers are. He gets the easiest subscribers, for that is about all the average solicitor can get. Therefore he leaves the harder subscribers for the carrier to get.

It is better to encourage carriers to get all the subscriptions. It is unfair to deprive him of the satisfaction which comes from getting new subscriptions and then to rub it in by leaving him only the harder subscriptions to work on. Here in St. Paul we do not tolerate canvassers at all but rely on the carriers. The thing is working out very successfully indeed.

Occasionally we offer prizes to our carriers for extra good work and once a year, we take a number of them to some lake where all their expenses are paid for a week on ten days' outing and where we give them a real good time. This outing costs us quite a little money, but it is an annual outing to our carriers, that is, to the better carriers who have made the best record during the preceding year, and the event is looked forward to with keen anticipation by practically all the boys. We feel that it is mighty good advertising and that the money is well spent.

As a side line, I might state that when the Liberty Bonds were first issued, we encouraged our carriers to collect old newspapers throughout the city. We made arrangements with a paper mill to buy these old papers. The boys collected old papers from their subscribers, our auto trucks took them to certain designat-

Service Banners

Size 15x19 inches. Printed in four colors on heavy enameled stock. Shows large picture of the American flag in colors, with "Our National Anthem" and with special printing in bold type at the bottom.

"A Man From This House Is Fighting For His Country."

Can be given free or offered on campaign plan for five cents. Price $95 per thousand. Many thousands are being used. This banner should be in every home. A custom in other countries; now being adopted here.

Write today for sample.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN

29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums

ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes.

Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

ed corners and we then shipped the papers to the mill, paying our carriers fifty cents per hundred pounds for the amount collected, and urged them to buy Liberty Bonds with the proceeds.

In this way we felt that we were doing two good things. First, conserving the paper supply. Second, encouraging the boys to buy Liberty Bonds.

As I said before, it isn't so much the details of the system that count as the spirit in which one works. Carriers often feel that rules are made to be broken and duties to be shirked and in our experience, the best way to get them to take care of their work, as they should, is to get them into the spirit of the thing, to make them see their work from a broader viewpoint, to make them realize as much as possible the tremendous importance of the work they are doing. In brief, to make them see their work as we see it.

Maybe we forget sometimes that men are little boys grown tall, and that boys are really little men—still small—and that maybe they too can be improved and improved wonderfully if we would only give them an incentive to do the irksome little tasks, time and time again, by making them see their work as they should see it.

And after all, isn't that the best way to handle city circulation?

To put one's heart and soul into the work and pass that same feeling down the line to every carrier on the staff?

Once we get our carriers to take pride in their work and to feel that the eyes of the whole circulation staff are focussed on them as they are delivering papers, just that soon will

The
William L. Betts
Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST SPECIALISTS

Suite 408, World Bldg., NEW YORK

The True News

FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg., NEW YORK

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

the troublesome details of starts, stops, complaints, collections, etc., be reduced to a minimum and be taken care of almost automatically.

When you find a circulation department whose carriers are constantly on the alert for new subscriptions, armed with receipt books and ready to nail the first new subscriber who shows his head above the opposing trenches, just that moment you find a circulation department whose starts, stops, complaints, etc., are handled efficiently.

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Blytheville (Ark.) Courier, published in a town of less than 5,000 population, will award a $2,000 automobile and a free Christmas vacation trip to any point in the nation, besides numerous other cash prizes, in a subscription contest under the management of S. J. Liner.

The American Art News, New York, in co-operation with the Arden Studios, is organizing a comprehensive exhibition of war posters, to open on or about December 2, the proceeds of which will be given to the Red Cross.

The New York American is conducting information bureaus, equipped with questionnaires and information bulletins concerning draft regulations. Various organizations in New York will conduct similar bureaus under the auspices of the American.

Four newspapers in Brown County, Minn., have decided to advance their subscription prices. They are the Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch, the Advance and Free Press of Springfield, and the Sleepy Eye Progressive.

These papers have given notice that they will raise the price from $1.50 to $2 per year. The increase in the price of print paper and all other materials, as well as labor, is the cause of the advance.

The Morton Ross Company has opened a circulation contest on the Jackson (Miss.) Clarion-Ledger under the direction of A. X. Morton.

The Erie (Pa.) Herald Hustler is the latest "junior" to be issued for newspaper carriers.

R. Stewart, circulation manager of the Erie Herald, announces nine awards for carriers in a subscription contest. The carriers of the eastern

HOLLISTER'S CIRCULATION ORGANIZATION

ON THE

St. Louis Republic

AGAIN.

"Results Mean Repeat"

If you want more circulation, write or wire C. B. Hollister, care of ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC

The Northeastern Circulation Co.

Home Office:

DAVENPORT

IOWA

1-Col. Comics

So many have ordered here of late that you, too must need this excellent little service—top-notch as feature and filler.

The International Syndicate

Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

side of the city are competing against those of the western side for a dinner. The contest closes on December 22.

W. K. Patrick, cartoonist for the New Orleans Times-Picayune has invented a brand new parlor game called "Pipe the Duck." The game, which features Patrick's sign manual, a duck, is being distributed by the Times-Picayune.

The Newark (N. J.) Sunday Call, through its correspondents at the training camps, has obtained the names of Newark and Essex lads who have no friends or relatives to remember them at Christmas and is supplying these names to all who wish to send either letters or gifts.

PURCHASERS OF LINOTYPES.

The following have recently bought Linotype machines:

Van Alstyne (Tex.) Leader, Roanoke (Ala.) Leader, North Adams (Mass.) Transcript, Theodore W. Messick, Camden, N. J.; Clarksdale (Miss.) Register, Madison (Wis.) Capital Times, German Press & Plate Company, Cleveland; Springfield (Ky.) Sun, Madison (Neb.) Star-Mail, Lawrenceville (Ill.) News, Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator, Joseph C. Weisman, New York; Crockett (Tex.) Courier, Ordway (Colo.) Leader, Brookville (Pa.) Jeffersonian Democrat, Manito (Ill.) Express, Camden (Ohio) News, Francisco Elias, New York; Croatian News Company, Inc., New York; Galion (Ohio) Inquirer, Canon City (Colo.) Record, Cape Girardeau (Mo.) Republican, Minneapolis Journal, New Haven (Ct.) Register, Dispatch Printer & Binding Corporation, New York; Industrial World, Pittsburgh.

During the past few months six Linotype machines of American manufacture have been purchased in Santo Domingo. Three of these are for Santo Domingo City at the Listin Diario and El Tiempo, and at the printing house of J. R. Viuda Garcia; one in Santiago at El Diario, one in Puerto Plata at Ecos del Norte, and one in La Vega at El Progreso.

G. L. Caswell, editor of the Denison (Ia.) Bulletin, recently celebrated the twentieth anniversary of this ownership of the Bulletin.

R. L. Mariette has sold the Blunt (S. D.) Advocate to M. Claire Beanson, its former owner.

Work has been started on the new home of the Edgerton (Wis.) Eagle.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.

Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you one?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.

NEW LONDON, CONN.

I Get the Money!

J. A. McAVOY

SPECIAL EDITIONS
Weekly Review Pages

National Exchange Bank Building
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

ROMANCE IN A NEWSPAPER OFFICE.

Lawrence P. Barrett, circulation manager of the Rockford (Ill.) Star, has been married to Miss Nan M. Fisher, who has resigned her position as society editor of the Springfield (Ill.) News-Record.

Mr. Barrett was circulation manager of the News-Record up to six months ago and he met Miss Fisher when she came into the editorial department of the News-Record some three years ago.

LAWRENCE P. BARRETT.

A little over a year ago the electric insulation of the office was changed. When the electric conduits were removed a hole was left in the wall between the editorial department and circulation department. This hole happened to be just opposite the circulation manager's desk on one side and the society desk on the other.

A new circuit was established through this breach in the wall, it is reasonable to suppose, judging by the result.

FOR THE SMOKES FUND.

A boxing treat will be tendered at the Olympia Athletic Association in Philadelphia under the auspices of the Sports Editors Association on December 19, and it is expected that as a result $10,000 or more will be added to the national fund to send smokes to the soldiers in France.

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XVII.

THE GREAT ADVANTAGES DERIVED FROM THE WEEKLY UNIT SYSTEM OF OFFICE ACCOUNTING.

BY EDMUND WALKER.
Herald Building, Chicago.

Publishers, as a general rule, regard the month as their unit of operation.

By this I mean that their financial statements are compiled once each month and comparisons are made from one month to the next preceding and to the corresponding month of the next preceding year. A few publishers operate on the weekly unit system, but this has not become the general practice and I wish to demonstrate the great advantages to be derived from such a procedure.

COMPARISONS WORTHLESS BY MONTHLY UNIT.

One of the great advantages of a departmentalized profit and loss account is that the expenses and revenue can be compared with some corresponding period and increases or decreases noted immediately.

To take a specific example, we may say that the profit and loss account of our hypothetical company has just been issued for the month of October and the revenue figures are compared with those of September.

It will be noted that the revenue is less than in September—although business should have been better.

The reason is simple. In September we had five Sunday issues and in October only four—this may be partially offset by the fact that October had thirty-one issues, whereas September had only thirty—but the fact that these differences do occur means that all comparisons must be qualified by an indefinite figure.

Comparisons are worthless if your accountant must state that: "There was one more Sunday in September;" "There was one less working day in September," etc.

THE WEEKLY UNIT SYSTEM.

Apart from making comparisons definite—because there are always exactly seven days in one week and always just one Sunday, there are other great advantages to be derived from the weekly unit of operation.

Even with the largest of our big city dailies, with their great circulations, it should, under proper organization, be possible to obtain by Tuesday night the exact results of the next preceding week's operations up to and including the last Saturday issue.

Sunday's issue would be treated as the first issue or operation of the week.

This means that the financial statement showing the assets and liabilities of the corporation, when presented to the executives on Tuesday night, will be "alive" and not a record of the condition of affairs as they existed a week or two weeks ago.

A balance sheet and a profit and loss account is exactly like "news"—it is "news" and it becomes less and less valuable as it becomes older.

Of what value today is it to you to know your financial condition as at December 31, 1916?

Would it not be more interesting to know your financial condition as at last Saturday night?

Again there is a further advantage. A weekly unit system will articulate with the pay roll—no accruals will have to be calculated, for this expenditure.

And it will be noted that any sudden additional expense is brought to the attention of the executives within three or four days of the time it was incurred.

Leaks cannot go undetected for more than seven days at the most.

Increases in expenses or decreases in revenues are noted when they occur.

CHANGE COMPLICATED TO MAKE.

This article is being addressed especially to the large newspapers—those with circulations of 100,000 or over.

The change will be very intricate to make, but it can be done and with untold advantages to you.

You will of course make your comparisons with last week's figures and with the corresponding week of the next preceding year—each unit will contain exactly the same number of issues—exactly the same days—one Sunday in each.

You have usually been satisfied to compare the entire month of November with the entire month of October. This does not give results quick enough.

The change should not involve any material alteration in the book-keeping now in use, but before such a change is contemplated careful preparation will have to be made and plans definitely laid.

It will be seen that unless you are successful in making the change you will find that another week is on top of you before the first has been cleared up.

Such a change should not be contemplated without your auditor feeling certain that he has absolute control of every section of his department or without assistance from some auditor who has specialized in this one feature of newspaper accounting.

It is very dangerous work—having done it on several occasions I can vouch for the difficulties which will be encountered—you are working against a "dead line" and as invoices are usually rendered to you on a monthly unit basis you will be confronted with many difficulties which do not present themselves when on your present unit of operation.

In spite of these difficulties, however, the results more than justify any trouble taken.

COST SYSTEM ARTICULATES WITH THIS UNIT.

Some of the readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE wrote me, when I described the cost system used, and suggested that certain things appeared unnecessary.

There were certain features of the cost system which were unnecessary if you intended to remain on the old monthly unit basis.

But this system was devised specially for the purpose of being adaptable to the monthly unit basis, but being really intended for the weekly unit basis.

The cost system will not have to be changed at all if you have followed your instructions.

Your pay roll sheets are compiled by the week.

Your edition sheets are grouped by the week.

Your large cost statement sheets will now be operated by the week instead of the month.

You will still "issue invoices" by the month, although advertising revenues will be computed weekly—care must be taken here or your invoices issued to advertisers will not articulate with the revenue taken into the credit of profit and loss.

It is possible to check this, however, at the close of each month. The cost system I have described will not have to be altered at all—your forms are correct in every respect.

THE SMALLER PUBLISHER.

Perhaps I have laid too much stress on the statement that this article applied to the large publisher.

It is, of course, equally applicable to the smaller publisher—in fact, he usually really needs the information a weekly profit and loss account will give him more than the larger newspaper.

But sometimes he is not willing to make this and is content to go along on the monthly basis.

He may not be willing to incur the small expense necessary to make the change, in spite of the manifest advantages.

For the publisher with a circulation of from 10,000 to 15,000, I would strongly recommend that he place his entire business on the weekly unit—issuing invoices by the week and where possible collecting by the week.

With such a system you will find a marked difference in your outstanding accounts receivable.

You are today satisfied if about two months' business is on the books.

With a weekly unit you would reduce this to about two weeks or one-quarter of your present amount.

Bad debts would not represent such a high percentage of your total business as they do today—collections would be quicker and your working capital would be greater.

Advertising accounts should be collected quickly. The advertiser is paying for something he cannot see—you know how you feel when paying for a pair of shoes that you have used and discarded—that is how he feels when paying for your advertising space, even worse than that, because he may not be sure that it did him any good.

That is another reason for the weekly unit.

SHOULD BE CARRIED THROUGH WITH CARE.

Although I have written sixteen articles now for THE FOURTH ESTATE on newspaper accounting and costing—I have never mentioned this change for the reason that it might result in a chaotic condition in your accounting department unless handled with great care and skill.

Several newspaper accountants are following these articles and are installing costing systems from the information herein contained—supplemented by the forms which they can have by asking for them.

To these readers I would ask that you write me first before making this change—because you do not want to make any move which might upset the internal organization of your office.

On the other hand, remember that to give your executive officers every Tuesday night a complete and accurate statement of the business done last week—together with a balance sheet as at last Saturday night will be greatly appreciated by them.

When your business manager approaches the bank he will not do so with a statement which is three weeks old—maybe a month old—it will be a statement issued on the same basis that all banks work on—weekly reports.

More and more business concerns are adopting this unit of operation. All motion picture producers conduct their business with a weekly unit, and many other manufacturers—but publishers have not reached this point yet—although there are a few who are changing over.

I cannot speak too highly of the advantages.

CHICAGO EDITOR HELD.

The home of Stanley Kempinska, editor of a Chicago Russo-Polish daily, has been raided and he, his wife and several aides arrested. The raid was due to the alleged pro-German sympathies of the people involved.

The Ocean Park (Cal.) Journal, the only paper in the Santa Monica Bay District, is now issued in the afternoon instead of the morning.

Making REAL Newspapers Makes Newspapers Grow

Toledo Blade
Largest Two-Cent Evening Circulation in Ohio.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS

October 1, 1912—41,349

October 1, 1917—55,133

Detroit Journal
Indispensable in Covering America's Greatest Manufacturing City.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS

October 1, 1912—75,070

October 1, 1917—107,141

Circulation Guaranteed over 100,000 Net Paid

Newark Star-Eagle
Fastest Growing Newspaper in New Jersey.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS

October 1, 1912—33,281

October 1, 1917—51,213

Circulation Guaranteed over 50,000 Net Paid

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
Managers of National Advertising
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

ADVERTISING IN THE WAR MOBILIZATION.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION WILL TRY TO ASCERTAIN WHY IT HAS NOT FOUND ITS PLACE.

By ALAN C. REILEY,
President of the Association of National Advertisers.

The annual meeting of the Association of National Advertisers, to take place at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, on December 5, 6 and 7, will be in the main a "war meeting," devoted to the discussion of war problems as they affect advertising as an institution and the interests of national advertisers.

This subject has two distinct phases, both of which must and will be kept constantly in mind in all of our deliberations.

The members of the A.N.A. are advertising men—national advertisers. We are also patriotic Americans.

As advertisers we will discuss the war problems as they affect ourselves and our membership companies.

As patriotic citizens, we will discuss these problems as they affect the nation and the needs of the nation at this fateful hour.

We all of us believe that advertising as an institution can, will and must render great service to the nation in the present struggle.

It is also well known to us that in spite of the worthy efforts already made to this end by advertising in-vertisers and advertising as an institution to serve the national cause in some concerted and systematic manner—in other words, not as mere isolated and independent volunteer units, but as an integral part of what I may call the "national service army."

As to how advertising can best serve the Government at this juncture, there is little difference of opinion among advertising men, whether they be buyers or sellers of advertising space. We have clear ideas of what advertising can do in the common cause and of how it can do it.

If this were the only problem I feel safe in asserting that there would be no problem.

The question is an entirely practical one.

How can we best link up with the plans, policies and activities of the Government in order to aid in the carrying out of these plans?

I hope that the discussions of this subject at the coming meeting of the Association of National Advertisers will develop some clear, definite and positive idea on this subject.

AID AD INTERESTS CAN GIVE NATION.

Although the great task before the nation and the aid which advertising interests can furnish in the performance of this task will be fully considered at our annual meeting, the sessions will not be devoted to the discussion of such topics exclusively.

The problems of the individual advertiser and national advertising as an institution are equally vital. These also in the main may be called war questions.

The great war and the conditions created by the war have so completely altered the advertising problem in many of its most important phases that the wisdom of yesterday would be resolved into foolishness if applied to the needs of the present.

The war has not changed the potency of advertising as a marketing force. Nothing could change that short of a complete revolution in the basic laws affecting distribution itself.

We must recognize the fact, however, that marketing conditions have radically changed since the fateful event of last April.

The market itself has changed. It has seemed like a kaleidoscope in the rapidity of its changes and these

FLOYD Y. KEELER,

Chairman Executive Committee A. N. A. terests, that advertising as such has not yet found its place in the "war mobilization" of all the forces of the nation.

Where the fault lies for this condition it is needless to discuss, but the fact is patent and recognized.

We hope that out of our deliberations at this annual meeting will come some definite and feasible plan which will enable national ad-

ALAN C. REILEY,

PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION OF NATIONAL ADVERTISERS.

EDWARD S. BABCOX,

Vice-President of the A.N.A.

changes have necessarily been beneficial to some interests and adverse to others.

In the vast aggregate of interests represented in the Association of National Advertisers we have representatives of both kinds of interests—of those that have benefited and of those that have suffered.

Neither the gains nor the losses which have resulted from the war conditions are likely to be of a permanent character, but the very fact of their transiency constitutes an advertising problem.

Therefore, every advertiser represented in our association, no matter how or in what place the war has hit him, needs to an exceptional extent the help and guidance of those who are dealing with similar conditions.

A.N.A. FOUNDATION IS CO-OPERATION.

The very principle on which the A.N.A. is founded is that of co-operation—not in the economic sense, but in the sense of mutual help and mutual service, and this co-operation is not confined to our membership only or to national advertisers as a class.

It extends also to the other constituents of advertising as an institution, the sellers of advertising, the newspapers, the magazines, the agents and other purveyors of space and service. They also have their prob-

(Continued on Thirty-ninth Page.)

HOW NEW YORK WAS SOLD SECOND LIBERTY BONDS.

INFORMATION FOR AD MEN TO UTILIZE IN PLANNING TO HANDLE THE NEXT BOND ISSUE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Association of New York Advertising Agencies was devoted to the story of the Liberty Loan campaign in the Second Federal Reserve District, authoritatively told by a number of speakers who were in the "thick of the fight." The conduct of the meeting was turned over by Chairman J. A. Richards to Collin Armstrong, chairman of the district board of the National Advertising Advisory Board co-operating with the Liberty Loan Committee of the Second (or New York) Reserve District.

Mr. Armstrong emphasized the purpose of the meeting—namely that the advertising agents should utilize the information imparted not only to advise those who represented the association on the local advisory board, but also to stimulate their enthusiasm and co-operation for the next loan.

As a background for the speakers, Mr. Armstrong stated in terms of the advertising profession that the Liberty Loan Committee, composed of bankers under the auspices of the Federal Reserve Bank, and with Governor Strong of that bank as chairman, was the real principal in the transaction. That committee organized an enormous selling organization throughout New York State, the twelve northerly counties of New Jersey and Fairfield County, Ct., that being the territory of the Second District.

A publicity department was established that included a space division, a copy and order department and a news bureau, this being equivalent to an advertising department and an advertising agency combined.

"Here," said Mr. Armstrong, "was a complete and competent organization to sell one and a half billions of material in thirty days, but without a dollar of appropriation for selling and advertising expense."

"Yet the figures on October 27 showed that the job was done and well done, and some of those who helped to do it have been persuaded to lay aside the modesty of the true soldier to tell you how it was done, so that you all may realize what a stupendous task it was and thereby be inspired to greater enthusiasm and helpfulness in the next campaign."

The first speaker was James F. Curtis, secretary and counsel of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. He explained that previous to the loan campaign the Federal Reserve Bank had no selling organization; that practically all of its business was transacted with the member banks by whom reserve accounts were deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank, and who were also its stockholders.

Therefore their problem was to organize a selling force to sell the billion and a half of bonds, which was the allotment for the Second Federal Reserve District. Under the law the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to use such assistance for selling the bonds as he saw fit, providing everybody had a fair chance to purchase the bonds. He selected the twelve Federal Reserve Banks to act as his agents, and without dictating the procedure, he suggested that committees for conducting the campaign be formed by each bank.

NEW YORK SITUATION DIFFERENT.

Mr. Curtis explained that the organization in this district was somewhat different from those in other districts. His position in the Federal Reserve Bank of this district is secretary and counsel, and he served on the Liberty Loan committee as secretary, or, as he called it, "Liaison Officer." In further explanation of his position Mr. Curtis pointed out that his contact was between the Treasury Department and the Liberty Loan committee. He explained:

"This committee included fourteen of the leading bankers of the city, and the assistant treasurer of the United States. Most of the members had had little personal experience in distributing bonds."

"The committee, therefore, first formed a distribution committee comprising representatives of the large bond houses in the city. It had twenty members and met daily."

ty members and met daily.

"In the first loan campaign the director of publicity was under the committee of publicity, of which Frank Vanderlip was chairman, but under this plan there was found a certain lack of co-ordination. Therefore in the second campaign the publicity committee was abolished, and Guy Emerson made director of publicity; and his publicity work and advertising work was one of the striking features of the campaign."

"In addition to the distribution committee there were organized other committees under the central committee—a committee on national banks, one on state banks, one on trust companies, one on savings banks and another called committee on large investors."

The members of the central committee were mostly presidents of the largest banks in town, and devoted an immense amount of time to the work although of course they were not charged with the actual distribution of the bonds.

COMMITTEES CO-OPERATING.

The Second Federal Reserve District was divided into eight geographical districts.

Each of the latter had a chairman who was a member of the distribution committee, who in turn nominated the local chairman.

Ever community of 400 people had a committee.

Each member of these committees was appointed by Mr. Strong, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank and chairman of the Liberty Loan committee, which necessitated his writing 16,000 letters appointing committee men.

"In addition to these committees there was a woman's committee, which had originally quite a different organization and character. Mrs. W. G. McAduo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, was chairman of the National Women's Liberty Loan and was a great enthusiast. She organized a woman's Liberty Loan committee for the whole country, which appointed a chairwoman for each district and state. Of course, this resulted in the women's committees not coinciding geographically with the men's."

"In the Second Federal Reserve District the women established an office in our building downtown and their efforts consequently ran parallel with those of the men."

"Trade committees, also known as the 'Rainbow Division,' represented possibly the largest effort in the campaign. These committees covered 110 different trades and professions, the idea being to organize along trade lines entirely. There was a splendid spirit of rivalry among these committees which was instilled through the posting of showings or scores daily."

"These committees covered only greater New York and subdivided to cover the various boroughs separately. In addition to the trade committees there was a general metropolitan canvass committee whose members organized a house to house canvass. They used Boy Scouts, women's organizations and various other organizations to make house to house canvasses. The commanding officer at Yaphank sent up interpreters for the foreign language speaking people and their uniforms helped considerably."

"Women also handled booths in department stores and hotels and the Liberty Bank in Madison Square. In all they handled seventy booths and had headquarters at the Columbia Trust Company. The booth committee of men had outdoor booths."

"During the last days of the campaign, a number of motor cars were equipped to sell bonds. The idea of these was to relieve the pressure on the banks."

"During the last three days of the campaign the pressure on the banks was great, particularly toward the close of the banking hours. It was then that cars would line up close to the banks to relieve the work."

"The speakers' bureau was organized to send speakers over the state. They had 2,500 speakers and anyone who wanted a speaker for a meeting could get one. These men also went throughout the whole district speaking. In addition to these were the four-minute men who spoke at movies and theaters."

"The tank and the submarine that were sent from England were Mr. Emerson's ideas, and their shipment was the result of a talk with Lord Northcliffe, who immediately upon receiving the suggestion cabled his request to the British Government. Mr. Emerson arranged to have school teachers of the state instructed on the points to be brought out in talks to school children, who, in turn would pass it on to their parents to add to a clear understanding of the loan. It was estimated that more than 100,000 people gave most of their time to the loan throughout the thirty days of the campaign, and a large number gave half their time."

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.

"November 15 was the date set for the first payment on the bonds. In this connection it was necessary to lay plans so that the money market would not be upset. It was estimated that between seventy-five and eighty per cent of the subscription from this district would be paid in full on the 15th, which would be in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 to be transferred from individual bank accounts to Uncle Sam's bank account."

"On March 1 of this year 175 people were employed in the Second Federal Reserve Bank. This force was added to in order to handle the loan and today 700 people are employed—and all working at high speed."

"The different banks connected with the campaign reported their totals every day. During the entire campaign the money market remained normal. The progress of the loan was slow during the first weeks, and the committee found it was way behind its schedule."

"With respect to the percentage of its quota of subscriptions obtained, the reserve district of New York led all the other districts in the country, the next in line being Richmond. These were the only districts that went over the proportions of the maximum amount of the loan which was arbitrarily set at $5,000,000,000 as a mark to shoot at. The total amount subscribed was $4,600,000,000 and the total amount accepted $3,800,000,000. The co-operation of all on these committees was such that without it, it would have been impossible to make the showing."

"The advertising and publicity work and the newspaper co-operation was a great factor in the success of the campaign. We had an appropriation to defray ordinary expenses, but not a penny for advertising."

ADVERTISING'S PLACE.

Joseph Hartigan, assistant to Publicity Director Emerson, was the second speaker. He said that the problem of the campaign was to reach the pocketbook. He said:

"It was necessary to visualize the booming of the cannon in Europe and have the people hear the echo of the guns as well. The publicity organization decided to try to bring the war home to the people in the Second Federal Reserve District, not only in the attempt to sell bonds, but to sell the war."

"The Federal Reserve Bank has done more to bring this war home to the people than any other patriotic movement during the past two or three years. Advertising men and speakers did not sell the bonds. They were carrying out the edict of President Wilson to make the world safe for democracy."

"Advertising men in this country have as much a duty to perform in the prosecution of the war as any man going into the service as a volunteer or a drafted man. The business of this country is war, and that business will continue just as long as there is a military autocracy in Europe."

"Advertising should be used to bring home the fact that our people are determined to win this war themselves if it takes twenty years."

"We must use the advertising ingenuity of America to bring home to the people of Germany that this 'thing' called America will bring home democracy if it takes their entire lives."

THE NEWS BUREAU.

Mr. Armstrong explained that an (Continued on Twenty-fifth Page.)

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS
and PERIODICALS to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing. Write for particulars.
312-316 East 33d St. NEW YORK

PAPER TROUBLE IS SETTLED.

(Continued from Second Page.)

substitute pleas of nolle contendere, or that form of plea at common law which admits guilt in the case at bar, but excludes the possibility of a conviction under it being used as evidence in any court.

Mr. Hyman submitted a petition and decree embodying all the points at issue in the case and providing for their adjudication, and with them a copy of the agreement, which had been arrived at. Judge Mayer then imposed the fines, which were promptly paid.

MEANING TO PUBLISHERS.

The significance of the Government disposal of the paper case is disclosed in a statement on the part of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, through Frank P. Glass, chairman, who said:

"The settlement in the United States Court in the cases of the several news print paper manufacturers who have been under indictment for violation of the Federal law against combinations in restraint of trade affords cause for congratulation on the part of all concerned. The Department of Justice, the print paper manufacturers and all newspaper publishers are vitally interested and the latter in particular should be pleased.

"The Department of Justice has shown great firmness and sagacity in its attitude of willingness to accept a distinct vindication of the majesty of the law without abnormal rigidity or desire to administer extreme punishment.

"The department has obtained a satisfactory plea from the defendants, and also an admirable agreement for the relief of the newspapers, which have been so seriously affected by the law's violation. And relief is the chief end of the law.

"The manufacturers have shown their reason for law by making terms instead of fighting to a finish. The plea of nolle contendere entered by most of those indicted is the moral equivalent of admission of guilt; difference between it and the general plea of guilt largely relates to the punishment meted out.

"The consent of the manufacturers to the Federal decree involves a specific admission of past disobedience of law and includes a solemn promise of law abiding in the future.

"They have laid the foundation for permanent co-operation with their customers. This course of enlightened self-interest is one they might have had the vision long ago to have adopted in place of one of unreasonable and oppressive profiteering. It is to be hoped that they have finally caught the national pace of big business in patriotic co-operation throughout the war with the Government.

"The publishers of the country will thoroughly appreciate the attainment of the two outstanding purposes of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association has kept in view for eighteen months, namely the establishment of the fact that there has been an illegal combination in the restraint of the print paper trade, and the concession of the necessity of Government fixation of prices.

"The publishers paper committee has been permitted to be in confidential touch for several weeks with the negotiations between the Government and the manufacturers to reach this settlement, and on account of the representative functions of the committee it has been treated with marked consideration by the Department of Justice and also by some of the attorneys of the manufacturers.

"The committee's attitude has been one of earnest helpfulness, without malice and unreasonableness. It has looked to the large end of seeing the situation composed in the most effective ways, honorably for the Government, fairly for the manufacturers, safely and beneficially for the welfare of the publishers. The course of negotiations has been tedious, and at times has appeared critical, but there was a will on all sides and the way has been found.

"In addition to the dissolution of the combination of manufacturers and the establishment of price fixation, the agreement has an incidental feature of great prospective value to publishers—namely, the authority given the Federal Trade Commission to fix the terms of news print contracts, a needed reform which the paper committee has made clear and emphatic for months.

"The present standard contract was made possible by reason of the combination, and it was distinctly a manufacturer's contract with narrowed provisions for the protection of the buyer. The Trade Commission may be expected to make a more judicial form for future use.

"The remedial agreement has been made legally enforceable, the Attorney General of the United States being made trustee for all newspapers. Through his initiative any relief which ought not to be necessary, may be obtained in the future by the newspapers.

"The committee believes that the manufacturers have made this agreement in good faith, and it is not expected that the Attorney General will find it necessary to exercise his function for newspaper protection. However, the machinery is there to be used if the necessity should arise.

"Over three thousand tons of American and Canadian production is included specifically in this agreement, and this is over half the total. That fact together with the unprecedented stocks of paper in the hands of publishers and others, must result in a continuance of the present soft market, and this should establish sooner or later a competitive market with all the natural advantage of that situation both to seller and buyer.

"The maximum price of three cents per pound provided in the agreement is for three months only.

"The Canadian Government has extended its fixed price of two and one-half cents until the latter part of January. Some American manufacturers have recently been closing contracts at that price, and other people under three cents.

"Taken from every standpoint, therefore, the present situation is a violent contrast to that of a year ago, when many publishers large and small were being forced to pay five and six cents in some cases more per pound.

"The committee has the utmost confidence in the competency and judicial temper of the Federal Trade Commission to exercise its power of fixing prices permanently, and it is believed the Commission will again demonstrate those high qualities so fairly that the manufacturers will not be inclined to resort to the provided alternative of Federal judges to review the Commission's actions.

"The Department of Justice probably yielded that feature of the agreement to the manufacturers' attorneys, because in case there had been no necessity for Congressional action, providing price fixation, such a court review would have been legally unavailable.

"The committee hopes that the newspapers of the country will take early opportunity to commend the Department of Justice for its efficiency in this matter, and also to encourage the manufacturers in their new policy of conciliation. The committee is sure that all newspapers will give such aid to the Federal Trade Commission as may be required in its now legally established function of price fixation of news print paper."

THE PAPER PRICE AGREEMENT.

UNDERSTANDING, VERBATIM, BETWEEN COURT AND PAPER MAKERS.

"Between Thomas W. Gregory, the Attorney General of the United States, and the several manufacturers of news print paper.

"This agreement, made this 26th day of November, 1917, between Thomas W. Gregory, the Attorney General of the United States, and his successor, or successors in office, as trustee, acting herein in behalf of each and every individual, firm or corporation publishing a newspaper and using news print paper in his or its business in the United States that now is, or during the life of this agreement shall become a customer of any of the parties of the second part to this agreement, party of the first part, and the undersigned, engaged in the manufacture and sale of news print paper, parties of the second part.

"Witnesseth Whereas, heretofore differences have arisen between the manufacturers and users of news print paper as to the price and terms at which such paper should be sold, and such differences have heretofore been brought to the attention of the Federal Trade Commission; and

"Whereas, the Department of Justice of the United States has instituted, or is about to institute, proceedings in equity under section four of the act of July 2, 1890, entitled an act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraint and monopolies, and

"Whereas it is desirable in the present condition of affairs in the United States that some adjustment of the trade conditions in news print paper should be had, it is agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

"First. The United States may file a petition in equity to enjoin any operations of the News Print Paper Manufacturers Association and of the manufacturers who are members of that association, in so far as such operations are claimed to constitute a restraint of trade. In such proceeding the parties of the second part will consent to a decree as prayed for, reserving the right, at the time such consent to a decree is presented to the court, to make such statements, oral or written, not impairing the binding force of the decree as they are advised may be necessary to protect their interests. The petition may also pray for the dissolution of the News Print Manufacturers Association, and if a request be made to that end, the parties of the second part will consent thereto.

"Second. The price of news print paper on the basis of 24x36 inches in size weighing approximately thirty-two pounds per five hundred sheets, on all new contracts from now to January 1, 1918, and on all contracts in existence on January 1, 1918, or made thereafter, and on all sales and deliveries, in the United States, shall not exceed the following amounts:

"(a) From January 1, 1918, until April 1, 1918, for such news print paper in rolls, $3 per hundred pounds f.o.b. at the mill in car load lots, and $3.25 per hundred pounds f.o.b. at the mill in less than car load lots, and for such news print paper in sheets

$3.50 per hundred pounds f.o.b. at the mill in car load lots and $3.75 per hundred pounds f.o.b. at the mill in less than car load lots. The foregoing subdivision (2a) shall not apply to the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company, nor the Fort Frances Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.; but as to said two companies, the Federal Trade Commission after due hearing and investigation and subject to review as provided in subdivision 2-b, shall fix the just and reasonable maximum prices and terms of contract for said two companies from January 1, 1918, until April 1, 1918, effective January 1, 1918.

"(b) After April 1, 1918, the just and reasonable maximum prices and terms of contracts for the sale of all or any news print paper shall be determined and fixed by the Federal Trade Commission, after due hearing and investigation, subject to review by the circuit judges of the second circuit, who, if of opinion that the prices or terms of contract fixed by the Commission are unjust or unreasonable shall determine what are just and reasonable. Such judge shall have the right to hear any pertinent matter considered by the Federal Trade Commission and additional evidence or matter if it shall be shown to their satisfaction that such additional evidence or matter is material and that there were reasonable grounds for the failure to adduce the same in the proceedings before the Commission. The maximum prices and terms of contract so determined shall continue during the war and for three months thereafter, with the right to any of the parties of the second part or to the Department of Justice to ask the Federal Trade Commission for an investigation and determination of new prices or terms of contract whenever during such period conditions arise which in the opinion of either make it desirable to ask for any change in price or terms of contract, subject to the same right of review. In determining the prices to be effective April 1, 1918, the Federal Trade Commission shall consider all pertinent conditions including those prevailing during the months of January, February and March, 1918, to the end that the prices then announced shall cover the facts as near the time of the effective date of the new prices as is possible.

"Third. The parties of the second part, during the life of this agreement, shall offer their news print paper for sale in accordance with paragraph second hereof. In case of sale by written contract said paragraph shall be embodied therein, either wholly or by sufficient reference thereto; but if any customer of any of the parties of the second part, who is offered paper in accordance with the provision of this agreement, prefers to make or retain a contract for a fixed price for a definite period, and any one of the parties of the second part after duly notifying the Attorney General of his or its intention in the matter, shall make or retain such contract solely in deference to the wishes of the consumer, such agreement so made shall not be construed as a violation of this agreement, even though the price which the consumer pays in furtherance of his own interests is in excess of the prices fixed in this agreement.

"Fourth. The parties of the second part agree that to the extent of their power they will cause such of their news print paper as is ordinarily purchased by the so-called small publishers through the intervention of jobbers, dealers, or other middlemen to be delivered to such small publishers at not to exceed reasonable and just prices and terms of sale to be established by the Federal Trade Commission (subject to review by the circuit judges in the manner aforesaid).

"Fifth. The party of the first part, or his successor in office, as trustee of an express trust, may bring any appropriate action, suit or proceeding in law or in equity to enforce this agreement on behalf of any person, firm or corporation injured or damaged by a violation of the terms hereof, and may proceed by preliminary injunction or otherwise to restrain violations of the terms hereof.

"Sixth. Books of account and records of parties of the second part and of all corporations or other instrumentalities owned or controlled by them shall be open to inspection of the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission during the life of this agreement, upon reasonable notice, in so far as said books and records relate to the manufacture and sale of news print paper.

"Seventh. The liability of the parties of the second part hereunder is several and not joint. Any manufacturer of news print paper may become a party to this agreement by signing the same or a counterpart hereof; all counterparts hereof shall be deemed one and the same instrument.

"In Witness Whereof, each of the parties of the second part has caused its corporate name and seal to be hereunto affixed by its proper officers thereunto duly authorized, and has set after its name the approximate present daily tonnage of news print paper which it is subjecting to the terms of this agreement."

SIGNATURES TO PAPER AGREEMENT.

The following are the signatures to the paper agreement signed on November 26 with the Department of Justice.

It is understood that these various signers used every endeavor to persuade other mills who are not indicated to also sign the agreement, that as much tonnage as possible will be effected.

Other signatures as they are made will be announced from time to time:
International Paper Co.—By Philip T. Dodge, president; 1,100 tons.
Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd.—By George H. Mead, president; 450 tons.
Laurentide Co., Ltd.—By George Chahoon, Jr., president; 215 tons.
Gould Paper Company—By Henry A. Wise, attorney; 80 tons.
Donnacana Paper Company, Ltd.—By H. A. Wise, attorney; 100 tons.
Price Brothers & Company, Ltd.—By W. A. Hofstra, director; 190 tons.
Brompton Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.—By H. A. Wise, attorney; 50 tons.

Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.—By Henry A. Wise, attorney; 180 tons.

Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Ltd.—By John Barton Payne, its attorney; 225 tons.

Kimberly Clark Company—By F. J. Sensenbrenner; 1st vice-president; none.

Minnesota & Ontario Power Company—By E. W. Backus, president.

Fort Frances Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.—By E. W. Backus, president; 350 tons is present daily production of the last two companies, but this will be reduced to 250 during the coming year.

THE ORDER OF THE COURT.

NAMES OF THE ASSOCIATION MEMBERS AND DECREE OF DISSOLUTION.

Following is the court decree ordering the dissolution of the News

Print Paper Manufacturers Association, filed November 26, 1917, in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York:

"United States of America, petitioner, against:

"George H. Mead,
"Philip T. Dodge,
"George Chahoon, Jr.,
"Gordias H. P. Gould,
"Edward W. Backus and Frank J. Sensenbrenner, individual defendants, and "Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Ltd.

"Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.

"Berlin Mills Company,

"J. R. Booth,

"Brompton Pulp & Paper Company,

"Crown-Willamette Paper Company,

"Canada Paper Company, Ltd.,

"Cliff Paper Company,

"Edward Crabtree & Sons, Ltd.,

"Champion Paper Company,

"Cleveland Paper Company,

"Cheboygan Paper Company,

"Consolidated Water Power & Paper Company,

"Donnacana Paper Company, Ltd.,

"Della Paper & Pulp Company,

"E. B. Eddy Company, Ltd.,

"Fitzdale Paper Company,

"Finch, Pruyn & Company,

"Flambeau Paper Company,

"Gould Paper Company,

"Grandfather Falls Company,

"Hennepin Paper Company,

"International Paper Company,

"Itasca Paper Company,

"Kimberly Clark Company,

"Laurentide Company, Ltd.,

"Minnesota & Ontario Power Company,

"Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Company,

"Northwest Paper Company,

"Oswego Falls Pulp & Paper Company,

"W. H. Parsons Company,

"Pettebone-Cataract Paper Company,

"Powell River Company, Ltd.,

"Price Brothers & Company, Ltd.,

"Remington Paper & Power Company,

"Rhinelander Paper Company,

"St. Croix Paper Company,

"St. George Pulp & Paper Company,

"St. Maurice Paper Company, Ltd.,

"St. Regis Paper Company,

"Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd.,

"Targara Paper Company,

"West End Paper Company,

"Watah Pulp & Paper Company,

"Wisconsin River Pulp & Paper Company, corporate defendants.

FINAL DECREE

"This cause came on to be heard at this term and was argued by counsel; and thereupon, upon consideration thereof, and upon the consents hereto in writing and in open court by the defendants, George H. Mead, Philip T. Dodge, George Chahoon, Jr., Gordias H. P. Gould, Edward W. Backus, Alexander Smith, Frank J. Sensenbrenner,

"Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Ltd.; Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd.; Brompton Pulp & Paper Company; Donnacana Paper Company, Ltd.; Gould Paper Company; International Paper Company; Kimberly-Clark Company; Laurentide Company, Ltd.; Minnesota & Ontario Power Company; Price Brothers & Company, Ltd.; and Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd.

"And upon the unanimous resolution of the executive committee of the News Print Manufacturers Association consenting to the dissolution of said association and consenting to this decree, and said consents having been duly given by their respective solicitors to the entry of this decree before any testimony has been taken, it was ordered, adjudged and decreed as to said defendants so consenting, as follows, viz.:

"1. Defendants by becoming and acting as members of the News Print Manufacturers Association have entered into and engaged in an unlawful combination in restraint of trade and commerce in news print paper among the several states and with foreign nations in violation of the Act of July 2, 1890, entitled 'An act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.'

"2. The News Print Manufacturers Association is an unlawful combination of the defendants in restraint of the trade and commerce in news print paper among the several states and with foreign nations, in violation of said Act of July 2, 1890; and said News Print Manufacturers Association shall be and it hereby is dissolved.

"3. Each corporate defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from carrying into further effect the combination hereby dissolved and from entering into or engaging in any like combination having for purpose or effect (a) the elimination or restriction by concert of action of competition in news print paper, or (b) the concerted working for materially higher prices for news print paper, or (c) the establishment by concert of action of uniform prices, terms or conditions for the sale of news print paper, or (d) the concerted working to discourage others from manufacturing news print paper.

"4. Each corporate defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from entering into any combination, agreement, understanding or concert of action with any other corporate defendant or with any other manufacturer of news print paper, having for purpose or effect (a) to limit or restrict itself as to the customers to whom it should sell or offer to sell news print paper; (b) to limit or restrict itself as to the quality or quantity of news print paper it should make or sell; (c) to limit or restrict itself as to the service it should render to its customers or the prices, terms or conditions upon which it should sell or offer to sell news print paper.

"5. The injunction herein contained against the corporate defendants shall apply to, and be binding upon, such corporations and their respective officers, directors, agents and employees, and all other persons, firms or corporations acting under, for or in behalf of them or any of them, or claiming so to act.

"6. Each individual defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from entering into, engaging in, or carrying into further effect, any contract, combination or conspiracy having for purpose or effect to regulate, dominate or restrict the trade or commerce in news print paper of any person, firm or corporation other than the firms or corporations with which such individual defendant is or may be connected as an officer, agent or employee.

"7. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the defendants from entering into and performing a certain contract of even date with the Attorney General of the United States, as trustee, made for the purpose of meeting the emergencies created by existing conditions and by the present state of war in the United States. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed an adjudication for or against the exercise of control by any corporate defendant or any of its subsidiaries as set forth in the petition, nor for or against the right of certain of the defendants or their subsidiaries to avail themselves of the services of the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., or the G. H. Mead Company, or the Minnesota & Ontario Power Company, in the manner and to the extent now being availed of, as set forth in the petition herein.

"8. The court retains jurisdiction to proceed against the defendants not hereby consenting to this decree, and to enforce this decree, and to enable any of the parties to apply to the court for modification hereof, if it be hereafter shown to the satisfaction of the court that by reason of changed conditions or changes in the statute law of the United States the provisions hereof have become inappropriate or inadequate to maintain competitive conditions in the interstate or foreign trade or commerce of the United States in news print paper or have become unduly oppressive to defendants or any of them and are no longer necessary to secure or maintain competitive conditions in such trade or commerce.

"Dated, New York City, New York, November 26, 1917.

"JUDGE MAYES,
"United States District Judge for the Southern District of New York."

WHAT THE GOV'T AIMED TO DO.

THE CHARGES AGAINST EACH OF THE INDICTED DEFENDANTS.

Following is the Government petition filed November 26, 1917, in the District Court of the United States, for the Southern District of New York, against the members of the News Print Manufacturers Association listed in another column under the court's decree.):

PETITION.

"To the Honorable the Judges of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York.

"The United States of America, by Francis G. Caffey, its attorney for said district, acting under the direction of the Attorney General, brings this proceeding in equity against the named defendants and alleges as follows:

DESCRIPTIONS OF DEFENDANTS.

"1. George H. Mead is the president and directing managing officer of defendant Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd., a corporation, and of its subsidiary corporation, the Lake Superior Paper Company, Ltd., and is also president of the G. H. Mead Company, a corporation, of Dayton, Ohio, which acts as exclusive sales agent within the United States of said two corporations and also of defendant Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Ltd., a corporation, and he thereby controls the sale in the trade and commerce among the several States of the United States and with foreign nations of approximately 667 tons of news print paper daily;

"Philip T. Dodge is the president and directing and managing officer of defendant International Paper Company, a corporation which, in addition to its regular output, could produce 500 tons daily of such paper by devoting thereto certain of its plant and equipment appropriate for that purpose, but which for the time was being utilized for other grades of paper, and he thereby controls the sale in such trade and commerce of approximately 1,289 tons a day of such paper, and the power to control the further amount of 500 tons daily;

"Edward W. Backus is the president and directing and managing officer of defendant Minnesota & Ontario Power Company, a corporation, and of its subsidiary corporation, the Fort Frances Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., and what subsidiary corporation avails itself of the service of such Minnesota & Ontario, or its exclusive sales agent in the United States, he thereby controls the sale in such trade and commerce of approximately 350 tons of such paper daily;

"George Chaboon, Jr., is the president and directing and managing officer of defendant Laurentide Company, Ltd., a corporation, and an officer and the manager of sales of the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., a corporation, which acts as exclusive sales agent within the United States of defendants Laurentide Company, Ltd., Price Brothers Company, Ltd., Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., Brompton Pulp & Paper Company, and St. Maurice Paper Co., Ltd., all corporations, and he thereby controls the sales in such trade and commerce of approximately 755 tons a day of such paper;

"Gordias H. P. Gould is the president and directing and managing officer of defendants Gould Paper Company and Donnacona Paper Company, Ltd., all corporations, and he thereby controls the sale in such trade and commerce of approximately 197 tons of such paper daily;

"Alexander Smith is the leading banker within the United States for the flotation and sale of securities of corporations engaged in the manufacture and sale of such paper. Said Smith, and investors whom he represented were largely interested in said Minnesota & Ontario Power Company, said Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd., and its subsidiary, the Lake Superior Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., and the Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Ltd.

"Frank J. Sensenbrenner is vice-president and the directing and managing officer of defendant Kimberly-Clark Company, a corporation which has produced and could produce large quantities of such paper by devoting thereto certain of its plant and equipment formerly used or appropriate for that purpose but which for the time is being utilized for other grades of paper. Said Frank J. Sensenbrenner, through his various connections and financial interests, is one of the most influential men in the news print industry.

"George F. Steele is the secretary and manager of the News Print Manufacturers Association, a voluntary trade association composed of the corporate defendants.

"The foregoing eight defendants are herein called the individual defendants. The following defendants herein called the corporate defendants are each corporation, duly organized and existing under the laws of one of the states of the United States or one of the provinces of the Dominion of Canada, except defendant J. R. Booth; and the names of said corporate defendants, together with their approximate daily tonnage of news print paper and the location of their mills is as follows: (The list follows this petition.)

THE ASSOCIATION.

"2. The News Print Manufacturers Association is a voluntary association formed about April 1, 1915, and composed of all of the corporate defendants under the management of the individual defendants. Its officers are located at 18 East 41st street, in the Borough of Manhattan, Southern District of New York. Said Association has no constitution, by-laws, nor minutes of proceedings. The defendants Mead, Dodge, Chaboon, Gould and Backus constitute the executive committee of the association, of which defendant Mead has been chairman and defendant Steele has been secretary.

"Defendant Smith acted in all respects as a member of said executive committee, though not formally a member.

"Defendant Sensenbrenner, located at Neenah, Wis., acted as the Western adviser for the executive committee and participated in the activities of the executive committee in the West. The corporate defendants, members of the News Print Manufacturers Association, filed with said association at regular intervals full and complete information and data concerning their contracts with their respective customers, the quantity of news print paper manufactured and sold by them in relation to their scheduled capacity, the quantity of news print paper carried by them in stock, samples of the quality of news print paper manufactured by them from time to time, and other details of their several businesses either at regular intervals or when called for from time to time by the individual defendants.

"3. Continuously since April 1, 1915, the grade of paper called in the trade news print paper, principally used by newspaper publishers for the printing of their publications, has been manufactured in large quantities, by a great number of manufacturers at their several places of manufacture located in divers of the states of the United States and in divers provinces of the Dominion of Canada; such paper has been sold by such of said manufacturers as were located in the United States, and by them shipped, in pursuance of such sales, over the lines of common carriers serving their said places of manufacture, into other states than those wherein such paper so sold and shipped was manufactured, and into foreign countries, to wit, European, Australian and South American countries, to consumers of and dealers in such paper in such states and foreign countries, and has been so shipped to such other states to agents of such manufacturers for sale in such states to consumers and dealers and those in other states and in such foreign countries; such paper has been sold by such of said manufacturers as were located in the Dominion of Canada, and by them shipped, in pursuance of such sales, over the lines of common carriers serving their said places of manufacture, into the United States, to consumers of and dealers in such paper, and has been so shipped by said last mentioned manufacturers to agents of those manufacturers in the United States for sale to consumers and dealers in the United States and in such other foreign countries.

"The total daily output of such paper in the United States and Canada so sold and shipped as aforesaid has been approximately 6,300 tons, of the approximate value of $250,000, of which approximately 5,600 tons daily, of the approximate value of $225,000, have been so manufactured, sold and shipped by the corporate defendants at and from the places and in the approximate quantities indicated in connection with their description set forth in paragraph one hereof.

"Approximately 1,000 tons of said paper so manufactured, sold and shipped by the corporate defendants has been so sold and shipped daily from their said places of manufacture into said Southern District of New York.

"Thereby the corporate defendants throughout said period of time have been carrying on trade and commerce among the several states of the United States and with foreign nations within the meaning of the Act of Congress approved July 2, 1890, entitled 'An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.'

"4. Continuously since April 1, 1915, the corporate defendants have been, and still are, engaged in an unlawful combination in restraint of their said trade and commerce, which combination has been and is managed by the individual defendants, who have been constituted into a committee or body for regulating the trade and commerce of all of the corporate defendants, with the object of requiring, inducing and coercing each corporate defendant to carry on its said trade and commerce subject to such regulations, rules and decisions as the individual defendants should prescribe and announce from time to time, with the purpose and intent of eliminating or restricting competition in the sale of news print paper and of concertedly working for materially higher prices and of concertedly establishing uniform terms and conditions of sale in such trade and commerce.

"5. Said regulations, rules and decisions consisted in requiring: the corporate defendants in carrying on their said trade and commerce, (a) to refrain from competing with each other for new customers for their paper; (b) to refrain from competing with each other as to the quality of paper to be sold in said trade and commerce; (c) to refrain from competing with each other as to delivery of, and furnishing storage for, paper sold but not delivered; (d) to refrain from competing with each other as to terms of credit, rate of interest upon open accounts, the dates of the beginning and ending of contract years, the methods of making sales of such paper through salesmen, dealers and jobbers, the payment of return freight upon the cores upon which their paper should be wrapped, payment of charges for cartage and allowing of claims for waste or damaged paper; (e) to engage in simultaneous representations to the public, to their customers and to each other, of alleged increased cost of manufacture and of alleged shortages of such paper; (f) to manufacture insufficient quantities of such paper; (g) to co-operate in discouraging the erection of new mills or the installation of new machinery for the manufacture of such paper; (h) to co-operate in preventing new concerns from competing with the corporate defendants by transferring orders and contracts for such paper to such new concerns on condition that such new concerns should not compete with the corporate defendants; (i) to co-operate in preventing other manufacturers of news print paper from competing with the corporate defendants; (j) to furnish from time to time to said News Print Manufacturers Association, at 18 East 41st street, in the Borough of Manhattan and in said Southern District of New York, for the information of the individual defendants, full and complete information and data concerning their contracts with their customers and the quantity of such paper manufactured, carried in stock or sold by them in relation to the capacity of their several plants and other details of their several businesses.

"6. The corporate defendants submitted to such regulations, rules and decisions, in the carrying on of their said trade and commerce, notwithstanding the fact that because the corporate defendants were independent of each other, they should, and, but for said unlawful combination, they would, have competed freely and fully with each other as to all said matters, and should and would have conducted their said trade and commerce free from such regulations, rules and decisions.

"7. The defendants, by the foregoing and similar combinations, agreements, understandings, methods and conspiracies, have engaged in a combination in restraint of the trade and commerce among the several states and with foreign nations in news print paper, and unless enjoined by this honorable court, will continue to restrain said trade and commerce, contrary to the Act of July 2, 1890, entitled 'An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.'

"Wherefore your petitioner prays that writs of subpoena issue out of this honorable court, under the seal thereof, directed to said defendants and each of them, commanding them, at a certain time and under a certain penalty, to be therein specified, to be and appear before Your Honors in this honorable court, and then and there full and true and perfect answer make unto this petition, but not under oath, answer under oath being hereby expressly waived, and to stand to, and abide by and perform all and singular the orders and decrees of this honorable court in the premises.

"And your petitioner further prays for a final decree against the defendants, as follows:

DECREE ASKED FOR.

"1. Defendants have entered into and engaged in an unlawful combination in restraint of trade and commerce in news print paper among the several states and with foreign nations in violation of the Act of July 2, 1890, entitled 'An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies.'

"2. The News Print Manufacturers Association is an unlawful combination of the defendants in restraint of the trade and commerce in news print paper among the several states and with foreign nations, in violation of said Act of July 2, 1890; and said News Print Manufacturers Association shall be, and it hereby is, dissolved.

"3. Each corporate defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from carrying into further effect the combination hereby dissolved and from entering into or engaging in any like combination having for purpose or effect (a) the elimination or restriction by concert of action of competition in news print paper, or (b) the concerted working for materially higher prices for news print paper, or (c) the establishment by concert of action of uniform prices, terms or conditions for the sale of news print paper, or (d) the concerted working to discourage others from manufacturing news print paper.

"4. Each corporate defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from entering into any combination, agreement, understanding or concert of action with any other corporate defendant or with any other manufacturer of news print paper, having for purpose or effect (a) to limit or restrict itself as to the customers to whom it should sell or offer to sell news print paper; (b) to limit or restrict itself as to the quality or quantity of news print paper it should make or sell; (c) to limit or restrict itself as to the service it should render to its customers or the prices, terms or conditions upon which it should sell or offer to sell news print paper.

"5. The injunctions herein contained against the corporate defendants shall apply to, and be binding upon, such corporations and their respective officers, directors, agents and employees, and all other persons, firms or corporations acting under, for or in behalf of them or any of them, or claiming so to act.

"6. Each individual defendant is hereby perpetually enjoined from entering into, engaging in, or carrying into further effect, any contract, combination or conspiracy having for purpose or effect to regulate, dominate or restrict the trade or commerce in news print paper of any person, firm or corporation other than the firms or corporations with which such individual defendant is or may be connected as an officer, agent or employee.

"7. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the defendants from entering into and performing a certain contract of even date with the Attorney General of the United States, as trustee, made for the purpose of meeting the emergencies created by the combination herein dissolved and by the present state of war in the United States. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed an adjudication for or against the exercise of control by any corporate defendant of any of its subsidiaries as set forth in the petition, nor for or against the right of certain of the defendants or their subsidiaries to avail themselves of the services of the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., or the G. H. Mead Company, or the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company in the manner and to the extent now being availed of, as set forth in the petition herein.

"8. The court retains jurisdiction to proceed against the defendants not hereby consenting to this decree, and to enforce this decree and to enable any of the parties to apply to the court for modification hereof, if it be hereafter shown to the satisfaction of the court that by reason of changed condition or changes in the statute law of the United States the provisions hereof have become inoperative or inadequate to maintain competitive conditions in the interstate or foreign trade or commerce of the United States in news print paper or have become unduly oppressive to defendants or any of them and are no longer necessary to secure or maintain competitive conditions in such trade or commerce.

"And your petitioner further prays for a temporary injunction until the final hearing and determination of this cause, restraining the defendants from doing or attempting to do or threatening to do any of the acts which your petitioner prays may be finally permanently enjoined.

"And your petitioner further prays for such other and further relief, final or interlocutory, touching the matters set forth herein as in equity and in conscience to Your Honors shall seem just and meet.

"And as in duty bound your petitioner will ever pray.

"FRANCIS G. CAPPEY.

"United States Attorney in and for the Southern District of New York.

"THOMAS W. GREGORY,

"Attorney General.

"G. CARROLL TODD,

"Assistant to the Attorney General.

"HERBERT C. SMYTH,

"MARK HYMAN,

"Special assistants to the Attorney General."

THE PRICE FIXING SIGNIFICANCE.

PAPER CASE MAY HAVE WIDE INFLUENCE ON OTHER LINES OF BUSINESS.

While members and employees of the News Print Manufacturers Association, which was dissolved by court decree on November 26, are preparing for a wind-up of the business of the association, lawyers and corporation heads are discussing the significance and probable ultimate effects of the agreement between the Government and the news print manufacturers by which the paper situation was settled.

The New York Times gathered the following facts on that phase of the matter:

Two features of the agreement and court action based upon it were generally considered as especially important to the country at large, as distinguished from the news print paper industry.

These were the establishment in law of the illegality of the so-called open competition associations when they have the effect of restraining trade and the court recognition of the Federal Trade Commission as a maximum price fixing body for manufacturers and their customers.

Mark Hyman, one of the special assistants to the Attorney General who represented the Government in the action against the news print manufacturers and in the agreement, said that, in his opinion, the court decree abolishing the News Print Manu-

SIGNERS OF THE THREE-CENT NEWS PRINT AGREEMENT.

The names of the corporate defendant members of the News Print Manufacturers Association signing the three-cent price agreement, together with their daily tonnage of news print paper, as approximated by the Government petition, and the location of their mills are as follows:

Name of Concern.	Daily Tonnage.	Location of Mills
Abitibi Power & Paper Co., Ltd.	225	Iroquois Falls, Ont.
Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Co.	150	Shawinigan Falls, Que.
Berlin Mills Co.	100	Berlin, N. H.
J. R. Booth	125	Ottawa, Ont.
Brompton Pulp & Paper Co.	65	East Angus, Que.
Crown-Willamette Paper Co.	300	West Linn, Ore.; Camas, Wash.
Canada Paper Co., Ltd.	40	Windsor Mills, Que.
Chiff Paper Co.	20	Niagara Falls, N. Y.
Edw. Crabtree & Sons, Ltd.	22	Crabtree Mills, Que.
Champion Paper Co.	37	Carthage, N. Y.
Cleveland Paper Co.	14	Cleveland, Ohio.
Cheboygan Paper Co.	20	Cheboygan, Mich.
Consolidated Paper & Paper Co.	120	Grand Rapids, Wis.
Donnacona Paper Co., Ltd.	100	Donnacona, Que.
De La Paper & Pulp Co.	32	Sau Claire, Wis.
E. B. Eddy Co., Ltd.	55	Hull, Que.
Fitzdale Paper Co.	39	Fitzdale, Vt.
Finch, Prunty & Co.	100	Glens Falls, N. Y.
Flambeau Paper Co.	20	Park Falls, Wis.
Gould Paper Co.	64	Lyons Falls, N. Y.
Grandfather Falls Co.	35	Merrill, Wis.
Hennepin Paper Co.	30	Little Falls, Minn.
International Paper Co.	1,289	Glens Falls, Post Edward, Palmer, Niagara Falls, Ticonderoga and Watertown, state of New York; Chisholm, Orono, Me.; Berlin, N. H.; Bellows Falls and Wilder, Vt.
Itasca Paper Co.	25	Grand Rapids, Minn.
Kimberly-Clark Co.	81	Appleton, Kimberly, Neenah, Niagara, Wis.
Laurentide Co., Ltd.	200	Grand Mere, Que.
Minnesota and Ontario Power Co.	350	International Falls, Minn., and Fort Frances, Ont.
Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co.	20	Port Edwards, Wis.
Northwest Paper Co.	100	Cloquet and Brainerd, Minn.
Oswego Falls Pulp & Paper Co.	25	Fulton, N. Y.
W. H. Parsons Co.	132	Brunswick and Lisbon Falls, Me.
Pettebone Cataract Paper Co.	25	Niagara Falls, N. Y.
Powell River Co., Ltd.	225	Powell River, B. C.
Price Bros. & Co., Ltd.	220	Jonquiere and Kenogami, Que.
Remington Paper & Power Co.	152	Raymondville, Norfolk and Norwood, N. Y.
Rhineland Paper Co.	24	Rhineland, Wis.
St. Croix Paper Co.	121	Woodland, Me.
St. George Pulp & Paper Co.	22	Norwalk, Ct.; and St. George, Que.
St. Maurice Paper Co., Ltd.	100	Three Rivers, Que.
St. Regis Paper Co.	145	De Feret, N. Y.
Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills	444	Espanola, Sault Ste. Marie and Sturgeon Falls, Ont.
Taggart Paper Co.	20	Felt Mills, N. Y.
West End Paper Co.	25	Carthage, N. Y.
Watab Pulp & Paper Co.	45	Sartell, Minn.
Wisconsin River Pulp & Paper Co.	55	Stevens Point, Wis.

8,755

It is understood that the various signers used every endeavor to persuade other mills that were not indicted to also sign the agreement so that as much tonnage as possible will be affected. Other names will be added to this list as soon as announced.

facturers Association would have the effect of causing directors to modify many other open competition associations now acting to restrain trade, and would, in addition, give the Government a sound basis of action against any such associations which continued to operate illegally.

He pointed out that the decree had been admitted as having a foundation in law by several of the leading corporation lawyers of the city, and this gave it a standing among the members of the bar which would be generally recognized.

The News Print Manufacturers' Association, as do similar organizations in various industries, represented the latest method adopted by manufacturers to control their market, according to the Government's contention.

When the first "trust busting" activities of the Government directed against the great corporations were successful, manufacturers seeking a new way to do an old thing made formal agreements among each other as to prices, output and distribution of products. Mr. Hyman said:

The Government broke up these formal agreements as illegal, he went on, and then pooling agreements, according to which manufacturers paid certain sums of money into a pool and forfeited their stake if they became independent as to prices, etc., began to be heard of.

The Government put an end to the pooling agreements, and then came arbitration agreements, under which a man employed by manufacturers went from place to place to investigate and determine the prices and conditions that should govern the selling of products.

When the arbitration agreements had been declared illegal, some manufacturers devised the system of selling their products through an agent who would apportion his sales among them.

Such selling schemes had their short day before falling before the law, and the next and latest development was the informal agreement among manufacturers which in the popular mind is represented by the famous "Gary Dinner," although Judge Gary has denied without successful contradiction by the Government that the dinner over which he presided was a price-fixing occasion.

The News Print Manufacturers Association, according to the Government, was a "Gary dinner" kind of an organization.

The allegation upon which the decree for its dissolution was based was that the executive committee of the association held secret and informal meetings at which no minutes were kept but at which a small group of men who knew each other well discussed their industry and verbally agreed as to how it should be controlled in the interests of the manufacturers.

The results of these agreements, the Government charged, were distributed among the members of the association who, though under no stated compulsion to abide by the decisions as to prices, production, and distribution, acted in what they considered their own best interest and did so.

The dissolution of the association was the first instance of Government success against this particular kind of "open competition association," and so established a precedent of importance. Mr. Hyman pointed out, however, that many industrial associations of manufacturers and others, formed for the purpose of advertising, research work and mutual co-operation in such things as patents, were perfectly legal and distinctly beneficial.

The only associations which need fear the law, he said, were those which had the effect of restraining trade, whether this was their expressed purpose or not.

Herbert C. Smyth, who was also a special assistant to the Attorney General in the case against the paper manufacturers, emphasized the importance of the court recognition of the Federal Trade Commission as a price-fixing body.

He said that the commission appeared for the first time as a fixer of a maximum price to govern an open market. The first price regulation by the commission came when it advised purchasing war boards what prices they should pay for their products.

Now the commission has been empowered to fix maximum prices for news print paper as between manufacturers and customers in general.

This granting of authority to the commission was by agreement, but, Mr. Smyth said, if the public came to look upon the commission as a price-fixing body, the time when the commission would be authorized by Congress to fix maximum prices in any industry would be brought nearer.

TRADE BOARD'S RESPONSIBILITY.

WAYS AND MEANS OF FIXING COST OF PRODUCTION IS YET TO BE STATED.

New importance attaches, in view of the decree just signed in New York by Judge Mayer, to the Federal Trade Commission's continuing investigation of the cost of news print manufacture.

Here, indeed, is the crux of the present situation.

The three-cent price agreed upon in the compromise between the Government and the indicted members of the News Print Manufacturers Association is to hold for only four months and President Backus of the Minnesota & Ontario and Fort Francis Companies, would fain have the Trade Commission undertake price fixing beginning with January 1, 1918.

With such a swinging into the line on the part of leading paper producers in favor of price fixing by the Trade Commission—price fixing that would presumably be subject to revision from time to time in accordance with changing raw material prices and cost of manufacture—the utmost importance attaches to the Trade Commission's ways and means of figuring cost of production.

In this same connection significance attaches to the new working agreement between the Trade Commission and Paper Controller Pringle of Canada, whereby there will be an exchange of information on costs and cost-accounting methods.

The three-cent price which has been fixed for the first quarter of 1918 reflects the conviction of the Trade Commission experts that the cost of news print production has advanced over the estimate made as the outcome of the investigation made at the behest of the United States Senate.

Months ago, the news print experts at the Trade Commission confided to THE FOURTH ESTATE that if the price for paper was to be set then, instead of at the earlier date at which it was fixed, the probabilities were that it would be nearer three cents than 2.50 cents.

Now, it is understood the news print manufacturers will under the special permission conferred in the New York court, endeavor to persuade the Trade Commission before April 1 that even the three-cent rate is lower than present conditions warrant.

Herein lies one explanation, too, of the extra strenuous effort that is just now being made in Canada to convince the authorities that the cost of producing pulp and paper in the Dominion is higher than the newspaper proprietors believed it to be.

Every point that can be scored by American or Canadian paper producers will mean dollars in pocket to them no matter whether the price fixing of the Federal Trade Commission is under specific authority from Congress or merely, as at present, in accordance with mutual agreement with paper interests.

It is understood that the working out of all details for the operation of the compromise effected in New York will be left to the Federal Trade Commission, but at this writing the Commission

As matters stand the Trade Commission has its working plan for paper administration under the three-cent agreement only tentatively framed and will make no announcement of details until there has been opportunity to digest the compact made in New York.

It is admitted that there are many loose ends to be caught up—many features not disposed of in the New York agreement.

These embrace the disposition of paper now in the hands of manufacturers and dealers; paper under contract at prices in excess of three cents; paper yet due for delivery under the 2.50 cent price arrangement, etc.

Then, too, there is the effect of the new deal upon concerns that were not involved in the New York case, but that have been allowing the Trade Commission to allot their output.

It was stated to THE FOURTH ESTATE at Trade Commission headquarters this week that the Commission has not yet passed on these incidental problems and that the Commissioners have not yet made up their minds what disposition should be made of these issues.

Readjustment of print paper prices and distribution of stocks were turned over on November 23 to the Federal Trade Commission by the Department of Justice. Commissioner W. B. Colver and Dr. E. O. Merchant, who were in charge of the investigation of the industry, immediately began preparations to carry out the agreement reached with indicted manufacturers at New York several days ago. Before a price is fixed and a system of equitable distribution arranged, it is probable that hearings will be held, possibly in different parts of the country.

Canadian prices and supply, which were considered by the commission at recent conferences here with Robert Pringle, the Dominion's paper commissioner who possesses dictatorial powers as to price, probably will be considered by Commissioner Colver, who by agreement now has virtually the same powers as the Canadian commissioner.

THE SOLID SUNNY SOUTH

Tremendous Wave of Prosperity is Sweeping Over the Fair Land of Dixie.

PROSPERITY is rampant in the South! There's plenty of work—plenty of money! Banks are overflowing and complain of a lack of borrowers.

The value of the South's agricultural output in 1917 will be more than SIX BILLION DOLLARS—or a gain of ONE AND A HALF BILLION DOLLARS over 1916!

Of the 73 new United States army camps, the thirty-three established in the South are adding untold millions to Dixieland's prosperity. These camps benefit everybody—the men who build the cantonments; farmers, truckers and provision dealers who supply army commissaries; storekeepers, hotels, boarding house keepers, amusement place proprietors, etc., who cater to the soldiers and their families.

A better time for Southern advertising campaigns can hardly be imagined and the Southern daily newspapers are the Southerners' favorite periodicals.

For full information as to areas of distribution, circulation rates, etc., address any of the following publications, all of which are members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association:

ALABAMA.	NORTH-CAROLINA.
Birmingham Age-Herald	Asheville Times
Birmingham News	Charlotte News
Gadsden Journal	Concord Daily Tribune
Mobile Register	Greensboro News
Montgomery Advertiser	Rocky Mount Telegram
Montgomery Journal	Wilmington Dispatch
	Wilmington Star
	Winston-Salem Journal
ARKANSAS	SOUTH CAROLINA.
Little Rock Democrat	Anderson Daily Mail
	Charleston News and Courier
	Columbia State
	Greenville News
	Spartanburg Herald
	Spartanburg Journal
FLORIDA.	TENNESSEE.
Jacksonville Times-Union	Chattanooga News
Miami Herald	Chattanooga Times
Miami Metropolis	Knoxville Journal and Tribune
St. Augustine Record	Knoxville Sentinel
St. Petersburg Independent	Nashville Tennessean and American
Tampa Times
GEORGIA.	TEXAS.
Albany Herald	Beaumont Enterprise
Atlanta Constitution	Beaumont Journal
Atlanta Georgian and Sunday American	Ft. Worth Star-Telegram
Atlanta Journal	Galveston News
Augusta Herald
Macon Telegraph	VIRGINIA.
Savannah News	Lynchburg News
KENTUCKY
Lexington Herald
Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times
LOUISIANA.
New Orleans Item

(Prepared by the Massengale Advertising Agency, Atlanta.)

TRIBUTE TO FRANK P. GLASS.

ASSOCIATES EXPRESS THEIR APPRECIATION OF HIS LEADERSHIP.

The following tribute was paid to Chairman Frank P. Glass on the settlement of the paper case by his associates on the A.N.P.A. paper committee:

"To the Members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association:

"For twenty months the executive committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers Association has been as follows: Frank P. Glass of the Birmingham News, chairman; Elbert H. Baker of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and Emil M. Scholz of the New York Evening Post.

"Now that the chief objective of the committee has been brought to a successful issue through the splendid adjustment of the paper situation the undersigned feel they would be delinquent in their duty if they did not make this testimonial of appreciation of the resourceful, tireless and unrelenting efforts of Chairman Frank P. Glass.

"Such an exhibition of unselfish devotion to the common interests of American newspaper publishers deserves appreciation. During the months that Mr. Glass worked ardently for fair play for the newspapers, abuse was heaped upon him at every opportunity. Those opposed to the work of the committee lost no opportunity to nullify his efforts.

"Mr. Glass not only gave his time unsparingly, but at great financial sacrifice as well. A concerted effort was made to punish his newspaper for his activity and to use that fact as a warning to others. Members will recall a meeting in Chicago last spring when an attempt was made by the manufacturers to have a new committee appointed.

"Notwithstanding flank attacks Mr. Glass held the committee to the course of the main objects, which are now achieved. Never during the long months of the campaign did he let personal interests interfere with his battle for justice and fair play.

"If he had failed he would have still deserved credit for his superhuman efforts, but he won what he set out to do, and in the achievement of the new understanding between the Government, the manufacturers and publishers he has performed a patriotic duty and earned the eternal thanks of every American newspaper.

*"ELBERT H. BAKER,
"Publisher (Cleveland Plain Dealer.
"EMIL M. SCHOLZ
"Publisher New York Evening Post."*

Franklin Potts Glass, vice-president of the A.N.P.A., is editor-in-chief of the Birmingham (Ala.) News. He was born in 1858 in Centerville, Ala., and did his first newspaper work in 1880, when he founded the Bibb (Ala.) Blade. He bought the Selma (Ala.) Daily Times in 1881 and five years later bought a half interest in the Montgomery Advertiser, of which he was general manager until August, 1915. He became editor-in-chief of the Birmingham News in 1910 and is vice-president of the company which publishes the News.

Mr. Glass was nominated to the United States Senate in 1913, to fill out an unexpired term, but the Senate declined to seat him on the ground that the governor had no right of appointment under the existing statutes of Alabama.

PAPER PRICES FOR 57 YEARS.

The prices at which news print paper has been sold during the last fifty-seven years—from 1860 to 1917—are shown by the following table:

Year	cents	pound
1860	8.3
1861	7.6
1862	17.
1863	33.13
1864	12.
1865	12.6
1866	17.2
1867	16.
1868	14.6
1869	12.3
1870	12.3
1871	12.1
1872	12.
1873	11.2
1874	8.6
1875	8.6
1876	8.3
1877	8.3
1878	6.46
1879	6.
1880	6.9
1881	6.46
1882	6.
1883	5.73
1884	5.5
1885	5.2
1886	4.77
1887	4.16
1888	4.
1889	3.875
1890	3.4
1891	3.125
1892	2.91
1893	2.75
1894	2.34
1895	2.26
1896	2.26
1897	1.8
1898	1.8
1899	1.8
1900	1.8
1901	1.8
1902	1.9
1903	2.05
1904	2.
1905	2.
1906	2.
1907	2.
1908	2.10
1909	2.25
1910	2.25
1911	2.25
1912	2.25
1913	2.25
1914	2.15
1915	2.15
1916	2.16
1917	2.35
1917-18	2.

COMMENT BY THE PUBLISHERS.

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times:
"I am glad that a settlement has (Continued on Twenty-fourth Page.)

TWENTY-YEAR HISTORY OF PAPER CONTROVERSY.

YEARS 1916-17 NOT ONLY DISAGREEABLE TIME, BUT IT WAS THE MOST STRENUOUS.

While the controversy between the publishers and the news print paper manufacturers leading directly to the agreement of November 26, 1917, fixing the price of paper at three cents for the next four months and allowing the Federal Trade Commission to set prices thereafter until three months from the end of the war, has been of about a year and a half duration, from the carefully preserved American Newspaper Publishers Association records it is learned that 1916-17 was not the first time the newspaper publishers and paper manufacturers were at odds.

The use of improved machinery and methods seemed to have caused a downward tendency in the price of news print during the eighteen years preceding 1898, which year saw the incorporation of the International Paper Company, with a capital stock of $55,000,000 and composed of twenty-four (subsequently increased to thirty) of the largest mills in the country and controlling eighty per cent of the total output.

During the same year the A. N. P. A. appointed a committee to investigate the "Paper Trust." The year 1899 saw a joint High Commission endeavoring to adjust differences between the United States and Canada, and it was at that time suggested that the $6 duty on news print and $1.67 on pulp, provided by the Dingley Bill, be abolished so that competition with the trust might ensue. (Previous to the passage of the Dingley Bill in 1897 the tariff on paper was fifteen per cent ad valorem and on pulp ten per cent.)

At the annual convention of the A. N. P. A. during 1900 resolutions were adopted urging Congress to inquire into the price of news print, which had been "arbitrarily increased in price from 60 per cent to 100 per cent without reason or warrant to be found in the conditions of the industry itself."

During the same year it is found in the A. N. P. A. Bulletins that "The International Paper Company, a trust, controls nine-tenths of the supply of the United States and that prices are forced sixty per cent above former prices and forty per cent higher than prevailing prices in Canada."

ECONOMIES PRACTISED DURING 1900.

It is interesting to note that during this same year, for the purpose of combatting the trust, newspapers were trying most of the methods of economy practiced today, such as abolishing returns, co-operative buying and increase of subscription and selling price.

During this same year the Great Northern Paper Company was organized for the purpose of combatting the "trust" and trust prices.

The year 1900 was a memorable one because the General Paper Company, a consolidation of twenty-five mills in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, was also organized to secure control of the Western market and compete with trust prices.

During 1904 suit was started against the General Paper Company, and the following year the attorney-general of Wisconsin served it with an order to show cause why it should not be dissolved. Ordered to produce its books in court, it refused to do so or to answer questions, with the result that in 1905 Messrs. McNair, Nelson and Bossard were sentenced for contempt, appealed, and were subsequently fined.

In 1906 the General Paper Company was dissolved because of violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Federal authorities were sustained by the courts on all points. Following the unscrambling its various tentacles resumed business at their own stands.

THE SQUEEZE OF 1907.

Until the fall of 1907 the average price for news print, delivered, in the Eastern freight zone, was $40.17 per ton and the lowest price $38 per ton (Report of Tariff Board 1911).

During August of that year, however, paper salesmen were actively spreading reports of a paper famine and high prices. Quotations shifted in seeming concert of action from $38 to a minimum of $50 per ton and many publishers feared they would be unable to secure paper at any price. Consumers had reason to fear an increase of price to $60.

The famine was artificial and was caused, in part, by a speculator connected with the paper trade tying up over $1,000,000 worth of the product. Manufacturers are alleged to have connived at the scheme to their own profit.

The situation was so serious that the A. N. P. A. held a special convention during September which was attended by hundreds of publishers, at which steps were taken to break the artificially created prices which eventually resulted in a reduction of the $6 tariff to $3.75 and subsequently to its abolition on October 3, 1913.

Certain manufacturers pointed to the abolition of the duty in 1913 as the cause of the recent situation and as a justification for taking the last pound of flesh while the publishers contended, the primary cause, to which they shut their eyes, was to be found in their practices of 1907.

FROM 1913 TO 1916.

From 1913 to the spring of 1916 the prevailing market price was around $38 per ton f. o. b. mill. Lower sales were reported and higher prices were also paid.

Prior to 1916, the members of the News Print Manufacturers Association, representing then about eighty per cent of the continent's production, were alleged to have held frequent meetings in Canada and various points in the United States—meetings of sufficient importance to cause the leading manufacturers to attend, but, presumably, presumably of insufficient importance to make necessary the keeping of records. A standard price of two cents mill seems to have been in mind.

The fall of 1915 witnessed an unexpected and sudden increase of newspaper advertising which resulted in increased deliveries from the mills.

During the first half of the year they had permitted their stocks to drop from over 91,000 tons to nearly 77,000 and during the last six months 8,000 more, so that the first of 1916 showed less than 69,000 tons which by July 1 had dwindled to about 58,- 000 tons, well below the danger point. THE SQUEEZE OF 1916.

The experience of publishers in obtaining their supply of print paper, was most complex and abnormal, in many cases such as to seriously jeopardize their business.

Most publishers, with any appreciable consumption, entered into the year with contracts of approximately normal prices of about 2 cents or 2.10 New York delivery. As these contracts expired during the year, or at the end of the year, they invariably were forced to pay increases of from 40 to 300 per cent. Large consumers practically all had an advance of about from two cents delivered to 3.30 delivered.

Practically all consumers were cut down by the mills and allotted from 80 to 75 per cent of their requirements, with the result that they had to try and make up this deficiency by bidding in the open market for free tonnage, so that spot business advanced to unheard of prices.

All during 1916 publishers were unable almost universally to obtain quotations on paper, except from their current source of supply. All mills appeared to absolutely refuse to quote any except customers already on their books. This had a tendency to increase prices and to stiffen the market very materially.

Added to the acute shortage of paper tonnage, a large number of machines were diverted to other grades. The publishers claimed that most of these changes were made with equal or less profit to the manufacturer than he could obtain from the prevailing prices of news print.

Shortly after the first of 1916, publishers all noted a very strong tendency on the part of the manufacturers to deteriorate the quality by cutting out color, sizes, alum and cutting down the proportion of sulphite. Their experience in this was very unpleasant, as the loss in press room amounted to a very large item with paper of the quality supplied.

Publishers were all induced to use every possible economy, and in most cases acceded to this request, thereby effecting a saving on normal consumption of from ten to twenty per cent.

During 1916 large increases in volume of advertising; in subscription and circulation, in many cases offset this saving, but it is sad to contemplate what the situation might have been had not the publishers exercised every possible economy and shown a spirit of co-operation with the manufacturers.

HEAVY LOSSES FOR PUBLISHERS.

A number of papers throughout the country were forced to raise their subscription and advertising rates.

Most large publishers were forced to stand very heavy losses, while the market was maintained; in some cases it is quite probable this will handicap them for years to come.

While conditions were hard enough for the big city publishers, those in smaller cities were terribly hard hit. It was estimated that 800 or more had to quit business or else consolidate with other newspapers in the same place during 1916.

The situation led to charges that the news print manufacturers had combined in violation of the Anti-Trust laws and the matter was before Government authorities for investigation for the greater part of the year 1916.

The paper manufacturers disclaimed the truth of the publishers' charges and also demanded the Government to investigate conditions and find the truth for itself. The manufacturers contended that there was an unprecedented demand for news print owing to increased volume of advertising in the newspapers and they were not in a position to make more paper.

They claimed that the news print business was an undesirable one for them and that they could get better prices and selling conditions by turning their machines over to the making of kraft and other grades. They claimed it was entirely up to the publishers to economize and keep within the amount of paper that might be turned out for them.

TRADE COMMISSION ACTS.

Through the efforts of the executive committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, composed of Frank P. Glass of the Birmingham News, chairman; Elbert H. Baker of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; and Emil M. Scholz of the New York Evening Post, the news print situation was taken up for investigation in April, 1916, by the Federal Trade Commission on authority of Congress.

The next step of the paper committee was to appoint a paper expert to represent it and A. Gordon McIntyre was appointed to the position in October, 1916.

This quartette led the fight for better conditions from that time to date, unceasingly keeping up the attack on the paper manufacturers from Washington and every other pregame point in this country and Canada.

The A. N. P. A. paper committee brought onto the American market many thousands of tons of news print for the relief of the American publishers, from independent sources, the chief achievement of this kind being the contract for the output of the Northcliffe Mill of Newfoundland during the past few months of 1917.

Contracts were renewed at increasing prices. During December the International announced its minimum price to be about $62 per ton at the mill for 1917 delivery, and some other mills fixing even higher prices.

THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION—1916 MANUFACTURING COST.

The Trade Commission's report showed that it was obliged in order to show the true cost of production to revise the cost figures as shown by the manufacturers' books by eliminating all interest charges, inter-company profits, rentals and transfer profits to substitute its own depreciation charges and in some instances to reduce shrinkage charges.

The Commission also found that more mills were producing at lower cost during the first half of 1916 than during the same period of 1915—that selling cost was lower and profits per ton higher.

The Commission found the average prices received per ton f. o. b. mill to be less than $40 during the period from 1912 to July 1, 1916, except from the mills of Wisconsin and Minnesota where the prices ranged slightly over $40 during 1913 and the first six months of 1916, and under that figure during 1914 and 1915, and from three Pacific Coast mills which received as much as $44 during 1913.

The Commission also reported the following manufacturing costs for the periods stated:

1912—30 mills produced 944,363 tons at an average cost of $33.41.
1914—35 mills produced 1,043,530 tons at an average cost of $33.08.
1915—35 mills produced 1,085,461 tons at an average cost of $32.20.
1916—34 mills produced during the first six months 539,836 tons at the rate of 1,079,672 tons per annum at an average rate of $31.93.

The commission added that if the one mill included in 1915 and not in the 1916 figures was included it would bring the averages of the two years more nearly together.

The commission also found that the average cost of more than eighty per cent of the total production of the United States mills and seventy-five per cent of the Canadian mills showed no increase in cost during the first half of 1916 as compared with 1915.

REPORT OF TARIFF BOARD 1911.

It is interesting to note that the report of the Tariff Board submitted May, 1911, showed the average manufacturing cost of news print not including depreciation or interest by thirty-eight mills to be $32.88 per ton, a higher price than during the preceding four years. The lowest production cost of any mill was $24.50, the highest $43.

The publishers' experts contended that there was no increase of cost up to July, 1916, and between that time and the first of 1917, and a liberal estimate would probably not exceed $5 per ton and that would spell increased profits of $19 per ton, which added to the former average of $12 suggested profits approximating $31 per ton—a burden too great to permit some publications to survive.

PRODUCTION.

The normal increase of consumption exceeds six per cent per annum.

The manufacturers had stated that their 1917 production would not exceed that of 1916, which means a relatively lessened output at a time of increased demand.

The Standard Contract, with its drastic and impossible conditions was forced on publishers in a time of stress and helplessness and furnished the reason for one of the A. N. P. A.'s strongest points of complaint to the Federal Trade Commission.

As a preliminary step to the Trade Commission presenting its report to Congress, a hearing was called on December 29, 1916, so all interested could criticize the figures compiled by the commission on costs and selling prices of news print. The hearing came to a quick close when the paper manufacturers declined to answer questions on the ground that it would take several months for them to properly consider the statistics of the commission. The matter stood thus at the close of the year 1916.

To guard against these high prices the A. N. P. A. waged a campaign for economy during all of last year, but it was not generally heeded until too late to affect the 1917 price.

DEVELOPMENTS IN 1917.

Matters went from bad to worse in 1917, and the Federal Trade Commission after an investigation of the paper industry last spring sought to bind the manufacturers to an agreement to sell news print paper at a price which, for most publishers, would be two and one-half cents a pound at the mill.

Many manufacturers signed this agreement but others refused. As a result of such refusal and because some who signed did not live up to the agreement the whole plan failed, and the Federal Trade Commission, which had made a report that paper manufacturers were demanding excess profits, turned over to the Department of Justice evidence which it had discovered during its investigation and which it believed indicated a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law on the part of the executive members of the News Print Manufacturers Association.

On the basis of this evidence, supplemented by information obtained in a Grand Jury investigation, the Government succeeded in having six manufacturers—namely, George H. Mead, Philip T. Dodge, Edward W. Backus, George Chahoon, Jr., G. H. P. Gould, and Frank Sensenbrenner—and Alexander Smith, a Chicago banker—indicted last April.

The indicted manufacturers directly and indirectly control seventy-five per cent of the news print paper output of Canada and the United States, and it was charged that they were able to and did control the market, conspiring to limit the supply and raise the price of paper. The banker, Smith, was charged with being a party to the conspiracy through his financial aid.

In June the Federal Trade Commission made the following recommendation:

"... Because of the vital interest to the public of an efficient dissemination of news in this crisis, the commission recommends as a war emergency measure that Congress by appropriate legislation provide:

(1) That all mills producing and all agencies distributing print paper and mechanical and chemical pulp in the United States be operated on Government account; that these products be pooled in the hands of a Government agency and equitably distributed at a price based upon cost of production and distribution, plus a fair profit per ton.

(2) That, pursuant thereto, some Federal agency be empowered and directed to assume the supervision and control thereof during the pendency of the war.

(3) That by reason of the fact that approximately 75 per cent of the production of news print paper in Canada comes into the United States, proper action be taken to secure the co-operation of the Canadian Government in the creation of a similar governmental agency for the same function, which shall be clothed with power and authority to act jointly with the governmental agency of the United States for the protection of the consumers and manufacturers of print paper and the public of the United States and Canada.

(4) That in case the Canadian Government shall not join in such a co-operative enterprise, then importation of paper and mechanical and chemical pulp into the United States shall be made only on Government account to or through the Federal agency charged with such supervision and distribution.

The suggestion was endorsed by such important bodies as the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the New York State Press Association and the National Editorial Association, and the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

Matters stood thus until July, when a resolution was introduced in the Senate asking the Trade Commission what it had done to relieve the news print situation.

The Commission, in a formal statement on July 10, pointed to its recommendation to Congress that power be given the Government to assume control of news print manufacture and distribution.

The Commission again emphasized what it considered the need for more power. At one time, it said, a formal complaint against news print manufacturers was considered, but the plan was not carried out for fear of embarrassing the Department of Justice, which meanwhile had started prosecution against the manufacturers for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws. As an order directing news print makers to cease their present trade practices would have afforded no practical immediate relief, the commission declared it was powerless to remedy conditions.

For the above reasons developments awaited the trial of the indicted manufacturers. The trial was first set for October 8, then adjourned to November 15 and finally fixed for November 26.

These postponements indicated, and those observing developments learned, that conferences between the manufacturers and the Government were being held with a view to the amicable settlement of all the issues at stake, it being generally believed that the indicted men would escape prosecution if they came to an agreement concerning the price of paper.

At the psychological moment, just before Congress adjourned last October, Senator Smith of the committee on printing presented a report from the committee strongly condemning the manufacturers in the paper industry for seeking excessive profits, and recommending the passage of a resolution empowering the Federal Trade Commission to fix the price of paper.

Since the adjournment of Congress there were strong indications that the Smith resolution would be passed as soon as the next Congress met unless the price of paper was established by voluntary agreement before that time, as has been done.

RESULTS OF SETTLEMENT.

Government Prosecutor Hyman presented the most important features of the news print agreement as follows:

1. The agreement provides for determining maximum prices and does not fix prices; thus it leaves competition open up to the point of the maximum price, and assures the publishers that they will not have to pay more than the maximum.

2. The agreement will bring before the Federal Trade Commission considerably over one-half of the total consumption of news print paper within the United States and over three-fifths of the total consumption east of the Rocky Mountains. It brings in practically all of the Canadian manufacturers, including the tonnage represented by the Canadian Export Paper Company, Limited, which tonnage would not be subject to the jurisdiction of the United States except for the making of this agreement.

3. It is expected that steps will be taken to request the consent of the other manufacturers so that the great bulk of the tonnage, at least east of the Rocky Mountains, may be brought before the Federal Trade Commission, with the exception of the two companies that have never been in any combination and have always made just and reasonable prices without Government coercion.

4. The agreement brings in the tonnage represented by Mr. Gould and Mr. Backus, both of whom had declined to come into the previous arbitration agreement.

5. The agreement provides that each manufacturer shall insert in his contracts with his customers the arbitration provision as to prices and terms of contract, so that each publisher will have a legal cause of action in case of a violation of the agreement. In addition, the right is reserved to the Attorney General, representing all the publishers, to take steps to have the agreement carried out. The agreement is also recognized in the court decree.

6. The previous arbitration agreement provided for merely a six months' duration of fair prices, leaving the publishers at the mercy of the combination when the six months were up. The present agreement is complete, and covers the entire duration of the war and three months thereafter.

7. The defendants are put under broad injunctions preventing any form of general combination in the future, and preventing any of the manufacturers or their agents from entering into agreements, understandings, or concert of action to limit or restrict them in their competition or to deter others from entering the field.

8. The Government's view that these open competition associations are illegal is recognized in the most sweeping way, first, by the imposition of very substantial fines upon the indicted defendants, and, second, by the broad provisions of the decree enjoining the defendants from entering into any general combination which involves a concerted working to control or raise prices.

9. The agreement provides for regulation of just and reasonable terms of sale, instead of the arbitrary uniform contracts which were sprung on the publishers last fall.

A meeting of the members of the News Print Manufacturers Association will be held about the middle of December to disband.

CONWAY PRESS AGENT FOR NEW YORK HIPPODROME.

Harold Conway has succeeded Murdock Pemberton as press representative at the New York Hippodrome following the enlistment in the Navy of that promising Kansan. Mr. Conway was born in Guelph, Ont., some twenty-nine years ago. After receiving an arts degree at Fordham University, New York, Conway studied for a while in Toronto, later returning to New York and taking a position with the Spur. He remained with this magazine for a year, leaving to experiment with the drama and contribute to magazines.

HAROLD CONWAY.

He next taught English and public speaking to business men in the New York branch of the Gordon-Detweiler Institute, subsequently lecturing for a time on salesmanship for System Magazine.

But the call of the theater was too strong and Conway became associated with the Hippodrome press department at the beginning of the current season, as assistant to Murdock Pemberton. When the latter secured the prefix chief yeoman, and was assigned to the censor's department of the Navy, Mr. Conway was moved up to fill the vacancy.

H. W. KASTOR & SONS

ADVERTISING CO. ST. LOUIS
CHICAGO
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
224 F. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

NO MORE COMMISSIONS TO INK PURCHASERS.

GOVERNMENT ACTS TO STOP LONG-STANDING ABUSE THAT HAS COST PUBLISHERS MUCH.

The Federal Trade Commission on November 23 made a long step forward in correction of certain trade abuses when the manufacturers of ninety per cent of the printers' ink made in America, personally, or through representatives, voluntarily agreed to sign a stipulation to eliminate the practice which has been prevalent among some manufacturers of giving commissions to the buyers of their ink.

The agreement was reached following a meeting at the trade commission, which was called at the request of the ink makers.

The Federal Trade Commission declined to give out any further information on the details of the agreement entered into by the ink manufacturers, nor the names of the signers of the agreement, other than the above formal statement.

The action is of wide significance for the betterment of the newspaper business and of the accessory suppliers.

It is probable that other branches of the newspaper accessory manufacturing line will take similar action, now that the ink makers have led the way.

For years past the newspaper accessory business has suffered from unfair competition due to the giving of commissions to pressroom foremen and other subordinates in newspaper organizations who had the authority to purchase supplies and abused it.

The publishers have been the real sufferers in the end from the practice, in that commissions paid out were made up on them in the prices charged by the manufacturers.

Many publishers who had the nerve to buy their own ink have discovered various devices by which stocks they bought were destroyed through the use of sand, or oil, or some other foreign substance by subordinates in their efforts to favor the manufacturer who gave them a bonus on sales.

The abuse has been just as prevalent in practically all other lines of newspaper machinery and supplies.

The Government's bringing the manufacturers together in an agreement to discontinue the unfair practices is a big step for the protection of the newspaper publisher.

A better class of men coming into the mechanical end of newspaper making in recent years has caused the elimination of the bonus abuse to a marked extent lately.

COMMENT BY THE PUBLISHERS.

(Continued from Twenty-first Page.)

at last been reached. I hope it will result not only in lower priced paper but better conditions in every respect. The fixing of a maximum price will enable many publishers to plan business farther ahead than they have been able to do for many months. Competition, which is left open by the decision should result in a price which will average considerably lower than the maximum. The proviso for arbitration is a pleasing factor in the situation."

Arthur Capper of the Topeka (Kan.) Capital.

"The settlement by agreement of the print paper case brings satisfactory relief to publishers and gives promise of future harmonious co-operation between newspaper publishers and paper manufacturers. The Glass committee is to be especially commended for its untiring efforts and efficient handling of the publishers' interests."

John Burgess of the Minneapolis Daily News:

"It is just another proof that big business is brighter than the 'big stick'. The 'paper trust' gouged millions out of publishers and the public paid. Pulpity fines and then get three cents at the mill! What more could the manufacturers ask when the market is already overstocked? Perhaps a vote of thanks!"

A. C. Weiss of the Duluth News-Tribune:

"In view of the showings made by our Government in paper print investigations and the cost of paper as compared with our neighbor, Canada where after a most searching investigation by the Canadian Government a uniform maximum price of two and a half cents has been prescribed and is now being maintained) American print paper manufacturers, who, as a result of the recent New York settlement, are still permitted to extort a price of three cents a pound from publishers of the United States under an agreement with the authorities at Washington paying their admitted conspiracy a fine equivalent to a white chip should indeed enjoy their Thanksgiving turkey in comparison with thousands of publishers, whom their unchecked and triumphant rapacity has left in a far poorer plight."

Frank P. Glass of the Birmingham News, chairman of the A.N.P.A. executive committee:

"I expressed my own opinion, as well as that of the paper committee, so fully on the settlement between the Government and the paper manufacturers that I don't see how I can add anything to that statement." (Mr. Glass' official statement appears in the report of the paper settlement in another column.)

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

"Taking into consideration the present labor situation brought on by war conditions and excessive high prices of raw materials, the price of three cents would be reasonable, provided that, later, the publishers should receive the benefit of the reduced price when conditions return to normal."

Emil M. Schultz of the New York Evening Post, member of A.N.P.A. committee on paper:

"The adjustment of the news print paper situation is a happy solution of the problem, which if it had been fought out to a finish would have landed both sides nowhere. The manufacturer and the consumer must, of necessity, have mutual respect for each other in their sincerity of purpose. With the matter of price adjustment now in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission, and with the absence of any shortage in the market, it looks as though the effect will be not only to stabilize news print manufacturing but the newspaper business as well, and enable publishers to determine at what price their product can be sold to the reader, and what prices they will have to charge for advertising in order to secure fair returns on their investment."

The Buffalo Express:

"Some of the Canadian Mills, to our knowledge, are arranging to limit their field of operations in the United States and send more of their product to Europe and South America, where even more excessive prices may be obtained."

"The importance of this locally is that all of the Buffalo papers, with one exception and including the Express, get their white paper from Canada. There was a time when the Express could buy print paper for two cents a pound and less. Now it only hopes that it may have the opportunity to buy paper for three cents. It is paying considerably more at present."

Herbert L. Bridgman of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Standard Union:

"'Nolo Contendere'—that the news print settlement is final or satisfactory."

"If the Government may regulate down, why not up; and when peace and normal conditions come, why may not manufacturers appeal to it to avert or break the fall?"

"The nose of the camel of Government regulation appears well within our tent, and if the Trade Commission may tell us what price, may they not what use? In other words, what we shall print on the paper it permits us to buy?"

"The self-confessed conspirators, permitted to retain all but $11,000 of the millions which they have wrung from the newspapers and the millions more they may have made in the stocks in Wall Street, may well be for a little while content."

Many other publishers declined to make any comment on the matter.

CAPPER FOR THE SENATE.

Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas, publisher of the Topeka Capital and other publications, is headed for the Senate of the United States.

That's the word brought to Washington by men of experience in the stormy politics of the Sunflower State. They say nothing short of a political cyclone will stop Capper. He expects to get the Republican nomination for the office next summer and to be elected next fall against any candidate the Democrats may name. Probably Senator Thompson, now in the Senate, will be the Democratic candidate.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN AND ADVERTISER TOMORROW.

The Boston Sunday American and Advertiser will succeed the Sunday American and Sunday Advertiser tomorrow, as the result of the purchase by William R. Hearst interests of the Boston Daily and Sunday Advertiser last week.

Daily, the American and the Advertiser will continue to be separate newspapers, published by the Northeastern Publishing Company, of which Charles M. Palmer is the president. The American continues in the evening field at one cent, as in the past, as does the Daily Advertiser in the morning at two cents.

BARTON AND HOOVER WITH AMERICAN CHICLE CO.

Charles W. Barton, formerly business and advertising manager of the Advance, Chicago, has become connected with the American Chicle Company's New York office as assistant general sales and advertising manager. Previous to his connection with the Advance, Mr. Barton held the position of sales manager of a large manufacturing company in Chicago.

Mr. Barton is a brother of Bruce Barton, editor of Every Week. Mr. Barton is succeeding Ralph W. Knox, who resigned to become advertising manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company.

Norman R. Hoover, for seven years assistant circulation manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has resigned, effective January 1, 1918, and on that date will become Eastern sales manager of the American Chicle Company, Chicago.

THIRD CLASS MAIL RATE IS UNCHANGED.

It should be noted that the War Revenue Act does not affect third class mail matter.

Circulars and other printed advertising matter of the third class may still be mailed at the regular third class rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof, unsealed.

MACKAY PROMOTED

Joseph T. Mackay has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, succeeding the late F. J. Warburton. Mr. Mackay has worked himself up from officeboy for the Mergenthaler Company and for two years had been Mr. Warburton's assistant.

CHANGES IN NEWARK.

Harry G. Kallop, manager of classified advertising and chief office clerk, has succeeded John F. Betz in charge of the automobile advertising of the Newark (N. J.) Evening News.

Mr. Betz is now with the Newark Star-Eagle, looking after automobile advertising.

SOME NOTES FROM THE SOUTH.

C. D. Scroggs, formerly court reporter on the Savannah (Ga.) Morning News, is now a local copy reader on the Mobile (Ala.) Register.

W. M. Kemp has transferred from the Savannah Morning News, on which he was railroad reporter, to the Columbia (S. C.) State.

M. W. Brady has left the business office of the Savannah Press to join the colors for the war against Germany. He entered the Provisional Coast Artillery, which was the Savannah Volunteer Guards prior to being federalized. He is the tenth Savannah Press man to enter the service.

Jesse Irvin, formerly of the Savannah Morning News, has joined the reporting staff of the Atlanta Journal. While with the Morning News Irvin was staff representative with the Savannah troops on the Mexican border when the troops did service there the summer of 1916.

Robert A. Golden is another Savannah Press man who has responded to the call of his country. He formerly covered police on the reporting staff of the Press. Now he is in the naval reserve training camp near Charleston, S. C. Golden, who is popularly and much better known in Savannah as "Red," was in New York when the call came. He lost little time in returning for service.

SELLING BONDS TO NEW YORK.

(Continued from Sixteenth Page.)

important part of the campaign was to let the public know many things that could not be told in advertising. He said:

"This work devolved upon a former New York Sun reporter, J. P. Jones of the H. K. McCann Company, who was in charge of the news bureau. Mr. Jones prides himself on being the 'greatest little shock absorber' in the financial district. The news bureau sent out ten to fifteen columns of news each day, all of which was not published. Persons doing the work sought publicity for others, and not for themselves, which displayed a splendid spirit. News publicity was nothing but advertising, if but in the last sense.

"The bureau made four classifications of publicity material—namely, news material, human interest material, propaganda and news about the progress of the campaign.

"The work of the news bureau was two-fold. It had to create ideas and get men to give good stories, and months ahead magazines were impressed with the desirability of carrying articles bearing on the loan or the war.

"Trade publications and farm papers were similarly impressed. All this work was done before the campaign was actually started so that when it started all time and energy could be devoted to current news.

"Boiler plate matter was prepared and page plates sent to 500 weeklies throughout the district. Material was sent to all papers that made requests. Service was furnished to 200 daily papers. Every day stories went out to every paper in the district, and articles to every trade paper.

"The news bureau supplied 1,201 trade and class publications, 800 weeklies, and 250 dailies. The first campaign was divided into eighteen different parts for eighteen different men covering different lines of work.

"The plan for the last campaign included thirty. In addition cartoonists and illustrators of papers were approached and urged to do their share in connection with the loan and the response was wonderful.

"In only three instances were unfavorable responses received. One came from a paper saying it had been closed by the Government and could not help.

The news bureau collected over 55,000 clippings. In New York City alone 3,500 columns of news matter, editorials cartoons and pictures were published. Outside of New York the total clippings were over 10,000 columns of which 5,000 columns were sent out from headquarters. The other material was prepared by the papers. Newspapers furnished half of the thirty-five newspaper men working in the bureau."

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT TO ADVERTISING.

Chairman Armstrong read a dispatch from Guy Emerson, director of publicity, who had planned to be present but was called to co-operate with F. A. Vanderlip in selling war saving and thrift stamps. It was as follows:

"The work of the last few years has brought me so closely in contact with the advertising profession that I have almost come to feel myself one of you.

"Without the intelligent and tireless co-operation of the advertising men of the Second Federal Reserve District it would have been difficult, if not impossible, to put over the splendid result which we were able to report to the Treasury Department on the night of October 27.

"In my opinion advertising has come into its own during this war.

"It has demonstrated its effectiveness as a great democratic force to disseminate the truth among the people.

"The advertising men as a body are devoting themselves to the work of the Government without compensation and are helping in every field of Government activity to bring to the attention of the public, in a helpful and vivid manner, the full necessity and difficulty of the war.

"During the last Liberty Loan campaign we conducted in New York the largest advertising agency in the world.

"We placed in the pages of the Greater City more than 350 pages of advertising contributed by more than five hundred firms and individuals.

"Copy to fill this space was placed by a member of your association working day and night through a period of thirty days, and not one error was made in a single one of those transactions.

"Various agencies contributed copy to meet every need that arose and manifested the most splendid spirit of co-operation, accepting suggestions for changes without argument and revising an indefinite number of times.

"This is the kind of help that will win the war.

"The Government is going to depend more and more on the help of such men as these and if we continue to receive the same kind of help in the future loan campaigns, and in the war savings campaign which we are now starting, the Government need have no worry about bringing forcibly to the attention of the American people that their dollars are needed.

"When this has been done the American people may be trusted to do the rest."

WONDERFUL COPY WORK.

William T. Mullally, vice-chairman of the district advertising advisory board, who was assisted by Clarence A. Hope as executive secretary of the board, was in charge of the copy division, said:

"It is the duty of every advertising man before passing judgment on the work of the various departments of the Liberty Loan committee to study the currency question of America, to understand what the Treasury is, what the Federal Reserve Bank is, the state bank, etc., and what it means for them to sell a tremendous amount of bonds and handle the money involved.

"The Liberty Loan Committee, particularly its copy division, invites and strongly urges every one to send it constructive criticisms of the work it has put out.

"It is in this way that we can make the succeeding loans the success that they deserve to be.

"The purposes of the copy division was to supply copy for all space obtained by the space bureau, to attend to the setting of the same and placing it in the publications so that the message would be strong in its copy appeal and attractive in typography and layout.

"Through personal solicitation and by mail 200 advertising agencies and writers of recognized ability were requested to furnish copy.

"Over 335 pieces of copy were sent in, of which 162 pieces were O.K'd. "Twenty-five hundred requests for copy were filled, and over 5,505 advertisements were sent out.

"About 1,500 cuts were furnished. "Approximately 350 pages of advertising were filled in the New York dailies alone.

"It is impossible to calculate the space which was filled by the copy division in house organs, out-of-town papers and class publications of one kind and another.

"Over 25,000 proofs were furnished by the newspapers. We were able to get these at practically no expense, as a contribution from the publications.

"The advertisements were laid out and set up by the New York Evening Post, Tribune, Sun and American.

"Amos H. Barnett of the Evening Post did most of this work as a patriotic contribution, and his assistance was of such material advantage that he can be largely credited with the successful handling of this enormous amount of copy.

"Two order blanks were designed which served their purposes perfectly. A great many of the publishers called us up to congratulate us upon the way in which the orders were handled, and stated that it facilitated their own bookkeeping systems.

"The forms of appeal used in the copy were educational, investment, insurance, patriotic, emotional and the necessity for immediate action. It was soon found that the patriotic and emotional appeals had the best results, and the campaign was finished with the emotional appeal predominating the copy, with the exception of the last forty-eight hours, in which the copy was devoted to the necessity of immediate action, and a reverse cut was used which could not but attract attention to the loan.

"Several records were made: for instance, in the banks' advertisement, 'Borrow and Buy,' fifty-eight minutes from the time the manuscript was handed to the copy division a finished proof was laid on Mr. Emerson's desk.

"Friday morning, October 26, all advertisements were changed to read 'Loan closes at 12 o'clock Saturday night'—instead of 'At noon Saturday.' "In all of the newspapers Liberty Loan advertising predominated, so much so that in one instance a newspaper announced that it was forced to leave out 14 columns of business advertisements to make way for the Liberty Loan announcements.

VALUABLE AID BY NEWSPAPERS.

"Arrangements were made with the newspapers by which advertisers contributing space could obtain the rate which their own notices would enjoy in the newspapers. Every paper was requested to favor the advertisements of the Liberty Loan Committee in position, and this was granted.

"It is generally agreed that this department furnished the greatest amount of copy and had the largest advertisement appropriation that has ever been placed by one organization in a similar period of time.

"A conservative estimate of the cost of the advertising would be $500,000, while the clerical expense of this department was only $33 a week.

"The entire corps of the copy department was composed of experts in their particular lines and this work was of such a technical nature that it was necessary that only those trained in the advertising field could be used.

"Over 500 customers were served and not a complaint was made, which evidences the satisfactory nature of the work performed.

"Throughout the campaign the advertisements were arranged with great care, so that there would be a natural sequence of thought, and in instances where more than one advertisement appeared on the same page, headings were arranged to convey a consecutive idea if read across the page as well as down the column.

"When we state that in thirty days 100,000,000 people were awakened, stirred, and that 9,500,000, or nearly one-tenth of our entire population, were induced to purchase securities, we have proved advertising the quickest, most far-reaching and the most convincing medium that the world has ever known.

"The advertisement showing the hand of Lincoln had the strong appeal of patriotism and reverence that has always raised the courage of men to do and promote that which tends to a higher and better civilization.

"The advertisement entitled, 'My boy and your bond,' written by Mr. Emerson, illustrated by the same cut that appeared in the advertisement contributed by the American Tobacco Company, 'Suppose you were going over the top,' had the action that we read about, dream of and seldom see. The reference to Mr. Emerson brings to my mind a little motto that was lived up to, to the very letter, in the second Liberty Loan drive:

"Late to bed, early to rise, Hustle like hell and advertise."

PAID ADVERTISING VINDICATED.

"The question of paid advertising to float the Government loans has been carefully considered, fought out and won.

"This fight was ably championed by the National Advertising Advisory Board, and every advertising man owes it a deep debt of gratitude for the capable presentation of our case, and for the open admission from Secretary McAdoo and Mr. Emerson that advertising is essential to any loan, and that it is a commodity which should be paid for.

"The fact that this last campaign was paid for by contributions from bankers, investment houses, trust companies, merchants and the business men of the country, is the greatest endorsement of the principle of advertising.

"Is it better that over 500 important business concerns, corporations, banking houses, individuals merchants, should sign their names to this space contributed, than that these advertisements should be signed by the Government?

"The community for the first time saw a consensus of opinion that the best thing to do was buy Liberty Bonds; and I cannot emphasize this point too strongly. We have paid advertisements from institutions that have bragged that they did not believe in advertising.

"We have seen the brotherhood of man endorsed by every class of trade, self being set aside, as if they had said 'Buy Liberty Bonds, then consider our products.'"

THE FARM PAPER END.

H. H. Charles gave an exceedingly interesting and exhaustive report of the thorough work that was done with farm publications of all kinds published in the Second District. His organization supplied four quarter page advertisements, sending out 684 electros and forty-two mats, and the indications are that over 1,000 insertions were obtained.

The Brunswick (Ia.) News has been discontinued.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
604 West 30th Street NEW YORK

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 222 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 85c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices.

Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.)

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE

Broadway and 59th Street

222 West 59th St. NEW YORK

Columbus Circle.

Telephones. 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1240.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 1, 1917

THE PAPER CASE IS OVER: NOW FOR OTHER THINGS.

The satisfactory settlement of the disagreement between newspaper publishers and news print paper manufacturers, which has made publishing conditions so uncertain for the past year and a half, is an event in the history of American journalism that is to be welcomed by all concerned.

Surely vital lessons have been learned by both publishers and paper makers, showing that if they are to get along properly together, both sides must know each other better.

It is hoped that the settlement of the case will result in better relations between paper makers and consumers in the future.

One of the most important points brought out by the affair is that the Government recognizes the newspapers as a vital factor for the welfare of the nation, and will stand back of them.

Many Congressmen were of the opinion that Uncle Sam would have taken over the paper mills and operated them for the period of the war, if the manufacturers had not come to an agreement.

Most publishers are well satisfied with the outcome of the matter, and radical actions that were proposed in Congress to remedy conditions, on the reopening of the session this month, will undoubtedly now be called off, as there is no necessity for them.

The publishers of the United States are deeply indebted to the unselfish and tireless work of the executive committee of paper of the American Newspaper Publishers Association for what has been accomplished for them. Also the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission are to be congratulated for bringing to such an agreeable end the dispute, which, handled unwisely, might have resulted disastrously.

While the trouble has proved costly to publishers in the production of their newspapers, they have had the opportunity to profit by it in the future. Shortage of paper and high prices necessitated their systematizing their plants and eliminating waste.

It is to be hoped that the wasteful conditions of past days will not return, now that the stress of the situation has been relieved. Let the higher prices and advertising rates that have been so successfully effected be retained. They are a beneficial development of the newspaper busi-

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $380; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 28 lines in depth of column) double price.

ness and a step in advance that was long needed.

Now, publishers, that the paper situation has been settled turn your attention toward having Congress pass the water power release bills that will come up before Congress this month.

Also show your Congressmen the necessity of repealing the second class rates increase provided for in the War Revenue Bill.

Congress has seen the light for saving the newspapers for the benefit of the nation—in the way of insuring them a supply of paper at fair prices—and why can't it be shown that prohibitive second class rates are as great a menace to the welfare of the United States as lack of printing paper?

All together now, publishers, for a new drive.

THE DUTIES OF A NEWSPAPER FOR NEWSPAPER MAKERS.

THE FOURTH ESTATE has always enjoyed the reputation of being first with the news, and printing nothing but true news.

All through the news print case, it has lived up to that standard, giving all the worthwhile news in an unbiased conservative manner.

That it has succeeded is attested by the many compliments the really big men in the newspaper and paper manufacturing businesses have seen fit to extend to it.

To fittingly cap the climax of the celebrated paper controversy, THE FOURTH ESTATE last week gave its readers the information that the price for news print in the present war period had been set at three cents a pound.

When some readers saw it, they were incredulous—they simply could not believe it. But when THE FOURTH ESTATE printed that information, it knew absolutely that it had been decided upon on November 22 at a conference between the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission.

It took two days after publication for the news to get into the daily newspaper columns, when the trial of the indicted news print manufacturers was called by Judge Mayer in the United States Court for the Southern District of New York, on November 26.

Further details of the price fixing were told by United States Government attorneys to THE FOURTH ESTATE after the settlement of the case on Monday. They stated that the three-cent price was decided upon after consultation with and at the suggestion of the Federal Trade Commission.

This phase of the question the attorneys did not go into, but accepted the recommendation of the Federal Trade Commission.

In this issue, THE FOURTH ESTATE tells all there is to know about the case—a complete record of the controversy, the things leading up to the agreement, the basis of settlement, record of news print prices for fifty-seven years back, etc.

Our effort all through has been to be fair to all sides—and especially to avoid misleading paper users by giving publicity to many matters that were based on unfounded rumors or had no important bearing on the subject in which they have been so vitally interested.

We have the satisfaction of having the biggest men on both sides tell us we have fulfilled our duty well as "the newspaper for the makers of newspapers and investors in advertising," and THE FOURTH ESTATE can be counted upon at all other times, as well, to give its readers the news, and nothing but the news.

LAWS NOT ENFORCED.

The fact that another interned subject of Germany has been the editor of a publication which sought to instruct the people of this country in their duty to themselves, their Government and the world at large, causes the New York Sun to point out that the law of New York State requires that the ownership of all publications shall be disclosed, and the names of the officers of all corporations publishing newspapers shall be printed in each edition thereof.

Certainly for the period of the war—and why not thereafter? says the Sun—it would be well to compel aliens conducting periodicals to disclose their political allegiance.

To be effective this should be undertaken by the Federal Government, and suitable penalties for evasion of the regulation should be provided.

Americans have treated citizenship too lightly in the past. At present it is important that we should know who's who and what his country is.

THE POST OFFICE "BUSINESS METHODS."

The announcement that the Post Office has amended its regulations so that full postage shall be collected on New York City "drop" letters taken in bulk for delivery locally causes the New York Times to point out a few more things about the Post Office business system that go a long way toward explaining the present chaotic condition of the service. The Times says:

The additional postage is as much war tax as postage, according to the tax levy, which, it seems, is now to be collected by postal regulation amendment.

In that case perhaps the regulations may also be amended to remove from the tax what, it is to be supposed, should never have been included within it.

The new postal rates were proposed by Congress according to geographical boundaries, but they are collected by the Post Office according to its own boundaries, of which the public knows nothing.

For example, in Queens County there are six post offices, although Queens County is part of New York City. In this city there are five boroughs, and letters between them are due to pay full rates, according to the amended regulations.

In public estimation all letters within the city should be drop letters, although the regulations establish rates which seem as absurd as the collection of full rates between, say, Yorkville and Harlem. Such designations have as little to recommend them as addresses to post offices whose boundaries are unknown to any geography or local law.

This is a more important matter than it seems. The case is published of one company which has 40,000 customers on its books, and whose bills, when collected by mail, cost the company $19,200 in revenue to the Government.

Under the new rates the company does this business for itself, at a cost of $4,080. The cost per letter was less one one-half cent, and the Post Office loses $19,200.

This may show what profit the Government makes at the two-cent rate, and throws a light upon the justice of collecting three cents upon an artificial definition of drop letters.

Beyond this there is a suggestion of what real profits there might be in the Post Office business, if managed with the efficiency of private business.

Nothing is known of the costs of the mail business of the Government, and therefore a certain incredulity attaches to the department's occasional claims of profits, meaning merely the excess of collections over disbursements. The Post Office is a popular institution, and might make itself more so, but not in the methods which it uses.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

While the tendency of this country has of late been one of consolidation and in many cases of suspension, Russia is experiencing an extraordinary activity in the establishment of new newspapers. It is said that since the revolution 700 new newspapers and periodicals have been started, mostly in Moscow and Petrograd, with some in the country.

New Life, Maxim Gorky's daily, is one of these newcomers.

The Criminal Court, sitting in Wilmington, Del., last week, called on two reporters, Montgomery F. Esig of the Every Evening and George E. M. Stengle of the News, to act as witnesses in a case that was pending. This was quite a novelty, as it is seldom that reporters are placed on the witness stand in Delaware, though they often know a lot more about cases on trial than many witnesses.

A reader of THE FOURTH ESTATE suggests:

"Some of the money gods are in the same class as the Kaiser war god and all of us might be glad to see the Ten Commandments advertised, let us say as liberally as Liberty Bonds. Don't you think that on such a basis of publicity public opinion might profit?"

"Jew and Gentile can stand on the platform of Moses."

"The recent 'splashes' of political opinions have shown how we allow prejudice to live."

"Take up the first commandments to give God a chance as against hero worshippers who are selfish. Let us be patriotic to God first, then Church and State will get their share also."

ADVERTISED TRADE-MARK GUARANTEES QUALITY.

Copyright, Mallory, Mitchell & Faust

Have you ever stopped to consider the real significance to you of the trade-mark or brand name on the package or label of the article you buy at the store?

Have you ever stopped to think that the presence of an advertised trade-mark on a can of pork and beans, for example, is a guarantee that these beans are of good quality? This must be true else the advertising would defeat its own purpose. The trade-mark, being a mark of identification, is as much a means of rejection as of selection.

That is, if the article so identified proves unsatisfactory, you are enabled by the trade-mark to avoid it a second time.

Manifestly, a manufacturer could not afford to put a brand name or trade-mark on an unsatisfactory product. People would not buy it a second time and he would run himself out of business almost immediately.

A manufacturer backs a branded product by his reputation. Therefore, he cannot afford to stake his reputation on any product that is not good.

It is only when he puts on the market a satisfactory product, one which people will like and call for a second time, that he can afford to put the mark of identification upon it.

But when he has such a product, he wants the people to know that it is his. Every package he sell then helps to build a reputation for him and his goods.

Advertised, trade-marked goods then are most apt to be good goods.

The advertised trade-mark is your guarantee of quality.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Lawlor G. Peck, editor of the Katonah (N. Y.) Record, has sold his home in Mount Kisco.

Clarence C. Killen, a former Wilmington (Del.) newspaper man, now secretary of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, is attending the Atlantic Deepwater Waterways convention in Miami, Fla., as one of the Wilmington delegates.

W. I. McIntyre, editor of the Twin City Commercial Bulletin, published in Minneapolis, addressed the Superior (Wis.) Retail Grocers Association at its regular monthly meeting on November 19.

Clarence E. Metters, financial editor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, has been confined to a hospital in that city for the past two weeks.

Victor F. Lawson, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, is expected to resume office duties today after a rest that became necessary because of a slight indisposition due to overwork.

Lars J. Siljan, editor of the Williston (N. D.) Normanden, left for Norway, where he will remain for some time studying war conditions in that country, later visiting Finland, Sweden, Denmark and probably Russia.

William F. Rocheleau, editor and writer of Long Beach, Cal., was slightly injured recently, when struck by a motorcycle.

Forest D. Lowry, for the past six years city editor of the Salt Lake City (Utah) Tribune, and previously sports editor of the old San Francisco Post-Globe, has been a San Francisco visitor.

S. G. Duncan-Clarke, military critic of the Chicago Post, is making illustrated addresses on the war at various points near Chicago. Last week he spoke at Kenosha, Wis.

Woodson May of the Somerset (Ky.) Journal and secretary of the Kentucky Press Association, is enjoying a period of rest and health-building in a Chicago sanitarium.

Jud Wright, of the Milwaukee Leader, is now in Los Angeles, Cal., taking an extended vacation on account of his health.

R. G. Johnson of the Merchant's Trade Journal, Chicago, has returned from a health-seeking trip to Honolulu.

C. R. WOODWARD BACK IN NEWSPAPER FIELD.

Charles R. Woodward, well known in advertising circles East and West, has been appointed to take charge of the New York office of John B. Woodward, in the Times Building, representing in the Eastern advertising field the Baltimore Sun, Boston Globe, Chicago Daily News and the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Charles R. Woodward is a brother of John B. Woodward, advertising manager of the Chicago Daily News and head of the Eastern publishers' representation agency bearing his name. He was formerly a Chicago newspaper advertising man before he went into the magazine field, where his work for a number of years past has been highly successful as a seller of advertising space.

Originally Mr. Woodward began advertising work as an advertising solicitor on the old Chicago Inter-Ocean and on the Journal. For the past seventeen years he has been with the Crowell Publishing Company, which now owns the American Magazine, Farm and Fireside, and the Woman's Home Companion.

He was New York manager of the old Crowell Publishing Company before the present firm was organized, after which he added New England as part of his territory. Subsequently Mr. Woodward was made manager of the Chicago office of the Crowell publications and he was recently in charge of the New England field, from which position he comes back to New York to sell newspaper space.

Mr. Woodward succeeds W. S. Bird in the Woodward organization, the latter having recently gone into the magazine field, with the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

Ray P. Burch, editor of the Norway (Ia.) Benton County Star, and Harry Reger, editor of the Montour (Ia.) Gazette, have traded papers.

The Clinton (Ia.) Advertiser has opened a new office.

Frank Moore has taken over the Van Horne (Ia.) Record.

S. McCoy has sold the Stamford (Neb.) Star to G. A. DeFrance.

The Kingsley (Kan.) Mercury has absorbed the Lewis Press.

The Monango (N. D.) Journal printing plant has been leased to J. M. Field by J. H. Nagel.

The Farmers' Leader has just been issued at Bowman, N. D., with Robert French as managing editor.

L. E. Munson has purchased the Morland (Kan.) Monitor.

L. F. Maynard has sold the Gillett (Ark.) Reporter to W. C. Hopper.

F. L. Dalbey, editor of the Shubert (Neb.) Citizen, is dead.

F. A. Shipman has leased the Donnelly (Minn.) Star.

The illness of A. B. Vines, editor of the Peru (Ia.) Mail, has caused the temporary suspension of his paper.

E. D. Bradley and Mr. Sherwood, ex-editor of the Burt (Ia.) Monitor, have purchased the Algona (Ia.) Courier.

The Topeka Journal announces: "Irving Bacheller and Ray Stannard Baker, 'Who's Who' folks in American letters, in dress suits, braved the five-cent cigars of the Topeka Press Club and spoke ten minutes each" at a recent press club meeting.

J. R. Pittman is moving the plant of the Kramer (N. D.) Journal to Mohall, where he will start another paper.

George Edson has leased the Filly (Neb.) Spotlight to W. B. Cissna.

STAFF CHANGES.

C. S. Iverson has become editor and manager of the Bottineau (N. D.) Courant, a Non-Partisan League paper.

Carl Nelson is again the editor of the Cando (N. D.) Record.

Lewis Harrison, formerly business manager of the Bismarck (N. D.) Tribune, is now manager of the Iron Exchange Hotel at Brainerd, Minn.

James F. Linnane has resigned as secretary to Congressman James P. Glynn of the Fifth Connecticut district to become telegraph editor of the New Britain Herald.

Esmonde J. Phelan, formerly on the Meriden (Conn.) Journal, is now police reporter on the New Britain Herald.

Daniel B. Holden has succeeded Rufus J. Pendleton as editor of the Center (Neb.) Megaphone, a semi-monthly.

H. L. Howard has become editor and manager of the Puckwana (S. D.) Press-Reporter.

Paul L. Samuelson is now editing and managing the Ludlow (S. D.) Herald.

Justin E. Devalon, for ten years a reporter on the staff of the Mt. Vernon (Ohio) Republican-News, has become city editor of that paper, succeeding the late Charles E. Ayres.

Ernest Nobbs, formerly editor of the Hector (Minn.) Tribune, has become city editor of the Morris Tribune.

Roy L. Seright is the new editor of the Harrisburg (Ill.) Register, succeeding Gustave Oehm, who is now with the Chicago office of the United Press. Mr. Seright was formerly manager of the Sullivan (Ill.) Progress and publisher of the Rockton (Ill.) Herald.

Edwin Powell has resigned his position as sports editor of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Post Standard and has returned to the Philadelphia Press sports department.

INFORMATION ON M. F. ESSIG.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: In reference to your inquiry regarding Montgomery F. Essig, the body was recovered from New York Bay off 69th street, Brooklyn, and by a mark on the clothing and inquiry made, one George Miller, an orderly in the City Home, Blackwell's Island, went to the city mortuary, 475 Clarkson avenue, Brooklyn, and identified the body as that of Montgomery F. Essig, forty-two years old, white, born U. S., single, a former newspaper writer, of the City Home, Blackwell's Island.

JOSEPH FAUROT, Inspector Commanding Detective Bureau, Police Department, City of New York.

[NOTE.—The above letter refers to information asked for by Montgomery F. Essig, a member of the staff of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening, as to identification of a man of the same name, whose body was found in New York Bay on November 4. Mr. Essig of Wilmington believed he was the only newspaper man of his name.]

NEW YORK CALL TO BE AN EVENING PAPER.

Branding the Postmaster General as this country's "thought controller," Charles W. Ervin, managing editor of the New York Call, the Socialist newspaper, has announced that, because of recent strictures by the Post Office Department and "terrorism" by New York news distributing corporations, the Call would become an evening newspaper after December 2 and would handle its own distribution.

WEDDING BELLS.

A. G. Sand, editor and owner of the Hallok (Minn.) News, and Miss Olga Lindner were married on November 12.

Major James Baxter, former news editor of the Windsor (Ont.) Record, and Miss Marion Leitch were married recently in St. George's Church, London, England.

Asa A. Vincent, a Columbus (Ohio) newspaper man, will soon be married to Edna Wallace.

O'LEARY INDICTED UNDER ESPIONAGE ACT.

Jeremiah A. O'Leary, lawyer, Irish agitator and editor of the suppressed Bull, was indicted on November 23 by the Federal Grand Jury in New York on the charge of violating the Espionage Act.

Adolph Stern, business manager, and Luther S. Bedford, managing editor of the same publication, were also indicted.

Earl B. Barnes, assistant United States attorney, presented the charge to United States Judge Julius M. Mayer after an investigation that extended over two weeks. The offenses charged against the trio under the Espionage Act are, in event of conviction, punishable by a maximum term of twenty years in a Federal prison and a fine of $10,000. All three also are charged with conspiracy against the enforcement of the law, which is punishable by two additional years in prison and additional fines of $10,000 each.

O'Leary issued a statement, in which he said:

"Believing as I do that in what I have said, for which I have been indicted, I was exercising the right of free speech, and knowing as I do that in what I said I was actuated by but one motive and that pure patriotism, I shall defend myself against this charge, now made against me, and expect vindication at the hands of my fellow citizens."

JOHN KELLY MAKES CHANGE.

John F. Kelly has resigned from the circulation force of the New York Herald to take a road position under T. R. Smith, circulation manager of McClure's and the Ladies' World.

The above cut shows "Jack" Kelly as he looked at the time of his nine months' trip through the United States, Canada and Mexico when he was circulation manager of the New York Morning Telegraph.

CANADIAN ADVERTISERS' 1918 POLICY.

ASSOCIATION WILL INSIST ON KNOWING ALL ABOUT CIRCULATION WHICH ITS MEMBERS PURCHASE.

BY WILLIAM M. MacKAY,
New President Association of Canadian Advertisers.

First and foremost on the coming year's platform of the Association of Canadian Advertisers stands the subject of knowing correctly what effective and reliable circulation the advertiser buys.

The association has made considerable advances since its inauguration, in getting from the larger Canadian daily newspapers, weeklies and monthlies, efficient and audited data—but more progress along these lines is still required.

There will be a minimum of "buying pigs in pokes."

This subject is one of our main issues.

The Association of Canadian Advertisers has had co-operation from many of the Canadian papers in the past two years in securing audited circulation and our desire in the future will be to co-operate frankly—and in a spirit of equity—with the publishers.

The amount of misleading and fraudulent medicinal ads is still considerable. The committee in charge of this branch of the work has been most energetic.

To render general advertising more effective, the fraudulent or misleading advertisements "must go." By their elimination we encourage faith on the part of the public.

A number of our dailies, weeklies and monthly magazines in Canada—I am glad to say—do not allow their pages to be sullied by such a class of ads and "more power to them." Their co-operation has been appreciated.

As president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, my earnest desire will be to work in harmony and in a spirit of co-operation with the Canadian publishers along the path of progress, frankly and fully—and what I say I mean—for if there is any one thing I cannot tolerate—is the path of "bluff."

The association does appreciate the courtesy and friendly assistance it has received from the Association of National Advertisers of the United States in the interchange of advertising information and data—and whatever we are able to accomplish towards the bettering of advertising in Canada, will be of assistance to our advertising brethren in the United States.

The more progress we make here, the more effective we become in aiding and assisting our advertising brethren in the United States who use the Canadian press.

When the tyrant mad wolves of Europe are defeated and slain, by the help and might of the United States Army and Navy, an era of peace and the upbuilding of nations will ensue.

An era of industrial and commercial activity, with the "friendship" firmly welded together, of the two great English speaking nations—that will be the dawn of a new era. Let us hope, of more clearly, trustful, honest and effective advertising in the entire continent of North America.

William MacDonald MacKay was born in the north of Scotland, a descendant from the "fighting Reay MacKays" and from the MacDonalds on his mother's side. He served an "apprenticeship" of five years, learning the practical side of printing, from case work to machine, book-binding, paper buying and publishing.

Like many of his countrymen, MacKay wended his way to Britain's undertake the process of color printing.

Mr. MacKay, who ultimately had charge of the publishing department in London, had associated with him in the art work of the company, Thomas Crane, a brother of the world known artist, Walter Crane. During his service with Marcus Ward's, he learned about all there was to know about color printing and chromolithography.

From Ward's, Mr. MacKay went in 1898 to Lever Brothers, Ltd., of Port Sunlight, first as branch advertising manager in Dublin, Ireland, and afterwards for five years as office manager to the company in Glasgow, Scotland, five years as assistant to the export manager at headquarters; and for the past nine years with the Canadian company of Lever Brothers. His office is in Toronto.

Mr. MacKay's hobbies are gardening and literature. His collection of R. L. Sherman's works—and Stevenson's—is probably the largest in Canada.

Charles A. Smith has purchased the interests of the estate of Carl Zillier in the Sheboygan (Wis.) National Demokrat and has become editor.

Metropolis, which has been called the "Scot's Asylum," and was for eight years with the well known firm for Marcus Ward & Co., of London, Belfast, etc., publishers and color printers. Marcus Ward's is said to have been the first firm in Britain to

WILLIAM M. MACKAY,
NEW PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION OF CANADIAN ADVERTISERS.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Competition gave way to co-operation when the Minneapolis Advertising Forum tendered an "Over the River" party on November 29 in honor of the St. Paul (Minn.) Town Criers Club.

Mr. MacMartin of Minneapolis opened the program with a welcoming talk entitled "Over the River." Frank L. Maden, president of the St. Paul organization, responded with "Same to You."

W. J. Betting outlined the program for the approaching state ad men's convention to be held in St. Paul.

Louis A. Feibel, a merchant of Hillsboro and Columbus, Ohio, told the Advertisers Club of Cincinnati what is being done in those cities to eliminate undesirable advertising at the club luncheon on November 14.

Mrs. M. L. Zimmerman, known to newspaper men as "Zim," has resigned her position in the advertising department of the King Motor Car Company to give her entire attention to the cares of her home and her little daughter.

E. John Richards, for seven years in the advertising department of the Mt. Pleasant (Ia.) News, has been appointed advertising manager of the Palmer School of Chiropractic in Davenport. Mr. Richards was for a time publisher of the Mt. Pleasant Journal.

The necessity for advertising the science of chiropractic was brought to the attention of the Indiana Chiropractors Association, at their meeting, held in Indianapolis.

Representatives of Indianapolis newspapers pointed out that the science is practically a new one and must be brought to the attention of the public by means of advertising.

David N. Mussessohn, former president of the Portland (Ore.) Advertising Club, and David W. Griffith, the well known motion picture producer, were guests at the weekly luncheon of the Los Angeles Ad Club on November 13.

The Young Ad Men's Club of New York has undertaken to organize the junior movement in New York and to establish new junior clubs when necessary. Most of these junior clubs are associated with advertising courses in high schools.

The last meeting of the Young Ad Men's Club, on November 23, was addressed by Roy Johnson, the trademark specialist, who spoke on "Restraint in Copy."

At the next meeting, F. Fehman of Fruhauf Brothers Company will talk on "The Retailer."

At a meeting of the Des Moines Advertising Club last week, Homer J. Buckley and Robert C. Fay, both of Chicago, were speakers.

Miss Helen Carter has been elected president of the newly launched Women's Advertising Association of Chicago.

Ralph W. Knox on December 1 will assume the duties of advertising manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company, 233 Broadway, New York.

The Foulds Milling Company, New York, manufacturer of spaghetti and macaroni, is endeavoring to determine the respective "pulling" qualities of various advertising media.

A prize contest campaign for car cards has just been concluded and a newspaper campaign is now running.

Frank Stockdale, retailing counsel for the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, was one of the speakers at the war-time advertising dinner given by the Advertisers Club of Indianapolis, for the executive committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs and visiting advertising club presidents, at the Claypool Hotel, on November 19.

At the noon luncheon of the New York Advertising Club this week, held on Wednesday instead of Thursday, Abram I. Elkus, former ambassador to Turkey, told of conditions among the destitute Armenians, Syrians and Greeks. Mooshek Vorperian, an Armenian refugee, William C. Freeman, C. F. Reissner and C. V. Vickrey also spoke.

William Nolan, a Sidney (Australia) exporter, addressed the export division of the New York association, on November 26.

Donald Thompson, Leslie's war photographer, is scheduled to show a war film at the Monday evening dinner of the club on December 3.

At the Ladies' Night entertainment and dance of the Advertisers Club of Cincinnati on November 23, R. E. Fowler of the Butterick Publishing Company, and P. S. Forbes, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. C. W., were speakers.

PROGRAM OF THE MEETING.

NOTED SPEAKERS WILL BE AT THE ANNUAL BANQUET ON WEDNESDAY EVENING.

How well the Association of National Advertisers' meeting has been planned along the lines of the war times advertising problems, touched upon in his accompanying article by President A. C. Reiley, is best shown by reading the program.

In addition to the valuable business sessions, the annual dinner to be held on Wednesday evening should be memorable in A.N.A. history. Patriotism will be its keynote, and emphasis will be laid upon duties and opportunities to serve the nation at war.

Former United States Senator Theodore E. Burton will speak on "The Present Crisis."

Stephane Lauzanne, the editor of the Paris Matin, will tell about France.

George Haven Putnam, the well-known book publisher and veteran of the Civil War, will speak on "The Call of the Republic," discussing the problems that the nation had to solve in 1861 in their relation to our present problems and duties.

The program follows:

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

9.45 a.m.—Call to order.
Roll call.
President's annual report.
Secretary-treasurer's annual report.
Appointment by president of committee on resolutions.

1.45—"The A.N.A. and the movement for circulation audit standards." General survey by President Reiley.
"The A.N.A. organization's outlook on the situation," by Secretary Sullivan.

11.45—"Shall we establish an A.N.A. film bureau?" George Frank Lord, manager advertising division, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and chairman film advertising committee.

12.30 p. m.—Adjournment of session.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 p. m.—Call to order.
Roll call of new arrivals.
2.15—"Business and the War."
"War and advertising." Edward Hungerford, advertising manager, Wells Fargo & Co.
3—"Possible readjustments in business based on experiences in Great Britain." F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson, sales manager Welch Grape Juice Company.

3.45—Discussion.

5—Adjournment of session.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Annual dinner of the association (evening dress).

THURSDAY MORNING.

9.30 a.m.—Call to order.

Roll call of new arrivals.

Announcements.

9.45—"Investigating the Market."—"Getting the data about the market preliminary to preparing the advertising campaign."

First paper—Truman A. DeWeese, director of publicity Shredded Wheat Company.

10.15—Second paper. Frederick W. Nash, manager food department, General Chemical Company.

10.45—Third paper. R. A. Holmes, manager advertising and sales, Crofut & Knapp Company.

11.15—Discussion.

12 m.—Adjournment of session for luncheons in divisional meeting rooms.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

12.15 p. m.—Divisional luncheons and meetings in separate rooms—meetings to continue until 3 p. m.

A special list of subjects will be presented for consideration of each divisional meeting.

3—Resumption of general session in conference hall.

"Business and the War."

"The Liberty Loans and business."

O. C. Harn, advertising manager National Lead Company.

3.30—Discussion.

4—"Copy that is and isn't." Tim Thrift, advertising manager American Multigraph Sales Company.

4.30—"The standards of profitable advertising." George French, editor Advertising News.

5.30—Adjournment of session.

THURSDAY EVENING.

8 p. m.—"Export advertising and selling."

Special program to be presented.

Leader, David L. Brown, manager export division advertising department, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

FRIDAY MORNING.

9.30 a. m.—Call to order

Announcements

9.45—"Fraudulent advertising."

"What progress has been made in 1917 in elimination of fraudulent advertising?" R. L. Prather, advertising manager Thomas G. Plant Company and chairman standards of practice committee.

10.15—"A new slant on the question of fraudulent advertising." W. A. Martin, Jr., manager sales and advertising department D. E. Sicher & Co.

10.45—Presentation of nominations committee's report.

Election of president, vice-president and board of directors.

11.15—"Fraudulent Advertising." (Resumption of subject).

"Conserving confidence." R. H. Lee, New York Tribune.

11.45—Discussion.

12.30—Adjournment of session.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

2 p. m.—Call to order.

2.15—Discussion covering all addresses on "Business and War." Leader, George W. Hopkins, general sales manager Columbia Graphophone Company.

3.15—Round table discussion.

Subjects: "Mail advertising—Testimony on the relative efficiency of different kinds of mail methods."

"Taking steps to offset any slump in business that may occur on account of conditions caused by war."

"Methods of preventing waste of advertising literature distributed through dealers."

Other subjects may be proposed by letter to the secretary-treasurer.

4.15—Address by new president.

5—Adjournment of annual meeting.

OFFICERS OF ASSOCIATION OF NATIONAL ADVERTISERS.

The officers and board of directors of the Association of National Advertisers, Inc., are:

President, Alan C. Reiley, Remington Typewriter Company, New York.
Vice-president, Edward S. Babcox, Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

N. H. Boynton, National Lamp Works of the General Electric Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

O. C. Harn, National Lead Company, New York.

R. A. Holmes, Crofut & Knapp Company, New York.

Edward Hungerford, Wells Fargo & Co., New York.

L. B. Jones, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Floyd Y. Keeler, I. W. Lyon & Sons, Inc., New York (chairman of the executive committee).

W. A. McDermid, Gerhard Mennen Chemical Company, Newark, N. J.

Charles E. Percy, the Joseph & Feiss Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

R. L. Prather, Thomas G. Plant Shoe Company, Boston.

George B. Sharpe, DeLaval Separator Company, New York.

Edwin L. Shuey, Lowe Brothers Company, Dayton, Ohio.

Tim Thrift, American Multigraph Sales Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

John Neville Boyle, of New York, is general counsel of the A. N. A.

John Sullivan is the secretary-treasurer, with offices at 15 East 26th street, New York.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Russell T. Kelley, president of the Hamilton Advertisers' Agency, Ltd., of Hamilton Ont., will henceforth take an active interest in the company's work and will assume the title of general manager.

B. C. Carroll is in charge of the service department of the agency.

E. D. Reed, who resigned as sales and merchandising director of the Hamilton Agency, is at present sales manager of the Stopplare Sales Company for Canada and the United States.

The copy department of the William H. Rankin Advertising Company, Chicago, has been asked by the Government to submit copy for the new Thrift Stamp savings plan which will be promoted by the Government during December and January. Page copy has been supplied, the catch-line being "Save a Thrift Stamp Every Day."

The Rankin copy-writers have already assisted the Government in Liberty Loan and Red Cross advertising.

The Fisher-Steinbruegge Advertising Company and the Ruebel-Brown Advertising Agency, both of St. Louis, have been consolidated. The consolidated agency will be called the Fisher-Ruebel-Brown Advertising Agency.

The officers of the new organization are: C. L. Fisher, president; D. A. Ruebel, vice-president; D. E. Nirdlinger, vice-president; J. L. Tait, secretary; and John Young Brown, Jr., treasurer. The offices of the agency are in the Advertising Building.

Nation-wide conservation along all lines need not disturb advertising conditions, in the opinion of William H. Rankin. On the other hand, he believes that conservation will lead to wide advertising of substitutes for the food and materials to be conserved.

"As our need for conservation grows, the power of advertising will be greater," says Mr. Rankin.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL IS DOING GOOD WORK.

There are 20,000 women assisting the fighters' service bureau of the Minneapolis Journal in doing home service for and corresponding with men in all branches of service, from whom more than 10,000 requests have been received. And requests are coming in at the rate of 200 a day.

Through the bureau, soldiers on foreign soil have been provided with approximately 5,000 Christmas gifts.

PORTO RICAN OUT ON BAIL.

Vicente Balbas, editor of the Heraldo de las Antillas of San Juan, Porto Rico, has been arrested for alleged violation of the Espionage Act and the Trading with the Enemy Act, and was subsequently released under $20,000 bond.

Simple Design,
Quality Materials,
Skilful Builders, make the

INTERTYPE

The BETTER Machine

Efficient and Durable

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

Executive Offices
80 Court Street BROOKLYN, N.Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

GREEN PRINT PAPER FOR SALE

The undersigned, as receiver for the Monitor Publishing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has on hand about 130,000 pounds of green print paper, such as was used by the Monitor for its sport editions when publication was suspended. This paper is 36½ inches wide, basis 24x24x32, and can be sold under the appraisal for 4 cents a pound or less.

If interested address E. Howard Gilkey, Box 274, Columbus, Ohio.

$19,000

buys small daily newspaper property which returns owner $5,000 to $6,000 annually for personal effort and investment. $10,000 cash necessary. Proposition P. Y.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Sales Purchases Consolidations Appraisals of Newspaper and Magazine Properties

AUDREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON
Harwell & Cannon
Times Building NEW YORK

Newspaper For Sale in the Sunny South

Small daily in growing Southern resort, exclusive field, netting annually close to $7,000. Extraordinary opportunity. Price $30,000, half cash asked. Proposition No. 179x.

Small city daily and high class weekly in desirable Idaho locations. Nos. 7001x and 579x.

Special offer in small city daily in rich Colorado field. No. 598x.

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

PUBLISHERS, ATTENTION—Sample copy addresses FURNISHED FREE in lots of 1,000 or less. Over 2,000,000 book and magazine buyers on our lists. State what you want. 500 copies of any small magazine MAILED FREE if sent to me prepaid. Advertising or mailing service given in exchange for odd lots of interesting books or booklets in good, clean condition. Address: Moore's Expert Service, New Egypt, N. J.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 30,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

210 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

S. M. Greene has changed the name of the Jefferson (La.) Free Lance to the Herald on the theory that the old name sounded too much like the Appeal to Reason.

AMUSEMENTS.

Aeolian Hall—48d st., between 5th and 6th aves.—Symphony concerts for children, Dec. 1, Jan. 18 and Feb. 16; Dec. 8, Mme. Ada del V. Lombardi; Dec. 8, Guitomar Novoes; Dec. 14, Louis Jas. Boulter; Dec. 15, Mme. Helen Stanley; Dec. 29 and Jan. 5, Robert Lortai and Jacques Thibaud.

Astor—B'way & 46th—"The Very Idea."
Belasco—W. 44th—"Polly With a Past."
Booth—45th, west of B'way—"The Masquerader."

Bijou—W. 45th—"Odds and Ends."
Broadhurst—44th, west of B'way—"Her Regiment."

Broadway—At 41st st—"The Door Between;" "The Silent Lady."
Bronx Opera House—149th E. of 3d av.—"The Man Who Came Back."

Carnegie Hall—7th ave. and 57th st.—Six symphony concerts for young people, Nov. 17, Dec. 15, Jan. 5, Feb. 3, 23, March 9.

Century—62d and Central Park W.—"Miss 1917."

Geo. M. Cohan—B'way & 42d—"The King."
Cohan & Harris—West 43d—"A Tailor-Made Man."

Comedy—41st, between Broadway and 6th av.—Washington Square Players.
Casino—39th and B'way—"Oh, Boy."

Cort—48th and B'way—"De Luxe Annie."

Criterion—44th & B'way—"Madame Sand."

Eltinge—West of 43d—"Business Before Pleasure."

Empire—B'way & 40th—"The Three Bears."
39th St.—Near B'way—"What's Your Husband Doing?"

44th St.—"Over the Top."

48th St.—Near B'way—"The Gay Lord Quex."

Fulton—B'way & 46th—"Broken Threads."

Gaiety—B'way, near 46th—"The Country Cousin."

Globe—B'way & 46th—"Jack o' Lantern."

Greenwich Village—4th st. and 7th av.—Three one-act plays.

Harris—West 42d—"Losing Heloise."

Hitchcock's 44th St.—"Hitchy-Koo."

Hippodrome—6th av. & 44th—"Cheer Up."

Hudson—W. 44th—"The Pipes of Pan."

Irving Place—Irving pl and 16th—"A Doctor's Dilemma."

Knickerbocker—B'way & 38th—"Art and Opportunity."

Lycium—West 46th—"Tiger Rose."

Lyric—42d West of B'way—Theda Bara in "Cleopatra."

Lexington—51st and Lex.—"Bringing Up Father."

Liberty—W. 42d—"The Grass Widow."

Longacre—W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane."

Manhattan Opera House—West 34th—bet. 8th and 9th avs.—"Chu Chin Chow."

Maxine Elliott—39th st. East of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."

Metropolitan Opera House—B'way and 40th—Grand Opera.

Morocco—45th West of B'way—"Lombardi, Ltd."

New Amsterdam—W. 42d—"The Riviera Girl."

Palace—B'way, near 47th—Vaudeville.

Park—Columbus Circle—"The Land of Jov."

Playhouse—45th East of B'way—"Le Elevation."

Plymouth—45th w. of B'way—"The Star Gazer."

Princess—39th near B'way—"Six Months Option."

Republic—West 42d—"On With the Dance."

Riverdale—B'way & 96th—Vaudeville.

Standard—B'way & 90th—"Every Woman."

Shubert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime."

Winter Garden—B'way and 60th—"Doing Our Bit."

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

Two Monotype Equipments For Sale Cheap

Two Monotype Keyboards and casters with motors.

Molds and matrices for 7, 9, 10 and 12 pt. composition.

Thirty-one fonts of display mats from 12 point to 30 point inclusive, and five steel cabinets holding 2,400 sort boxes—making a complete equipment for non-distribution system.

The casters are in perfect condition, having been entirely rebuilt very recently, and embody every late improvement. The cabinet and sort boxes are new.

This monotype outfit will equip a first-class job office or a newspaper carrying a volume of advertising ranging from 100 to 150 columns per day.

Any one interested in such an equipment should communicate with the undersigned at once, for it will be sold at a very low figure.

THE HARTFORD TIMES
HARTFORD, CONN.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 72,000 per hour. $9,44, 36, 24, 20 and 28 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

FOR SALE

Linotype, No. 5. Good as new. Less than half price.

BARGAIN

Wire or write Box 938, care The Fourth Estate.

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 8011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPES—A few first-class models No. 5, as good as new, at a sacrifice. Address Box 937, care The Fourth Estate.

FOR SALE.

Want To Buy a Morgue?

For Sale—75,000 envelopes and 175 boxes of clippings covering prominent persons, places, news events, etc. Unique and invaluable. Revised to date. For appointment to inspect write

E. H. EATON,
225 W. 39th St., New York City

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS
General Offices,
373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

HELP WANTED.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Telegraph editor for Regina Daily Post (evening). City of 50,000 capital of Saskatchewan. Salary $30. References as to character and ability required. Man with Canadian experience preferred.

Aggressive, thriving farm paper, thoroughly established, wants PROGRESSIVE YOUNG EDITOR with experience in agricultural field. Must be a live one and able to handle a live proposition. Location in attractive Northwestern city. Send full particulars to Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Live, up-to-date evening paper in city of 20,000 wants managing editor. $35 to start. Combination circulation and advertising man who knows the game from start to finish—four months contract $1,000. Assistant ad man to step into this man's shoes at expiration of contract, salary $25 week to start. Two experienced reporters, $20 week, with chances to rise. This is a new proposition. Excellent field. Address Box 939 care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Man Wanted

There will soon be a fine opening for a good circulation man on the leading paper of one of the big cities of the central states. Place will be offered to man of ability and character. Creative as well as executive ability necessary. Write fully (your own hand) giving your record for the last ten years. Describe yourself closely, mentioning habits and hobbies. State your age and your reasons for wishing to change. Tell what salary you would expect. Address Box 935, care The Fourth Estate.

Bookkeeper-Manager

Southern trade journal in big field wants combination editor and bookkeeper-manager. Salary $25 week and monthly bonus. In all will easily pay $150 month. Want a hustler with good record, place permanent. Given full authority, sign checks, direct staff, etc. Owners have other interests. Address: Box 409, Godschaux Building, New Orleans, La.

ADVERTISING SOLICITOR

Wall Street man wanted by leading special agency representing New York City and other leading daily papers. Want man who knows big financial concerns, advertising agents and advertisers in Wall Street. Address in confidence, giving experience and salary wanted. Permanent position to right man. Address Box 943, care The Fourth Estate.

Canvasser

We want a man to handle country circulation of live city newspaper. Work will consist mostly of canvassing country districts, and a man with such experience would be first considered. Will pay all expenses to man on the road and make good salary and commission proposition. Proposition is such as to insure permanent proposition and a decent living. Address Box 947, care The Fourth Estate.

Are You an Advertising Man and can you deliver the goods? If you can produce for a live farm weekly an attractive proposition is open to you. Tell us the whole story in your first letter. Address Box 948, care The Fourth Estate.

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.
YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

SITUATIONS WANTED.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

To Newspaper Owners:

Is your plant earning its maximum? Is your circulation in proportion to your mechanical and editorial capacities? If not, why not?

A Newspaper Expert

versed in every department of a newspaper, counting room, press room, composing room, editorial departments and circulation department, will make a careful examination of every detail of your establishment (or one you think of purchasing) from roof to cellar, and report its condition, furnishing, in addition, working ideas and suggestions, and practical and practicable plans for the improvement and increased efficiency of every department.

Circulation schemes, based upon capacity and efficiency of plants, and possible points of economy will be supplied after examination. Correspondence invited. Address "A to Z," care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Result Getter!

Thirty-two years old, who has been a successful newspaper executive eight years and worked from the ground up. Will sever present connection January first. Is open to proposition from live daily, afternoon preferred. Expects good salary, but expects to earn it or get fired. Can write editorials with a punch in them. Knows how to handle men well. Record in present position shows strong economies. A heavy reduction in reading matter, yet with news so handled that it has been possible to increase advertising rates, increase circulation and increase net income per subscriber from circulation. Essentially the right man when expenses are growing so rapidly. Married. In good health and teetotaler. A Northerner, but experienced principally in the South. Address Box 932, care The Fourth Estate.

Contest Men

WANTED—Three or four good contest men at once; must be producers; state age, experience and give references in first letter; also state salary wanted. Address P. O. Box 599, Shreveport, La.

Circulation Manager

Wanted—Position as circulation manager on daily paper having between 10,000 and 75,000 circulation. Anywhere in the United States. Ten years' experience in circulation work; 35 years old, married, and at present employed, but desire a change. Have record showing fine gain in circulation in department which I have had charge of for last four years. Address G 500, care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor

Working Managing Editor—Writer of almost any line—editorials, theaters, books, desk man of wide experience. Prefer afternoon paper with full editorial charge. Capable as well as careful. One libel suit in fifteen years. Have position but want a change to keep from going "stale." Address Pep, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man wants desk job; knows the game; university graduate; thoroughly experienced in every news and editorial line; never drinks; married; can take entire editorial and news charge; healthy, active, willing. Address Box 936, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation Manager

wants position on small Eastern daily. Has had many years experience on metropolitan newspapers. Salary not so much an object as position with live outfit. Member of the I.C.M.A. with best of references. Address Box 921, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

Resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical; economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Managing Editor

Backed by experience and record of success. Able to produce results and build up real heart of paper. At present engaged in city 300,000. Prefer South. Worked up in ranks, held and supervised every department on metropolitan dailies. Familiar with publisher's problems in cities 75,000 upward. Strictly sober; married. Seek place where can permanently build for paper and city. Thirty-six years old. Require at least 30 days' notice. Address Box 931, care The Fourth Estate.

Right effort insures good results.

Mapping out an advertising campaign for THE FOURTH ESTATE is the right kind of effort.

Our Service Department will help you secure good results.

Managing Editor

Can answer all reasonable requirements, is open for immediate engagement. Salary $40 to $60, dependent on city. Address Box 928, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

Circulation manager now employed desires to make change for position in city ences. Address Box 984, care The Fourth Estate.

A woman of literary experience desires position. Topics of interest to women and children or general matters. Booklets, typing, fashions, society, household, Miss F. Seeger, Box 94, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Advertising Man

Not a world beater, simply a fellow who has made an earnest study of advertising and believes he can give sincere, honest service to advertisers. His copy has brought good results. Is not a star solicitor, but can handle and get accounts that depend on real service. Wants position as service man or agency copy writer. Experience: Advertising, business and general manager of small dailies. Age 29, unmarried, exempt from draft. References gladly given. Address Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager

Experience of 9 years as advertising manager and solicitor; now employed; desires change; A-1 references; married; go anywhere. Address Box 941, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Solicitor

first-class, with years of experience, is open for any good offer December 1; know how to get the business, either transient or contracts, also pages and special stunts. References, any publisher I ever worked for. Address or wire "WAR Exempt," care The Fourth Estate.

L. L. RICKETTS

for the past ten years circulation manager of the Des Moines Capital, is open for a position. He is especially well known on account of his successful handling of the Bargain Period method of securing subscriptions and for newsboy welfare work. Write him for references, salary, etc., to 3907 Forest ave., Des Moines, Ia.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or how you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Larger Profits

possible on present business, and a LARGER VOLUME to get profits from.

Here's a lived Man to do it. A publisher's assistant or business manager—a production engineer also, with a successful record—technically and practically trained—a newspaper builder "inside" and "outside" the front door—wants to listen to the publisher of a live or dead proposition who needs a man of ability, reliability and force.

A production record unexcelled, and a man who will organize, administer and get results in every department.

A specialist in manufacture and service; knows when and where to spend, and when and where not to.

Not a novice and not attracted by a novice's salary, though willing to consider a weekly drawing account and a yearly salary based on increased profits. Employed. Gilt edge references. Address Box 929, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Foreman

Capable of handling any size plant wishes change from present situation. Over four years have been with the largest plant in South. Above draft. Have family. Will not connect with other than absolutely substantial people. Hard worker and fast make-up. Not a boor or smoker. Address S. S., care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

with twelve years' experience on leading daily newspapers desires to make a change. Prefer daily paper with circulation of 25,000 to 100,000 circulation. Expert in handling boys. Would consider city circulation on large daily. Gilt edge references furnished as to ability and reliability. Address Box 980, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man of long experience offers his services as editor, editorial writer, telegraph editor, city editor, desk man, political man, special or feature writer, or war correspondent. American by birth, British descent, Republican in politics, married, absolutely temperate, well educated, available at any time. Permanent engagement sought. Address Writer, care Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER, 15 years' experience; for the past eight years on the largest small town daily east of the Mississippi. Will consider change after January 1. Will take entire charge of circulation or of the outside and mail. Prefer paper with large outside field and will only consider permanent position on paper having 15,000 or more. Address Box 944, care The Fourth Estate.

High Grade Man

with long experience as business and advertising manager, wishes to make change. Excellent record for building up and holding patronage; writes effective copy; pleasing manners and good mixer. Address Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

Business Manager and Managing Editor.

of daily newspaper with more than 100,000 circulation invite correspondence with responsible publisher afternoon newspaper which is in need of rehabilitation and development. Both executives in present positions for terms of years. Box 945, care The Fourth Estate.

HEMSTREETPRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

We can Increase Your Business.
You want it Increased, don't you?

Of course you have thought of Press Clippings yourself—but let us tell you how Press Clippings can be made a BUSINESS-BUILDER for you.

"BURRELLE"

ESTABLISHED A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

60 and 62 Warren Street
NEW YORK

NEW ADVERTISING MUST BE CREATED.

AFTER CHRISTMAS RUSH, WHAT WILL PAPERS DO, WHEN GOVERNMENT BANS LUXURIES? SOME SUGGESTIONS.

By WALDON FAWCETT.

Newspaper publishers have, just now, greater need than ever to diversify the advertising side of their industry.

Newspapers, all up and down the land, are in the first lap of the greatest Christmas advertising drive on record, and it is not a minute too early for publishers to be looking around for new advertising accounts to replace those that, if not withdrawn, are likely to be seriously curtailed in the immediate future.

This is the significance for the newspapers in the moves that are being made at Washington to curtail the production and distribution of all "non-essentials."

Officials at the capital have within the week reassured alarmed manufacturers to the extent of telling them that no non-vital industry is going to be denied railroad cars or cut off from its supply of fuel without having an opportunity for a hearing.

As a matter of fact, however, any business man who can take any real comfort in such an assurance is welcome to it.

Every maker of luxury goods will have "his day in court," never fear of that, and possibly the powers that be will agree to curtail his supplies of raw material gradually instead of precipitately. But the big outstanding fact that confronts the newspaper advertising departments is that, slow or swift, the nation is in for a marked contraction, for the period of the war, of trade in luxuries and near-luxuries.

A beginning has already been made in denying the use of open-top railroad cars for the transportation of material for the manufacture of pleasure vehicles, musical instruments and furniture.

That is only a beginning.

Under the spur of war necessity, Uncle Sam is going to put a crimp in the production of many of the classes of articles most extensively advertised in the newspapers.

In addition to automobiles and talking machines there may be mentioned jewelry, and all manner of articles of personal adornment.

And only note, ye skeptical, what has already come to pass in the confectionery and chewing gum field, where, at the harvest time of the year, the industry finds its output suddenly cut in half owing to the restriction of sugar supply by Governmental order.

When anybody says anything about the impending slump in the advertising of non-essentials, the optimistic advertising manager thinks only of such obvious examples as pianos, player-pianos, sporting goods, cameras for amateurs, etc. That the blight will not be thus restricted in scope is, however, apparent from the fact that the Railroads' War Board has recommended to the Priority Division of the Council of National Defense 450 different classes of articles, which, it is claimed, the public can dispense with without inconvenience and seventy-five additional classes of articles which can be dispensed with at slight inconvenience.

LOOKS BAD FOR LUXURY ADS.

To imagine or pretend that any readjustment of the status on non-essentials will not disturb the equilibrium of newspaper advertising is flying in the face of Providence.

Doubtless the luxury advertising will all come back in time but for the time being only the sudden ending of the war can prevent an overturning of the established order of things.

Of course, there is no desire to needlessly alarm and it is not predicted that the national advertisers now in the newspapers, whose production is being interfered with, will in most instances entirely cease advertising, but it is stated on the best of authority that many of these large advertisers are planning to take just enough space to keep their names before the public, to safeguard their good-will and protect their trademarks against the return of normal conditions.

The solution of the situation for the newspapers, according to some of the best informed men in the business, who have lately been in Washington with the object of gaining first-hand information relative to what is coming, is to cultivate new advertising accounts to replace the old and keep up the totals.

As luck would have it, the situation favors the newspapers in several respects.

For one thing, some of the manufacturers whose noses have been "put out of joint" are turning to the manufacture of articles that will not carry the stigma of "non-essential," but these new products, albeit necessities, must be advertised if they are to find a market.

Similarly, the conditions now obtaining in this country are bringing on the market great numbers of substitutes and alternatives that spell opportunity for the newspapers, because newspaper advertising is the ideal means of exploiting an innovation for which quick public acquaintance is sought.

An illustration of how this is working out is found in the newly patented composite materials which have lately been placed on the market as substitutes for leather.

As a result of the advent of these special new types of soles great numbers of shoe repair shops, that never before advertised, have within the past few months taken space of large aggregate in the newspapers.

OPPORTUNITIES TO REPLACE LOST ADS.

That this opportunity to replace lapsed luxury advertising by new advertising of necessities extends to the food field is eloquently attested by the present boom in the advertising, locally as well as nationally, of oleomargarine, nut preparations and other butter substitutes, the newspaper campaign to promote the use of corn meal and other corn products, and latterly the quick-on-the-trigger project to seize upon the sugar shortage as an opportunity to advertise syrups, honey and other sugar substitutes.

From the very nature of things, war-time conditions—without regard to any restrictions placed upon luxuries—must stimulate foodstuffs advertising in many lines, but quite aside from such advertising, intimately related as it is to the high cost of living, there is the other new advertising that is resulting from changed conditions in essential lines.

One specific development—the present shortage of wool, seems certain to bring in its train extensive advertising activity.

Art and industry are busy with new substitutes for woollens and worsteds, and with goods carrying lower percentages of wool, but assuredly the public will need to be sold on the warmth and durability of these new articles and fabrics for which it is being asked to pay prices as high as was formerly demanded for the extensive "all wool" commodities.

And all this discussion of the readjustment of advertising takes heed, be it noted, only of display.

The classified pages, however, are no worry in any newspaper office. The war shortage of labor has swollen the classified in the case of the average newspaper to proportions never before attained.

MAGAZINE NOTES

Charles H. Woolley, for ten years with the Scripps-McKee newspapers, has become vice-president and business manager of the Sunset Magazine, San Francisco.

Harrie M. Krugler, who has been associated with the New York office of the Modern Priscilla, has been made assistant to A. J. Crockett, advertising manager, and will cover New England and New York State.

The Canada Monthly of Toronto will be changed to a weekly publication known as the Canada Weekly. Ernest Lawson, recently assistant business manager of Everywoman's World, will be general manager.

Edward H. Harris has been made advertising director of the Dead-Line, Chicago, which in the future will be published by a new corporation known as the Newspaper Book Company.

Mr. Harris will continue as advertising director for Oak Leaves and other publications issued by the Donaldson Publishing Company of Oak Park, Ill.

DeLysle Ferree Cass will continue as editor and general manager of the Dead-Line.

George B. Spencer, formerly general manager of the Good Health Magazine, Battle Creek, Mich., has resigned to enter another line of work.

Beginning with the February number, Physical Culture will adopt the flat style of make-up.

PROFESSOR OUSTED.

The appointment of Leonidas R. Whipple as professor of journalism at the University of Virginia was rescinded on November 27 by the board of visitors after an investigation of alleged disloyal sentiments expressed by Whipple in an address last week at Sweet Briar College, Va.

No action was taken on the appointment of a successor.

BAN LIFTED FROM HARDEN.

Maximilian Harden has been permitted to republish Die Zukunft, according to the Berliner Tageblatt.

The editor will be allowed to continue his lectures, forbidden a month ago.

SOME NEW BOOKS.

"THE SOLDIER'S SERVICE DICTIONARY," by Frank H. Vizetelly, Litt. D., LL. D.; Funk & Wagnalls, publishers.

This serviceable and compact dictionary of English and French terms will be of help to any man in the United States service; and is also to be recommended as of immediate value to a news or magazine writer who is meeting the new phrases and words which are quickly springing into being because of the present war.

"THE SECRET OF TYPEWRITING SPEED," by Margaret B. Owen; Forbes & Co., publishers.

Miss Owen, the world's champion typist, has presented to an interested public her first book on typewriter knowledge. It is a complete treatment of a subject which she is eminently fitted to discuss. The chapters on "Eliminating Lost Motion," "the Good Secretary," and "Office Economy" will be of especial value to the office manager and the office force in the newspaper world or in any other business enterprise.

"THE ENLIGHTENMENT OF PAULINA," by Wilkins Tompkins; E. P. Dutton & Co., publishers.

A work of American fiction to be welcomed and recommended for consideration. This book has to do with the making over of a woman through appreciation of life as it flows on in a Southern town, a healthy and normal reaction through the forces of nature.

"FIRST AID FOR THE TRENCHES," by Captain Somerville Hastings, R. A. M. C.; George U. Harvey, publisher.

This is one of the practical and useful handbooks of the Harvey Military Series, brought out in England and recently printed here with a preface by Major F. S. Macy, M. C., U. S. A.

"APPLIED MOTION STUDY," by Frank B. Gilbreth and L. M. Gilbreth, Ph. D.; Sturgis & Walton, publishers.

This book is made up of ten closely related chapters on motion study and its relation to the science of management. It must not, however, be regarded as a handbook of motion study technique. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbreth should have dedicated the volume to the work of proving that management is most sympathetic and human when it is most analytic and scientific.

HELP WANTED.

Editorial Writer Wanted

High grade publication has opening for a clear and forceful writer on daily news events and general affairs. He should be thoroughly conversant with public life and men, particularly of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and possessor of a literary style. Preference will be given to good practical newspaper man who has had Philadelphia experience. Applications will be held in strictest confidence. To secure interview, please send samples or specimens of your matter, and full details as to personality, experience, etc. Address Editor, P. O. Box 479, Philadelphia.

PUTTING
OVERTHE BIG CAMPAIGNS

ARTICLE X.

MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY DISCOVERS
THE GREAT POWER OF NEWSPAPER
PUBLICITY—PARAMOUNT COPY.

By W. LIVINGSTON LARNED.

A remarkable advertisement, employing almost a full page in one of New York's greatest daily newspapers, was the talk of the big town for an entire week.

It represented a more aggressive newspaper spirit than motion picture people had attempted—or shown—in the history of the profession. For this wonder advertisement was on the subject of Motion Pictures.

It was a Paramount-Arcraft display, bigger, bolder, many times more compelling than the best that had gone before, although this particular combine has been decidedly active of late.

"That advertisement makes me want to go the movies," remarked an advertising man, who normally would not be expected to grow emotional over something that had come from the workshop of his own trade.

He was showing the page to a friend.

"Never cared for pictures—never wanted to waste time over them—but that piece of publicity wins me completely. The agency is doing excellent work."

And the page deserved all that was said in its favor. In make-up, illustration, text and spirit, it represents quite the highest degree of motion picture publicity.

We want you to read fragments of the text. It is well worth your attention. Here is genuine "human interest" reading matter—the kind the public will read—the kind that "sells goods."

Heretofore no one in the industry has attempted to turn the trick in quite the same fashion.

There have been talks on stars and talks on plots and talks on the thunderous melodrama of the profession, but the deeper note was never thought "good advertising."

People wouldn't "get it"—that was what the wise ones said. "Nothing high brow gets over" was a common expression.

POWERFUL ILLUSTRATIONS.

There is an illustration at the top of this advertisement, executed on rough surface paper, in crayon. It is by a nationally known magazine artist, Richard Culter, and is exquisitely done.

There are two couples commanding the foreground position in a dimly lighted motion picture theater and all the thrill and pathos and tragedy and romance of plot and counter-plot are shown in the expressions of those four faces.

An elderly couple have "sneaked off" to see the feature.

Grandpa is bending far forward, leaning on his cane. He's smiling.

Grandmother, in her plain gown and fluffy cap, has managed to find Grandfather's hand in the darkness and is holding it—very tightly.

Near them, the second couple is equally absorbed in the picture—a pretty girl and her soldier sweetheart. And they are holding hands.

It's all very sweet and natural and interesting, even to the hurried reader of a daily paper—in New York.

The caption reads:

"And there you will find your old sweetheart!"

The copy is quaintly convincing:

"Come—drop that newspaper for tonight! Maybe she's tired of a paper wall and silence and the width of a lighted table between you. Maybe she's thinking of those other evenings when you sat next each other—and there were no lights. Come forget the news for once. Take her to a theater, where, any time you go, you'll see a picture worthy of your best and finest moods—clean, well-directed, played by famous stars."

THE TEXT RINGS TRUE.

There is a sense of being talked to—intimately. The text rings true. The big, blustery press-agent type of publicity gab is entirely missing.

There must be good pictures, you say to yourself.

But, to continue:

"How long since you sat that way together?"

"Habit has built a wall of common-places. You sit on opposite side of a table—and read newspapers or pore over bills."

"But here—there is no table between you. No light to disclose harsh realities. You sit, close, side by side, and maybe your hands touch."

"You are learning how to be lovers again, from fleeting lights and shadows that move across a screen. And as that unconscious hard crust of life is melted by the kindly warmth of a finer tender feeling, you glance at each other and see—no, not brows knit with problems and plans of today and tomorrow—but the shy young girl and strong romantic youth of those other, bygone days and their never forgotten sweethearts."

"You have found your old sweetheart again."

It may sound silly for a second. You may scoff at the sticky sentimentality of the thought and its wording. You may even turn away. But the great rank and file of us still possess sentiment. Sweetheart thoughts are rather attractive.

We turn back to the page and have another look.

There has been entirely too little of genuine sentiment in newspaper advertising copy. Campaigns have struggled along with the conventionalisms of sale and product and cross-counter bargaining.

More and more does advertising put forward some of the homely ideas and arguments of everyday life. These pieces of copy are "making good." People are reading them. They are deucedly sincere and clever men who are writing them.

THE OLD MOVIE WAYS.

There was a time when Paramount Pictures were rather crudely advertised. Tons of electros were sent to papers all over the country. They were about as inspired and as inspiring as the plated matter then sent to further the sale of soap or beans, or kitchen stoves.

And this advertising was not particularly successful. It managed to get nowhere. Every little motion picture exhibitor could cook up its equal by half trying. The pictures were usually pictures of stars, reproduced from line drawings over silver prints. Not a ripple stirred the surface of the trade.

And then Paramount became affiliated with another producing firm—Arcraft.

And the latter organization had not only produced very fine pictures, well conceived and directed, but well advertised, and the wedding was an auspicious occasion.

NEWSPAPERS THE NATIONAL MEDIA.

"We'll advertise our pictures as they deserve to be advertised," said the powers that be.

"And we will advertise heavily in newspapers. That is our natural medium. We will make people sit up and take notice. We will humanize and dignify the advertising of motion picture in newspapers. We have an open field—no one is doing it properly now—no one ever has in the past."

And this was true.

All of the uncertainty and doubt and skepticism of the industry has been removed by these handsome displays. Renewed confidence in all motion pictures has been one of the results.

The makers of the pictures must be serious in their intention to produce only the best. Triflers would not and could not create such advertising for an unworthy article. Was it possible to make a consumer go in and ask for a certain make of trade-marked picture, just as advertising had made them ask for trade-marked soup and perfume and a thousand other commodities?

Why not?

Past failures in the attempt meant nothing. No really serious effort had ever been made.

Abridged and abbreviated advertisements of the large space displays are in every small local exhibitor's hands. His community is told the same story. It is significant to note that Paramount-Arcraft used largest space in the hardest market in the world notoriously so. New York is a very difficult nut to crack. New Yorkers have a surfeit of entertainment. The best of it, of all kinds, originates there.

It requires genuine courage to "tackle" the metropolitan market. Agencies brace their shoulders and square off for a fight when the subject is mentioned.

And now, after a month or so of it, New York is beginning to read and absorb the big Paramount message.

Exhibitors say that people come to the box office and ask if these pictures are to be shown. If not, why not?

It is good to know that an industry, long looked upon with misgiving, and never respected, beyond a certain line, has made its newspaper advertising reinstate it—give it prestige and a place in the sun.

No great advertising department of national fame can boast of better, more progressive publicity, than the Paramount-Arcraft advertising. Much money and as high a quality of grey matter are going into these excellent campaigns.

It should reassure the average advertiser.

Many things are easier to sell and easier to advertise than motion pictures.

As for the ad-writer who is putting the human touch into the publicity—bless him—he must be a regular fellow!

NEW SUNDAY EDITION.

The Macon (Ga.) News brought out its first Sunday issue on November 18.

NEW FOREIGN MAIL RULES.

Regulations to govern the transmission to or from the United States of communications not in the regular course of the mails will be issued within a few days under the Trading with the Enemy Act.

Ship and consignees' mail consisting of bills of lading and similar business documents probably will not be forbidden when destined to neutral countries, and considerable latitude will be allowed commercial travelers and other representatives of business concerns to carry in luggage letters relating strictly to their business.

Most other communications will be forced into mail channels to be subjected to censorship.

Communications to enemy or ally of enemy countries are forbidden except by license of the War Trade Board.

The customs division of the Treasury Department will have charge of the administration of the regulations.

DINNER FOR THE "BUCKEYE DAISIES."

Colonel E. S. Wilson of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal and Mrs. Wilson recently were host and hostess to the "Buckeye Daisies," a group of young women who made a tour of Europe under the direction of Colonel Wilson, at a dinner and reception at the Chittenden Hotel.

Frank Dillnot, English newspaper man and author, who accompanied the party through England and parts of the continent, also was present. The "Buckeye Daisies" made their tour abroad some time ago after a popularity contest.

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to

"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving."

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

851-853 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1457-8.

Newspaper PLATE
and MATRICES

60c per page and up.

If you wish to share in the benefits of co-operation, write

The United Newspaper Plate Co
CANTON, OHIO.

At Tempting Prices!
Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving
in all its branches

DEFENDAM ENGRAVING CO.
Inc.
1021 Broadway, NEW YORK.

STANLEY PROCESS
quality TYPE to a not down to a up made price METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y., and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the

ALLIANCE PRESS

110-114 West 2nd Street, NEW YORK

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

BENEFITS OF PRESS TO THE PUBLIC.

A CHAPTER THAT IS MISSING IN THE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PRESS.

"There has come to us," says the Belleville (Ill.) News-Democrat, "an ambitious high school girl and asked us to refer her to some literature on the subject of 'The benefits of the press to the public,' at the same time informing us that she had been directed to cover that topic with an essay or theme to be presented in the literary society of the school which she was attending.

"But in all the range of literature with which we are acquainted, we could recall nothing that treats of that particular subject.

"It seems that newspaper men are kept too busy in working for a living to blow their own horn."

Then the News-Democrat supplies that following creditable little chapter to the missing link of newspaper history:

"When we talk about 'The benefits of the press to the public,' it would be well to define with some degree of precision the term 'Press,' for the reason that this word has a very general and very broad significance and application.

"To simplify matters, let us confine the discussion to the press of America.

"The press embraces not only all of the thousands of newspapers which are published in the country, metropolitan, small city, county and village, but also all of the magazines and the trade and professional and craft and school and lodge and church papers and periodicals.

"When people speak of the press, however, in ordinary parlance, they usually refer to the newspapers.

"In this restricted sense, the press is an institution of comparatively modern origin. Before the invention of movable type by Gutenberg, it was not practical to print newspapers. In fact, the art of newspaper making did not reach its present high state of development and efficiency,

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING than any other newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

and never could have reached that goal, if the perfecting press and the type-setting machines had not been invented and made available for use.

"The press is a great convenience to the public, of practically inestimable value.

"The press makes a daily record of all of the important happenings of the world, publishes editorial opinions to inform and influence and direct the public mind, and it prints advertisements to reflect the business status and to express the business life and activity of the community.

"In ancient times the inhabitants of the cities who could spare the time gathered at a designated spot in the market place daily, where someone was delegated to communicate to them by word of mouth or in a set speech the news of the day. It was the best that they could do under the circumstances, for they had no press and, unsatisfactory as the method was, they had to put up with it for the want of something better.

"The news was then passed around from person to person in the way of conversation, just the same as ordinary gossip at the present time. Only people of elegant leisure, loafers and plutocrats, could spare the time to visit the market place habitually and punctually for the purpose of hearing the important news told by the public sputter from the rostrum.

"The result was that the great mass of people remained in utter ignorance of what the rest of the world was doing.

"Ignorance breeds suspicion and credulity and retards progress. Crafty and selfish men took advantage of the ignorance of the people, arrogated to themselves a monopoly of the knowledge of the world and established autocracies and despotisms and castes to lord it over the masses and to rob and oppress them.

"In a government like ours, where the people rule, it is absolutely necessary, if the government is to survive, that there be a free and untrammelled press, operating within legal bounds to enlighten the public, for democracies depend upon the intelligence of the people for their perpetuity.

"The founder of democracy in America was Thomas Jefferson of Virginia. He was one of the greatest men that the world has produced. So important did he regard a free press to democratic institutions, that he said among many other things, regarding the press: 'Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press and that can not be limited, without being lost; the liberty of speaking

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION OCTOBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 501,861
The Sunday Post 345,302

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid Guaranteed For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

and writing guards our other liberties."

"In another place in his voluminous works, Mr. Jefferson says: 'The press is the best instrument for enlightening the mind of man and improving him as a rational, moral, and social being.'

"The greatest praise ever bestowed on newspapers Mr. Jefferson gave utterance to in the opinion of the following statement, however:

"The basis of our governments being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

"The press is not only the greatest educator, but it is at the same time the greatest entertainer of modern times. It prints all forms of literature from the heaviest to the lighter sort and carries the dearest treasures of thought and of art into the homes of the people.

"Science and philosophy are given the attention that is due them, likewise politics and economics and religion, but page upon page is devoted to poetry and pictures, to music, and to the kind of fun that stimulates a taste for higher and better things.

"A greater part of the work of the school is to prepare the pupils to avail themselves of the benefits which the press offers. The school gives the key to the young with which they may unlock the treasure vault which contains a precious legacy and our inheritance of all the past and all the dead for the benefit and use of the living of the present day and generation.

"The press relates the activities, the endeavors, the hopes, the ambitions and the aspirations of the human race. Through the instrumentality of the press, all of the knowledge there is in the world is widely disseminated and generally diffused. All well informed people of the present day, obtain the major portion of their knowledge and information, from reading the newspapers.

"If the press of the country would for any reason whatever, be compelled to suspend publication, the world would revert to the ignorance and to the barbarism of the Middle Ages, or even to the state of nature which prevailed in the childhood of the human race.

"All civilized nations have a press. Barbarians have no press.

The benefits of the press to the public are so numerous that it is im-

ST. PAUL DISPATCH (EVENING)
ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS (Morning and Sunday)
The papers that predominate in St. Paul and the great Northwest.

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures: A carrier delivered circulation in over 90% of English-reading St. Paul homes, and a broad country circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation Averages for October, 1917:
Dispatch 80,886
Pioneer Press 63,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,751

A.B.C. report and booklet giving circulation by towns furnished upon request

YOU MUST USE THE

LOS ANGELES
EXAMINER
TO COVER THE
GREAT SOUTHWEST
Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

possible to enumerate and record them all in detail in an article of the length and scope of the present one. Any intelligent person can picture them in his own mind by using his imagination and his ingenuity, along the line of suggestions presented in this editorial.

"If there were no press, people would soon forget the art of reading which they learn in school—that is to say, the masses would. Knowledge would again be monopolized by a small and privileged class or caste who would prostitute it to selfish purposes and use it to advance their own financial and social interests and superiority.

"Human society would return to the most primitive conditions. Resorted ignorance instead of a high order of general intelligence would become the order of the day.

"Progress would be at an end and the country would revert in the course of time to the conditions that the redmen were in who inhabited the trackless and tangled wilderness of the Western world when the intrepid and adventurous Christopher Columbus first discovered the American continent."

PAPER SHORT IN GERMANY.

Berlin messages state that the shortage of paper is such that recently important Berlin papers were unable to appear, while others were only able to publish four pages, with the prospect of ceasing publication altogether soon. Practically all the papers in Saxony have stopped publication for an indefinite period.

G. W. Van Atten has bought the Primghar (La.) O'Brien County Democrat.

LARGEST
Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.
THE WASHINGTON
POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives

John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I.A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

NOTES OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

In October, the University of Washington's department of journalism moved into its new $200,000 home in Seattle. Commerce Hall is a building permanent with the permanence of structural steel and concrete; and harmonious with the harmony of mellow-toned texture-brick and terra cotta.

The department of journalism assumed a color scheme when it selected its desks and files, its presses and typewriters, and moved into the new home; the school of business administration, which occupies the floor above, took on the same one; and the school of law another floor higher took it on too. No piece of furniture may come into Commerce Hall, or any one of the three allied schools that occupy it, that does not harmonize with terra cotta. In the journalism department every cabinet is buff colored, every table of any sort, every newspaper standard and file; even the long forms to which the typewriters are fastened are of the prevailing color. Even in the printing department every bit of color above a six-foot level is buff; below that it is mahogany brown. By day this tone order makes soft, clouded light; by night it reinforces the concealed brilliance of the electric lighting into a warm shadowless glow.

The heating system of the building is of the most modern type, plenum chamber and exhaust fan ventilating every room except where structural necessity requires direct radiation.

The journalism department occupies nearly 14,000 square feet of floor space. The printing division alone claims 108 by 70 with printing laboratory, press room, stock room, class rooms and offices. It has its own corridors and entrances and can be shut off entirely from the writing and business divisions. These consist of class rooms, a newspaper filing room, the Frederic A. Churchill, Jr., memorial library, offices of the faculty and the Washington Newspaper Association, a large corridor for the news office of the University Daily, the typewriting laboratory, and private offices for the managers of the Daily and the student annual.

Into every available inch of outer-wall space there is set a window, and many of the interior walls are opaque glassed to secure a maximum of sunshine and light.

The exterior design of Commerce Hall is carried in terra cotta and slate. The structure is the replica of Home Economics Hall, its vis-a-vis across the area that will ultimately be the Liberal Arts quadrangle, and contains five buildings. These two buildings are Tudor. Their windows are many and leaded; their entrances are simple archways over bricked porticoes; their roofs are green slate.

Materials of construction and utilities of the buildings are sufficiently different from those of the halls of

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpass the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

220 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 92,088

Gain over 5,696

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

Oxford and Cambridge, however, that the resultant is classic but individual. Carl F. Gould, head of the University of Washington department of architecture, is the designer.

Enrollment in the department of journalism for the year has been little touched by the war, as far as figures go. The only appreciable difference is the slight increase of women students over men. Class enrollment is 200, and major students 110. There has been no abridgment of courses, although some fourth year classes are small because of the heavy enlistment of upper division men. There are only three senior men left in the department.

Edith C. Johnson, editorial feature writer of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman and member of the Sunday editorial staff of the Chicago Herald, addressed the students of the school of journalism at the University of Oklahoma last week. Miss Johnson discussed the ways in which she handles feature subjects, how she gets material for her articles and general feature writing for newspa-

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.
National Representative
F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Sclaro, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 742 Market St., San Francisco.

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City

PRESS Its BIG Independent Newspaper
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

pers. Other newspaper writers and editors of the state will be invited to address the students of the school of journalism at their bi-weekly luncheons.

The staff of College Mercury, the monthly magazine of the College of the City of New York, is now as follows:

Abraham M. Schultz, editor-in-chief; William O'Brien, managing editor; Jerome I. Udell, business manager; J. Harry Marsh, advertising manager; Daniel T. Appell, circulation manager; literary staff, I. Schneider, Nat Schwartzberg and Alex Lipinsky; Morris L. Singer, athletics; Jerome S. Kates, art editor; C. Pearson Hornung, assistant art editor.

College Mercury is in its thirty-ninth year.

The United Statements is the name of a new weekly paper which has made its appearance in Baylor, Tex. It is published by the students of Baylor College. The first issue has a splendid advertising patronage from the merchants of Belton. Miss

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest. The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W.M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

Hermine Burghard is editor-in-chief, Miss Amy Wade business manager and Miss Annie Laurie Gottseelig assistant business manager.

Mark Stephenson of Aberdeen, S. D., has been elected editor of the 1919 Pasque, the year book of the junior class of the Northern Normal and Industrial School.

The students of the High School of Commerce of New York are publishing a new monthly written entirely in Spanish. The magazine has a large circulation among students in other high schools of New York.

Irving B. Simon is editor-in-chief of the new publication.

NEWSPAPER MAN. WEALTHY. THEN REPORTER AGAIN.

Jimmy Connolly, who was a reporter in St. Paul six years ago, is at it again after a trip on the wings of fortune.

Jimmy invested when stocks were rising and made his pile. He invested again, but this time stocks went down, and he is reporting once more.

NEW HOME OF UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON DEPARTMENT OF JOURNALISM.

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that carries its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Publisher
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Linton Building, CHICAGO

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

Realizing that the business press is closer to the industries of the country than any other outside factor, the War Department has requested the Associated Business Papers, Inc., to help in securing the large number of experienced mechanics required for ground service in the aviation corps at aerial training stations and at the various camps that may be established "over there."

The committee appointed to supervise this work consists of Roger W. Allen, American Hatter, New York, chairman; E. H. Darville, Hardware Age, New York; and David Beegom, Class Journal Company, New York. This committee and the headquarters office of the Associated Business Papers, Inc., are now making a careful survey of labor conditions, with a view of establishing quotas and of acquainting employers with the situation.

It will be recalled that the business papers were instrumental in recruiting the 10,000 men needed to raise the New York National Guard to full war strength.

The Associated Business Papers, New York, has announced the appointment of its regular committees, as listed below:

Trade Practices: W. H. Ukers, Tea & Coffee Trade Journal, New York, chairman; F. A. Simmons, Simmons-Boardman Publishing Company, New York; E. E. Haight, Motor Age, Chicago. To this committee will be referred all complaints of improper or unethical practices on the part of publishers or advertisers.

American Relations: R. Marshall, Concrete, Detroit, chairman; Mason Britton, American Machinist, New York; C. A. Tupper, International Trade Press, Chicago.

Postal: M. C. Robbins, Iron Age, New York, chairman; A. C. Pearson, Dry Goods Economist, New York; E. R. Shaw, Power Plant Engineering, Chicago; H. G. Lord, Textile World Journal, Boston; C. K. Reifsnider,

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue

Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS and SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY NEWS NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO

(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.

J. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

Farm Machinery and Farm Power, St. Louis.

Special committee to investigate possibility of bringing about greater uniformity in size of papers and in size and form of rate cards and contract blanks: A. C. Pearson, Dry Goods Economist, New York; L. B. Sherman, Railway Age Gazette, Chicago; H. G. Lord, Textile World Journal, Boston.

Advisory (to counsel with president and executive committee, when requested, upon more important matters of policy, and to act as a nominating committee): James H. McGraw, chairman; H. M. Sweetland, John Clyde Oswald, E. R. Shaw, Allen W. Clark, F. D. Porter, Charles G. Phillips, F. E. Cutler and C. A. Tupper.

Robert E. Jones, formerly with the display department of Gimbel Brothers, New York, has become associated with the window display service of the Dry Goods Economist.

The Nautical Gazette, New York, has joined the Associated Business Papers, Inc.

News About Fords, a Chicago publication formerly owned and published by the Kenchfield-Leach Printing Company, has been sold to E. G. Woods, who will be editor, publisher and manager.

GIVES DINNER ANNUALLY TO OKLAHOMA NEWSIES.

Seven years ago Governor Robert L. Williams of Oklahoma, who at that time was chief justice of the supreme court of Oklahoma, gave a fine Thanksgiving dinner to all the newsboys of Oklahoma City.

Every year following the same event has taken place and although now the chief executive of the state, Governor Williams still gives a dinner annually. It is always arranged to have prominent men to speak to the boys during the dinner. This year the dinner will be held in the cafeteria located in the new capitol. The boys will be taken to the state house in street cars.

NOT A NEW YORK TIMES MAN

The public has been warned against a man falsely representing himself to be L. M. Brown, a former reporter on the New York Times now in the Army. This man is said to have presented a forged check.

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net Average 364,637 COPIES A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

PROOF OF DIRECT RESULTS FROM NEWSPAPER ADS.

Moescha Rosenberg's advertisement in a Glen Cove (N. Y.) newspaper had its desired effect.

The New York Times correspondent tells that he threatened to print a list of those who owed him money and would not pay. All week and right up to press time Rosenberg was kept busy receipting old bills, and now he says that there is not a resident of the village who owes him a cent.

Rosenberg is a jeweler and is closing up his store. Several thousand dollars were due him, and he wanted it before he left town. So he put in the advertisement, in which he said:

"I shall publish the name and exact address and vocation of each of the aforementioned dead beats, giving in my usual style a psychological treatise of their character and make up. The paper goes to press at 10.30 a. m., and all who are anxious to have their characters defined in print should not settle their accounts before that time."

Immediately creditors began to appear and pay their bills. Men who had bought engagement rings on credit and others who had purchased presents that they did not care to have published all paid up promptly, and the jeweler was happy. Rosenberg published an advertisement on "Soiled Linen," in which he said:

"There are those who firmly believe that there is no wrong that could not be corrected. That all depends on the laundry. Some linen must be badly soiled, but all can be cleansed. It depends on how hard one rubs. We are glad to state that not one dollar that was owing to us last week is unpaid today. We do not want to congratulate our friends who paid up, but, rather, ourselves, as good hard-rubbing laundresses."

REPORTERS FORM CLUB IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

A press club has been organized by reporters of the four daily papers in St. John, N. B. The prospective members met recently for dinner and then proceeded to business.

Temporary officers were elected as follows: President, James H. Conlon; vice-president, W. E. McMonagle, and secretary-treasurer, Frederick D. McGuire.

St. John reporters at the front will be made honorary members.

The Roundup (Mont.) Record has moved into its new office building.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917
Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallory Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.

C. GEORGE KROGNES, Chicago
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

NO BANQUET FOR THE AMEN CORNER AT PRESENT.

In view of the serious problems confronting the country, incidental to the world war, Representative Thomas F. Smith, president of Amen Corner, an organization of old-time New York newspaper men and politicians, has decided to postpone indefinitely the annual festivities and dinner planned by the Corner for December 15.

The club feels it would be contrary to the spirit of the times to have a function this year of the joyful character which Amen dinners have had for the last seventeen years.

SCRIPPS NOT EXEMPTED.

To James G. Scripps of Los Angeles, directing head of newspapers owned by his father, E. W. Scripps of San Diego, and chairman of the board of the United Press Association and the Newspaper Enterprise Association, has been denied exemption from military service by the district exemption board.

The appeal from a San Diego board was filed by his father and supported by his business associates, who contended he would be more valuable to the United States as the chief executive of the several newspapers and press service than in the army.

WITH THE U. P.

V. E. Michel has resumed charge of the St. Paul (Minn.) bureau of the United Press.

Raymond Clapper, who has been in the St. Paul bureau since Michel left last March, has taken up Red Cross promotion work in New York. During the summer Michel did special promotion and publicity work.

A Short Story: DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in Advertising and Circulation in 1916

NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co
New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit

THE Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS.

The Gas Attack, a weekly newspaper published by the 27th division at Camp Wadsworth under the direction of the Y.M.C.A., has made its first appearance.

Major Glenn Laffer, former Montezuma (La.) newspaper man, recently in the censor department at Deming, N. M., has been called to Washington.

The following members of the Advertisers Club of Cincinnati compose the honor roll of the association:

Captain Charles H. Tobias, U.S.R., Camp Sherman; Lieutenant Justin A. Rollman, U.S.R., Camp Sherman; Lieutenant Saul Magnus, U.S.R., Camp Harrison; Walter Ibold, engineers corps, "somewhere in France;" Walter McDonald, ambulance service, "somewhere in France;" Lucien Wulsin, engineer corps, "somewhere in France."

Frederick Forchheimer, Camp Sherman; P. C. Hume, hospital corps, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.; J. B. Ward, 340th infantry, Camp Sherman; Lieutenant John W. Miller, Fort Sill, Okla.; D. R. Lathrop, George W. Roenthal, Navy, Norfolk, Va.

Walter H. Johnson, publisher of the Buffalo (S. D.) Times, has sold his paper and joined the signal corps.

Captain E. J. D. Larson, formerly of the Minneapolis Tribune staff, has been made senior billeting officer of the 88th division at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Ia., and will supervise the billeting of the troops of that division after they reach France.

The service flag of the Chicago Advertising Club was donated by Sam J. Turnes. A British flag, which is being made up, will be given by Robert J. Virtue and a French flag by L. J. Vertefeuille.

Charles E. Rogers, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma, formerly sports editor of the Tulsa World and later an exchange editor on the Kansas City Star, is now a first lieutenant in the regular army and stationed at Fort Douglas, Utah.

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.)

THE Post & Telegram
(Evening) (Morning)

Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A.B.C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

tioned at Fort Douglas, Utah. Rogers served on the border with the 3d regiment of Missouri national guard, attended the officers training camp at Fort Riley and was assigned to the 20th infantry as second lieutenant. He since has been promoted to first lieutenant.

C. A. Crosser, reporter on the staff of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade, was one of the first to offer his services to Uncle Sam when war was declared, but was rejected because of a defect in his eyesight. He made application successively to every department of the service, but in vain.

As a last resort he turned to Canada, where physical requirements were less exacting, and enrolled there as stretcher bearer in the Canadian Army.

Before Mr. Crosser left to join his regiment, two weeks ago, the Blade staff presented him with a fine testimonial of esteem.

There are now twenty Toledo Blade men in service, more than half of whom enlisted. The men were taken from all departments. Their names follow:

Urban T. Murphy, Roy Whitney, Foster Rice, Frank J. Ritter, Joe W. Meyers, Sam Rubin, Arthur Mead, Warren Quail, James Carr, F. J. Sullivan, James Farron, F. Szumigala, F. Kinney, J. Wilinski, B. Kwiatkowski, F. Jeichler, Albert Watson, C. Cushman, Howard Good and C. A. Crosser.

The Wellborn brothers, publishers of the Cantril (Ia.) Tribune, are going to war as members of the regular army. N. E. Guernsey, publisher of the Milton Herald, has taken over the management of their paper and will suspend his own publication.

Johnstone Vance, managing editor of the New Britain (Ct.) Herald, has been made an ensign in the naval reserve.

Robert Cummings Vance, son of Mrs. Robert J. Vance, president of the Herald Publishing Company, is driving an ambulance for the Red Cross in France.

The five stars on the service flag of the Erie (Pa.) Herald represent Corporal Peter P. Loesch, foreman of the mechanical department, base hospital at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.; Sergeant Raymond Fitzmaurice and Corporal Raymond Leenhuis, Camp Lee; Corporal John J. Phillips, aviation section, San Antonio, Tex.; Captain Thomas Sterrett, publicity department of marine corps, New York.

Don M. Leicht, who has been associated in the publication of the Colfax (Wis.) Messenger with Ward M. Swift, has enlisted in the military service. He has gone to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., where he will undergo a final physical examination.

The following members of the staffs of the New York Morning Telegraph have been called to the colors:

THE CIRCULATION OF THE CHRISTMAS ISSUE
of

The BILLBOARD
is guaranteed to exceed
45,000 Copies

It will be obtainable wherever papers are sold throughout the entire English speaking world.

No advance in rates.
Last form closes Sunday, December 16

The Billboard Publishing Co.
Member A.B.C.

Broadway & 4th Street, New York
Monroe and Dearborn
CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING
JOURNAL Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.

Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning.
40,655 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending Oct. 1, 1917.
P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
738 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

Edward Keefe, Neil McDonnell, Russell Kenyon, James J. Coffey, Charles C. Cook, Val Roche, Frank McKee, Sam McKee, Jr., and Donald Day.

Timothy A. O'Toole, sports editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Sunday Star, has joined the railroad engineers corps for service in France. During his furlough, Alexander R. Abrahams will serve as sports editor of the Star.

R. H. Norton is the new proprietor of the Anderson (Ala.) News, in place of W. D. McKay, who has joined the Navy.

The Washington Square Players of the Comedy Theater, New York, are represented in the service by George C. Evans, William Gamble, Sam Marsh, Austin G. Parker and Dudley G. Tucker.

Myron Allen Bruce, who represents a star on the Boston American's service flag, is on the job at Camp Gordon. Bruce, who was an advertising solicitor for the American, qualified as a horseman and has requested assignment to the field artillery.

The Plattsburg list of first lieutenants includes Harry R. Saffel, real estate editor of the Boston American. Francis M. Flanagan, former financial editor of the American, is commissioned as second lieutenant.

Beatty Stevens of Columbus, Ohio, formerly advertising manager of the Green-Joyce Company, has been commissioned first lieutenant.

Three hundred copies of the University Weekly, a newspaper published by the students of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, have been sent to the 154th infantry at Camp Beauregard, La. This regiment was formerly the 3d Arkansas national guard regiment and has a large enrollment of University of Arkansas graduates.

A campaign was carried on among the students for the money necessary to send the newspapers to Camp Beauregard.

Lieutenant W. H. Durborough, a Chicago advertising man now in the signal corps, is directing the making of official moving pictures throughout the country for the War Department.

Arnold Joerns, formerly at the head of the Chicago advertising agency bearing his name, but who

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in
CLEVELAND
Over 175,000 Daily. Over 300,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bldg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

THE JOURNAL
IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN
DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

has placed his services at the disposal of the Government, will be in charge of the publicity for the aviation corps. Mr. Joerns was tendered a farewell dinner last week by a number of friends.

Howard Knoll, formerly of the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, has been appointed staff photographer of the 83d division, National army, Camp Sherman.

J. S. Ralph Gray, telegraph editor of the Adrian (Mich.) Telegram, received a commission as first lieutenant at the completion of the second reserve officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

It is estimated that more than 150 advertising men in Chicago are now actively engaged in military or naval duties in the different departments of Uncle Sam's great war machine.

E. H. Morrissey, formerly a copy writer for the W. H. Rankin Advertising Company of Chicago, is now in training to become an officer in the merchant marine.

George W. Jenkins, a Baltimore newspaper man who turned down an appointment to an officers training camp to enter the Army as a private, has been detailed on special service in France.

His brother, John Wilbur Jenkins, another Baltimore newspaper man, is with the Federal Information Bureau in Washington.

Of the eighty-seven New York Times men working for Uncle Sam, twenty are officers, sixty are enlisted men in the Army, five are in the Navy and two are with the ambulance corps.

The Circulation of the
NEW YORK
EVENING
MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star 88,752
Evening Times 42,375
Washington Post 47,032
Herald (over) 25,000

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Union Star

AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643

Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanics in America.

LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

lance service in France. Their names, with their ranks, are listed below:

Majors: Frank L. Nelson and H. H. Walker, infantry, U. S. R.

Captains: Julius Ochs Adler, Philip D. Hoyt, George E. Hyde and R. J. Sprague, infantry, U. S. R.; W. S. Manning, 316th infantry, Bernard S. Thomson, Q. M. corps.

First lieutenants: Earl N. Findley, signal corps; A. E. Hartzell, infantry; Austin M. Malone, aviation corps.

Second lieutenants: Lee D. Brown, artillery, U. S. R.; H. M. Buggelynn, infantry, U. S. R.; S. M. Chambers, field artillery, U. S. R.; C. F. Hughes, infantry; W. R. Joyce, engineers; Clarence E. Lovejoy and George L. Rooney, infantry; John Simons and E. B. Wells, Q. M. corps.

Sergeants: H. M. Bjorck, Q. M. corps; Howard Humphrey, 1st field artillery; Carl O. Johnson, infantry, National army; George Payne, coast artillery; Robert H. Roosen, 302d engineers; J. Sharkey, field artillery; James Joseph Smith and Wright McCormick, infantry.

Corporals: William Bradley, marine corps; Edwin Delano, Q. M. corps; John F. Kieran, engineers; William Murphy, infantry; J. Oscar Salvail, Q. M. corps; J. J. Sanford, coast artillery.

Privates: A. R. Addison, coast artillery; Edward Roscoe Allen, 102d infantry; Carl E. Bartlett, aviation section; W. Berryman, Army; Joseph F. Bland, 305th infantry; Frederick A. Boyd, Jr., Canadian highlanders; Fred Brazong, 9th infantry; E. Burquist, Jesse S. Blutcher, Walter Coulter, Lee Curtis, C. Farrell, Harold Finch, John Finn, William A. Grotefield, G. Garman, Roland H. Harper, Edward J. Harris, Jr., and

W. D. BOYCE CO.

500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
205 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS.

THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT

Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.

Combination Advertising Rate.

HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representatives.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

Gus Hepps, National army; T. Herlihy, infantry; John Himpler, Army; Ulrich Hofele, coast artillery; L. Hughes, National army;

Charles Jenks, 1st field artillery; Joyce Kilmer, 165th infantry; William Lanigan, 69th N. G.; William Leary, George Legman, George Leonard and Gerson Levy, National army; Allen Luther, Army; George Maile and L. J. Merrell, National Army; Matthew J. Murphy, 2d field artillery; Francis X. Pavesech, aviation section; Edward J. Polloquin, Edward Reynolds, Howard Rowan; Joseph F. Sullivan, James Taylor and Manuel Tolson, National army; Bernard Tracey, 1st field artillery; Samuel Weaver and Samuel Weiss, National army; James A. Whitehouse, infantry; Ezra Wright, National army.

Ambulance service: Thomas S. Bosworth and Alexander Woolcott.

Navy: Robert K. Allison, apprentice; Gordon Blair; Edward B. Cummerford, 1st class yeoman, naval reserve; A. Eldred; Harold B. Haviland, radio student, naval reserve.

Courtland Smith, president of the American Press Association, has been called to Washington to direct the work of placing before the country papers of the nation the principles of the campaign for national thrift.

He is allied with the National War Savings Committee and is acting as the medium of understanding between the publishers of country newspapers and Washington.

Howard Mingoos, formerly with the Scranton (Pa.) Republican and the New York Evening World, has qualified for the third officers training camp to be held at Fort Niagara, N. Y.

John Cummings of Olyphant, Pa., formerly a member of the Scranton (Pa.) Daily News staff and more recently with the Philadelphia Record, has a commission in the Army.

Lieutenant Cummings spent several days of this week visiting friends in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

The Jefferson (Ia.) Free Lance has been sold to S. M. Greene, formerly an Iowa newspaper man and more recently of California.

W. L. Johnson has taken over the Sisseton (S. D.) Courant and will probably consolidate that paper with the Standard.

The Monarch Printing Company of Omaha, Neb., is bankrupt.

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND THE NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

THE LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
360 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Bldg., CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

U. S. P. O. and A. B. C. Report THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

period ending October 1, 1917

Daily60,756

Sunday77,438

Average63,217

THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

LORD & THOMAS, 220 W. 42d st., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for Daniels Motor Car Co. ("Daniels Eight"), Reading, Pa.

MORRIS, 400 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Reported placing advertising for Commercial Car Unit Co., Philadelphia.

MORSE, 35 Milwaukee av., W. Detroit—Renewing newspaper contracts for Herpicide Co. ("Newbro's Herpicide"), 35 Milwaukee av., Detroit.

O'KEEFE, 43 Fremont st., Boston—Placing orders with a few newspapers for Penn. Metal Co. ("Penco Metal Lath"), 561 W. 36th st., N. Y., and 201 Devonshire st., Boston.

PRESBRY, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with some Washington (D. C.) newspapers for Virginia Juice Fruit Co. ("Apple-O," soft drink), Norfolk, Va.

PROFITT - LARCHAR, Journal Bldg., Providence, R. I.—Reported placing some orders with newspapers for J. Samuels & Bro., Baltimore, Md., knitting yarns.

VANDERHOOF, Marquette Bldg., Chicago—Placing copy with Chicago newspapers for the Chicago Arena Co., Ice Skating Palace, Chicago.

Secured account of Tuthill Spring Co., 760 Polk st., Chicago, and are making up lists of publications.

PATTERSON, 1 Madison av., N. Y.—Placing advertising of Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder and Dental Cream for 1918 for I. W. Lyon & Sons, Inc.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago.—Placing magazine campaign for Hebe Co., Seattle, Wash., Hebe milk products.

HUGHTON, 40 4th av., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for Alceio Manufacturing Co., 12 Bridge st., Newark, N. J., manufacturer of "Kor-Ker" puncture cure, in newspapers and magazines.

MOON, Proctor Bldg., Troy, N. Y.—Reported placing in newspapers and trade papers account of Pixine Chemical Co., Troy, N. Y., manufacturer of "Pixine" ointment, pile remedy, and "Pixine" veterinary fever drops and spavin cure.

FRANK & CO., 26 Beaver st., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

is a capable and welcome
salesman in thousands of good homes.

H. C. Rooh, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooke, 235 Fifth Av., New York
Ford-Pearsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 10 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, 120 B'way, N. Y., international merchants, in newspapers, magazines and trade papers.

MALLORY, MITCHELL & FAUST, Security Bldg., Chicago.—Placing newspaper schedule in larger cities for Friedman Manufacturing Co., Chicago, for "Oak Grove Oleo-margarine."

ERICKSON, 381 4th av., N. Y.—Placing account of Valentine & Co., 456 4th av., N. Y., manufacturers of "Va-Enamel," "Valspar" Products and "Valentine's Auto Varnishes and Colors," in magazine and trade papers.

CORMAN-CHELTENHAM, 11 E. 36th st., N. Y.—Reported placing account of Robert H. Ingersoll & Bro., 315 4th av., N. Y., manufacturer of "Ingersoll" watches, in magazines, newspapers and farm papers of national circulation.

Reported placing the advertising for Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, Inc., 120 B'way, N. Y., international merchants, in newspapers, magazines and trade papers.

ASKING RATES — Fonda-Haupt Co., 286 5th av., N. Y., is asking rates from newspapers.

DIRECT—Rub-No-Mor Co. ("Rub-No-Mor-Soap"), Fort Wayne, Ind., is making contracts with some Western newspapers.

PRESS CLUB HOUSE WARMING.

An informal house-warming dedicated the new quarters of the Los Angeles Press Club at 329 South Hill street on November 17.

City, county, state and Federal officials were the guests of the club.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburg

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish DailyReaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price
from one to two cents.THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROMANIAN
daily newspaper in the United States
and Canada.The only real guide of 850,000 thrifty
readers and positive success to its advertisers.Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-635 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.MOBILIZATION OF AD FORCES.(Continued from Fifteenth Page)
lems, which are likewise war problems similar to our own.We feel that no solution of an advertiser's problem is or can be an adequate one which does not aid the solution of the seller's problem as well.It is in this spirit that the A.N.A. will undertake the work of its eighth annual meeting and it is our earnest hope that out of our deliberations will come ideas and perhaps policies as well which will be useful and helpful to advertising interests as a whole.

SERVICE CORNER.

621.—"Can you furnish me with a list of syndicates that take feature stories?"622.—"Can you tell us where we can find a list of house organs of corporations or firms in the second Federal reserve district, comprising
New York State and Northern New Jersey?"623.—"Can you supply the names of the different advertising agents associations with their addresses, as well as those who give recognition to advertising agencies?"624.—"Can you tell me the number of new newspapers that have been started in the United States in 1917?"625.—"Can you tell us of any syndicate or other concern which sells a department consisting of questions and answers on household and culinary topics?"RUSSIANS are the BEST BUYERSReach them through the advertising columns of the largest Russian newspaper outside of Russia.

RUSSKOYE SLOVO

Published Daily including Sunday.

The most authoritative exponent of Russia in America. Reaches the best Russian-American homes in the U. S. and Canada.

RUSSKOYE SLOVO

31 E. 7th Street NEW YORK

THE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POSTreaches the GERMAN
reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN
NEW ENGLAND.

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.

reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods.

Use Kurier Bostonski

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. K. McLEOD, editor of the Flasher (N. D.) Hustler, is dead in Shakopee, Minn., where he had been receiving treatment.HARMON J. KNEELAND, at one time editor of the Oriskany Falls (N.
Y.) News, is dead in Binghamton, N. Y.J. P. BOYD, formerly editor of the Buffalo Center (Ia.) Tribune, is dead of anemia.CLYDE ALLEN, telegraph editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star and formerly occupant of the same position on the Cincinnati Enquirer, died on November 23 after a lingering illness.WILLIAM J. CURREN, who resigned as reporter on the Cleveland Press to join the Canadian heavy artillery, is dead of wounds in France, aged twenty-nine years.MISS ANNA KARGER, sister of Gus Karger, the Washington newspaper correspondent, died a few days ago in Columbus, Ohio.HARRY G. LEE, an employee of the New York Times, was killed by a subway train last week while on his way home from work.MAURICE A. SCHWARTZ, artist on the staff of the Chicago Daily News, died suddenly at his home on November 25 from leakage of the heart. He was twenty-seven years old.Known to the newspaper fraternity as "Morey," Mr. Schwartz was very popular in Chicago. He was formerly on the art staff of the Red Book, but had been with the Daily News for two years.GARDINER GREENE HOW-LAND, son of the late Gardiner
Greene Howland, who was general manager of the New York Herald, is dead in Los Angeles.HERMAN H. A. SCHRECK, for the last twenty years on the staff of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Standard Union, died in the Hahnemann Hospital, New York, on November 27 at the age of forty-three years.Charles Reichmann has purchased the Platte (S. D.) Tribune from Sol
J. Pruner.George W. Van Atten has suspended publication of the Melvin (Ia.) Argus.S. G. Snyder has sold his interests in the Marengo (Ia.) Republican to J. S. Farquhar.

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city
—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it
thoroughly covers Montreal's population,
which is over 700,000, and of which 70
per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.

W.M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.

NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.

CHICAGO, Tribune Building.

LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue

Southampton Row.

PARIS, 2 rue de Rocher.

NARODNI List

Braceo Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,850 square lines of Briceo advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers

61 Park Row, NEW YORK

Phone 2939 Beekman.

DEATH OF FRANK MATTHEWS.

(Continued from Ninth Page.)

the last generation of the Sun—Charles A. Dana and S. Merrill Clarke. The teaching of practical newspaper technique was his specialty in the school of journalism. He also had a most winning personality. All his pupils called him "boss."The fourth and third year classes of the school of journalism havedrawn up this appreciation of what he has been to them:Franklin Matthews was our friend, our comrade, and our "Boss," as he loved to be called. He often said: "My idea of teaching is that it should be by personal contact rather than by rules of pedagogy."
He was always willing to help, advise and encourage. His work here will remain both for us and for the school a lasting influence.The classes which Professor Matthews taught at the school of journalism have been suspended until December 4.The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER
WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription

Everywhere $3.40.

(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free

Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 160,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium.

Phone Stuyvesant 2044.

90 East 10th Street, NEW YORK

THE JEWISH
MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITYcarries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.

LOWER PRICES.

Copyright—Mallory, Mitchell & Faust.

Among the many forces tending to raise the cost of living, it is encouraging to find one other whose tendency is in the opposite direction.Advertising is the friend of the consumer. It tends to lower prices.
It does this in two ways. By leading to greater volume of sales, it makes possible the economies of large scale production, resulting in a lower cost of production per unit.The second way is by reducing the costs of distribution. A large element in the total cost of most products is the cost of getting them from the factory out into the hands of the final consumer.Just what items the costs of distribution include depends upon the method of distribution; but in general, most products pass through the hands of the jobber and then through the retailer to the consumer. This path from the manufacturer to the consumer might be called the channel of distribution.The effect of advertising is to lessen the resistance to the flow of the product through this channel. That is, the advertising enables both the jobber and the retailer to sell the goods more easily and quickly and in larger quantities and to turn their stocks off more, resulting in lower costs of selling.This all works to the best interests of the consumer—a lower retail price.The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON

consolidated with La Tribuna del
Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.

“Upstairs and Down”

The local merchant knows where he gets his best results—so the wise national advertiser and space buyer will consider well where—and whether for “Upstairs” or “Down”—the local merchant invests the largest amount of his advertising appropriation.

Marshall Field & Co. used the following amount (in agate lines) of advertising in the seven Chicago papers for the first six months of 1917:

	Upstairs	Basement
TRIBUNE . . .	173,074	—
News . . .	86,467	67,930
Herald . . .	146,791	606
American . . .	59,042	75,560
Journal . . .	63,503	67,699
Post . . .	65,182	—
Examiner . . .	37,606	17,108

NOTE:—All Marshall Field & Co. advertising is confined to daily issues; they use no Sunday newspapers.

The Chicago Tribune was first in volume of advertising given Chicago papers by this well-known Chicago store, and carried more “Upstairs” advertising than any two evening papers combined. Is your nationally advertised product exhibited “Upstairs” or “Down”? If it is exhibited “Upstairs” then the paper to use for advertising it to Chicago families is

The Chicago Tribune

The World's Greatest Newspaper

(Trade Mark Registered)

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING

Published Every SATURDAY at 252 West 59th St. (near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

DECEMBER 8, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894.

No. 1241

Dry Goods and Department Store Advertising in Chicago Newspapers

*Total Agate Lines of Display Advertising Used by Individual Advertisers
January 1 to November 30, 1917*

	The Daily News.	Tribune. Daily.	Tribune. Sunday.	Herald. Daily.	Herald. Sunday.	Examiner. Daily.	Examiner. Sunday.	Post.	American.	Journal.
The Fair	410,218	39,977	173,184	10,091	75,825	27,961	124,406	49,574	167,468	148,679
Boston Store	375,232	126,390	62,846	47,624	118,173	20,642	157,239	227,465
Rothschild & Co.....	374,800	14,400	136,820	10,737	80,212	11,752	124,810	10,662	127,642	218,137
Mandel Brothers	347,745	219,305	123,752	37,873	106,282	37,421	16,987	93,695	190,996	213,734
Siegel Cooper & Co..	296,677	8,746	131,361	2,412	19,012	9,250	111,816	89,226	104,371
Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.	262,719	263,555	169,244	93,207	58,079	84,854	121,400
Marshall Field & Co..	252,468	287,980	282,430	105,685	155,923	221,415	231,444
Wieboldt's	210,840	45,794
Hillman's	209,651	5,067	89,582	1,790	26,320	3,590	73,948	45,835	14,359
The Hub	190,860	162,799	7,682	34,033	6,683	80,063	7,471	12,127	100,852	6,298
M. L. Rothschild.....	172,890	190,099	764	3,591	35,378	600	4,147	34,687	44,190
Chas. A. Stevens & Bros.	93,958	139,958	59,503	12,516	5,764	7,428	10,759	5,017	16,077	5,696
L. Klein	56,342
Twelfth Street Store.	30,528
Weber's	30,007	3,331	2,616	10,986
Becker, Ryan & Co...	13,003	372
TOTAL.....	3,336,758	1,336,786	852,260	564,717	382,944	459,359	637,732	409,866	1,247,277	1,335,773

The Chicago Daily News Printed

1,999,972 lines more than the next morning paper.
2,300,985 lines more than the next evening paper.
1,147,703 lines more than the next daily and Sunday paper combined.
975,896 lines more than all morning papers combined.
343,842 lines more than all other evening papers combined.
1,463,793 lines more than all Sunday papers combined.

ADVERTISERS MOBILIZE FOR THEIR NATION.

NEW GOVERNMENT DIVISION FORMED - A.N.A. WILL USE SPACE TO EDUCATE - L. B. JONES IS PRESIDENT.

Ways and means to fit advertising into its proper place in America's war mobilization program, in the face of necessary conservation of many products, was the big topic of the annual meeting of the Association of National Advertisers held in New York on December 5, 6 and 7.

It became known through the meeting that an advertising division of the Committee on Public Information has been authorized, to consist of representatives from each of the national publishing and advertising organizations. This division will succeed the National Advertising Advisory Board of the Associated Advertising Clubs, which has been acting voluntarily since the declaration of war.

Included in the new advertising division of the Public Information Committee will be the Association of National Advertisers, the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the American Association of Advertising Agents, the Periodical Publishers Association, etc.

The A. N. A. named the following members as its representatives: O. C. Harn of the National Lead Company; George W. Hopkins of the Columbia Phonograph Company; Edward Hungerford of Wells Fargo & Co., and L. B. Jones of the Eastman Kodak Company.

The importance President Wilson places on the aid of the advertising men was stated in a message from him read at the annual banquet Wednesday evening before more than 500 advertising managers and guests. He said:

"Mr. Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information, has told me of the generous mobilization of the advertising forces of the nation in support of the effort of the Government to inform public opinion properly and adequately.

"America asks nothing for itself that it does not ask for the rest of the world. Our devotion to great principles is not stained by any selfishness. This purity of purpose commends absolute openness in every approach to our people and the peoples of the world.

"The great advertising bodies constitute a medium peculiarly fitted to make frank presentation of America's meaning and purpose in an hour when full understanding is so essential to success.

"I accept your services with gratitude and deepest appreciation."

The A. N. A. sent this message to President Wilson:

"The Association of National Advertisers, in annual convention, acknowledges with enthusiasm and a deep sense of responsibility, your telegraphic acceptance of our service to aid the Government in enlightening public opinion on the vital issues of the war.

"We again pledge to you the wide experience of the 208 leading national advertisers in doing whatever you wish us to do to aid the purposes of the Government in the execution of any or all of its publicity and advertising plans, which are so essential to ultimate victory and enduring peace."

The new advisory organization has the official authorization of the Government, instead of being merely a volunteer advisory body as was the National Advertising Advisory Board, which now passes out of existence.

The new advertising division of the Committee on Public Information will co-operate in giving the full benefits of the resources its members represent to the Government in reaching the public for the nation with any matter assigned to its charge. These will include the next Liberty Loan campaign, which will be inaugurated in January; conservation of fuel and food, in promoting every possible war activity, etc.

The new plan was outlined to the advertising managers by Carl Boyer, representing the Committee on Public Information and who used to be circulation manager of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The advertising division plan is an outgrowth of the idea outlined in THE FOURTH ESTATE recently by Eula McClary, who obtained the endorsement of the advertisers' associations

(Continued on Tenth Page)

WATER POWER OPPONENTS COMING TOGETHER.

THEIR POINTS OF DIFFERENCE ALL MET IN PENDING SENATE BILLS SAYS THE A.N.P.A. COMMITTEE.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association states that there appear to be excellent grounds for the belief that the water power legislation it has been advocating will be passed by Congress during the session which opened this week.

For the past six months the committee has been using every effort to obtain legislation releasing national water powers for the work they ought to be doing for the nation and its people.

THE FOURTH ESTATE likewise has been ardently urging its readers to support the measures pending in Congress designed to bring about the same end.

That the forces which have been long at conflict in the matter of water power development are now seeing the light and are coming closer together in their views is evidenced by a recent letter sent out to newspaper editors by Gifford Pinchot, noted forest conservationist, asking their support for remedial legislation from his standpoint.

This letter leads the paper committee to say:

"If the seven points made by Mr. Pinchot as essential to proper water power legislation should be found embodied, or substantially embodied, in each of the two bills (now pending in the Senate) or if the difference between the bills and Mr. Pinchot's statements are of a minor character or obviously reconcilable it will become plain that, whatever may have been the fact in the past, water power legislation need be no longer delayed because of dispute between the two sets of interests."

The Pinchot letter follows:

"The great war in which our nation is engaged will be won not alone by food and men, but by mechanical power as well. Without mechanical power we could not make or move the weapons with which we fight—guns, ammunition, ships, and supplies. Our national resources of power, whether from coal, oil or waterpower, are national war necessities. We need them to win the war.

"In this gigantic struggle our security requires us to use all these great resources, and to use them wisely and well. The people of the United States own some 50,000,000 undeveloped water horsepower, or about enough to run every train, trolley, factory, mill, mine, and electric power plant we have.

"For ten years friends of conservation have urged the development of public waterpowers in the public interest. But development has been held back by a little group of waterpower magnates and their friends in Congress who have blocked all legislation which would not give them these valuable properties forever and for nothing.

"Today, when the nation needs all its resources, the same men who have been blocking reasonable waterpower legislation own and are holding millions of water horsepower undeveloped and out of use while clamoring for more.

"The time has come when such obstruction threatens the nation's safety and success. We need the development of these powers in war even more than in peace. At the coming session of Congress sound waterpower legislation should be enacted as a war measure, based upon principle fair to all sides. These principles I believe to be briefly as follows:

"(1) The thing to do with water power is to develop it. Whatever retards or restricts the development of public waterpowers on terms fair to the public is again public policy and hostile to the general welfare.

"(2) Waterpower belongs to the people. The sites where it is produced should always be held in public hands, for only so can effective control in the general interest be secured.

"(3) Where public development is not desired, the right to use waterpower sites should be leased for periods long enough to permit sound, attractive and profitable investment, but never longer than fifty years. At the end of each lease all rights should return to the people who gave them.

"(4) In order to protect the consumer against extortion, rates and service should be regulated by Federal authority when state or local authorities fail to do so.

"(5) Reasonably prompt and complete development and continuous operation, subject to market conditions, should be required. Already millions of water horsepower are held out of use to further monopoly by private corporations.

"(6) Corporations or individuals who make money out of rights granted by the people should share their profits with the people.

"(7) The public has a right to complete information about every business based on the use of public property.

"These are the principles for which the friends of conservation have been contending. Many waterpower men believe them to be fair and sound. They will, I hope, commend themselves to you as wise and reasonable. I am writing to ask your support for immediate legislation, based upon them when Congress meets.

"This is no time to give away public assets necessary for the welfare of our people, both in the war and after the war; and we should no longer tolerate the selfishness of private interests which take the dog-in-the-manger position that they must have all these waterpowers on their own terms, or no one shall use them at all.

"As the President has said: 'The supreme test of the nation has come. We must all speak, act, and serve together.'"

The recommendations of the A.N.P.A. paper committee and the conservationist element represented by Mr. Pinchot are compared by the paper committee as follows:

"It appears rather remarkable that Mr. Pinchot has just discovered the immediate necessity for water power legislation and is endeavoring to outline the basis on which such legislation shall be passed. On the face of Mr. Pinchot's letter it appears that he has had an entire change of heart and is apparently genuinely advocating the early development of water powers. If this be true his assistance in legislation will undoubtedly be of great importance.

"The real facts in the present situation with regard to water power development may be briefly summed up as follows:

"The laws which the conservationists, headed by Mr. Pinchot, have secured in the past, together with the arbitrary regulations issued through the efforts of the conservationists, so hampered the water power development that it has not kept pace with the growth of the country and in the main developments have taken place only in exceptional cases

(Continued on Twenty-seventh Page)

PAPER MAKERS TO MEET.

THE A. N. P. A. GIVES ADVICE FOR SIGNING NEWS PAPER CONTRACTS.

There is to be a meeting in New York City on Monday, December 10, by the manufacturers of news print paper who signed the three-cent price agreement with the United States. (The details of this agreement appeared fully in the issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE of December 1.)

One purpose of this meeting is for the manufacturers who have signed to try to induce all other news print paper manufacturers who have not already done so to sign up.

It is understood that a meeting of the members of the News Print Manufacturers Association, now dissolved, will be held on December 12 to formally disband that association in accordance with the decree of dissolution issued by the United States Government on November 26.

For the present the American Newspaper Publishers Association

(Continued on Fourteenth Page.)

A. B. C. MEETING POSTPONED.

Stanley Clague, managing director of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, made the following statement to THE FOURTH ESTATE yesterday:

"Owing to technical conditions which have arisen, the meeting of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, scheduled for December 14, has been postponed to January 4."

The word Monotype means much more than the name of a machine; it includes a complete system of composing room efficiency based on the work of the Monotype both as a composing machine and as a Type-&-Rule Caster.

Monotype Composition and Non-Distribution are Synonymous with Quality in the Ad Room and Service to Advertisers and Advertising Men

Monotype Composition from new type means the kind of typography that will interest readers and create a demand for the goods advertised.

The Monotype and its Non-Distribution System makes it possible for the ad room to meet the requirements of any advertiser, no matter how large.

The Monotype makes big editions possible and saves time closing up by supplying plenty of material to keep the ad force working continuously on copy. It insures maximum output from the hand compositors by putting all the necessary material right at their finger tips.

The Monotype has completely revolutionized the old method of setting and distributing display advertising, and enables the publisher to present advertisements to readers in new, sharp, distinctive type faces.

Request Monotype Composition on your advertisements.

A Few of the Great Newspapers who are using Monotype product for ad composition.

New York Times
New York World
New York Globe
Boston Post
Boston American
Philadelphia Record
Philadelphia Press
Philadelphia Inquirer
Baltimore Sun
Cincinnati Enquirer
Montreal Star
Buffalo Evening News
Toledo Blade
La Patrie, Montreal
Wilmington Every Evening
Le Soleil, Quebec
New Haven Union
Minneapolis Journal
Seattle Times
Norfolk Ledger Dispatch
Chicago Examiner
Cleveland Plain Dealer
Oklahoma City Oklahoman

The typographic appearance of the advertising columns has much to do with the success of a good newspaper, and it is important that careful consideration be given to the equipment of the ad room.

LANSTON MONOTYPE MACHINE COMPANY PHILADELPHIA, PA.

NEW YORK, World Building
CHICAGO, Plymouth Building

Wentworth Building, BOSTON
Lumsden Building TORONTO

Monotype Company of California, SAN FRANCISCO, Rialto Building

NEWS PRINT PAPER COMMENT.

WHAT PUBLISHERS SAY ON AGREEMENT WITH THE GOVERNMENT.

A most interesting phase of the paper situation now is what newspaper publishers think of the three-cent price settlement. Last week THE FOURTH ESTATE published a number of comments from prominent news print users, and some more follow:

Joseph Blithen, president and general manager of the Seattle (Wash.) Times:

"I regard the so-called settlement of the news print case a step, and not as a conclusion of the news print matter.

"For one, I cannot see how news print will ever be as cheap as it was, say three or four years ago. Irrespective of the exact totals of consumption of news print publishers must keep in mind the enormous increase in consumption of all sorts of paper made from wood pulp which has occurred during the last three or four years.

"We publishers are in the game of stimulating consumption of package foods. A lot of our advertising copy concerns those foods and nothing else. Every one of these packages is in the form of a container. Packages and cans have labels which are made from paper. As long as the general consumption of paper keeps up to what it is now, there can be no relief in the price of any one branch of the paper out-put until more tonnage be produced.

"New mills, I hope, will come into existence, but new mills are going to calculate very carefully their cost of production, and unless they can see a fair profit, they are not going to make paper at all—let alone make it at a price which some publishers think fair.

"We publishers on the Pacific Coast have the advantage of being rather close to the mills which make the bulk—if not all—of our paper. We can study conditions almost at first hand and we can judge for ourselves whether or not we are getting a fair price.

"I am not criticising the work which has been done by the A. N. P. A. on the white paper situation. I think it has done a lot of good work. On the other hand, I think the white paper people have had some very sensible reasons on their side for higher prices."

Lafayette Young, Jr., of the Des Moines (Ia.) Capital:

"The paper settlement is a great triumph for the committee representing the American Newspaper Publishers Association. I wish to congratulate most heartily Chairman Frank P. Glass, Elbert H. Baker and Emil M. Scholz. I had always thought that satisfactory results might be secured by conciliation, but the paper committee evidently knew its opponents better than I. The entire newspaper fraternity is greatly indebted to the paper committee for its keen judgment and loyal work."

B. E. Bradley, assistant general manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

"It is, of course, a source of gratification to publishers that the Government has convinced the paper manufacturers that they were acting oppressively in restraint of trade. We will not, however, be able to gauge the measure of repentance in the latter group until they have definitely stated whether they have returned to a competitive mood and until they have, in their own good time, shown

The New York Times, in November, 1917, led all New York morning and evening newspapers in advertising, publishing 3880 columns, (1,149, 134 agate lines).

In 11 months of 1917 The New York Times published 11,382,578 agate lines of advertising, 921,047 lines more than in the corresponding period of 1916.

us what form of contract we must sign and at what minimum price."

Norman E. Mack, editor and proprietor of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Times:

"It is too soon yet to determine what the result will be from the coming together of the paper men and the Federal Trade Commission, or what affect it will have on the price of paper after April 1 next year. One impression I get is that it does not indicate higher prices for paper after April 1."

Arthur Brisbane, proprietor of the Washington (D. C.) Times:

"I am not aware of any real settlement. If newspapers are useful in a republic, the Government should forbid and prevent trust extortion at the newspapers' expense. If newspapers are not useful they should be suppressed as a measure for the period of the war. They are either a necessary part of the Government and public life—in which case they should not be at the mercy of extortionists—or they are a foolish luxury and their publication should be discontinued to save freight, labor and material."

The New York Evening Mail:

"Another monument to the stupidity of the Sherman Law has been erected. The News Print Manufacturers' Association has been dissolved. Certain of its members have been fined from $1,000 to $2,500 each. The indicted manufacturers represent about one-half the paper production of the country.

"Compared with a few years ago, the present paper prices show additional earnings of $20,000,000. Of this $10,000,000 went to the indicted paper makers. The profits were several hundred-fold the fines.

"The Federal Trade Commission has fixed the price of print paper at three cents per pound at the mill, for the next three months. The paper consumers thought that two and one-half cents was a fair price, the producers three and one-half cents. Three cents is a straddle. It is a three months' price. Nothing has been permanently settled.

"The paper producers are being prodded to enter into cut-throat competition with each other, to the uncertainty or ruin of the paper business in the long run, and to the disadvantage of the whole country.

"They are specifically denied that sort of association which would produce a united organization of the manufacturers with which newspapers and Government could deal. The very basis of stability and security in the paper business is torn away.

"Except in close co-operation with the Government, the paper industry of the country can never be upon a sure footing. For one thing, the making of paper is bound to water power sites."

"Between the paper-makers who reap and the Governments who plant there must be harmony and co-operation. The Government can deal thus only with an organization, not with scattered units.

"Vast capital investment inevitably drives these people to making agreements that will protect them against cut-throat competition. Why not?"

"The Government has so many holds on its industries that it can always prevent extortion. Fixed, stable prices would attract the investment of capital. Under such an order of things we should have more plants in existence than if each one has to fear price slashing by its neighbors.

"Who gets the advantage of this price slashing?"

"Always the big man, the big buyer, the big newspaper. A syndicate of paper mills, under Government regulation, could not give preference to large buyers. Paper is today the forum upon which the issues of the Government are discussed. Upon its constant and cheap supply depends the continuance of the free expression of thought. The paper business thus partakes of the nature of a public utility.

"Last year the big papers were buying news print at two and one-half or three cents per pound.

"The smaller users were paying from six to seven cents.

"That is precisely the sort of rate cutting and rebating which went on in the railroad world before the Interstate Commerce Commission forbade such practices and gave to all shippers the same rate.

"Today capital, hesitating to embark in the paper business, asks itself many questions. What will be the Government's tariff policy in the next few years?"

"What will be its policy with regard to water power?"

"How far will it go in this feud against the natural process of manufacturers associating together for common prices and common practices?"

"What is the Government going to do about the reforestation, and about taxation of our own lands if we attempt to reforest them?"

"Let us stop this process of attempting to prevent that natural drive of business men toward combination. If they do not combine in the light; they will combine in the dark.

"Even if we were to succeed in making them practice unlimited competition upon each other, the result would be excessive paper output, followed by failure of half the mills, then the reduction of capital investment in the paper industry. It would make scarcity of paper output prevail for a decade.

"Repeat the Sherman Law. Let these people combine in the full light of publicity.

"Recognize them.

"Have the Government deal with their associations and exact, in return, an acceptance of the principle that they owe a public responsibility and that they must be content with a reasonable profit.

"Repeat the Sherman Law. Put some stability into our industrial future.

"Let us not think we have accomplished anything but the fines of $1,000 or $2,500 levied upon paper makers."

N. Y. SUN'S IDEA ADOPTED ON WAR STAMPS.

The publication of an editorial and a letter in the New York Sun on December 5 pointing out that lost or stolen thrift stamps could be cashed by some one other than the owner led R. C. Butler, counsel for the National War Savings Committee, to rule today that purchasers of thrift stamps may write or stamp their name or initials on them if they so desired.

Inasmuch as the Postal Department will register free of charge war savings stamps it is held that the purchaser of the costlier variety of the stamps is given ample protection since the registry number placed on the stamp must correspond to the number on the stamp card, and the card, when presented at maturity, will be cashed only after the signature of receipt has been affixed.

Any one presenting a card of thrift stamps in exchange for a war savings stamp will not be required to be identified, although it is probable that if he presents a card bearing stamps upon which a name or initials have been marked he will be required to show that the marking is his own.

A Million a Month!

In November, for the fifteenth consecutive month, the New York WORLD carried over a Million Lines of Advertising.

A Million Ahead!

In 1917 to date the New York WORLD has run more than a Million Lines ahead of its nearest competitor.

HERE'S THE SCORE:

January.....	1,199,407	lines
February.....	1,021,830	"
March.....	1,188,645	"
April.....	1,275,136	"
May.....	1,101,380	"
June.....	1,078,263	"
July.....	1,041,054	"
August.....	1,009,771	"
September.....	1,321,243	"
October.....	1,337,110	"
November.....	1,125,558	"
<hr/>
WORLD Total.....	12,699,397	lines
Times.....	11,382,578	"
American.....	8,438,539	"
Herald.....	6,759,601	"
Tribune.....	4,248,673	"
Sun.....	3,799,053	"

The WISE ADVERTISER pins his faith to the

NEW YORK WORLD

The Great RESULT-GETTER
of the METROPOLIS

EXCESS WAR TAX REVENUE.

SUGGESTIONS AND QUERIES CONCERNING ADAPTION TO PUBLICATIONS.

By JESSE H. NEAL,
Executive Secretary Associated Business Papers, Inc.

Here is a copy of a brief submitted by the Associated Business Papers, Inc., to Commissioner of Internal Revenue Raper on the subject of the application of the excess profits section of the War Revenue Bill to the publishing business.

The fundamental principles are exactly the same in the case of news papers and it occurred to me that it would be of advantage to readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE to give this matter some publicity.

Action if any must be taken in the next few days if the publishers expect to obtain the consideration to which they are entitled.

The brief follows:

Our publishers are particularly interested in obtaining a fair and equitable interpretation of Section 207, defining the term "invested capital."

To begin with, please get clearly in your mind the peculiar situation of the average publisher of a trade or technical paper. The majority of such publishers have no printing plant. The assets represented by their capitalization are composed of their office fixtures, materials on hand, their organization and their subscription lists. To this must be added the amount of cash on hand needed for the conduct of the business.

By far the largest item in the list of assets is the subscription list. A paper without subscribers would be comparable to a building without tenants, or a church without a congregation, and we protest against the tendency to regard everything about a publication as good will, outside of the desks and equipment.

You can call to mind many buildings which could be sold for many thousands more than it cost to erect them in the first place, not because the building itself is any better, but because it is rented to tenants paying on the one hand a higher price for the building.

If such a building should be sold, every dollar of the sales price would be listed under the Revenue Bill as "invested capital," and 100 per cent of it would be used in figuring deductions under Section 207. It would be absurd to figure in only the original cost price of the ground and the structure, and rate the difference between that and the selling price as "good will" or "intangible property."

There is danger that the Government may do our publishers the very grave injustice of classifying nearly 100 per cent of their capitalization as "intangible property" solely because it is largely represented by a subscription list, rather than by buildings or commodities.

There is nothing intangible about a subscriber. Every one represents an assured annual income of the amount of the annual subscription price, or to put it differently, each subscriber has entered into a contract to pay the publisher a stipulated sum for merchandise or service for one or more years. One hundred thousand such subscribers at $5 a year means an assured annual income of $500,000—surely a very real and tangible asset in any business.

Furthermore, such a subscription list represents an investment of a large sum of money over a period of years to obtain and maintain the subscribers. A list of 100,000 subscribers might easily represent the expenditure of $100,000 in the course of ten years, if not more. Here then we have an actual investment of $100,000 to get and keep 100,000 subscribers during a period of ten years, in order to get an annual subscription income of $500,000.

To classify such a real and tangible asset as "good will" under the provisions of Section 207, would be grossly unjust, because it constitutes over 95 per cent of the value represented by the capitalization of most publications.

To illustrate: a publication with a capital of $100,000, which earned before the war $9,000 or 9 per cent would be allowed as a deduction under the excess profits tax only 9 per cent of $20,000, or $1,800 providing you classify a subscription list as "good will" or tangible property.

In addition to the income produced by subscription revenue, every subscriber added to the subscription list means that much added to the purchasing power of the readers, and makes the advertising space that much more valuable.

To go back again to the simile of a business building—a store room is worth much more in rental value if it is located in a building on a well traveled street. This added income makes the building worth more money as an investment. Thus, the value conferred by a large number of regular readers makes a publication worth more from an investment standpoint, because of the advertising income.

Any will ask how you can appraise the true worth of the capitalization of a publication in the absence of assets that can be weighed and measured as can beans, brick or pork. The answer is simple. The actual worth of the stock of a paper can be estimated just as the value of a building or a business is determined—by its earning power.

The courts in a number of instances have passed upon what should be considered "invested capital" in the case of publications. Their verdict has been that the invested capital of a paper should be computed by multiplying by 16 2/3 the average net earnings over a period of years. The last important case of the kind which I recall, was the action on the will of Joseph Pulitzer in determining the capital value of the New York World.

If you should rule that subscription lists and other items erroneously classified as good will in publishers' statements, are in fact good will under the terms of the Revenue Bill, then you automatically wipe out most of the capital value of very many papers. I know of papers doing several hundred thousand dollars annually, which have no assets outside of their subscription lists, except office equipment, cash on hand and accounts and bills receivable.

In such cases, I respectfully submit that no other course would be open to you but to declare such publishing concerns as having only a nominal capital and therefore coming under the provisions of Section 209.

For convenience sake, we are outlining several typical cases, on which we ask your ruling as to the application of Sections 207, 208 and 209.

CASE NO. 1.

A corporation, the stock of which was purchased for $100,000 cash, only 5 per cent being for office equipment, etc., the balance covering the subscription list and publication rights. Also the rule that would apply to an individual.

CASE NO. 2.

A corporation, the outstanding stock of which has been acquired by therefore stock in its company to the therefor stock in its company to the par value of $100,000.

CASE NO. 3.

An individual publisher, starting with practically nothing, who through a series of years has developed the business of a publication until its earnings would justify a valuation of $100,000, although less than 5 per cent of that sum represents actual merchandise, such as office equipment, stock on hand, etc.

CASE NO. 4.

A corporation, starting with an initial investment of $5,000, but which has worked up to a business which would justify a valuation of $100,000, but without issuing any new stock, taking care of its financial requirements with undivided profits and borrowed money. It being understood that at least 95 per cent of the valuation represents the value of the subscription list and advertising patronage.

CASE NO. 5.

A partnership, which paid before the pre-war period $100,000 in cash or tangible property for a publication, where only 5 per cent represented assets other than the subscription list, etc.

To summarize: We respectfully submit that, owing to the unique character of the publishing business, one or two constructions must of necessity be placed upon what constitutes invested capital. (1) Either a publishing concern is entitled to full credit for all that portion of its valuation represented by their subscription list, or (2) it should be classified as a concern with only a nominal capital as specified under Section 209. We base this contention upon the very evident fact that what is usually classified as "good will" in a publishing business is in fact tangible property with a real and definite value, and that this is not in any sense the kind of good will, so-called, which is mentioned in the Revenue Bill.

The whole thing hinges upon a proper interpretation of the facts as they are, and should not be confused with mere names.

We are confident of justice at your hands.

AGARD IN FOR HIMSELF

Clarence M. Agard, who formerly did editorial and reporting work in southern New England, is now engaged in handling a publicity and advertising bureau of his own, started as a side line several years ago and recently developed by the addition of several substantial contracts.

He still retains his connection with the newspaper and magazine world as a "free lance."

R. C. LONG JOINS THE INT'L. FEATURE SERVICE.

The managing editorship of the International Feature Service was this week taken over by Robert Crozier Long, who returned to America after twelve years spent in Russia, Germany, Austria, Scandinavia and the Balkans as special correspondent for English and American newspapers. Mr. Long represented the Hearst newspapers in Russia during the Revolution of 1905, after which he acted as correspondent in Berlin and Vienna of the London Westminster Gazette.

He is the author of several works on Russian and German politics and literature, has contributed during the past eighteen years regularly to the London Fortnightly Review, has a close knowledge of European politics and is unusually familiar with European languages.

HEARING ON CURTIS DEALER METHODS.

Complaint of unfair circulation methods, which has been made by the Pictorial Review of New York against the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, is being heard by the Federal Trade Commission in New York at the time of going to press.

The Trade Commission has appointed Charles F. Moore special examiner to hear arguments.

In the complaint, made before the Federal Trade Commission, it is alleged that the Curtis Company has refused to permit dealers to sell their publications unless they refuse to sell certain other specified publications.

PLACE OF THE NEWSPAPER IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

The relations between the newspapers and the public schools, as joint factors in the work of preparing the present generation for the duties of the new Americanism, were the subject of a recent public discussion before the Home and School League, Philadelphia.

The purposes of the meeting were outlined by Charles Picric Garde, president of the Huey Home and School League, who presided. In part, he said:

"There could be no more fitting time in American history than this to teach the new generation the meaning of the great world movements through which it is living, and no fitter place than the school house from which all communal life naturally springs.

"Two-thirds of the talk of every civilized man and woman today is based upon what has been read, at some time, in the newspapers. The time is coming when the daily paper must, as an immediate source of education, take its place in the schools."

Richard J. Beamish of the Philadelphia Press; Herman Leroy Collins, editor and president of the Evening Telegraph, and Frederick F. Forbes, managing editor of the North American, were among the speakers.

MILWAUKEE'S "GRIDIRON."

The Milwaukee Press Club held its first annual "gridiron" dinner, December 6.

The Baltimore American The Baltimore Star

BALTIMORE, MD.

Announce that after January 1, 1918 they will be represented in the national advertising field—United States and Canada—by

VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.

NEW YORK
Brunswick Building

CHICAGO
Steger Building

DETROIT
Free Press Building

AS CONGRESS SEES NEWS PRINT.

LEAVING MATTER WITH THE TRADE COMMISSION, WHICH REPORTS NEXT WEEK.

"Let the Federal Trade Commission work out its own salvation if it can in the matter of the news print situation."

This is the sentiment of Congress as disclosed this week to a representative of THE FOURTH ESTATE, who interviewed the various United States Senators and Representatives who were at the last session most active in the effort to secure some legislative relief from the news print situation which was then so appalling to publishers.

In taking the stand that the Trade Commission, having put its hand to the plow, should be allowed a free hand, Congressmen are, of course, merely subscribing to the theory so common in modern business practice that a trusted employe or executive is entitled to an opportunity to discharge his responsibilities without constant interference from those higher up.

In other words, the modern business theory is that results rather than ways and means are what a principal has a right to demand of a subordinate and so long as the Trade Commission seems to be getting results in the news print muddle there is little disposition to butt in.

On top of this reason for a "hands off" policy for the time being, another important consideration enters in. This is the fact that most of the pending legislation designed to bring paper manufacturers "to time" was introduced at the request or suggestion of the Trade Commission. That is to say, the Congressmen who have put forward legislative proposals designed to repress news print extortion have in most instances derived their inspiration from the Trade Commission. Their projects are not personal hobbies and if the Trade Commission can solve the problems before it without resorting to new laws, so much the better. The average member of Congress has troubles of his own, and he has no enthusiasm for championing legislation that is not really needed or insistently demanded.

The printing committee of the Senate, the "home" of most of the news print bills and kindred measures, will not hold its first meeting until next week or later, so that it cannot be predicted just what action may be taken, but the impression at Washington is that little will be done at the Capitol unless the Trade Commission strikes a snag in its present compromise and paper-control plan and calls upon the men on "the Hill" for help.

One question that naturally presents itself is how the Congressmen who were last spring "sold" on the proposition that the basic price of news print should be 2.50 cents will feel about it, now that they see no suggestion of any paper for anybody at less than three cents.

And, incidentally, will it appeal to Congress as equitable that paper producers should be compelled to supply news print at 2.50 for the Official Bulletin of the United States Committee of Information when no other interest can obtain it for less than three cents?

THE FOURTH ESTATE representative inquired especially with reference to this question of price of the Congressmen with whom he talked on Thursday.

Almost unanimous was the Congressional inclination to leave the matter of price to the Federal Trade Commission. In other words, it seems to be the feeling at both ends of the Capitol that if the Federal Trade Commission with its intimate knowledge of the paper industry and market, and with two practical, experienced newspaper publishers on the board, feels that three cents is an equitable price, Congress in its ignorance cannot well go behind that finding, even if it had an old idea in the back of its head that 2.50 cents ought to be about right.

BRADFORD MERRILL,
SUCCEEDING S. S. CARVALHO AS GENERAL MANAGER OF THE HEARST PAPERS.

At any other time than the present there would be more of a disposition in Congress to ask why if a Governmental price-fixing agency suddenly shot a price up to a notch twenty per cent above that determined six or eight months before. However, it is so generally recognized that we are in an era of steadily advancing prices in all lines that there is little inclination to question the revision of the news print price.

From the very outset of the agitation for Congressional action the friends at the Capitol of the pulp and paper industry have, in their representations, made the most of the increased cost of labor and raw materials and fuel in the industry. Congress sees the Government compelled to revise, after only a few weeks, the prices fixed for anthracite coal and it is inclined to take the Federal Trade Commission at its word that some increase in the selling price of news print is warranted; that three cents is probably not far out of the way; and that the Trade Commission will review and revise that price, anyway, ere it has been in force long enough to work serious injustice to anybody if it is not strictly an equitable figure.

Whether there will be any revival at the "long" session now starting of the agitation for Governmental seizure of paper mills or renewed attention to the bill which proposes the construction of a million-dollar Governmental paper mill will depend very largely upon whether the Government has any difficulty in obtaining paper of all grades for its own needs at prices that are considered rational by the Joint Committee on Printing and the Public Printer.

If book paper and news print are available at rational prices and the mill men can back up their prices by showing that the quotations are not inconsistent with cost of production it is a fair guess that there will be no eruptions designed to have Uncle Sam control outright his own sources of paper supply. On the other hand, if prices are oppressive the spirit of unrest at the Capitol will certainly manifest itself in renewal of the agitation of last session for a Governmental mill.

While the news print situation in Congress thus marks time some of the members are awaiting with interest the annual report to be submitted next week by the Federal Trade Commission.

CIRCULATORS DIDN'T SEE SECRETARY BAKER.

Nothing was known at the War Department, in Washington, on December 5 of a reported conference that Secretary Baker was to have held with representatives of newspaper circulation managers to work out a plan for newspaper distribution at the Army camps.

Secretary Baker was in Richmond throughout the day on which the conference was to have been held and he declared that he had no engagement to meet the circulation managers this week.

CARVALHO LEAVES HEARST PAPERS.

BRADFORD MERRILL TAKES HIS PLACE—GERARD NOW FINANCIAL MANAGER.

It has been an open secret for some time that S. S. Carvalho was desirous of retiring from the office of general manager of all the Hearst newspapers, and at last he has taken the step.

Bradford Merrill, who has been publisher of the New York American since 1907, has been appointed to Mr. Carvalho's place, and Julian N. Gerard becomes financial manager of the Hearst newspapers.

F. L. Wurzburg, for some time in charge of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, goes to the publisher's office of the New York American.

Kenneth Goode, formerly promotion manager of the American, is now director of promotion work for the Cosmopolitan, Hearst's Magazine, Good Housekeeping, Puck and several other Hearst magazines, with offices at 119 West 40th street, New York.

Few men have had a more extended or more strenuous experience in newspaper management than Mr. Carvalho, who started on the New York Sun in the days of Charles A. Dana, but in 1887 went to the World, of which he became publisher and general manager for the late Joseph Pulitzer. It was during this period that the Evening World was started.

When William R. Hearst came to New York in 1896 and bought the New York Morning Journal from Albert Pulitzer, he secured as many strong men as possible from the ranks of his competitors, among them Mr. Carvalho, whose work in New York was so successful that some years ago he was made general manager of all the Hearst newspapers and Mr. Hearst's executive officer in all his corporations.

Several years ago he met with a serious accident but recovered and is now in the prime of health. He says that all of the Hearst newspapers are now in splendid condition and that he has decided it is the best time to quit the hard grind and take things easier.

It is commonly reported that Mr. Carvalho has been successful in business investments.

He will confine his attention in the future to the business of consulting advisor on newspaper management; with offices at 140 Cedar street, New York City.

The change naturally gives rise to reports of a disagreement between Mr. Hearst and Mr. Carvalho among those who did not know the facts, but these rumors are authoritatively denied by Mr. Hearst's representative and Mr. Carvalho also states that during their twenty years' association there had not been a disagreement of any matter of consequence and that the Hearst publications will be among his clients in his new line of work.

Bradford Merrill, Mr. Carvalho's successor, in his early career filled practically every position on the staff of the Philadelphia Press and for five years was its managing editor. He resigned the later post in 1891 to become chief of the editorial and news staff of the New York Press, of which he was later general manager. He left the Press in 1895 and in the same year became assistant business manager of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Mr. Merrill was appointed editorial manager of the New York World in 1896 and later its financial manager. In 1907 he went from the World to the New York American.

LIGHT AD SIGN VIOLATIONS.

GOVERNMENT WARNS THAT MORE DRASTIC STEPS MAY BE TAKEN.

Drastic action to curtail further the use of electric signs will be taken by the United States Fuel Administration unless the orders issued recently are followed to the letter.

Complaints have reached Fuel Controller Garfield from New York and other cities that there has not been a close observance of his instructions, and representatives of some theaters and moving-picture houses also have entered protests against his ruling.

Further instructions were issued on December 1 to state fuel administrators, who have the matter under their supervision and this warning was added:

"We regret to quote that reports are reaching us from some cities that the order is not being closely obeyed. It may be necessary, if the state fuel administrator cannot enforce the spirit of the order, to withdraw all except all electric signs, excepting from captions and forbid the illuminating 7.45 to 11 p.m."

The new instructions to the state fuel administrators follow:

"First—The order provides that directional signs on retail stores can be illuminated from one-half hour after sunset until the regular closing time for transacting business, but not later than 11 p.m. Directional signs are signs over the door or extended over the sidewalk, which give the name and nature of the business. Exterior signs other than those of a directional character shall not be lighted earlier than 7.45 and shall be extinguished at 11 p.m."

"Second—Directional signs on theaters and the name of the theater and the name of the performance. Such signs can be lighted from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour after time scheduled for the commencement of the performance. The display or advertising signs on the theaters and places of assembly can, however, only operate from 7.45 to 11 p.m."

"Third—In the case of moving-picture theaters with a continuous performance directional signs may be lighted from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour after the beginning of the last performance. Display advertising on such theaters can only operate between 7.45 and 11 p.m."

"Fourth—Directional signs on hotels may be operated from one-half hour after sunset until 11 p.m., but display advertisements on hotels, either on the roof or on the front of the building can be illuminated only from 7.45 to 11 p.m. This does not prohibit the use of porch or entrance lights on hotels, as excepted in paragraph (d). There will without doubt come to your attention some cases where you will have to determine whether or not the sign is within the spirit of the order. The authority is given you in the latter portion of paragraph (e), which states that the size of the signs and the amount of electricity used to operate them shall be reduced at any time upon the direction of the state fuel administrator."

"State fuel administrators should define the rulings carefully and give public announcement thereof."

FOR FOOD CONSERVATION.

J. F. Jarrell, publicity agent for the Santa Fe Railway and editor of the Earth, has been officially designated to assist the public information division of the United States Food Administration for a conservation campaign in the Middle West.

BIG PUBLICITY OPPORTUNITY OPEN.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: Over thirty years devoted to the careful study of publicity in its many various forms has had the effect of presenting, to my mind, an opportunity of public expression for everything possessing virtue.

In writing this brief article I have in mind the "advancement of the idea of wide spread publicity of a most wonderful science."

About ten weeks ago I received a letter from a friend which read about as follows. The letter came as a surprise and opened up an opportunity to me which I was more than desirous to take advantage of. I quote the letter:

"My Dear E. T. J.:

"In the first place this is I pushing the machine, so close your eyes to mistakes."

"Talked with a good friend of mine, who is an osteopath, about you yesterday; he wants to see you and has set Friday, three o'clock as the time. I will take you."

"Dr. E. H. Merkley is the man, office, 86 West 35th street. Until Friday."

Sincerely yours,

C. M. A.

I kept the appointment, started treatment immediately with Dr. Merkley and in less than ten weeks I find myself in better health than I have known in fifteen years—over ten pounds heavier—much stronger and what is most essential to me, a decided improvement in the condition of my sight.

I have given much thought, the past two or three weeks, to the science of osteopathy—much thought to the opportunity, that to me, is offered for its universal and general enlightening.

Osteopathy is a truthful study of nature, the correct understanding of anatomy, deviating entirely from all old theories.

The practice of medicine started further back in history, the practice of osteopathy starts with nature, deals with nature and through natural methods keeps nature naturally reproduced.

Today there are probably fifteen to twenty thousand practitioners of osteopathy, all devoted to their work and sincere in their efforts to widen the nature curing opportunity, osteopathy opens.

A publicity campaign, in the hands of a dependable advertising agency, could, I am sure, be most successfully developed.

A small yearly contribution upon the part of each osteopath in the United States would give to the reading world, a clear understanding of a science that can bring forth only good.

EDWIN T. JONES.

PAPER COMPANY BUILDING MODEL TOWN.

A pulp and paper company—the Riordon concern—is building the first model town in Canada, the first to be laid out on the principles set out by the Commission of Conservation. Overlooking Lake Tamiskaming, on the Upper Ottawa, it will provide for the employees of the company, which is going to erect a large sulphite mill and paper plant nearby. The streets have been laid out so that the maximum grade in the majority of cases is of only three to five per cent, with a maximum of eight for short lengths, while areas have been set apart for open spaces, social centers, churches, schools, etc. The main approach to the town will be a street, 80 feet wide passing through a square on which stores and public buildings will be erected.

The Savannah Hawkeye, edited by Joseph N. Smith, has temporarily suspended publication.

WHY GERMAN CENSORSHIP MUST CONTINUE.

More light was thrown upon the workings of the German censorship in the course of a discussion of that subject during the closing days of the last session of the Reichstag. It having been proposed by the Reichstag committee that the censorship should be limited to military facts, and, in particular, that there should be no censorship of discussions about war aims and peace aims, constitutional questions, and matters of domestic policy, Herr Wallraf, under secretary in the ministry of the interior, replied, as quoted in Berlin papers received in London:

"One must realize clearly all that would then be open to free discussion—the sphere of foreign policy, our relations with our allies, our relations with neutrals, and even our relations with enemy states when thin threads begin one day to be woven between us and them. In domestic politics there would be free discussion of the incitement to strikes and riots, and even criticism of the supreme army command would be possible, except as regards actual facts—for instance, criticism of the whole spirit of the leading of the army."

"Do you really think that, in view of our present situation, free discussion on such a scale could serve the interests of the Fatherland? Do you think so, in view of the sensationalism provoked by the war, and in view of the epidemic of indiscretions which is passing through our country? I cannot share this optimism."

WANT A POSTAGE RATE BASED ON SERVICE.

At a meeting of the Philadelphia Trade Press Club, held on November 26, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved that the provisions changing the present rates for carrying second class matter in the mails, as enacted in the Federal War Revenue Act of October 3, 1917, are unjust to a large and important portion of the publishing and allied industries, in that the postage rate system for second class publications will place the nationally circulated mediums at a great disadvantage as compared with publications of local circulation, with the result that national unity of thought will be greatly curtailed;

And resolved further that Congress be petitioned to amend the Federal War Revenue Act of October 3, 1917, so as to eliminate that portion dealing with second class postage, and to deal with second class postage as a question of service rather than for war revenue, making the charge commensurate with the service at a uniform rate for all parts of the United States.

SECOND CLASS AMENDMENT PRESENTED.

Amendments to the War Tax Law began piling in with the first active work of Congress.

Repeal of the second class postal rate increases was proposed by Senator Smoot.

CHANGE IN TEXAS.

Dr. O. E. Olander has retired from the Texas Posten, published at Austin, and will devote his entire time to his duties as president of the Texas Wesleyan College.

H. T. Knappe of Brady, Tex., will become manager of the Posten.

HAVE XMAS PROGRAM.

A Christmas program was presented at the meeting of the Woman's Press Club of Pittsburg on December 3.

Reinard & Reinard, publishers of the Hermosa (S. D.) Hustler, which was recently destroyed by fire, are now issuing the Custer County Press and Hermosa Hustler at Fairburn, S. D.

NO LIQUOR ADS IN ALABAMA.

NOT EVEN AN EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN BY THE U. S. BREWERS ASSOCIATION.

Circuit Judge Locke has granted the petition of Attorney General Martin for a temporary injunction restraining the Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald and the Birmingham News from publishing advertisements pertaining to the sale of alcoholic liquors.

The action resulted from the publication by those papers of a statement of the United States Brewers' Association in regard to the disassociation of beer from distilled spirits.

No date has been set for argument on a motion to make the injunction permanent.

The Alabama laws prohibit the distribution in the state of publications containing liquor advertisements.

THEATER MANAGERS ATTACK THE PRESS.

Newspapers came in for their share of censure at the ratification supper of the Actors Equity Association and the United Managers Protective Association, which took place at Hotel Astor, New York, on November 25.

In the course of his talk, Marc Klaw, president of the managers organization, said:

"I am sorry the newspapers have the propensity to belittle the theatre. There are too many men writing who sacrifice justice to jingle; who would rather be read than believed."

"In Europe the newspapers have done everything they could to keep people going to the theater," declared Alf Hayman, general manager for Charles Frohman, Inc. "In America they are doing everything they can to keep them out."

DRAFT INFORMATION.

Offers of aid are pouring into the Hearst newspapers' draft information bureaus from corporations, law offices and public spirited organizations. Many offer their offices as information bureaus. Others desire to send competent employees to aid volunteer workers at the draft stations.

A weekly, backed by J. M. Pierce and S. M. Leech, and edited by W. C. Payne, will be published in Des Moines.

The Rembrandt Record has been discontinued.

We Spend More Than $500,000

per year to produce the features which have created the greatest newspaper following in the world.

"Hearst Features always Lead"

Write for booklet "A Half-Million Dollar Feature Service."

International Feature Service

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

READJUSTMENT IN THE A.P.A.

OPERATING COMPANY ENDS USEFULNESS AND IS DISPOSED OF.

The affairs of the American Press Association of West Virginia, a corporation that operated from 1906 until September, 1917, were formally terminated by technical court action, including the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on December 3, chiefly on account of a judgment obtained by the parent company, the American Press Association of New York.

The petition showed that the West Virginia company had no relations with newspapers, advertisers or advertising agencies and owed no money to such parties.

The West Virginia corporation was merely an operating company and its usefulness ceased when the plate business was recently sold to the Western Newspaper Union.

The American Press Association of New York, the larger and much older company—and chief creditor in this action—is now engaged in representing country newspapers in the national advertising field.

The New York company is the only one with which publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies have or will have dealings.

ADVERTISED FALSELY.

Lee J. Wertheimer, salesman, has been fined $250 by Police Judge Fitzpatrick of San Francisco.

Wertheimer was convicted on a charge of advertising falsely, having sold an appliance which he said would make it possible to get two pounds of butter from one pound and a pint of milk.

He was prosecuted by representatives of the board of health.

MERGER IN MONTEREY.

The Monterey (Cal.) Cypress, a morning paper, and the American, an evening publication, have merged their interests, now appearing in the morning, edited by William Sandholdt, formerly editor and owner of the American, and Mr. Lewis, of the Cypress.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION.

The Chicago Daily Jewish Courier will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary together with its occupancy of a new home, on December 9.

A special edition will be printed on that date, containing literary matter appropriate for the occasion as well as historical material descriptive of the progress of the Jewish community for the last thirty years.

$150,000 FOR TOBACCO.

What is said to have been the first show for Maltese dogs only was held in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, for the benefit of the New York Sun's soldiers' tobacco fund.

The Sun's fund is in its sixth month. Over $150,000 has been gathered up to date.

TEACHERS MAY NOT MEET.

The American Association of Teachers of Journalism is understood to be undecided yet whether the members will hold an annual meeting this year. Plans were to hold it in Milwaukee during Christmas week, but they are now uncertain.

TALKS ON ENGLAND AND THE WAR.

Mrs. Brenda Franklin of England addressed the Woman's Press Club of Pittsburg on December 3, dwelling upon the war conditions in England.

A Striking Example of Southern Enterprise

New Home of BIRMINGHAM NEWS. VICTOR H. HANSON, Publisher.

ON OCTOBER 3 The Birmingham News opened its new building to the public. Fifteen thousand visitors passed through it that day.

In the composing room the center of attraction was a new battery of three Model 9 Linotypes for the ad alley and five Model 18 and one Model 19 for news and classified.

Performance without parallel inspired this order for modern Linotypes.

For genuine merit there could have been no test more reasonable, more just, more fair.

Mergenthaler Linotype Co.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK

CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS TORONTO

USE OF CHARITY STAMPS ON FOREIGN MAIL.

The Postmaster-General warns patrons of the postal service the following countries refuse to admit to their mails articles bearing non-postage "Christmas" stamps or other adhesive charity stamps or labels, unless postage thereon is prepaid, and unless such stamps are affixed to the back and not to the address side of the covers:

Austria, Brazil, British East Africa, Uganda, Antigua, Barbados, Bermuda, British North Borneo, Canada, Cayman Islands, Cyprus, Gold Coast, Dominica, Falkland Islands, Gambia, Gibraltar, British Honduras, Guatemala, Union of South Africa, Jamaica, Mauritius and dependencies, Montserrat, Nevis, Norway, Southern Nigeria, Portugal, St. Christopher, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Seychelles, Sierra Leone, British Somaliland, Trinidad, Turks and Caicos Islands, Virgin Islands (British), Germany, Great Britain, Southern Rhodesia.

Unless the foregoing conditions are complied with articles bearing non-postage stamps will not be dispatched from this country, but will be returned to the sender, if known, otherwise they will be sent to the division of dead letters.

Senders are advised to place their names and addresses on all mail for foreign countries.

EDITORS DEDICATE THEIR RE- SOURCES TO WAR WORK.

The members of the Seventh District Editorial Association of Minnesota pledged themselves as individuals and as an organization to devote their abilities and resources without regard to personal sacrifice to advance America's cause in the war, in resolutions adopted at their meeting in Appleton on November 29-30, which was attended by fifty persons.

H. C. Hotelling, president of the National Editorial Association, addressed the organization on "Cultivating the home field."

Others who spoke were:

Justice Oscar Hallam of the Minnesota supreme court, on "Patriotism and publishing;" Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws, head of the women's department of the Eastern States Exposition, on "Fair publicity;" A. E. McGowan of the Appleton Press, on "The machine and its overhead;" and J. C. Morrison, on "Advertising through a central bureau."

M. J. McGowan, Appleton Press, was elected president; Verne Briggs, Ortonville Journal, vice-president; R. H. McGilvera, Clarkfield Advocate, secretary and Ludvig I. Roe, Montevideo News, treasurer.

TO CENSOR LETTERS SENT ABROAD PRIVATELY.

All private correspondence entrusted to ships leaving New York for foreign ports is to be opened, read and censored by a staff of inspectors just designated by Byron D. Newton, collector of the port.

This means that all letters, messages or documents entrusted to passengers, the crew or any persons connected with ships sailing from here must be censored, only such letters or papers passing through the regular channels of the United States mails to be excepted.

"EXILES' NIGHT" AT SAN FRANCISCO CLUB.

Members of the Newspaper Men's Club of San Francisco were hosts to a number of former editors and writers who are now following other pursuits on "Exile's Night," December 1.

The theme of the evening was "My most interesting experience in the newspaper game," and several of the old-timers talked to the diners.

THE ADVERTISERS MOBILIZE.

(Continued from Second Page)

to make next March a patriotic advertising month, through having advertisers present war messages of the Government to the people through their advertising copy.

During the meeting O. C. Harn, a member of the old National Advertising Advisory Board, spoke in praise of the advertising division idea instead of the advisory plan, which gave the board no power to act. He praised the old board highly and outlined some of the opportunities and problems that will confront the new advertising division in its work.

Mr. Harn said the old board never had an opportunity to work out its plans. It was originally called together to aid the Government in obtaining an army, but the draft plan eliminated need for advertising service in that respect. The board originally offered its services to the Secretaries of the Navy and War, who accepted.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, however, never gave the board a chance to exercise any authority. He followed an entirely different plan than he was advised to do, declining to buy advertising space and parceling out the duty of selling the Liberty Bonds to big selling agencies in the persons of the Governors of the Federal Reserve Banks and their forces, commending the services of the Advertising Advisory Board to them.

The resultant conditions proved unsatisfactory to the board, despite the fact that it was so successful in aiding in the sales of two series of the bonds. Notably was there dissatisfaction in the fact that the advertising boards had no say in the distribution of advertising space donated to the Liberty Bonds by private interests, which resulted in duplicate advertising in great amount in certain media, while other valuable media was used inconsiderably, if at all.

The new advertising division of the Committee on Public Information expects to be able to correct many of the advertising and publicity mistakes made in the past.

WAR POLICY AND AD COPY.

The opinion of the members was that instead of curtailing advertising or stopping it altogether, its form should be changed and advertising go on in as great or greater volume as in the past. The form favored is copy that will encourage conservation and saving on the part of Americans by educating them in the ways and means of getting more results from what they buy—whether it be a food product or an automobile.

The best example of this kind of advertising was pronounced to be the publicity campaign now being carried on for Packard motor trucks through display advertising space in the newspapers. One of these ads is entitled: "Your own freight line! Packard direct shipments cut costs and delays." It shows by illustration and text how automobile trucks can be used to lift the load, which war traffic has dumped on the railroads, providing faster cheaper and more certain transportation.

THE FOURTH ESTATE is aware of many remarkable instances of how this advertisement awakened business men to the possibilities of motor trucks. One of these happened from the appearance of this advertisement in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, which caused M. E. Levering, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit Company of Philadelphia to write the following letter to the publisher of the Evening Bulletin:

"This copy of the advertisement of the Packard Motor Car Company which appeared in the Bulletin, reminded us that we could use an additional supply of Packard trucks of large capacity and also informed us that the said trucks were ready for delivery, of which fact we were not aware. This morning we bought from the Packard Company four six-ton trucks."

Another Packard advertisement of the educational kind that came in for high praise was that which appeared in Wednesday's New York newspapers on "Using the automobile to cut the family's transportation costs," an argument in behalf of the used car department of the company.

PUBLIC MIND BEING POISONED.

Many other instances of the big results from this kind of educational copy were cited by Edward Hungerford, advertising manager of Wells Fargo & Co., the express company, in the course of his talk on "War and the economic situation coming up before advertisers," and during the general discussion it created.

It was the general opinion that this new form of advertising will be the key to the war advertising problem.

Mr. Hungerford criticized two articles that have recently appeared in a New York and a Chicago newspaper in which certain men and interests urged that advertising be greatly curtailed, if not entirely eliminated, during the war on the ground that increased desire, demand and consumption are created by advertising at a time when the nation needs decreased consumption of everything.

"This is the outlook of men who know nothing about advertising and its purposes," said Mr. Hungerford. "They are like men on a battlefield who believe they know everything that is going on despite the fact that they are in a trench and cannot see over the top of it."

"It is an example of the danger advertising faces in having the public mind poisoned against it. Advertising should take a war form and keep on its work of increasing business as much as possible, so that the Government can increase its war revenue. But at the same time it should aid in the reduction of unnecessary spending, consumption of food, fuel and use of transportation."

"Educational advertisements such as the Packard Company is using point the way."

Incidentally, Mr. Hungerford said, advertisers owe to the advertising media that helped to build up their business in normal times an obligation to not deprive them of needed advertising revenue in these critical times.

"In the face of all danger the great commercial structure of America must be maintained intact—and advertising must be made do it," declared Mr. Hungerford.

Many other schemes were put forward by other advertising managers along similar constructive lines. Instead of urging the public to buy more—they urged that it must be taught to make proper use of what it buys and aid the national conservation movement.

In the course of a talk on "Possible readjustments in American business, based on experiences in Great Britain," F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson, sales manager of the Welch Grape Juice Company, said that Great Britain has a list of sixty-eight businesses whose employment of able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen years and sixty-one years is prohibited at the present time, which comes right down to practically putting them out of business.

This list includes such businesses as advertising agents, paper making, general printing, outside domestic occupations, carriage making, etc."

"This is a condition of affairs that may come to the United States," said Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson. "But in England it has resulted in a great deal of enterprise in the way of factories and businesses installing new machinery and turning in to produce kinds of products that are of more value to the government."

"In Great Britain every business is licensed. Non-essentials cannot be manufactured at all. Factories that formerly produced them are forced to make entirely different products on the order of the government. There are 5,000 controlled establishments in the United Kingdom."

"A large number of British firms now manufacturing war munitions, but which formerly produced things for the public, have not let up in their advertising one bit. They are figuring on the future and keeping the association of their names with their former products in front of the public all the time, to be ready to start in again as soon as peace is declared."

"A number of British advertisers made more money last year than ever before."

"Lipton's teas, for instance, are doing practically a doubled volume of business."

"The Gordon Selfridge Store, the American establishment in London, increased its advertising last year. When the war broke out employees went to Mr. Selfridge and offered to continue their work on a half-salary basis, but the head of the business refused to make any change. Instead he spent more money for advertising and this year's business has increased to $15,000,000, a gain of two and a half million dollars over last year."

DUTY OF AD MEN.

The necessity for organized effort to meet the problems of war for the nation and for employers was emphasized by President A. C. Reilly. Referring to "a condition which never existed before in similar gravity on this earth and which we all trust may never exist again until the end of time," President Reilly said:

"At our last meeting which was held last June in Detroit our country had just entered the great war. The conditions thus created were new to us then and the process of mental and spiritual readjustment which were necessary to meet these conditions had hardly begun. But six months have passed since then and we know better today what the great war means to us—as individuals—as an association—as a nation. We know how vitally it affects us in our business, in our homes, in every relation of our lives."

"There is a dual aspect to this question of war problems. I hope we all recognize the fact. Our business interests are involved. Our vital interest as advertising managers is involved. It is up to us to show results under conditions, the like of which none of us have ever known before and which none of us ever dreamed or imagined."

"These conditions have not removed our eternal obligations to make good. They have but intensified this obligation and have added to it another and higher obligation. Collectively we represent one of the largest aggregations of business interests to be found in any association and on these interests in the ratio of their importance rests the obligation to see the country through."

"We are no longer working for ourselves alone or for our companies alone, nor are our companies working for themselves alone. The fusing of all of these usually diverse interests in a common cause is one of the striking phenomena of the times. Let us hope that these times of trouble will teach us and the whole country the value of greater mutual trust and mutual helpfulness. For if it does even the great catastrophe will not be without its compensations."

And it is in this spirit that I ask you to undertake the work of our present meeting. We all need help and guidance—that is why we are here. And the only way that we can get that help which we all need is by giving it—each and every one—to the very limit of our opportunities and power."

THE A. N. A.

"The present meeting of our associ-tion marks the close of the seventh year of the existence of the A. N. A.

"Every one of these years has witnessed the steady growth of our association in the number and importance of its membership, the strengthening of its influence and the all around value and usefulness of its work. During the past year this has been notably true. This growth of the A. N. A. in importance and influence has not been due to any exceptional activities of the directors or president. It has rather been due to a momentum which was inevitable."

"An organization such as ours, representing the great buyers of advertising throughout the country, had long been due—and overdue. We were needed—we have long been needed in the advertising field."

"First and foremost, we advertising managers need each other. We need the help and counsel of each other in the solution of our individual problems and the performance of our individual tasks. The A. N. A. as an organization was born of this need. Our annual and semi-annual meetings are an expression of this need. But beyond this is another and a greater need."

"Advertising as an institution needs us. Our help, our influence, our decisions, if you please, are needed in the settlement of many problems in the field of advertising which cannot be settled and permanently settled save with the full help and co-operation of the great buyers of advertising space."

"The main fact I wish to emphasize is that this important function of the A. N. A. is constantly receiving wider recognition from other advertising interests."

"The past year has witnessed steady progress in the growth of closer co-operation between the A. N. A. as an organization and other advertising bodies. Since our last annual meeting at Boston we have solicited, and received in generous measure, from the publishers of the country their help and co-operation in a promotion bureau campaign designed to place the institution of advertising in its true light before the buying public."

"Our service to the cause of clean advertising through the Dayton Resolutions, and the subsequent activities of our 'Standards of Practice' committee, has been recognized by the better class of publishers and has been an efficient help to them in establishing these standards in their own practice."

"We have also made notable progress in establishing co-operative relations with the American Association of Advertising Agents, and with other purveyors of advertising space or service."

"I am glad to report that the attitude of doubt and uncertainty which seemed at one time to exist among many representatives of these interests, as to the plan and purpose of the A. N. A., is being cleared away and is giving place to a spirit of greater mutual trust and mutual confidence. I believe that this spirit can and must lead to a recognition by our friends on the other side of the fence of the value and necessity to them of our association. It is through the growth of this spirit that we must look for the real and permanent solution of all general and mutual advertising problems—present and to come."

"In speaking of the expanding activities of the A. N. A. and of the increasing benefits these activities to each and every member I cannot refrain from mentioning the service which is now being rendered by our central offices through its general data department, its circulation data department, its employment department and the other channels through which it aims to serve our individual membership."

"I do not exaggerate, however, when I say that this service is incomparably the most valuable single item in A. N. A. membership."

"The extraordinary expansion of the service during the past year and the efficient manner in which it is being handled by Secretary John Sullivan and his able associates at the central offices makes a most interesting and inspiring story."

"I wish to urge upon every member who has not already done so, to form the habit of utilizing the information service furnished by our central offices. I need not specify all the points that the service covers."

"I merely urge that you test this service and prove it for yourself. This test will show you why the A. N. A. membership is great and growing."

"If each A. N. A. meeting will teach us a little, if only a very little, of how to expend our advertising appropriation more wisely and more efficiently, then our members one and all will find that they simply cannot afford ever to absent themselves from any A. N. A. gathering. "This problem is the greatest that confronts any advertising manager—and it is always with us. But there are peculiar conditions at this time which give it a special and ominous importance."

WHAT THE A. N. A. CAN DO.

The report of Secretary John Sullivan showed that the offices of the association at 15 East 20th street, New York, had been entirely rearranged and departmentalized during the past year and can now furnish advertisers with practically anything they may want to know about publications' data, export data, marketing, profit-sharing or bonus business systems and a veritable thousand and one other things, which enabled the answering of 3,000 inquiries last year on practically every advertising subject.

In addition the association maintains an employment bureau which registers and places men and women fitted for advertising and sales work. Last year over 100 places were filled with A. N. A. members through this bureau.

War taxes provided the big question-answering service, but some answers even went so far as to provide advertisers with the best arguments and copy for meeting a particular selling problem. Other information in greatest demand was on trade lists, advertising agency accounts, department systems, motion pictures and sales methods.

Mr. Sullivan said the year 1917 also witnessed the mutual co-operation of the A. N. A. with other advertising bodies, the advertising agents' associations and the American Newspaper Publishers Association to a more marked extent than ever before.

A particular feature in the successful year of the A. N. A. was the popularity of its promotional work. This consisted of the dissemination of educational stories on the value of advertised goods to newspapers and other advertising media, which gave the message to the buying public through their columns.

Such matters as the A. N. A. sent out for advertising promotion was not free advertising in any form. It mentioned no names or products and was just a plain, concise explanation of the good to be obtained by the public from buying goods that were advertised and by the local dealers in carrying such stock.

The A. N. A. grew during the past year to a membership of 270, an increase of twenty per cent. The members spend approximately $100,000,000 a year in national advertising.

A discussion at the meeting may result in the formation of an A. N. A. bureau to handle the distribution of advertising of movie films.

MARKET INVESTIGATIONS

The subject of investigating the market—getting the data preliminary to preparing the advertising campaign—was introduced with talks by Truman A. DeWeese, director of publicity for the Shredded Wheat Company; Frederick W. Nash, manager of the food department of the General Chemical Company; and R. A. Holmes, advertising and sales manager of the Crofut & Knapp Company.

They pointed out that while investigation of markets is necessary, especially at this uncertain time, sometimes advertisers go too far and in the end draw wrong conclusions. Everything does not need investigation, they said, many things that are investigated are entirely unnecessary because the conditions are obvious—such as the necessity of men wearing hats, etc.

However, every product has peculiar marketing conditions—and careful investigation should be made to find out just what conditions are,

THE publishers of TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE announce the following, effective this date:

K. D. McALPIN, Eastern Advertising Manager, assumes entire direction of the Advertising Department in the Eastern territory.

W. A. STURGIS, Western Advertising Manager, assumes entire direction of the Advertising Department in the Western territory.

In these executive capacities they will succeed H. R. REED, Advertising Director, who today leaves the organization.

Both Mr. McALPIN and Mr. STURGIS have been with TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE over a period of years and have been in a large measure responsible for the splendid record made in this department of the magazine's work.

Mr. REED'S record with the organization prompts the expression, in this connection, of our sincere appreciation of his breadth, his unquestioned capacity and his fine sense of fairness and loyalty. He carries with him our very cordial good wishes for the further achievements in the field of advertising which are certain to come to him.

GEO. A. McCLELLAN,
Vice Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

December 1, 1917.

TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE

461 Fourth Avenue - New York City
People's Gas Building - Chicago, Ill.

not only by experts but by getting in to close touch with the consumer, to find out his habits, money spending capacity, etc.

George French, editor of Advertising News, spoke on "Standards of Profitable Advertising," emphasizing the fact that standards are of absolute necessity to successful advertising—both as to experience and research.

Tim Thrift of the American Multigraph Sales Company talked on "Copy that is and copy that isn't."

An evening session was held Thursday to discuss "Export Advertising and Selling." A special program was presented, led by David L. Brown, manager of the export division, advertising department of the Good-year Tire & Rubber Company.

"Fraudulent Advertising" was the big topic of discussion at the closing session yesterday. R. L. Prather, advertising manager of the Thomas G. Plant Company and chairman of the standards of practice committee, presided. W. A. Martin, Jr., advertising and sales manager of D. E. Sicher & Co., spoke on "A new slant on the question of fraudulent advertising;" and Richard H. Lee of the New York Tribune told about "Conserving Confidence."

NEW OFFICERS.

Officers were elected as follows

President, L. B. Jones, Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y.; vice-president, E. S. Babcox, Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio (re-elected).

Directors (three years)—L. R. Green, Tuckett Tobacco Company, Hamilton, Ont.; and Brainerd Dyer, Aluminum Castings Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Tim Thrift, American Multigraph Sales Company, Cleveland, and Floyd Y. Keeler of the I. W. Lyon & Sons Company, New York, were re-elected.

One-year term—R. L. Prather, Thomas G. Plant Company, Boston (re-elected).

The following directors are hold-overs:

O. C. Harn, National Lead Company, New York; R. A. Holmes, the Crofut & Knapp Company, New York; Edward Hungerford, Wells Fargo & Co., New York; W. A. McDermid, the Gerhard Mennen Chemical Company, Newark, N. J.; Charles E. Percy, the Joseph & Feiss Company, Cleveland; George B. Sharpe, the De Laval Separator Company, New York; E. L. Shuey, Lowe Brothers Company, Dayton, Ohio.

John Sullivan continues as secretary-treasurer, and John Neville Boyle of New York is counsel.

A meeting was held late in the afternoon to perfect plans for the A.N.A.'s work in the new advertising division of the Committee on Public Information.

THE BANQUET.

Stephane Lauzanne, editor of Le

Matin, Paris, was one of the guests of honor at the annual banquet on Wednesday evening. In a stirring address he gave the lie to those who scornfully declare France is exhausted by the war. "Some people are saying that France is exhausted and bled white," he said. "But France is not exhausted. In September, 1914, at the Marne, she had an army of 1,500,000 in the field—today her army numbers 2,700,000. That is how France is exhausted."

"In September, 1914, we were Major General Haven Putnam, president of the American Rights League, urged the handling of pacifists here. "We found a way to deal with them in the Civil War, and we must do so now," he said. "Fort Lafayette was handy in 1863, and it is possible to use it now."

Speaking on "The Present Crisis," ex-Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio said that while the outlook for the war was the darkest since the battle of the Marne, there was no reason for America and her allies to feel discouraged. Our participation in the war, he said, was inevitable, and while Germany did not care much one way or the other, she would learn in due time that the war would be won by the might of the United States."

A.N.A. REGISTER.

Those present at the A.N.A. meeting were:

American Sheet Tin Plate Co.—H. V. Jamison.
Alpha Portland Cement Co.—S. R. Hall.
American Multigraph Sales Co.—Tim Thrift.
Armstrong Cork Co.—H. W. Prentiss; A. B. Barnes.
Atlas Powder Co.—W. H. Dawson.
Alexander Hamilton Institute—B. Lichtenberg.
Automobile, the—Harry Tipper.
Aluminum Cooking Utensil Co.—G. G. Fox; H. S. Trump.
Art Metal Construction Co.—R. E. Ramsay.
Association of Canadian Advertisers—W. A. Lydiatt.
American Sugar Refining Co.—O. C. Mosley; G. M. Lauck.
American Telephone & Telegraph Co.—J. D. Ellsworth.
American Optical Co.—O. B. Carson.
Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.—H. A. Smith.
Burroughs Adding Machine Co.—Mr. Kellogg; A. H. Loucks; W. H. Marsh.
Baker-Vawter Co.—R. C. Haws; M. White.
Bird & Son—W. R. McNeil.
B. V. D. Co.—N. L. Mead.
Berlin Mills Co.—W. M. Ringer.
Brayer Board Companies—L. A. Selman.
Buffalo Specialty Co.—Lloyd Mansfield.
Blaisdell Pencil Co.—Malcolm Moore.
Baker, Walter & Co.—W. H. McLauthlin.
Cabot, Samuel, Inc.—M. G. Bennett.
Corona Typewriter Co.—C. W. Kip.
Cate, J. I. Plow Works—B. M. Pettit.
Crofut & Knapp Co.—R. A. Holmes.
Carter's Ink Co.—F. W. Taft.
Champion Spark Plug Co.—H. L. Corey.
Colgate & Co.—Harold Thresher; Mr. Brard.
Cleveland Metal Products Co.—G. M. Davis.
Campbell-Ewald Co.—E. St. Elmo Lewis.
Diamond Crystal Salt Co.—Gordon W. Kingsbury; R. R. Moore.
Dennison Manufacturing Co.—S. Van Ness; B. A. Blackman.
DeLaval Separator Co.—G. B. Sharpe; A. W. Jones; H. High.
DuPont de Nemours & Co.—D. R. Rutter.
Detroit Steel Products Co.—W. A. Hart.
Dixon, Joseph Crucible Co.—B. H. Rosier.
Electric Storage Battery Co.—C. H. Reed.
Edison Storage Battery Co.—Paul Sutcliffe.
Eastman Kodak Co.—L. B. Jones.
E. & Z. Van Raalte—Mrs. Cahn.
Edison, Thomas A.—L. C. McChesney.
Felt & Tarrant Mfg. Co.—T. J. Wright.
Fisk Rubber Co.—G. L. Sullivan.
Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.—A. O. Aulbaugh; E. S. Babcox.
Gpodyar Tire & Rubber Co. L. L.

King; D. L. Brown; H. S. Quine.
Green, Daniel Felt Shoe Co.—J. A. Davis.
General Vehicle Co.—F. Nelson Carle.
Griswold Mfg. Co.—Marvin E. Griswold.
Gerhard Mennen Chemical Co.—A. P. Rapetto; W. A. McDermid.
Goulds Mfg. Co.—H. F. Miller.
General Chemical Co.—F. W. Nash.
General Electric Co.—Mr. Wilkins; F. H. Gale; F. R. Davis.
General Fireproofing Co.—C. H. Chapin; L. E. Fisher.
Hercules Powder Co.—E. I. La Beauce.
Hinds, A. S. Co.—A. H. Hinds; W. B. Hay.
Hupp Motor Car Co.—F. Dickinson.
Henderson, Peter & Co.—F. H. Cole.
Heinz Co.—J. L. Given.
Hygienic Products Co.—R. Schlach.
Hickey Freeman Co.—H. P. Morris.
Hinde & Dauch Paper Co.—H. H. Squire.
International Silver Co.—W. G. Snow.
Imperial Life Assurance Co. of Canada—C. Elvan.
Ide, George P. & Co.—Ira Fleming.
Ingersoll, Robt. H.—A. L. Daniels; C. M. Gage.
Johnson & Johnson—G. D. Johnson.
Joseph & Feiss Co.—C. E. Percy.
Keystone Steel & Wire Co.—O. A. Brock.
Kelllogg Products, Inc.—C. K. Woodbridge.
Kalamazoo Stove Co.—D. R. Curtenius.
Krohn-Fechheimer Co.—E. K. Woodrow.
Lehigh Portland Cement Co.—J. C. Bowen; Howard Rhode.
Lucas, John & Co., Inc.—W. M. Zintl.
Lyons, J. W. & Co., Inc.—J. B. Hill; F. V. Keeler.
Lowe Brothers Co.—E. I. Shuey.
Macheth Evans Glass Co.—H. H. Parker.
Murphy Varnish Co.—H. W. Wack.
Mellins Food Co. of North America—J. S. Wichert.
Moller & Schumann Co.—Carl J. Schumann.
National Lead Co.—O. C. Harn; S. H. Myers; W. W. Storms.
Nestle's Food Co.—A. M. Stewart.
National Lamp Works of General Electric Co.—N. H. Boynton.
New Jersey Zinc Co.—G. B. Heckel.
New York Central Lines—P. V. D. Lockwood.
Oneida Community, Ltd.—Dr. B. I. Dunn; R. S. Hulbert.
Pennsylvania Rubber Co.—Miss Stephenson.
Pyrene Mfg. Co.—T. F. Flanagan.
Pratt & Lambert, Inc.—W. P. Werheim.
Plant, Thomas G. Co.—R. L. Prather.
Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co.—A. L. Tsch.
Robbins & Myers—C. H. Clark.
Remington Typewriter Co.—A. C. Reilley; J. S. Martin; F. L. Pierce.
Raybestos Co.—S. Simpson; R. B. Davis.
Sicher, D. E. & Co.—William A. Martin, Jr.
Stanley Works—A. A. Dessau.
Steel Blue Co.—T. F. Pexear.
Southern Pacific Lines—L. H. Nutting.
Sneath Electric Crane & Hoist Co.—A. J. Barnes.
Stromberg-Carlson Tel. Mfg. Co.—W. C. Freeman.
Sharpless Separator Co.—D. E. Andrews; Astolf Levin.
Simonds Mfg. Co.—R. D. Baldwin.
Stetson, John B. Co.—Mont H. Wright.
Society for Electrical Development—H. W. Alexander; F. C. Meyers; F. Foster.
Strathmore Paper Co.—C. W. Dearden.
Shredded Wheat Co.—Truman A. DeWeese.
Standard Oil Cloth Co.—G. M. Prentiss.
Silt Stove Works—P. Will.
Scott Paper Co.—J. G. Lamb.
Tellow, Henry—G. B. Scott.
Texas Co.—Mr. Vos.
Timken Detroit Axle Co.—E. W. Lewis; F. N. Sim.
Tob Co.—A. C. Reed.
Toll Protograph Co.—Jack W. Squire.
U. S. Cartridge Co.—H. P. Meulendyke.
Valentine & Co.—F. P. Connolly.
Welch Grape Juice Co.—W. Heckman.
F. A. Wilson-Lawson; A. L. Dewar, Jr.
Walder & Co., Inc.—G. Galloway; M. T. Dannerth.
Winchester Repeating Arms Co.—W. I. Slough; J. D. Chappell.
Wells Fargo & Co.—Edward Hungerford.
Wallace & Sons Mfg. Co.—R. J. Walsh; H. A. Norton.
Westinghouse Lamp Co.—E. Reid.
Westman & Barnes Mfg. Co.—Karl Kenner.
Ralph Templeton.
Wetland Storage Battery Co.—S. E. Baldwin.
Western Electric Co.—P. J. Thomson.
Went-Save Co.—R. H. Babbitt.
Wells-Oberland Co.—Ward M. Canaday.
Warren & Co.—R. D. Smith.
Whitman, Stephen F.—L. W. Wheelock.
Vauhan & Erbe Mfg. Co.—E. B. M. Wirtman.

Unlimited Display Type without Type Casting Problems

THE LUDLOW TYPOGRAPH does not introduce new problems into the composing room. It is not a complex piece of machinery requiring specialized ability to run it.

It is simply a machine for producing display composition which any compositor can use with as much ease and skill as adjusting a mitring machine.

But with all its simplicity and compactness, it is the only machine that makes Non-Distribution complete and economical. It supplies unlimited Display Type without type casting problems.

The Ludlow Typograph

You should know all about the Ludlow Typograph. Send for Descriptive Literature

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE CO.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

Frank D. Austin, formerly circulation manager of Realty Magazine and before that with the Spur, both of New York, has been made business manager of Contracting, New York.

Gus H. Dirhold, for the past year managing editor for Hardware and House Furnishing Goods, Atlanta, Ga., will reopen an advertising office in St. Louis, Mo.

Edward W. Smith, formerly advertising manager of the Modern Grocer, Chicago, has joined the D. O. Haynes Company, New York. He will represent the Pharmaceutical Era and other trade publications of the company in New York.

The International Trade Press, Inc., Chicago, has purchased the Cement Era Publishing Company, including its monthly publication, the Cement Era, and several trade directories and annuals.

The Cement Era has been consolidated with the Cement World and International Trade, both published by the International Trade Press, Inc., and the new publication is known as the Engineering and Cement World.

F. D. Coburn, for twenty years secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture, has been appointed to the editorial staff of the Missouri Valley Farmer, Topeka, Kan., on which he has been contributing editor.

The publications of various state automobile organizations met in Cleveland recently for the purpose of pooling their interests in a body of national scope. Among those represented were:

Motorism, Albany, N. Y.; Buffalo Motorists; New Jersey Motorists; Wisconsin Motorists, Milwaukee; Hoosier Motorists, Indianapolis; C. A. C., Chicago, and the Ohio Motorists, Cleveland.

Applications were received for ten other publications and it is expected the list will comprise not less than fifteen magazines with an aggregated circulation of 100,000. Other publications, that can comply with the requirements of the trustees, will be in a few weeks the entire United States will be thoroughly covered.

A. I. Boreman, advertising manager of the Merchants' Trade Journal, Des Moines, Ia., is now vice-president and business manager of Merchants' Trade Journal, Inc.

Hollie L. Reed, who has been advertising manager for Motorism, Albany, N. Y., the official publication of the New York State Automobile Association, has been made manager of that publication.

Motorism will open a New York City office in the near future.

The Indiana Farmer and the Farmers' Guide, two of the oldest farm papers in Indiana, have been merged and will appear hereafter as the Indiana Farmers' Guide. James L. Kingsbury will be president and manager of the new combination and the paper will be published at Huntington, Ind.

The Associated Business Papers, New York, has elected the Northwestern Druggist of St. Paul, Minn., to membership.

The Foreston (Minn.) Independent has suspended publication.

NEWS OF HALIFAX DISASTER

GATHERED BY NEWSPAPERS IN THE FACE OF MANY OBSTACLES.

The American newspapers showed and news services showed typical Yankee enterprise in covering the news of the Halifax munitions explosion disaster on December 6, despite the fact that Halifax was cut off for a time from all communication with the rest of the world by wire or cable, according to officials of the Western Union Cable Company. All land lines were down and the plant of the United States Direct Cable Company at Halifax was so damaged by the explosion that the line could not be operated.

Readers were given pictures and graphic maps showing the scene of the explosion and all the details as fast as they were obtainable in the afternoon papers, and Friday morning's papers finished up where they left off. Up to the time THE FOURTH ESTATE went to press, however, full details of the disaster were not obtainable.

Many of the newspapers and services rushed special men to the scene for stories.

At 10 o'clock Thursday night there was a sudden break in the story of the Halifax disaster coming into the New York offices of the Associated Press over the wire of the Canadian Press, the only one in operation into that city since the explosion.

Efforts to raise Halifax were ineffectual. An hour later it was learned that the operator who had been sending from the stricken city had left his key when a messenger brought him news that his wife had been dangerously injured. While sending the story he had expressed the fear that something must have happened to her because she had sent him no message since he went on duty.

The regular Canadian press operator at Halifax has been missing since the explosion, and his place was taken by a substitute. Sending of further details of the disaster was perforce suspended until a second substitute could be found.

From the best information obtainable by THE FOURTH ESTATE neither of the two daily newspapers in Halifax—the Herald and Mail and the Echo—was damaged in the explosion. If the descriptions of the zones of the damaged territory received in the United States up to the time THE FOURTH ESTATE went to press are correct, the newspaper offices are not in that district.

NEW YORK PRESS CLUB OFFICERS INSTALLED.

The newly elected officers of the New York Press Club were installed in the clubhouse on December 3. The officers are:

President, Edward Percy Howard, American Press Association; first vice-president, Keats Speed, Sun; second vice-president, Oscar Watson, Associated Press; third vice-president, Arthur F. Curtis, World; treasurer, Ralph W. Hill, special writer; financial secretary, H. Nelson Meade, Evening Sun; recording secretary, Timothy Gorman, World.

The corresponding secretary is Caleb H. Redfern, special writer; librarian, Clarence E. Swezey, author; trustees, three-year term, James E. Clauson, American; William F. Connell, author; C. Fred Crosby, financial writer; two-year term, John Burke, Civil Service Chronicle.

The Oxford (Wis.) Times has been started by George Fuller.

REDUCING COST IN CIRCULATING.

WHAT IT IS POSSIBLE TO ACHIEVE IN PRINTING, TWINE WRAPPERS, ETC.

By W. H. HENDERSON,
Circulation Manager the Winnipeg (Man.) Telegram.

Last May we received an account from a job printing firm for printing which amounted to $486.20. This covered two lots of dodgers, 60,000 of each. The idea of paying this large amount for two ordinary dodgers was appalling to me, so I set to work to devise ways and means to reduce operating costs in every way possible, with the following results:

(1) I first invented a way to print our dodgers on ordinary news print paper on the newspaper Hoe or Goss press. We printed two forms to a page, and then cut the page in half to get the right size. This gave us the same size dodgers as the others printed at the job plant, and at less than one-third of the cost.

(2) The next move I made was to print letter heads (four to a page) on our Goss press, then put them through the cutter to get letter size. We use these letter heads for ordinary multigraph circular work.

(3) We then decided to print all our circular orders of 1,000 or over on the Goss press. We print four forms to a page and then cut each page in quarters to get letter size.

(4) We worked out a system of printing renewal blanks and subscription contracts on the Goss press. We print twelve forms to a page and then put them through the cutter to get the right size.

(5) We discovered a system of printing the labels for mail bags and large labels for news-dealers' parcels on the small press we use to print our mail lists. We print about forty mail bag labels on a sheet of cardboard the size of a galley, and then cut the sheet with a pair of shears. Mail list paper is used for the news-dealer labels, about twenty forms to a galley, and cut by shears.

I have samples of printing done on our press for the inspection of readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE and I will gladly send samples to anybody on request.

(6) Kraft wrappers cost 10 1/2 cents a pound. Newspaper wrappers cost one-half cent a pound. In other words, one pound of kraft wrappers costs as much as twenty pounds of newspaper wrappers.

(7) By careful study in our mail room we have succeeded in substituting newspaper wrappers for kraft wrappers in all sizes, except the sizes 10 by 40 and 10 by 18.

(8) Our mail clerks make our own paste now. Formerly we bought it. In this way we save about $7 a month.

The following table of costs indicates the savings effected by the above mentioned methods.

	Sept. 1916.	Sept. 1917
Wrappers, twine and stationery	$584.88	$262.24
Reduction		$322.64
Wrappers, twine and stationery	May, 1917. Oct. 1917.
stationery	$584.90	$260.64
Reduction		$324.26
Total	$1,469.78	$513.16
Total reduction		$956.60

VETERAN CELEBRATES.

R. Roberts Shronk, said to be the oldest newspaper man in Philadelphia, celebrated his seventy-third birthday with an anniversary dinner a few weeks ago. Mr. Shronk has been correspondent for the Philadelphia Public Ledger for the past thirty years.

The True News

FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg., NEW YORK

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

THE N.E.A.C.M. IS ONE YEAR OLD.

WILL CELEBRATE NEXT MONTH IN BOSTON—INVITATION TO PUBLISHERS.

The anniversary meeting of the New England Association of Circulation Managers will be held in Boston on January 23, 1918. Officers for the coming year will be elected and many topics of vital interest to publishers and circulators will be discussed. The N.E.A.C.M. officers are very anxious to have publishers present at the coming meeting to show them what valuable work the organization is doing. In a general invitation sent out they say:

"At present we have the largest association of circulation managers in the United States, excepting, of course, the I.C.M.A., and in order to always hold this position we must all 'pull together' and make our meetings as interesting and full of information as possible.

"The association is now composed of forty-three members and each one is expected to try and bring in a new member. We look forward to a banner attendance at Boston.

"Since the organization of our association, less than one year ago, six other sectional organizations have been formed throughout the United States and Canada.

"Our meetings, which occur quarterly, are not outings or vacations, but are devoted strictly to the development and enlightenment of circulation managers.

"We want publishers to attend our meeting in Boston and bring their circulation managers with them.

"We want them for members with their employers' endorsement."

ARRESTED ON LIBEL CHARGE.

W. E. Wolf and Guy G. De Shon, publishers of the Moberg (S. D.) Daily Tribune, were arrested on November 25 on charges of criminal libel on four counts preferred by City Attorney P. C. Morrison of Moberg and lodged in the Walworth County jail at Selby, N. D., over night.

The libel charges grew out of a recent election campaign there looking toward the recall of the city administration. The city officials were charged by the paper with countenancing open vice in the city.

On the referendum vote the recall was defeated.

Service Flags

FOR THE HOME, OFFICE, CHURCH, FACTORY, SCHOOLS AND FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

All Sizes—Lowest Prices—Immediate Delivery.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN

29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes. Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Wilmington (Del.) Evening, Morning News, Evening Journal and Sunday Star contributed prizes for a recent war-bread making contest in the public schools of that city, which took place under the direction of the Woman's Defense Council.

The newspapers also contributed prizes for the annual poultry show, which was just held in Wilmington.

Acting on the suggestion of the Toronto Mail and Empire, Toronto expressed its delight with General Byng's victory at Cambrai, when factory whistles blew and church bells pealed at noon on November 23.

The Newman (Ga.) Herald will advance its subscription price from $1 to $1.50 per annum on January 1, 1918. It is one of the latest of the Georgia weeklies to announce this increase.

The price of the New Britain (Ct.) Evening Record has been increased from one to two cents. The paper states that not only does the increased cost of paper and other materials make the move necessary, but, also, plans for increasing the size of the publication with the addition of numerous new features.

The Ossining (N. Y.) Democratic Register has increased its mailing subscription rate from $2 to $2.50 per year, stating that "every single item that enters into the cost of a newspaper is from 50 to 250 per cent more than it was two years ago."

The North Eastern Circulation Company has inaugurated another campaign for the Tulsa (Okla.) World. This company has its headquarters in Davenport, Ia.

J. A. Johnson, who fourteen years ago made his start in the newspaper business with the New York Times and eventually became assistant circulation manager under Charles A. Flanagan, will become circulation manager of the New York Tribune about December 10.

INDICTED FOR DISLOYALTY.

E. B. Ford, publisher; his wife, Elizabeth Ford, owner; and E. Boskey, editor of the Fairbault (Minn.) Referendum, have been indicted on the charge of disloyalty.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric Bulletin Machines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.

Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you one?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

I Get the Money! J. A. McAVOY

SPECIAL EDITIONS
Weekly Review Pages

National Exchange Bank Building
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

PURSER MANAGING EDITOR OF WACO TRIBUNE.

H. S. Purser, who has been doing desk and street work in the Southwest for the last six years, has been named managing editor of the Waco (Tex.) Daily Tribune. Prior to receiving this appointment he was Camp MacArthur correspondent for the Tribune and the Detroit Journal, Grand Rapids Press, Kalamazoo Gazette, Saginaw Courier-Herald and Lansing State Journal, Michigan papers.

Mr. Purser has worked on newspapers in Dallas, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City, Houston and New Orleans. He is said to be the youngest managing editor in the South. He is only twenty-two years old, but has been in the game since he was sixteen.

BALTIMORE VIGILANCE.

The indictment against Harry Beck of Baltimore for alleged fraudulent advertising of diamonds for sale has been stayed by State's Attorney Broening, with the consent of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

The conditions were that Beck should pay all the costs in the case, reimburse the persons to whom he sold the gems procured for evidence against him, and should in the future comply with all the requirements of the advertising law.

The Baltimore Ad Club initiated the prosecution.

LECTURES ON PRISON LIFE.

A. F. Lockhart, the Milbank (S. D.) newspaper man who for a long time published Chain Lightning and was convicted of sending improper literature through the mails and sentenced to a term in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, having been released pending a new trial, is utilizing the time by delivering a lecture entitled "The Walled-in World," dealing with life in the Leavenworth Prison, and prison life in general.

It is stated he will tour the state of South Dakota giving the lecture.

A CORRECTION.

In the printing of a recent issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE, one of the numbers dropped from the circulation figures in an advertisement of the Dallas (Tex.) Evening Journal.

The correct circulation of the Evening Journal is 40,655.

TO REPRESENT IN EAST.

The Lethbridge (Alba.) Herald has appointed E. J. Guy as its Eastern representative, with office in Toronto.

PAPER MAKERS TO MEET.

(Continued from Second Page)

committee on paper gives the following advice to purchasers of news print

"Since the agreement signed on November 28 last many of the signers are reported to be offering publishers alternative contracts. One at a price of three cents under the standard contract, in which case the publisher must sign his voluntary consent. On these grounds the manufacturers propose to secure the consent of the Attorney General to the contract. The alternative contract is under the terms of the settlement as signed.

"It will be recalled that every manufacturer who signed this agreement is bound by its terms to offer his paper to his customers under the terms of that agreement, and that each customer has the right to voluntarily make an independent contract if he so desires, upon written request, filed with the Attorney General by the manufacturer making the contract and upon the Attorney General's consent thereto, such a contract may be made on any terms so approved.

PRICE OF TWO EIGHTY-FIVE.

"The paper committee very strongly advises all publishers against signing any contract at a price over 2.85 at the mill for a year, except as provided for under the terms of this agreement. A contract at a three cent price for the year as an alternative and under contract conditions which are not equitable cannot be attractive.

"It must be considered that in addition to the Federal Trade Commission fixing the price, it fixes the terms and conditions of the contract, which amounts to a saving of many dollars a ton, through over-weights and other bad feature which, to make any contract equitable, must be corrected.

"A publisher cannot waive his right under this agreement on price without also waiving his right to have his contract terms altered.

"The Federal Trade Commission has signified very recently that it still considers for the year 1917, a price of 2.50 f. o. b. mill a fair price. It has undertaken the task of fixing from April 1 next year until the end of the war a fair price which without doubt will be on the scale of a 2.50 price for 1917, plus increased costs at 1918 over 1917. This is practically the terms of the Great Northern contract to all its customers and is endorsed by the paper committee, as being a price fair and reasonable.

"With the situation as it now stands, any publisher would be unwise to accept any contract except one, the terms of which will be adjusted by the Federal Trade Commission, and no matter what terms and price he may receive, he has the satisfaction of knowing that they are right.

"There is a decided attempt being made to install in publishers' minds the belief that the Commission will fix a price for next year higher than three cents.

Of course, the commission may do this but manufacturing costs must increase enormously over anything in prospect at the present time so warrant such a price. The paper committee is in close touch with the costs of materials and supplies for the operation of mills in New England and is following paper making materials markets very closely.

"With the prospect in view of so many prices being fixed by the Government such as coal, copper, wool, chemicals and steel supplies, the indications are that the prices of these paper making materials will not be very materially increased, at least during the next year, over last, and that therefore a price based on cost for 1918 should be a very fair proposition and give a very satisfactory price.

"There is no doubt that the basis of operation between publishers and manufacturers under this agreement will be fair. No matter what else is offered to a publisher, he should be willing at all times to put his business on such a basis. Unless a contract is at 2.85 f. o. b. mill or less for 1918 with a promise of supply till the war is over at Federal Trade Commission prices, it cannot hope to be better than this. Arrangements for the decisions will be based on accurate knowledge and desire to do what is right.

"Remember, if you sign the voluntary request attached to these proposed contracts, their wording shuts you out of this adjustment till the war is over—not only for 1918.

"The committee therefore urges every one to sign only contracts under the agreement signed November 26, for there is absolutely no possibility of there being any better than these terms, offered, as no manufacturer will sell his paper under better prices and terms than this regardless of what camouflage the alternative contract may carry."

The paper committee also says:

"The systematic campaign through the trade press and other circles to make publishers believe that the Federal Trade Commission acceded to this present three cent price is incorrect."

[The Government attorneys put it up to the Federal Trade Commission to give it the maximum price for roll news print paper, which it could use in effecting an agreement with the indicted paper manufacturers and others, subject to revision, up or down, by the Federal Trade Commission after April 1, 1918, and this price was three cents.

See the official copy of the agreement in THE FOURTH ESTATE of December 1.]

PAPER ATTORNEY'S CHARGES RIDICULED.

Officers of the American Newspaper Publishers Association are not finding any cause to worry because of the court argument of one of the lawyers for the paper makers at last week's settlement of the paper case.

One of the attorney's informed the court that the American Newspaper Publishers Association was really just as much an organization violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Law as was the News Print Manufacturers Association, which was ordered dissolved. He contended that the A.N.P.A. was breaking the law by maintaining a system of keeping members informed of the paper market and urging them to pay only certain prices for print paper, in the same way that the news print paper makers had operated through their association.

When THE FOURTH ESTATE brought up for discussion the paper lawyer's comparison this week to an officer of the A.N.P.A., he said:

"Let me suggest that the remarks of Mr. Stanchfield to which you refer should be classed as either camouflage or jury talk. He made many weird statements in his address, one of which was that the News Print Manufacturers Association was organized as a measure of defense against the aggressions of the publishers.

"He had a bad case, but no doubt did the best he could with it. His statements regarding this association need not be taken seriously."

J. Lally will publish the Mount Prairie (Minn.) Rip Saw.

N.Y. TIMES BUYS A PAPER MILL.

WILL MAKE OWN NEWS PRINT AT TIDEWATER MILL—ALSO AFTER ANOTHER PLANT.

Another one of the great daily newspapers of the United States has joined the ranks of news print manufacturers.

The New York Times has bought the Tidewater Mill, which is located in the Bush Terminal, on the Brooklyn waterfront of New York City, and will take over the property on January 1, 1918.

The Tidewater leases the premises it occupies from the Bush Terminal. This lease has fifteen years to run yet and contains a renewal clause which may or may not be exercised as the owners of the Tidewater Mill may determine.

The property purchased by the New York Times consists of the complete equipment of the company, which is up-to-date and capable of producing 100 tons per day of news print paper. The New York Times has already completed arrangements for the necessary quantity of ground wood pulp and sulphite pulp to operate its new mill to capacity for a long series of years.

This action of the New York Times evidences the belief on the part of its managers that it is a proper function of a daily newspaper to manufacture its own news print paper.

It is understood that the Times' contract with the Donnanconna Paper Mills does not expire until December 31, 1918. It would therefore appear that until the Donnanconna contract expires the Times will have some paper to sell.

The Times consumes a large quantity of supplement and rotogravure paper and it is with the view of manufacturing its own paper for these purposes that an offer has been made to buy the Iroquois Mill, which will probably be either accepted or declined in the very near future. Authorities consulted, who are very close to the Iroquois present ownership, feel that it is more than probable that the sale will be made to the New York Times.

If this eventuates, the Times will then be equipped to manufacture everything it needs in the way of news print and sufficient paper and will be eliminated from the speculative market.

It will be noted in his connection that the New York World, the Chicago Tribune, the St. Paul Pioneer-Press and Dispatch and the Boston Globe also make their own paper.

It is believed that the trend for the future of daily newspapers is in the direction of ownership and operation of mills to produce their own requirements as a necessary and proper function of making a daily newspaper.

1918 POLICY OF CANADIAN EXPORT PAPER CO.?

THE FOURTH ESTATE quotes the following from a letter written by the Canadian Export Paper Company, Ltd., under date of December 1.

All the members of this company, as THE FOURTH ESTATE understands it, signed the agreement, dated November 28, 1917, made between the news print paper manufacturers and the United States Government.

This letter is interesting in view of the fact that it does not seem to reflect a compliance with the letter or the spirit of that agreement:

The letter:

"The uncertainty as regards prices which may be fixed by the Federal Trade Commission for 1918, and the continually increasing cost of manufacture, has forced us to make some radical changes in the disposition of our tonnage for next year.

"We have been carrying a number of accounts of various sizes and quantities which have not permitted anything like continuous maximum production. We have succeeded in obtaining some large contracts of sizes which will greatly improve our condition in this respect.

"In view of the grave possibility of prices for the United States being fixed, which will not yield us an adequate return, we have also decided to divert a portion of our tonnage to foreign markets. These changes will, necessarily, force us to relinquish a large number of contracts in the United States which we have heretofore been supplying, and regret that we will be unable to renew your contract.

"Before deciding on our policy, we, of course, gave careful thought to the question of our present customers being able to obtain a supply from other sources, but with the safe evidence that there is no difficulty whatever in this respect, and that we can make the change, as above indicated, without inflicting any hardship or inconvenience on those of our present customers whom we have been forced to give up."

MEMORIAL FOR LOEB.

Friends of A. W. Loeb, general manager of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, who died a few days ago, are raising a memorial fund to be given to some public charity in which he was interested.

Mr. Loeb's will, just probated, disposes of an estate of about $20,000 in personal property, leaving the bulk to his widow, Daisy Loeb, who also is made executrix without bond.

His mother is to receive $600 a year.

Newspapers With "Advertisers' Circulation"

Read by people of standing in communities profitable to advertisers.

The Detroit Journal

Local advertisers praise it for results—readers trust it for truth.

The Toledo Blade

A great newspaper that in every way justifies its fame.

The Newark Star-Eagle

A medium of selling strength—now 50,000 strong.

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.

Managers of National Advertising
New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit

PROMOTIONS IN THE W.N.U.

E. W. JULIAN, ASSISTANT, NOW GENERAL MANAGER—JOHNSON IN N. Y.

While in New York, H. H. Fish, vice-president and general manager of the Western Newspaper Union, has appointed E. W. Julian as assistant general manager, with headquarters in Omaha, Neb., where the general offices of the company are located.

Edward C. Johnston is transferred from Detroit and succeeds Mr. Julian as manager of the New York office.

The important part young men are taking in the development and conduct of big business these days is exemplified in these appointments. For two of the most important positions in the management of one of the biggest newspaper service organizations in the world, two young men are chosen—one under forty, the other barely thirty, both of whom have won their spurs on the firing line and in the service of the company, which now rewards their industry and success.

E. W. JULIAN.

Mr. Julian started out "on his own hook" when scarcely more than a boy. At eighteen he had learned the printers' trade and was editor and publisher of the Dawes County Journal, a flourishing and influential weekly paper in western Nebraska.

He acquired metropolitan newspaper experience as a reporter on the Omaha Bee. Then followed eighteen years' experience with the Western Newspaper Union as traveler for the Omaha and Chicago offices, then successively as manager of the Lincoln, Oklahoma City and New York offices. Mr. Julian's wide experience in the various activities of his company will be an asset of inestimable value in the new executive position he has been chosen to fill.

Mr. Johnston's first job with the Western Newspaper Union was a "job" in truth and in fact—not a "position." A graduate from the academic and law departments of the University of Nebraska, after a year at Harvard and an extended trip abroad he decided to follow in the footsteps of his brother, George S.

Johnston, sales manager of the wholesale paper department of the Western Newspaper Union, and started in to learn the business at the bottom.

He went to work in the Oklahoma City office in the stock rooms, where he learned from active experience and contact the paper branch of the business. He went through the mechanical departments, remaining in each long enough to get a good working knowledge of it.

EDWARD C. JOHNSTON.

When Mr. Johnston, four years later, was appointed manager of the Detroit office, he "cashed in" rapidly on the training of that first job. The industry and fealty with which those first duties—unpleasant and distasteful though they may have been—were performed have characterized Mr. Johnston's subsequent efforts and their continued application are primarily responsible for his selection to the important post of manager of the New York office.

PURCHASERS OF LINOTYPES.

Among recent Linotype purchasers are the following:

Boston American; Springfield (Ill.) News-Record; Portland (Ore.) Journal; Leland Stanford, Jr., University, Palo Alto, Cal.; Phoenix Printing Company, Columbus, Ohio; Fayetteville (Ark.) Sentinel; Le Grange (Tex.) Journal; Greeley Center (Neb.) Citizen; Owen (Wis.) Enterprise; Spencer (Neb.) Advocate; Hemingford (Neb.) Ledger; Carl E. Duval, Chicago; Evert (Mich.) Review; Connolly Brothers, New England, N. D.; Crockett (Tex.) Times; Colfax (La.) Clipper; Oxford (N. Y.) Review-Times;

Joliet (Ill.) Herald-News; Excelsior Springs (Mo.) Call; Frank P. Frost, Eskridge, Kan.; Tulsa (Okla.) World; Washington (Ark.) Telegraph; Taylor (N. D.) Reporter; Morgantown (W. Va.) Press; Center (Tex.) Champion; Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram; Pratt (Kan.) Tribune; Watertown (Minn.) News; North Wales (Pa.) Review.

NEW ONTARIO MERGER.

The merger took place this week of two Petrolia (Ont.) weeklies, the Topic and the Advertiser amalgamating. J. E. Ellis, editor of the last-named, and G. G. Bramhill, until recently Dominion Government agricultural representative for the county, are joint editors and managers of the paper, which will be independent in politics.

William Dowling, former editor of the Topic, will remain in the oil town, devoting his time to other interests.

ATWELL WITH NEW YORK WINTER GARDEN.

Ben H. Atwell, who has been named as general press representative of the New York Winter Garden and its various big traveling attractions, is one of the most widely known newspaper men in America and there are comparatively few members of the "fourth estate" who do not enjoy acquaintance with him.

Mr. Atwell was born in Syracuse, N. Y., and as a boy learned the newspaper game on the old Syracuse Courier (long since defunct) which in those days was conducted by the late Milton Northrup. He went West at the time that the Chicago World's Fair was proposed and worked for many years on newspapers in Chicago, Terre Haute, Indiana and Salt Lake City, Utah.

For a number of years he was political editor of the Chicago Daily News and of the Chicago Examiner, later becoming city editor of the Chicago Journal. He gave up the latter position to participate in the building of Forest Park, a permanent open air attraction in the "Windy City," and stepped from that institution to the concert and operatic field.

During his newspaper life, Mr. Atwell wrote several plays and a number of books, the former melodramatic in character, and the latter of a philosophical turn.

BEN H. ATWELL.

Mr. Atwell was one of the small group responsible for bringing Pavlova and Mordkin, and a number of other foreign attractions, to America, and was contemporaneously associated with exotic art offerings until he settled down in New York to handle the publicity for "The Whip" at the Manhattan Opera House. Subsequently he filled the same post at the Hippodrome for a number of years for the Messrs. Shubert and several theatres in New York for other managements.

In the summer of 1916 he returned to the road with the Winter Garden attraction, "Robinson Crusoe, Jr.," in which "Al" Jolson made one of the most successful tours in American theatrical annals. Upon the close of this tour recently Mr. Atwell was engaged in his present capacity at the Winter Garden, which means the re-establishment of "The Ten O'clock Club"—a newspaper man's institution which has always made its rendezvous in Ben Atwell's office no matter how small the latter and how deftly concealed under the serpentine windings of a theater staircase.

F. A. Wiltach of the Shubert staff has been handling the publicity for the Winter Garden as well as other Shubert enterprises, but on account of his attention being needed on various new shows he found he had too much on his hands, and Mr. Atwell was selected to succeed him.

NEW FOUNDLAND PAPER IS STILL COMING.

Since the announcement in the issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE of November 17 of a shipment by the Publishers Paper Company, Inc., from New Foundland of a steamer load of news print paper for New York, there has been shipped a cargo for New Orleans, a cargo for Boston, and three cargoes for New York.

In addition to the foregoing there will be six more cargoes from the docks of the paper mill—one for Savannah, one for Norfolk and Philadelphia, one for New Orleans and three for New York.

If the paper mill port remains open and free from ice after December 26, more shipments will be made from there. If not, shipments through the winter will be made from St. John, N. F., whose port is open the year round.

NOTHING NEW IN CANADA.

There were no new developments in the Canadian newspaper situation during the past week.

The situation now stands with the publishers getting news print paper at 2.50 per pound until January 20, 1918, pending Controller Pringle's further orders based on an investigation he is now pursuing through the extensive questionnaire told of in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week.

Finest Quality

FELT PRESS and MOULDING BLANKETS

DIRECT from Factory to Newspaper

at

ONE PROFIT

Write for prices to Newspaper Dept.

Chas. W. HOUSE
& Sons
UNIONVILLE, CONN.

“Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success”

N. W. AYER & SON

Advertising Headquarters

PHILADELPHIA
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

“Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success”

The advertising success of many of our client advertisers. They not only have “kept everlastingly agency—N. W. AYER & SON.

We have traveled the road with a good advertisers continuously for many years.

DINGEE & CONARD, . . .	Dingee Roses, . . .	44 years
D. M. FERRY & CO., . . .	Ferry Seeds, . . .	36 years
FERRIS BROS. CO., . . .	Ferris Waists, . . .	32 years
INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO.,	1847—Seventy Year Plate—1917,	20 years

“Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success” has b

N. W. AYER & SON
Advertising

BOSTON

PHILADELPHIA

Everlastingly
At It

"Keeping Everlastingly At It Brings Success"

The Little Corporal After fifteen years of unrelenting work, the Little Corporal has been successful in bringing everlastingly at it.	Fifteen Years of Unrelenting Work and then Success After fifteen years of unrelenting work, the Little Corporal has been successful in bringing everlastingly at it.	Perseverance That United Continents They have succeeded by doing it everlastingly at it.	They have succeeded by doing it everlastingly at it.
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------------------------------------------

N. W. AYER & SON
ADVERTISING AND LITHOGRAPHING
PHILADELPHIA

ies in the fact that they have been consistent at it," but have done so with ONE advertising company of courageous and successful

We mention here a portion of the list:

NATIONAL BISCUIT CO., Uneeda Biscuit, 19 years
INT. CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS With exception of three years 18 years
STEINWAY & SONS, . Steinway Pianos, . 17 years
ACME WHITE LEAD & COLOR WORKS, . ACME PAINTS 11 years the Motto of this House for nearly Half a Century

R & SON

Headquarters

NEW YORK

CHICAGO

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company. Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 222 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, 88c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04. Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices. Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.) Back Numbers—Less than 8 months old, 25 cents; more than 8 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
222 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $250; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 15 per cent; three months, 20 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessaries, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 20 lines in depth of column) double price.

No. 1241.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 8, 1917.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

Where is the business depression that pessimists predicted would hit the United States as soon as we entered the war?

The underlying strength of business is emphasized by the reports of insolvencies in November which were issued this week by Dun's and Bradstreet's.

The former says that the 961 defaults recorded form the smallest total for any month of the year except September, with 963, while, with the same exception, no month back to September, 1911, makes a better showing.

Failures during November were fewer than in any corresponding month back to November, 1909. The number of failures by months for a period of years is presented in this table:

	1917.	1916.	1915.	1914.	1913.
Jan	1,540	2,009	2,848	1,857	1,814
Feb	1,165	1,688	2,278	1,505	1,454
Mar	1,232	1,690	2,020	1,464	1,190
April	1,069	1,399	2,068	1,336	1,314
May	1,296	1,482	1,707	1,221	1,246
June	1,186	1,227	1,784	1,160	1,145
July	1,137	1,207	1,739	1,411	1,160
Aug	1,149	1,394	1,895	1,272	1,145
Sept	968	1,154	1,416	1,615	1,285
Oct	1,082	1,240	1,599	1,684	1,434
Nov	981	1,251	1,645	1,815	1,377
Dec	1,159	1,359	1,704	1,939	1,514

November's liabilities amounted to $13,635,605, and were somewhat larger than in October and September, but were smaller than for any November since 1910. Compared with November, 1914, a decline of nearly fifty per cent occurred.

Bradstreet's reports 950 failures in November, a decline of four and one-half per cent from October and an increase of nine per cent over September.

Liabilities amounted to $10,992,074, a decrease of sixteen per cent from October and an increase of five per cent over September. The increase over November, 1916, was fourteen per cent.

John Skelton Williams, the controller of the currency, announces that the earnings of national banks during the fiscal year 1917 were the greatest in their history. They amounted to $667,406,000, an increase of $70,764,000, or thirteen per cent, over the previous year.

The net earnings amounted to $194,321,000, an increase over the preceding year of $36,778,000, or twenty-three per cent.

On their capital stock the banks report net earnings for the year of 17.96 per cent, the highest percentage ever reported. This compares with 14.78 per cent on stock the year before.

The amount distributed in dividends to stockholders was $125,538,000, in increase over the previous year of $10,813,000, or nine and four-tenths per cent. The sum thus distributed was eleven and sixty-one hundredths per cent on their capital stock, and compares with ten and seventy-six one hundredths per cent the year preceding.

The percentage of net earnings to capital and surplus for the last year was ten and fifty-two one-hundredths, the greatest shown in over forty years, or since 1873.

Now is the time to advertise in the newspapers and retain America's prosperity.

STOP PROGRAM ADVERTISING GRAFTING.

The investigation of the Army and Navy Bazar in New York, which showed that one George F. Sweeney's share of the proceeds of the program advertising was $22,000—about $21,300 more than the bazar netted for the soldiers and sailors—it is hoped will provide the stepping stone for official action to stop a form of graft that has taken hundreds of millions of dollars from business men in the many years of its operation.

Advertising associations meet year after year and the members pledge themselves to ban uncertified program advertising, but they evidently forget the matter after the meeting adjourns and continue as before. Why?

Local merchants are usually the easy prey for the program highwaymen, but, as was so well exemplified in the Army and Navy Bazar affair, some of the biggest business men in New York were induced to contribute a big part of the $22,000 that went into the pockets of Sweeney and his associates, instead of to the worthy cause they pretended to be patriotically working for.

Advertising projects are often patronized solely because of the worthlessness of the cause which they are supposed to help. The public is mulcted out of large sums of money. Particularly at this time, when the Government is calling on the people of the country to practice economies in order to conserve resources, it is unfortunate that this cheating is allowed to go unchecked.

Charity entertainment may be divided into two classes, legitimate and illegitimate.

The latter are those from which the promoters derive more benefit than the charities for which they are presumably given.

The first step of the promoters is to get some prominent person to allow the use of his or her name. Usually this person appears on the stationery as "honorary chairman," "honorary president," or with some similar complimentary title.

In most cases the person sought out contributes the name gratis, in the hope of benefiting the organization, though often permission is given without adequate preliminary investigation into the scope of the movement and the individual or individuals back of it.

Then there are the patronesses, who incidentally are used as means of disposing of boxes and quantities of tickets, the cost of which is often borne by the patronesses themselves because they do not want to annoy their friends in order to lighten the financial burden thrust on them with the acceptance of the title.

After having fixed his stationery the promoter goes after the business man's advertisements for a souvenir program. This is done through an advertising contractor. The promoter makes the usual deal with him, and the game of mulcting the public in the name of charity is on.

In cases where the program contractor gets fifty per cent of the gross advertising revenue, it is probable that his solicitors get a twenty-five per cent commission on all the advertisements they bring in.

A favorite game is for a solicitor to telephone a man up from a place near his office and tell him that Mr. So-and-So (the big man on the stationery) is sending him down after an advertisement. Using this as a club, he usually gets what he wants.

It seems that the only way to stop the graft is to pass laws—either national, state or city—prohibiting the solicitation of program advertising except under individual permits, which would be issued by the authorities on finding proof of the worthiness of the cause represented.

AN EXAMPLE PUBLISHERS OWE TO THEIR NATION.

There is danger in practicing extreme economy—and a responsibility to overcome it rests on the newspapers of every city.

The facts were pointed out by Richard A. Foley, the advertising agent, in addressing Philadelphia business men and advertisers at the Bellevue-Stratford on December 6.

If the people took all the advice printed by amateur economists who suddenly found themselves in the limelight, he said, in a year the country would have a panic compared to which that of 1907 would be as a slight chill alongside of an epileptic fit.

There is a marked difference between thrift and suicidal money-madness.

If readers of newspapers were to decide not to purchase automobiles or clothes or to support restaurants or to do any of the normal things they have been doing, what about the hundreds of thousands of people who gain their livelihood through these various lines? How could they subscribe to Liberty Loans?

What about the taxes that the Government expects to collect from them, if they have no money?

There should be no extravagance, but people should adhere to normal methods of living in order to keep business going, and to make money, and to pay money to the Government.

Every firm can put its unused surplus, its undistributed profits, into Liberty Loan bonds and can consider it as capital with a capital allowance thereon, and may escape the ten per cent tax on undistributed surplus.

After giving a number of illustrations to show how the blocking of money circulation would act as a boomerang, Mr. Foley said in conclusion:

"Gentlemen, remember that Christmas is coming. You have good newspapers in Philadelphia. Yell, and let the people know what you have.

"Let them know that they are not burning the money when they spend it, but they are passing it along."

NOTE AND COMMENT.

As a souvenir of the second Liberty Loan campaign, the Minneapolis Tribune has reprinted the advertisements for the loan which appeared within its advertising columns in a special edition of twenty-six pages.

The power of advertising is generally thought of in terms of quick results, and advertisers generally are not satisfied unless inquiries follow closely upon the appearance of their advertisement, but F. G. Clark, president of the Columbia Motor Truck and Trailer Company of Pontiac, Mich., received a letter the other day which demonstrates that an advertisement may be effective after years have passed, and that inquiries may then come from the most outlandish places on earth.

In this advertisement, which appeared in an automobile engine trade paper eight years ago, the Columbia Motor Truck and Trailer Company, then known as the Clark Company of Lansing, Mich., proclaimed an eighteen-horsepower, water-cooled, shaft-drive motor car, which it has long ceased to manufacture.

The letter of inquiry is from Suva, Fiji Islands, and the inquirer says that if the catalog shows the car to be what he wants and if the first car is satisfactory, he will order others. Even the trade paper in which the advertisement appeared is out of existence, despite the fact that its work goes on in an advertising way.

Miss Mabel De LaMarter is reported to be the only woman "rewrite man" in the country. She is a member of the rewrite staff of the Chicago American.

November 27 was Ladies' Night at the Milwaukee Press Club.

On December 6 took place the much heralded "Gridiron" Dinner, at which the members were "roasted alive." A general good spirit prevailed at this meeting, however.

"Nothing equals the daily newspaper as an advertisement medium." This was the statement of C. A. Brownell, advertising manager of the Ford Motor Company, to members of the Chicago Advertising Association on December 6.

"The daily newspaper is the voice of the people," said Mr. Brownell. "It is the eyes of the multitude. For the last six years the Ford Company has touched nothing else.

"I have here a most remarkable comparison of the circulation of papers as compared with magazines. I have taken fifty-one cities in the United States and 149 daily newspapers in these cities. The combined circulation of these papers is 15,500,000. I have taken the weekly magazines with the greatest circulation in the nation and find that in these fifty-one cities the magazines have a combined circulation of 880,000.

"A page advertisement in the two magazines would cost $7,500, an equal space in these newspapers would cost less than $6,000."

PURELY PERSONAL.

Hon. Pleasant A. Stovall, minister to Switzerland and editor of the Savannah Press, who is enjoying a visit home, was a guest of honor at the tenth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association. The convention was held in Miami, Fla.

T. W. Leary of New York, president of the Southern Express Company, told Savannah newspaper men some of his experiences as a reporter when he went to Savannah for the annual meeting of the company. Mr. Leary "broke in" on the Baltimore Sun.

Leon R. Rey, publisher of L'Echo, a French newspaper of San Francisco, was the host of Alphonse Nicole, the French soldier-writer, at a recent dinner given in the latter's honor.

P. D. Zimmerman, formerly a news photographer for the Cleveland Leader, is now an engineer in the shipyards of the Georgia Construction & Engineering Company, having quit the newspaper field on account of his health. He expects to make a trans-Atlantic trip in the near future on one of the ships recently launched by this company.

Miss Estelline Benett of Chicago, has just returned from a five weeks' trip through Western Canada for the Canadian Pacific Railway, during which she covered ten cities, including Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Regina. In Calgary, she was guest of honor at a tea given by the Women's Press Club.

Mrs. Juliet V. Strauss, staff writer for the Ladies' Home Journal, addressed the Women's Dining Club at Kansas City recently. Her topic was "How Mother Gets Her Halo."

Colonel William Lightfoot Visscher, veteran Chicago newspaper man, is writing a series of sculptor studies for the Chicago Tribune, under the general caption "How They Came to Be Statues."

Waldemar Young, a well known San Francisco man, is the author of the scenario for a recent film production called "The Man Trap."

Miss Bessie Beatty, a feature writer of Los Angeles, Cal., acted the part of a heroine during the disturbances in Petrograd which followed the overturning of the Kerensky regime. She was with the small force of military cadets who seized the central telephone exchange in anticipation of the Premier's arrival, abandoning it only when the last vestige of hope was gone.

Clarence Metters, financial editor of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, is convalescent in his home after an operation at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Edward Gabelman, city hall reporter of the Cincinnati Enquirer, tried to break into politics recently by running as alderman-at-large at the municipal election in Cincinnati, but was defeated. The day following the election and his defeat, his fellow newspaper men at the city hall draped his desk with crepe as a reminder of his downfall.

Herman Roe, publisher of the Northfield (Minn.) News, has been elected a member of the Minnesota State Fair Board.

Douglas Malloch of the American Lumberman, Chicago, is the author of a collection of poems under the title "Tote-Road and Trail" just published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, New York.

Walter Eckersall, special writer on football for the Chicago Tribune, is ill at St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago.

Ben McCutcheon, loaned by the Chicago News to the Government to handle the Chicago publicity for the Liberty Loans, has just returned from Washington, where he went to submit a report of the recent campaign.

J. B. Hungerford, editor of the Carroll (Ia.) Herald, has been appointed a member of the Iowa state council of defense.

Ex-Alderman James Muir of the Ottawa (Ont.) Journal newspapers, is in the field for controller at the coming municipal elections.

Richard Lambert, producer of "Art and Opportunity," at the Cort Theater, New York, formerly a publicity man of long association with New York productions, is putting into effect a co-operative plan, agreed to by the players, which calls for a pro rata distribution, based on salary, of all money received in excess of actual running expenses.

W. L. Halstead, formerly general manager of the New York Tribune, was in New York this week.

MERGENTHALER COMPANY'S NEW TREASURER.

Joseph T. Mackey, who has been chosen secretary and treasurer of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., succeeding the late Frederick J. Warburton, has the distinction of having grown up from a boy in the employ of the company.

Born in Brooklyn in 1879, he came to it as an office boy in 1895, but continued to attend the evening schools and gradually perfected himself in matters of accounting until two years ago he was made assistant secretary and treasurer.

JOSEPH T. MACKEY.

During this period Mr. Warburton learned to depend largely upon his judgment in matters of detail, so that everything runs along smoothly under the new conditions.

Mr. Mackey is a member of the Hardware Club of New York and of the West End Golf Club of Forest Hills, Long Island, where he lives with his wife and two children.

When Mr. Mackey's attention was called to the fact that his name had been spelled "Mackay" in several trade papers last week, he replied laughingly:

"That's all right. When a man becomes famous he is entitled to have his name spelled wrong in the newspapers."

STAFF CHANGES.

Glen Condon, managing editor of the Tulsa (Okla.) World, has resigned and will soon leave for Europe to study war conditions there.

W. Wesley Knorr, for the past seven years head of the advertising department of the San Diego (Cal.) Evening Tribune, has been appointed assistant business manager of the Phoenix (Ariz.) Republican.

A. N. Leman, formerly with the Gloucester (Mass.) Times, has been added to the staff of the Boston Sunday Post, in place of Arthur L. Fairbrother, who has gone to the Providence Journal.

Paul F. Hunter has resigned as city editor of the Sheboygan (Wis.) Press.

C. I. Hammett has become editor of the Indianapolis Indiana Farmer.

Ross J. Dunphy has been appointed city editor of the Little Falls (Minn.) Daily Transcript to fill the place of Howard Ferrell, who will join the colors.

William C. Kranowitz, member of the senior class of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, New York, has given up his studies to join the staff of the Hartford (Ct.) Times. He started his newspaper work, prior to taking up his studies in New York, as correspondent of the Times at New Britain, Ct., and was later connected with the city staff of the same paper.

Frederick L. Willhite, owner of the Miami (Ill.) Courier and Chatham (Ill.) South Sangamon Messenger, weeklies, is once more advertising manager for the Springfield (Ill.) News-Record. His brother, Earl Willhite, will continue the publication of the papers.

Fred B. Shearer has resigned his position on the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal to return to Dennison, Ohio.

William Straub, for many years a member of the advertising staff of the Milwaukee Sentinel, has resigned to be associated with a Milwaukee oil company.

Thomas M. Skinner, formerly of the Savannah Morning News, now is a reporter on the Atlanta Journal.

H. L. Maxwell, formerly a reporter for the Chicago City News Bureau, has joined the Chicago Evening Post.

J. C. Burton, formerly an automobile writer for the Chicago Tribune, is now with the Chicago American.

Al Hauser has switched over from the Chicago Examiner to the Chicago Tribune.

Frank Emrich, formerly an editorial writer on the Chicago Herald, is now doing similar work for the Chicago Tribune.

Charles Wheeler, special feature man for the Chicago Tribune, has been assigned on a special task in France.

Newton Kendall, formerly of the editorial staff of the Ottawa (Ont.) Evening Journal and more recently of the staff of the McKim Advertising Agency, Montreal, has joined the staff of the Montreal Star as editorial writer.

EDITORS MEET IN TOPEKA.

Members of the executive committee of the Kansas State Editorial Association are meeting in Topeka this afternoon to discuss the selection of speakers for the annual convention to be held next year.

ATTEMPT ON HERVE'S LIFE.

Gustave Herve, editor of La Victoire, a Paris Socialist organ, narrowly escaped death at the hands of an anarchist recently.

WALKER WITH N. Y. TIMES.

The New York Times announces that Edmund Walker, the well known newspaper efficiency expert, is the latest addition to its business staff.

Mr. Walker, who has just arrived from Chicago to assume his new duties, is known to readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE as the author of a series of articles on newspaper efficiency, economy and accounting, which have attracted much favorable attention.

Mr. Walker's new connection will not interrupt the series entitled "The Organization of a Daily Newspaper," which has become a valuable feature of THE FOURTH ESTATE.

The many New York friends of Mr. Walker welcome his coming to the metropolis and are planning a dinner to celebrate it.

For the past two years Mr. Walker has been auditor for the Chicago Herald and the Keeley-Handy Syndicate and has also built up a business of installing costing and accounting systems for other newspaper publishers throughout the country.

EDMUND WALKER.

Mr. Walker knows the accounting business from the ground up, starting in his native city of London, England, as an apprentice to the Goodricke & Cotman Company, chartered accountants, where he received a thorough training.

He then moved to Canada and established an accounting business of his own, after which he owned a big photo-engraving and lithographing business and from that went into the newspaper field as auditor and assistant business manager of the Southern newspapers of Western Canada, composed of the Calgary Herald, the Edmonton Journal and the Lethbridge News.

Two years ago he came to the United States and settled in Chicago, becoming associated with the Herald.

ON TO FLORIDA!

Several Baltimore newspaper men accompanied Mayor James Preston to the convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association in Miami, Fla. These included Carol Schuler, Evening News; H. Wilson Morrison, Star; Albert Goodman, American, and Walter L. Alexander, Sun.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Joseph Brandt of New York, general manager of the Universal Film Company, was elected president of the Advertising Film Producers Association at the annual convention of the organization in Cincinnati.

R. R. Hollister of Dayton, Ohio, was elected first vice-president; Tyre

JOSEPH BRANDT.

Ford, San Francisco, second vice-president; W. A. Harris, Cincinnati, secretary, and W. F. Herzberger, Chicago, treasurer.

The association will meet in San Francisco in July, 1918.

"What a corporation of film producers can offer the national advertisers in the way of distribution" was the subject discussed at the meeting.

J. Maurice Ridge, publicity representative of the Famous Players-Lasky Company, Cincinnati, urged a more generous use of newspaper advertising space by exhibitors in a combined effort to increase the attendance at motion picture theaters.

An advertising club has just been formed in Albert Lea, Minn. At the organization meeting W. J. Betting, chairman of the big brother committee of the St. Paul Ad Club, outlined the aims and possibilities of such an association.

H. A. Barck was made president, E. C. Jorgenson vice-president, and J. R. Holman secretary-treasurer.

Frank W. Harwood, for many years in the cigar business as manager of advertising for Bondy & Lederer, and, more recently, with the United Cigar Manufacturers Company, which absorbed the former concern, is now advertising director of the latter company, succeeding David G. Evans.

J. S. Jetton, advertising manager of the Nunnally Company, candy manufacturer, Atlanta, Ga., for the past four years, has been made sales manager and will now direct both departments.

Ed Wolff, of Scott & Scott, Inc., advertising agents, New York, has been made advertising manager of the David Adler & Sons Clothing Company, Milwaukee. Mr. Wolff formerly conducted an advertising agency of his own at San Antonio, Tex., and was later with the Thomas Advertising Service, Jacksonville, Fla.

Walter J. Stephens, formerly with the Addressograph, Chicago, has been appointed advertising manager for the James H. Rhodes Company, manufacturer of industrial chemicals, Chicago.

A. L. Kindt has resigned as advertising and sales promotion manager of the Pennsylvania Textile Company, New York, effective January 1, 1918.

The Kansas City (Mo.) Woman's Advertising Club has started a series of open meetings for the discussion of advertising topics. All women interested in advertising are invited to attend the sessions.

At the meeting of the Advertising Film Producers Association in Cincinnati, J. Maurice Ridge, publicity man for the Famous Players-Lasky Company, advised the members to make wider use of newspaper advertising no other form of advertising increases movie attendance like newspaper advertising. Mr. Ridge told his associates.

Henry Schott, advertising director of a large Chicago mail order house, was the speaker at a meeting of the Minneapolis Advertising Forum on December 4, discussing "Building better business by mail."

On December 5, G. E. MacIlwaine, of the Boston statistical organization, Wellesley Hills, Mass., spoke on "Cooperation a way out for business."

Hon. M. Edouard de Billy, general delegate and acting high commissioner for the French Republic in this country, was the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the New York Ad Club, which was held on Friday instead of Thursday of this week.

"Advertising when it's hard to get the goods to fill the orders" will be the subject for discussion at the second night meeting of the Advertising Club on December 19.

A big New Year's eve party is being planned for the club by the entertainment committee.

The public speaking class of the club, which was scheduled to meet every Monday night for ten weeks, will not meet on Christmas and New Year's eves, but on December 21 and January 2 instead.

The Chicago Advertising Association has begun its winter program of "Little Journeys" to representative Chicago industries. The first journey will be through the plant of the Blue Valley Creamery Company, a business built by newspaper advertising from a small barn to thirty large creameries.

The "Little Journey" idea has been copied extensively by other advertising organizations.

C. A. Brownell, advertising manager of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, addressed the Chicago Advertising Association at the noon-day luncheon on December 6.

A. J. Meister, who has had extensive retail advertising and merchandising experience as advertising manager of five New York department stores, has become advertising manager of Franklin Simon & Co., New York. He has also had large newspaper and advertising agency experience.

F. Goldstein, for many years advertising manager for the Fair, one of Chicago's largest department stores, has resigned to become advertising manager of the May Company. The change will become effective on February 1.

John Duffy, advertising and publicity agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, has been made assistant secretary, with headquarters in New York.

James L. McCabe, formerly advertising manager of the dry goods, automobile and bicycle departments of Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago, is now with the Charles Williams Stores, New York.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Roy F. Quinlan, recently elected vice-president of the William D. McJunkin Advertising Agency, Chicago, has for the past year been in charge of merchandising procedure and trade investigation for that agency, having been especially identified with the merchandising of automobiles, trucks, food products and clothing.

ROY F. QUINLAN.

Before going to the McJunkin Company, Mr. Quinlan was with the Chicago office of the J. Walter Thompson Company, New York, and before that was editor and publisher of the American Youth.

H. S. McCauley, formerly of the Chicago Examiner reporting staff, is now in the copy department of the McJunkin Advertising Company, Chicago.

Mr. McCauley has worked extensively on newspapers in the West and on the Pacific Coast, and was at one time auto editor of the Salt Lake Herald-Republican. He will do newspaper and newspaper writeups in his new position.

William Hancock Payne, formerly advertising manager for Wanamaker & Brown, and William H. Wanamaker, Philadelphia, has opened the Hancock-Payne Advertising Agency, 1632 Real Estate Building, Philadelphia.

Mr. Payne was formerly night editor of the Philadelphia Press and before that was with the Evening Telegraph of that city.

Alfred W. Breuninger, who recently joined the P. F. O'Keefe Advertising Agency of Boston as director of the copy, plan and merchandising department, came to this country from England nearly fourteen years ago and had not been here many months when he decided upon advertising as a profession.

He first obtained a position with a large printing concern in Philadelphia, remaining there long enough to secure a general knowledge of American business methods. He then struck out for St. Louis, where he secured a position as a copy writer with H. W. Kastor & Sons. Next he was with J. J. Gibbons, Ltd., of Toronto.

ALFRED W. BREUNINGER.

It was not long before Mr. Breuninger was recalled from across the border, landing again in Philadelphia, where he joined the firm of N. W. Ayer & Son, with whom he stayed for five and one-half years, devoting himself to a thorough study of merchandising and distribution.

Mr. Breuninger has been associated with such accounts as Smith Brothers' cough drops, "Twenty Mule Team" borax products, Hess & Clark, Hanes underwear, Ferry seeds, Colt firearms, "Sani-Flush," Esmond blankets, Scott tissue products, "Keen Kutter" tools, Dr. Price's flavoring extracts, Park & Tilford, etc.

Edward A. King, for the past two years connected with the advertising department of the Albany (N. Y.) Knickerbocker Press and prior to that in charge of the advertising for the Cox Brass Manufacturing Company, Albany, has joined the Manternach Company, Hartford, Ct.

John A. Butler, former copy director for the H. W. Kastor & Sons Advertising Company, and more recent-

H. W. KASTOR & SONS
ADVERTISING CO.

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Rutland Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

ly with Vanderhoof & Co., Chicago, is now with the copy department of Ruthrauff & Ryan, Inc., New York.

William Patten, who has aided in the advertising of the Encyclopedia Britannica, and Emery E. Hill, until recently with the National Cloak & Suit Company, New York, are also with the copy department of this agency.

Charles Proner, now with the Wales Advertising Agency, New York, made his start as an advertising man with the Smith & Hemenway Company, manufacturer of "Red Devil" tools and hardware specialties. He handled all its advertising in some forty trade papers, composed its circular matter and supervised the sales promotion work.

Feeling that an agency would offer the greatest opportunity, Mr.

Proner joined the Wales Advertising Agency last month. He will continue to handle personally the advertising account of the Smith & Hemenway Company.

I. Lund, who was with Critchfield & Co., Chicago, for four years and with Lord & Thomas for one year, has just left the latter agency to join the staff of the W. J. Morton Company Special Agency in the Chicago office.

The Wolf Advertising Company, has been incorporated in New York by D. Wolf, F. Wolf, 600 West End avenue, and B. Wolf, the Bel-nord, Broadway and 86th street. The firm is registered with a capital of $250,000 to do a general advertising, book-selling and publishing business.

B. L. Cunningham and John Dunham of the Williams & Cunningham Advertising Agency, Chicago, have been visiting the New York office of the agency.

C. Day, until recently police reporter on the Montreal Star, has joined the staff of the McKim Advertising Agency, Montreal.

M. L. Pernice, Jr., has been made chief of the service department of the Proctor & Collier Company, Cincinnati.

Edward W. Haislip, formerly with the American Boy, is now manager of the Detroit office of the Ethridge Association of Artists, New York.

The Jesse M. Joseph Advertising Agency, Cincinnati, has absorbed the Harry Stevens Company and the Advertising Service Company of the same city, and all their accounts, and has moved into new quarters in the Union Central Building. This is the fifth time Mr. Joseph has had to move into larger quarters within the last ten years.

Miss R. L. Wilson, formerly with the J. Walter Thompson Company, New York, is now with Collin Armstrong, Inc., New York, as traffic manager.

BOSTON DEAL IS NOW COMPLETE.

NORTHEASTERN PUBLISHING COMPANY TAKES OVER SUNDAY AMERICAN.

In accordance with the plans previously announced in THE FOURTH ESTATE, the Northeastern Publishing Company (the new owner of the Boston Daily Advertiser) took over the Boston Sunday American on December 1, and on the day following issued the Boston Sunday Advertiser, combining the Sunday American and the Sunday Advertiser.

The Daily Advertiser, one of New England's oldest newspapers, was recently purchased by William R. Hearst (who also owns the Daily and Sunday American), through the newly organized Northeastern Publishing Company, of which Charles M. Palmer of New York is the president.

The new Hearst organization now issues the Morning Advertiser daily at two cents, the Evening American daily at one cent, and the Sunday Advertiser at five cents.

"Daily and Sunday," the new owner says, "the old Advertiser is to be renewed in all currents that make for vitality until it again shall be peerless in its field."

NOTES OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

An advertising and salesmanship class has been started by the Y. M. C. A. of Jamestown, N. Y., with Robert E. Ramsay, of the Art Metal Construction Company, Jamestown, as instructor.

Creighton (Neb.) University High School students have started publication of a new weekly with Lee Aitchison as editor and Robert Berkeley as manager.

Students at the Flatona (Tex.) High School are now publishing the Reveille.

The Booster is the name of a new publication issued by the journalism students of the Abilene (Kan.) High School.

In an address before the students in industrial journalism at the Kansas State Agricultural College, R. F. Bailey, managing editor of the Salina (Kan.) Evening Journal, declared that "newspaper advertising is the most effective advertising known today. It is also the cheapest."

The students of East Technical High School, Cleveland, are getting out the Weekly Scarab, a neat four-page newspaper.

A TIMELY CAMPAIGN.

The Sperry & Hutchinson Company is running a series of twelve educational advertisements, appearing in about 600 dailies throughout the country, which take thrift as their keynote. The ads assert that "S & H" Green Stamps are in accord with the spirit of the times and aid millions of housewives to join in the thrift and conservation movement.

WORLD HEARS OF VICTORY MESSAGE

GREATEST PUBLICITY FEAT SENT PRESIDENT WILSON'S MESSAGE EVERYWHERE.

President Wilson's December 4th message to Congress for "Victory First" and calling upon Congress to declare war on Austria was heralded throughout the world by the United States Government in what was probably the greatest publicity feat ever undertaken.

Distribution of the message was directed from New York by George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information; and nearly every known means of communication—express train, telephone, telegraph, wireless and submarine cable—was employed in transmitting the address, translated into all of the principal languages of the world, into practically every corner of the civilized globe.

The Government undertook to see that the newspapers of all countries obtained exact copies of the message because of the fate of other highly important addresses and state documents.

Heretofore there have been no Governmental facilities provided for spreading them broadcast, and no pains had been taken to see that they reached the people of the world in the form in which the President had delivered them.

To overcome these difficulties and assure the message reaching all the world in its original form, Mr. Creel made elaborate plans, which were carried out without a hitch by the use of thousands of telephone, telegraph and wireless operators, and by the employment of approximately 35,000 miles of telegraph and cable wires.

Mr. Creel received a copy of the message in New York by special messenger early in the day.

A corps of typists was put to work in a locked room to make duplicate copies.

Meanwhile, in another room, it was being translated into French and Spanish. These rooms were guarded as a precaution against the contents of the message becoming public before the President had delivered it.

Upon receiving word from Washington that President Wilson had begun the delivery of his address, a corps of telegraph and cable operators began the task of wiring the message broadcast—across the United States to San Francisco, there to be relayed to Shanghai and thence to Tokyo and Peking; across the Atlantic to London, where it was picked up and sent to the Continent, and down the eastern coast of the United States to Panama, where it was retransmitted to Central and South American cities.

The Havas News Agency (French) sent the address in full from Paris to the Havas branches or correspondents in Italy, Spain, Portugal and Switzerland, for publication in the press of those countries. The message had been placed in the Havas Paris office for publication in France and the French colonies, including North Africa. The same agency was also entrusted with the task of sending it verbatim from Buenos Aires to Rio de Janeiro.

From London a French translation was sent to Paris, and London also served as a translation and relay station for Stockholm, Christiania and the Hague, and also filed the message to Algiers and northern African points.

From Stockholm a copy of the message was sent to the American Embassy at Petrograd. From Paris were served Lisbon, Madrid, Rome and Berne.

New York sent the address direct to South America, the most southern point being Rio de Janeiro, over the cable which runs by way of Chile and Colon. Colon relayed it to Bogota, Valparaiso, Quito and Lima.

Lima in turn forwarded it to La Paz and Valparaiso sent it to Santiago and Buenos Ayres.

Colon was the point from which the message radiated throughout Central America.

In the absence of news agencies with extensive connections in most parts of South and Central America, copies of the message were placed in the hands of the American Ministers to those countries for immediate release to newspapers and distributing organizations in their jurisdictions.

It was thus left to get to Berlin and other enemy capitals indirectly.

WRITING, THOUGH IN ARMY.

"A Rookie's Reaction," in the New Republic, is the contribution of Walter R. Agard, former instructor in Greek at Amherst College and during undergraduate days, editor-in-chief of the Amherst College Monthly and correspondent of several metropolitan dailies, now serving in Uncle Sam's citizen army at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass.

A three-act musical comedy skit, "Stop the War," is meeting with much favor with his comrades in the ranks.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

The Intertype slogan is more than an advertising phrase.

It represents the aim of every worker in the INTERTYPE organization.

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

Executive Offices
50 Court Street, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES. | BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

GREEN PRINT PAPER FOR SALE

The undersigned, as receiver for the Monitor Publishing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has on hand about 130,000 pounds of green print paper, such as was used by the Monitor for its sport editions when publication was suspended. This paper is 36½ inches wide, basis 24x24x32, and can be sold under the appraisalment for 4 cents a pound or less.

If interested address E. Howard Gilkey, Box 274, Columbus, Ohio.

$19,000

buys small daily newspaper property which returns owner $5,000 to $6,000 annually for personal effort and investment. $10,000 cash necessary. Proposition P. Y.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
325 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Newspaper For Sale in the Sunny South

Small daily in growing Southern resort, exclusive field, netting annually close to $7,000. Extraordinary opportunity. Price $20,000, half cash asked. Proposition No. 179x.

Small city daily and high class weekly in desirable Idaho locations. Nos. 7001x and 579x.

Special offer in small city daily in rich Colorado field. No. 598x.

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

MORE GERMANS ARRESTED.

Two more German writers have been arrested by the Government in New York.

Hans Stengel, who conducted the magazine Zeppelin, afterward known as Eulenspiegel, the pages of which were principally devoted to cartoons and articles ridiculing President Wilson, is one of the prisoners.

The other is Otto Julius Merkle, secretary of the German University League, who has been a prolific writer of articles favoring the cause of Germany.

ELECTION AT PHILADELPHIA WOMEN WRITERS' CLUB.

At the annual election of the Women Writers' Club of Philadelphia, the following officers were chosen:

President, Mrs. May P. Skerrett; first vice-president, Miss Agnes Repplier; second vice-president, Miss Louise Betts Edwards; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Garnell; corresponding secretary, Miss Clara Zillesen; recording secretary, Miss Emily Solis-Cohen.

CHANGE IN NEWS SERVICE AT CAMP UPTON.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the New York Circulation Managers Association on December 5, official word was received that the permit for the distribution of newspapers at Camp Upton, Yaphank, New York, has been awarded to the Long Island News Company, the permit of Sarrer & Keller having been revoked by the Government.

Sales Purchases Consolidations Appraisals of Newspaper and Magazine Properties

AUBREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON
Harwell & Cannon
Times Building NEW YORK

DAILY Newspaper Plant Good Will and Associated Press Franchise

For Sale in PROVIDENCE.
Second City of New England.

The daily newspaper situation in Providence is uniquely attractive. In the centre of a trading population of half a million people, Providence has but two other evening and one morning daily. A definite, reasonable price has been set on the property by the publishers, who would retire from newspaper activity. An itemized schedule of the physical assets of the property will be furnished to identified inquirers on request. The plant may be seen by appointment. For further details, address Box 952, care The Fourth Estate.

PUBLISHERS, ATTENTION—Sample copy addresses FURNISHED FREE in lots of 1,000 or less. Over 2,000,000 book and magazine buyers on our lists. State what you want 500 copies of any small magazine MAILED FREE if sent to me prepaid. Advertising or mailing service given in exchange for odd lots of interesting books or booklets in good, clean condition. Address Moores Expert Service, New Egypt, N. J.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 20,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates. 710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

SERVICE CORNER.

628.—"Can you tell me where I can get the book entitled 'How to Develop the Personality,' which was mentioned in your columns some time ago under the 'New Books' department?"

ON NEW COMMISSION.

John S. Hamilton, a former newspaper man, has been appointed by Mayor John W. Lawson of Wilmington, Del., a member of the new Wilmington housing commission.

INCREASES CAPITAL.

The Pope Publishing Corporation, New York, has increased its capital from $7,500 to $15,000.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

Two Monotype Equipments For Sale Cheap

Two Monotype Keyboards and casters with motors.

Molds and matrices for 7, 9, 10 and 12 pt. composition.

Thirty one fonts of display mats from 12 point to 30 point inclusive, and five steel cabinets holding 2,400 sort boxes—making a complete equipment for non-distribution system.

The casters are in perfect condition. Having been entirely rebuilt very recently, and embody every late improvement. The cabinet and sort boxes are new.

This monotype outfit will equip a first-class job office or a newspaper carrying a volume of advertising ranging from 100 to 150 columns per day.

Any one interested in such an equipment should communicate with the undersigned at once, for it will be sold at a very low figure.

THE HARTFORD TIMES
HARTFORD, CONN.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 36,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

FOR SALE

Linotype, No. 5. Good as new. Less than half price.

BARGAIN

Wire or write Box 935, care The Fourth Estate.

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 5011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

FOR SALE—One late model Goss, two platen steam table with boiler, like new. Extension table, turtles and chases. Price reasonable. Minneapolis Freie Presse Herald, 207 Sixth St., So., Minneapolis, Minn.

FOR SALE.

Want To Buy a Morgue?

For Sale—75,000 envelopes and 175 boxes of clippings covering prominent persons, places, news events, etc. Unique and invaluable. Revised to date. For appointment to inspect write

E. H. EATON.

225 W. 39th St., New York City

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS General Offices.
278 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

HELP WANTED.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED.

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address: Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

Editorial Writer Wanted

High grade publication has opening for a clear and forceful writer on daily news events and general affairs. He should be thoroughly conversant with public life and men, particularly of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and possessor of a literary style. Preference will be given to good practical newspaper man who has had Philadelphia experience. Applications will be held in strictest confidence. To secure interview, please send samples or specimens of your matter, and full details as to personality, experience, etc. Address Editor, P. O. Box 479, Philadelphia.

Aggressive, thriving farm paper, thoroughly established, wants PROGRESSIVE YOUNG EDITOR with experience in agricultural field. Must be a live one and able to handle a live proposition. Location in attractive Northwestern city. Send full particulars to Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Man Wanted

There will soon be a fine opening for a good circulation man on the leading paper of one of the big cities of the central states. Place will be offered to man of ability and character. Creativity as well as executive ability necessary. Write fully (your own hand) giving your record for the last ten years. Describe yourself closely, mentioning habits and hobbies. State your age and your reasons for wishing to change. Tell what salary you would expect. Address: Box 935, care The Fourth Estate.

Canvasser

We want a man to handle country circulation of live city newspaper. Work will consist mostly of canvassing country districts, and a man with such experience would be first considered. Will pay an expense to man on the road and make good salary and commission proposition. Proposition is such as to insure permanent proposition and a decent living. Address Box 947, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager

An experienced, active, progressive not afraid to work man to take charge of the advertising department of an inland New England daily. Address with references, salary expected and other particulars, Box 950, care The Fourth Estate.

Are You an Advertising Man, and can you deliver the goods? If you can produce for a live farm weekly an attractive proposition is open to you. Tell us the whole story in your first letter. Address Box 948, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted: ADVERTISING MANAGER by live morning paper in up-to-date city of 40,000. One who knows how to plan campaigns and write copy and is willing to assume all responsibility for this department and be measured by results. No quibbling about salary with the right man. Address Harrison Walters, care The Fourth Estate, New York City.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Business Manager and Managing Editor.

of daily newspaper with more than 100,000 circulation invite correspondence with responsible publisher afternoon newspaper which is in need of rehabilitation and development. Both executives in present positions for terms of years. Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation Manager

with twelve years' experience on leading daily newspapers desires to make a change. Prefer daily paper with circulation of 25,000 to 100,000 circulation. Expert in handling boys. Would consider city circulation on large daily. Gilt edge references furnished as to ability and reliability. Address Box 990, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Foreman

Capable of handling any size plant wishes change from present situation. Over four years have been with the largest plant in South. Above draft. Have family. Will not connect with other than absolutely substantial people. Hard worker and fast make-up. Not a boozier or smoker. Address S. S., care The Fourth Estate.

AMUSEMENTS.

Aetolian Hall—42d st., between 6th and 6th ave.—Symphony concerts for children, Jan. 12 and Feb. 16; Dec. 8, Dec. 29.

Astor—B'way & 45th—"The Very Idea."

Belasco—W. 44th—"Polly With a Paat."

Booth—45th, west of B'way—"The Masquerader."

Bijou—W. 45th—"Odds and Ends."

Broadhurst—44th, west of B'way—"Her Regiment."

Bronx Opera House—149th E. of 3d av.—"The 18th Chair."

Carnegie Hall—7th ave. and 57th st.—Symphony concerts for young people, Dec. 15, an. 5, Feb. 2, 23, March 9.

Century—32d and Central Park W.—"Miss 1917."

Geo. M. Cohan—B'way & 43d—"The King."

Cohan & Harris—West 43d—"A Tailor-Made Man."

Comedy—41st, between Broadway and 6th av.—Washington Square Players.

Carnegie—89th and B'way—"Oh, Boy."

Cort—48th and B'way—"Art and Opportunity."

Criterion—44th & B'way—"Madame Sand."

Fitzing—West of 43d—"Business Before Pleasure."

Empire—B'way & 40th—"The Three Bears."

59th St.—Near B'way—"What's Your Husband Doing?"

44th St. Roof Theater—"Over the Top."

Gaiety—B'way, near 46th—"The Country Cousin."

Globe—B'way & 46th—"Jack o'Lantern."

Greenwich Village—4th st. and 7th av.—"Three one-act plays."

Harris—West 43d—"The Naughty Wife."

Hippodrome—9th av. & 44th—"Cheer Up."

Hudson—W. 44th—"The Pipes of Pan."

Irving Place—Irving pl and 16th—"A Doctor's Dilemma."

Knickerbocker—B'way & 38th—"Art and Opportunity."

Lycium—West 46th—"Tiger hoos."

Lyric—42d West of B'way—"Les Miserables."

Lexington—51st and Lex—"Bringing Up Father."

Liberty—W. 42d—"The Grass Widow."

Longacre—W. 48th—"Leave It to Jane."

Manhattan Opera House—West 34th—bet. 8th and 9th avs.—"Chu Chin Chow."

Marine Elliott—39th st. East of B'way—"Eyes of Youth."

Metropolitan Opera House—B'way and 40th—Grand Opera.

Morocco—45th West of B'way—"Lombardi, Ltd."

New Amsterdam—W. 42d—"The Riviera Girl."

Palace—B'way, near 47th—Vaudeville.

Park—Columbus Circle—"The Land of Joy."

Playhouse—43th East of B'way—"Le Elevation."

Plymouth—45th W. of B'way—"The Gypsy Trail."

Princess—39th near B'way—"Six Months Option."

Republic—West 42d—"Blind Youth."

Riverride—B'way & 90th—Vaudeville.

Standard—B'way and 90th—"Treasure Island."

Shubert—44th, W of B'way—"Maytime."

Winter Garden—B'way and 50th—"Doing Our Bit."

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Managing Editor

Working Managing Editor—Writer of almost any line—editorials, theaters, books, desk man of wide experience. Prefer afternoon paper with full editorial charge. Capable as well as careful. One libel suit in fifteen years. Have position but want a change to keep from going "stale." Address Pep, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man wants desk job; knows the game; university graduate; thoroughly experienced in every news and editorial line; never drinks; married; can take entire editorial and news charge; healthy, active, willing. Address Box 990, care The Fourth Estate.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man of long experience offers his services as editor, editorial writer, telegraph editor, city editor, desk man, political man, special or feature writer, or war correspondent. American by birth, British descent, Republican in politics, married, absolutely temperate, well educated, available at any time. Permanent engagement sought. Address Writer, care Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER. 15 years' experience; for the past eight years on the largest small town daily east of the Mississippi. Will consider change after January 1. Will take entire charge of circulation or of the outside and mail. Prefer paper with large outside field and will only consider permanent position on paper having 15,000 or more. Address Box 944, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and Promotion Manager with creative and executive ability backed by experience and record of success, is open for a position after Jan. 1. South-west section of country preferred. Address Box 951, care The Fourth Estate.

MANAGER

thoroughly experienced in news and business ends of small city daily. Have lately sold control of live daily. Open for business or editorial position. College education, married, not subject to draft. Hard worker, with punch and ideas. Will consider investing. Address Worker, care The Fourth Estate.

WEDDING BELLS.

Captain Anderson Dana, grandson of the late Charles A. Dana, former editor of the New York Sun, was married to Miss Catrina Weed on December 4.

James Scott, connected with the Livingstone (Mont.) office of the Associated Press, was married last week to Miss Veta Berner of Jamestown, N. D.

Winder R. Harris, for several months city editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, has gone to the Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

Marcus Ritger has left the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot after having been connected with the city staff of that paper for several years as marine reporter, and is now with the Baltimore Sun.

Bertram R. Brooker, formerly with the Winnipeg (Man.) Telegram, is now advertising manager of the Regina (Sask.) Leader.

First Lieutenant Francis L. Haeger, formerly manager of the Chicago Tribune credit department, was married last week to Miss Ruth Asplund, who was employed in the same department.

Miss Mabel Mason, reporter for the Chicago American in Evanston, Ill., was married last week to Henry Fisk Carleton of the aviation corps.

Miss Blanche Boughman, formerly an employee of the Smith Center (Kan.) Pioneer, has been married to Howard Eycstone.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation Manager

Resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years experience; methodical; economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Right effort insures good results.

Mapping out an advertising campaign for THE FOURTH ESTATE is the right kind of effort.

Our Service Department will help you secure good results.

Circulation Manager

Circulation manager now employed desires to make change for position in city ences. Address Box 984, care the Fourth Estate.

A woman of literary experience desires position. Topics of interest to women and children or general matters. Booklets, typing, fashions, society household. Miss F. Seeger, Box 94, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

Advertising Man

Not a world beater, simply a fellow who has made an earnest study of advertising and believes he can give sincere, honest service to advertisers. His copy has brought good results. Is not a star solicitor, but can handle and get accounts that depend on real service. Wants position as service man or agency copy writer. Experience: Advertising, business and general manager of small dailies. Age 29, unmarried, exempt from draft. References gladly given. Address Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Solicitor

first-class, with years of experience, is open for any good offer December 1; know how to get the business, either transient or contracts, also pages and special stunts. References, any publisher I ever worked for. Address or wire "WAR Exempt," care The Fourth Estate.

L. L. RICKETTS

for the past ten years circulation manager of the Des Moines Capital, is open for a position. He is especially well known on account of his successful handling of the Bargain Period method of securing subscriptions and for newsboy welfare work. Write him for references, salary, etc., to 3907 Forest ave., Des Moines, Ia.

Circulation Manager

Wanted—Position as circulation manager on daily paper having between 10,000 and 75,000 circulation. Anywhere in the United States. Ten years' experience in circulation work; 35 years old, married, and at present employed, but desire a change. Have record showing fine gain in circulation in department which I have had charge of for last four years. Address G 500, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Larger Profits

possible on present business, and a LARGER VOLUME to get profits from.

Here's a Hired Man to do it.

A publisher's assistant or business manager—a production engineer also, with a successful record—technically and practically trained—a newspaper builder "inside" and "outside" the front door—wants to listen to the publisher of a live or dead proposition who needs a man of ability, reliability and force.

A production record unexcelled, and a man who will organize, administer and get results in every department.

A specialist in manufacture and service; knows when and where to spend, and when and where not to.

Not a novice and not attracted by a novice's salary, though willing to consider a weekly drawing account and a yearly salary based on increased profits. Employed. Gilt edge references. Address Box 929, care The Fourth Estate.

High Grade Man

with long experience as business and advertising manager, wishes to make change. Excellent record for building up and holding patronage; writes effective copy; pleasing manners and good mixer. Address Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland. 74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

Over One Thousand Jobs

of building and construction work were let to contractors last year through the medium of proposal advertisements in

THE IMPROVEMENT BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

One building alone cost over $20,000. The contractors and architects who bought the millions of dollars worth of materials and machinery used in constructing these buildings, read The Improvement Bulletin. Such firms as H. W. Johns Manville Co., Atlas Portland Cement Co., and Universal Portland Cement Co. advertise in it. Why don't you? Sample copy free.

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

MOVES INTO NEW BUILDING.

MINNEAPOLIS DAILY NEWS HAS MAGNIFICENT STRUCTURE.

The Minneapolis Daily News moved into its new building on November 20, and celebrated that event by holding a "housewarming" party, at which more than 10,000 people inspected the impressive plant.

The crowds were taken to see the mechanical end of a great daily, where stories were put in type on linotype machines, proof read, corrected and the type placed in forms and sent to the stereotyping room for making matrices.

Next the crowds followed the stories until half-cylinder plates were made from the mats and put on the press.

From the pressroom they went to the mailing room and circulation department, where they saw the last processes of getting a newspaper to the public.

The new building, situated at the southeast corner of Fourth avenue S. and Sixth street, is three stories high above the basement and built along modern fire-proof lines.

The architecture of the building is simple and of modern American business style, with the treatment suggestive of the purpose for which it is to be used.

The exterior is of light colored tapestry brick, with trimmings of dark brick and limestone.

The name of the building is inscribed on a large stone tablet above the entrance on Fourth avenue.

The building is entirely fire-proof, including steel window sash except in the walls facing the open street, and is equipped with an automatic, dry-pipe, sprinkler system, of the latest and most effective pattern.

In the mechanical section of the building the wainscoting is of glazed brick. The floors in the main lobby and main staircase are of terrazzo with a marble base, in part of the pressroom and in the toilet rooms of cement, and in the rest of the building of maple.

THE MINNEAPOLIS DAILY NEWS' NEW BUILDING.

The mechanical rooms of the building are equipped with every modern appliance that can add to the rapid operation of the plant, including cranes, elevators and tracks for handling the huge rolls of paper, specially designed lifts, chutes and tables for the handling of the copy forms and plates, and the most effective modern devices for handling the papers as they come from the press, and delivering the bundles and sacks to the mailing platform.

The new press prints and folds 90,000 papers an hour. Eight freight cars were required to bring it to Minneapolis.

Freight and passenger elevators are conveniently located and there are two scales of the dial pattern, one expressly for weighing paper rolls, and the other for other supplies.

NO GAS; MOVES FOR A DAY.

The failure of Norfolk's gas service early on Monday night, November 26, forced the Virginian-Pilot to issue Tuesday morning's edition from the plant of the Portsmouth (Va.) Star.

When it was seen that the gas supply could not be resumed until 10 a. m., Tuesday, the equipment of the Virginian-Pilot mechanical department was carted over the river to Portsmouth, where the paper availed itself of the courtesy extended by the Star.

The A. P. wire service of the Virginian-Pilot was switched into the Star office for the night. The press work was done in the Pilot's plant.

TORONTO WORLD SHIFTS.

M. H. Mosdell, formerly of the St. Johns (N. F.) Star, where he was managing editor, is now occupying the desk of news editor on the Toronto World.

William Logan, formerly with the Toronto News is now city editor of the World.

J. Harry Smith has been transferred from the city editor's desk to that of the editor of the Sunday edition.

C. Langton Clarke, for seventeen years telegraph editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire, and more recently manager of Canadian Press, Ltd., is now the telegraph editor of the World, having succeeded Harry Bretz, who has become financial editor.

CHARGE OF PLOT TO BUY UP FRENCH NEWSPAPERS.

A Paris dispatch to the New York Herald says:

"Considerable attention is being paid to the revelations in the Matin of a scheme of a number of financiers and promoters to develop the field of action of the Radio News Agency, created since the war, and also to acquire influential newspapers, one of those most desired being the Figaro.

"In view of the notorious Bonnet Rouge case, which led to the mysterious, violent death of its anarchist editor, and the German agitations of Mercutza and Bolo Pacha and the intrigues around the Journal, any attempt to get control of newspapers here arouses suspicion at present.

"The purpose of the underlying scheme is not disclosed. Its premature publicity in the Matin has brought forth a flood of protestations of good faith from the men concerned.

"Among them are Francois Coty, a business man; Francois Carnot, of the Sadi Carnot family; George Chiris, a perfume distiller, and Henri Turot, one of the directors of the Radio agency.

"Georges Prestat, president of the Figaro Company, declares bluntly that a concerted attempt was made by the Coty group to acquire a controlling interest in the Figaro for some ulterior object, but the attempt was frustrated by the Figaro's board of directors."

PROPOSES FREE POSTAGE FOR MEN IN TRAINING.

Free postage not only for soldiers and seamen in foreign service, but also for those in camps in this country, is provided in an amendment to the postal laws proposed by Representative Lunn of New York.

Mr. Lunn calls attention to the law passed in October which allows free postage to soldiers and sailors assigned to duties in foreign countries.

NOMINATIONS FOR CHICAGO PRESS CLUB.

The following have been nominated on the members' ticket for officers of the Chicago Press Club:

President, Opie Read; first vice-president, Wright Patterson; second vice-president, Fred Squibb; treasurer, James Stephens; secretary, Walter Perkins; librarian, Harry Hargis.

HERBERT SMYTH ADDS TO HIS FINE RECORD.

Feeling that newspaper publishers throughout this and other countries are interested to know something of the personality of a gentleman who played a very important part in representing the Department of Justice of the United States Government in the conduct of its case against the indicted paper manufacturers, which brought about the settlement fully covered last week, THE FOURTH ESTATE has pleasure in showing its readers what he looks like and also giving a brief sketch of his career.

Herbert Crommelin Smyth is a well known and prominent lawyer of

HERBERT C. SMYTH.

By Courtesy of the Co-operative Press New York City, with offices at 13 Wall street. He was born in New York City, December 19, 1870, and has for a background a prominent and honorable ancestry running back to the early settlement of this country.

Mr. Smyth has met with special success in the defense of newspaper libel suits and has figured in many celebrated cases ranging over a wide field of litigation. He has represented the street railway and subway interests of New York, the gas companies and many construction enterprises. He appeared for the four members of the so-called wire rope association, who alone escaped punishment out of eighty defendants arraigned for violating the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

He represented the Government in the tobacco trust proceedings, his latest appearance for the Government being in connection with the news print indictment cases and their settlement.

He is a member of many societies and associations, among them being the Sons of the American Revolution. He is also a member of many prominent clubs of New York City, among which are the Lawyers, Manhattan, New York Athletic and Andiron Clubs.

Probably no man in the profession enjoys in any higher degree the confidence of the Federal Department of Justice.

Mr. Smyth and Mark Hyman were the Government prosecutors in the case.

Richard Lewis has suspended the Home City (Kan.) Journal.

OUR 1917 CHRISTMAS CARTOON

3, 4 and 5-column sizes; mats or cuts; sold to but one paper in a city.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

PUTTING OVERTHE BIG CAMPAIGNS

ARTICLE XI.

CONVENTIONAL WAYS NOT IN FAVOR
WITH UP-TO-THE-MINUTE
COLGATE & CO.

By W. LIVINGSTON LARNED.

Colgate products are advertised in a most unconventional manner. They always have been.

For one thing, the members of the organization are young men with very modern ideals and ideas.

They take the stand that there is so much advertising, only the most unique and the most convincing will be assimilated.

Every Colgate advertisement must be read. There's a hook in it. You read whether you are interested or not. Even if you had been left a car-load of tooth-paste, for example, by an uncle who manufactured it, you would still find a Colgate tooth-paste design fascinating—you would go through every inspired line of it.

Suppose we give a few examples, in case you have failed to follow the spirit of the many, many diversified campaigns.

On a black square, tooth-paste is squeezed from a tube in such a manner as to adroitly form a message in telegraphic code—dots and dashes. Many boys are interested in the Morse method of communication. They study it—can read it—or are willing to look up some older person who can translate. And there is the tooth-paste message, tempting our lad to decipher. What does it say?

It's human nature to chaff at the bit until that little advertising story is told. Now Colgate might have taken a neat little space in a boys' publication and said in a neat little way that Colgate tooth-paste was a very superior product and boys should use it—but they didn't; and they never will.

Make people read.

Not a bad ambition, eh? Tease them into absorbing the message.

A low-down view of a drug store is shown. Little Willie is sent to make some Colgate purchases for his mother. So we see a dotted line depicting Willie's journey, step by step—where he stopped for tooth-paste, and for soap, and for toilet powder, and perfume, etc. It is quite impossible to pass the page without taking the same journey.

In one of the most extensive advertising campaigns ever planned, the Colgate Company presented its famous "perfume test" to the public. A woman, blindfolded, could make the test, various bottles of various perfumes being lined up for inspection. It was a challenge to the individual reader—a good-natured and rather instructive problem to solve.

There is substantial proof to show that women everywhere did try the perfume test and were intensely impressed by it.

NOT ATMOSPHERE ONLY.

Many brands of perfume are advertised. In the majority of cases, only "atmosphere" is attempted—pictures of pretty girls and wood sprites and flowers, and fairies and moonlit extravaganzas.

The Colgate way seems to be the original and "catchy" way.

There is no denying that Colgate ads are read—eagerly sought, in fact. You are pretty sure to be entertained by Colgate advertising, although beneath it all is the current of sane, constructive publicity.

Do you recall the series of Colgate advertisements in which words were purposely misspelled. Lost in the maze of type was one incorrect word. Could you find it?

The public refused to be balked. Of course the word could be found, but in order to solve the riddle it was necessary to read every word of the advertisement. Hundreds of thousands of answers were received. A street car card for Colgate tube products sprang into immediate favor. It was used extensively in New York's under-the-river "tube." Take the tube home with you" was the double-header thought—and the reader "got it" in a jiffy.

The public likes clever "stunts." Colgate "stunts" are not clever at the expense of good salesmanship, however. That's why they are so successful, we fancy.

You are entertained, but you are never permitted to forget the object of the advertisement.

Another very ingenious car card was captioned: "All Through Life."

Giant letters of the word occupied the entire space, with a tube of Colgate's dental cream woven in and through them.

The Colgate vacation campaigns are always out of the ordinary. One scheme is to reproduce a letter written by some Colgate admirer, together with appended snap-shots, in which the products play a not unimportant part. These ideas all permit of catchy physical make-up on the page. They are attention-getters, before a word of text is read.

COMMONPLACE IS NEVER USED.

To give a list of all the astonishingly shrewd advertisements produced by the Colgate publicity department and its capable agency would mean descriptions of the work of the passing years—it is certainly not an exaggeration to state that no commonplace scheme ever passes the strict censorship. If it isn't good then it isn't run, that's all.

Each ad must stand firmly on its own legs.

It must be committee-proof. Everyone must pronounce it "excellent."

Enough "fairly good" material is turned down by the Colgate Company in an advertising season to fill the magazines and newspapers over and over again. The survival of the fittest is exemplified in this camp, that's sure.

Just now, the Kamp Kit is the latest Colgate plaything.

Some products will profit by the great war.

Toilet articles may be included in this category.

The average American is a clean, upstanding chap with a keen desire to be immaculate about his person, whether at his desk or in the trenches. It is not a national attribute to "let the whiskers go." We shave and brush our teeth and use lotions and powders and soaps for keeping the skin soft.

Indeed, Uncle Sam himself insists upon it. He has little patience, for instance, with a soldier who doesn't keep his teeth in fine condition. Bad teeth breed disease. It is now a scientific fact, past controverting.

And it transpires, therefore, that Colgate products are following the lads to the trenches or going with them. And fresh supplies are always welcome.

In order to meet this demand, the Colgate company has devised a most excellent Kamp Kit.

It contains, neatly packed, shaving cream, soaps, toilet powder, tooth paste, etc. There's not a fancy to it—the soldier receives something he actually needs. Fellows who perhaps were not as neat as they might have been are learning from their associates and from packets being sent by friends and relatives.

This Colgate Kamp Kit is advertised in newspapers everywhere—the natural mouthpiece for this message. In towns where there are camps and cantonments the space is very generous.

As neat as a pin, trig, well-mannered, snugly packed and containing real treasures for the toilet, these kits are being sent in thousand lots. The Government encourages the habit.

The going away of so many men does not mean that sales for these Colgate articles will be decreased.

More than ever will be sold. New adherents will be won to Colgate. "Jim" will hand his soap or tooth-paste or shaving cream over to "Bill," who has never tried that brand before, and "Bill" will write home to "Sis" or mother to send a box along.

Many of the newspaper advertisements have been as clever in general make-up as the bulk of Colgate advertising. The breath and life and atmosphere of the camps and the trenches and the big boats are very much in evidence.

Never was the "war appeal" more valid.

THE BALTIMORE PRESS CLUB
ELECTS WISNER

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Baltimore Press Club was held on December 1.

G. Franklin Wisner presided and W. Oscar Anderson, Jr., acted as secretary. The annual report read by Mr. Wisner showed that the club is financially and numerically in a flourishing condition.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, G. Franklin Wisner; vice-president, Walter R. Hough; secretary, W. Oscar Anderson, Jr.; financial secretary, James F. Hayward; treasurer, Edward H. Pfund, board of governors, George W. Worsham, Jr., Leslie Rawls, Howard S. Biscoe, G. Franklin Wisner, Walter R. Hough, W. Oscar Anderson, Jr., James F. Hayward, Edward H. Pfund, and Norman Clark.

The fifth informal dance of the season took place in the evening.

CONDUCT ESSAY CONTEST.

The city editors of the Wilmington (Del.) papers—Royden K. Jones of the News, Clement B. Hallam of the Evening Journal, A. O. H. Grier of the Every Evening and George E. Whitenack of the Sunday Star—have been appointed members of a committee of the chamber of commerce to conduct an essay contest among the public school children of that city on the subject of shopping at home.

Only ONE Machine
(The Thompson Typewriter)

Can cast everything that goes into the form—Type (5 to 48 point), Leads, Slugs and Rules (3 to 18 point).

Used by 100 Daily Newspapers
Complete Non-Distribution System
Without Type Storage.

THOMPSON
TYPE MACHINE CO.

CHICAGO NEW YORK

NASSAU QUALITY
METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
604 West 29th Street NEW YORK

Good Work
Prompt Service
Fair Prices

They tell the story of our 23 years of successful service.

And we want you to get into the habit to
"Phone the Manhattan Man for your Engraving."

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-R.

Newspaper PLATE
and MATRICES

60c per page and up.

If you wish to share in the benefits of co-operation, write

The United Newspaper Plate Co
CANTON, OHIO.

At Tempting Prices!
Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving
in all its branches

DEFENDAM ENGRAVING CO.
Inc.
1031 Broadway, NEW YORK.

STANLEY PROCESS TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y., and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 82d Street, NEW YORK

The Journal and the Gossiper of Montrose, Ia., have been consolidated.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

REISMAN, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders for Illinois Pure Aluminum Co., Lemont, Ill.

MESSENGAR, Candler Bldg., Atlanta Ga.—Placing orders with some Eastern papers for the Exelento Medicine Co., Atlanta, Ga.

POWER, ALEXANDER & JEN-KINS, Journal Bldg., Detroit—Placing orders with newspapers for Crittall Casement Co. ("Crittall Steel Casements and Windows"), Detroit.

MORSE INTERNATIONAL, 443
4th av., N. Y.—Renewing contracts for J. C. Enos ("Enos Fruit Salts"), E. Forigera, N. Y.

KIRTLAND-ENGEL, Lytton Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with mail order papers for Gates Manufacturing Co., Chicago.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg.,
Chicago—Placing orders with some Western newspapers for Stone-Thompson Manufacturing Co., auto rims, Chicago.

GUENTHER-BRADFORD, Schiller Bldg., Chicago—Sending out orders to mail order and Western newspapers for Mills Chemical Co., Girard, Kan.

FULLER, Studebaker Bldg., Chicago—Secured account of Derma Viva Co., cosmetics, Chicago.
Also placing orders quite generally for the Brooks Rupture Appliance
Co., Marshall, Mich.

MUMM-ROMER, 568 E. Broad st.,
Columbus, Ohio—Sending out orders to selected farm papers for H. W.
Buckbee Co., seeds, Rockford, Ill.

MALLORY, MITCHELL &
FAUST, Security Bldg., Chicago—
Placing advertising of Chicago Asbestos Table Mat Co. ("Peerless Asbestos Table Mat"), Chicago, appearing in some metropolitan newspapers.

TURNER, Transportation Bldg.,
Chicago—Sending out orders to selected farm papers for International

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C. Publisher
Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN.

Sugar Feed Co. ("International Special Dairy Feed"), Minneapolis, Minn.

SEAMAN, 461 8th av., N. Y.—
Will make contracts with newspapers for U. S. Brewers Assn., N. Y.

MORRIS, 400 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing orders with newspapers for Daniels Motor Car Co.
("Daniels Eight"), Reading, Pa.

FEDERAL, 6 E. 39th st., N. Y.—
Contemplating campaign after first of year for Stern & Saalberg Co.
("Lance's Cough Drops"), N. Y.

BLISS, 21 Park Row, N. Y.—Placing orders with selected list of newspapers for Jones & Allen Co., medical.

BLOOMINGDALE-WEILER, 1420
Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Placing 4-inch, 10-time orders with some Pen-sylvania newspapers for John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa.

CLOUGH, Merchants Bank Bldg., Indianapolis—Placing orders with newspapers for Dyer Packing Co.
("Alice Beans"), Vincennes, Ind.

DANIELSON & SON, 96 Westminster st., Providence, R. I.—Placing orders with a few newspapers for United Lace & Braid Mfg. Co.
("Beaded Shoe Laces"), Auburn,
Providence, R. I.

ERICKSON, 381 4th av., N. Y.—
Reported (not verified) placing advertising for Chalmers Knitting Co., Amsterdam, N. Y.

GREEN-LUCAS, 21 W. Fayette st., Baltimore, Md.—Again placing orders with a few newspapers for E. Rosenfeld & Co. ("Faultless" pajamas and night shirts), Baltimore, Md.

GUNDLACH, Peoples Gas Bldg.,
Chicago—Placing orders with some
N. Y. City newspapers for American Can Co. ("Rex" visible typewriter and "American" adding machine),
300 B'way, N. Y.

HAINES, Bailey Bldg., Philadelphia—Again placing orders with some Pennsylvania newspapers for Bailey,
Banks & Biddle Co., jewelry, 1218
Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee—Again placing copy with newspapers for holiday trade for Parker Pen Co. ("Parker Lucky Curve" fountain pens), 310 Mill st., Janesville, Wis.

NOLLEY, Light and Lombard sts., Baltimore, Md.—Placing orders with newspapers for Electrical Products Co. ("Electric Faucets"), 6 S. Calvert st., Baltimore, Md.

PRESBRY, 450 4th av., N. Y.—
Again placing special newspaper copy

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION NOVEMBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 497,774

The Sunday Post 345,362

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
280 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK

C. GEORGE KROGNESS, Western Rep.
Marquette Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid For Every
Guaranteed  Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

for Dr. I. W. Lyon & Sons ("Lyons Tooth Powder"), 520 W. 27th st.,
N. Y.

REDFIELD, 34 W. 33d st., N. Y.—
Renewing some newspaper contracts where they have expired for American Lead Pencil Co. ("Venus pencil"), 220 5th av., N. Y.

THOMAS, Heard Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla.—Placing small orders with newspapers for Hotel Albert, Saxon-ville, Fla.

WILLIAMS, 108 Fulton st., N. Y.—
Again placing copy on contracts for Tetley's Teas.

WADE, Old Colony Bldg., Chicago
—Preparing farm paper campaign on Keystone fence for the Keystone
Steel & Wire Co., Peoria, Ill.

BARROWS & RICHARDSON,
Drexel Bldg., Philadelphia—Secured advertising account of Huyler, N. Y.

LANFORD, P. O. Box 47, Clarkston, Ga.—Placing accounts—Fulton Telegraph School, Junction City, Ga.; Raney Medicine Co., Shuford Remedies Co. and Southern Chemical Co., Atlanta; D. F. Jamison, Summerville,
S. C.

ECLIPSE, 5601 Aberdeen st., Chicago—Sending out orders to mail order papers for Clare Watch Co., Chicago.

McKEE, Kahn Bldg., Indianapolis,
Ind.—Handling accounts of Premier
Motor Corp., Indianapolis; J. P.
Tractor Co., Cleveland, and Hoosier
Sub-Carburetor Co.

LAMPORT, 520 I. M. S. Bldg., South Bend, Ind.—Handling account of O'Brien Varnish Co., South Bend, and will conduct magazine campaign in behalf of "Liquid Velvet."

Also placing the accounts of Burn-oil Engine Co. and Banner Gas Range
Works.

CAMPBELL-EWALD, 117 W. Fort st., Detroit, Mich.—Sending page dealer copy to implement papers for Advance-Rumely Co., La Porte, Ind.
Has secured account of Michigan
Bolt and Nut Works, Detroit. An extensive campaign is in prospect.

Has secured accounts of Klaxon Company, Newark, N. J., and Amazon Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio.

Also placing account of Master Primer Company, Detroit, in national and trade publications in behalf of an electric primer for automobiles and will run during the winter months.

POTTS-TURNBULL, Graphic Arts Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Placing advertising account of Peet Bros.
Mfg. Co., Kansas City, Kan., manu-

ST. PAUL DISPATCH

(Evening)

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS

(Morning and Sunday)

The papers that publish the best news service and features the market affords

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures: A carrier delivered circulation in over 90% of English-reading St. Paul homes, and a broad country circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation Averages for October, 1917:
Dispatch 80,584
Pioneer Press 63,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,751

"In ST. PAUL it's
The Dispatch and Pioneer Press."

YOU MUST USE THE

EXAMINER

TO COVER THE

GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

facturer of "Crystal White Laundry Snaps."

WILLIAMS & CUNNYGHAM, Mallers Bldg., Chicago—Asking for position and placing copy in magazines for the Western Clock Company ("Big Ben" clock), La Salle, Ill.

FLETCHER, Widener Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing advertising for Martin Truck & Body Company, York, Pa.

Has also secured account of Bell
Motor Car Company, York, Pa.

BATTEN, 4th Av. Bldg., N. Y.—
Will place orders with newspapers in near future for Lehn & Fink ("Lysol" disinfectant and "Pebecco" tooth paste), N. Y.

CRITCHFIELD & CO., Brooks
Bldg., Chicago—Placing orders with Western newspapers for Chandlee & Chandlee, patent attorneys, Washington, D. C.

KIERNAN & CO., 135 B'way, N.
Y.—Will shortly place orders with selected newspapers for Adipo Co., fat reducer, N. Y.

DIRECT—White Eagle Medicine
Co., Piqua, Ohio, is placing orders direct in selected daily papers.

Valdona Co., tooth paste, 201 E.
Ohio st., Chicago, is placed direct in metropolitan papers by Independent Drug Co., which bought out the concern recently.

Perry Nursery Co., Rochester, N.
Y., is sending seven-line classified orders direct to some agricultural publications.

Triangle Motor Corp., 2211 S.
Michigan av., Chicago, is sending out orders direct to daily newspapers.

Jaques Manufacturing Co. ("K. C.
Baking Powder"), 16th and Canal sts.,
Chicago, is sending out orders direct to newspapers.

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

THE WATER POWER BILLS IN SENATE.

(Continued from Second Page.)

where natural conditions were unusually favorable.

"This development has steadily decreased until finally it was brought to a complete standstill during the present year when the laws under which water power developments were being made were finally interpreted by the United States Supreme Court in April of this year which held, briefly, that no official of the Government, under the law, had authority to bind the Government by contract; and, further, that any permits issued for water power developments were revocable at any time at the pleasure of the secretary issuing such permit, and that the Government was not liable for compensation for improvements made under such permits.

"If the water powers of the country are to be developed legislation must be passed under which financing will be possible. Any effort on the part of Mr. Pinchot to perpetuate the theories which have proven a failure in the past will tend to negative the efforts which are now being made to secure fair and adequate legislation.

"We strongly urge upon all publishers the importance of advocating this legislation, not only in their editorial columns, but by addressing their representatives in Congress.

"In his letters to newspapers dated November 18, 1917, Mr. Pinchot sets forth seven requisites of water power legislation from the point of view of the conservationist and says:

"I am writing to ask your support for immediate legislation based upon them when Congress meets."

"There are now pending in the Senate of the United States Senate Bill 1419, (introduced by Mr. Shields), and favorably reported by the committee on commerce to the Senate, and Senate Bill 2399 introduced by Senator Walsh and now pending before the public lands committee of the United States Senate; also similar bills by Senator Myers and Congressman Small.

"The first of these two, the Shields

One of the many interesting features appearing daily in the

BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

is Arthur H. Folwell's column

Nothing Serious

Mr. Folwell was formerly editor of Puck.

Brooklyn Daily Times
Times Plaza, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpass the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

890 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 92,088
October, 1917.

Gain over 5,696
October, 1916.

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

Bill, authorizes the Secretary of War, under certain conditions, to grant permits for water power development in navigable streams.

"The second, introduced by Senator Walsh, authorizes the issuance of Government permits for water power development at sites on the public domain.

It is proper to take the expression of Mr. Pinchot as authoritatively stating the views of the conservationists of the country, certainly of the most extreme conservationists.

"The two bills above mentioned relating to water power development in navigable streams and on the public domain have been endorsed publicly by the leading investors standing ready to develop water power.

"If the seven points made by Mr. Pinchot as essential to proper water power legislation should be found embodied, or substantially embodied, in each of the two bills, or if the differences between the bills and Mr. Pinchot's statements are of a minor character or obviously reconcilable it will become plain that, whatever may have been the fact in the past, water power legislation need no longer be delayed because of dispute between these two sets of interests.

"The first point made by Mr. Pinchot is as follows:

"The thing to do with water power is to develop it. Whatever retards or restricts the development of public water powers on terms fair to the public is against public policy and hostile to the general welfare."

"As both bills aim to make possible the development of water power on terms fair to the public, no conflict results from the first point made by Mr. Pinchot.

"Mr. Pinchot's second point is as follows:

"Water power belongs to the people. The sites where it is produced should always be held in public hands, for only so can effective control in the general interest be secured."

"Both the Shields Bill and the Walsh Bill retain Federal control over the dam sites, which under the scheme of both bills, are to be 'held in public hands,' their use only being permitted for a limited term of years by private parties. There is no conflict between the bills and Mr. Pinchot's statement under the second heading.

"Mr. Pinchot's third point is as follows:

"Where public development is not desired, the right to use water power sites should be leased for periods long enough to permit sound, attract-

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.
National Representatives

F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Scolar, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 749 Market St., San Francisco.

PATERSON

New Jersey's Famous
Manufacturing City
PRESS

Its BIG Independent Newspaper
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

ive and profitable investment, but never longer than fifty years. At the end of each lease all rights should return to the people who gave them."

COVERED BY THE BILLS.

"Unless Mr. Pinchot's statement means more than appears on the surface, it is an exact description of the leasing system proposed in the Walsh and Shields Bills.

"Both bills limit the term of the lease to fifty years by providing that at the end of that time the Government may retake the rights and either use them itself or grant them to other parties. This is not, however, all there is to the matter. Mr. Pinchot desires that at the end of each lease 'all rights should return to the people who gave them'; but Mr. Pinchot would not claim that at the end of the lease the situation existing at the beginning could be actually reconstructed.

"It is impossible to ignore the fact that development has taken place in the interim; that a dam has been constructed; a power house erected; power equipment installed; transmission lines set up and a power supply offered and taken by consumers including cities, industries and a vast number of individuals who have become dependent upon it.

"If the right to utilize the dam site were returned at the end of the lease without any provision being made for the power business developed, vast injustice would be done not only chiefly to the investor, but to the general public itself.

"Obviously this is a situation which is to be dealt with; and, except for dealing with it in a manner which at the same time aims to safeguard, in the highest degree, the principle of recapture, which Mr. Pinchot speaks for, there is no conflict between the Walsh and Shield Bills and the ideas expressed in the third point made by Mr. Pinchot.

"Mr. Pinchot's fourth point is as follows:

"In order to protect the consumer against extortion, rates and service should be regulated by Federal authority when state or local authorities fail to do so."

"This is exactly and specifically provided for both in the Walsh Bill and in the Shields Bill.

"Mr. Pinchot's fifth point is as follows:

"Reasonably prompt and complete development and continuous operation, subject to market conditions, should be required."

"This is exactly and specifically

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest. The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

WM. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

provided for both in the Walsh Bill and in the Shields Bill.

"Mr. Pinchot's sixth point is as follows:

"Corporations or individuals who make money out of rights granted by the people should share their profits with the people."

"The rates for electric energy furnished by companies holding Federal permits would in all cases be subject to Federal regulations either by state commissions or by Federal authority. As such regulation never permits the investor to earn more than a fair return upon his money and compels him to reduce his rates if greater profits are being earned, both the Walsh and Shields bills and Mr. Pinchot meet the requirements suggested by Mr. Pinchot under the sixth head.

INFORMATION.

"Mr. Pinchot's seventh point is as follows:

"The public has a right to complete information about every business based on the use of public property."

"This is exactly and specifically provided for in both the Walsh and Shields bills.

"Obviously there are no irreconcilable points of difference between the Walsh and Shields bills and Mr. Pinchot's view, speaking for the conservationists, of the kind of water power legislation which should be enacted at this session of Congress.

"Under these circumstances 'arbitrary action by United States,' certainly a form of Government development, does not seem to be called for; in fact, the outlook for immediate compromise legislation along the lines outlined by the conservationists and by the Shields and Walsh bills is to be looked for.

"Even if a real controversy existed

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home evening paper of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

Member A.B.C.
EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Lytton Building, CHICAGO.

It is very doubtful if the suggestion of Government development would point a way out of the difficulty. The fact is that the real controversy over water power legislation which went on for many years was a controversy between those who held that the states ought to exercise authority over water power development and those who held that such authority should be exercised by the Federal Government.

"Out of this long controversy has come a compromise, which stands out in both the Walsh Bill, the Shields Bill and Mr. Pinchot's statement, namely, a compromise under which ownership shall remain in the Federal Government over the water power site now subject to Federal control, but the regulation of the business within the states shall be retained by state authorities.

"This compromise has been worked out after long controversy. No surer method of receiving the old controversy and of prolonging indefinitely the delay of legislation could be suggested than to propose Federal development of water powers.

"Water powers so developed could not in the nature of things be under state regulation. They could not be taxed; their rates could not be determined by local authority, nor the nature of their service.

"The Federal Government has no power to enter upon water power development without further authority from Congress, and it was in Congress that the controversy between the rights of the states and of the Federal Government continued so long; it was in Congress where the compromise indicated above was arrived at; and it would be in Congress, should the compromise be abandoned, where the controversy would be resumed and the delay of legislation be continued indefinitely."

MANAGES PAPER COMPANY.

Hollis G. Gleason, formerly special representative for the Inland Printer, Chicago, has been made manager of the La Salle Paper Company, Chicago. The La Salle firm has entered the jobbing field.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue

Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS and SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY NEWS NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO

(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.

I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Carroll K. Michener, night city editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, who left to become associate editor of the Minneapolis Bellman, has been succeeded by J. V. Harris, for the past year and a half assistant night city editor.

Mr. Harris went to the Tribune from Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he was sports editor of the Evening Gazette. Previously he had been connected with the Quincy (Ill.) Journal and the Galesburg (Ill.) Evening Mail as a reporter.

Ben W. Phillips, a Pacific Coast product, is the successor to F. C. Faude as head of the night copy desk on the Tribune. For several years he was a reporter on the Tacoma (Wash.) Ledger.

From the Ledger, Mr. Phillips went to the twin cities, working as a copy-reader on the St. Paul Pioneer-Press and the Minneapolis Tribune and as telegraph editor of the Minneapolis Daily News. He later read copy on the desk of the Chicago Examiner.

Roy T. Burke, former financial editor of the Tribune, who resigned that position to enter the second officers training camp, has returned to take the assistant city editorship.

Roscoe E. Wright, formerly of the Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Republican-Times, is a new addition to the local staff of the Morning Tribune.

Kenneth Taylor of the night copy desk has resigned to join the day force of the Minneapolis Associated Press.

R. E. Wilson leaves the city desk on the Cedar Rapids Gazette to join the Tribune's night copy desk.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE PRESS MEN BANQUETING.

Attorney General Gregory will be the guest of honor at the banquet of the American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers, at the Biltmore Hotel tonight.

Mayor-elect Hylan of New York has been invited to attend.

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGE.

The Springfield (Ill.) News-Record (foreign representation)—from Stevens & King to the Charles H. Eddy Company, New York, Chicago and Boston.

SUNDAY ISSUE SUCCESSFUL.

In a recent editorial announcement, the Macon (Ga.) News reports splendid success in the Sunday morning field, which it entered the middle of November.

THE NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia Bulletin Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net Average NOVEMBER 366,435 COPIES A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

COUNTRY PRESS ASKED TO AID WAR SAVINGS STAMPS.

Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo has addressed the following letter to the country publishers of the United States:

"The loyal support you have given the Government in the great financial operations involved in the first and second Liberty Loans, and the ability with which you have brought these important operations before the people of the country encourage me to place before you, the country publishers of the United States, the plans which may be adopted by the Government from time to time for financing this great war in which we are engaged, and particularly the plans for the sale of war savings and thrift stamps.

"I have appointed a national war savings committee, which will bring to your attention from time to time matters relating to the sale of these war savings and thrift stamps.

"The Government is anxious to have you understand these financial operations and will send you this information with full confidence that you will make use of it in such a way as you know will be of the greatest service to the country.

"Your knowledge of local conditions and the manner of reaching your own constituency will best determine how this should be done.

"I should be glad if the country publishers would render this service practically as a unit, each one working for the country as each one thinks best, but working collectively toward the same end.

"With your support, I am confident the great financial operations of the Government, upon which our victory in this war to protect our sacred and vital rights, to restore peace to a suffering humanity and to vindicate democracy throughout the world will be carried through successfully."

TORONTO SOCIALIST JAILED.

Isaac Bainbridge, publisher of Canada Forward, Toronto, the official organ of the Socialist party in Canada, was sentenced by Justice Hodgins on November 28 to nine months in jail for circulating seditious literature. The appeal of his counsel, R. T. Harding, for a stated case was refused by the judge.

Bainbridge has one previous conviction against him for the same offense, committed since the outbreak of the war. He was let off on suspended sentence on the first occasion, and for this reason, the judge said, he could not deal leniently with him.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917

Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. —Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening

Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C. C. GEORGE KROGNES, Chicago
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

WANT UNIFORM STYLE FOR LEGAL NOTICES.

Standardization of legal notices as undertaken by a committee of Minnesota publishers was explained in a recent statement by S. Y. Gordon, state expert printer.

"There always has existed in Minnesota more or less discrepancy in style and form of legal notices required to be published in newspapers, some newspapers using one style, some another, the law not being explicit in the matter," the statement said. "Such discrepancies lead to more or less controversy between publishers and officials and others having to do with such legal publications.

"The work as mapped out by the committee is to suggest and eventually establish under the law, a uniform style and system covering all legal publications in newspapers; to fix a basis of type measurement graduated for the different sizes of type in a way that there can be no question about its accuracy.

"With this object in view the committee has obtained through the courtesy of the attorney general's office a compilation of all the laws pertaining to newspaper and legal publications, laws that have never before been compiled, and aided by these laws the committee is at work on a uniform style for forms for legal publication and when completed the same will be included in a report."

DAVIES IN NEW YORK.

Colonel R. O. Davies, publisher of the Palm Beach Daily News and other Florida journals, was a visitor in New York this week, stopping at the Hotel Majestic.

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

THE

Boston Herald(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS.

David Brown, junior editor of the Council Bluffs (Ia.) Republican, has joined the aviation corps.

William J. McNally, dramatic editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, was given a first lieutenant's commission at the second officers training camp and has been detailed to Fort Crook.

The New York Globe has twenty-seven employees in the service of the United States. They are:

H. C. Tiffany, 2d field artillery; H. J. Kline, naval coast guard; W. W. Stout; National army; R. C. Wilson, 7th regiment; Theodore Schenck, National army; J. Vanila, Max Press, Rocco Morrossini and Stanley Gans, National army; John Dodd, Morris Gratz, Morris Werner, Harry Richkind, Harry Palter, Solomon Natch and Joe Juliana, Army; Kimon Nicolaidis, camouflage branch, engineers. George A. Meullen and Maurice Rosenwald, naval coast guard; Arthur J. Fitzpatrick, quartermaster's corps; Frank H. Merchant, National army; Sylvester Cody, 12th regiment; Julius W. Knittel, 108th regiment, Camp Wadsworth; Walter Meadows and Timothy Dunn, National army; Frank Russo, naval reserve; Edward Rocker, 6th infantry.

Stephen N. James, reporter on the Cincinnati Enquirer, has received his commission as second lieutenant in the Army.

The list of men in service from the Omaha (Neb.) World-Herald is headed by Roland M. Jones, who gave up his position as city editor to win a commission as first lieutenant at Fort Snelling. The other twenty-four are:

Thomas J. McMahon, depot brigade, Camp Taylor, Mt. Ayers, Mass.; Kenneth B. Cameron, assistant paymaster, R. N. C. R., naval service, Ottawa, R. Can.; Charles Cobry, Fort Omaha balloon school, Omaha; Gerald Griswold, corporal, quartermaster's department, Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; Louis Sullivan, aviation section, Fort Logan, Colo.; J. Buell

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star	88,752
Evening Times	42,375
Washington Post	47,032
Herald (over)	25,000

BRIDGEPORTCONNECTICUT
(The Essen of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.Post & Telegram(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A.B.C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGOJoliet, Ill. (The PITTSBURGH)of the West
Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the Illinois corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper.The Herald-NewsALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

Knisely, naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill.; T. J. La Gess, hospital corps, Fort Crook, Neb.; Earle C. Sutphen, battery C, 5th field artillery, American expeditionary forces in France.

Waldo Shillington, lieutenant, signal corps, aviation section, Omaha, waiting orders; Paul Sutensky, depot brigade, Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; Paul A. Scott, company C, 126th machine gun battalion, Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; Ralph Yingling, J. F. Laughlin and Sed Small, naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill.; I. Steiss, aviation section, American expeditionary forces, France; Hyman Gerstein, ambulance corps, Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky.; F. Stageman, Fort Logan, Colo.; John Respess, corporal, battery B, 127th field artillery, Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; Maurice P. Brogan, aviation section, Fort Omaha balloon school, Omaha; A. H. Rumpeltes, Fort Riley, Kan.; Harry Lloyd, 109th engineers, Camp Cody, Deming, N. M.; Glen Darby, naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill.; Paul Herbert, U. S. S. New York, Newport, R. I.

Soldiers of the Sunset Division, now in training at Camp Bowie, Texas, are to have their own newspaper behind the firing lines on European battlefronts provided the War Department grants them the privilege of carrying their own print shop with them.

The Reconnaissance is the name of the paper now being published weekly by the soldiers at Camp Bowie. The paper pays no salaries and all profits go into a fund for purchasing portable printing equipment that the sheet may continue behind the lines after the din of battle has died away. When the present contingent of troops leaves Camp Bowie for the port of embarkation it is the idea to take with them a Junior Reconnaissance, leaving the original publication as a monument to the enterprise of the Texas and Oklahoma troops.

In event the War Department rules that the soldiers will not be allowed to publish a paper behind the firing lines the profits that accrue from advertising while at Camp Bowie will be turned over to the Red Cross or Y. M. C. A.

The active staff of the Reconnaissance is comprised largely of experienced newspaper men, among them being Tom Arnold, formerly of the Dallas Morning News; Frank S. Tillman, former city editor of the Fort Worth Record, and Kent Watson, former night relay editor for the Associated Press at Dallas, Tex., all of

THE CIRCULATION OF THE
CHRISTMAS ISSUE
ofThe BILLBOARDis guaranteed to exceed
45,000 Copies

It will be obtainable wherever papers are sold throughout the entire English speaking world.

No advance in rates.
Last form closes Sunday, December 16The Billboard Publishing Co.Member A.B.C.
Broadway & 42d Monroe and Dearborn
NEW YORK CHICAGODALLAS EVENING
JOURNALPublished by
A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning.
40,655 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending Oct. 1,
1917. P. O. Report
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
728 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

whom resigned their positions to enlist in the Army.

News for the paper is furnished by contributing editors from Army units in every area of the camp.

Felix A. Leser, grandson of General Felix Angus, editor and publisher of the Baltimore American and Baltimore Star, is a first lieutenant in the coast artillery at Fort Howard, Md.

LIEUTENANT FELIX A. LESER.

Before entering the Army, Lieutenant Leser was connected with the art department of the Baltimore American, where he specialized in black and white sketches. He enlisted as a private at the outbreak of the war.

Lieutenant Sam J. Orr, formerly court reporter on the Savannah Press, has been assigned to duty in the coast artillery near Savannah, effective on December 15. He received his commission in the first officers' training camp at Fort McPherson,

The Plain DealerFirst Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in
CLEVELAND

Over 175,000 Daily. Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bldg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, Peoples Gas Bldg., ChicagoTHE JOURNALIS THE ONLY MORNING AND
SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN
DAYTON, OHIOSTORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

Ga., from where he was assigned instruction work at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind.

William Denning, a member of the news staff of the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News, has just graduated as an aviator at the Delaware Aviation School at Claymont. He was enabled to take the course while continuing his newspaper work.

Lieutenant Ivan Hunter of the royal flying corps, formerly with the St. Thomas (Ont.) Daily Journal, has been appointed instructor by the Canadian flying corps and has been assigned to duty in Texas.

Frank C. Faude, until recently news editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, has joined the forestry battalion in Winnipeg, Man.

W. T. Ward, formerly connected with the New Britain (Ct.) Record, is now a corporal in the 144th heavy field artillery, motorized, now stationed at Camp Kearney, Linda Vista, Cal. He expects to sail soon for "somewhere in France."

William W. T. Squire, former police reporter on the Hartford (Ct.) Courant and New Britain (Ct.) Herald, following a course of training at the Plattsburg camp has been commissioned a lieutenant in the regular army and assigned to active duty.

Lieutenant E. N. Lewis, formerly in newspaper work at New Britain, Ct., and as a member of the New York Tribune staff, is now stationed on Long Island in active service.

Thomas F. Jackson, circulation manager and for a number of years Plainville correspondent of the New

The Circulation of the
NEW YORK
EVENING
MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Britain (Ct.) Evening Herald, has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the infantry after undergoing a course of training at the Plattsburg Camp. He is at his home in New Britain awaiting orders.

John Ernst Tiedemann, former mail editor of the Associated Press in San Francisco and previously with that organization in Washington, St. Louis, Chicago and the Canal Zone, gained a second lieutenant's commission in the officers training camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., which closed on November 27.

H. D. Slater, president and editor of the El Paso (Tex.) Herald, was commissioned captain of the infantry last week at the close of the Leon Springs Training Camp. He has been assigned to active duty.

The Chicago Tribune has ninety-six men in the Army and Navy. The news and editorial departments have fourteen men in service, the advertising department, twenty-nine.

Six Tribune men won commissions at the conclusion of the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan. They are Wallace F. Kirk, syndicate department, and Francis L. Haeger, auditing department, first lieutenants; Carl A. Krah, auditing department, F. M. Smith, editorial, Herbert M. Stoops, art, and Frank H. Murray, auditing department, second lieutenants.

Wells Hawks, newspaper man and publicity agent, who was enrolled in the Navy as an assistant paymaster with the rank of lieutenant, has been detailed to duty at the bureau of navigation, Navy Department, Washington. Since last March he has been doing the publicity work for recruiting at the navy bureau in New York City. He will do general publicity work for the service now making his headquarters at the department.

A newspaper from the trenches is being printed "somewhere in France" by the boys of company C, 165th infantry, its editor and principal contributor being Louis Klopsch, formerly a member of the publicity staff

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburg

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

W. D. BOYCE CO. 860-814 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO 805 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS.

THE FARMING BUSINESS

High-class farm weekly, magazine form.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT

Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.

Combination Advertising Rate.

HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor,
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

of the Metro Pictures Corporation.

The paper is known as "C What Happens."

William Burke, son of Richard Burke, former editor and owner of the Oskaloosa (Ia.) Times, has received a second lieutenant's commission at the Fort Snelling officers training camp.

Lee E. Shimansky, son of O. K. Shimansky, owner of the United Press Association, Cleveland, has enlisted with the 408th motor supply train and is on his way "over there."

C. H. Yalden, formerly of the copy service department of the Hugh C. MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, has joined the 71st battery, now stationed at the Exhibition Grounds, Toronto.

Harry Wilson, formerly assistant manager of the Chicago office of the Nelson Chesman Advertising Company, has been awarded a commission as a first lieutenant in the National army.

Cecil T. Wilkinson, formerly editor of the East Palestine (Ohio) Reveille, but now in the 4th Ohio infantry, is editing an Army paper called the Rainbow Reveille.

Two more Chicago Journal men have joined Uncle Sam's forces. They are Thomas Kennedy and W. W. Major, both from the editorial staff. Kennedy has become a member of the aviation corps, and Major has been commissioned as a second lieutenant.

H. Armand DeMasi, formerly a copy reader on the Chicago American, has been awarded a commission as captain in the ordnance corps of the National army. He was a member of the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan.

George ("Chief") Carpenter, formerly police reporter for the Montreal (Que.) Gazette, who spent the summer enjoying "the simple life" on a farm in western Canada, has enlisted in a United States artillery unit and is now learning the most approved methods of sending Germans "West."

One of the recent Army recruits is Tracy H. Lewis, son of William E. Lewis, publisher, and nephew of Irving J. Lewis, managing editor of the New York Morning Telegraph,

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

The NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

The LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
250 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Bldg., CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

U. S. F. O. and A. B. C. Report THE NEW ORLEANS ITEM

period ending October 3, 1917

Daily60,756

Sunday77,438

Average63,217

THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

who will report for duty at the San Antonio (Tex.) aviation ground on December 15 as a student officer for training in aerial gunnery.

Mr. Lewis, for a year Washington correspondent for the Morning Telegraph, put in his first newspaper work on the New York Times, later joining the editorial staff of the Telegraph and continuing in that capacity until the Mexican border troubles, when he went with the troops to the Rio Grande and remained there until the excitement was over. He was subsequently detailed to do Washington work.

TRACY H. LEWIS.

Edward Fuller of the advertising staff of the Chicago Examiner is attending an aviation training school. Prior to his departure, he was given a farewell banquet by his friends.

Lloyd A. Lehtas of the Chicago Tribune editorial staff has joined the aviation section.

Thirty men from the Rocky Mountain News and Denver Times are

THE

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

is a capable and welcome
salesman in thousands of
good homes.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooke, 225 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond15,309qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

with the colors. Their names follow:

L. L. Hamilton, Harvey Setchel, O. W. Williams, T. Felker, F. S. Mangan, M. H. Halling, Grant Mellinay, John Barrows, Dana Burkhalter, Hicks C. Coney, J. E. Cook, Earl Davis, John F. O'Brien, William R. Wright, Vaughn Protheroe, Neal King, Jesse Riblett, William Vogt, Floyd Reese, Elmer Dye, G. Barnitz, Bayard Brooks, Benjamin Roth, Ira Ingersoll, L. Richardson, O. Whitney, R. Hughes, H. Gambrel, Floyd Wilson, George W. Hoage.

TEST OF PULP STONES.

A test of Canadian sandstones, to determine their suitability as pulpstones, has been completed by L. Heber Cole of the Canadian Department of Mines and his report has just been issued.

The conclusion drawn is that, with a little co-operation between the owners of prospective quarries and paper makers and other consumers of pulpstones, an industry in this product could soon be firmly established in Canada.

Mr. Cole states that the tests conducted, both in laboratory and on a commercial scale, show that pulpstones having thereon the legend "Made in Canada" can be placed on the Canadian and United States markets with every confidence that they will prove equal to the best imported stones.

George H. Miles has become the owner of the Rushford (Minn.) Tri-County Record.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department.

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish DailyReaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price
from one to two cents.THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN
daily newspaper in the United States
and Canada.The only real guide of 250,000 thrifty
readers and positive success to its advertisers.Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-638 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DAVID WILLIAM HIGGINS, veteran Pacific coast newspaper man and founder of the San Francisco
Call, died in Victoria, B. C., on November 30, aged eighty-three years.Born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Mr.
Higgins went to San Francisco in 1856 and founded the Call the same year, selling out two years later. He became publisher of the Victoria (B.
C.) Colonist in 1860 and remained so until 1886. He was later editor of the Vancouver (B. C.) World.WILLIAM H. LOOMIS, well known illustrator, died suddenly on November 29 at the Heineman Hospital, New York, at the age of forty-five years. Mr. Loomis worked as artist on many of the country's prominent papers.HENRY ("DEACON") TERRY, for more than twenty years reporter on the New York American, died from heart disease on November 31 in Jersey City, N. J. He was sixty-four years old.WILLIAM FRANK, a Brooklyn brewer, at one time employed by the Frank Leslie publications, in New York, died on December 1.THOMAS M. JONES, president of the Legislative Correspondents Association of Pennsylvania, is dead at Harrisburg. He had been identified with newspaper work in Harrisburg for more than forty years.LAFAYETTE PARKS, several years ago connected with the New York Evening Telegram, later proprietor of the Fitchburg (Mass.)
Daily News, and more recently employed by the Associated Press in
New York, is dead in Brooklyn, N.
Y., following an operation for intestinal trouble. He was forty-three years old.MRS. ELIZABETH WHEELER, widow of Hiram N. Wheeler, veteran editor and owner of the Quincy (Ill.)
Journal, who died several months ago, passed away on November 28 in Quincy.EDWARD H. CALLISTER, for nine years general manager of the Salt Lake City (Utah) Herald-Republican, died in Salt Lake City on November 24 at the age of fifty-seven years. He was with the Herald-Republican until a year ago.GEORGE B. BOGERT, one of the oldest newspaper men of Bayonne, N.
J., died on December 2, aged fifty-five.ROBERT MATHESON, first editor of the British-American and for-THE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POSTreaches the GERMAN
reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN
NEW ENGLAND.

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.

reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods.

Use Kurier Bostonski

merly editor and proprietor of the Canadian-American, died last week in Chicago. He was eighty-two years old.J. W. PAIGE, inventor of the Paige typesetting machine, died in a Chicago infirmary on December 4, aged seventy-six years.JAMES REILLY, managing editor of the Wall Street Journal, New York, passed away in a hospital in Paterson, N. J., on December 4, his death being due to exposure and burns incurred as the result of an attack of vertigo.WALTER HALE, author, illustrator and correspondent for the Century and Harper's magazines, died in New York on December 4, at the age of forty-eight years.ALBERT KOMP, pioneer paper manufacturer of New York, died suddenly in New York, aged eighty-six years. Mr. Komp retired several years ago.JOHN F. CARROLL, publisher of the Portland (Ore.) Evening Telegram, died on December 4, aged fifty-nine years.MRS. BARBARA SUTER, a pioneer Western newspaper writer, died last week at her home in San Francisco at the age of ninety years.EDWARD ELSWORTH, creator of the "Sunny Jim" advertising limericks, was killed on December 5 in a plunge from a window of an eight-story building in New York. He was president of the D. & C. Cereal Company, Inc., a $2,500,000 concern.MAURICE A. SCHWARTZ, a cartoonist for the Chicago Daily News, is dead of heart disease at the age of twenty-seven years.P. E. TRULY, a pioneer West Texas newspaper editor, died on November 20 in Ballinger, Tex.FREDERICK E. SAWARD, editor and proprietor of the Coal Trade Journal, New York, which he founded forty-eight years ago, died on December 4, aged seventy-one years. Mr.
Saward was president of the American Trade Press Association for one term.NICOLE STAITS, an artist connected with St. Louis newspapers, is dead of cancer in that city, at the age of sixty-four years.WILLIAM MACLAREN, formerly advertising manager but more recently manager of Gimbel Brothers'
Milwaukee store, died on December
6 after an illness of three weeks.

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city
—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it
thoroughly covers Montreal's population,
which is over 700,000, and of which 70
per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.W.M. J. MORTON CO., Special Repr.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.

CHICAGO, Tribune Building.

LONDON, ENG., 19 St. Julian Avenue

Southampton Row.

PARIS, 7 rue de Rocher.

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium.

Phone Stuyvesant 204.

90 East 10th Street, NEW YORK

NEW I.F.S. CARTOONIST.

"Jack" Callahan is the latest acquisition to the comic cartoon force of the International Feature Service.
His strip, "Over Here," is attracting

JACK CALLAHAN.

wide attention and promises to be one of the big comic hits. Callahan has filled every position on a newspaper from a newsboy to artist.PUCKETTE SUCCEEDS GAVIT ON NEW YORK POST.Charles McDonald Puckette has been appointed managing editor of the New York Evening Post to succeed John Palmer Gavit, who has resigned, effective January 1, to join the staff of Harper & Bros. The decision was made on Monday by the board of trustees of the New York Evening Post Company.Mr. Puckette is one of the youngest men who have held a post of such responsibility in the New York journalistic field, being only thirty years old. He is a native of Tennessee and a graduate of the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn.He joined the city staff of the New York Evening Post in 1908. In April, 1916, he was made city editor, after a brief engagement as acting city editor.

Early last spring he was made as-

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER
WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription

Everywhere $3.40.

(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free

Address: 14 Cross Street

FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG

NARODNI List

Briacoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich.,
has just placed 10,450 agate lines of Briacoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers

61 Park Row, NEW YORK

Phone 2889 Beckman.

THE JEWISH
MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITYcarries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.sistant managing editor, and Walter B. Hayward, who returned from the New York Times, became city editor. Mr. Puckette measured up to his new duties in a signal fashion. On a number of occasions he was acting managing editor for a period of weeks and months and proved himself of a calibre that fitted him for the major post.His nine years on the staff of the Evening Post have acquainted him with conditions in New York City and outside.He combines a keen sense of news values with literary tastes.

CELEBRATION IN BROOKLYN.

The Brooklyn Press Club on November 29 celebrated the election of four of its men to office. The successful candidates are Edward Lazansky, supreme court justice; Edward Riegelman, borough president of Brooklyn; Richard Webster, register, and August Ferrand, alderman.Clinton H. Hoard and Gabriel Bloch were in charge of the affair, which took the form of a reception and dance.

NEW LABOR PAPER.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) Labor Journal has just made its initial appearance. It is the official organ of the Buffalo Central Labor Council.The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON

consolidated with La Tribuna del
Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.

300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.

1,000,000 Italians in New England.

“Concentration is the Nation’s Watchword”

You can dominate

Philadelphia

at one cost by concentrating in

The BULLETIN

the newspaper “nearly everybody reads”

Record business is being done by Philadelphia business houses, due to the fact that 58,000 business places and manufacturing plants, employing about 700,000 male and 300,000 female workers, are running to full capacity.

In Philadelphia there are approximately 375,000 separate dwellings.

Think of the vast daily needs of the third largest market in the United States.

Clothing
Shoes
Hosiery
Underwear
Millinery and Hats

Food and Drink
Soaps and Toilet Articles
Household and Kitchen Necessities
Furniture, Rugs, etc.

Medicines
Heating and Lighting
Musical Instruments
Automobiles and Accessories

Net paid daily average for November 366,435 Copies
a Day

NEW YORK OFFICE
Dan A. Carroll
Tribune Building

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

CHICAGO OFFICE
J. E. Verree
Steger Building

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING

Published Every SATURDAY at 233 West 56th St. (near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

DECEMBER 15, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship." Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894.

No. 1242

For RESULTS

Advertisers, both national and local, who have used or are now using the Plain Dealer, know positively that this great HOME newspaper brings results.

You could hardly expect anything different from a newspaper which has, over a period of more than seventy-six years, built up a following of thinking men and women,—prosperous people,—who have money to spend and an inclination to spend it on just such a product as you, perhaps, have to sell.

You will find it to your advantage to start NOW to get acquainted with the more than 175,000 people who read the daily, and the more than 200,000 who read the Sunday Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Plain Dealer
is the greatest HOME newspaper in Cleveland

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

SMOOT SOUNDS KEYNOTE IN POSTAL FIGHT.

ALL PUBLISHERS MUST GET TOGETHER AND AGREE ON INCREASE THEY FEEL THEY CAN STAND.

By WALDON FAWCETT.

"The publishers must get together."

This the keynote sounded this week by United States Senator Reed Smoot, who is, on behalf of the newspapers and periodicals, the leader in the fight now being made at Washington for the repeal of the provisions for an increase in second class rates of postage, embodied in the War Revenue Act passed at the last session of Congress.

I was enabled to induce Senator Smoot to talk frankly and at length on this subject for the first time since his return to Washington, because the champion of the publishing interests has just come to realize that publishers must be thoroughly aroused and at once if Congress is to be persuaded to grant any relief.

"What I would like to impress upon the publishers," said Senator Smoot, "is that in this crisis they must get together and agree upon such increase in the second class rate as they feel that they can stand without danger of the destruction of their business."

"Then there is no hope, Senator," I inquired, "that the publishing industry can be allowed to pursue the even tenor of its way on the basis of the present rate of one cent per pound?"

"No, I am afraid not," was the rejoinder. "I have talked with a great number of Senators and Representatives since my return to Washington and there seems to be an almost universal feeling that the publishers will have to stand some increase."

Persisting, I inquired: "The bill you introduced the other day, Senator—that is S. 2983—seeks, does it not, the flat repeal of the section of the War Revenue Act that operates to increase second class rates without proposing any alternative?"

"That," explained the gentleman from Utah, "is designed simply to do away with the iniquitous zone system, which I believe to be all wrong and which many of my colleagues agree with me will tend to cultivate sectionalism at the expense of national spirit."

"I believe," he continued, "that we are going to have no difficulty in mustering sufficient strength to eliminate the zone plan, but I would not be understood as holding out hope that Congress will consent to waive entirely the proposition for an increase in the second class rates. I realize that there are some publishers who feel that there should be no increase whatever, and I would be inclined to take that view myself if the country were not at war and the Government faced by the necessity of raising extraordinary revenue by every means at its command."

"With the situation as it is, I find a very strong sentiment here at the Capitol to the effect that the publishers should be willing to stand some increase. That is why I wish to urge, with all the emphasis I can place upon the advice, that the publishers of all classes get together and definitely agree upon what increase they can stand."

"My own opinion, if I were to give one at this time, would be that a flat rate of 1½ cents per pound is about right. Some of my colleagues favor a slightly higher rate, though I think that the general feeling is that under no circumstances should the rate to take effect July 1 next be higher than 1½ cents per pound."

WANTS TO HEAR FROM PUBLISHERS.

"It is because of the doubt on this point that I would like to hear from the publishers."

"I do not think that anything will be done in the matter of the adoption of a substitute flat rate in lieu of the authorized zone system until after the holidays, but, at that, there is no time to be lost."

"In the past I well realize that it has been extremely difficult to persuade publishers of all classes to get together on a common platform, and I believe that there has been some difficulty in persuading the newspaper publishers and the magazine publishers to make common cause."

"However, during the past few weeks I have had very extensive correspondence with publishers and now that the publishing industry faces a fact and not a theory I think I see some disposition to try to agree upon an equitable rate. I sincerely hope that this spirit will prevail, because therein lies the only hope of relief from the present system."

"I am unalterably opposed to the zone system and I am likewise opposed to the plan to assess a higher rate of postage upon the advertising sections of publications than upon the reading portions, but if the publishers, now that they are face to

(Continued on Thirty-first Page.)

BAKERS NOW SOLE OWNERS.

BUY OUT ASSOCIATES IN THE TACOMA TRIBUNE—MR. WELSH STAYS.

The sole ownership of the Tacoma (Wash.) Tribune is now vested in Frank S. Baker, president and general manager, and Elbert H. Baker, president of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, his father. Charles B. Welsh continues as managing editor.

This fact became known through the issuance of $250,000 in bonds, with the Fidelity Trust Company, of Tacoma, trustee. These bonds were issued in payment of the interests of the Messrs. Bakers' associates in the business, they thereby coming into complete control.

Elbert H. Baker of Cleveland, who was in New York this week, is very proud of his son's property. "The paper has come across in fine shape and is now a recognized force in the community," he said to THE FOURTH ESTATE.

NEWS PRINT PAPER COST CONFERENCES.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION TO BEGIN ON JANUARY 7—WANTS PUBLISHERS TO GO TO WASHINGTON.

The Federal Trade Commission announces that the approaching hearings in the news print matter will be open to all interested—manufacturers, jobbers and consumers being invited to attend. As tentatively set Monday, January 7, will be the date for the first hearing, which is expected to consume from six to ten days.

As stated previously, these hearings will be open to the discussion of the general principles underlying methods for arriving at "just and reasonable" profits, depreciation, methods for computing wood pulp costs, how water power should be treated in cost accounting, etc. These subjects will be considered in connection with the schedule which is to be sent out by the commission and on which the manufacturers will furnish their costs of production.

The hearings will be before the entire commission. Commissioner William B. Colver will be in charge.

"I hope that as a result of the hearings to be conducted in January we shall be able to fix a price on news print so manifestly just and logical that it will stand without question for a long time."

This was an expression made to THE FOURTH ESTATE this week by Trade Commissioner W. B. Colver, the member of the Federal Trade Commission who is in charge of the Government's news print activities and who will conduct the exhaustive hearings on price-fixing that are to be held in Washington next month.

Commissioner Colver's optimistic utterance was called forth by questions from the Washington correspondent of THE FOURTH ESTATE as to the probable frequency of revision of any price that may be settled upon as the outcome of the Trade Commission's consideration of the case.

Under the terms of the compromise effected by the Department of Justice with the members of the News Print Manufacturers Association who were indicted in New York the price to be fixed by the Trade Commission will be subject to revision from time to time.

If such revisions are to be of frequent occurrence it is obvious that there will be a feeling of uncertainty among publishers and probably a hesitancy to enter into long-term contracts unless the price stipulations of such contracts be adjustable in sympathy with price-fixing at Washington.

It is the idea of Commissioner Colver, however, that in the light of all the information that will be adduced at the coming hearings it will be practicable to settle upon a basic price that will stand. Only some radical change of status in the industry, say readjustments of wages, etc., ought to warrant the reopening of the case.

WANTS ALL PUBLISHERS TO BE PRESENT.

Because of his desire to see a price fixed that will be equitable for both producing and consuming interests, Commissioner Colver is desirous that newspaper publishers be well represented at the forthcoming hearings.

He asks THE FOURTH ESTATE to carry his urgent invitation to be present to every publisher who has anything to say in the premises.

The Trade Commission, he it explained, is not asking publishers to "start anything" in this instance. On the contrary the initiative lies with the paper manufacturers, whose counsel, Mr. Wise, will open the discussion at the hearings, probably summoning witnesses to support his contentions, with the result that doubtless the first two or three days of the hearings will be devoted almost exclusively to the presentation of the case for the news print manufacturers.

What is desired of newspaper publishers is that they shall be on hand to offer promptly any evidence that they may desire to offer in rebuttal. If the newspaper publishers are inclined to question the truth of the arguments or the accuracy of any of the figures put forward by the paper producers, obviously the time to do so is while the subject is under discussion.

The hearings are to be public and in evidence of the desire to give publishers every opportunity to present their side of the case it is intimated that the commissioner presiding at the hearings will put to witnesses any reasonable questions submitted by persons who are present.

Lively action is in order, beginning this week, on the part of the paper manufacturers in order to assemble the facts and figures which will constitute the main exhibits in behalf of the news print interests at the coming hearings. The preparation of the

(Continued on Twenty-seventh Page.)

MONTHLY REPORTS FOR CANADA.

PAPER CONTROLLER ADOPTS IDEA OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

The Ottawa correspondent of THE FOURTH ESTATE learns that Controller R. A. Pringle intends to begin issuing monthly reports like those of the United States Trade Commission. The first of these it is expected will be released early next week and will contain full details of the operations of the Canadian producers during the month of November.

The Controller has not yet completed arrangements for the opening of the inquiry into the book paper situation, but indications are that it will get under way some time next week with the first session.

At Ottawa there has been no change in the general paper situation during the past week.

CHICAGO GETS THE A.N.A. The executive committee of the Association of National Advertisers has decided that the semi-annual meeting of the association will be held in Chicago at a date yet to be selected.

S. Rug has bought a half interest in the Gackle (N. D.) Republican

“Concentration is the Nation’s Watchword”

Dominate Philadelphia

You can dominate Philadelphia at one cost by concentrating in

The BULLETIN

The newspaper “nearly everybody” reads

RECORD business is being done by Philadelphia business houses, due to the fact that 58,000 business places and manufacturing plants, employing about 700,000 male and 890,000 female workers, are running to full capacity.

In addition to the above, announcement has just been made by Walter L. Goodenough, general manager of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, that 30,000 workmen will be employed at the new big Hog Island shipyards (adjoining the League Island Navy Yard) in Philadelphia. Workers there now are receiving a quarter million dollars in wages weekly, and when the ship-building plant is in full swing, the weekly payroll will be $750,000, most of which will be spent in Philadelphia by these workers and their families.

Think of the vast daily needs of the third largest market in the United States.

In Philadelphia there are approximately 375,000 separate dwellings.

Net paid daily average for November

366,435 COPIES
A DAY

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher

NEW YORK OFFICE
Dan A. Carroll
Tribune Building

CHICAGO OFFICE
J. E. Verree
Steger Building

Advertising That Counts

In eleven months of 1917 The New York Times printed 3,410,435 agate lines more advertising under the seventeen important classifications listed below than any other New York morning newspaper.

CLASSIFICATION	TIMES Agate Lines	Second Morning Newspaper Agate Lines	Third Morning Newspaper Agate Lines	Fourth Morning Newspaper Agate Lines	Fifth Morning Newspaper Agate Lines	Sixth Morning Newspaper Agate Lines
Dry Goods & Specialty Shops	2,865,868	2,189,682	1,964,208	1,512,330	1,124,246	659,617
Real Estate & Bldg. Material	1,152,849	822,321	409,401	945,867	103,058	232,646
Financial	1,137,981	399,735	384,580	426,274	425,599	445,827
Automobiles	926,926	432,045	586,720	437,630	230,346	616,570
Publications	545,696	155,818	80,729	26,042	218,682	165,011
Resorts, Hotels & Restaurants	456,699	327,193	185,519	321,521	193,010	153,515
Men's Furnishings	322,371	234,665	169,880	52,314	243,091	58,933
Miscellaneous Display	301,658	231,674	182,030	138,362	181,650	194,501
Musical Instruments	260,768	170,443	208,419	26,109	143,532	83,579
Transportation	227,221	140,786	120,200	149,388	41,467	139,085
Schools	157,715	136,724	71,167	40,469	82,392	108,292
Foodstuffs and Confections..	141,345	65,310	92,100	21,253	61,903	20,331
Office Appliances	138,146	23,468	5,035	4,372	43,254	14,251
Boots and Shoes	113,950	64,039	76,133	21,086	19,019	18,044
Beverages	78,645	63,328	47,522	30,443	27,400	29,701
Charity and Religion	69,862	51,361	36,378	52,124	52,996	23,287
Public Service	58,773	37,446	39,514	37,841	38,750	56,457
Total Agate Lines.....	8,956,473	5,546,038	4,659,535	4,243,425	3,230,405	3,019,644
Medical Advertisements	95,002	360,822	188,508	27,590	11,173	35,439
Other Classifications	2,331,103	6,792,537	3,590,496	2,488,576	1,007,095	725,970
Complete Total AGATE LINES ...	11,382,578	12,699,397	8,438,539	6,759,591	4,248,673	3,781,053
Less Help and Situation Wanted Advertisements...	647,354	4,781,158	1,229,378	1,404,240	52,195	13,332
Total AGATE LINES Less Help and Situation Wanted.....	10,735,224	7,918,239	7,209,161	5,355,351	4,196,478	3,767,721

The average daily and Sunday net paid sale of The New York Times for the six months ended September 30, 1917, was 357,225 copies

AMERICAN STEEL CHASES.

One of the most complete factories for the manufacture of steel chases for newspaper and book work, also for steel newspaper and job galleys, is the plant of the American Steel Chase Company located at 27 Beckman street, New York, with offices at 38 Park Row, New York. This concern is especially equipped to take care of any and all orders for chases and galleys whether special or regular in size.

The company guarantees that "chases which it manufactures are made from cold drawn steel, made rigid, true and lasting with less tendency to spring on account of the special steel used; the dovetails and bars are cut and fitted by methods insuring absolute exactness so essential for perfect register work; and the corners are perfectly rigid, square and true and as unbreakable as any other portion of the chase; the same applying to the steel galleys, as the concern is equipped with special machinery to make headed steel galley using eighteen gauge special analysis steel.

THE PROVIDENCE NEWS IS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD.

The Providence Evening News celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary last week, issuing an anniversary edition on December 7. D. Russell Brown, former governor of Rhode Island, is editor and publisher of the Evening News.

The paper was founded by John L. Heaton, now in the editorial department of the New York World, in 1892.

Among the past editors of the News have been such men as Charles H. Howland, Thomas H. McElroy, Henry C. Salandri, John C. Minikins and Charles M. Inman, the predecessor of the present incumbent.

A MATTHEWS MEMORIAL.

Pupils of the late Franklin Matthews, professor in the Pulitzer School of Journalism up to the time of his death a few days ago, have undertaken to raise a fund which will be offered to the university to endow a memorial prize or scholarship. Dr.

Talcott Williams, director of the school, will take charge of the subscriptions.

AREND'S ON HASTINGS HERALD

M. H. Arends, formerly connected with the Morse International Agency and the Benjamin Kentnor Company, has been chosen editor and general manager of the Hastings (Fla.) Herald.

Mr. Arends went South several years ago and has been advertising and circulation manager of the St. Augustine (Fla.) Evening Record, of which Harry L. Brown, proprietor of the Hastings Herald, is general manager.

D. Stratford Seadeng, whom Mr. Arends succeeds, is retiring to follow other interests.

COVERING HALIFAX FROM OTTAWA.

The Halifax disaster was covered for the Ottawa (Ont.) Citizen by "Tommy" Gorman, sports editor, whose work has aroused the admiration of newspaper men in the Capital of the Dominion. Always a tireless worker, Gorman excelled himself on this occasion.

M. Grattan O'Leary, Parliamentary representative of the Journal newspaper, Ottawa, Ont., covered the Halifax disaster for these papers, and sent over some descriptive stuff that attracted widespread attention.

C. A. Robertson has revived the Browning (Mont.) Review.

OUR 1917 CHRISTMAS CARTOON

3, 4 and 5-column sizes; mats or cut sold to but one paper in a city.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

"Say, Pop!"—Everybody's Comic

The Most Conspicuous Change of Comic Service in the Past Three Years

C. M. Payne, whose genius made of "S'Matter Pop?" a wonderful study of humorous child life, is the creator of "SAY, POP!"—a comic, daily and Sunday, built about the inimitable characters that made him famous—"Pop", "Uncle Hi", the interesting household kiddies, the family cat, and "Ambrose", the irrepressible "Boy Next Door".

The "Say, Pop!" Happy Family

In his striking new work inspired by the spirit of liberal and expert directorial co-operation, Payne is more than ambitious. He enters upon his new arrangement in high spirits. His imagination is at flood tide, his eagerness and energy unlimited. His determination is to eclipse any success he may have had, to produce to a standard of quality and results far greater than he has ever attained.

"Say Pop!", the new title for Payne's work, will fail to recognize no attraction and appeal that has distinguished his earlier drawings. But it will represent more than an average popularity appeal. It will signalize Payne's best, newest ideas conceived with the objective of universal appeal. The littlest tots, the older children, all classes and ages of grown-ups—this is to be his audience.

This unique and trebly valuable newspaper feature possesses potentially every essential quality to attract, entertain and satisfy EVERY CLASS OF READER.

King Features Syndicate, Inc., has the honor of announcing an exclusive contract with Mr. Payne to serve to newspapers his future comic productions—the first releases of Sunday color pages and daily comic strips in the first week in January, 1918.

You need "SAY, POP!" as a Daily Strip. If you have a Sunday edition, you need "SAY, POP!" as a full Color Page.

Presenting Payne's New Comic daily and Sunday you will have a seven-day habit-making feature combination that will readily prove an asset of unusual value to your publication.

Reservations by wire for service are being received in large numbers. We earnestly suggest that you TELEGRAPH at once.

KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, Inc. 37 West 39th Street
NEW YORK CITY

NO BLACKLIST OF PAPERS ISSUED.

RUMORS TO THE CONTRARY AROUSE THE GOVERNMENT—THE OFFICIAL ATTITUDE EXPLAINED.

Uncle Sam will be in no haste to blacklist newspapers that are guilty of indiscretions in editorial policy in these tense times.

While taking every reasonable precaution against newspaper publications that might give aid and comfort to the enemy, the Government is not going to take snap judgment on any newspaper nor to precipitately hold any newspaper up to public condemnation because of a "first offence" under the Espionage Law or disregard of the censorship restrictions imposed via the Committee on Public Information.

This determination to go slow in reflecting upon the loyalty of any newspaper or in publicly questioning the good faith of any paper with respect to the observance of the censorship provisions was indicated at Washington this week in connection with the refutation of a rumor that the War Department is to inaugurate a newspaper "blacklist."

According to a story printed in various daily newspapers, the intelligence division of the War Department had compiled and was planning to make public a list of twenty newspapers charged with flagrant violation of the censorship rules. Not only is it declared by officials that there is nothing whatever in this report, but they are manifesting keen curiosity as to where the statement originated.

Prominent in these reports has been the statement that the Official Bulletin, the paper issued by the Committee on Public Information, stands high on the alleged list because it gave "military information in violation of its self-laid-down rules."

It has been ascertained that whereas this latest product of the great "rumor factory" at Washington was printed in a number of newspapers, it was not carried by any of the press associations nor was the name of the writer appended in any publication that was made.

War Department officials and members of the staff of the Committee on Public Information deny emphatically that there is to be any attempt to hold newspapers to the regulations imposed in the censorship by pillorying before the public any publications that transgress. The Information Committee is keeping careful tab upon all newspapers and calls the attention of the publisher and editor who are involved to any violation of the code of ethics under the censorship, but there is no disposition to force the issue in any case by giving to a heedless or indiscreet newspaper a bad name before the public.

The officials at Washington feel that, as matters now stand they must ignore or condone a certain number of infractions of the censorship rules of conduct. The censorship is, of course, a voluntary censorship and depends for its success upon the co-operation of the newspaper men. It is realized in official circles that under the conditions that obtain in the average daily newspaper office it is inevitable that there shall be a certain proportion of unintentional oversteppings into forbidden ground. News editors, telegraph editors and city editors cannot have constantly before their eyes the card of "Don'ts" issued by the Committee on Public Information.

It is suspected that there are some editors who willfully "forget" some of the censorship restrictions, which appear unnecessary and unreasonable to the experienced, practical, working newspaper man.

On the main responsibilities of the voluntary censorship scheme—publication of items involving troop and transport movements, etc.—the newspaper fraternity has almost to a man upheld the veil of secrecy, but there has not been that same blind obedience to some of the rules, the vital purport of which is not so apparent. But, be that as it may, there is no intention at the War Department at this time to attempt to create any public roll of dishonor for newspapers that have been out of bounds.

Not only does Uncle Sam disclaim any intention to boycott newspapers that take liberties under the voluntary censorship plan, but as yet the Government cannot bring itself to the idea of "shouting from the housetops" the dishonor of even those publications, that have, in effect, been convicted of treasonable activities such as are punishable under the "Trading with the Enemy Act."

NO DISLOYAL LIST.

For weeks past strong and insistent pressure has been brought to bear upon the Postmaster General to persuade him to make public the names of newspapers and periodicals which have been excluded from the second-class mails because of the publication of seditious and treasonable matter. As yet, however, the postal officials stand pat. This is not saying that the white light of "pitiless publicity" will not yet be turned upon the pacifist and pro-German publishers if they persist in slandering the republic and its government, but thus far the men in authority at the Post Office Department have resisted all attempts to induce them to make public the names of disloyal papers.

The identity of some of the papers that have been barred from the second-class mails has become generally known through other channels. For example in the case of certain Socialistic organs, the right of the Postmaster General to throw out of the second-class mails a sheet given to making rash statements has been questioned in the courts and through the newspaper accounts of such court action the general public has become acquainted with the predicament of the paper that has incurred official disfavor.

In a number of instances, too, the officials in the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General have answered specific inquiries from anxious individuals by admitting that this or that designated newspaper is no longer in the mails, but there has been no "posting" of the whole crew of delinquents.

The reluctance of the Post Office Department to come out in the open with its list of "barred newspapers" is due to long-established custom in the department with respect to publications whose second-class permits have been suspended or revoked.

In the past, newspapers have been barred from the second-class mails not in groups but individually and almost invariably the cause was personal to the publisher involved. Perhaps he used rather more of his advertising space than the department thought was ethical to advertise his own enterprises. Or, mayhap, his circulation was found to be padded or inflated by premiums or commissions so costly that there was not returned to the publisher fifty per cent of the announced subscription price.

GIVING "ANOTHER CHANCE."

Whatever the misstep of a publisher that caused the department to discipline him, it was realized at the postal headquarters that in nine cases out of ten he would, when thus "rapped," "clean house" and apply, probably successfully, for readmission to the second-class post. With such prospect that a disbarred publication would be restored to good standing, it was accounted undesirable to publish to the world that it was temporarily in disgrace.

Hence the unwritten law that secrecy was to be preserved with respect to all papers dropped from the second-class mails.

Interests that are urging the Postmaster General to turn on the light in the case of recent expulsions declare that circumstances alter cases and that the standards of times of peace cannot satisfactorily be clung to in time of war.

Furthermore they argue that the Post Office Department is regularly publishing the names of the firms and individuals against whom "fraud orders" are issued for misuse of the mails for swindling purposes, whereas their offences are in many instances less serious in consequences than those of the editors who have set out to undermine public faith and loyalty.

Prior to the passage of the Trading With the Enemy Act some of the postal officials were loath to publish the fact that any newspaper had been barred from the mails because it was felt that such denunciation would only serve in certain quarters as an advertisement for the condemned publication and would increase its newsstand sales or its circulation via channels other than the second-class mails.

However, this need no longer be a deterrent by reason of the fact that the Government now has authority to prevent the circulation by express, automobile or other carrier of a paper excluded from the mails that is in the case of special issues specifically debarred.

Up to date the Post Office Department will not even state the exact number of newspapers that have been banished from the second-class mails for treasonable utterances.

However, it is known that the list is a rather formidable one. Many newspapers that have not had the second-class privilege withdrawn permanently or indefinitely have had certain issues excluded from the mails because of disloyal contents.

All of the papers that have thus been in trouble with Uncle Sam on occasion are being carefully watched to ascertain whether repetitions of the pranks will warrant a blanket prohibition upon second-class circulation.

THE FRIARS FROLIC.

The successful debut of Frank Tinney as a female impersonator was one of the features of a Friars' Frolic which took place at the clubhouse in New York on December 8.

The Most Practical Method

A recent editorial in The Saturday Evening Post relative to economy, the curtailing of waste, and losses incurred through credit trade, stated: "A discrimination should be made in favor of those who pay cash."

In 1896 the nationally popular W. Green Stamps, founded upon the principle that cash patronage earns a discount, were introduced to American housewives.

How sound the principle is, how well the service rendered has satisfied both customer and merchant, is illustrated today in the millions of thrifty housewives who gladly "pay as they go" at thousands of progressive stores, in order to receive and enjoy the saving made possible by these discount tokens.

By liberally rewarding cash customers every merchant showing the sign "We Give W. Green Stamps" is discouraging extravagance and encouraging thrift in American homes. The Sperry System is the most practical method for dealer and consumer, because at a minimum cost to the former it returns a maximum benefit to the latter.

The SPERRY & HUTCHINSON Co.

2 West 43rd St., New York

BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER

ESTABLISHED 1748

THE BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER announces the acquisition of the Boston Sunday American—heretofore the Sunday edition of the Boston Evening American.

For more than a century the Boston Advertiser has been a week-day instructor in many New England homes, carrying salient news in accurate, dignified fashion, with distinctive criticism and comment and much real literature. It is fuller of clean news than ever before, and it is now printed every day in the year.

The Boston Daily Advertiser has thus acquired one of the strongest and most vigorous of Sunday newspapers in America—a paper which has an extraordinary dominance in circulation and influence throughout New England. The Sunday edition of the Advertiser will be known as the

ADVERTISER AND AMERICAN

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

THE SOCIALISTIC PRESS.

"ANTI-GERMAN," SAY N.Y. CALL AND APPEAL TO REASON —MASSES SUSPENDS.

Interesting developments have taken place in the attitude of leading Socialist publications since the President delivered his great war message. The New York Call, Socialist daily newspaper, whose second class mailing privilege was revoked six weeks ago by Postmaster General Burleson because of alleged hostility to the Government's war policy, has editorially accepted the declaration of aims and purposes outlined by the President in his war address.

"We have not made the slightest change in our policy," said Charles W. Ervin, editor of the Call. "Mr. Burleson and others have insistently misunderstood the Call's policy. We never have opposed the crushing of German autocracy. We never have opposed the enforcement of America's war laws. The most we have ever done was to exercise our right to demand the repeal of certain laws and to criticize Government officials."

"The editorial on the President's message is entirely in consonance with our views in the past."

The Appeal to Reason, Gerard, Kan., pioneer Socialist organ in the United States, has espoused the "war of defence" of the United States and the Allies against Prussian militarism, according to a statement on December 10 by Louis Kopelin, editor of the paper.

"President Wilson's clear and definite statement of war aims before Congress last Tuesday is mainly responsible for the 'Appeal to Reason's' espousal of the war," the statement said.

Beginning with the issue of December 22, the name of the paper will be changed to the New Appeal, "to more distinctively conform to its broader national and international policy."

In announcing its suspension, the Masses, of New York, said:

"There is no room in the United States at this time for a free magazine. The Masses has made every effort consistent with the intellectual and artistic liberty which is its being to secure from the United States Government the privilege of distribution. If we were a hard working, self supporting paper we could perhaps find means to exist without consent of the Government, but being what we are, a luxury like truth and beauty, a child of play and energetic idleness, it is financially impossible for us to survive this organized hostility."

"To those 30,000 friends who bought us and read us and believed in us every month we say farewell until a happier time. We do this with a smile, because it is well understood that our going out is only a proof and authentication of certain prophetic things we have been saying."

The Masses was barred from the mails in its August issue, and after vigorous court action the Federal court confirmed the Postmaster-General's prohibition.

On November 19 a Federal Grand Jury indicted for conspiracy under the Espionage Act six of the magazine's editors and publishers, Max Eastman, editor-in-chief; Floyd Dell, managing editor; C. Merrill Rogers, Jr., business manager; Henry J. Gluckenkamp, Arthur Young, an artist, and John Reed, a writer.

Their trials are pending.

Harry A. Moore has taken over the Sheridan Forum.

GULF COAST PRESS MEETS.

At the second annual meeting of the Gulf Coast Press Association held in Beaumont, Tex., A. R. Kriebbaum of the Beaumont Enterprise was elected president; L. M. Davis, Port Arthur Record, vice-president; C. F. Roberts, Kirbyville Banner, secretary-treasurer; T. J. Fortenberry, Kirbyville, attorney; executive committee, J. B. Powers, Silsbee Signal; G. E. Welford, Lufkin News; Gay L. Tutts, Anahuac Progress.

The address of welcome was delivered by Hon. Leon Sonfield of Beaumont. He paid a glowing tribute to the press of the county, declaring that the food conservation, Red Cross, war bonds and war Y.M.C.A. campaigns were successes because of the whole-hearted support given the nation in the present war.

S. S. Solinsky presided as toastmaster at a dinner given by the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal.

Resolutions were adopted advocating an extension of the publicity law passed by the last legislature to include the publication of the proceedings of county commissioners' courts and city councils and commissions.

The next meeting will be held at Port Arthur in April.

P. O. THORSON BUYS ANOTHER NORWEGIAN PAPER.

The Fargo (N. D.) Fram, a Norwegian weekly, has been purchased from Olshaker Brothers by P. O. Thorson, publisher and manager of the Grand Forks (N. D.) Semi-Weekly Nordmanden. The Fram was established in 1897.

The new proprietor, who is president of the Norwegian-Danish Press Association of America, insists that he will maintain political independence. In a printed statement, he told of the stormy journeys of the Norwegian publishers of the Northwest.

"After more than thirty years of efforts, it is only the Nordmanden and the Fram which have survived," he said, "and none of them can be said to have been particularly remunerative."

L. J. Siljan, editor of the Nordmanden, has been sent to Scandinavia as special correspondent for that paper. He expects to be gone about four months and will then return to his editorial post.

A.N.P.A. METHOD MAY END A TELEPHONE STRIKE.

V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento Bee, has evolved a plan for settlement of the 'phone strike, designed to meet the main objections that labor has offered to compulsory arbitration. In effect it is a federalization of a plan in force for some years between the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the three printing trade unions employed on daily papers.

The plan assumes an earnest desire both on the part of capital and labor to end the war. It calls for a national adjustment board, equally divided between capital and labor members.

PAYNE IS PROMOTED.

George M. Payne, who has just succeeded to the post of telegraph editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star, left vacant by the death of Clyde M. Allen, has been assisting in the handling of the telegraph news on that paper for the last five years. Before that time he shared for a time the newspaper life of Denver, being connected with the Rocky Mountain News.

Mr. Payne performed various services on the New York Herald, also filling positions on the Washington Post and the Washington Times.

In addition to helping out on the telegraph, Mr. Payne has been doing the book reviews for the Times-Star.

Somewhere in America

Laying submarine cable, hundreds of miles of it, to scores of isolated lighthouses is one of the telephone tasks made necessary by the war. The Bell System has also built lines connecting some two hundred coast guard stations.

It has built complete telephone systems for fifteen National Army cantonments and fifteen National Guard camps, each a city in size, and also at many naval, officer's reserve, mobilization and embarkation camps and at army and navy stations.

It has provided an enormous increase in long distance facilities throughout the country that satisfactory service may be maintained between cantonments, training camps, guard outposts, military supply stations, war industries, the National Capital and other centers of Government activity.

The Government facilities at the National Capital have already been increased three-fold and there has been a tremendous increase in local and toll facilities.

Fifteen thousand miles of telephone wire have been taken from other use for the exclusive service of the Government and some 20,000 miles of telegraph facilities also provided.

Meanwhile the Bell System has given generously of its man power, until over seven thousand men are in service or recruited for military duty.

Members of the Bell System, whether they have already gone to France or whether they have stayed at their posts to help mobilize the country for victory, are equally in the service of the Nation.

American Telephone & Telegraph Company

And Associated Companies

One Policy One System Universal Service

PAPER FIRM INCORPORATES AT BANGOR, ME.

The Great Eastern Paper Company of Bangor, Me., has been incorporated with Garret Schenck, president of the Great Northern Paper Company, and Charles W. Mullen, former member of the Maine public utilities commission, controlling the stock.

The authorized capital of the company is $1,200,000, consisting of $600,000 in bonds and $600,000 in stock.

Three hundred thousand acres of perpetual limits timberlands in the province of Quebec, Can., are owned by this company, together with authority to control all the water and water powers on the Madeleine River watershed. It also owns water power sites capable of an ultimate development of 27,000 horsepower.

The property has been cruised by American and Canadian experts who report the total stumpage value based on prices prevailing before the war as $9,700,000.

KNOW ARMITAGE?

Many persons have been defrauded in the last few weeks by William R. Armitage, who without authority has solicited subscriptions for the New York Times or the Midweek Pictorial in Havana, Birmingham, New Orleans, Louisville and Cincinnati, and pocketed the money paid over to him, says the Times.

He was some time ago authorized to solicit subscriptions in the Panama Canal Zone only.

CIGARETTE ADS IN KANSAS.

COURT STOPS ENFORCEMENT OF "ANTI" LAW FOR THE KANSAS CITY POST.

The Kansas City (Mo.) Post was granted a permanent injunction on December 10 by Judge Pollock of the Federal Court restraining the state of Kansas from enforcing the Anti-Cigarette Advertising Law, which would have prevented the sale of the Kansas City Post containing cigarette advertising in the state of Kansas.

The restraining order is against Attorney-General Brewster and other officials of the state of Kansas, preventing them with interfering with the circulation of the Post or any of its agents and newsboys, under the Anti-Cigarette Advertising Law passed by the last legislature.

The restraining order was granted several months ago by Judge John C. Pollock of the Fifth Division in the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas. Attorney Brewster then filed a motion to dismiss for want of equity, which was denied by Judge Pollock in the decision handed down December 10. He ruled that the carrying of newspapers containing cigarette advertising from the state of Missouri, where the Post is published, into the state of Kansas was interstate commerce, which is beyond the power of the state to prohibit to make criminal or punish.

One of the newsboys had been arrested for selling the Post containing a cigarette advertisement.

Edward C. Conc, the New York representative of the Kansas City Post, said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"This practically ends the case and is a great victory for the Kansas City Post and the cigarette and tobacco interests of the country, not only in Kansas but in its effect on the advertising of cigarettes in every city in the United States."

STAFF FULL AGAIN.

The Kansas City Post has recruited its editorial staff to full strength again after coming through a devastating attack at the hands of Uncle Sam's recruiting officers. Five additions to the force have been made to fill the places of the men who have gone to war.

The new members of the staff are Ross Murphy, formerly editor of the Dallas (Tex.) Dispatch; "Dan" Kellner from the Moberly (Mo.) Monitor; P. S. Dee from the Concordia (Kan.) Daily Blade; J. B. Fitzgerald from the Quincy (Ill.) Journal; and Walter Clare Martin, recently a feature writer for the New York Journal.

IMPORTANT STAFF SHIFTS ON PITTSBURG DISPATCH.

H. L. Giles, city editor of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, has been appointed to succeed A. Howard Carroll, Sunday editor, who is now in the 11th infantry, Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga. Mr. Carroll is a nephew of Colonel C. A. Rook, editor and publisher of the Dispatch.

Richard Farrell is in charge of the city department in place of Mr. Giles. Raymond Coll, night editor, has been chosen news editor, succeeding Colonel Austin Beach, deceased.

P. W. Sturm has been made night editor.

IN STATE DEFENSE.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal and Tribune recently issued a special edition for the benefit of the State Council of Defense.

TRADE LINOTYPE MARK

Youngstown Telegram On War-Time Basis

Installation of Eight New Linotypes Makes it One of Ohio's Most Up-to-date Newspaper Plants.

THE Youngstown Telegram is now using ten Multiple Magazine Linotypes—including a Model 9 (four magazines) and four Model 19s with auxiliary magazines for display composition.

Four Model 18

These two-magazine machines possess all the speed possibilities of the single-magazine Model 5, and will be used exclusively on the news and classified pages of the Telegram.

Model 18 (Two Magazine Model 5)

Model 19 (Two Magazine Model 5 with Auxiliary)

Four Model 19

These machines will not only supplement the battery of Model 18s for news and classified but the auxiliary magazines make it possible to set the display lines as well.

"The Linotype Line" is a sixteen page folder that describes all Linotype models. It will be sent for simply the asking.

Mergenthaler Linotype Co.
Tribune Building, NEW YORK

CHICAGO SAN FRANCISCO NEW ORLEANS TORONTO

LITIGATION OVER LINO-TABLER.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION CALLS HEARING FEBRUARY FOURTH.

The first summary complaint ever issued by the Federal Trade Commission was entered on December 10 against the Chicago Lino-Tabler Company, which was ordered to appear in Washington February 4 and answer charges of having violated a voluntary agreement to cease alleged unfair trade practices. Summary issuance of the complaint constitutes a precedent for drastic action by the commission.

Some months ago a competitor of the Lino-Tabler Company, which claims an invention on a slug rule used in printing establishments, complained that the Lino-Tabler Company was making false statements regarding their own invention and derogatory statements concerning the complainants' invention.

In the course of the trade commission's investigation the Lino-Tabler Company formally agreed to cease the practices complained of, but it has developed since that time, according to a statement by the commission, that the company resumed its dissemination of misstatements, and in addition influenced users of the complainant's device to write letters to the latter's customers seeking to get such customers to discredit the complaining concern's device.

If it is proved at the hearing February 4 that the Lino-Tabler Company violated its agreement, a formal order requiring it to cease and desist will be entered, disregard of which will throw the case into the hands of a Federal Court.

William C. Hollister, president and general manager of the Chicago Lino-Tabler Company, said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"Charges of unfair competition, referred to in Associated Press dispatches from Washington as having been made against the Chicago Lino-Tabler Company before the Federal Trade Commission, are the result of notifications given Linotype owners that the ruling of slug forms on their upper surface, except under Lino-Tabler license, constitutes an infringement of a score or more of claims in several patents under the sole ownership of the Lino-Tabler Company.

"On November 10, before Federal Judge Carpenter in the United States District Court at Chicago, a suit against a user of the equipment alleged to infringe Lino-Tabler patents, was heard, but the court's decision has not yet been rendered.

"The claim of the manufacturers of the alleged infringing equipment is that Lino-Tabler patents are invalid for technical reasons, which attorneys representing the Lino-Tabler Company consider frivolous and nonsensical.

"Lino-Tabler equipment was invented in Chicago seven years ago by Ashton G. Stevenson, and has been in general use by trade linotypers and state printing contractors in the principal cities of North and South America ever since.

"The equipment which the Lino-Tabler Company charges infringes its patents has been on the market several months, and emanates from Fort Worth, Tex."

HOLDS LIMERICK PARTY.

The Illinois Woman's Press Association gave a limerick party last week at the College Club rooms, Chicago.

POSSIBLE READJUSTMENTS IN BUSINESS.

BASED UPON ENGLAND'S EXPERIENCES
SINCE SHE ENTERED THE WAR—
ADVERTISING ITS SAVIOR.

By F. A. WILSON-LAWRENSON,
Sales Manager, the Welch Grape Juice Company.

[At their annual meeting in New York, Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson read this paper to the nearly two hundred members of the Association of National Advertisers who were present. Leading men and women in the advertising field of the United States received it with hearty approval.]

The members of the A.N.A. decided, although all papers read at their annual conventions are strictly confidential, to establish a precedent and allow THE FOURTH ESTATE to print the paper in full so that its influential reader clientele of newspaper publishers, advertising agents and national advertisers who could not be present at the meeting, might get the benefit of Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson's valuable advice.

Rather than condense the article, THE FOURTH ESTATE will print it in full—in installments. The first part follows and it will be continued in succeeding editions until finished.—EDITOR.]

The subject of business readjustment is one which is pressing itself on the attention of American business men with increasing effect as day succeeds day. The past thirty days have seen a radical change of heart on the part of manufacturers who at first seemed possessed with the idea that their business, their factories, were so important to the great American public that the Government would not dare disturb them; they who had turned a smiling face to financial panics. Presidential years, business disturbances, etc., and had come through with unruffled countenance; they, the successful business princes of the great American republic; should they be disturbed by a row three thousand miles away?

Is this not a great republic, a government of the people, by the people, for the people? Interference with legitimate business, even by the President of the United States, would not be tolerated for a moment; we will go our ways; "Business as usual" will be the slogan; we are patriotic, of course we are, but please understand, "Business as usual."

Probably the following incident will give you a picture of what I mean.

Recently I was called into a conference by the president of a large corporation—a conference which dealt with the subject of cutting off of a large percentage of his raw product.

His general sales and advertising manager were present. I pointed out that it was absolutely necessary that the Government reduce their raw product by at least fifty per cent, in order to meet an absolute, vital and crying need in France.

The general sales manager thereon remarked: "Do you mean to say that you are sending the stuff abroad and ruining domestic markets? If that is the case, we will show Washington they cannot handle business in a democracy in that manner."

I gently, but firmly, endeavored to point out to him that the product was absolutely necessary for France, if we expected her to stand by us and see the war through and if she did not, and should Germany win, domestic business, after all, would not be worth very much.

He was absolutely unable to comprehend that the Government must, of necessity, do everything to win this war, even though in the winning of the war and in the processes of readjustment certain lines of domestic business be hurt. In the whole conference, which lasted over an hour, not a single suggestion was put forward by the general sales manager which would indicate that he was thinking in any way of the possibility of readjusting business and possibly utilizing those plants and his sales organization for the putting on the market of a product which would help win the war.

A period of several months has now passed since we entered the war to "make the world safe for democracy," and now the several non-military and non-naval departments at Washington are endeavoring to prove that democracy is safe for the world; endeavoring to show the world in general and the central empires in particular that in times of governmental crises, democracy is a workable proposition.

They are endeavoring to do by moral suasion what other belligerent nations are doing by autocratic decree, and in spite of the former feeling of manufacturers and business men in general, patriotic democracy is winning, and we find a wonderful change of opinion and ideas on the subject of readjustments.

"The cry today is, 'What can I do, not to make more money but to serve!'"

Business interests realize as never before that for the period of the war, business will not be "as usual;" the business of the Government is to win the war; everything must be operated with that objective in mind, and if the business men of this country will only take a long look ahead, have the clarity of vision which the country has a right to expect from its business statesmen, we will not only win the war but will have put each individual business on such a basis that it will operate along lines of greater efficiency, which means greater productivity and which should mean a lower cost to the ultimate consumer.

AMERICANS MUST HAVE FAITH.

Probably the change of heart on the part of some of us has not come without a struggle and it may have been forced upon us by conditions in the matter of fuel, raw materials, labor and transportation.

It is hard to retain one's belief in the importance of one's product, when the railroads cannot provide rolling stock to move it; convictions as to the necessity of one's product to the life of the nation are somewhat shattered when the shortage of material cuts one's output fifty per cent; the belief that democracy cannot interfere with established business is undermined when one's employees are drafted into the army of victory, and the proud boast that the sun never sets on a smokeless chimney stack, is brought to naught when the Fuel Administrator announces his inability to supply coal.

The above and many other instances have brought about a new conception of the situation—a change that will, if we have the courage, be Providential in showing us new ways of using space, reducing overhead, distilling labor, finding new markets, and putting soul qualities into business, that we never before experienced.

In this pressure that has come upon us the past few weeks we see the need of planning for the next few years and in looking for guidance in those plans we have nothing in American business history to give us light. Fortunately, however, we have the experience of Great Britain in the past three years, and inasmuch as the Government of the United States is finding it profitable to draw on this experience, both in the direction of the war and the operating of business, it is well we should also endeavor to profit by Great Britain's experience.

ORDER OF READJUSTMENTS.

In Great Britain, readjustments of business made necessary on account of the war, seem to have followed somewhat the following order:

- A—Labor.
- B—Raw products.
- C—Transportation.
- D—Financing.
- E—Selling and advertising.
- F—Controlled business.
- G—Labor in controlled plants.

For the purpose of following what seems to be the chronological order of happenings, we in this article and for purposes of discussion will follow the above order.

A—Labor: In the early days of the war the manhood of Great Britain flocked to the colors by the hundreds of thousands; every industry was affected; the vision of men was limited to the fact that to meet the legions of the central powers Great Britain had only an army of approximately one hundred thousand men. Therefore the great need, as it appeared to these loyal and patriotic souls, was men. From every industry, hearth and fireside red-blooded men offered themselves on the altar of the supreme sacrifice and their sacrifice was accepted.

Then began the realization that after all troops are only one of the essentials in the winning of the war, especially on the part of an unprepared nation as compared to one fully prepared; a realization that one hundred thousand soldiers had only a supply of twenty million rounds of small armed ammunition, as compared with Germany's four thousand million rounds; a realization of the tremendous needs of an army not only of ammunition, large and small, but of guns, clothing, horses, transportation, foodstuffs, etc., brings out the fact that in the question of man power, other considerations must be recognized besides that of an army of several million men.

After several months of labor wastage, steps were taken to restrict enlistments of those necessary to certain industries. Forty-five thousand skilled workers were brought back from the trenches and put to work where they would count for more than they would in Flanders. Thus Great Britain gave us our first lesson in the preparation for war. Fortunately for us we have profited by the experience and in putting through our draft law, the selective feature was included.

Bringing these men back from the trenches did not solve Great Britain's problem by any means. Her army had to be expanded by many millions and still further plans had to be made.

What next? Why speeding up of industry and the lengthening of the working day, of course. Here is where we may profit once more, as we endeavor to make readjustments in our manufacturing life and processes.

In the matter of speeding up workers, lengthening the working day and later the employment of women, the labor unions raised their voices and brought matters to a standstill. The then present hours of labor, percentage of production and in some industries the elimination of women were conditions which had been won only after years of hard work and agitation. To surrender these rights now would be to surrender the principles held most dear; rather than surrender many unions ordered strikes, and once more chaos came upon the land.

Negotiations by the Board of Trade (now the Ministry of Munitions) led by England's "Man of the Hour," David Lloyd George, were successful in arranging a truce between the contending interests, and the labor unions agreed to the temporary modification and elimination of restrictions upon the following conditions, which were agreed to by the Government officials.

1. The rules and practices were to be changed only for the period of the war.
2. No changes were to be made which unnecessarily affected established conditions.
3. Capital was to receive no advantage from the struggle between capital and labor. For example, profits were to be limited and wages controlled by Government tribunals.

Upon these conditions labor agreed that there should be no stoppage on any products required for the satisfactory completion of the war.

This agreement changed certain conditions of labor in a fundamental manner.

1. In certain classes of plants strikes are not lawful.
2. In such plants increases in wages may be asked only to offset increased cost of living.
3. Restrictions by labor unions against the so-called "dilution of labor" by the employment of women and of unskilled labor have been laid aside for the war; also restrictions upon individual output.

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN.

The procedure regarding the employment of women illustrates the situation. When men went to the front, women desired and the Government wanted them to take the places of men in the factories. But union rules forbade employment of women in many kinds of work. These rules were relaxed upon the following conditions, and more than one and one-half millions of women have in consequence been put upon men's work.

1. No woman was to be employed if any man was available for the work, even at a distance.
2. Men were to be re-employed upon the work when they returned from the war.
3. The standards of pay were to be reduced—that is, the minimum wage for men would apply to women.

From the early days of the war, right through to the present time Great Britain has continually had to make readjustments in the labor situation. At the present moment sixteen-eight industries with wide ramifications may not employ men between the ages of eighteen and sixty-one.

This list will probably be extended in the near future and this is indicative of the extent to which England has gone after three years of war in her efforts to take men from the less essential industries and concentrate national effort on industries engaged in war work and other work of national importance. This list is available.

B—Raw Products: In Great Britain, as well as in America, large industries

THE GOSS COMET

Prints 4, 6 or 8-page Newspapers from Type Forms and Roll Paper

This Press Will Increase Your Profits
Let Us Tell You How

Hundreds of Satisfied Users
Descriptive Literature
Gladly Sent

THE GOSS PRINTING PRESS
COMPANY

16th Street and Ashland Avenue
CHICAGO, ILL.

have been developed which while contributing to the well being and comfort of the nation are not really in the true sense of the term "essential." These industries in addition to utilizing valuable and necessary labor also used up products of which there was now a scarcity, or which were needed in industries considered by the Government as essential to the success of the war.

I will not outline the industries, because considerable difference of opinion may develop as to their essential qualities. Suffice it to say that the British Government had very definite ideas on the subject and that our own Government is not likely to ignore Great Britain's experience and example. Some industries in America are already beginning to realize that the Government has definite views regarding essentials and non-essentials.

These industries in Great Britain were either induced or ordered to re-adjust their business in such a way as to make them an asset in the empire rather than a liability and a drain. Those who were wise and patriotic had a vision of the necessities of the case and went out to meet the situation before the Government had to step in. They are today reaping the rewards of business vision.

C—Transportation: The taking over by the Government under a board of general managers the transportation facilities of the country, assured essential industries securing adequate transportation for their products. Thus industries which were inclined to be recalcitrant have been brought into line. Our Government will undoubtedly come to the place where all transportation facilities will be taken over, but in the meantime the priority board is at work and possibly some of you have already experienced the result of some of its efforts.

Whether we like it or not, we have to face the situation that there is a shortage of transportation, which means another pin-prick to force some of us to the place where we will readjust our production to meet the war situation.

FINANCING.

D—Financing: The law in Great Britain which requires a certain percentage of net profits is to be turned over to the Government has resulted in a large measure in the abolition of profiteering. It also has resulted in larger salaries being paid to the executives of corporations and employees.

Special legislation was put on the statute books to deal with utilization and conservation of finance in relation to industry. As an example, new investments can be made abroad only under exceptional circumstances which insure national advantages and new domestic enterprises may not be financed without approval of the treasury.

It is well to realize that practically the only industries which can be financed today in Great Britain are those which are considered as essential to the successful conduct of the war.

SELLING AND ADVERTISING.

E—Selling and Advertising: Perhaps in no department of commerce has there been such advance and improvements as in selling and advertising. The restricting of employment of commercial travelers to ages below eighteen and above sixty-one in over sixty industries has resulted in more efficient methods of selling and distribution being worked out. Selling methods have been modernized and possibly for the first time in British commercial history has the value of selling by mail been appreciated.

In advertising, nothing so demonstrated the value of the efficiency of advertising as a factor in increasing sales and decreasing selling cost as the success of the various advertising campaigns put through by the British Government.

The story of these campaigns is too well known to make it necessary to go into details here. Perhaps, however, a few instances from the experience of Great Britain's merchant prince, Gordon Selfridge, will be interesting and instructive.

Says Gordon Selfridge: "When war broke out, it was the general opinion that the end had come for business. Many merchants instantly reduced staffs and cut wages. The second or third day of the war I was waited upon by a committee of buyers who informed me that they were certain of heavy losses and that they wished to see the war through with me on a half-salary basis.

"But I wasn't sure that business was going to be bad and with thanks for their loyal and good spirit I told every one in the house that Selfridge would make no changes for the present.

"To that stand do we owe something of our present prosperity. By keeping our brightest face, spending more money for advertising and serving our patrons with greater attention we have increased our business to a volume of over $15,000,000—a gain of $2,500,000 dollars in one year.

Mr. Selfridge further demonstrated the value of advertising by his action shortly after the first disastrous daylight air raid of last July. Shortly after the raid, Selfridge advertising began carrying a bold notice to the effect that every person in Selfridges' during an aeroplane attack on London was insured free, without preliminary registration, to the amount of $5,000 for death directly resulting from the raid. The big benefit of this innovation has been to attract public attention to the massive concrete construction of the store, incidentally to attract greater throngs of shoppers. (To be continued next week.)

WATSON IN ST. THOMAS.

Frank L. Watson, late of the Calgary News-Telegram, and more recently connected with the Windsor (Ont.) Press, has been appointed advertising manager of the St. Thomas (Ont.) Times. Mr. Watson is a native of Sydney, Australia. In addition to his experience in Canada, he spent seven years in the advertising business in London, England, his work there taking him to the principal cities in the United Kingdom.

The plant of the Lyons (Neb.) Mirror has been destroyed by fire.

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING CO.

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
256 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

MACKINNON HEAD OF INTERSTATERS.

CIRCULATORS ARE FORMALLY ORGANIZED WITH BIG OBJECTS IN VIEW.

Uniformity in distribution of daily newspapers in training camps; the effect of various child labor laws on circulation during war times; methods for improving unsatisfactory mail service and means for bringing about closer co-operation between circulation managers, were among the important subjects discussed at the organization meeting of the Inter-State Circulation Managers Association at the Hotel Adelphi, Philadelphia, on December 11.

Organization of the new sectional association was perfected Tuesday by adoption of a constitution and by-laws and by election of these officers:

President, A. E. MacKinnon, circulation director of the Philadelphia North American; vice-president, Fred I. Cook, circulation manager of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican; secretary-treasurer, A. R. Michener, circulation manager of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph, and the following directors: Frank A. Clark, Philadelphia Public Ledger; J. E. Starkweather, Wilmington (Del.) Morning News; J. H. Zerby, Pottsville (Pa.) Republican, and Henry C. Carpenter, Lancaster (Pa.) News-Intelligencer.

Tuesday's meeting was an enthusiastic affair and representative circulation managers from every part of the five states included were present. Many letters endorsing the association and pledging support were received from others who could not be present.

The Inter-State Circulation Managers Association will include circulation men from Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and District of Columbia.

It is modeled along the lines of similar sectional organizations in United States and Canada. Its object is the "mutual enlightenment of its members and the advancement of the circulation departments of the newspapers with which they are connected." Eighteen charter members signed the roll.

A drive for additional members will be directed by the following committee with a view to making this the largest of the various sectional organizations: Fred I. Cook, chairman; J. H. Zerby, J. H. Scales, J. E. Starkweather, Charles T. Buck, M. E. Zepp, H. B. Reid, Charles K. Blosser, Henry C. Carpenter, J. E. Hasenack and E. S. Dobson.

CHILD LABOR LAWS.

After discussing the many problems brought about by war conditions in connection with the rigid enforcement of the state child labor laws, a committee was appointed to endeavor to find a solution. This committee includes Fred I. Cook, chairman; A. R. Michener, Frank C. Clark, James L. Farley and H. B. Reid. This committee will meet in Harrisburg, Pa., in the near future.

In discussing present unsatisfactory mail service many instances of postal inefficiency were brought to light. That the present system of paying the railroads space instead of pound rates for transportation of mails tends to impede efficient service was the general opinion of the circulation managers.

The method used by the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph in bringing complaints to the attention of the Post Office Department in Washington was explained by A. R. Michener, circulation manager. The Telegraph mails with each expiration notice or letter for mail subscription solicitation a circular, as described in a recent issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE. In this circular subscribers are requested to write direct to the Postmaster-General every time they miss a paper.

At the suggestion of President MacKinnon, endorsed by Mr. Dohson, it was decided to take this circular as a standard form and to urge all newspapers to adopt this method that real conditions may be brought to the attention of the Postmaster-General.

Frank A. Clark, of the committee appointed recently to arrange with War Department officials for a uniform method of newspaper distribution in the camps, reviewed the work of this committee and stated that definite regulations will be formulated in the near future.

The project to organize the Inter-State Circulation Managers Association was launched at the recent I.C.N.A. convention in Atlanta by A. E. MacKinnon of Philadelphia; A. R. Michener of Harrisburg and a number of other circulation men from that section. The first meeting was held in Philadelphia a few weeks ago to discuss tentative plans and Tuesday's successful meeting resulted.

NEXT MEETING IN FEBRUARY.

Another meeting will be held in Philadelphia the second week in February, at which time the date for the scheduled meetings will be set.

Charter members of the association include:

A. E. MacKinnon, Philadelphia North American; A. R. Michener of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Telegraph; Frank A. Clark of the Philadelphia Evening Ledger; J. E. Hasenack, Philadelphia Press and Telegraph; E. S. Dobson, Philadelphia Public Ledger; J. H. Zerby, Pottsville (Pa.) Republican; M. E. Zepp, Washington (D. C.) Times; J. H. Scales, Reading (Pa.) News, Times and Telegram; F. E. Starkweather, Wilmington (Del.) Morning News.

H. B. Reid, Lebanon (Pa.) Report; Henry C. Carpenter, Lancaster (Pa.) News-Intelligencer; Charles T. Buck, Chester (Pa.) Times; D. K. Hoch, Reading (Pa.) Eagle; Fred I. Cook, Scranton (Pa.) Republican; Charles K. Blosser, York (Pa.) Dispatch; C. J. Cyle, Wilmington (Del.) Journal; James L. Farley, Philadelphia North American, Edward Gans, of New York, honorary member.

THREE REMEDY METHODS FOR FRAUDULENT ADS.

In speaking at the final session of the Association of National Advertisers' annual meeting in New York last week, Richard H. Lee, representing the New York Tribune's campaign for "Truth in Advertising," suggested three methods for remedying the existing evils of fraudulent advertising—suggestion, publicity and criminal prosecution.

"The public has a right to believe the advertising it reads. An advertising man who says what is not true about the product he has to sell lies, and he lies to make money," said Mr. Lee in conclusion.

"The advertiser has a right to have his advertising believed. If any one of your legitimate business men were to purchase a home in a restricted neighborhood and an undesirable neighbor were to move in that neighborhood, he would cry loudly against the depreciation of his property, and if he did not, his wife would."

"Then, why, may I ask you, do you men who depend absolutely upon advertising for your sustenance accept newspaper neighbors in the form of some low, vile, loathsome and indecent medical advertisement or some lying piece of financial copy?"

GORDON CAME FROM RANKS OF NEWSPAPER MEN.

Kilbourn Gordon, who has recently been made press representative for the Estate of Henry B. Harris, received his newspaper experience on the Washington Post and the Washington Herald. For four years he was a dramatic reviewer, first on the Post and later on the Herald. He left the latter in 1913 to join the staff of the late William Harris, for whom he handled publicity for the much discussed Brieux play, "Damaged Goods."

The following season Mr. Gordon handled the publicity during the Chicago run and later on tour for the Broadhurst-Schomer play, "To-Day."

KILBOURN GORDON.

He then managed David Bispham, publicizing and managing that singer and his company on a tour that embraced the far places and the near. He deserted the "legitimate" for the movies, becoming general manager and publicity director for the Frank Powell Producing Corporation, later being associated with the William Fox Company, for which he handled the pictures playing at the Globe Theater.

Mr. Gordon is now engaged in promoting the interests of "The Pipes of Pan," current at the Hudson Theater.

SURGEONS TABOO SUSPICIOUS MEDICAL ADVERTISING.

At the annual meeting of the board of governors of the Society of American Surgeons, held in Washington on December 10, a resolution was passed providing, in substance, that the society should urge, with all possible force, upon all medical journals not doing so already, to refuse to accept advertisements of patent medicines or medicines whose names are copyrighted, unless the formula is presented with the advertisement and approved by competent authorities before accepted by the publication to which it is brought.

STRIKE IN ROME.

No newspapers were published in Rome, Italy, on November 30 except one which employs non-union labor, owing to the strike of printers who demand higher wages in view of the excessive cost of living. The publishers refused the demands until December 1, when the price of newspapers was raised to two cents.

NEW FEATURE AND AD COPY SERVICE FOR NEWSPAPERS.

Miss Katherine L. Buell, formerly of the staff of Collier's Weekly, later of Harper's Weekly, and more recently managing editor of the National Editorial Service, has opened an office at 225 Fifth avenue, New York, for newspaper features and advertising copy, in partnership with MISS KATHERINE L. BUELL.

Captain Robert H. Wilder, nephew of the late Herbert M. Wilder, cartoonist. Miss Buell was a nurse with the American ambulance corps in France.

The firm is at present handling the foreign correspondence of Norman Hapgood and says it has made plans for a number of well known contributors during the year 1918.

Captain Wilder was recently sent abroad on an important mission by the Government.

NEWSPAPER MEN WERE FORTUNATE.

Although all the windows in the Halifax Herald office were broken by the explosion last week nobody was injured. A telegram from the Herald says:

"Dockyard and all north to Fairview and west to Exhibition Building and also north to Dartmouth wiped out. Rest of city windowless. Probably 1,000 killed. All Herald windows and north side of Dennis Building windows, also east and north windows of homes smashed and all houses in Dartmouth and Bedford similarly wrecked. We all escaped uninjured."

We Spend More Than $500,000

per year to produce the features which have created the greatest newspaper following in the world.

"Hearst Features Always Lead"

Write for booklet "A Half-Million Dollar Feature Service."

International Feature Service

720 Seventh Ave., New York City

The William L. Betts Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bldg., NEW YORK

HELPING MAIL IN NEW YORK.

SECOND CLASS TO BE WEIGHED IN PRINTING OFFICE—NEW DELIVERY TERMINALS.

Postmaster Patten of New York has taken steps to relieve the congestion of the trucks and second class mail at the terminals in the city at once, and this improvement will start today.

To accomplish this the post office will furnish weighers and all publications will be weighed at the printing offices, where the bulk of such printing companies' tonnage is sufficient to warrant it.

Suitable space must also be provided at printing offices where the separation of mails can be made under the supervision of railway mail postal clerks, as such space for car separations is not available on the sidings where freight cars are sorted.

The freight or "blue tag" mails, which have been weighed at printing offices, will be delivered by the publishers direct to freight cars (Pennsylvania Railroad, 37th street and 11th avenue, between 7 a. m. and 4 p. m.; New York Central Railroad, 35th street and 11th avenue, between 7 a. m. and 4.30 p. m.)

This will facilitate not only the freight mail in getting it on board cars much more quickly than heretofore, but will relieve the congestion at the New York Central and Pennsylvania terminals so that the weeklies and other fast mail can be handled much more speedily.

In the event of space being secured for a freight terminal at 34th street and 11th avenue prior to December 15, 1917, all mails for dispatch by the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads shall be delivered to that terminal.

The employment of additional porters by the publishers will not be necessary under this plan.

The best way in which the New York publishers can co-operate with the Post Office officials is by completely routing their subscription lists and by making deliveries at the terminals as early in the day as possible.

NEWSPAPER UNEARTHS THE SLACKERS.

Numerous slackers from American military service have been uncovered by the New York Herald's exclusive publication of the list of persons who registered as enemy aliens in the state military census.

That is the latest good that has come to the attention of the Federal officials in what has been described by Theodore Roosevelt as "a great patriotic service" on the part of the Herald.

Aside from unmasking the nests of German secret agents, paid and vol-

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg., NEW YORK

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

untary, who have been posing as loyal citizens or friendly aliens, the list, as published from day to day, has revealed the names of men who are naturalized American citizens.

At the time of the state military census they described themselves as subjects of Germany, thereby hoping to avoid compulsory military service in the ranks of the American Army.

ARE "TYING CONTRACTS" LEGAL?

The Federal Trade Commission has begun an investigation into a "tying contract" which, it is alleged, the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia has with the wholesale distributors of publications throughout the United States, which is believed to be in violation of Section 3 of the Clayton Act.

A provision in the contract is to the effect that any distributor who handles publications of any concern in competition with the Curtis company will not be permitted to handle those of the latter company.

Hearings were held last week in New York, at which representatives of several publishing houses competing with the Curtis magazines were questioned.

No decision has yet been announced.

The complaint against the large publishing concern is based upon its agreements with dealers throughout the country that they shall not handle rival periodicals. This arrangement, the Crowell Publishing Company and other concerns assert, is in violation of the Clayton Act.

A similar complaint was made some time ago in the Federal courts and resulted in a victory for the Curtis Publishing Company.

So far the Federal Trade Commission proceedings have been confined to the taking of testimony as to the nature of the agreements between the Curtis Publishing Company and magazine distributors.

HALLENBECK NOW WITH EDDY

M. F. Hallenbeck, recently sales manager of the Prestoplate Company, formerly with the United States Printing & Lithographing Company, has joined the New York office of the Charles H. Eddy Company, daily newspaper representative.

NEW MONTREAL DAILY.

A new English daily, the Truth, devoted to Liberal interests, has made its first appearance in Montreal.

Service Flags

FOR THE HOME, OFFICE, CHURCH, FACTORY, PRESS CLUBS, SCHOOLS AND FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

All Sizes—Low Prices—Immediate Delivery.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes. Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

A group of newspaper circulation managers held a conference in the office of A. E. McKinnon, circulation director of the Philadelphia North American, on December 5 with Major Kimball and Mr. Coffin of the Commission on Training Camp Activities.

The meeting was for the purpose of trying to devise a means of properly distributing newspapers at the various army camps. Mr. McKinnon is preparing a proposition for submission to the War Department.

In order to cultivate interest in the Capital Carrier, the junior paper of the circulation department of the Des Moines Capital, prizes are being offered to the carrier who writes the best article on given subjects, mostly along circulation lines.

The Capital Carrier is a new "junior" being published by the circulation department of the Des Moines Capital for the welfare of its carriers.

L. T. Ward, city circulator of the Capital, is editor of this house organ.

The Philadelphia North American has just closed a contest open to subscribers in which $2,000 was offered in cash prizes. The problem was to find out how many times the name of the North American could be formed from the letters in a chart that was printed.

John ("Jack") Johnson, formerly assistant circulation manager of the New York Tribune, has been appointed circulation manager, succeeding Lawrence W. Keyes, now manager of the Philadelphia office of the Pictorial Review.

Mr. Keyes went to the Tribune from the Bridgeport (Ct.) Standard, where he managed the advertising and circulation departments. Previous to his employment in Bridgeport, he was an assistant in the circulation department of the New York Tribune. A large part of his training he received with the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, where he was employed for more than ten years.

Requests of men registered in the draft for copies of the questionnaire that is to be used as the basis for selecting men called for the second contingent of the National army have

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric Bulletin Machines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.

Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you one?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

PROSPERITY EDITIONS

J. A. McAVOY

National Exchange Bank Building
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

been answered by the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle in the publication of a copy of the official Government booklet, along with valuable additional information for those affected by the draft.

The Standard Junior is being published for the carriers of the San Angelo (Tex.) Standard.

The San Francisco Chronicle has arranged to give its readers a new and complete edition of the Bible.

OHIO NEWSIES VOLUNTEER FOR CHARITY EDITOR.

Members of the Ohio Newsboys' Association, under the leadership of their newly elected president, Charles B. Wolfe, will sell the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, just prior to Christmas, especially to raise funds with which to buy clothing and shoes for needy school children.

The date of the sale has been fixed for December 22, and the members hope to raise $10,000, which is $2,000 more than was realized last year.

Wolfe was chosen to head the organization last week, succeeding Edward C. Turner.

Other officers elected are: Jack Ward, vice-president; Garrett M. Cotter, secretary; Stanley G. Borthwick, sergeant-at-arms; John W. Kaufman, William H. Seddon, John G. Price, Joseph E. Frillman and Maurice Langan, trustees.

PURCHASE IN FORT WAYNE

The Fort Wayne Evening Sentinel has been purchased by the Fort Wayne News, an afternoon paper. Both papers will be issued separately for the present.

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS and PERIODICALS to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing. Write for particulars.
812-816 East 33d St. NEW YORK

REVIVED BOSTON ADVERTISER.

FAMOUS OLD STANDARDS TO BE RE-ESTABLISHED BY W. R. HEARST.

"Throughout the century and a half of its existence the Boston Advertiser has stood forth as a distinctive light and it is this high standard for discernment, accuracy and public spirit which the new ownership faces as a challenge. Daily and Sunday the old Advertiser is to be renewed in all the currents that make for vitality until it shall again be peerless in its field."

That was the pledge William R. Hearst made when his Northeastern Publishing Company, with Charles M. Palmer, president, purchased the Boston Daily and Sunday Advertiser a few days ago and when, subsequently, the Sunday Advertiser took over the Boston Sunday American on December 1.

By the transaction Mr. Hearst obtained a morning newspaper in Boston, and the Advertiser's Associated Press membership news service for it and his Sunday paper, supplementing the International News Service. He now issues the Morning Advertiser at two cents; the Evening American at one cent; and the Sunday Advertiser and American at five cents.

Mr. Hearst has set out characteristically to immediately make good on his pledge to the Advertiser.

As the active head of the Advertiser he has appointed E. A. Westfall to be publisher. For several years past Mr. Westfall has been business manager of the Boston American and prior to that he was business manager of the New York Globe.

To be associated with him is being assembled a brilliant coterie of business experts and writers.

The managing editor of the Daily Advertiser and Sunday Advertiser is James Reardon; and the editor is Lily Richards.

F. L. E. Gauss of New York has been appointed advertising director.

No announcement has been made as to a circulation manager.

Nor has it been decided who will succeed Mr. Westfall as business manager of the Boston American.

As is Mr. Hearst's method in all other cities where he has two newspapers, the Boston Advertiser and the Boston American each has a separate publisher.

With Mr. Westfall as publisher of the Advertiser, John D. Bugar continues as publisher of the American as in the past.

All efforts are being concentrated on making the Advertiser a conservative business men's and home newspaper. The Daily Advertiser has always made a special appeal to men interested in finance and business and will now offer as complete (and if possible better) information in all lines of business as is given by any daily paper in the country.

Its stock market reports will be covered by three famous writers on the Boston and New York Stock Exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade.

Broadway Wall, with a reputation as one of the best posted journalists on Wall Street, is covering New York. W. H. Ross financial editor of the Advertiser, is covering Boston, and a general daily observation on all financial markets is being written by "Boersmanier" one of the keenest observers of the stock market.

Joseph S. Pritchard, nationally recognized as one of the grain market authorities of the world, will report on that commodity.

For years the Advertiser's shipping news has been widely noted for its completeness. It contains detailed reports of the weather from all the important shipping centers, and all the news that is permissible to print with reference to the movements of vessels.

Various lines of business will be covered daily and the fullest reports on the woolen, allied markets, cotton and cotton manufacture, hides, leather, boots and shoes, dye stuffs, metals, insurance, waste and dry goods, will all receive most adequate attention.

A daily cartoon by the famous "Raemaeker"; "Ye Towne Gossip," by K. C. B.; a column on "Today," by one of the strongest newspaper writers; a department on art conducted by Jean Nutting Oliver; a department of music under the direction of Louis C. Elson; a department on "Health and Pure Food," by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and articles on science by Edgar Lucien Larkin, director of Lowe Observatory, are among the new strong features of the Advertiser.

The general news of the world is furnished by the International News Service and the Associated Press.

HISTORY OF THE ADVERTISER.

Here is the interesting life record of the Advertiser, which furnishes the foundation for Mr. Hearst's newest business enterprise.

The Boston Advertiser was established as a weekly paper by Samuel Adams in 1748. It has been issued as a daily paper since 1813 and is Boston's oldest daily of continuous publication. Its history is coterminous with the history of American letters and some of New England's most famous men have contributed to its columns.

Its prestige as a power in the intellectual life of Boston dates from the year 1814, when the paper came under the ownership and wise editorial control of Nathan Hale, who directed its policy for an entire generation. He was the first printer in those parts to drive presses with steam power. He also introduced the political editorial and won a widespread reputation for breadth of views and for high ideals.

Hale trained his three sons, Charles, Edward Everett and Nathan, Jr., to assist him and at his death they took over the management, Charles acting as chief editor, with Edward Everett as a regular contributor. The paper was printed at that time in Court street, on the site of the printing shop in which Benjamin Franklin learned his trade. Later it moved to 248 Washington street. In 1904 it was located at 309-11 Washington street. Its present home is 82 Sumner street.

During the Hale regime James Russell Lowell and John G. Whittier were among the frequent contributors.

Indeed, few of the stars of the literary constellation which shone so brightly during this golden age of American letters failed to proffer their writings for first publication in the Advertiser, which Lord Bryce once called "The New England Bible."

In the early seventies the paper passed under the editorship of Delano A. Goddard, and he threw special emphasis on book reviews, musical, art and dramatic criticism, shipping news and precise English.

Other editors and writers who poured their best energies into its columns included Professor Dunbar, later of Harvard; E. F. Walters, Edward Stanwood, Henry A. Clapp, who as a dramatic critic rated alongside William Winter, and Samuel W. McCall, present governor of Massachusetts.

Mr. McCall was editor-in-chief in 1888 and for a time part owner in a group including James W. Dunphy, Charles H. Adams and William E.

Barrett. In 1914 the Advertiser was purchased of the Barrett estate by Charles Sumner Bird and it is now sold by the latter to the Hearst ownership. The more recent editorial control was exercised by Herbert P. Underwood and afterward by Guild A. Copeland.

MORE HEARST CHANGES.

Several other changes have been made in the management of the Hearst newspapers since those announced in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week.

William B. Woodhead, who recently has been in charge of the advertising of the American Weekly Magazine, has been made advertising manager of the Chicago Examiner.

A. J. Kobler, who recently left the New York Globe to join the Hearst newspapers in New York, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Woodhead.

A. R. Eley, late of the Leslie-Judge publications, has joined the Hearst forces to assist Mr. Kobler.

The International Magazine Company, New York, has chosen the following as officers:

G. L. Wilson, president; Joseph A. Moore, vice-president; Julian M. Gerard, treasurer; and W. G. Langdon, secretary.

N. Y. TIMES AGAIN AIDING 100 NEEDIEST CASES.

The New York Times followed its annual custom on December 9 in presenting a Christmas appeal for the "One Hundred Neediest Cases."

These hundred comprise a selected few from the rolls of four great charitable organizations. Every case in the hundred is a case of pressing immediacy. All of them must be relieved at once.

The Times has reason to be glad over the splendid response of its readers to the appeal of the One Hundred Neediest Cases in former years. The first list was published in 1912, and the contributions reached $3,500. In 1913 the amount was $7,927. It increased to $13,041 in 1914, $29,844 in 1915, and $54,782 in 1916.

Every cent of the money contributed goes direct to the people who need it. No deduction is made for any expense incurred by the charitable organization investigating the case, or for any other purpose whatsoever. The contribution goes without delay and in toto to the case for which it is marked, or, if that specific need has already been met by earlier gifts, the donor's permission is asked to transfer his contribution to a similar or equally pressing case.

All the cases are, of course, presented anonymously. Where names are used for convenience, they are fictitious.

Widows for whom aid is asked are ineligible for state pensions.

The four organizations from the records of which the 100 cases have been chosen are: The Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Charity Organization Society, the State Charities Aid Association, the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

Money may be sent to the organizations reporting the cases or direct to the New York Times.

DID NOT FILE TRANSLATION.

Max Taschenberger, editor and publisher of the Waterbury (Ct.) Beecher, has been arrested, charged with mailing copies of the paper printed in a foreign language without filing an English translation of the articles with the postmaster.

C. J. Zook has purchased the Van Meter (Ia.) Reporter.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS MAKES STAFF CHANGES.

A number of important changes and additions to both the editorial and business staffs of the International News Service have been announced.

Stanley Reynolds, Washington correspondent for the Munsey papers, will take charge of the Washington bureau at night. D. D. Edwards will remain with the bureau.

John A. Jarmuth, who has been in charge of the Seattle bureau of the I.N.S., has been transferred to Chicago, where he will look after Western business as successor to Guy Fisher.

Mr. Fisher will become manager of the Daily Racing Form at Buffalo, N. Y., on January 1.

A. W. Park, whose news service experience was gained with the Associated Press and United Press, succeeds Fred Turbyville as bureau manager at Cleveland.

Hillard Garrison, formerly night state manager of the Associated Press at Indianapolis, has succeeded Will S. Neal as Indiana state manager.

W. E. Moss, coming from the Western Newspaper Union, has become member of the travelling organization and has been assigned to an important territory. Mr. Moss has been with the United Press for six years.

A JUDGMENT SUIT.

The Lewis Publishing Company, New York, publisher of the Morning Telegraph, has filed a judgment claim against Alexander Stathopoulos for $505.25.

C. C. Main has been selected as business manager of the Newcastle (Wyo.) News Journal, just sold to a stock company by W. C. Carleton.

Newspapers With "Advertisers' Circulation"

Read by people of standing in communities profitable to advertisers.

The Detroit Journal

Local advertisers praise it for results—readers trust it for truth.

The Toledo Blade

A great newspaper that in every way justifies its fame.

The Newark Star-Eagle

A medium of selling strength—now 50,000 strong.

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
Managers of National Advertising
New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XVIII.

PRICE MAINTENANCE—TALK DIRECTED TO PUBLISHERS OF NEWSPAPERS UP TO 25,000 CIRCULATION.

By EDMUND WALKER,
Times Building, New York City.

A great deal is being written regarding price maintenance, its effects on the consumer and manufacturer.

Publishers all over the country are bewailing the rising prices on their commodities.

Commissions are investigating the high cost of news print, and still the small publisher is struggling against overwhelming odds without actually doing anything to set matters right.

I am in a peculiar position in my work among publishers. Installing costing systems in small and large newspapers means that I see into the heart of every business organization—and, in fact, tell the publisher what it costs him to produce advertising—if he knew it I would not be there.

Publishers address meetings and talk among themselves, but I see the inside in cold figures and feel that perhaps these experiences will help others—if generally known.

Two weeks ago a publisher of a daily with a circulation of only 5,200 called me in to organize something of a business office. He was a good job printer, but had had no experience as a publisher excepting with this particular newspaper. Time did not allow me to make a thorough investigation, but after two hours' talk with him—he kept no books but a "blotter"—I managed to form a fairly accurate idea of his business.

My estimate was that he was running at a loss of about $60 per week and that his job printery was paying for this loss and still making him a small profit on which he existed.

He had published this paper for three years with the same advertising rates—his was the only paper in the town. Without showing him my figures, which had been compiled from estimates and from the general conversation—I asked him to take a different view of the newspaper project and to imagine that I was the owner of the paper and had approached him with a view to obtaining a quotation for printing 5,200 copies of that paper every day. He looked at it from a job printer's viewpoint now and made his quotation accordingly.

Comparing that figure with the average circulation and advertising revenue, we found a loss of $57.65 per week—and then he realized that he must be running at a loss. It was merely a different way of looking at it.

The object in explaining this is that it is not an isolated case—there are hundreds of small publishers who have no conception of what they are doing and who spend their time wondering how some commission will come out on the latest "investigation"—all this time the news print manufacturers who are properly organized are making money—and making it fast.

There is the most complete lack of organization among small publishers.

SEE FROM THE OTHER SIDE.

It is far easier to raise advertising rates and sell the commodity of advertising space at a higher figure than practically any other commodity in existence, because it is a quasi-monopoly. The only reason it may seem hard for the publisher to get more for his commodity is that the publisher is not the consumer.

Eighty to eighty-five per cent of your advertising is local. If the merchant is not going to buy your space or the space of your competitor—where will he advertise?

But such is not the case with the commodity which he sells and which you complain about being so high. If you do not wish to buy from him, you deal with the mail order houses and with out-of-town concerns—he cannot do that with advertising.

You can force your rates up to the cost of circularizing the number of your readers—that is your only competition—outside of yourself.

Another publisher of a daily in the state of Kansas having a circulation of almost 2,000 came into my office.

He was convinced that he was earning a profit of about $75 per week. He kept no proper set of books and carried a good deal of job work. His estimates—on which he was basing his advertising rates—omitted to calculate the following expenses—his salary, interest on his capital, depreciation, and he carried no insurance.

After allowing for these items it was seen that he was running at a loss of about $30 per week.

CO-OPERATION IS LACKING.

It is not generally known that among the publishers of newspapers with circulations of from 1,000 to 25,000 there exists a hopeless disregard of the cost of production when setting advertising rates.

Publishers with circulations of from 25,000 to 50,000 pay some regard to the cost of production, but usually their figures are estimates and inaccurate.

All publishers seem to ignore the fact that they are handling a quasi-monopoly.

What is a monopoly?

The dictionary states that it is an exclusive selling privilege.

It is really, however, the absolute right to fix prices, and to base prices—not on the cost of production only.

Publishers all ignore the fact that they have within their reach the most powerful monopoly in existence—all it lacks is co-operation and proper organization.

Instead of giving free readers and waiting for the "other fellow" to raise prices you should be exchanging cost sheets and seeing where production costs can be reduced—your selling price having already been fixed high on the basis of a monopoly.

If you traveled from one newspaper to another, delving into their books of account and analyzing their business operations, you would perhaps come to the conclusion that publishers lack faith in the commodity they sell and so are afraid to ask legitimate prices—would you admit that?

It is, however, the logical conclusion you would come to in the end.

Now you have been cutting the other fellow's throat for all these years—and today you are face to face with a common difficulty.

Use this article as a means of bringing up the subject of "getting together" with your competitor.

Of course, you cannot rush rates up—even with a mutual agreement of all the newspapers in your town, but you can first find out what it costs to produce that commodity you are selling—compare your production costs with the other newspapers—then I can send you sheets, which will show you the average production costs of newspaper with about your circulation—see how you compare with them.

Then get together on an agreement and use your costing system to raise your rates—and at the same time to establish confidence with your advertisers.

These sheets are at your disposal—why not use them to your advantage?

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

Charles M. Beer, advertising and sales promotion manager for the Emerson-Brantingham Implement Company, Rockford, Ill., is now associated with the merchandising and sales bureau of the advertising department of Successful Farming, Des Moines, Ia.

F. M. Bailey, formerly Cleveland representative of the Modern Hospital, St. Louis, is now at the Chicago office.

Harry A. Guiremand has become advertising manager of Freight Handling and Terminal Engineering, New York.

The name of the Myron C. Clark Publishing Company, Chicago, publisher of Engineering and Contracting, has been changed to the Engineering and Contracting Publishing Company. No change has been made in the personnel of the company.

The entire stock of the J. H. Baird Publishing Company, Nashville, Tenn., has been purchased by J. H. Whaley, president and business manager; S. F. Horn, vice-president and editor, and John Chaffe, secretary and associate editor.

Morton E. Hidden, formerly engaged in the newspaper business and later in the automobile accessory business, has joined the New York staff of Farm and Fireside, Springfield, Ohio.

As the result of a suggestion of Robert C. Fay of Chicago that house organs would be glad to publish a series of food conservation advertisements, the headquarters office of the Associated Advertising Clubs, at Indianapolis, has been in co-operation with C. E. Raymond, advertising manager of the Food Administration, Washington, in the preparation of a series of such advertisements, which will soon be offered to 200 house organs.

FOR THRIFT IN COLUMBUS.

Clarence Dittmer has been given a leave from his duties in the city clerk's office at Columbus to manage the publicity for the thrift campaign there.

Ours is a "Come Back" Organization

Publishers throughout the United States have come to recognize in the Hollister organization a dependable means of obtaining new circulation among the best people in the community.

It is this ability to render a valuable circulation service time and again that has earned us the reputation of being a "come back" organization. For

We're back on the St. Louis Republic

—about to conclude another big circulation drive for this old-established journal. After our first campaign one year ago, resulting in $100,000 worth of subscriptions, they said:

"The contest has been the means of interesting a great many young women in the Republic and they have secured thousands of new subscriptions from their friends in homes which an ordinary solicitor could not reach."

We're back on the Oakland Enquirer

—just starting our second big campaign for this newspaper. Two "come back" campaigns at the same time! Among the many other papers we have repeated on are the Los Angeles Times and San Antonio Express.

A third campaign now running on the Tulsa (Okla.) World

One word explains why the Hollister organization is called upon repeatedly—by the same papers—to build up more circulation. And that word is results!

We get results! New readers by the thousands—at a minimum cost—in double quick time.

THAT'S what YOU want!

Write or wire for a complete outline of our plan—the distinctive Hollister plan—for getting dependable HOME circulation.

C.B. HOLLISTER

General Manager
NORTH-EASTERN
CIRCULATION CO.

Care of St. Louis Republic
Care of Oakland (Cal) Enquirer, or
Care of Tulsa (Okla.) World
Home Office, Davenport, Iowa.

SOUTHERNERS FOR ZONE RATES.

S.N.P.A. DISAGREES WITH THE A.N.P.A.—WANTS NEWSPAPERS IN SEPARATE CLASS.

The executive committee of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, in session in Birmingham, Ala., on December 10, decided to do whatever may seem expedient to secure the repeal of that part of the War Revenue Bill effecting the postal rates of newspapers, which becomes effective July 1, 1918.

The resolution was offered by W. T. Anderson of the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph. The motion of Mr. Anderson further specified that the committee urge Congress to "reopen the subject and readjust the billion basis of equity and justice."

The executive committee took the position on the postal bill that legislation increasing the cost of mailing newspapers should have come from the Post Office Department and not have been included, as part of the general revenue bill. The committee, it was stated, will seek to have the section of the revenue bill relating to newspapers mailing cost stricken from the measure and presented as a separate bill by the Postmaster General, to stand or fall on its own merits.

The committee will seek in the proposed new bill, if it is able to bring the matter to this point, to have included in it zone rates, rather than "blanket" rates for mailing second class matter. The S.N.P.A. members maintain it is unfair to charge one cent per pound for mailing matter three hundred miles and charge the same rate on the same size package for mailing it fifty miles. The committee believes the zone system will find favor with newspaper publishers throughout the country and they will wage their fight on that basis.

The committee declared it had no objection to paying the increased cost; that, if necessary, it felt sure every newspaper in the country would be willing to give up all profits to the Government for the period of war. But, members of the body declared, they do object to the precedent set in making the increased cost of mailing newspapers a part of the revenue bill, and it is to nullify this precedent that the committee will stage its campaign.

THE POSTAL REPORT.

The committee also adopted and commended the report submitted by Major E. B. Stahlman of the Nashville Banner, chairman, and L. J. Wortham of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram, the legislative committee, as a just and proper basis of adjustment.

The report of the legislative committee follows:

"Your committee, appointed at the annual meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, held at Asheville, N. C., July 10, 1917, to represent the daily newspapers of the South in matters affecting them before Congress, discharged its duty to the best of its ability.

"The Lower House of Congress had, on May 22, prior to the appointment of your committee, passed a bill embodying a zone system of rates on second-class mail matter, which was deemed by all of the newspapers of the country as discriminatory and oppressive.

"The rates to take effect from and after March 1, 1918, were fixed:

"1st zone, 50 miles, 1½¢ per lb.
"2nd and 3rd zones, 150 to 300 miles, 2¢ per lb.
"4th and 5th zones, 600 to 1,000 miles, 3¢ per lb.
"6th zone, 1,400 miles, 4¢ per lb.
"7th zone, 1,800 miles, 5¢ per lb.
"8th zone, all above 1,800 miles, 6¢ per lb.

"Showing, as will be observed, no increase beyond the eight zone of 1,800 miles, although the distance from Eastern cities, where ninety per cent of the magazines, trade papers and other like publications were produced, to San Francisco, aggregated a distance of more than 3,000 miles.

"The House Bill also provided for an increase of ten per cent on all imports hitherto taxed, which would have added at least $5 per ton on the cost of white print paper, imported from Canada, and warrant a like increase in a like sum on paper manufactured in the United States.

"On April 26, following the passage of this bill by the House, the American Newspaper Publishers Association, at one of the largest annual meetings ever held, by a unanimous vote, declared in favor of the zone system upon a basis that would meet the cost paid by the Government for the transportation of second class matter, and by that act gave indications of clearly defined opposition to the bill passed by the House.

A committee was appointed to go to Washington to look after the matter in the manner indicated by the action taken.

A great body of American newspaper publishers, in the expression of their wishes rejecting postal rates, wanted to be entirely fair to the Government.

"They wanted to do what fairness and equity demanded of them, and if, as they believed, an advance in rates on second-class mail matter should be found necessary, they were ready to support the advance, but they urged that the advance be made under the zone system and in a form and on a basis that would, in an equitable way, meet the situation.

"They believed that the postage of one cent per pound being paid was sufficient to meet the cost of the Government of carrying newspapers within a 300-mile zone. They believed that the deficit in the Post Office Department was due largely to inadequate rates of postage on second-class matter, carried for distances embraced in the fourth to the eighth zones, and that the rate covering these zones should be advanced to meet the cost incurred by the Government in rendering the service.

CRITICISM FOR A.N.P.A.

"The association knew that the flat rate plan had utterly failed to meet the expenses of the department.

"It also knew that a plan under which the Government was receiving only $1 per 100 pounds, for carrying second-class matter two and three thousand miles, and for the transportation of which the Government was paying the railroads from five to seven dollars per hundred pounds, was utterly unsuited to meet the existing situation. The association, therefore, favored its abandonment and the adoption of the zone system whereby a reasonable and equitable adjustment could be made and the department relieved of at least a portion of its annual deficit.

"Never for a moment did any portion of the large membership of the American Newspaper Publishers Association assume that its committee would enter into any arrangement or understanding with the publishers of magazines, periodicals, and trade papers whereby the association should be made to stand before Congress and the people of the United States in favor of the continuance of a system that was annually causing a deficit of fifty million or more to the department.

"It never occurred to the newspaper publishers, that members of its committee would even by silence acquiesce in a demand or suggestion from the publishers of magazines, periodicals, and trade papers, for a continuance of the ruinous 'flat rate' plan.

"The association felt that an advance would have to come to meet the large deficiency and that it should and could only be met in an equitable way through the adoption of the zone plan, and the establishment of rates under it in keeping with the cost of transportation paid by the Government.

"The newspaper publishers' committee fully understood this and yet yielding to the demands of the magazine, trade paper and periodical publishers, this committee, by its silence, permitted the Senate committee to assume that the American Newspaper Publishers Association was willing to assent to the continuance of a system which it had unanimously condemned.

"Members of the newspaper publishers' committee, who appeared before the Senate Finance Committee, realizing that they had not represented the expressed wish of the association, frankly admitted the fact, and advised other members of the association who were in Washington at the time, to proceed with their desire to secure the adoption of the zone system, in favor of which the American Newspaper Publishers' Association had so emphatically declared.

"The Southern Daily Newspaper Publishers Association at its annual meeting at Asheville, July 10, following, realized the situation in all of its fullness and therefore gave utterance in strongest terms in favor of the zone system and appointed a committee to represent its members in Washington.

"Your committee found itself greatly handicapped in its work by the previous action of the committee representing the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and also the fact that the Senate finance committee had closed its hearings before your committee was appointed and had definitely agreed upon the provision of the bill relating to this subject, and which, as will be recalled, established a flat rate of 1½ cents per pound on second-class matter for all distances, and finding that insufficient to raise more than $8,000,000 per annum (a mere bagatelle as compared with the alleged deficit of sixty or seventy million) added a war tax of 5 per cent per annum to raise seven million, five hundred thousand dollars additional.

"It should be understood that it was not an easy matter for your committee to overcome the obstacles with which it was confronted, and that it is generally difficult to successfully combat the report of a strong committee of such able men as that constituting the Senate committee on finances, and yet your committee entered upon its task with confidence strengthened by a consciousness of standing for the right.

THE MCKELLAR PLAN.

"The substitute or amendment offered by the Senator K. D. McKellar, of Tennessee, on June 23 opened, as your committee felt, a road pointing to relief. This amendment left the rate at one cent per pound for the three zones of 300 miles, fixing two cents for the fourth zone, eight cents for the fifth, four cents for the sixth, five cents for the seventh and six cents for all distances beyond 1,800 miles.

"Your committee in a brief of some length and based on information obtained from the Post Office Department, gave the following as the cost of transportation within a zone of 300 miles:

Zones.	Miles.	Paid R. R. by Government.
1st Zone	50 Miles	17 1-2¢ per 100 lbs.
2nd Zone	150 Miles	40 1-4¢ per 100 lbs.
3rd Zone	300 Miles	78 1-2¢ per 100 lbs.

"Making the average cost for the first two zones nineteen cents per 100 lbs. and for the third zone forty-eight and one-half cents.

"There were some attempts made to criticize these figures, but they were too well grounded in facts and figures obtained from the department to admit of an effective attack. These figures left a margin of 51 5/8 cents to meet any reasonable overhead charges the department might incur over and above the actual cost paid to the railroads for transportation.

"The facts presented in this brief, your committee is persuaded, had a splendid effect and resulted in satisfying a majority of the Senate that the daily newspapers of the country were at the present rate of one cent per lb. fully meeting the cost incurred by the department within the 300-mile zone.

"The Senate, in committee of the whole, adopted Senator McKellar's amendment by a vote of forty to thirty-six.

"After this vote was taken telegrams and letters by the hundred, some of them more than a thousand words in length, came to nearly all of the Senators from publishers of magazine and trade papers protesting against the McKellar amendment, and within three days Washington swarmed with publishers and their agents and attorneys, all working with might and main, as many perhaps never labored before, to defeat the amendment when the bill should be taken up in regular session of the Senate, and when thus taken up the week following these publishers succeeded in changing the views of enough Senators to defeat the amendment by a vote of forty to thirty-four.

"The most plausible argument against the adoption of the amendment was that matters relating to rates of postage had no business in a war tax bill, and that such a complicated matter ought to be handled by the regular standing committees on post offices and post roads of the Senate and House. Upon this theory the entire matter was stricken from the bill and the bill sent to the committee of conference in that form with the five per cent war tax on earnings having also been previously stricken out.

"When the bill was taken up by the conferees' committee your committee found that under the custom of having the conferees from each body composed of members according to their seniority on the respective standing committees, there was not a member on it from either the Senate or the House who had favored the McKellar amendment, the Senate conferees having all voted against the amendment, while the House conferees had all solidly supported the Kitchen bill as passed by the House. The McKellar amendment, therefore, had not a single friend at court, but it is only fair to say that if the Senate had adhered to the McKellar amendment, the Senate conferees would undoubtedly have stood by it.

"The House conferees, under the leadership of Representative Kitchen, fought hard for the provisions of the House bill, but failing to carry it through in that shape, by some strange freak or mixup, which members of your committee have not been able to fathom, the committee revamped the House section of the bill and embodied in it both the flat rate and zone system, by adding an advanced rate on that portion of each publication which consisted of advertising, in excess of five per cent of each issue of publication.

"With, doubtless, the best intentions, an abortion was thus produced which insofar as it applies to daily newspapers, especially those which publish from two to four daily editions with varying amounts of advertising in each, the bill thus framed is not only impracticable but will prove enormously expensive to all the newspapers, and the Post Office Department as well as to keep and make daily records and reports, which, of course, is not true of magazines, etc., that print not more than one issue weekly or monthly, each edition carrying its full amount of advertising.

UNJUST RATES FIXED.

"The postage fixed by the bill agreed to in conference provides that taking effect July 1, 1918, there shall be a flat rate for all distances of one and one-quarter cents per lb. and from July 1, 1919, of one and one-half cents per lb., and that in addition there shall be a higher rate charged on the weight of all space occupied by advertising in excess of five per cent of the total weight of each publication.

"Based upon the assumption that reading and advertising matter will be about equally divided, the cost of postage to the newspapers for 100 pounds will be as follows:

	1st and 2nd Zones.	3rd Zone.	4th Zone.
July 1, 1918	125	187½	162½
July 1, 1919	150	175	225
July 1, 1920	162½	200	275
July 1, 1921 and thereafter	175	225	295

"If members will compare the above figures with the actual cost of transportation paid by the Government as herein before shown they will readily appreciate the injustice done them, and by applying these figures to what they are now paying on their subscriptions by mail at one cent per lb. they will see what will be annually added to their expense accounts.

"The work of the committee of conference was held behind closed doors, everything was kept secret so as to prevent any of the large number of people present in Washington and interested in many sections of the bill from harassing the committee or its members and thus interfere with or delay final action and prevent quick adjournment by Congress.

"The fact that it was a bill involving nearly three billion of revenue covering a tax on almost all kinds of business and everything conceivable and yet have a joint committee from both Houses composed of six Democrats and four Republicans unanimously agree upon a report for its passage is almost unprecedented in legislation, and it is, therefore, no wonder that the bill as passed lacked a great deal of being perfect or satisfactory to either the Senate or the House or even to members of the committee which reported it for passage.

"As a matter of fact Senator Simmons of North Carolina, one of the ablest and fairest members of the Senate and who, as chairman, reported the result of the conference to the Senate, frankly stated that the bill lacked much of being perfect.

"Senator Simmons in his statement to the Senate said:

"The committee found it exceedingly difficult to devise any scheme for taxing publications that was satisfactory to individual members of the committee or to the committee as a whole, or that was satisfactory to the publishers of the country as a whole.

"When we had devised a scheme that seemed to us satisfactory and which was satisfactory to one class of publishers, we found that it was radically unsatisfactory to another class. When we changed it and finally fell upon another scheme that seemed satisfactory to the dissenting crowd we found that the new scheme was equally unsatisfactory to still another class of publishers. When we finally brought the bill to the Senate I felt constrained, in presenting the matter, to say what I believed then and what I believe now, that the Senate committee proposition was a makeshift, which was not altogether satisfactory to anybody, either on the committee or off the committee. The Senate struck out what the committee had written into the bill and agreed to the amendment of the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. McKellar) as a committee of the whole; but when the bill got into the Senate, the Senate changed its mind about that matter, and the amendment was stricken out. It suffered about the same fate as several schemes of the finance committee.

"I do not believe that we ought to tax these facilities for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the war. That has been my view all the time. Entertaining that opinion about it, I felt that the adjustment of postal rates was not a matter for the finance committee, but was a matter for the post office committee. I was glad, therefore, when in conference we were able to write into the compromise a provision now under discussion—the provision that the tax now imposed should not take effect until July, 1918. I trust, Mr. President, that before the time arrives the post office committee will work this matter out in a more satisfactory way than your committee or the conferees have been able to work it out."

"The feeling expressed by Senator Simmons represented the sentiment of the members of both houses of Congress, and your committee believes (although neither of its members have any desire to further represent the association in the matter) that adequate legislation satisfactory to the daily newspapers can be enacted prior to July 1, 1918, if the matter is taken up and properly presented to Congress when it meets in December. The chairman of your committee, before he left Washington, conferred with leading members, including the chairman of the post office, and post roads committee of both the Senate and the House, and found a ready response to the suggestion that steps to meet the situation should be taken immediately upon the assembling of Congress to pass a bill that would in an equitable way deal justly with the newspapers and the department."

The executive committee went into session Monday at ten a. m., in the conference room of the Birmingham News Building. The session ended at half past five o'clock p. m.

NEWSPAPERS IN A SEPARATE CLASS.

In his report Secretary Walter C. Johnson of the Chattanooga News said:

"There is no doubt but that the leading men of both the Senate and House of Representatives now understand the postage matter better than ever before, and as a result the daily newspapers of the country will find that, after all, the late defeat will prove a blessing.

"The newspapers were badly treated by the bill passed at the last session of Congress and Congress realizes it. According to the opinion of many, Congress is also persuaded that there should be a severance between the newspapers and the magazines, that they don't belong in the same class. The Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association can gain this end if the matter is handled in any sort of an intelligent fashion.

"The suggestion has been made that the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, through a special committee, seek the passage of an act that shall embody in the act what a daily newspaper is and what it represents in its relation to the country, and put the daily newspapers under this act into a class by themselves, fixing a postal rate on the zone plan, limiting the rate to one cent per pound for the first 300 miles, increasing the rate beyond that in keeping with the increased cost paid by the Government to railroads for transportation."

APPROVES AGENTS' CODE.

The code of ethics and standards of practices as between newspapers and agents, proposed by the Southern Advertising Agents Association at the annual convention of the publishers' association at Asheville, N. C., last summer was commended by the executive committee.

As presented in Asheville by Edwin F. Johnson of Atlanta, on behalf of the Southern Advertising Agents Association and the American Association of Advertising Agents, the "Standards of Practice" for advertising agents and newspapers follow:

"Realizing the increased responsibility of the general advertising agent due to the enlarged scope and requirements of modern agency service, every agent should use his best efforts to raise the general Standards of Practice, and should pledge himself:

"1. To first recognize the fact that advertising to be efficient, must deserve the full confidence and respect of the public, and, therefore, to decline to give service to any advertiser whose publicity would bring discredit on the profession.

"2. To recognize that it is bad practice to unwarrantably disturb the relations between a client and an agent who is faithfully serving him and with whose work the client expresses satisfaction.

"3. To avoid unfair competition, resolve to carry into practice the equitable basis of 'one-price-to-all' and determine that the minimum charge for service be the full commission allowed to recognized agencies, and that no rebates, discounts, or variations of any kind be made, except those regularly allowed for cash payment, and such special discounts as may be generally announced and available to all.

"4. To conserve advertising expenditures by making investigation in advance of all conditions surrounding a contemplated campaign, by counselling delay where preliminary work must first be accomplished, and by using every effort to establish the right relations and co-operation between the advertising and selling forces.

"5. To avoid, in the preparation of copy, exaggerated statements and to discountenance any willful misrepresentation of either merchandise or value.

"6. To construe offers of rebates or concessions from printed rate cards, or the free publication of press notices as evidence that an inflated price is asked for advertising space and to rate mediums offering such concessions accordingly.

"7. To require exact information as to the volume of circulation of any medium used and specific detail as to the distribution of his circulation, both territorially and as to class of readers. In figuring the value of a medium to regard information as to the methods of obtaining this circulation and the care in auditing this circulation as an essential consideration in estimating its worth.

"8. Never to issue agency house organs soliciting or containing paid advertising from publishers or owners of space.

"9. To co-operate heartily with every division of advertising in the earnest effort to establish mutual confidence and equal opportunity among all concerned."

Several other matters of particular interest to Southern newspaper publishers were discussed at the meeting. The cost of print paper created no little comment.

The sessions of the committee were executive. The body was entertained at luncheon at the Tutwiler Hotel by Victor H. Hanson, publisher of the Birmingham News, a member of the committee.

Among those in attendance were: F. G. Bell, Savannah (Ga.) Morning News, president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association; W. C. Johnson, Chattanooga (Tenn.) News, secretary-treasurer of the association; Major E. B. Stahlman, Nashville (Tenn.) Banner, chairman legislative committee; Colonel L. J. Wortham, Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram, member legislative committee; F. W. Withers, Columbia (S. C.) State; Marcellus Foster, Houston (Tex.) Chronicle; W. T. Anderson, Macon (Ga.) Telegraph; Curtis B. Johnson, Knoxville (Tenn.) Sentinel and Charlotte (N. C.) Observer; Frank P. Glass and Victor H. Hanson, Birmingham News.

NO COMMENT BY A.N.P.A.

Don C. Seitz of the New York World, chairman of the postal committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, declined to make any comment on the report of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association legislative committee criticizing the work of the A.N.P.A. in the matter of second class endeavors.

Nor would L. B. Palmer, manager of the A.N.P.A., say anything, referring the matter to Mr. Seitz.

HAESSENSTEIN & VOGLER MAKE A STATEMENT.

Concerning the charge made the other day in Premier Clemenceau's Paris paper L'Homme Libre, in an article signed "Lysis," that the advertising in certain Paris newspapers was controlled from Berlin by an advertising agency here which represented the Berlin advertising firm of Haessenstein & Vogler, the following denial has been issued:

"The Societe Europeenne de Publicite was founded in 1913 to continue the business of Mery Brothers, John Jones & Co. and the Communay advertising agencies. It has never attempted to monopolize advertising or publicity in the newspapers and its contracts made in 1915 bound itself not to attempt to influence through its advertising the policy of newspapers with which it did business."

In September of this year the Societe Europeenne de Publicite announced it had sent a special representative to arrange in the United States an understanding between American advertisers and French newspapers.

RULINGS OF CABLE CENSOR.

The chief cable censor has issued the following directions to become effective 12.01 a. m., December 17:

"1. Parties who have obtained a license from the War Trade Board to communicate with any one on the enemy trading list will, in cablegrams to such a correspondent, place 'etl,' followed by the number of their license as the last words of the message; except that these words may be followed by a testword in a message from a privileged banking institution.

"2. The observation of the same rules will be required on incoming messages from parties on the enemy trading list.

"3. Cable communications to and from parties on the enemy trading list, although licensed, will be suppressed if they do not conform to the above regulations."

GRIDIRONERS' NIGHT.

President Wilson, Vice-President Marshall, Cabinet officers, foreign diplomats and many other distinguished guests gathered on December 8 at the annual dinner of the Gridiron Club in Washington, D. C. Patriotism was the keynote, with Americanism and democracy emphasized in the several speeches and skits.

New Government agencies created since the war, such as the Committee on Public Information, the Food Administrations, the Shipping Board, the War Industries Board, and the War Trade Board, furnished the topics for much of the fun, and the meeting of the "High Commissioners of France, Great Britain, and Japan" with an American representative was made the occasion for a good-natured run on the now famous Fourth of July message concerning a submarine attack on American transports.

"Somewhere in France" with the expeditionary forces was not overlooked, and a novel feature of the banquet hall arrangements was a series of trenches, miniature duplicates of those in the fields of France, through which the guests passed to the tables.

While the diners were disposing of a wheatless and meatless menu approved by Food Administrator Hoover, policemen made their appearance and "searched" for liquor "imported" into the District of Columbia in violation of the Sheppard prohibition law and the many bottles "found" resulted in some amusing explanations.

As a means of presenting to the assembled company several of the large number of prominent men present, a unique device was used. A miniature airplane buzzed overhead, the length of the hall, and after it disappeared behind the curtain two members dressed as American aviators came out. They declared that they expected "camouflage" was being used to hide some of the guests, who then were introduced. Food Administrator Hoover being discovered as the "man who has the whole world eating out of his hand."

Another novel feature was a sale of war savings stamps conducted by Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, chairman of the War Savings Committee of the Treasury Department, and Henry Ford of Detroit, a member of the committee. A big sum was realized.

The dinner was brought to a close with a spectacular pageant preceding President Wilson's address.

HOST TO JAPANESE.

Baron Tanetaro Megata and other members of the special finance mission of Japan to the United States were entertained at luncheon by the New York Evening Post Wednesday, at the Bankers' Club.

Alexander D. Noyes, financial editor of the Evening Post, was toastmaster. He recalled the time, years ago, when Japan's financial ability was underestimated and when, a large loan being asked for, some viewed the proposal askance, but since the rise of the Island Empire to power, the bonds, he said, have proven one of the best investments anywhere. Roll Ogden, editor of the Evening Post, extended greeting to the visitors. Baron Megata, expressing appreciation of the entertainment, discussed the existing international financial situation. Aimari Sato, Japanese Ambassador, was among the guests.

JOINS CREEL'S STAFF.

Miss Mildred Morris, formerly dramatic critic and movie editor of the Denver (Colo.) News, has gone to Taylor, assistant to George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1904. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 222 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, $1.00; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04. Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices. Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents). Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 15 cents; more than 3 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
222 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus
ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1242. FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 15, 1917.

RIGHTS OF EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES.

Newspaper employers, as well as those directly interested in the case in question, benefit by the decision of the United States Supreme Court holding that employers may legally operate their plants as "open shops" and prevent conspiracies to bring their non-union employees into labor organizations despite the fact that the court reaffirmed at the same time the right of workmen to organize for lawful purposes.

The opinions were rendered in the cases of the Hitchman Coal and Coke Company and the Eagle Glass Manufacturing Company of West Virginia, the court deciding that both were entitled to operate their plants as "open shops," and upholding injunctions issued by Judge A. G. Dayton restraining union officials from attempting to organize their employees.

In the Hitchman case, the majority of the court held that the officials of the Miners' Union "deliberately and advisedly selected that method of enlarging the union membership which would inflict injury" upon the company and its loyal employees, and declared that the "conduct in so doing was unlawful and malicious."

The court also held that "it is erroneous to assume that all measures which may be resorted to in the effort to unionize a mine are lawful if they are peaceable—that is, if they stop short of physical violence or coercion through fear of it." It added that "the purpose of the defendants to bring about a strike at the mine in order to compel plaintiff through fear of financial loss to the unionization of the mine as the lesser evil was an unlawful purpose."

The Supreme Court holds, the majority opinion sets forth, that the plaintiff was acting within its legal rights in employing its men upon the terms that they should not be members of the United Mine Workers; that, having established this working agreement between it and its employees with the free assent of the latter, the plaintiff is entitled to be protected in the enjoyment of the resulting status as in any other legal right; that the fact that the employment was terminable by either party at any time made no difference, since the right of the employees to strike or to leave the work gave no right to defendants to instigate a strike; that plaintiff was and is entitled to the

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; space measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $350; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 35 lines in depth of column) double price.

good-will of its employees, precisely as a merchant is entitled to the good-will of his customers, although they are under no obligation to deal with him; that the value of the relation lies in the reasonable probability that, by properly treating its employees and paying them fair wages and avoiding reasonable grounds of complaint, plaintiff will be able to retain them in its employ and to fill vacancies occurring from time to time by the employment of other men on the same terms, and that defendants could not be permitted to interfere with these rights without some just cause or excuse.

By way of some justification or excuse, defendants set up the right of workmen to form unions and enlarge their membership by inviting other workmen to join.

The opinion of the court freely conceded this right, provided the objects of the union be proper and legitimate, which is assumed to be true in a general sense with respect to the United Mine Workers of America.

But the court holds that it is erroneous to assume that this right is so absolute that it may be exercised under any circumstances and without any qualification; that in truth, like other rights that exist in civilized society, it must always be exercised with reasonable regard for the conflicting rights of others, according to the fundamental maxim, "So use your own property as not to injure the rights of another."

Hence, assuming that the defendants were exercising the right to invite men to join their union, nevertheless, since they had notice that plaintiff's mine was run non-union, that none of the men had a right to remain at work there after joining the union, and that the observance of this agreement was of much importance and value both to plaintiff and to its men who had voluntarily made the agreement and desired to continue working under it, the defendants were under a duty to exercise care to refrain from unnecessarily injuring plaintiff, yet they deliberately and advisedly selected that method of enlarging the union membership which would inflict injury upon plaintiff and its loyal employees, by persuading men after man to join the union, and, having done so, to remain at work, keeping the employer in ignorance of their number and identity, until so many should have joined that by stopping work in a body they could coerce the employer and the remaining miners to organize the mines, and that the conduct of the defendants in so doing was unlawful and malicious.

ELECTRIC SIGN ADVERTISERS IGNORE THE LAW.

Electric sign advertising compromises which have been suggested have not met with a hearty spirit of co-operation by the sign companies and advertisers. Many theaters and business houses had endeavored to avoid the consequences.

As a result the United States Fuel Administration has under consideration a definite plan for "lightless nights" throughout the country, somewhat similar to "wheatless" and "meatless" days.

It is now proposed to darken all outdoor lighting, other than street lights and special municipal lights needed for police purposes, on certain nights of each week. On other nights, according to the plan, signs would be permitted to burn.

The plan under discussion provides for radical changes in the order put out on November 9 last, which restricted illuminated signs to certain hours, making such exceptions of merchants' and theater signs as seemed reasonable. In actual application, it now appears, this order is impracticable.

The evidence of all eyes is that the streets of cities are virtually as light as before these special signs were darkened. State Federal Fuel Administrations in New York, Illinois, and other states have reported in detail on the impossibility of getting results from the old order.

Certain big advertising signs along New York City's Broadway have made no attempt to comply with the Fuel Administration's regulations to light up only between 7.45 and 11 p. m.

Electric sign advertising compromises which have been suggested have many signs can be seen lighted up in all their myriad candle-power any night before 6.30 o'clock.

Why permit such flagrant violations?

WATER POWER "IMPERATIVELY NECESSARY."

There are unmistakable signs of activity with respect to the water power release legislation in which the members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association and newspaper executives in general are so deeply interested because development of our wasting water power should promote and cheapen production in the pulp and paper industry.

The best of these signs is probably the statement of President Wilson, in his opening address to Congress, which follows:

"It is imperatively necessary that the consideration of the full use of the water power of the country and also the consideration of the systematic and yet economical development of such of the natural resources of the country as are still under the control of the Federal Government should be resumed and affirmatively and constructively dealt with at the earliest possible moment. The pressing need of such legislation is daily becoming more obvious."

The illness of Senator Walsh, author of Senate Bill 2399, the proposal that has the endorsement of the publishers, may delay slightly the launching of the drive to have this bill enacted into law, but the understanding of all the members of the committee on public lands and influential members of Congress in general is that this bill is to be taken up early in the session and pushed for a decision.

A canvass of the situation at the Capitol at the end of the week unearthed little opposition to the measures upon which hinge the economical manufacture in future of America's supplies of news print paper. On the contrary, the present shortage of coal throughout the country and the nation-wide agitation, in consequence for the utilization to the utmost of our resources for the development of electricity from water power have played into the hands of the publishers.

As luck would have it, too, another tremendous influence is moving public opinion to support the publishers in their demand that our neglected water power be put to work. This latter is nothing less than the acute railroad transportation situation and the shortage of cars that is largely responsible for the crisis that has been precipitated. It is figured that on railroads that may be electrified by harnessing the waters along the lines at least one-tenth of the freight cars will be released.

Finally, one other powerful incentive is found in the industrial fuel situation. Electrification of the railroads that are within reach of the new hydro-electric projects would, of course, take these roads out of the market for coal for their locomotives.

More to the point with paper mills relying upon water power—that is to say upon low-price hydro-electric power—there would be no danger of contingencies such as have been faced this winter and last when certain mills, in the United States and also in Canada, have been threatened with enforced suspension of operations due to inability to obtain adequate supplies of fuel.

MR. WEISS OF DULUTH.

In the rush of going to press with its edition of December 1, THE FOURTH ESTATE printed a "last-minute" telegraphic message from A. C. Weiss, publisher of the Duluth (Minn.) Herald (giving his views on the news print paper three-cent price settlement) which erroneously said that Mr. Weiss was publisher of the Duluth News-Tribune.

Mr. Weiss is so well known in the newspaper publishing field that attention has been called to the error from widely different sources—and THE FOURTH ESTATE feels that it should be pointed out to all its readers.

Incidentally, many publishers characterized Mr. Weiss' opinion on the paper settlement as one of the best that has appeared in THE FOURTH ESTATE within the last three weeks and they have stated that it represents their opinion exactly.

Mr. Weiss is a keen student of every phase of newspaper making and the wonderful thing he has done in building up the Duluth Herald during his twenty-six years of ownership entitles his opinions to great weight.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

"I believe that self-governing peoples fight better when they have full knowledge of the actual situation." This statement was made by Premier Clemenceau of France in reply to the American Publicity League's representations that much greater knowledge of war conditions was needed in America, and that the league had been formed to increase the amount of accurate information sent to the United States.

"The public has an inherent right to believe what it reads in advertisements."—Richard H. Lee.

Motion picture publications in Japan are in dire straits, according to M. Tokiwa Yuasa, publisher of the Film Record, Tokio.

Some of these, previously successful, have been forced to discontinue and others are on the verge of closing shop.

The Kinema Record, the oldest in Japan, has been compelled to discontinue.

Women will hereafter be employed throughout England in the paper making industry to take the place of enlisted men. Civic regulations and factory acts have been amended to permit this.

By reducing the number of printed papers and decreasing the bulk of annual reports, and preventing the duplication of printing statistics, etc., the New South Wales government has saved close on $100,000 a year.

PURELY PERSONAL.

F. L. Wurzburg, whose appointment as assistant publisher of the New York American was announced in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week, came to New York nineteen years ago from Grand Rapids, Mich., and was associated for a long time with the Dry Goods Economist. Later he was with Conde Nast as advertising manager of the Style Books, and a few years ago he was for a short time with the New York Times as promotion manager.

Mr. Wurzburg now enters on his news duties with the New York American after two and a half years' service in the Hearst organization, during which period he was business manager of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Victor H. Murdock, editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle, recently appointed to the Federal Trade Commission, is in charge of the investigation into the alleged violations of the rules laid under the provisions of the Food Control Bill.

Arthur Hinckley, advertising manager of the Atlanta Georgian and American, has been a visitor in New York.

Henry J. Allen, editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Gazette, who recently returned from a Red Cross mission in Europe, is in New York with the group of men touring the country explaining the aims of the American Red Cross.

Luther D. Fernald, advertising manager of Leslie's and Judge, is back at work in New York after a severe attack of pneumonia.

John F. Miller, formerly on the staff of the Buffalo Times, has entered the motion picture field of Rochester, N. Y., having leased the Baker Theater.

O. B. Towne, formerly city editor of the Council Bluffs (Ia.) Nonpareil, has been appointed one of the five directors who will supervise the work done by Raymond Fosdick's War Department commission on training camp activities.

Dietrick Lamade, president and general manager of the Williamsport (Pa.) Grit Publishing Company, told of the origin and development of Grit at the meeting of the Williamsport Rotary Club on December 3.

J. C. McNealus, well known Dallas newspaper man and member of the Texas state senate, is a member of a special legislative committee now investigating the Texas penitentiary system.

Editor De Carlo of I Cittadino, a Chicago Italian newspaper, has been extremely active lately in collecting funds for the Italian ambulance fund.

George E. Whitenack, city editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Sunday Star, has been placed in charge of the publicity campaigns of the Knights of Columbus $100,000 drive, which is now on, and the next annual Wilmington Automobile Show, which will be held the week of January 21.

F. L. WURZBURG,

NEW ASSISTANT PUBLISHER OF THE NEW YORK AMERICAN.

Walter Eckersall, football writer for the Chicago Tribune, who has been seriously ill from pneumonia in a Chicago hospital, is reported greatly improved and now out of danger.

Thomas Daley, of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican advertising department, spent his vacation as the guest of relatives at Boston.

A. H. Messing, publisher of the tenant in the National army, was married recently to Miss Ruth E. Asplund, also formerly a Tribune em-Chicago Examiner, was in New York this week.

James W. McGuire, publisher of the Long Beach (N. Y.) Press, is an applicant for the position of postmaster at Long Beach.

WEDDING BELLS.

Frank A. O'Connell, editor of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Employees' Magazine, has been married to Miss Mary K. Lanahan.

John Clyde Oswald, publisher of the American Printer, was married to Miss Virginia Bell on December 3.

William Gunn Shepherd, writer, lecturer and United Press war correspondent, was married in Cleveland on December 12 to Miss Elizabeth Stribinger. Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd started after the ceremony for the East and will live in New York after March 15. Mr. Shepherd has just returned from Russia, where he was sent as correspondent, and since his return has been lecturing in the Northwest on conditions in that country. Mrs. Shepherd has been a director at Red Cross headquarters and active in war relief work.

Francis L. Haeger, formerly manager of the credit department of the Chicago Tribune, but now first lieutenant.

Thomas H. Cannon, veteran Gary (Ind.) newspaper man, has remarried his former wife.

Francis H. Whitaker of the Jackson (Mich.) Patriot, has been married to Miss Christine Oliver.

Miss Bessie R. Rowland, former New Orleans newspaper woman and now press representative of National League for Woman's Service of New York, was married recently to Lieutenant Marquis James, who is now stationed at Plattsburg, N. Y.

The Olivet (S. D.) Leader has been moved to Kaylor.

W. A. Gullord is the editor of the Polson (Mont) Chief, a new weekly.

STAFF CHANGES.

L. F. Van Orsdale, formerly with the Cincinnati Enquirer, has taken charge of the publicity bureau of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

James B. True, Jr., formerly in charge of the Eastern merchandising service department of the Chicago Tribune, will become a member of the sales staff of the New York office, succeeding J. Evans Hessey, who has resigned to join the British aviation service.

L. A. Webster, formerly advertising manager of the Omaha World-Herald and previously with the Chicago office of O'Mara & Ormsbee, special representatives, has joined the advertising department of the Milwaukee Journal.

William Gannon, M. J. McHale and William Quinn have joined the editorial staff of the Erie (Pa.) Herald.

G. O. Wheeler of Moose Jaw, Sask., has taken the position of city editor on the Nelson (B. C.) Daily News, succeeding A. C. Yokom.

Frank A. Woolson has left the Newark (Ohio) Advocate to become assistant city editor of the Canton (Ohio) Repository.

M. F. Drukenbrod, for eight years on the news staff of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Gazette, is one of the latest additions to the reporting staff of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade, succeeding C. A. Crosser, who resigned to enlist in the forestry division of the Canadian Army for service in France.

Moses Strauss is acting managing editor of the Cincinnati Times-Star during the absence of Joseph Garretson, who is spending the winter in Florida.

Sylvan Sheets has become the editor of the Clearbrook (Minn.) Journal.

R. C. Gordon, publisher and manager of the Waynesboro (Pa.) Record, is at present handling the editorial end of that paper, in place of Charles W. Cremer, for fifteen years the editor.

G. C. Davison, formerly editor of the Western Coal Journal, Kansas City, has become editor of the Oil & Gas News of the same city.

E. C. N. Brown, for ten years business and advertising manager of the Kansas City Packer, has resigned to become manager of the Long Bell Land Corporation. He is succeeded by W. H. Loomis, Jr.

H. T. Knappe has succeeded O. E. Chandler as manager of the Austin (Tex.) Posten, the former still retaining his interest in the paper.

W. Douglas Meng, for the last four years on the editorial staff of the Kansas City Star, has been appointed assistant sergeant-at-arms in the Senate.

John Williams has been appointed assistant general manager of the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Times-Leader. The general manager, Major Ernest G. Smith, is now at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J.

James E. Pollard, former night copy editor of the Associated Press at Columbus, has succeeded David M. Auch as Associated Press correspondent at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio. Mr. Auch has enlisted in the Army.

BOYS CLUB IS GROWING.

The Boys Club of New York, which includes the Newsboys Club, will within a month number over 5,000, according to E. N. Potter, treasurer of the organization.

By enlistment and draft, the club has sent over seventy of its young men to the front and training camps.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Merle Sidener, chairman of the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs, recently addressed the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia, preliminary to a movement in that city for the establishment of a better business bureau, such as are now in operation in thirteen other cities.

Rowe Stewart, president of the Philadelphia club, has for some time been planning a campaign to put truth-in-advertising work on a paid basis in that city.

William C. D'Arcy, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs, has addressed the presidents of advertising clubs in a number of larger cities, urging the importance of establishing sales managers' conferences, built after the fashion of such organizations now being operated in Cleveland and New York.

It has been suggested that such conferences are especially important in that they promote the use of advertising. Predominating in each such conference are sales managers of companies which advertise extensively, and those representing firms which do not employ the force of advertising as they might, it has been suggested, will obtain, through conference meetings, an impression of what a fuller use of the power of advertising might do for them.

President D'Arcy's letter urges that the clubs get in touch with George Walt Fleming, of the Kaynee Company, Cleveland, who is in charge of the organization of conferences.

The Women's Advertising Association of Chicago is one of the newest advertising organizations to be formed.

William Jennings Bryan was a speaker at the first meeting of the as-dent, Mrs. Willard E. Carpenter, associate publisher of the Lincoln (Ill.) Courier-Herald; second vice-president, Irene S. Sims, Marshall Field & Co.; recording secretary, Julia Duce, Tibbets & Garland; corresponding secretary, Elizabeth Sears, American Film Company, treasurer, Dorothy Nagle, Montgomery Ward & Co.

Board of directors—Mrs. M. E. Jones, advertising manager Hump Hair Pin Company; Mrs. Mary De Lany, associate publisher of the Women's Press; Isabel Arkenberg, Arkenberg Special Agency; Mrs. Eliza G. Kleinsorge, Continental and Commercial National Bank; Mrs. Leona A. Krag, Armour & Co., and Miss Rose Faber, the Fashion Art Magazine.

Arthur Brisbane, publisher of the Washington Times, and James Schermerhorn, owner and editor of the Detroit Times, were the principal speakers at a recent banquet of the Baltimore Advertising Club.

The Council of National Defense has asked the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to co-operate in stamping out undesirable local "medical" advertising, especially that which has to do with the treatment of venereal diseases.

The committee will co-operate nationally and will operate locally through better business bureaus and vigilance committees.

The Cleveland Advertising Club held a smoker on December 5.

"Tay Pay" O'Connor, the famous Irishman, addressed a meeting of the Cleveland organization on December 10.

"Advertising is the school of efficient buying," declared Miss M. J. Lambkin in an address on "The scope and function of advertising" at the monthly evening meeting of the Kansas City (Mo.) Woman's Advertising Club on November 28. "It has developed into an educating force, which teaches the people what, where and how to buy."

J. H. Craig, president of the Advertisers' Protective Bureau, of Kansas City, told of the bureau's fight against untruthful advertising.

Masked so that his fellow members could not identify him, a member of the Columbus Advertising Club at last week's luncheon meeting, criticized the construction of advertising carried in Columbus papers.

Criticism by the "unknown" was of a constructive character, and he took particular pains to commend such advertising as merited it.

The idea was that of Charles S. Anderson, the club president.

W. W. Cooley, Western advertising representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, delivered an address at a meeting of the Butte (Mont.) Advertising Club in conjunction with other Butte organizations, on November 29.

B. S. Phillips, formerly general manager of the New Rockford (N. D.) State Center, is reported to be in Minot, N. D., negotiating the establishment of a new daily there.

The Chicago Advertising Association has volunteered its services to the state council of defense.

E. H. Philippi, sales manager of the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, has been appointed a director of the Advertising Association of Chicago. Mr. Philippi is chairman of the moving picture committee.

John A. Simpson has been appointed a director of the club to fill the vacancy left by Arnold Joerns, who is in Washington taking charge of the publicity for the aviation section of the signal corps.

Charles H. Stoddard has resigned from the board of directors of the club.

Oscar Rosier, formerly advertising manager of the Hub and Hillman's, Chicago, has joined the May Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Walter Jay Stephens has resigned from the advertising department of the Addressograph Company to take charge of advertising for the James H. Rhodes Company, manufacturer of industrial chemicals, Chicago, Ill.

Thomas F. Millard, editor and publisher of Millard's Review, Shanghai, China, spoke at the December 11 luncheon of the export division of the New York Ad Club on "The relation of publicity to American trade in China."

Charles W. Whitehair, one of the "big three" of the Y.M.C.A., talked before the Advertising Club at the luncheon on December 13. He told of what our fighters in France are doing.

The second night meeting of the club, on Wednesday, December 19, will be addressed by John Lee Mahin. The subject to be discussed is "Advertising when it is hard to get the goods to fill the orders."

On account of the illness of Al Chamberlain, chairman of the entertainment committee, the New Year's Eve announcement has been postponed another week.

At the suggestion of Police Commissioner Woods, the New York club has sent out a letter to a list of twenty-five Army officers extending to these men a cordial invitation to make the Advertising Club their home while they are in New York.

J. K. Fraser, vice-president of the Blackman-Rosa Company, will relate specific stories of different campaigns covering the "Distribution of the product, dealer work, and the selection of the media," at the meeting of the New York League of Advertising Women on December 18.

The second half of the evening will be devoted to "Merchandising and its relation to advertising," and Roy F. Soule, editor of the Iron Age, will speak on merchandising in the larger sense, its various angles and interpretations.

Mrs. Anne E. Tomlinson of the European department of the Dry Goods Economist will describe merchandise as a living thing.

Eric R. Singer, formerly secretary and in charge of sales for the Caray Printing Company, Inc., New York, has been made sales manager of the Sigmund Ullman Ink Company, New York.

Charles E. Bailey, formerly with the Hal Motor Company, has been made advertising and assistant sales manager of the Templar Motors Corporation, Cleveland.

W. S. Thompson, formerly sales manager of the Skinner Irrigation Company, is now advertising manager of the Fyr-Fyter Company, Dayton, Ohio.

H. G. Carrly will resign from the advertising department of Armour & Company, Chicago, on December 15.

L. F. Hamilton has resigned as manager of the advertising department of the National Tube Company, Pittsburg, and is directing the sales promotion of the Walworth Manufacturing Company, Boston, which bought the Keewawee (Ill.)

works of the National Tube Company.

W. L. Schaeffer, who has been Mr. Hamilton's assistant for seven years, has succeeded him at his old post.

Walter A. Reed has become branch manager with the B. F. Goodrich Company at Buffalo, N. Y., succeeding A. V. O'Connor, who resigned his position to enlist in the naval reserve and is now at the Camp Farragut training station.

Mr. Reed has had several years' experience as an advertising man in the Middle West.

E. S. Colling, formerly assistant sales manager of the Pyrene Manufacturing Company, New York, has joined the staff of the automobile sales division of the Vacuum Oil Company, New York.

Cornelius H. Norwood, formerly with the Doremus & Morse Advertising Agency, New York, is now advertising manager of Hartman Brothers, Inc., New York.

Clarence W. Wagener, formerly connected with the advertising department of the Allen Motor Company, Ohio, has been made assistant advertising manager of that company.

Walter Jay Stephens has resigned from the advertising department of the Addressograph Company to become advertising manager of the James H. Rhodes Company, Chicago.

Edward L. Greene, secretary of the better business bureau of the Chicago Advertising Association, has resigned to take up the same line of work elsewhere.

During Mr. Greene's occupancy of the post, considerable activity has been manifested against fraudulent advertising.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

The Corman Cheltenham Company, Inc., New York, has been moved from 11 East 36th street to 19 West 44th street.

The M. P. Gould Company, New York, has moved from 120 West 32d street to 60 West 35th street.

The Dillard Jacobs Agency, Atlanta, Ga., has been recognized by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The Doremus & Morse and the Russell Law Advertising Agencies of New York have consolidated under the firm name of Russell Law. Business will be conducted at 31 Nassau street, New York.

The personnel of the two agencies will remain to a large extent unchanged.

This agency will now handle a great deal of financial advertising, including accounts of municipal bonds, public utilities, stock exchange houses, banks and trust companies, among these being A. B. Leach & Co., A. E. Ames & Co., Harris Forbes & Co., Bonbright & Co., A. A. Hausman & Co. and William R. Compton & Co.

A. B. Carson, formerly head of the English department at the Fort Atkinson (Wis.) High School, has joined the copy staff of the McJunkin Advertising Company, Chicago.

The Walter L. Houghton Advertising Agency, Inc., has been consolidated with the Redfield Advertising Agency and the business will be conducted under the Redfield name at 34 West 33d street, New York. C. S.

HELEN E. CARTER.

sociation. He was introduced by Mrs. Willard E. Carpenter of the Lincoln (Ill.) Courier-Herald.

"It is a pleasure to note that general advertisers are after the man who is untruthful in his copy," said Mr. Bryan. "These prosecutions will grow as woman enters the field. We men concede that conscience is developed to a higher state in woman than in man and as women enter business life conditions will improve."

The following officers were elected: President, Helen Carter, Moreland Advertising Agency; first vice-presi-

Redfield is president and treasurer; Taylor L. Redfield is first vice president and Walter L. Houghton is second vice president.

A federal charter has been granted to the Canadian Advertising Service Ltd., with a capital stock of $100,000, and headquarters in Montreal to take over the business now conducted as a going concern under the Canadian Advertising Service, and to carry on a general advertising and publicity business.

S. J. Harbaugh, formerly with Chappellor Advertising Company, St. Louis, has joined the sales department of the St. Louis office of the H. W. Kestor & Sons Advertising Company.

Paul Holmby, formerly on the copy staff of the Double Bennett Company, Chicago, has joined the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, succeeding L. H. Marriessy, who is now in training for the merchant airline.

A. B. Carson of the McJunkin Advertising Agency, Chicago, recently delivered an address on "The dream beat of romance" to the teachers and students of the Lane Technical Evening School in Chicago.

Bradley Welch has joined the staff of the Manternach Company, Hartford, Ct.

M. P. Gould of the M. P. Gould Advertising Agency will be a speaker at the meeting of the New York Representatives' Club at the Hotel McAlpin at 12.30 on December 17. The subject will be "How the national magazine can be localized for the retail merchant."

I. J. Henslein is now head of the production department of the Herbert M. Morris Agency, Philadelphia, succeeding George W. Speyer, who is now with the J. Walter Thompson Company, Chicago.

Gilbert Kenney, formerly vice president of Paul Black, Inc., New York, has joined the J. Walter Thompson Company, New York, as vice president and director.

L. E. Miller, formerly with Sterling Motor Truck Company, Milwaukee, is now with the Homer McKee Company, Inc., Indianapolis.

Ewing & Miles, Inc., New York, which made an assignment several months ago for the benefit of creditors, it is said, will make a payment of ten per cent in two months. It is not known at present whether any further payments will be made.

Charles N. Ascheim, formerly with Nichols-Finn Advertising Company, is now with Burnett, Kuhn & Co., Chicago.

The W. H. Rankin Advertising Company, Chicago, is preparing to issue soon a co-operative advertising service for motor trucks and automobiles. The plan is the same as that previously originated by the Rankin Agency and supplied to newspapers.

Miss Mabel Girding, formerly with Van Hoesen & Collins, has joined the copy staff of the McJunkin Advertising Company, Chicago.

J. J. Veth, formerly auditor of Hanff-Metzger, Inc., New York, has resigned to become office manager of the Wales Advertising Company, New York.

During Mr. Veth's twelve years' service with large agency organizations he has handled the accounting end of many of the best known national campaigns, and has devised and executed many systems for placing, checking and other features of agency service to clients.

C. A. Allen, Mr. Veth's predecessor, is now with Barrow, Wade & Guthrie, public accountants.

The McConnell & Fergusson Advertising Agency of London, Ont., has opened a branch office in Montreal, Que., with L. Benson, formerly of the Lionel Benson Advertising Service, in charge.

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

Mrs. F. H. Rose, who has joined the copy staff of the McJunkin Advertising Agency, Chicago, has been engaged in public utilities advertising for the past five years. She was at one time a writer of special newspaper articles in and around Washington.

MRS. F. H. ROSE.

While in charge of the advertising of the Mobile Gas Company, with which she was last connected, Mrs. Rose attracted attention with a series of rhymed advertisements for street car cards. She also originated a geyser display for gas water heaters which was widely copied throughout the country and was pictured extensively in trade papers.

Mrs. Rose has also directed the advertising of the Gulf Gas Company, a subsidiary of the El Paso interests operating in El Paso, Gulfport and Pass Christian.

She is a member of the recently organized Chicago Women's Advertising Association.

Ralph W. Knox, who has just taken up his duties as advertising manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company, New York, succeeding Edward M. Baker, left the small New England town where he was born to strike out for St. Louis, where he became connected with the Fairbanks Company, maker of gas engines. He started there as office boy and advanced himself to an executive position in the sales department.

Next Mr. Knox went to the sales department of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company, at Boston. In two years he was transferred to the central office in Kansas City, directing the sales promotion of more than 800 products.

Before joining the Columbia Graphophone Company, Mr. Knox was assistant general advertising manager of the American Chicle Company.

Norman B. Hickox, recently appointed sales and advertising manager of the National X-Ray Reflector

Any Length of Line in Any Size of Face without Change of Mold

THAT'S the crux of Ludlow simplicity; the machine that sets all display composition up to 48-point.

Users of movable type-caster type, with its complications of machine adjustment, tons of storage, and skilled labor to run it, will appreciate the simple construction, the ease of operation, and speed of the Ludlow.

The Ludlow Typograph

And the cost of the finished product ready for press, foundry or stereotype, is the lowest by a wide margin of any system of Non-Distribution.

A postal card brings continuing descriptive literature.

Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER LINO TYPE CO.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

Company, Chicago, is thoroughly acquainted with the electrical field, having been connected with the sign business and the central station end before joining the company with which he is now associated.

NORMAN B. HICKOX.

He is statesman-at-large for the Jovian League and a member of the Chicago branch. He also belongs to the National Electric Light Association and the Illuminating Engineering Society.

Mr. Hickox has been advertising manager of the National X-Ray Reflector Company.

Courtland N. Smith, who recently allied himself with the Joseph Richards Company, Inc., New York, entered the advertising business shortly after his graduation from college, in the employ of the company with which he is now connected, then known as J. A. Richards & Staff, Inc.

In a few months he left that firm to go with the Street Railways Advertising Company, New York, with which he was for the period of 1909-1914, for the last three years being manager of the local service department. In 1914 Mr. Smith became associated with the Blackman-Ross Company, New York.

From the Blackman-Ross Company, Mr. Smith went to the Frank Seaman Agency, New York, as account manager for the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company products (Fatima Cigarettes, etc.)

Mr. Smith has been doing work for the American Red Cross Christmas membership drive at the national headquarters in Washington.

WOULD BRIBE RATHOM.

John R. Rathom in a series of addresses in Chicago last week explained the modus operandi by which the Providence Journal was able to uncover so much German duplicity.

A bribe of $4,000,000 was offered a Journal reporter, Mr. Rathom said, with the assurance that there was "plenty more where the four million came from."

A RED CROSS EDITION.

The Belleville (Kan.) Telescope recently issued an ambitious Red Cross Special Edition for the benefit of the Red Cross organization of Republic County.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER APPRAISED

Under authorization of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia we have just completed an appraisal of one of America's greatest newspapers, THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, for the American Security & Trust Company of Washington, D. C., Executor of the Estate of the late John R. McLean. In this connection Mr. Alfred B. Leet, Trust Officer, says:

"I Think the Service Rendered By You Has Been Admirable and Your Recommendations Excellent."

We hear many questions asked and much contention concerning the proper formula for arriving at newspaper values. A great majority of the opinions expressed are of no value. There is no blanket formula. It is not an exact science. Each proposition must stand on its own base. Many years of intimate experience with all phases of the subject, gathered from many different properties, is necessary to intelligent conclusions. We also make recommendations in each case for improving important conditions.

HARWELL & CANNON

SALES CONSOLIDATIONS APPRAISEMENTS Newspaper and Magazine Properties
Times Building NEW YORK

GREEN PRINT PAPER FOR SALE

The undersigned, as receiver for the Monitor Publishing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has on hand about 120,000 pounds of green print paper, such as was used by the Monitor for its sport editions when publication was suspended. This paper is 36½ inches wide, basis 24x24x32, and can be sold under the appraisal for 4 cents a pound or less. If interested address E. Howard Gilkey, Box 374, Columbus, Ohio.

$3,000

cash available for first payment on country weekly and job office. Far West locations preferred. Proposition Q. B.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

DINNER GIVEN TO RIGNEY.

Thomas Rigney, superintendent of the delivery department of the New York American, was the guest at a dinner and entertainment on December 10 in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of his connection with the American.

He had 300 hosts, most of them employees of the mail and delivery departments of the New York American and Evening Journal.

Edward McCaffrey was toastmaster for the occasion, at which Mr. Rigney was presented with a gold watch.

Newspaper For Sale in the Sunny South

Small daily in growing Southern resort, exclusive field, netting annually close to $7,000. Extraordinary opportunity. Price $20,000, half cash asked. Proposition No. 179x.

Small city daily and high class weekly in desirable Idaho locations. Nos. 7001x and 579x.

Special offer in small city daily in rich Colorado field. No. 598x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

PUBLISHERS, ATTENTION—Sample copy addresses FURNISHED FREE in lots of 1,000 or less. Over 2,000,000 book and magazine buyers on our lists. State what you want. 500 copies of any small magazine MAILED FREE if sent to me prepaid. Advertising or mailing service given in exchange for odd lots of interesting books or booklets in good, clean condition. Address: Moores Expert Service, New Egypt, N. J.

N. Y. TIMES HAS A FIRE.

There was a slight fire in the plant of the New York Times Wednesday night.

NEW TYPE CABINETS FOR SALE

Nine new 25-case all-steel type cabinets, 60 inches high, olive green enameled, unusually deep type compartments cannot break type or case; all wired. The best cabinet ever made by the Keystone Type Foundry. Specially made for the new plant of the Detroit News but which proved in excess of our requirements. Price when ordered $92 each. If ordered now would cost 33½% more. Will sell f.o.b. Detroit for $75 each.

THE DETROIT NEWS

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight Line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. $2,54, $6, $8, $10 and $2 page papers at $6,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 8011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 20, 24, 28 or 32 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

FOR SALE—One late model Goss, two platen steam table with boiler, like new. Extension table, turtles and chases. Price reasonable. Minneapolis, Eric Press Herald, 207 Sixth St., So., Minneapolis, Minn.

DIVIDENDS

INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY New York, November 28, 1917.

The Board of Directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and one-half per cent (1½%) on the preferred capital stock of this Company, payable January 15, 1918, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business January 4, 1918.

OWEN SHEPHERD, Treasurer.

TEXAS' AGED EDITORS ARE TO HAVE HOME.

The Texas Editorial Association, composed of editors who have been engaged continuously in the newspaper world for thirty years or more, gathered in Palacios on December 3, 4 and 5. The members were handsomely entertained by the citizens of Palacios.

W. A. Bowen was elected president, L. Blalock vice-president, Hamp Cook recording secretary and Austin Callan corresponding secretary.

A committee was appointed to raise money to purchase a home for aged editors.

INDICTMENTS ARE BROUGHT AGAINST GERMAN PAPERS.

Two additional indictments on charges of treason and violating the Espionage Act were returned by the Federal Grand Jury in Philadelphia on December 8 against the editors and officers of the Philadelphia Tagblatt and the Sontagsblatt, German language newspapers.

With the exception of the charge of obstructing recruiting and enlistment for the National army, the new indictments are similar to those returned by the September grand jury.

All the defendants are at liberty on bail. No date has been set for their trial.

A. N. McKay, general manager of the Salt Lake Tribune, is visiting in New York.

DRY MATS IN CHATTANOOGA.

Another convert in the use of dry mats is the Chattanooga (Tenn.) News. Dry mats have been used exclusively by this paper for more than two weeks and with satisfactory results, considering the fact that the same matrix rolling machine used on wet mats is being used for the dry mats.

The process has not been in use for a sufficient length of time to estimate the savings in labor and material. The paper, however, has been enabled to cut out the use of the steam tables, the time saved especially on mail editions and on the last forms on other editions is enabling the paper to go to press from ten to fifteen minutes earlier than otherwise. The publishers have also reduced the size of their rolls one-half inch, thereby effecting a saving of one sixty-seventh of the cost of white paper.

EARL WANTS NEW TRIAL.

Plans for seeking a new trial are under way by attorneys for Edwin T. Earl, proprietor of the Los Angeles Express and Tribune, who lost his suit against the Record Publishing Company when a jury, by a vote of nine to three, gave judgment for the defendant after deliberating more than eight hours.

It was stated by attorneys for Mr. Earl that a new trial will be asked for and if this is not obtained, the case will be appealed.

While the jury held that Mr. Earl had not been libeled when the Record called him a political "boas," the jurors expressed disapproval of the strong language used in the editorial on which the suit was based.

ALL FOREIGN MAIL CENSORED.

Postmaster General Burleson on December 13 made formal announcement that a censorship of all mail entering or leaving the United States is being conducted at New York as well as the Canal Zone, Porto Rico and larger seaports of this country.

The announcement reads: "Censorship of international mail has been inaugurated pursuant to section 3 of the Trading with the Enemy Act and sections 14, 15 and 16 of the executive order of October 12, 1917."

THE FREEPORT BULLETIN CHANGES HANDS.

The Freeport (Ill.) Bulletin, published by Poffenberger & Stiver, will after today be under the ownership of the Freeport Bulletin Publishing Company.

The new manager will be John G. Cary, for a number of years connected with the Lee Syndicate at Evening Newspapers, for two years manager of the Davenport (Ia.) Democrat, and for a year and a half one of the auditors for the A.B.C.

ADS, NOT LEGAL NOTICES.

In an opinion given on December 4 to Commissioner of Banking Daniel F. Lefean by Deputy Attorney Joseph L. Kun, it is held that summaries of statements required to be made by banks under call of the commissioner need not be made in legal newspapers.

They are held not to be legal notices, but advertisements.

HELP WANTED.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER
WANTED.

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

EDITORIAL WRITER WANTED.

High grade publication has opening for a clear and forceful writer on daily news events and general affairs. He should be thoroughly conversant with public life and men, particularly of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and possessor of a literary style. Preference will be given to good practical newspaper man who has had Philadelphia experience. Applications will be held in strictest confidence. To secure interview, please send samples or specimens of your matter, and full details as to personality, experience, etc. Address Editor, P. O. Box 479, Philadelphia.

Aggressive, thriving farm paper, thoroughly established, wants PROGRESSIVE YOUNG EDITOR with experience in agricultural field. Must be a live one and able to handle a live proposition. Location in attractive Northwestern city. Send full particulars to Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager

An experienced, active, progressive, not-afraid-to-work man to take charge of the advertising department of an inland New England daily. Address with references, salary expected and other particulars, Box 950, care The Fourth Estate.

Are You an Advertising Man, and can you deliver the goods? If you can produce for a live farm weekly an attractive proposition is open to you. Tell us the whole story in your first letter. Address Box 948, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted: ADVERTISING MANAGER by live morning paper in up-to-date city of 60,000. One who knows how to plan campaigns and write copy and who is willing to assume all responsibility for this department and be measured by results. No quibbling about salary with the right man. Address Harrison L. Walters, care The Fourth Estate, New York City.

SERVICE CORNER.

627.—"Can you tell me something about the Butterfield Syndicate?"

628.—"We should like to get a list of newspaper syndicates."

629.—"Will you kindly give us the address of the publisher of syndicate pages like the inclosed, put out by J. Keeley, and advise us whether or not they are used in New York and Philadelphia?"

630.—"I should like to know in what issue of your paper appeared an article on China written by J. B. Powell."

631.—"Attached hereto is a photograph of a very satisfactory all-metal newspaper file we bought a couple of years ago. We have lost track of the manufacturer and the retailer from whom we bought it. We look to you to help us find the maker."

632.—"I have been interested in reading the articles in your publication by Edmund Walker in regard to accounting and costs. If they are to be published in book form, please advise me of the cost."

633.—"We are under the impression that you are publishing a complete list of advertising agencies throughout the United States and foreign countries. If so, kindly let us know the price per volume."

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Newspaper Man

Newspaper man of long experience offers his services as editor, editorial writer, telegraph editor, city editor, desk man, political man, special or feature writer, or war correspondent. American by birth, British descent, Republican in politics, married, absolutely temperate, well educated, available at any time. Permanent engagement sought. Address Writer, care Fourth Estate.

ADVERTISING WOMAN of proven ability, now advertising manager on Southwestern daily desires change to position offering opportunity for advancement; prefers location in city of 50,000 upwards in South or West; has demonstrated efficiency to develop and handle local and foreign advertising; solicitor and copy writer not afraid of work. Must have opportunity to make income $1,800 to $2,500 a year. Full particulars with references by addressing Miss M., care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG LADY

experienced in advertising business wishes position with agency. Ten years' experience with one of New York's leading dailies. Understands copy makeup, entering orders, etc. Address Box 944, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Position as news editor or managing editor with daily in city of from 15,000 to 30,000. Seven years' experience in news game on small city daily, three on desk. Aggressive and not afraid to dig in. Will start at $30 a week, as salary is not only object. Out of draft. Can furnish best of references and leave on ten days' notice. Address G. N., care The Fourth Estate.

CHANGE IN COHOES.

Lieutenant Everhardt Armstrong has resigned from the Cohoes (N. Y.) Dispatch and with Mrs. Armstrong, left this week on a journey of three thousand miles, for American Lake, Wash., on the Pacific Coast.

Lieutenant Richard A. Douglas retains his interest in the paper, however, and will soon return to America from France, where he is studying in an artillery school in Paris, to train army recruits here.

John H. Griffin has assumed the position of general manager and Frank W. Wood that of managing editor of the paper.

Lieutenant Armstrong will assist in the training of recruits at a big drafted men's camp at American Lake. He has disposed of his interest in the Dispatch to the Counties Publishing Corporation, publisher of the paper.

CHICAGO REPRESENTATIVES PLAN PROMOTION WORK.

The Newspaper Representatives Association of Chicago, representing over 1,000 of the leading daily newspapers of the United States and Canada, held its annual meeting on December 10.

The association voted to spend several thousand dollars during the coming year for extensive promotion work in the interest of daily newspaper advertising generally. The organization will have a paid secretary.

Officers were elected as follows: President, John Galas; vice-president, Guy S. Osborn; secretary, C. W. Wallis; treasurer, Elmer Wilson; directors, J. E. Verree (chairman), R. E. Ward, A. W. Allen.

LITHUANIAN PAPER RAIDED.

Federal agents have raided the office of the Philadelphia Kova, a weekly Lithuanian newspaper, said to be the organ of the Lithuanian Socialist Federation of America, and have seized a large quantity of literature.

PAPER MEN DINE.

The superintendents of the International Paper Company held a dinner in the Hotel McAlpin, New York, Thursday evening.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation Manager

Resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical; economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 941, care The Fourth Estate.

Right effort insures good results.

Mapping out an advertising campaign for THE FOURTH ESTATE is the right kind of effort.

Our Service Department will help you secure good results.

Business Manager and Managing Editor.

of daily newspaper with more than 100,000 circulation invite correspondence with responsible publisher afternoon newspaper which is in need of rehabilitation and development. Both executives in present positions for terms of years. Box 945, care The Fourth Estate.

L. L. RICKETTS

for the past ten years circulation manager of the Des Moines Capital, is open for a position. He is especially well known on account of his successful handling of the Bargain Period method of securing subscriptions and for newsboy welfare work. Write him for references, salary, etc., to 8907 Forest ave., Des Moines, Ia.

Circulation Manager

Wanted—Position as circulation manager on daily paper having between 10,000 and 75,000 circulation. Anywhere in the United States. Ten years' experience in circulation work; 35 years old, married, and at present employed, but desire a change. Have record showing fine gain in circulation in department which I have had charge of for last four years. Address G 500, care The Fourth Estate.

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $0.000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS
General Offices,
378 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS
DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU
184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

DINNER TO CONTRIBUTORS.

As a feature of the thirtieth anniversary celebration of the Daily Jewish Courier of Chicago, a complimentary dinner was given at a leading club to all the editorial contributors to the birthday edition of forty-eight pages.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or How you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Advertising Man

Not a world beater, simply a fellow who has made an earnest study of advertising and believes he can give sincere, honest service to advertisers. His copy has brought good results. Is not a star solicitor, but can handle and get accounts that depend on real service. Wants position as service man or agency copy writer. Experience: Advertising, business and general manager of small dailies. Age 29, unmarried, exempt from draft. References gladly given. Address Box 940, care The Fourth Estate.

Circulation and Promotion Manager with creative and executive ability backed by experience and record of success, is open for a position after Jan. 1. South-west section of country preferred. Address Box 951, care The Fourth Estate.

MANAGER

thoroughly experienced in news and business ends of small city daily. Have lately sold control of live daily. Open for business or editorial position. College education, married, not subject to draft. Hard worker, with punch and ideas. Will consider investing. Address Worker, care The Fourth Estate.

CIRCULATION MANAGER, 15 years' experience; for the past eight years on the largest small town daily east of the Mississippi. Will consider change after January 1. Will take entire charge of circulation or of the outside and mail. Prefer paper with large outside field and will only consider permanent position on paper having 15,000 or more. Address Box 944, care The Fourth Estate.

High Grade Man

with long experience as business and advertising manager, wishes to make change. Excellent record for building up and holding patronage; writes effective copy; pleasing manners and good mixer. Address Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN

HEMSTREET
PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

THE APPRAISALS OF NEWSPAPERS.

THE WAR LEGISLATION MAY MAKE THEM NECESSARY—ONE IN CINCINNATI.

The question of appraisals of newspaper properties, it is believed, will become increasingly important now because of the new United States taxation and revenue laws. It has been intimated that the United States Government may call in expert appraisers to be certain that the operation of these laws may be properly applied.

One of the big newspapers to recognize this state of affairs is the Cincinnati Enquirer, an appraisal of which has just been completed by Aubrey Harwell of Harwell & Cannon, New York, showing a total valuation of $3,000,000. Mr. Harwell's complete report covering his judgment as to valuations together with certain suggestions have been accepted and filed with the Supreme Court and in this way has become public information.

AUBREY HARWELL.

Mr. Harwell undertook the appraisal of the Cincinnati Enquirer for the American Security & Trust Company, of Washington, D. C., the executor of the estate of the late John R. McLean under the authorization of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. He says that his work was facilitated by the cordial and intelligent help of Edward Flicker, general manager of the Cincinnati Enquirer, whose connection with that publication covers a period of twenty-eight years and who is and has been for most of this period its general manager.

Mr. Harwell calls attention in his report to some valuable and important additions made during the past year by Mr. Flicker and which appear with very much credit in the profit and loss account.

The firm of Harwell & Cannon, of which Mr. Harwell is the senior partner, is very well and favorably known in the publishing world through the consolidations, sales, and appraisals of newspaper and magazine properties and the appraisal of the Cincinnati Enquirer adds another to its already long list of successful accomplishments.

THE FOURTH ESTATE hopes and expects to print in the not very distant future a carefully prepared article by Mr. Harwell on the question of physical, tangible and good will valuations of newspapers, which, due to his experience in this field, should be of much value to newspaper publishers.

L. B. JONES.

NEW PRESIDENT OF THE ASSOCIATION OF NATIONAL ADVERTISERS AND ADVERTISING DIRECTOR OF THE EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY.

END OF THE NEWS PRINT MANUFACTURERS' ASSN.

In accordance with the Federal Court order of November 26, members of the News Print Manufacturers' Association met in New York on December 12 and formally dissolved their organization.

The United States Court ruled that the association was a combination in restraint of trade, and after long investigation decreed the dissolution. The directors acted unanimously in voting to dissolve.

Henry A. Wise was appointed as counsel to advise members regarding future action. Whether any new form of organization will be made, it was stated, had not been determined, but whatever is done will be in strict compliance with the Federal order.

Mr. Wise will work in co-operation with a committee, consisting of J. A. B. Coles, John A. Davis, William McMillan, William Hoffstran, and J. A. Bothwell. They will submit the plan for the new organization for the approval of the Attorney General of the United States.

Thirty-five members were present. They were at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria and went to the Century Theater in the evening.

This action followed the transactions of November 26, when an agreement was reached with the Department of Justice and the paper manufacturers by which the Government fixed a price for news print until three months after the close of the war, on the condition that the association should dissolve.

BASEBALL WRITERS PUT OFF ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Baseball Writers Association, which was to have taken place in New York this week, has been postponed temporarily, owing to the death of Secretary William G. Weart.

The directors may meet during the joint session of the major leagues.

LINOTYPE SPEED.

"Twelve thousand two hundred twenty ems an hour" is the title of the latest booklet issued by the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, New York, "continuing the story of the remarkable 'strings' being secured from Multiple-Magazine Linotypes by operators on the Chicago Tribune."

The Mergenthaler Linotype Company will furnish a copy of the booklet free to anyone requesting it.

HUMBERT RESIGNS FROM PARIS JOURNAL.

Senator Charles Humbert announced in the December 9 issue of the Paris Journal that he is leaving that newspaper, the direction of which returns to Henri Letellier, the original owner.

Senator Humbert says in his article:

"If I have been deceived twice it has been under conditions which would have deceived the most vigilant patriotism. My conscience is without reproach, but I have maintained too often that in war time a chief's error is without excuse. Every page and every line of this paper for more than two years testify that I have been a good servant of my country."

Senator Humbert's resignation from the newspaper direction thus comes just before the Senate vote on the suspension of his immunity, so as to allow the State to charge him with complicity in relations with the enemy, through his alleged dealings with Pierre Lenoir and William Desouches regarding German money by way of Switzerland, and with Bolo Pasha for similar funds by way of the United States.

Czeslaw Lukaszewicz, an Austro-Polish, said to be the editor of the Baltimore Advance, a monthly, was arrested by Marshall McCarthy on December 10 and has been interned.

INTERTYPE

"The BETTER Machine"

—the simplified machine, easy to operate, inexpensive to maintain, always dependable

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

80 Court Street, BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Old Colony Building, CHICAGO
539 Carondelet St. NEW ORLEANS
86 Third Street, SAN FRANCISCO

TRADE MEN MEET CONTROLLERS.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE IS HELD IN WASHINGTON TO HEAR ISSUES.

A special war conference in Washington on December 13, which required the presence of a number of Cabinet members and other leading officials, operated to "shoot to pieces" the pre-arranged program of the editorial conference of the business papers at the New Willard.

Although the program prepared for the trade paper men had to be re-arranged, almost all of the sixteen scheduled speakers appeared at one time or another or sent substitutes.

Delayed railroad trains caused many of the editors and publishers to be late in arriving, but in the end there assembled considerably more than 100 conferees, with New York especially well represented.

This meeting developed into a much closer approach to a conference worthy of that name than was the initial effort in the same direction made some time ago. That is to say the representatives of the business press availed themselves much more freely than before of the privilege to ask questions of each of the officials who appeared as spokesmen of the several executive branches of the Government.

Particularly did the gathering take on the guise of a round-table meeting when United States Fuel Administrator Harry A. Garfield was bombarded with questions relative to coal supply for the industries.

C. B. Requa of the Food Administration, who appeared as a proxy for Director Hoover, was also plying with questions as to the future of the Government's food control program, a quiz that brought from him the admission that he believed the food administration must extend its scope from control of profits to control of prices on the various commodities.

Yet another speaker who drew fire of many questioners was Frederic A. Delano of the Federal Reserve Board, who cleared up for his interrogators many details of the plan for marketing the new war savings stamps. Keen curiosity was likewise manifested by the trade press representatives with respect to the new excess profits tax and relative to the numerous fake stories now in circulation about the American Red Cross. Eliot Wadsworth disposed of the latter in "straight from the shoulder" fashion.

THOSE PRESENT.

Among the leading business paper executives in attendance were:

H. G. Blodgett of Hardware Age; A. E. Clifford of Electrical World; Charles S. Baur of Iron Age; Charles H. Thompson, president William R. Gregory Company; James H. Mc-

Graw, Jr., Electrical Merchandising; Grosvenor K. Glenn, Illustrated Milliner; J. Malcolm Muir and H. C. Parnallee of Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering; Harry Chapin Plummer of Music Trades;

Edward H. Darville, Hardware Age; Henry W. Blake, Electric Railway Journal; Sidney J. Rockwell of Playthings; Charles Whiting Baker of Engineering News-Record; L. M. Fanning of Oil Trade Journal; A. J. Baldwin of McGraw-Hill Company; Stanley P. McMinn of Motor World; Joseph Husson of Commercial Vehicle; S. Baker Williams of Electrical World; Fred R. Low, editor of Power; William H. Ukers, Tea and Coffee Trade Journal; J. H. Bragdon, Textile World Journal;

C. H. Everly, Office Appliances; Charles B. Shanks and A. B. Swetland of Class Journal Company; C. B. Peck of Railway Age Gazette; James H. Stone of Shoe Retailer; Fred H. Colvin of American Machinist; and A. I. Findley, editor Iron Age.

D. Becroft was presiding officer of the conference and helped to keep the questions going.

EARLY STARTS CAMP PAGE.

Walter R. Early, for the past year Southern commissioner of the Chicago Herald Bureau, is now with the editorial department of the Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis, where he has created a new circulation feature.

Camp Joseph E. Johnston, training camp for the Quartermasters Department of the United States Army, located about twelve miles from Jacksonville, offered the opportunity. Mr. Early started a page devoted to the activities there, beginning with the construction, following the work, right up to the point to where matters were turned over to Lieutenant Colonel F. L. Munson, commanding officer. Now that the camp is under military supervision, the Camp News page of the Florida Metropolis is much sought for by the men in training.

The main feature about this "camp page" is the fact that the officers and enlisted men at the camp subscribe to the paper and have it sent to their homes all over the country, many going as far as the Pacific Coast.

Frank P. Beddows, circulation manager of the paper, saw where he could materially add to his business and put a carrier system in the camp and after two weeks has a daily delivery of fully a thousand new subscribers, not counting those sent out by mail.

CASE GOES TO WASHINGTON.

Special Deputy Commissioner Henry Jay Case of the New York police department, who is a former newspaper man, has handed his resignation to Commissioner Woods to go to Washington, where he will be assistant to Francis P. Garvin, head of the division of prosecution and investigation of the alien enemy property bureau.

Mr. Case was appointed secretary to Commissioner Woods shortly after the latter went into office. On October 18 of this year he was made special deputy commissioner at a salary of $6,000 a year. He was to hold this position for the duration of the war and was to help the department co-operate with the Government.

WILL HANDLE CANADIAN PUBLIC INFORMATION.

M. E. Nichols of Montreal, for several years editor of the Winnipeg (Man.) Telegram and more recently publisher of the Montreal Daily News and Daily Mail, has been appointed director of public information in Ottawa, his function being to give out for publication reports on the war situation as they reach the Government from overseas.

NEWSPAPERS HELP HALIFAX.

PAPERS IN THIS COUNTRY AND IN CANADA AID THE STRICKEN CITY.

Wherever there has been suffering and need of help, the newspapers have always rushed to bring aid. The terrible Halifax disaster has proven no exception to this rule.

Various newspapers of Canada and the United States are raising funds to help give food and shelter to the victims of the catastrophe. Here are some instances:

Proceeds of two big theatrical performances—one in New York, the other in Boston—will help swell the New York Evening Journal's fund.

As usual theatrical managers responded promptly and bid heartily to the Evening Journal's appeal.

The performances are "Chu Chin Chow" at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, on the evening of December 17. The entire proceeds of the evening will be turned over to the Evening Journal's Halifax fund. The spectacle is one of the largest ever produced in this city, and has been drawing crowded houses, but Morris Gest, its producer, responded at once to the urgency of the case, and placed the entire house and cast at the disposal of the Evening Journal.

A fund for the relief of the sufferers was started by the New York Evening Post as soon as the magnitude of the disaster became apparent. The announcement that it would receive and forward contributions brought instant response. Within three days the fund had passed the $1,000 mark, and is still climbing rapidly. Appreciation was expressed in a telegram from Sir Robert L. Borden, Premier of Canada.

As soon as the extent of the damage became evident, J. S. Crate, managing editor of the Journal newspapers of Ottawa, Ont., made the appeal, "Help Halifax." During the first thirty-six hours the fund was open, over $1,700 was secured, the money being sent directly to the office and also contributed at collections taken up in a theater by members of the Journal staff. This fund was entirely independent of the action of the civic authorities.

SUES FOR PROGRAM AD MONEY

George F. Sweeney, advertising and subscription solicitor, who has been indicted in connection with the financial affairs of the Army and Navy Field Comfort Committee Bazar, has filed suit against Edward S. Moore to recover a balance of $3,529 alleged to be due to him.

Sweeney alleges that he was to receive fifty per cent of all money collected from donations and advertising for the bazar held from October 27 to November 3 last, and that the total receipts were $47,560. He alleges that he has received only $20,260, and that the defendant, as treasurer of the committee, holds $3,529 still due him, but refuses to pay it. He asks an injunction restraining Moore from making any other disposition of the money.

AID FOR HALIFAX.

Five thousand dollars for immediate relief in Halifax was cabled to the Herald of New York on December 8. The money, it was stated, was forwarded on behalf of the magazine's readers throughout the country.

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of

Black and Colored

News Inks

Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA.

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Philadelphia, San Francisco

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE
COMPOSITYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
404 West 28th Street NEW YORK

We want you to get into the habit of

Phone the Manhattan Man
for Your Engraving

GOOD WORK
PROMPT SERVICE
FAIR PRICES

Tell the story of 23 Years of Successful Service.

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-8.

Newspaper PLATE and MATRICES

60c per page and up.

If you wish to share in the benefits of co-operation, write

The United Newspaper Plate Co
CANTON, OHIO.

At Tempting Prices
Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving
in all its branches

DEFENDAM ENGRAVING CO.
Inc.
1921 Broadway, NEW YORK.

STANLEY PROCESS
quality not down to price up made to a TYPE METAL

SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y., and CHICAGO, ILL.

For Particular Printing come to the

ALLIANCE PRESS

110-114 West 52d Street, NEW YORK

C. C. Mills & Sons have sold the Boulder (Mont.) Monitor to A. H. Eiselein.

Guaranteed Unbreakable

HERCULES
STEEL CHASES
and GALLEYS

Send for Quotations

Manufactured by American STEEL CHASE
COMPANY, INC.
38 Park Row, New York, N. Y.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

CROSBY-CHICAGO, 206 S. Michigan av., Chicago—Reported placing advertising of "Red Gum Lumber" in magazines and trade papers for Gum Manufacturers Association, 1339 Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. Bldg., Memphis, Tenn.

CHURCHILL-HALL, 50 Union Sq., N. Y.—Reported placing advertising for F. R. Arnolds & Co., 7 W. 22d st., N. Y., importers of toilet specialties, in magazines.

Secured account of Dorin's toilet preparations represented by F. R. Arnold & Co., N. Y.

PICARD & CO., 50 E. 42d st., N. Y.—Reported will place account for David Carneiro & Co., 50 E. 42d st., N. Y., in newspapers to advertise "Matte Royal," a Brazilian Tea.

HOYT'S, 450 Leader-News Bldg., Cleveland—Reported handling account of Billings-Chapin Co., Cleveland, manufacturer of "U.S.N. Marine" paints and varnishes.

AMSTERDAM, 35 Congress st., Boston, Mass.—Placing 6-time orders with newspapers generally for Thomas Lawson, Boston.

AMSTERDAM, 1180 B'way, N. Y.—Again placing 42-line, 36-time orders with newspapers generally for Atlantic Coast Line, 71 Broadway, N. Y.

AYER, 300 Chestnut st., Philadelphia—Again placing copy with newspapers for Sprague Publishing Co. ("American Boy Magazine"), American Bldg., Detroit.

Also placing advertising of Schuylkill Silk Mills ("Vanity Fair Pettibockers"), Reading, Pa., and 198 Madison av., N. Y.

OSTENRIEDER, Federal Life Bldg., Chicago—Placing advertising of Liberty Axle for Wagner Axle Co., Anderson, Ind., and H-M Radiator Cover for Ford cars, manufac-

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT
for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C.

Arthur Capper PUBLISHER
TOPEKA, KAN.

tured by H-M Manufacturing Co., Indianapolis.

BLACKMAN-ROSS, 95 Madison av., N. Y.—Placing orders in pictorial sections of newspapers for Wilson Fastener Co. ("Wilson" fashion fastener), 111 E. St. Clair av., Cleveland.

Secured account of the National City Co., New York.

COWEN, 50 Union sq., N. Y.—Reported to be making renewal contracts with newspapers for Lorillard Tobacco Co., Jersey City, N. J.

SHERMAN & BRYAN, 79 5th av., N. Y.—Placing 84-line, 1-time orders with newspapers generally for S. Sternau & Co., Inc. ("Sternau" kitchenette).

THOMPSON, 242 Madison av., N. Y.—Reported to be renewing some of newspaper contracts for Andrew Jergens Co., soaps, Cincinnati.

D'ARCY, International Life Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.—Placing special copy with newspapers generally for Coca Cola Co., Atlanta.

DYER, 42 B'way, N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for United Fruit Co., 17 Battery Place, N. Y.

FISHER-SMITH, 122 E. 25th st., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in cities where they secure agents for Bell Talking Machine Co. ("Schubert Phonograph"), 44 W. 37th st., N. Y.

FRANK, 26 Beaver st., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in N. Y. City and vicinity for Hygrade Wine Co., 35 9th av., N. Y.

GREEN, Free Press Bldg., Detroit—Again placing copy with newspapers for Nash Motors Co., Kenosha, Wis.

GREVE, Oppenheim Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.—Again placing orders with newspapers for Guiterman Bros. ("Summitt Town & Country Coats"), St. Paul, Minn.

BATTEN, 4th Av. Bldg., N. Y.—Placing advertising in New York State newspapers for Bayer & Co. ("Bayer's Aspirin Tablets"), 117 Hudson st., N. Y.

HOWARD, 432 4th av., N. Y.—Again placing holiday copy with newspapers for L. E. Waterman Co. ("Waterman" Ideal Fountain Pens), 191 Broadway, N. Y.

Also placing orders with some N. Y. City newspapers for S. Fernandez & Co., ("Admiration" cigars), Tampa, Fla., and N. Y. City.

LORD & THOMAS, Mellers Bldg., Chicago—Again making 5,000-line contracts with some Southern newspa-

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION NOVEMBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 497,774

The Sunday Post 345,362

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
220 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNES, Western Rep.
Marquette Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid Guaranteed For Every Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

pers for Bauer & Black, corn plasters, etc., 45 W. 25th st., Chicago.

Sending out orders to daily papers for Douglas & Co., salad corn oil, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

LYDDON & HANFORD, Cutler Bldg., Rochester, N. Y., and 200 5th av., N. Y.—Renewing contracts with newspapers for C. S. Clark, medical, 205 Pearl st., Rochester, N. Y.

ST. CLAIR, Witherspoon Bldg., Philadelphia—Reported to be placing orders with newspapers in cities where they open branch stores for Philip Malickson & Co. ("Malco" tires), 1433 Vine st., Philadelphia.

SEAMAN, 461 8th av., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers in 35 selected states at present for Simmons Hardware Co. ("Keen Kutter"), hardware, St. Louis.

CRITCHFIELD & Co., Brooks Bldg., Chicago—Sending out orders to agricultural publications for the La Crosse Tractor Co., La Crosse, Wis.

Sending out orders to farm papers for Folding Sawing Machine Co., Chicago.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Placing advertising of H. G. McFadden & Co., N. Y., manufacturers of Emeralite Electric fixtures.

THATCHER & YOUNG, Caxton Bldg. Chicago—Placing orders with some farm publications for American Mutual Seed Co., 1929 W. 43d st., Chicago.

CRAMER-KRASSELT, C.K. Bldg., Milwaukee—Sending out orders to agricultural publications for Jacob Decker & Son, hog feed, Mason City, Ia.

FINNEY, Oreau-Leslie Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Sending out orders to mail order and class publications for Dr. Southington Remedy Co., Kansas City, Mo., and E. J. Reefer Poultry Remedies, Kansas City, Mo.

BLISS, 15 Park Row, N.Y.—Placing orders with a selected list of newspapers for Jones & Allen Co., medical advertising.

KOCH, University Bldg., Milwaukee—Placing holiday copy with newspapers for Parker Pen Co. ("Parker Lucky Curve" fountain pens), Janesville, Wis.

DIRECT—E. L. Drewry, Ltd., Winnipeg, Can., is the maker of a new non-alcoholic beverage called "Tiz-Hot," advertised in Canada and made from fruits and herbs intended for use at meal-time, and in the winter.

United Cereal Mills ("Fruited

ST. PAUL DISPATCH

(Evening)

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
(Morning and Sunday)

The papers that are the result of producing advertising mediums of St. Paul.

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures: A carrier delivered circulation is over 90% of English-reading St. Paul homes, and a broad country circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation Averages for October, 1917:
Dispatch 80,584
Pioneer Press 63,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,761

A.B.C. report and booklet giving circulation by towns furnished upon request.

YOU MUST USE THE LOS ANGELES

EXAMINER

TO COVER THE

GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

Oats"), Quincy, Ill., is placing orders direct with some Illinois papers introducing a new breakfast food.

Charles A. Wood & Co., 110 S. Dearborn st., Chicago, is sending out orders direct to selected daily papers for financial advertising, accompanying same with check.

NO PAPER FOR THE ENEMY

Newspapers in South America owned or controlled by the German Government, and used there in the interest of German propaganda, will not hereafter be printed on paper obtained in the United States. This is shown by a decision of the bureau of exports.

The Merchants' Association of New York wrote to the War Trade Board about a pending application for permission to export news print paper to Venezuela.

Here is the reply of Director Richards of the bureau of exports:

"The unfriendly attitude of the Government of Venezuela toward this nation and our allies, as shown by the recent suppression of all newspapers printed in that country except those pro-German papers now engaged in a campaign to discredit and damage our commercial interests, prompts us to refuse licenses to export paper to Venezuela."

"We appreciate fully the desire of your very useful association to promote and foster the export trade of our country, and while the policy of this board is to be fair to all exporters, yet we cannot permit news print paper to go to an unfriendly nation to be used for the purpose of vilification and to damage our commercial interests in Venezuela or the other South American countries."

Earl C. Bundy has purchased one-half interest in the Madrid (La) Register-News from J. G. Lucas.

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital. THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives

John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

PRINT PAPER COST CONFERENCES.

(Continued from Second Page)

forms or schedules designed to bring forth uniform information covering cost of production at all mills has been in itself a considerable task.

CONFERENCES IN NEW YORK.

On Wednesday Dr. E. O. Merchant, the Trade Commission's news print expert, and Mr. Hoover, the commission's accountant, conferred in New York with the cost accountants from the various mills, the schedule or reporting form being the principal topic of discussion. The news print accountants expressed themselves as well satisfied in the main with the form devised by the Trade Commission, but suggested several minor changes which Mr. Hoover hurried back to Washington to make. The result of the slight delay involved in this revision will be that the first blanks to be sent out to the paper manufacturers will be mimeographed instead of printed. Later printed forms will be available.

While Accountant Hoover went back to Washington to put the revised cost schedule on the press, ere departing for the M. & O. mill, Dr. Merchant remained in New York for another day of conferences with the representatives of the paper producers.

At the first session he had explained in detail the cost schedule or form which he had prepared in collaboration with Commissioner Colver, in charge of the commission of carrying out the Federal Court decree.

At the supplementary session he took up with the representatives of the news print industries various questions of fact on which they have been asked to submit information to the commission at the January hearings in addition to the cost figures which will constitute the main burden of the evidence and will be chiefly instrumental in determining what price will be fixed to go into effect on April 1.

DON'T CROWD THE MILLS.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association committee on paper gives this advice to publishers:

"In view of the settlement reached on November 20 between the Department of Justice and the print paper manufacturers, and the binding nature thereof, the paper committee urges all publishers to refrain from crowding their mill in this direction.

They are now bound by law to fulfil the terms of this agreement and will do so without persuasion on the part of the publishers. In any case the adjustment is not effective until the invoices for January paper arrive. Publishers should at least give the mills the benefit of the doubt and wait until they receive their invoices for January shipments before claim-

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpasses the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

880 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 95,719

Gain over November, 1916 9,802

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

ing any benefits under the agreements reached.

"There is an apparent effort on the part of all concerned to co-operate and bring about and maintain better conditions. We hope the publishers will do their share of this by at least giving the mills time to carry out the promises and agreements they have made without undue pressure.

LESS CAR SHORTAGE.

"The car shortage in Canada for the supply of news print to this market has been materially improved. George F. Steele, general manager of U. S. IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FOR 1917 OF NEWS PRINT.

The following figures show that imports from Canada are being maintained at the normal production level of the year.

The exports, however, have increased abnormally over past records and amount to three times what they were for the same month last year. The total for the year to the end of ten months, is 10,000 tons in excess of last year.

The A. N. P. A. paper committee advises that "very strong representations should be made by publishers, their Congressmen and Senators, to have these exports substantially reduced."

	IMPORTS.
	1914	1915	1916	1917
January	23,709	24,156	35,936	41,028
February	21,598	22,943	35,838	33,487
March	26,612	25,859	41,962	47,229
April	24,525	26,854	38,032	42,571
May	27,739	28,156	43,727	48,050
June	25,810	34,880	41,402	47,140
July	24,580	31,331	40,126	47,328
August	25,004	31,245	36,475	50,101
September	28,535	31,047	36,860	45,638
October	28,229	34,618	38,561	47,666
Total for 10 months	261,461	296,182	388,469	450,231
November	26,998	36,182	38,766
December	28,112	36,042	36,468
Total for year	316,661	368,407	463,683

These imports are practically all from Canada.

	EXPORTS.
	1914	1915	1916	1917
January	2,294	5,104	4,565	5,143
February	3,409	3,239	6,156	4,601
March	3,490	4,118	5,264	4,008
April	6,834	4,202	4,843	4,486
May	3,042	2,199	6,071	5,844
June	6,015	6,795	7,800	5,993
July	4,510	3,467	7,458	6,757
August	5,794	4,182	10,394	5,877
September	9,918	7,377	8,714	12,408
October	9,272	5,305	4,940	18,648
Total for 10 months	54,641	45,990	63,707	73,563
November	5,278	5,243	5,617
December	4,998	5,831	5,899
Total for year	64,911	56,064	75,199

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.
National Representatives
F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Scolaro, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 742 Market St., San Francisco

PATERSON New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS

In BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

the Canadian Export Company, whose mills were the chief sufferers, reports that the situation is very much easier and apparently well relieved."

TEXAS MANAGING EDITORS HEADED BY GOVERNOR.

Governor W. P. Hobby was again elected president of the Texas Managing Editors Association at its annual meeting in Beaumont last week.

Thomas Gooch, managing editor of the Dallas Times-Herald, was elected vice-president and Joseph Emerson Smith, managing editor of the San

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREB & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.

The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

WM. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Reps.
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

Antonio Express, was re-elected secretary.

The editors met at the country home of Harry Weiss. They will make Beaumont their permanent meeting place. Sixteen editors from Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana were present.

In appreciation of his past services as president of the organization the members presented Governor Hobby with a handsomely engraved gold watch. C. B. Gillespie of the Houston Chronicle making the presentation speech. Senator R. M. Johnston made a brief speech eulogizing Governor Hobby.

D. P. Toomey of the Dallas News introduced a resolution requesting the Associated Press to use its best efforts to have the censorship of war news from Europe relayed to the extent that all news of importance which would be of no military value to the enemy be given out for publication without delay. "It is our belief," the resolution says, "that the present censorship is so restrictive that it is concealing news that the citizens of the United States should have and which is necessary they should have to arouse the fighting spirit of the American people to the proper support of the government." The resolution was adopted.

Among those present were: Harry T. Warner, Houston Post; George Waverly Briggs, Galveston News; Charles B. Gillespie, Houston Chronicle; Edmund Travis, Austin Statesman; Paul Perkins, Galveston Tribune; C. E. Marsh, Waco News; J. P. Toomey, Dallas News; Tom Finty, Dallas Evening Journal; Tom Gooch, Dallas Times-Herald; Walter M. Harrison, Oklahoma City Oklahoman; Alfred Jones, Beaumont Enterprise; Colonel Stuary, U. I. McCall and J. P. Glass, Associated Press; James M. Thomson, publisher New Orleans Item.

DUTIES OF MR. LOEB DIVIDED.

Following the recent death of Adolph W. Loeb, general manager of the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal, the office of general manager has been done away with and the duties performed by Mr. Loeb have been divided, the responsibility being placed on William H. Rible, for many years business manager, and Joseph R. Hague, for the past five years advertising manager.

E. F. Stuewe of Milwaukee has become editor of the Owatonna (Minn.) Journal.

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Lyttan Building, CHICAGO.

MAGAZINE NOTES

Edward F. Healy, associated with the Review of Reviews, New York, for many years and recently Western manager, has been appointed advertising manager, succeeding R. G. Cholmeley-Jones, who will go to France as captain in the Adjutant-General's department under Major Willard Straight, who has charge of carrying out the provisions of the War Insurance Act.

Robert W. Richardson of the Chicago office becomes Western manager.

Charles H. Pugh, business manager of the Worcester (Mass.) Gazette, has been appointed to the staff of the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, publisher of the Saturday Evening Post and the Ladies' Home Journal, and will be associated with the New England office.

He will have offices in the Merchants Bank Building, 30 State street, Boston.

Charles R. Condon, formerly associate editor of Photography, has been appointed manager of the film advertising department of the Photoplay Magazine.

Miss Elizabeth Jordan, formerly editor of Harper's Bazar, and for the past five years literary advisor to Harner & Brothers, New York, has resigned from that firm. On January 2, Miss Jordan will become editorial director of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation of New York.

M. J. Lott, a special agency man formerly connected with the Literary Digest, has joined the Chicago office of the Leslie-Judge Company, New York.

George H. Hyzen, for several years president of the Crowell Publishing Company, New York, has been elected chairman of the board of directors.

George D. Buckley has been chosen president and general manager.

I. S. Seymour has resigned as vice-president and treasurer, but will continue as a director and member of the executive committee.

Lee W. Maxwell is now first vice-

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue

Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS and SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY NEWS

NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO
(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.

J. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

president and secretary; Thomas H. Beck, second vice-president; and A. E. Winger, treasurer and controller, etc.

Cecil W. Wilson has been appointed to the New York office advertising staff of the Red Book, Chicago.

Lawrence W. Keyes, for nine months manager of the circulation department of the New York Tribune, has resigned to become manager of the Philadelphia office of the Pictorial Review Magazine, New York.

A NEW PAPER MAKERS' BODY

Rumors to the effect that a new News Print Manufacturers Association will be organized are persistent in New York. This association may take the lines of a statistical bureau or some association that will be satisfactory to the Federal Trade Commission.

On this point, the paper committee of the A. N. P. A. says:

"With the Federal Trade Commission now collecting all the statistics of the industry for both consumers and producers in this country and the fact that the print paper producers in this country do not look for export business (since the market in the United States is forty per cent greater than the production) we cannot see what useful purposes such an association could serve.

"The only function it would be needed for is now carried out by the Federal Trade Commission, and the information supplied in very useful form."

BOYS PUBLISH PAPER.

The first issue of the Boys' Newspaper came out on November 24. It has eight pages and is written by boys and for boys.

It is published in Chicago by the Boys' Brotherhood Republic, and its motto is "So long as there are boys in trouble, we, too, are in trouble."

I. Haskell is the managing editor, Joseph Zimmer city editor, Maurice Halevy circulation manager, Herman Wilkins advertising manager and Harry Malkin sports editor.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

The Bohemian Daily Scornost, a Bohemian publication of Chicago, celebrated its forty-second anniversary on December 9. The celebration went hand in hand with the removal of the paper into its new home on Crawford avenue.

The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia BULLETIN Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net Average 366,435 COPIES NOVEMBER A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

WITH BURLINGTON HAWK-EYE AGAIN AFTER EIGHT YEARS.

Tracy Garrett, who has just been made managing editor of the Burlington (Ia.) Hawk-Eye, began his newspaper work in Burlington seventeen years ago.

After two years on the Hawk-Eye, Mr. Garrett managed the Creston (Ia.) Gazette for a year. Then, after working on the Keokuk (Ia.) Gate-City and the Council Bluffs (Ia.)

TRACY GARRETT.

Nonpareil, he went to the Register and Leader of Des Moines in 1904 as sports editor and the night desk. He later worked on the night desk. He became city editor of the Register and Leader in 1907.

Mr. Garrett took charge of the news rooms at the consolidation of the Register and Leader and Evening Tribune and remained in that capacity until, his health breaking, he went to New Mexico in 1909.

For eight years Mr. Garrett has "punched" cattle, hunted and worked in the coal mines, resigning his position as assistant general superintendent

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917
Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. —Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
301 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening

Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.

C. GEORGE KROGNES, Chicago

VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

ent of the Victor-American Fuel Company and agent of the company's New Mexico properties to return to newspaper work on the Hawk-Eye.

CHANGES IN JOPLIN, MO.

L. M. Davis, formerly of the St. Louis Sporting News, is the new editor of the Joplin (Mo.) News Herald, succeeding John F. Williams, who is now a first lieutenant at Camp Doniphan.

Mal McGilvery of Kansas City is filling the position of Harvey Evans, now with the American ambulance corps in France.

Stephen Smith and Mrs. Lyla H. Kinney are covering the work of J. Gentry Daggy, formerly sports editor, who is a sergeant at Camp Funston.

W. T. Smiley, formerly with the Kansas City Star and the Iola (Kan.) Register, is now telegraph editor of the News Herald.

L. J. Marre, who has been engaged in promotion work with various publications in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Alabama and Missouri, is at present service man for the advertising department of the paper.

VETERAN JOURNALISTS GET TOGETHER IN BOSTON.

No dignity or formality was in evidence at the tenth annual gathering of the Veteran Boston Journalists' Association, which took place a few days ago.

Governor McCall of Massachusetts, the retiring president, named Samuel L. Powers as president for the coming year, with Charles E. Pierce as treasurer and Walter Hutchings as secretary.

A Short Story:

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in Advertising and Circulation in 1916

NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co. New York. Chicago. Boston. Detroit.

THE Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS.

In the splendid young men of the American Army the country has evidence of the sound physical and moral courage that has always been the chief characteristic of Americans. All over this broad land men, a big proportion from the newspaper and advertising ranks, have joined the colors at great personal sacrifice and are eager in their ideals of lofty patriotism to rush to the front. In many a home there is deep sadness, but at the same time there is sound patriotism and the heartiest support of the President and his exalted ideals of Democracy.

Captain Royal Edward Trumbull Riggs is among those who have just returned from Plattsburg, with the rank of captain of infantry and has been assigned to Camp Upton, N. Y. He is the son of Edward G. Riggs, for nearly thirty years the chief political writer of the New York Sun. Captain Riggs, until his marriage, lived at the Riggs' old home in Brooklyn. He graduated from Public School Number 15, Brooklyn, and from the Brooklyn Latin School and is a graduate of Williams College, class of 1902, where he won the distinction cum laude.

While at Williams Captain Riggs was the college correspondent of the Sun and is now a member of the Sun Alumni Association.

Captain Riggs graduated from the New York Law School in 1904, winning the prize essay contest. He formed a connection with law firm of Boardman, Platt & Soley and later Mayor McEllan appointed him an assistant corporation counsel. Later he joined the law firm of Gannon, Seibert & Riggs. He is a member of the Lawyers', Williams, Manhattan and University Clubs.

Captain Riggs comes of old fighting stock. He is a direct descendant of Governor Trumbull, "Brother Jonathan," of Connecticut, and of Major Gridley of artillery at Bunker Hill. In every step of his young life he has won distinction and Father Riggs

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star 88,752
Evening Times 42,375
Washington Post 47,032
Herald (over) 25,000

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)

The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE
Post & Telegram
(Evening) (Morning)

Cover This Field Absolutely.

Members of the A.B.C.

JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

vouches for his being "a splendid son and citizen and that he will make a splendid soldier."

"Jack" Koons of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune and the Enquirer, who enlisted in the old 1st Ohio infantry now stationed at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., is in charge of the publicity bureau of the camp—the 37th Division. He is assisted by "Tex" Irwin of the Commercial Tribune and Harry Blaney of the Enquirer, who have enlisted.

A service flag with forty-nine stars has been unfurled from the building of the Philadelphia Press and Evening Telegraph.

Willard Ball of Martins Ferry, Ohio, won a first lieutenant in the artillery division of the second officers training camp at Fort Ben Harrison. He is a former newspaper man.

S. Gordon Hyde, formerly advertising manager of Chicago Advertising, the organ of the Advertising Association of Chicago, is now in Company G, 131st infantry, Camp Logan, Houston, Tex. He has just taken an examination for the aviation section of the signal corps.

The service flag of the Chicago Advertising Association has now twenty-eight stars.

Stanley Ikard, Western manager of Associated Advertising, has joined the Navy.

Hugo Swan, former secretary of the Beter Advertising Bureau, Minneapolis, is now a lieutenant in the machine gun corps.

Russell R. Rainsburg, assistant manager of the engraving department of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, has entered the aviation service and will be sent to Fort Sam Houston, Tex. He is the son of A. P. Rainsburg, head of the Register and Tribune job department.

Harry D. Karns, for several years connected with the advertising department of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade, has just enlisted in the aero construction division of the National army. He has been assigned to Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Norman B. Taylor, assistant advertising manager of the San Angelo (Tex.) Standard, is now a captain in company M, 144th infantry, at Camp Bowie, Tex.

M. Werns, an employee of the Standard, has become a first lieutenant in the same company.

The Indianapolis News has furnished about thirty men for the Army.

Captain Andrew J. MacElroy, editor of the Rockville (N. Y.) Owl, who had two ribs broken as the result of falling into an excavation at

THE CIRCULATION OF THE
CHRISTMAS ISSUE

The BILLBOARD

is guaranteed to exceed

45,000 Copies

It will be obtainable wherever papers are sold throughout the entire English speaking world.

No advance in rates.

Last form closes Sunday, December 16

The Billboard Publishing Co.

Member A.B.C.

Broadway & 4th Monroe and Dearborn
NEW YORK CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING
JOURNAL Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.

Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning
40,655 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending Oct. 1, 1917. P. O. Report.

LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
788 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

Camp Wadsworth, has recovered sufficiently to report for duty at the aviation field at Mineola, N. Y.

Roy A. Buckingham, editor of the Salina (Kan.) Journal, has been admitted into the aviation corps and is awaiting his call.

John A. Owens, city editor of the Taunton (Mass.) Daily Globe, has taken up his duties as secretary at the Knights of Columbus division at Camp Devens.

A new regimental newspaper, the Howitzer, of the 306th field artillery, has just made its appearance at Camp Upton, N. Y. It is a four-page publication, four columns wide, reporting the activities and singing the praises of the men of the big gun regiment. The headlines are artillery terms. "A Barrage Fire of Dollars" is the title of an article reporting $144,950 as the organization's subscription to the Liberty Loan. The notes of the different batteries are grouped under the heading "Shell Fire."

The editor-in-chief is Sergeant-Major Samuel Adler, and the managing editor is Private Monroe E. Davis, with Lieutenant Thomas as administrative editor. The news correspondents are: Battery A, Corporal J. P. Routh; Battery B, Private Harry Lozier; Battery C, Private Nelson L. Wardell; Battery D, Private M. E. Davis; Battery E, Private Fred W. Harvey; Battery F, Corporal Leroy C. Willis.

The recently organized Army Scribes' Club at Camp Zachary Taylor gathered at a dinner last Tuesday evening. The club is composed of newspaper correspondents accredited to the 84th National army division.

The organization was effected to bring the newspaper men at the camp together as often as possible for social purposes and other matters for the general interest of the press.

Dinners will be held at the same hour each Tuesday evening and other meetings will be called at the press headquarters and the newspaper division in camp.

Earl Adams Clark is chairman of the society.

H. Armand de Masi, well known in New York and in Western newspaper circles, has been commissioned a captain of ordnance at the coast artillery training camp, Fortress Monroe, Va. Incidentally, Captain de Masi and Miss Bernice Zychlinski were recently married in Chicago. When

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 175,000 Daily. Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, People Gas Bg., Chicago

THE JOURNAL

IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

Captain de Masi went into the army he was assistant Sunday editor of the Chicago Examiner.

With the call to the colors of those that are still left of the first National army draft, the Fargo (N. D.) Daily Courier-News adds four more stars to its service flag, making a total of fifteen men from that publication in military service.

Grantland Rice, sports editor of the New York Tribune, has enlisted in the 115th field artillery at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., and has been made a sergeant of battery F, a unit from Tennessee. Mr. Rice's native state.

PORTO RICAN EDITOR IS FOUND GUILTY.

Vincente Balbas, editor of the San Juan (P. R.) Revista de las Antillas, was found guilty on December 12 by a jury in the United States District Court on four out of five charges, made under the act concerning espionage and trading with the enemy, for articles which appeared in his newspaper.

An edition of this newspaper was excluded from the mails last month because of an article which the Porto Rican postmaster held was an attempt to convince Porto Ricans that they had no interest in the war and that their call to the colors was illegal.

MAILED OBSCENE MATTER.

Sam Clark and C. H. Creckland, publishers of Jim Jam Jems, pleaded guilty in the Federal Court at Birmingham, N. D., to sending obscene matter through the mails and were fined $2,500 and $1,000 respectively.

The Circulation of the
NEW YORK
EVENING
MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING UNION Star
EXCEPT SUNDAY
AUDITED CIRCULATION 20,643

Home circulation reaching best paid scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.

LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

DEATH ENDS J. F. CARROLL'S USEFUL CAREER.

Before the folks of Oregon met him, John Francis Carroll, publisher of the Portland (Ore.) Evening Telegram, (whose death was noted briefly in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week) had led a most active life. Born June 15, 1858, in St. Clair, Pa., he worked as a breaker boy in the coal mines near his native town. His mother died when he was a lad, and he and his only brother, the late Bishop Carroll, were reared by an aunt. Both parents of the children were natives of Ireland.

John F. Carroll's first newspaper work was as a reporter on the Pottsville (Pa.) Evening Chronicle. He reported for his paper nearly all of the famous "Molly McGuire" cases; seventeen of these men were hanged, and the young Chronicle representative witnessed nearly all of these executions. He never talked about them in after years.

His early newspaper work was done in order to make money to attend medical college. He had been a student at the Pennsylvania Normal School, but teaching was not to his liking. Entering the medical department of the Western Reserve University at Cleveland, he studied there for some time, but was compelled to quit because his eyes failed him. He never again took up the study of medicine, which he had decided to take as a preliminary course to the study of surgery.

Before going to Cleveland, John F. Carroll worked on the Missouri Republican, at St. Louis; he was city editor of the Omaha Bee in 1880-1.

THE PITTSBURGH POST ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburg

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

W. D. BOYCE CO.
500-514 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
205 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK
PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA
DAILY TIMES
INDIANAPOLIS.
THE FARMING BUSINESS
High-class farm weekly, magazine form.
BOYCE'S WEEKLIES
The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.
THE LONE SCOUT
"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT
Only morning newspaper in Peoria.
Peoria JOURNAL
Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL TRANSCRIPT.
Combination Advertising Rate.
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor.
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

when Edward Rosewater was struggling to make this paper live.

Along about this time the former breaker-boy worked on a newspaper in St. Joseph, Mo., the same daily on which Eugene Field was employed. The poet and the master of forceful prose became fast friends, and their friendship continued until Field's death.

During the Missouri Valley period of Mr. Carroll's life he decided to give his eyes a real rest. He went down to Texas, secured a job riding the range, and when the spring drive north came he helped take a herd to the Wyoming range. On this drive he earned the cowboy nickname of "Dogie John." He continued on the cattle range for three years, 1882-3-4, and then went East and secured a position on the Cleveland Leader. He was soon made city editor of the paper.

While in Omaha Mr. Carroll roomed with a lawyer named A. C. Campbell, now a resident of Casper, Wyo. Campbell moved to Cheyenne and began writing to his former roommate about the chances the West offered. The attorney formed a partnership in the Wyoming capital with John F. Baird, who was a large shareholder in the Cheyenne Leader, the territory's oldest newspaper. The paper was floundering along, and Baird decided that an Eastern man was needed to ginger up the publication.

Campbell induced the Cleveland city editor to become the editor of the Cheyenne Leader. J. A. Breckons went in as business manager. The city editor's name was William C. Carroll—no kin to the editor. The Carrolls did all the writing that was done for the Leader in those pioneer days. Later the city editor quit the paper and became justice of the peace.

Before Judge Carroll, some time later, was brought Editor Carroll, charged with criminal libel.

In Denver he was at one time in charge of the Denver Post and he gave the negro poet, Paul Laurence Dunbar, his first real start. Later he took charge of the Times and still later became statistician for the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company. Then he decided to go to the Pacific Coast as editor of the Oregon Daily Journal of Portland.

After months of pain that brought forth no word of complaint, the end came peacefully at the family residence in Portland on December 3.

Mr. Carroll was an optimist. His

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

The NEWS
Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation
The LEADER
Sunday
Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
550 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Muller Bldg., CHICAGO
501 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

U. S. P. O. and A. B. C. Report
THE NEW ORLEANS
ITEM
period ending October 1, 1917
Daily 80,756
Sunday 77,438
Average 63,217
THE JOHN BUDD COMPANY
NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

was the optimism that comes from Irish parentage.

OTHER OBITUARY NOTES.
W. J. McVICAR, formerly reporter on the Nelson (B. C.) Daily News, has been killed in action "somewhere in France."

EDGAR J. SNELL, who went to Washington three weeks ago as advertising manager of the Washington Herald, died there on December 7, at the age of thirty-nine years.

Mr. Snell had been connected with Chicago and New York papers, the Birmingham (Ala.) Ledger and for a number of years with the Minneapolis News. He was thirty-nine years old.

J. H. FITZGIBBONS, editor of the Milwaukee Equity Pilot, official publication of the Wisconsin State Union of the American Society of Equity, is dead.

FLOYD L. SUNDERLIN, editor and proprietor of the Delmar (Ia.) Journal, and at one time owner of the Maquoketa Journal, passed away on December 1. He was sixty years old.

ROBERT B. BARR, owner of the Fort Scott (Kan.) Tribune and a member of the state senate, died of heart trouble on December 4.

WILLIAM MASON SAXBURY, editor and owner of the Queen City (Mo.) Leader-Transcript, is dead, at the age of forty-one years.

MRS. LENA C. MADDEN, widow of John H. Madden, publisher of the Mound City (Kan.) Linn County Republic until a few years ago, is dead in Mound City.

JESSE C. HILL, for twenty years secretary of the Waco (Tex.) Typographical Union, died in Waco on December 4.

E. V. HERMANGE, last survivor of the first owners of the Baltimore Evening News, died in Baltimore on December 2, aged eighty years.

J. E. BLOUNDELLE-BURTON, novelist and naval and special correspondent for the London Standard, died in London on December 11.

HENRY P. DAVIDSON, in his earlier days a newspaper man and writer of historical pamphlets, died recently at the county farm near Peoria, Ill.

WILLIAM G. WEART, secretary and treasurer of the Baseball Writers Association of America, died in

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

is a capable and welcome
salesman in thousands of
good homes.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 235 Fifth Ave., New York
Ford Parsons Co., Michigan Ave., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters
THE TIMES-DISPATCH
RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes
In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

Philadelphia on December 7, aged forty-five years.

Mr. Weart began to write sports for the Philadelphia Morning Times in 1896, and a few years later became sport editor and baseball critic of the Philadelphia Press. Ten years ago he became a member of the staff of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, with which he was connected at the time of his death.

EZRA W. ("BILLY") GODDARD, editor of the Jolly Elk, official organ of the B.P.O.E. of Minnesota, died suddenly at his home in Minneapolis last week.

ROBERT M. JONES, president of the Jeanette (Pa.) News, died on December 5 at the age of sixty-one years.

MRS. HANNAH LITTLE, mother of Mrs. Sarah Montgomery of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening, died a few days ago in Wilmington, aged eighty-three years.

FREDERICK BLAKE, formerly advertising man for the Gayety and Folly Theaters in Brooklyn, N. Y., died this week in Pittsburgh from Bright's disease. Mr. Blake was born in Brooklyn sixty-six years ago and had been in the employ of the Hyde & Behman Theaters for twenty-five years.

FRED I. BOSTWICK, well known in Columbus newspaper circles, died in Columbus on December 9 of hardening of the arteries. He was sixty-four years old.

MRS. MARIE R. BAUDUY, society editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, died on December 2 at Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Bauduy was forty-seven years old and had been society editor of the Globe-Democrat for twenty years, having succeeded her mother, Mrs. R. K. Walter, who was society editor nearly for thirty years.

WILLIAM KEEFER, formerly a well known newspaper man in Omaha and Lincoln, died suddenly last week at Pekin, Ill.

GEORGE WILLIS BOTSFORD, an editor of the Political Science Quarterly and professor of ancient history at Columbia University, New York, died in his office of acute indigestion on December 13, in his fifty-sixth year.

Reverend J. C. Pengelly has become editor of the Anamoose (N. D.) Progress.

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost Jewish Daily

Reaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.
CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price from one to two cents.

THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN daily newspaper in the United States and Canada.

The only real guide of 250,000 thrifty readers and positive success to its advertisers.

Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-688 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

MORE NEWS PRINT CONFERENCES.

(Continued from Second Page.)

face with the same system, prefer a flat rate it is imperative that they formulate a compromise that contemplates a modest increase in the existing rate—whatever increase they feel that they can adjust themselves to.

"It does not seem to me that it will be necessary for publishers to come to Washington for any further hearings on this subject. The whole question was threshed out pretty thoroughly in the hearing before the finance committee of the Senate, and I think now that what is needed is a tacit understanding on the part of the publishers as to what increase in the second class rate will be acceptable in view of the unusual conditions which make some increase necessary."

Senator Smoot explained that if he can get the publishers to agree to accept a definite increase in the flat rate it is his intention to move first to induce the House of Representatives to take the initiative in amending the War Revenue Act.

Inasmuch as it is a revenue legislation that is involved it is ethical that the initiative be taken in the House.

Therefore Senator Smoot will endeavor to persuade the ways and means committee of the House to report with its endorsement amendments embodying whatever compromise arrangement is finally perfected by the publishers in conference.

Should the House leaders decline to act, the Senator from Utah will have

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the

Merchandising Service Department

of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

THE ST. LOUIS WESTLICHE POST

reaches the GERMAN reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.

THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND.

Kurier Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods.

Use Kurier Bostonski

the matter taken up in the Senate, where sentiment in favor of a square deal for the publishers is stronger, seemingly, than in the House.

Speaking of the contrast in the status at the two ends of the Capitol, it may be mentioned that whereas the new session was not a week old ere Senator Smoot had introduced in the Senate a bill designed to knock out the postal increase scheduled for July 1, no corresponding measures for relief have yet made appearance in the House.

After hearing the optimistic views of Senator Smoot, I talked on the same subject with Judge Moon, chairman of the House of Representatives committee on post offices and post roads and notoriously an advocate of the proposition to make the publishing industry "pay its way"—payment being on the full basis of cost estimated by the Post Office Department, which means, of course, a rate of eight or nine cents in certain zones.

Judge Moon gave little encouragement of any action by his committee or by the House. He did not assume to speak for any person but himself, but in his judgment there is little chance that the rates as adopted in the War Revenue Act will be "disturbed." He had heard of no bills to be introduced in the House for a revision of the late increase in second class rates. Nor are any hearings to be conducted by his committee on the subject, although it may be remarked in passing that the committee will next week inaugurate hearings on the subject of salary increases for postal employees.

That the post office committee of the House has scant sympathy with any effort to gain relief for publishers from the sharp increases that have been scheduled is further attested by the fact that the committee has at this unprecedentedly early stage of the session reported the annual Post Office Appropriation Bill—that is the bill making appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919—and has not in that bill so much as made mention of the possibility of the reopening of the subject of the second class mail increase.

The post office committee recommends increases of about half a million dollars or about one-eighth of the increase the Post Office Department officials desired. The increases in the estimates of the department are declared to be due in part to "war conditions" and in part to the "usual growth of the service."

There is no mention of the expense that will be involved in administering is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

MONTREAL

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it thoroughly covers Montreal's population, which is over 700,000, and of which 70 per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.

J. M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, ENG., 15 St. James Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 7 rue de Rocher.

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.

A Splendid Advertising Medium.
Phone Stuyvesant 2044.
90 East 10th Street, NEW YORK

the complicated zone system if applied to second class mail.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS "BLUE SKY" LAW.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: On November 24, you published a list of states having "Blue Sky" Laws; also a list of states without "Blue Sky" legislation.

In error New Hampshire was included in the latter list. This state has a "Blue Sky" Law, which has been in operation since September 1, 1917.

We would appreciate it very much if you would make a correction through your paper of the above mentioned error.
HAROLD CHENEY,
Division of Investment Securities, State of New Hampshire.

[NOTE—The printing of the state of New Hampshire in the non-"Blue Sky" Law list was due to the fact that the authorities did not answer inquiries sent to it at the time the list was compiled. Every effort was made by THE FOURTH ESTATE to make sure the list was correct, but two inquiries sent to the secretary of state of New Hampshire still remain unanswered—EDITOR.]

A.P. MEN MEET IN NEW YORK.

The quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Associated Press was held in New York on December 12 and 13. Those in attendance were:

Clark Howell, Atlanta Constitution; C. H. Clark, Hartford Courant; J. F. Dunn, Syracuse Post-Standard; A. P. Moore, Pittsburg Leader; J. I. Sturtevant, Wausau (Wis.) Record-Herald; Ralph Booth, Grand Rapids Press; W. H. Cowles, Spokane Spokesman-Review; D. E. Town, Chicago Post.

O. G. Villard, New York Evening Post; Adolph Ochs, New York Times; Charles A. Rook, Pittsburg Dispatch; E. H. Baker, Cleveland Plain-Dealer; Frank Noyes, Washington Star; A. D. Weiss, Duluth Herald; John R. Rathom, Providence Journal; C. H. Hastings, Lynn Item; O. H. P. Shelley, Harve (Mont.) Promoter.

Included in the business transacted, was the election of the following new members:

Joliet (Ill.) Herald-News, Russellville (Ky.) Logan Daily Leader, Red Wing (Minn.) Eagle, Danville (Va.) Bee, Madison (Wis.) Capital Times, Santiago (Cuba) Diario de

The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.

THE 30 pages Weekly NEWSPAPER WORLD

Annual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $3.40.
(Established 1898)

Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NARODNI List

Briscoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 19,550 agate lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.

Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
61 Park Row, NEW YORK
Phone 3939 Beekman.

THE JEWISH MORNING JOURNAL NEW YORK CITY

carries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.

Cuba, Fort Morgan (Colo.) Times.

The Eastern division advisory board held a special meeting in New York on Tuesday.

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, had as his guests Wednesday night, at the annual banquet of the Southern Society, the directors of the Associated Press who were in New York attending the meeting.

A.N.P.A. ELECTIONS.

The Stockton (Cal.) Record has been elected into active membership in the A.N.P.A.

The Daily Press and the Times-Herald of Newport News, Va., have been elected to active membership in the association.

The Middletown (N. Y.) Daily Argus has been elected to associate membership.

DETROITERS WERE HOSTS.

Last Saturday evening the newly formed Detroit Journal Club was the host to forty-seven members of the Toledo Blade staff, who made the trip to Detroit in a special car. The Journal men issued a "Junior Journal" as a souvenir of the occasion.

A DISSOLUTION.

The Sullivan (Ind.) Democrat Publishing Company has filed a final certificate of dissolution.

The Only ITALIAN Daily Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

32-34 Battery St. BOSTON

consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.

100,000 Italians in Boston.

300,000 Italians in Massachusetts.

1,000,000 Italians in New England.

"DING"

J. N. Darling's ("Ding's") powerful cartoons are creating a national sensation. Many are being reproduced in The Outlook and Literary Digest as the best of the week. A front page service for your readers furnished seven days a week in mat form.

HILL

W. E. Hill's drawings of people you recognize because they're real people doing everyday things. Little incidents picked out and set before us with a touch that only Hill can give. The Hill page of drawings is furnished weekly in mat form seven or eight columns.

BRIGGS

Briggs' famous cartoons always bring a smile. They're human—incidents from every one's experience—they "get-over" everywhere. Briggs' service is furnished in mat form seven days a week. Give your readers a chance to smile with Briggs.

A Trio that should be in Your Paper

The work of these men is known from coast to coast. Each has a host of imitators—none like the original in point of attracting and holding a reader following.

Get them for your paper. A mat or proof service of each. Placed strictly on merit, you can stop whenever unsatisfactory.

For prices or detailed information write or wire
NEW YORK TRIBUNE SYNDICATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING

Published Every SATURDAY at 222 West 89th St. (near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

DECEMBER 22, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture 1.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894.

No. 1243

Why Chicago Is a Quick Market

Nearly every form of selling effort finds Chicago a responsive market; a market where results are quick and sure.

So sure, so dependable is this Chicago market that advertising managers often wonder why. Surely Chicago people are not so different from those living elsewhere, they reason.

The "reason why" in this instance is that Chicago has The Daily News.

It sells more papers in Chicago and suburbs than any other newspaper, daily or Sunday, 94% of its immense circulation being in its local territory.

When very nearly every worth-while family in a city the size of Chicago reads one certain newspaper, the sales and advertising managers of big concerns have a straight, sure path to a quick market.

Naturally, therefore, The Daily News during the six working, buying days prints more advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

The Chicago Daily News

"It Covers Chicago"

DEALERS PLAN TO FORCE HIGHER PRICES.

THREATEN TO SELL PAPERS AT TWO CENTS DAILY AND SIX CENTS SUNDAY IN SPITE OF THE PUBLISHERS.

Whether one-cent newspaper publishers allow it or not, their papers may be sold daily at two cents a copy and Sunday at six cents by newsdealers as the result of a national movement that probably will be brought to a climax today.

Though national in scope, the movement has its center in New York. At meetings held Tuesday and Thursday nights of this week the newsdealers' associations of Greater New York City appointed a committee to meet the business and circulation managers of the newspapers and suggest that they raise the wholesale price of papers to four and a half cents a copy on Sunday and $1.20 per hundred on week days, and allow the dealers to sell the papers at two cents daily and six cents Sunday.

If the publishers refuse to raise the wholesale price, the newsdealers will take matters into their own hands and raise to the two and six cent price anyway.

President Pickering of the National Newsdealers Association is in New York directing the efforts of the newsdealers to force higher selling prices, and in all other cities having one-cent papers the same steps will be taken by the members of the National Newsdealers Association.

The newsdealers say they are justified in their demands by increased wages they have to meet and other expenses incident to their doing business.

A representative newsdealer said to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"Because certain publishers in New York, Boston, Detroit, Rochester and other cities decline to raise their prices for personal reasons, and therefore are holding back others who want to increase, is no reason why we must go along losing money in our own business of handling their papers.

"We simply can't do it. We want to be fair to the publishers and we are asking them to increase their wholesale prices to us, and allow us a little more margin to meet our enormous expenses.

"Rents for our stands, wages and cost of living have gone up and we are now unable to meet them unless we increase our income from what we sell.

"It is a case of must, with us.

"In Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, St. Louis and the hundreds of other cities where newspapers have gone to two cents the results have proven completely satisfactory.

"Costly waste circulation has been eliminated and the reading clientele of every paper is now on a firm foundation. Advertisers are well satisfied.

"The higher prices have bettered financial conditions of the newspapers by allowing the publishers an income from their paper sales that has helped greatly in meeting the increased costs of production.

"I have canvassed the whole newspaper field and in no city where prices have been raised is there anything but satisfaction among the publishers and newsdealers.

"Raising prices has caused no appreciable falling off in readers, and there is no reason why every newspaper cannot sell for two cents daily and six cents Sunday."

A New York newspaper authority told THE FOURTH ESTATE that he considered the newsdealers' action is one of the most important that has been taken in the American newspaper field in years, and that if carried out it is bound to solve the price problem.

"It is all the more remarkable," he said, "that the higher prices may be forced from the 'bottom up,' as it were, instead of by the owners themselves."

ADVERTISING AIDED GREAT CANADIAN LOAN.

Canada has proved beyond question that advertising is a very profitable investment.

In the recent Victory Loan, the Government asked the people of the Dominion for $150,000,000, which was a large amount considering the population is approximately eight millions. The Government arranged with the leading advertising agencies for a systematic advertising campaign with the result that the stupendous figure reached was $400,000,000, or more than double the amount expected.

Reports say that the province of British Columbia, in point of population, led the entire Dominion in returns, having one Victory Loan subscriber out of every four of the population.

The advertising campaign in British Columbia was handled by the Callopy-Holland Advertising Company, Ltd., in conjunction with a special committee of which A. L. Callopy of the agency was chairman.

NOW WITH EDDY.

H. Halsey Conger, formerly manager for the Sayre & Fisher Company at Sayreville, N. J., has joined the Charles H. Eddy Company, New York.

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGE.

The Farmer & Breeder, Sioux City, Ia., has appointed Barnhill & Henning, New York, as Eastern representatives, effective January 1.

YEAR OF BIG OPPORTUNITY FOR ADVERTISING.

EXPERTS LOOK TO NINETEEN-EIGHTEEN TO SHOW ITS REAL POWER—MOST AGENTS SEE FINE OUTLOOK.

The nearness of the year 1918 finds many publishers of newspapers wondering what the new year has in store for them in the way of business.

Their big question is:

"How will the war affect next year's advertising?"

THE FOURTH ESTATE this week has endeavored to find an answer.

In the significant warning sounded by F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson to members of the Association of National Advertisers at their recent annual meeting, in his paper on "Possible adjustments that may come to the United States because of the war, judging from Great Britain's experiences," Mr. Lawrenson emphasizes the necessity of war time advertising as follows:

"The ever-present danger which confronts those industries that have to change their product is the tendency to reduce selling cost by decreasing an efficient sales force and cutting the advertising proportionately."

It must be remembered that, while certain established industries will make little or no profit during the period of the war, yet there are industries making materials for the various governments, be it shoes or guns, which will make large profits during the war. The materials which are being sold to these governments are made in factories which cost large sums of money to erect.

"Let us not be so foolish as to think for a moment that at the close of the war, when there will be no longer a demand for the products of war, these expensive plants will be scrapped."

"That would be economic foolishness.

"Rather will they be used to manufacture products that will enter the lists in competition with already established business, and, further, this competition will be backed up by money made during the war.

"Is it wise to seriously reduce advertising appropriations when we realize that competition at the close of the war is likely to be more serious than ever before?"

"Can we not gain something from the experience of British manufacturers, who, in spite of the fact that in a number of cases they are not allowed to turn out a single unit of their product, are yet continuing their advertising and in some cases increasing it?"

"In my judgment the sales and advertising manager who is functioning correctly at the present crisis is he who while endeavoring to line his company up to handle products which are essential, continues to build the best possible selling organization and keeps resolutely before the American people the value of a commodity on which hundreds of thousands, and possibly millions, of dollars have already been spent."

"Carefully weighing my words, and with the full realization of the serious nature of what I am saying, I am absolutely convinced that any manufacturer who plans otherwise, who plans with but the present in mind, is taking a step which will bring disaster to his business."

A canvass taken by THE FOURTH ESTATE among representative advertising agents of the country shows that very few of them agree with the pessimistic reports from some sources, including the expressed expectancy of the paper committee of the A.N.P.A. (in its weekly report printed on another page of THE FOURTH ESTATE) that there will be a big drop in the consumption of news print in 1918, due to a certain falling off in advertising volume.

Most of these agents, whose business it is to know the trend of advertising conditions, look forward to a big newspaper advertising year in 1918. They look to newspapers to bring out the real qualities of advertising as it has never been done before.

There is no doubt that a great deal of the success of 1918, from the advertising standpoint, will depend on how well newspapers apply themselves to creating and developing new kinds of advertising to take the place of that which is necessarily curtailed because of war conditions.

Here are what national authorities tell THE FOURTH ESTATE:

Richard A. Foley of the Richard A. Foley Advertising Agency, Philadelphia:

"We believe newspaper advertising will for the first three months of the year go through what may be termed the bear movement. We think a long 'bull swing' in newspaper advertising will begin this Spring.

"Manufacturers and merchants will learn that there are still about ninety-five million people in this country who can buy goods and who are earning enough money to buy goods. The machinery of commerce will be readjusted and the old human principles that date back to the cave

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

N. Y. HERALD LEADS FIGHT ON FOOD PROFITEERS.

A Housewives Vigilance Committee has been formed by the New York Herald to punish all profiteers in food. The purpose of the league is to report and help prosecute every dealer who charges prices in excess of those fixed by the Food Administration's retail list.

The only expense to members of the committee will be postage to send the written statement of the complaint to the Herald, which will take drastic steps to correct the evil.

The Herald's plan has received the full endorsement of Food Controller Williams of New York.

R. F. D. DEMORALIZATION A MENACE TO NEWSPAPERS.

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE TO ALLOW THE DELIVERY TO COUNTRY SUBSCRIBERS ON TIME.

How many newspaper publishers have awakened to the fact that along with their other war problems they face a serious demoralization of the rural free delivery mail service?

The acute situation in the postal carrier service in country and suburban districts has developed so quietly, or rather has been so overshadowed by other war contingencies, that it has not received the attention it deserves from newspaper publishers—and, incidentally, from advertisers.

However, here is a predicament that, if things go on from bad to worse, will affect every newspaper, great and small. The publishers who have declined to worry over the second-class postage increase because virtually all of their rural circulation will be taken care of under the free-in-county system or at the low rates that will obtain in the first and second zones, cannot, when they realize the full import of the situation, regard with similar complacency the threatened chaos in the rural delivery service.

The cause of it all is, as you may imagine, that same shortage of manpower that is playing havoc in so many quarters.

Numbers of rural mail carriers have left their jobs to enter the military and naval service.

An even larger number have deserted for the more lucrative employment in industrial lines. The approach of winter, when the rural carrier's "trick" is seldom exactly a pleasure jaunt, has multiplied the defections.

A single typical case in point, within the knowledge of the writer, will serve to illustrate what is happening all over the country.

A carrier on a thickly-settled R.F.D. route (more suburban than rural to tell the truth) resigned a few weeks ago, and when the Post Office Department was unable to find any person to take his place the officials divided the vacant route between two carriers on contiguous territory—each of these carriers being already overburdened.

The result of this doubling up is that patrons residing at points no more than four to seven miles distant from a city of 400,000 inhabitants do not receive the morning newspapers until 1 or 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

No wonder those morning dailies are beginning to lose circulation to the evening newspapers in their territory, one of which has its own system of suburban and interurban delivery by carrier.

Many of the carriers who remain in the R.F.D. service are dissatisfied and are looking around for other jobs.

It is said that a country postman protested to the department that he could not live and maintain his delivery automobile at an annual stipend of $1,100. The official at Washington to whom he appealed told him that they would inaugurate a rearrangement that would "make him smile." The rearrangement consists in lengthening that carrier's route by ten miles—that is increasing his daily round of travel nearly fifty per cent—and giving him a salary increase of $100 per year. With gasoline at twenty-five cents per gallon and driving gloves up 200 per cent in price the breadth of that postman's smile can readily be imagined.

The whole outlook with respect to rural free delivery is the more cloudy because of the fact that the Postmaster General has for several years past been at loggerheads with Congress over the rural mail system—specifically the system of pay, etc. The rural carrier jobs are among the few political perquisites to Congressmen and they insist upon using the R.F.D. appointments to play politics.

Congress has not been slow in raising R.F.D. salaries. Indeed, a good many people think it has been overgenerous. Only, it has insisted on raising all salaries horizontally instead of inaugurating a system whereby each rural postman will be paid for the service he performs and whereby it will be made worth his while to speed up his schedule and cover a longer route.

Most serious of all is the dilemma which prevents the extensive introduction of motor vehicles for carrying mail in the outlying districts. In the present crisis, with the shortage of men and horses growing more serious every day, the best remedy would be found in a wholesale motorization of our rural mail routes.

But the Post Office Department officials find their hands tied. As the law now stands no motor-vehicle route can be established except on petition of the patrons to be served and it is possible for one or two individuals with a grudge, an antagonism to progress, or a private graft, to effectually block the needed betterment.

Declaring that everything possible has been done to keep the wheels turning, the Post Office Department officials admit that their efforts have been only partially successful. The department has no authority to employ unusual means of getting out the rural mail in an emergency such as the present and the consequence is that on many R.F.D. route deliveries are now irregular and uncertain, whereas on some routes deliveries have been abandoned.

The few newspaper publishers who have been sufficiently stirred by the situation to come to Washington to investigate are frankly alarmed. They have been laboriously building up rural circulation for their daily editions, some of them running a "farm department" or printing a "farmers' supplement" once or twice a week.

They fear that if the rural farm-to-farm delivery is to slump, this circulation will suffer in that the farmers and other country residents will turn to the weeklies and especially to the national weeklies that present extensive reviews and digests of the week's news.

B. C. Ellsworth, for a number of years editor of the Kanawha (Ia.) Record, took possession of the Lake Crystal (Minn.) Union, last week.

AN EDICT AGAINST MEN'S PICTURES.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: There is one matter which the war has not changed, and that is the hide-bound, rock-ribbed adherence of the newspaper editors to custom.

Find me an editor of a newspaper who will assume the responsibility of trying to do something not in favor with other editors, and I will show you a man who is likely to lose his job if he has a boss. If he has no boss he will feel that he has imperiled his property, and all his fellows will be on the lookout every day for his commitment to the asylum.

I am moved to this reflection by some of my experiences as publicity man for World-Pictures Brady-Made, in whose interest I had an adventure last summer in Chicago that sort of brought the whole layout to a head.

I have been trying ever since to put the story on paper, but those of us publicity men who left journalism never again to exert ourselves, and have woken up and gone to work, are really busy much of the time.

Well, I went to Chicago to try and center some little attention upon three stars of World-Pictures who were to follow me in a day or two for a motion picture exposition—Alice Brady, June Elvidge and Carlyle Blackwell.

It was pretty soft to fix things up for the girls, who were well known and pretty, and also interesting. The papers ate up their photographs and copy concerning them like they were starved.

But when it came to Blackwell, not on my life!

Finally things reached a point where the apparent impossibility of putting him over was an annoyance, and just then I walked into the office of an evening paper whose dramatic and motion picture editor said:

"Can't print a picture of a man."

"Why not?" I inquired.

"Orders from the boss," he replied, as though that settled the business forever.

"What's the matter with the boss?" I queried. "Is he suffering from a flock of bats in the cupola?"

"Are you?" came back, just like that. Then: "Take your own case. Would you look twice at a paper with a lot of men's pictures in it?"

The air of finality with which this bitterly scornful conclusion was fired at me was immense, but fortunately I had been looking for it, and I retorted without a gasp:

"I'll send my private secretary over here. Ask her."

My friend the editor looked at me for a moment.

"Where do we come up for breath?" he questioned vaguely.

"Let me tell you," I responded with a mighty effort not to be too all-fired eloquent: "Your paper is an evening paper. When you go out after Marshall Field's advertising, you tell him, or them, that sixty per cent of your readers are women—that if he wants results he must go after them in the paper which enters the home with father at night and stays there; not the paper which goes out with the old man in the morning and never comes back. Is that the approved dope?"

"I presume it is," admitted the editor. "What's it got to do with this Blackwell mug you are bothering me about?"

"Just this: If you have really a sixty per cent feminine circulation, or a fifty per cent she sale, or forty, what do you do for the entertainment of those readers? You give them a few cooking receipts they would never use, for they know better ones of their own; you hand them a lot of stuff about women's clubs that insults their intelligence—if you don't think so, try reading it yourself, or ask your wife.

"You place before your woman reader a pattern of some garment in which she knows she would look like the wrath of God if she ever made it and didn't give it to the servant. And finally, you present her with a daily bunch of bunk about making herself beautiful, and perhaps as a great and glorious favor—seeing that she is such a poor, helpless boob—the advice of some remote movie star of the female species about going upon the motion picture stage.

"This is what you do for your woman readers, if you play the string out to its very end. It has never occurred to one of you to give the women what they want. You play them for a lot of suckers, dealing out your ideas of what they ought to want, but never asking them."

"All-right-all-right," with great weariness. "But what about this Blackwell guy?"

"Just this: Blackwell has a contract with a photographer to supply him with 2,400 photographs of himself each and every month of the year. Upon every one of these pictures he inscribes his name and mails the portrait to some woman or girl who has written in and asked him for it. That makes 30,000 women and girls every year who are sufficiently interested in Blackwell to write and enclose a stamp and ask him to send his autograph on a picture.

"Perhaps some of these are on your list of readers. If not, possibly some of them would be if they were to see his portrait in the paper. This goes not alone for Blackwell, but for even in the whole world. Don't you suppose women like to see what men of interest look like? Is a woman so different from a man that she has lost her sense of sight?"

"Of course, she has a cleaner mind than a man, and doesn't insist on having her pictures of men served naked or near naked, the way the men insist shall be done with the chorus on the dramatic pages; but still, you might give her just a touch of what she wants, while you are bragging to Marshall Field on what a hit you are with her."

The editor shook my hand cordially and said he would make an effort to run Blackwell's picture. He did run it a few days later, at the bottom of the column, below an undertaker's advertisement, flanked on one side by a death notice and on the other by an account of the early life of an intensely uninteresting New England man who makes shoes and puts his likeness on them.

I find that the edict against men's portraits in that newspaper office still goes.

It goes because the boss does not believe his sixty per cent of women readers are human beings but will be satisfied with the poor, perfunctory stuff he deals out to them in his feminine department—which is just like the feminine department of nearly every other paper.

LEANDER RICHARDSON,
Publicity Manager World-Pictures Brady-Made.

GOOD WORK IN OTTAWA.

During the nine days the Ottawa Journal newspapers' "Help Halifax Fund" was open, $13,500 was raised for the benefit of the sufferers in the disaster-swept city.

HEIRS WILL SELL.

The Blosburg (N. Y.) Advertiser, which for many years had been edited by the late John L. Sexton, has suspended publication and will be offered for sale by the heirs of the Sexton estate.

FULL PUBLICITY BY CONGRESS.

PUBLIC SHALL KNOW ALL ABOUT WAR AFFAIRS—
CREEL ON GRILL.

Members of Congress are determined that the people of this nation shall have full information on what their Government representatives are doing in the conduct of the war against Germany.

"Fitless publicity" is the by-word in Congress and no matter whom it hurts the people are going to know all about affairs—unpleasant as they may be.

This has been demonstrated during the past week when the newspapers were permitted to print full details of the Congressional investigation into War Department delays and of the report of General Gorgas of deplorable health conditions in several Army camps.

Congressmen take the view that public opinion is the force that will bring about the quickest remedy of bad conditions.

Even the details of expenditures by President Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo have been demanded by Congress. In this connection the Committee on Public Information has been "on trial" during the past week, both in the House and the Senate.

During the debate upon the urgent deficiency measure Representative Gillett, Republican leader, and others attacked the expenditures of the Committee on Public Information. Of the amount set aside for the use of the President last year "for the national defense and security, and for each and every purpose connected therewith, to be expended at the discretion of the President," $1,300,000 was apportioned to the use of the Public Information Committee.

FOR "FITLESS PUBLICITY."

Representative Gillett attacked the policy of secret expenditures, and during a ruffled out for special mention the Committee on Public Information and the Secretary of the Treasury. He declared that before the President asked for more money the House should know what salaries were paid to the employees in the Public Information Committee, and that Congress should be advised also how the Secretary of the Treasury had spent the many millions allotted to him in negotiating the Liberty Loan bonds.

"The longer the publicity is delayed in these matters," said Mr. Gillett, "the more pitiless it will be when it comes. I hope in the future the Administration will give us the details of expenditures. Germany, we know, has a subsidized press, and it may be necessary that in meeting her we should have a subsidized press. But I think if we do we should know what salaries are being paid and the details of the estimates. We ought to know how the money has been spent before we authorize more expenditures."

In his reference to a subsidized press he meant the Official Bulletin. Mr. Gillett said that it was a sad commentary upon our institutions that the Government should be running a newspaper which did not furnish information that the public, which was paying the bills, was entitled to have. He said:

"In the flotation of Liberty bonds we gave the Secretary of the Treasury millions of dollars to meet the flotation expenses. When authorized the second issue we had no information as to how the money for meeting the expenses of floating the first bonds had been spent. We were told that we could have a detailed statement, but we never got it. I looked in vain for it when I

It is with great pleasure
I announce that RUFUS T. FRENCH has joined our organization for Special Sales and Promotion Work.

Rufus T. French

read the report of the Secretary of Treasury.

"Willing as we are to grant all the money for war purposes that is wanted, we ought to be granted reciprocity on information and be told what is done with the money as we go along."

CREEL'S REPORT.

In answer to a demand by the House, George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information, sent to Representative John J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the House committee on appropriations, his report of the expenditures of this committee from May 4 to November 30, 1917.

In the seven months' period covered by the report, $300,087 was expended out of the allotment of $350,000 for general purposes, and the committee expended $1,285,500 for "informational work in allied, neutral, and enemy countries."

The number of employees regularly engaged in 1917, and the "four-minute men" doing propaganda work numbered 19,000. The average of the weekly payroll was $5,333.26.

In the general expense expenditures are these items:

General committee expenses, including all salaries to Sept. 30.	$45,368
Civic and educational co-operation, including preparation and printing of books and pamphlets	81,418
Four minute men	14,109
Distribution of publications	7,528
News division	7,678
Synthetic features	2,323
Film division	14,256
Speaking division	2,283
Picture division	1,089
Foreign educational work	4,004

HOUSE AND SENATE DEMAND DETAILS.

The report does not give a list of the salaries paid nor make any attempt to itemize the respective expenditures. Representative Gillett, acting Republican leader of the House and a member of the committee on appropriations, said that he would request a fuller report.

Right after this a resolution requesting the Committee on Public Information to inform the Senate of the amount of salaries or allowances for expenses granted to the chairman, George Creel, members of his staff or others and to report on the committee's expenditures generally was introduced by Senator Gallinger, Republican leader. It was referred to the appropriations committee.

Director Creel's report to the House said the committee printed 12,000,000 books and pamphlets, distributing 9,000,000 of them, most of them being on Congressional lines, and almost 2,000,000 being distributed through ministers.

There are 270,000 subscribers to the Official Bulletin. In his statement Mr. Creel says that "the accounting that I give must first of all be prefaced by the statement that I have never considered myself a censor, nor do I, nor will I." He said:

"The whole question of a censorship plays but a small part in the committee work, for it is by its very constitution in the nature of an automatic device."

"The desires of the Government with respect to concealment from the enemy of military policies, plans, and movements are set forth in certain specific requests."

"No law stands behind them. Their observance rests upon honor and patriotism, and I am proud indeed to be able to bear testimony that the faith has been kept."

"There have been violations, as a matter of course, and papers holding to the unwritten agreement have suffered injury from papers less careful and less honest, but on the whole the press has responded in the same spirit of unselfish service that animates the firing line, as it realized that the requests of the Government are concerned with human lives and national hopes as it is driven home that the passing satisfaction of a news item may endanger a transport or a troop train, the voluntary censorship grows in strength and certainty."

Mr. Creel, in what he calls his first complete report on the work of the committee, described in detail, department by department, the operations of his committee. Discussing the Official Bulletin, he said it was never intended to be a newspaper. It is an official record of Government business. He declared:

"I was opposed to its publication and only the order of those in authority forced me to put the idea into effect. I was wrong and they were right. The Official Bulletin has justified itself a thousand fold. It is posted daily in every post office, goes to every Army and Navy post, expeditionary force, every governor, mayor, member of Congress, and $3,000 a month comes from individual subscriptions."

"There is no activity that we are ashamed to reveal; no dollar that is sent on a furtive errand, no paper subsidized, no official bought, no corruption employed. From a thousand sources I am told of the wonder of the German propaganda, but my original determinations have never altered. I try to find out what the Germans are doing, and then I don't do it. German propaganda failed in this country, in South and Central America, and in Mexico, because honest, decent people inevitably turn against dishonesty and indecency."

NO PROVISION FOR THE MAIL TUBES.

The Post Office Appropriation Bill, aggregating $333,000,000, including $1,200,000 for censorship of foreign mails and without any appropriation for pneumatic tube service in New York, Boston or elsewhere, has been passed by the House.

It now goes to the Senate.

The increases in the Post Office Appropriation Bill over last year, when Congress gave $331,316,070 to the Post Office Department, results largely from the war. For carrying the foreign mails the increase for the next fiscal year is about $2,000,000. The present bill carries for such purpose an item of $5,800,000, while there was appropriated last year for this purpose $3,720,000. One of the new items in the bill is $1,200,000 for censorship of foreign mails.

The usual appropriation for the pneumatic mail-delivery tubes is $1,000,000.

DON MARTIN GOING ABROAD.

Don Martin, friend and associate of many of the leading men of the nation, and for many years political reporter on the staff of the New York Herald, who starts for Europe soon as a correspondent for the Herald, was thrust suddenly into the darkened council room in the Herald Building Tuesday evening by an escorting editor. When the lights were turned on Mr. Martin found himself surrounded by his cheering associates on the Herald staff.

Then followed the presentation of a series of gifts, some of which were camouflage and others persiflage, and at the proper time, in other words, the psychological moment, the assemblage parted and Charles Evans Hughes stepped into the room and on behalf of the staff presented to Mr. Martin a watch and fob.

NEW HEARST APPOINTMENT.

F. R. Barnard, for the past three years vice-president of the George I. Dyer Company of New York, has resigned to become advertising manager of the Boston Daily Advertiser and Sunday American-Advertiser under Advertising Director F. L. E. Gauss.

Before joining the Dyer organization, Mr. Barnard was with the Street Railways Advertising Company for nine years, during the latter period as Eastern advertising manager. Previously he was in the advertising department of the Butterick Publishing Company, for five years, as assistant to three successive advertising managers of the Butterick Trio—John Adams Thayer, Thomas Balmer and Ralph Tilton.

A SONG MATINEE.

There will be a Song Matinee at the New York Press Club on December 16, commencing at 3.30 p. m.

The feature of the afternoon will be a talk-recital on "National songs, folk songs and songs the soldiers sing," by Dr. James J. McCabe, district superintendent of the public schools of New York.

NEW ONE IN MULLENS, W. VA.

The Wyoming County (W. Va.) Publishing Company has been incorporated for $10,000 and will publish a newspaper at Mullens. The incorporators are J. B. Frank, J. C. Sullivan, D. D. Moran, J. L. Merryless and A. W. Daubenspeck.

TURN TO PRINTING.

W. W. Slack, former editor of the Cheyenne (Wyo.) State Leader, and William Jardine, formerly with the advertising staff of the Leader, have gone into the printing business in Casper, Wyo.

LIGHTLESS NIGHTS ORDERED.

LAW EVADERS CAUSE RULE FOR ALL LIGHTS OUT TWO NIGHTS A WEEK.

Sunday and Thursday nights will now be lightless on the "white ways" of every city in the country, and the Fuel Administration has also appealed to all patriotic Americans to observe the order, not only in their business establishments, but also in their homes, so far as possible.

The order went into effect last Saturday, and New York had a quarter-lightless night on the following evening, but it was not until Wednesday that the local fuel authorities were able to complete their canvass of business interests in the city and obtain a uniform understanding of the Federal order.

According to this order, there should be no illumination Thursday and Sunday evenings of electric signs and display advertising.

Interior lighting should also be dispensed with in stores which are closed for business. The order applies not only to consumers of coal for lighting purposes, but also to establishments where the illumination is brought about by the use of oil or water power.

The fact that the United States is at war will be brought home to the entire population.

On other nights than those named in the order there will be no legal restrictions for the present at least, and the new order makes void and replaces those which have been published. Economy is requested at all times, however. Dr. Garfield, in announcing the new order, had this to say:

"Use of fuel in this emergency for any of the purposes definitely prohibited in the order is wasteful, and is prejudicial and injurious to the national security and safety."

Many misunderstandings, as well as deliberate efforts to evade the rulings given, appeared so soon after the former orders restricting the use of advertising signs were published, and the Fuel Administration came to the decision that a definite policy which none could evade was the only effective course.

The official announcement concerning the new order reads:

"The United States Fuel Administration, in an amended order issued December 14, puts into effect 'lightless nights' on two nights of each week. These nights are Sunday and Thursday.

"Under the new order the 'white ways' of all cities are to disappear absolutely on the nights designated. The burning of lights contrary to the wording and spirit of the order will constitute a violation of the law and steps will be taken by the Fuel Administration to mete out punishment to offenders.

"The order says:

"No corporation, association, partnership, or person, engaged wholly or in part in the business of furnishing electricity for illumination or power purposes, and no corporation, association, partnership, or person, maintaining a plant for the purpose of supplying for their own use electricity for illuminating or displaying advertisements, notices, announcements, or signs designating the location of an office or place of business, or the nature of any business, for electric searchlights, or for external illumination for ornamentation of any building, or lights in the interior of stores, offices, or other places of business when such stores are not open for business, excepting such lights as are necessary for the public safety, or as are required by law, nor for excessive street lighting intended for display or advertising purposes, whether such lights are maintained by the municipality or others.

"These prohibitions and all of them

TRADE LINOTYPE MARK

THE MACHINE THAT LASTS.

Results

COMPOSING machines are judged by what they do—not by what someone says they should do—nor by what they cost.

Linotypes are known the world over for their steady uniform service—service which represents a stable investment that pays continuous dividends.

Linotypes are built in eleven different models, fully described in a 16-page booklet entitled "The Linotype Line." Ask us to send it.

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE Company

NEW YORK.....Tribune Building
CHICAGO.....1100 S. Wabash Ave.
NEW ORLEANS.....549 Baronne Street
SAN FRANCISCO.....646 Sacramento Street
TORONTO.....Canadian Linotype Limited

Model 14 Linotype
Three Magazines with Auxiliary.

Model 19 Linotype
Two Magazines with Auxiliary.

are effective on Thursday and Sunday nights only of each and every week.

"The only exceptions apply to lights used for Governmental purposes only by the United States Government or the government of any commonwealth or state, street lights used by any city or town or within any city or town under a contract with the officials thereof for such maintenance. But it is expressly stated on 'white ways' or cluster lights may be used under any circumstances.

"The State Fuel Administrators are directed and authorized to see that the provisions of the order are scrupulously observed.

"In addition to the saving of a large quantity of coal, it is believed that 'lightless nights' will provide startling visual evidence that the United States is engaged in the conduct of the greatest of world wars.

"Letters received by the Fuel Administration from companies and individuals engaged in the business of supplying illuminated signs and from manufacturers, merchants, motion picture and other entertainment concerns which make large use of such signs, give assurance that the new order will become fully effective without resort to prosecution.

"The original Fuel Administration order on the dimming of electric signs had failed of the coal saving result expected. That order was intended to restrict the use of fuel-consuming signs to the period between 7.45 p. m. and 11 p. m."

ANTI-GERMAN DISAPPEARS.

Carl Minister, editor of the German revolutionary Socialist paper, Kampf, published in Amsterdam, is missing. He left Amsterdam for Southern Holland last week and has not been seen since. He is said to be an American citizen.

His newspaper has been systematically attacking the German Government.

JUDGMENT AGAINST PAPER.

Alleging that he was induced to invest several hundred dollars in subscriptions, with the understanding that his grandchild would be presented with the prize in a shower of gold contest conducted by the Elyria (Ohio) Chronicle, a man who sued has been awarded $1,150 judgment against the newspaper.

HUMBERT LOSES IMMUNITY.

The French Senate on December 18, without discussion, voted to suspend the immunity of Senator Charles Humbert, former proprietor of the Paris Journal, in accordance with the demand of the public prosecutor.

AID FOR HALIFAX.

The Wilmington (Del.) Evening Journal is making a local campaign for funds and supplies for the Halifax explosion sufferers and is meeting with ready response from the public.

EDITS GRAND FORKS HERALD.

J. H. Pearson, advertising manager of the Grand Forks Herald, has been chosen editor of the Herald, succeeding J. F. Bacon. He will for the present retain personal charge of the advertising department.

EXCELLING ITSELF.

The December 14 issue of the Cedar Rapids (Ia.) Evening Gazette contained 2,532 inches of advertising. It was not a special edition.

A.N.P.A. ELECTION.

The Lowell (Mass.) Sun has been elected to active membership in the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

AD DIVISION FOR GOVERNMENT.

CREATED AS A PART OF THE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION.

The formal announcement of the formation of an advertising division of the Committee on Public Information, through which all national advertising interests have been brought together to aid the Government, was made at a luncheon given by the committee to advertising and trade paper representatives in New York City on December 18, at the Hotel McAlpin.

There Carl F. Byoir, representative of the committee, announced that plans, which he had been working on for the past month, were completed that the advertising division board consists of:

William H. Johns (chairman) of the George Batten Company, New York, and president of the American Association of Advertising Agents.

L. B. Jones of the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., president

WILLIAM H. JOHNS,
CHAIRMAN OF THE NEW ADVERTISING DIVISION OF THE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC INFORMATION.

named will form the point of contact between the Government and the advertising interests of the country. The Government will tell the board what it needs in the way of publicity and the board will make use of the facilities offered it by the advertising elements it represents to get the Government's message and propaganda to the people in the most advantageous way.

"In this way," Mr. Byoir explained to THE FOURTH ESTATE, "the need for free publicity from newspapers and other media will be greatly reduced because the space that is bought and paid for by advertisers will be at the service of the Government for whatever purpose it is needed."

"Advertisers in THE FOURTH ESTATE, too, could help by donating a part of their space to Governmental needs," he suggested.

A CHANNEL TO GOVERNMENT SEAT.

The board (composed of Messrs. Johns, Jones, Houston, D'Arcy and Harn) will act, as explained by Mr. Harn, as the channel through which advertising men of the country can get into touch with the Government.

HERBERT S. HOUSTON.

L. B. JONES.

WILLIAM C. D'ARCY.

of the Association of National Advertisers.

Herbert S. Houston of Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, N. Y., who was chairman of the late A.A.C.W. National Advertising Advisory Board.

O. C. Harn of the National Lead Company, New York, who was a member of the National Advertising Advisory Board.

William C. D'Arcy of St. Louis, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, who likewise was on the advisory board.

Each of these men will receive $1 a month for his services. He is a Federal officer, representing President Wilson with authority to use the Government frank; United States transportation, telegraph and telephone privileges as an agent of the Government.

With the formation of the advertising division of the Committee on Public Information, the National Advertising Advisory Board passes out of existence after having performed very valuable work for the Government in the two Liberty Loan campaigns, National Red Cross work, etc. It took care of all the publicity needs of the Government from the time the war started until now, when the regularly organized division has been authorized.

All advertising and publishing interests desiring to give their services to the Government in any way, shape or form will work through the members of the new advertising division of the information committee.

Publishers and advertising associations will appoint committees to work in co-operation with the advertising division. This arrangement will include the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the Association of National Advertisers, the Periodical Publishers Association, the Business Papers, Inc., the Associated Advertising Clubs, etc.

Only the Association of National Advertisers has yet announced its sub-committee. As THE FOURTH ESTATE told in its report of the A.N.A. meeting two weeks ago, its committee consists of Messrs. Jones and Harn, George W. Hopkins of the Columbia Phonograph Company; and Edward Hungerford of Wells Fargo & Co.

NEWBOLD OR WILEY FOR A.N.P.A.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association will co-operate with the advertising division through its Advertising Bureau under the direction of either Fleming Newbold of the Washington Times; chairman of the advertising bureau committee, or Louis Wiley of the New York Times. This has not yet been decided, nor have the members of the A.N.P.A. committee been announced.

The five members of the division and find out what the Government needs in the way of publicity and what they can do to meet this want.

O. C. HARN.

"While working through the National Advertising Advisory Board, advertising men grabbed whatever weapons they could find and used them as best they could to help the Government," said Mr. Harn, "but now the official recognition by the Government of advertising opens up real opportunities."

"The new advertising division of the Committee on Public Information offers a means of bringing the various elements of advertising together and finding ways and means of using each one most advantageously. The board members know the language of advertising men and the conditions and terms of advertising; when advertising men want to help, the members will understand thoroughly how their services can be best utilized, and be able to act quickly and to the Government's best advantage."

SPRIT OF THE A.N.A.

L. B. Jones declared that every one of the 288 members of the Association of National Advertisers, spending approximately $100,000,000 a year in national advertising, has endorsed the new advertising division and will do all in their power to help. As an example of the spirit in the A.N.A., Mr. Jones told how, two weeks ago, the A.N.A. elected him president, another very able member was slated for the office, but when he discovered the Committee on Public Information had its eyes on Mr. Jones for one of the advertising board, he insisted on stepping aside and aiding in the election of Jones. "The formation of the advertising division is most gratifying to the A.N.A. members," said Mr. Jones.

OLD TROUBLES OVERCOME.

Herbert S. Houston reviewed briefly the work done by the old National Advertising Advisory Board, and declared that the Associated Advertising Clubs were just as ready to serve the Government through the new advertising division as in the past. "Much of the work of the old board was misunderstood," said Mr. Houston. "Despite impressions to the contrary, the board maintained from its beginning that advertising space was a commodity and should be bought by the Government and paid for. In its first statement of purpose, it suggested being made a division of the Committee on Public Information, but this was never done."

"When the war started the board was formed by advertising men, voluntarily, to give whatever service they could to the Government to help it in reaching the people with its messages."

"The ad men first of all submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury a plan for buying advertising space for promoting the Liberty Loan. Mr. McAdoo said it interested him, but he had no money."

"The members of the board had enlisted for the war and met the situation—to make bricks without straw—and doing it in the first Liberty Loan campaign. They met the same trouble in the second Liberty Loan campaign and went out again and obtained for the Government hundreds of thousands of advertisements—paid for by the business men and publishers. This space was used to the best of the ability of the board, which at the end had the advertisements compiled into five great bound volumes, representing hundreds of thousands of dollars paid for by the business men of the country. Likewise it aided the National Red Cross campaign to raise $100,000,000, with

Some Recent INTERTYPE ORDERS of interest to the trade:

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) HERALD

10 Model B
1 Model C
3 Model C-s.m.
(with side magazine)

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT

7 Model C-s.m.
(with side magazine)

SEATTLE (Wash.) STAR

3 Model B
1 Model C
1 Model C-s.m.
(with side magazine)

WASHINGTON (D. C.) POST

3 Model B
(repeat order)

The Intertype is a flexible machine, so simple and so well built that the more it is investigated by buyer, foreman and machinist, the stronger is their conviction that it is

"The BETTER Machine"

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

Executive Offices and Eastern Sales Department

50 Court Street, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Middle Western Branch
CHICAGO
Old Colony Building

Southern Branch
NEW ORLEANS
539 Carondelet Street

Pacific Coast Branch
86 Third Street, SAN FRANCISCO

advertising obtained in the same way to the extent of several bound volumes.

"Besides their work, the efforts of the members of the National Advertising Advisory Board cost each one of them anywhere from $200 to $3,000, which was given freely in their patriotic desire to serve the nation. In the second Liberty Loan campaign space valued at from $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 was used in behalf of the Government through the board. The trouble with the old board was that it had no Government authority to act or suggest anything. All it could do was to advise."

"The new advertising division has Government authorization and it will work all times in the closest relationship with the Government and its departments. Its members have no desire except to serve their country. We realize that there is only one thing to do—win this war and defeat Germany. We are in this war to the end and are willing to serve in any way we can."

Mr. Houston expressed his regrets that one of the men most responsible for the success of the Government advertising so far—William H. Rankin of Chicago—was unable to be present at the luncheon.

ADVERTISING'S OPPORTUNITY.

President D'Arcy of the Associated Advertising Clubs said it was great satisfaction to him to have advertising receive official recognition from the Government. He said advertising was a wonderful force—that it belongs alongside education and the church. "Now advertising has its chance," said Mr. D'Arcy, "to protect the country's business and organize business to help do for civilization what President Wilson wants to do. Through representation in the division, the Associated Clubs will be able to work through advertising clubs in 175 cities, and can be especially valuable in getting the co-operation of the retail class of advertisers. This action of the Government, opens the way for constructive work. By authority the information committee can accumulate information and the advertising division can pipe it along to the place it is most needed."

"Advertising's hour of opportunity has struck."

WHAT THE TRADE PRESS IS DOING.

Jesse Neal, secretary of the Associated Business Papers, Inc., showed how 300 members of that organization have given 7,000 pages of advertising and editorial matter to the Liberty Loan campaign, without condition, and have been instrumental in adding 8,000 men to the New York State National Guard and in organizing several engineering and roads units; also in urging the furtherance of good road building in the United States as a means of relieving railroad traffic congestion.

Mr. Neal said that one of the members of the Business Papers, Inc., visited Washington and was told there that the War Department had been able to obtain the services of only four expert mechanical designers. This member reported to the association and the members were instrumental in raising from among the readers of their papers a force of 104 of the leading mechanical designers of the United States to serve the Government, the difference in their pay being made up by their employers.

Incidentally, Mr. Neal said that the development of the Liberty Motor by the United States Government was due to a member of the association—Harry Tipper, general manager of the Automobile. This publication

(Continued on Thirtieth Page.)

NEWSPAPER ADS ON THE INCREASE.

NOVEMBER GAINED ON SAME MONTH LAST YEAR—THE FIGURES.

Reports received by the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association from 107 newspapers in 23 American cities show that the usual autumn increase was maintained during November in a parity with last year's returns, an increase of twenty-one hundredths per cent being shown for November, 1917, as compared with a slight decrease last month.

The returns for November from the Eastern cities as represented by New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Buffalo, show an increase of one and one-half per cent as compared with November of last year.

The returns from the Middle West as represented by Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Indianapolis show a decrease of four and three-tenths per cent as compared with the same month last year.

Returns from the Pacific Coast as represented by Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland show an increase of two and two-tenths per cent compared with last year.

Returns from the Southern states represented by Baltimore, Birmingham, New Orleans, Atlanta, Houston and Washington, show an increase of three and nine-hundredths per cent compared with November, 1916.

The returns from the Northwest as represented by Minneapolis, St. Paul and Kansas City show an increase of 3.9 per cent, compared with same month last year.

The following statement shows the total number of agate lines of advertising carried by these papers during the years 1914, 1915, 1916 and the eleven months ending November, 1917:

Eleven months ending November, 1916, 67,856,682.

Eleven months ending November, 1917, 68,213,056.

Total agate lines, 1914, 655,053,516.

Total agate lines, 1915, 663,210,516.

Total agate lines, 1916, 747,215,418.

The November figures, compared with October's, follow:

City	October	November
Atlanta	1,782,088	1,870,092
Baltimore	3,478,223	3,559,476
Birmingham	1,606,026	1,507,092
Boston	3,718,804	3,584,742
Buffalo	2,514,614	2,570,551
Chicago	5,097,507	4,600,538
Cincinnati	2,910,100	2,928,132
Cleveland	3,341,044	3,160,550
Detroit	3,732,076	3,652,432
Houston	730,394	649,093
Indianapolis	2,185,058	2,107,431
Kansas City	1,563,068	1,491,975
Los Angeles	3,739,502	4,018,336
Milwaukee	2,116,113	2,060,192
Minneapolis	2,483,432	2,377,014
New Orleans	1,875,996	1,799,109
New York	10,791,305	9,718,675
Philadelphia	5,437,500	5,351,100
Portland	1,798,800	1,750,136
St. Louis	3,422,163	3,126,204
St. Paul	1,727,832	1,669,186
San Francisco	2,800,158	2,209,374
Washington	2,814,430	2,774,439
Total	70,856,682	67,239,088

The total newspaper advertising lineages for the years 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917 (including October) was printed in THE FOURTH ESTATE of November 17, and further comparison can be made by referring to that edition.

The accompanying chart shows the comparative monthly record in graphic form.

The Harris Herald has been merged with the Silbey (La.) Tribune. The former has been suspended.

FLUCTUATIONS OF NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING LINEAGE IN 1914-15-16-17.

By Courtesy of the A.N.P.A. Paper Committee.

1918 OPPORTUNITY for ADVERTISING.

(Continued from Second Page.)

man will reassert themselves. Chief among them is: 'I have something that you want and I will exchange it for something you have that I want.'

"The modern method of effecting this exchange at the least possible cost is newspaper advertising."

"We have seen several accounts develop within the last sixty days because of the fact that manufacturers have a quick message to put across and they are finding it so effective that they make it continuous."

S. Wilbur Corman, president of the Corman-Chellenham Company, New York:

"The man who is gloomy about the advertising situation just now is the same man who is gloomy about the general business situation. We are up against thoroughly abnormal conditions in every line of industry, but there is no question of the outcome. Moreover, there is no question but that when final adjustments come business will be the gainer through what it has learned in these strenuous times."

"As a finality, business must be organized more sensibly and scientifically, and just as in recent years we have seen so much of the benefits of scientific management and production, it is my belief that right around the corner we are going to see a vast improvement along scientific lines in distributive and advertising methods."

"All of this will be good for the advertising business."

"Such contact as I have with business men prompts me to feel that the shrewdest advertisers will, in the next few months, proceed cautiously. It is no time for retrenchment and it is no time for plunge advertising. The right kind of advertising will prove its rightness more than ever before—the wrong kind should, and probably will suffer."

Harry Porter, president of the Harry Porter Company, New York:

"There will naturally be a cutting down in the advertising of luxury products and until the uncertainty as to how Washington will act is over many manufacturers will hold back on expenditures. While I don't believe there will be as much money spent during 1918, I am still very optimistic."

Mallory, Mitchell & Faust, Chicago:

"We believe 1918 will be the biggest year in history of newspapers for national advertising, especially on staples in towns where newspapers render practical, equitable merchandising service to advertisers."

Theodore F. MacManus of Theodore F. MacManus, Inc., Detroit:

"Should self-constituted critics in Washington be successful in their stupid crusade against so-called non-essentials, the volume of newspaper advertising for 1918 might be affected. Some of them are actually contending that manufacturers should make no effort to stimulate their business, but supply only so-called normal demand. If the newspapers squelch this fallacious argument unanimously, 1918 business will be above normal. Every one of our clients is eager and anxious to advertise as vigorously as ever. Three of our largest automobile manufacturers, enjoying enormous markets, sincerely recommend editorial reply all over America to silly propaganda against advertising."

L. E. Smith of Ruthrauff & Ryan, Inc., New York:

"We can say, as concerns ourselves, that business looks very good for 1918. Whether this condition is general among agencies and advertisers, we cannot say, but we are very hopeful about business for 1918."

Martin V. Kelley of the Martin V. Kelly Company, Inc., Toledo and New York City:

"The outlook for 1918 newspaper advertising is bright. Our clients are all optimistic and will use newspapers more than ever. Conditions fully warrant this determination."

Carl M. Green of Carl M. Green Company, Inc., Detroit:

"A careful estimate of the opinions expressed by many large manufacturers in various lines, as well as a precise personal appraisal of the situation, leads me to the belief that with personal salesmanship seriously affected by the drafting and volunteering of so many men to the country's service, the use of advertising—the printed salesman—must necessarily be greater than ever before during nineteen eighteen."

William H. Rankin Company, Inc., Chicago:

"Newspaper advertising has done big things recently for the Red Cross, Liberty Loan, fire insurance companies, bakers, charity organizations, etc. It has organized these forces into an efficient unit now operating together for the benefit of humanity on a basis theretofore not even dreamed of. Newspaper advertising will do even greater things during 1918. Let no manufacturer who has a sales story that will benefit the consumer overlook this great educational machine."

Russell Law of the Russell Law Advertising Agency, New York:

"The duration of the war is a factor which in any accurate forecast of coming events is, of course, impossible to weigh. If peace is concluded during the coming year, I look for the greatest prosperity the publishing and advertising business has ever known."

"On the other hand, the present volume of advertising shows such a sharp contraction over a year as

Guaranteed Unbreakable

HERCULES
STEEL CHASES
and GALLEYS

Send for Quotations

Manufactured by AMERICAN STEEL CHASE
COMPANY, INC.
38 Park Row, New York, N. Y.

that one may with reason believe that the business world has already discounted the bad effects of the war for several years to come."

William H. Johns, vice-president of the George Batten Company, New York:

"We are able to speak only from our own business standpoint. From all present appearances, our volume of newspaper advertising during the coming twelve months will be by far the greatest in our history. None of our clients using newspaper space has shown any intention of retrenching in the slightest degree, whereas others have already made plans for an increased lineage."

The Johnston-Agnes Company, Inc., San Francisco:

"There is a splendid opportunity for a concerted drive to show the advantage of newspaper advertising by sections or zones to introduce brands of goods taking the place of Hooverized commodities. Business no doubt will regulate itself to conditions and find a way to make progress in order to provide funds to support the war."

St. Elmo Massengale of the Massengale Advertising Agency, Atlanta:

"Prosperity in this section is marvelous. A majority of our customers are planning increases over this year's newspaper advertising, provided the situation regarding raw material and transportation improves. The feeling is more optimistic than otherwise, while our clients and ourselves are spending every energy toward helping our Government win the war."

A. R. Elliott of A. R. Elliott, Inc., New York:

advertising in 1918 will depend largely upon the 'still hunt' of the advertising man and the ingenuity of the copy writer. There will be a great economic appeal to the public by manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers of foods, clothing, and all the necessities of life in an attempt to show goods that give 'the most for the money.'

"Advertising men and publishers will do well to hunt out a lot of manufacturers who have never advertised but who have goods of merit, from an economical standpoint, which might well be brought into public view."

J. A. Richards, president of the Joseph Richards Company, New York:

"The outlook for 1918 is bright as affecting newspaper and other forms of advertising that are proved and solid. Our clients are increasing appropriations. War conditions are creating more than they are curtailing opportunity. For every advertiser who hauls down the flag there will be two new ones, I believe."

C. Ironmonger of the C. Ironmonger Advertising Agency, New York:

"While it is undeniably true that some advertisers, inspired by over-caution, have curtailed their advertising appropriations for the coming year, we find no general movement of that kind and we do not look for a radical diminution of newspaper advertising for 1918."

"As I have recently stated, a live country can make war better than a dead one. To stop advertising without reason means to decrease the revenues of the nation. We do not believe that any concerted or widespread movement of this kind will materialize. Although a prediction for the future, based upon the abnormal conditions now facing the world, might prove to be wide of the mark, it is our opinion that the total

Our products are known for their absolute uniformity
in every particular.

TICONDEROGA SPECIAL MAGAZINE For Half Tone Work

The paper on which THE FOURTH ESTATE is now and has for many years been printed.

TICONDEROGA EGGSHELL BOOK

Unsurpassed for booklets and catalogs containing line plates and straight type matter.

Ticonderoga Pulp & Paper Co.
Mills at Ticonderoga, N. Y.
Sales Dept., 200 Fifth Ave., New York City

DISTRIBUTING DEALERS

NEW YORK CITY

Lasher & Lathrop, Inc.
Commercial Paper Co.
J. E. Linde Paper Co.
Merriam Paper Co.
Henry Lindenmyer
Holden & Hawley

CHICAGO

J. W. Butler Paper Co.

PHILADELPHIA

D. L. Ward & Co.

BOSTON

Carter, Rice & Co.

ST. LOUIS

Mississippi Valley Paper Co.

BUFFALO

The Alling & Cory Co.

SAN FRANCISCO

Pacific Coast Paper Co.

CLEVELAND

Central Ohio Paper Co.

BALTIMORE

Smith Dixon Co.

PITTSBURG

The Alling & Cory Co.

BUFFALO

The Alling & Cory Co.

LOS ANGELES

Sierra Paper Co.

MILWAUKEE

Standard Paper Co.

CINCINNATI

The Diem & Wing Paper Co.

SEATTLE

Mutual Paper Co.

KANSAS CITY

Missouri-Interstate Paper Co.

ROCHESTER

The Alling & Cory Co.

COLUMBUS

Central Ohio Paper Co.

TOLEDO

Central Ohio Paper Co.

NEW HAVEN

Chatfield Paper Co.

SCRANTON

Megargee Bros.

SPOKANE

American Type Founders Co.

OMAHA

Carpenter Paper Co.

GRAND RAPIDS

Central Michigan Paper Co.

ALBANY

Hudson Valley Paper Co.

DALLAS

Southwestern Paper Co.

HOUSTON

Southwestern Paper Co.

TROY

Troy Paper Co.

HOLYOKE

Judd Paper Co.

DES MOINES

Carpenter Paper Co.

of 1918 newspaper advertising will not materially suffer."

Charles J. O'Malley of the O'Malley Advertising and Selling Company, Boston:

"The prospect of advertising in New England is not very encouraging for 1918. There will be considerable spasmodic advertising of a local nature, but it is very doubtful that there will be a large volume of national advertising."

"The industrial plants of New England are now at their maximum production and whatever advertising they do will be of an encouraging 'fill the gap' kind. The advertising man will make a fortune who will induce a manufacturer to advertise when the said manufacturer is running his plants day and night with orders filled for almost a year ahead."

"That is the condition today in New England."

James O'Shaughnessy, executive secretary of the American Association of Advertising Agencies:

"Advertising is primarily and essentially a force for economy. In this country it does the work of myriads of men in bringing about distribution. It releases men for places when men are needed."

"Advertising will necessarily be used in greater volume in 1918 to serve commercial distribution, to enable business to pay war taxes and to conserve the man power of the nation."

ON SOIL IMPROVEMENT WORK.

J. W. Henceroth has been made Western editorial manager of the soil improvement committee of the National Fertilizer Association, Chicago, succeeding Melvin Ryder, who has entered the service of the Government.

MACON TELEGRAPH CHANGES.

C. A. Beach of Atlanta is doing the police run on the Macon (Ga.) Daily Telegraph in place of C. C. Hall, a national guard man who was recalled to service after having been discharged from border duty.

T. J. Byrson, formerly a member of the Macon News staff, is filling the position of C. E. Gregory, who is now on the Atlanta Georgian.

Thomas Skinner has also left the Telegraph to join the Atlanta Georgian.

George M. Sparks, who was with the troops at the border covering Georgia news for the Telegraph, is covering a similar assignment at Camp Wheeler.

Charles C. Morgan is at present aiding in sport work.

James Francis has also joined the Telegraph.

FIXED PRICE TROUBLE.

Colgate & Co. of Jersey City, well known national advertisers, have been indicted by the Grand Jury in the United States Court of Norfolk for violation of the Federal laws by refusing to sell their products to dealers who would not agree to sell at the prices fixed by the company.

The indictment alleges that the defendants, through wholesale and retail dealers, fixed the price at which all their products should be sold, and refused to sell to dealers who would not agree to sell at the prices fixed by the company, thus suppressing competition.

GREELEY LETTER DESTROYED.

The original letter written by Horace Greeley entitled "Go West, young man," was destroyed when the residence of Joseph G. Butler, wealthy steel man, was burned in Youngstown, Ohio, on December 11.

SHIELDS WATER POWER BILL PASSES SENATE.

PUBLISHERS SUCCESSFUL IN FIRST STEP TO CONDITIONS ENCOURAGING AMERICAN PAPER MAKING.

The Shields Bill (S. 1419), one of the national water power legislation measures which the American Newspaper Publishers Association and THE FOURTH ESTATE have been urging as an "entering wedge" to effect means of encouraging the investment of capital in American water power development, which, among many other things, would help promote the making of more news print paper in the United States, has passed the Senate.

In legal language Bill S. 1419 is to "amend an act entitled 'An act to regulate the construction of dams across navigable waters,' approved June 21, 1906, as amended by the act approved June 23, 1910, and to provide for the improvement and development of waterways for the uses of interstate and foreign commerce."

This is the first bill of water power legislation which newspaper publishers, led by the paper committee of the A.N.P.A. and THE FOURTH ESTATE have endorsed, to pass one house of Congress. The favorable action by the Senate brought the following comment from A. G. McIntyre, special representative of the A.N.P.A. paper committee, to THE FOURTH ESTATE:

"I think the Senate action is undoubtedly in our favor, as it recognizes the right of leasing for a period of years, giving ample protection to the publisher.

"The chief significance of the passing of the Shields Bill in the Senate is that it recognizes by a very substantial and satisfactory majority the leasing right for fifty years, with a re-capture clause at the end of that time. This has been the bone of contention for some time as the ultra-conservativists of the Gifford Pinchot type insisted on annual cancellation of leases, under which you realize how impossible it would be to finance any undertaking of the magnitude required for the development of a paper mill.

"The passing of this bill recognized by the Senate now provides for a lease for a long period of years, during which time the property cannot be confiscated. This is really the only necessary essential for financing and is the basic principle for which we have been striving.

"Please let me again express to THE FOURTH ESTATE our appreciation of your very material co-operation and assistance of your editorials which have proven of special benefit to the many publishers of this country."

The bill provides primarily for the improvement of navigation in rivers under the jurisdiction of Congress with private capital, as distinguished from appropriations by Congress for that purpose, and, secondly for the development and utilization of the water power of those rivers resulting from such improvement, as well as that created by dams constructed and to be constructed under the authority of Congress.

These developments would tend to create conditions which would encourage the expansion of the American paper industry, and eliminate America's dependency on Canada for the greater part of its supply of paper.

It is believed that the bill provides a way by which many of the navigable rivers of the country can be opened to commercial navigation, which, for the want of available means, cannot for years be improved in the ordinary way by appropriations from the Treasury of the United States, provided the provisions covering the secondary object of the bill are broad enough and liberal enough to attract private capital desiring to invest in water power development; for it is obvious, without great inducement of individual interest and advantage, private capital will not be invested in an improvement for the sole benefit of the general public.

It is estimated that there is in the navigable rivers of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, and also of what may be developed by feasible storage projects, over 81,000,000 horse-power of water-power energy, not more than one-tenth of which is now improved and utilized. This great natural resource in all other civilized countries is developed practically to its fullest extent, and has and is now, by furnishing cheap power, contributing greatly to the wealth of those countries and the convenience and happiness.

(Continued on Twenty-seventh Page.)

FOR MORE FOOD PUBLICITY.

Projects are under consideration for the establishment of publicity bureaus that the general public may be constantly informed on the rulings of Herbert C. Hoover, Federal Food Administrator.

LEAHY ADVANCES.

Fred A. Leahy, formerly general sales manager of the Eastern Manufacturing Company, paper manufacturer, with offices in New York, has been made vice-president of the company.

CHRISTMAS TOBACCO FUND.

The American Association of Foreign Language Newspapers has collected $10,137 for the Christmas Tobacco Fund for the American soldiers in France.

WHITE COMING BACK.

Charles T. White, who has been New York City tax commissioner under Mayors Gaynor and Mitchell, will return to the New York Tribune on the close of his term of office in charge of political news.

George Wellemayer has given up the publication of the Harris (La.) Herald.

DATA ON TOBACCO FOR EDITORS.

ADVERTISERS PROTEST AN ALLEGED UNFAIR ARTICLE.

Several national advertisers of tobacco have called the attention of THE FOURTH ESTATE to articles that have appeared recently in newspapers which they say have cast an unfair reflection on the tobacco industry.

They write as follows:

"Knowing that THE FOURTH ESTATE reaches so many newspaper publishers, would you print the following in the interest of fairness and the good of the cause?"

"One of the protested articles was signed by L. H. Leach and is dated Washington, D. C. It follows:

"Cigar stores are plastered with signs announcing increased prices for tobacco, cigars and cigarettes—all account of the war—or rather the war tax."

"There is some grumbling and a good deal of skepticism about the war tax. Smokers rather suspect the tobacco trust's excess profits taxes also, with perhaps some more private profits on the side.

"The retailer is also coming in for his share of suspicion.

"Now if it is true that the tobacco trust or the retailer is covering an increased profit with the camouflage of war tax, they are indulging in a peculiarly odious form of profiteering.

"Not only are they taking advantage of the war to gouge the people, but are making the war unpopular by creating the impression that the war taxes are unreasonable.

"Before the recent increases one popular brand of cigarettes, selling at ten cents for a package of twenty, was sold to the retailer for seven and eight-tenths cents a pack, netting him a profit of two and two-tenths cents per package.

"Now this same package of cigarettes sells for thirteen cents, although the war taxes increased only one cent a package. The increased war tax is only fifty cents a thousand on cigarettes of this grade, which figures out one cent on a package of twenty.

"But today the retailer is making only three-tenths of a cent more a package than when the package was sold for ten cents. The balance of the increase is either gouged by the tobacco trust, or is due to increased prices of raw material or cost of production.

"The tobacco trust now composed of a number of ostensibly 'competing' companies first raised the price of this cigarette to eight and nine-tenths cents a package.

"The retailer advanced the price to twelve cents and increased his profit to three and one-tenth cents a package.

"A little later the trust raised the price to ten and one-half cents a package, and the retailer raised his price to thirteen cents. However, his profit decreased to two and one-half cents per package."

"The report of the tobacco market, from the Winston-Salem (N. C.) Journal of December 1, shows that market prices for tobacco in November were three times those of 1915 and double those of 1916. This report says:

"During the past three months, with a few days in the fourth, the Winston-Salem leaf tobacco market has sold a total of $1,791,797 pounds of the 1917 crop, distributing among the farmers of this section, including warehouse fees, a total of $7,177,985.09, the average for the Fall having been $39.94 a hundred pounds.

"The average thus far this Fall has amounted to about three times as much as the average for the crop of 1915 and almost double the average for last year.

"The November sales amounted to 6,606,250 pounds, sold for $3,827,771.78, an average price of $58.09 a hundred pounds, practically thirty-five cents a pound.

"With the high prices that are prevailing, the growers, in general, do not care to wait until after the holidays, as they believe the highest point has been reached, and, while there is no evidence that prices will be lower after Christmas, it is possible that there may be a drop.

"For this reason it is probable that something like four million pounds will be sold between now and December 30, the day on which the market closes for the holidays."

INCREASED TAXES.

"In addition to these prices, by referring to the Internal Revenue Bill you will see that the tax on cigarettes of the kind referred to was increased eighty cents per thousand, making a total of $2.05 per thousand or four and one-tenth cents per package of twenty.

"For your information, the increase in the Internal Revenue Tax is not the only element upon which tobacco manufacturers are justified in increasing the price of their products. Leaf tobacco is selling nearly one hundred per cent higher than corresponding grades sold for last year.

"This in addition to the increase in Internal Revenue Tax and a general advance in materials of all kinds."

CANADA'S LIBERAL EDITORS STAND BY GOVERNMENT.

Eighteen Liberal editors of Canada who are now supporting the Union Government have addressed to Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian forces in France, a cable in which they express their confidence in the Government, saying that it has the support of practically all the prominent Liberals of the Dominion, save those of Quebec.

The editors are:

Stewart Lyon, Toronto Globe; J. W. Daffoe, Winnipeg Free Press; J. E. Atkinson, Toronto Star; G. F. Pearson, Halifax Chronicle; E. W. McCready, St. John Telegraph; Colonel Davis, Hamilton Times; T. H. Preston, Brantford Expositor; W. F. Kerr, Regina Leader; W. J. Taylor, Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

J. I. McIntosh, Guelph Mercury; W. Davidson, Calgary Albertan; J. G. Elliott, Kingston Whig; W. E. Smallfield, Renfrew Mercury; H. T. Blackstone, Orillia Times; H. J. Pettypiece, Forest Free Press; H. B. Donly, Simcoe Reformer; H. P. Moore, Acton Free Press; Howard Fleming, Owen Sound Sun.

SAN FRANCISCO ENGRAVERS RETURN FROM STRIKE.

After a strike of seven months the photo-engravers making the cuts for the San Francisco dailies have returned to work and the newspapers are again publishing fresh cuts on local news.

The engravers walked out with demand for higher wages. They returned to work under the old conditions.

The strike threw several photographers and artists out of work.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

CALIFORNIANS IN CONVENTION.

EDITORS FAVOR GOVERNMENT OPERATION OF PRINT PAPER MILLS.

Problems that face the editors of California newspapers, political, financial and mechanical, were discussed at the semi-annual meeting of the California Press Association in San Francisco on December 7-8.

The editors voted unanimous indorsement of the Congressional resolution favoring Government operation of print paper manufacturing as the best method to reduce the cost of white paper.

Philip S. Bates, secretary of the Oregon State Editorial Association, declared: "You are being robbed; that's all there is to it."

He blamed the manufacturers' trust and not the selling agencies.

C. H. Brockhagen of Oakland delivered an address on "Advertising," in which he urged more mutual co-operation among the publishers to fight the billboards and street car agencies.

On "Advertising Agencies" addresses were given by H. W. Atwood of H. K. McCann Company, V. R. Churchill of Honig-Cooper Company, Sam P. Johnston of Johnston-Ayres Company and L. A. Smith, a member of the association.

Other speakers on the program were Justin McGrath on "Effect of war on newspapers," F. B. Mackinder and M. F. Cochrane on "Free space," J. Elmer Mobley on "County press associations," and H. S. Allen on "Press clippings."

The editors ended their convention with a dinner dance at the Press Club and later an informal entertainment at the Newspaper Men's Club.

Lloyd McCutcheon of the Mt. Vernon (Ia.) Record has taken possession of the Marlon (Ia.) Sentinel.

DAILY FOOD BULLETINS ARE COMING SOON.

The New York food board proposes to continue its plan of publishing "suggested" prices, wholesale and retail, for the guidance of the public. "We want the people to know what the retailer pays for his goods," State Controller Mitchell said, "and what the consumer should pay. The force of public opinion should be strong enough to compel observance of these prices."

The attorney-general's office is preparing the list of regulations which are to be spread over the state as a warning.

Food price lists which ultimately will include twenty articles are being prepared at the food board offices. It is planned to announce these daily.

The lists will deal with butter and eggs, meat, poultry, fish and other commodities.

EDITORS OF KANSAS WILL MEET IN WICHITA.

The 1918 Spring meeting of the Kansas Editorial Association will be held at Wichita early in May, exact dates to be announced later.

A change of the bylaws will be recommended providing for a membership fee of $5 and annual dues of $2, instead of the present membership of $1 and annual dues of $1.

These were the two principal items of business transacted at the meeting of the executive committee held in Topeka.

It was also decided to have the annual newspaper week at the state university in the Fall instead of in the Spring.

The program of the Spring meeting will be largely a war program.

FOR TEXAS FOOD PUBLICITY.

John H. Regan, formerly with the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle, has been released by M. E. Foster, publisher of the Chronicle, to become publicity director for the Texas department of the Food Administration.

CHARITY IN NEW YORK.

The requirements of all the cases included in the list of the New York Times' Hundred Neediest Cases have been met by contributions.

These cases were specimens selected from among thousands of others, in which the need of help was very great. The four organizations which selected the Hundred Neediest Cases have each prepared a list of ten additional cases which are scarcely less in need of assistance from a charitable public than were the original one hundred.

Contributions for the One Hundred and Fifty Neediest Cases printed in the Times and for other similar cases passed the $50,000 mark on December 20 and reached a total of $51,163.16.

Less than $4,000 is now required to bring the total above that obtained in the 1916 campaign, which was the most successful ever held up to that time.

MEETING OF CREDITORS OF PRESS ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the creditors of the American Press Association of West Virginia, in New York at the office of Stanley W. Dexter, referee in bankruptcy, on December 17, a number of claims were filed and E. Bright Wilson was elected trustee.

It was stated that there were no assets in sight, but were to be pursued by litigation with prospects of a settlement.

W. G. Brogan, general manager, was briefly examined and stated that the company had assigned all of its assets, leaving creditors unpaid. He was ordered by the referee to produce the books of the company, and also those of the New York company.

PAPER COMPANY DIRECTORS ARE ELECTED.

Three new directors were elected at the board meeting of the Riordan Paper and Pulp Company, Ltd.

The vacancy left by the death of F. W. Avery of Ottawa was filled by the election of Thomas E. Warren, manager of the Ticonderoga Pulp and Paper Company, the American subsidiary of the Riordan Company.

The board was also increased from seven to nine members by the election of C. B. Thorne, manager of the Hawkesbury mills, and F. B. Whittet, secretary-treasurer of the company.

BOARD OF MANAGERS WILL CONTINUE COAL JOURNAL.

According to the will of the late Frederick Edward Saward, editor and proprietor of the Coal Trade Journal, that publication is to be continued under a board of managers.

Three sons and a daughter will share in the income from the property. Mrs. Frances Saward is to receive $100 a month and the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Blind gets $1,000 from the estate of the blind editor.

BIG MEN IN NEW CLUB.

A new New York luncheon club that bids fair to be popular with advertising and newspaper folk is the Uptown Club, just organized with quarters in the Winfield Building, Fifth avenue and 40th street. The club will take possession on March 1, 1918.

Among the members already are George A. McAneny of the New York Times, Julian M. Gerard of the Hearst newspapers, Frank Presbrey, Frank A. Munsey, and Louis Wiley of the New York Times.

A new Democratic weekly is being launched at Auburn, Ind.

Ours is a "Come Back" Organization

Publishers throughout the United States have come to recognize in the Hollister organization a dependable means of obtaining new circulation among the best people in the community.

It is this ability to render a valuable circulation service time and again that has earned us the reputation of being a "come back" organization. For,

We're back on the St. Louis Republic

—about to conclude another big circulation drive for this old-established journal. After our first campaign one year ago, resulting in $100,000 worth of subscriptions, they said:

"The contest has been the means of interesting a great many young women in the Republic and they have secured thousands of new subscriptions from their friends in homes which an ordinary solicitor could not reach."

and—

We're back on the Oakland Enquirer

—just starting our second big campaign for this newspaper. Two "come back" campaigns at the same time! Among the many other papers we have repeated on are the Los Angeles Times and San Antonio Express.

A third campaign now running on the Tulsa (Okla.) World

One word explains why the Hollister organization is called upon repeatedly—by the same papers—to build up more circulation. And that word is results!

We get results! New readers by the thousands—at a minimum cost—in double quick time.

THAT'S what YOU want!

Write or wire for a complete outline of our plan—the distinctive Hollister plan—for getting dependable HOME circulation

C. B. HOLLISTER

General Manager
NORTH-EASTERN
CIRCULATION CO.

Care of St. Louis Republic
Care of Oakland (Cal.) Enquirer, or
Care of Tulsa (Okla.) World
Home Office, Davenport, Iowa.

GOV. W. P. HOBBY OF TEXAS AND EX-SENATOR R. M. JOHNSTON.

They are, respectively, editor of the Beaumont Enterprise and editor of the Houston Post. This picture was taken at the Weiss Hunting Lodge, north of Beaumont, during the recent meeting of the Texas Managing Editors Association.

LIBERTY LOAN AD REFUND.

ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN IN CHICAGO COST ONLY 2.7 CENTS PER $100 BOND.

Charles H. Schweppe, director of publicity for the second Liberty Loan in the Seventh Federal Reserve District (Chicago), has sent a check to each donor to the fund for the Chicago advertising campaign for the pro rata share of the surplus.

The Chicago business men at the outset of the campaign, through the energetic work of Mr. Schweppe, and Henry Schott, vice-president of Montgomery Ward & Co., raised an advertising fund of $80,249.

After a very thorough and successful campaign was run, as shown by the $177,000,000 subscribed, it was found that the campaign cost only 2.7 cents per $100 bond sold, and that there was a balance of $26,532.20 in the fund, which is the amount Mr. Schweppe is distributing to the donors.

The fund was raised with the understanding that no names of business houses were to appear on the advertisements, and from October 8 to October 27 either a full page or smaller size ad was run in each of the seven Chicago English dailies. Advertisements also appeared in eighty-three foreign language newspapers and five Illinois farm papers.

The low cost of advertising per $100 bond sold, 2.7 cents, shows that Chicago reaped the benefits of the previous Red Cross and Liberty Loan advertising.

The costs per $100 bond sold in some of the other cities were:

Muncie, Ind., 2.4 cents; Saginaw, Mich., 2.7 cents; Davenport, Ia., 2.9 cents; Utica, N. Y., 3.9 cents; Clinton, Ia., 5.4 cents; Adrian, Mich., 5.5 cents; Washington, 6.5 cents; Columbus, Ohio, 6.8 cents.

AID THE WAR SAVINGS.

Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the National War Savings Committee, has issued the following appeal to the country publishers of the United States:

"Dollars alone will not win this war. What we need is man power, shops and materials. To release these necessities we must sacrifice our pleasures and even our comforts, to the end that all industry and energy may be devoted to the sole aim of winning this war and providing the Government with the necessary money for the prosecution of the war.

"The National War Savings Committee is interested not alone in disposing of the $2,000,000,000 of war savings stamps, but also in instilling into the minds of the American people the economy and thrift that alone will enable the Government to dispose of its securities, either in the form of war savings stamps, Liberty Bonds or other forms of indebtedness. To this end I believe that the understanding and co-operation of the country publishers is necessary, for they reach the heart of the American people."

NORWEGIAN PAPERS WILL NOT COMBINE.

The Fram, a Fargo (N. D.) Norwegian weekly just purchased by P. O. Thorson, publisher of the Grand Forks (N. D.) Normanden, will not be combined with the Normanden. It will continue to be published in Fargo and printed by the Ulsaker Publishing Company, former owner of the Fram.

The sale did not include the printing and stationery business of the company.

The foreign newspaper men of Tokyo seldom get together as a body, but recently (November 22) they met to tender a farewell luncheon to one of their staunchest outside friends, Post Wheeler, counselor of the American Embassy and for six months past its charge d'affaires. Mr. Wheeler, who is one of the former editors of the former New York Press, will arrive in New York City Christmas Eve, and after spending the holidays here will depart for Stockholm to be counselor of the American Legation in Sweden.

Left to right in the picture taken at the Imperial Hotel, Tokyo, at the luncheon hour, are:

Hugh Byas, business manager of the New East, Tokyo, and an extensive writer for the London press; Gregory Mason, managing editor of the Japan Advertiser and correspondent for the Outlook; Alexander Tison, a New York lawyer who has several Japanese newspapers among his clients; F. N. Penlington, editor of the Far East, Tokyo, and correspondent for the London Times; Ralph H. Turner, United Press correspondent;

Dr. Clay MacCauley (front), correspondent of the Boston Transcript; J. W. Robertson Scott, editor and publisher of the New East; Harry E. Ridings, business manager of the Japan Advertiser; Post Wheeler; B. W. Fleisher, proprietor and editor of the Japan Advertiser; Frank H. King, International News correspondent; J. S. Happer, advertising manager of the Japan Advertiser and an expert in Japanese prints; K. Sugimura, associate editor of the Tokyo Asahi; and Oscar E. Riley, editor of the Geppo, Tokyo, and correspondent for Asia.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

L. W. and L. M. Osborne have purchased the plant and business of the Tomahawk (Wis.) Leader from R. G. Lee.

The Esteline (S. D.) Tribune has been sold by Will Leighton to Don Osborn, who will consolidate it with the Esteline Journal, of which he is editor and owner.

The Victoria (Tex.) Deutsche Zeitung has discontinued publication for the period of the war.

The Isle (Minn.) Independent has changed its name to the Mills County Leader.

The Kaukauna (Wis.) Times has been incorporated for $15,000 by John McCoy, Francis W. Grogan and B. W. Fargo.

The Iowa Forum, a weekly journal of public affairs, has made its initial appearance in Des Moines.

The Oak Harbor (Mich.) Press, published since 1873, has suspended. William Guerno, the proprietor, will devote all of his time to job printing work.

G. W. Van Atten has suspended the publication of the Melvin (Ia.) Argus and has gone to Primghar, where he is now publishing the Democrat.

The Forsyth Taney County (Mo.) Republican has been leased to Fred R. Moran, W. E. Freeland, the former editor, being engaged in Government work.

James Biggerstaff, formerly traveling salesman for Barnhart Brothers & Spindler and prior to that with the Oklahoma City Times, has purchased the interest of Judd Woods in the Bristow (Okla.) Record and has been elected secretary and manager of the publishing company.

C. E. Hershberger, editor of the Supply (Okla.) Republican, has purchased the Buffalo (Okla.) Republican and will conduct both papers.

Oscar Siegel, formerly with Thomas B. Brooks, New York printer, is now associated with the Vreeland Advertising Press, New York.

Fred J. Wagner is again associated with the Horseless Age, New York, as advertising manager.

Guy C. Pierce, for ten years connected with Every Week and the Associated Sunday Magazine as Western advertising manager, has been made director of advertising of the Independent, New York.

The New York Times since 1911—six years—has gained more than 4,000,000 agate lines (13,513 columns) of advertising, which, it claims, is a greater gain than any other New York newspaper.

Merle Sidener, chairman of the vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, addressed the Kansas City (Mo.) Advertising Club on December 14 on "Truth in advertising."

From January 1 to December 17, the New York World printed 1,784,400 separate ads. For the whole year of 1916, the World printed 1,780,257 ads, which was the record. No other newspaper prints within a million ads of the World's total.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATED BY THE SPRINGFIELD NEWS.

The Springfield (Ohio) News, owned for the past twelve years by Governor James M. Cox, celebrated its centennial anniversary on Sunday, December 16, by issuing a 100-page newspaper elaborately illustrated. It covered in a historical way every phase of Springfield and Clark County.

The News is a direct successor of the Farmer established in 1817.

We Spend More Than $500,000

per year to produce the features which have created the greatest newspaper following in the world.

"Hearst Features Always Lead"

Write for booklet "A Half-Million Dollar Feature Service."

International Feature Service

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

SOME BENEFITS OF ASSOCIATIONS.

ONE MEMBER'S PROBLEMS TODAY MAY BE THE OTHER FELLOW'S TOMORROW.

By J. F. SWEENEY,
Circulation Manager Winnipeg Free Press and Secretary-Treasurer Western Canada Circulation Managers Association.

What are the benefits to be derived from a circulation managers' association?

I can picture Mr. Publisher in the sanctity of his inner office hurling this question at the circulation manager when he approaches him diffidently to obtain his approval of his organization, and I can also picture Mr. Circulation Manager sitting down at his desk and in the midst of his worries asking the same question, only he might word it differently—what he would be likely to say is, "What is there in this thing for me?"

That there are benefits to be derived from an association of this kind is such a self-evident fact that it hardly needs any argument to sustain it.

Co-operation is a much overworked word in these days of rapid progress, and there are very few people today doing business on this old planet that are going to get up and say, "There's nothing to it."

There may be a few names in history's pages that can be dug up to show that the individual all by his lonesome did accomplish great things, but these are only a few exceptions that help prove the rule, for the one name that can be mentioned, or the one case that can be cited where the individual working alone did manage to achieve something, there are hundreds and thousands of instances that can be quoted to show that the failure of a vast number of plans was principally due to lack of co-operation or the want of collective action.

I need only refer to one outstanding instance—take the case of William Hohenzollern. This poor deluded individual thought himself "und Gott" could run the universe to suit his own distorted ideas, and four-fifths of the civilized world are busy today showing William that he is all wrong.

Just as surely as two and two make four you can set it down that any combination of individuals is going to result in greater benefits all round, and each individual is going to reap a pound of profit for every ounce that he himself may contribute.

Circulation work does not differ materially from any other work in this fundamental principle, that the knowledge we possess of it is the result of an experience obtained either by ourselves or others who have passed it along to us; so that in the solution of the many problems that confront us from time to time it is only natural to conclude that we can all help each other, and be in turn helped by the larger light and the combined wisdom of the many.

THE I.C.M.A. IS AN EXAMPLE.

It has been my privilege to attend some of the I.C.M.A. conventions and I can truthfully state that I found them helpful and beneficial in many ways. The intercourse and exchange of ideas that these conventions make possible gives one a broader and better understanding of the work he is engaged in, and this coming in personal contact with men of the same profession from time to time tends to keep one from getting into a rut, and you come away from them with bright ideas that might never have entered your own head, and with a general feeling that much good is ac-

Service Flags

FOR THE
HOME, OFFICE, CHURCH, FACTORY, PRESS CLUBS,
SCHOOLS AND
FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

All Sizes—Low Prices—
Immediate Delivery.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN

29 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

complished by the bringing together of men who are all thoroughly in earnest, and desirous of improving the circulation business.

It is true that the circulation manager today is a specialist in his line of work. He is daily confronted with questions which he himself must settle, but what is your problem today may have been the other fellow's problem yesterday or may be the next man's problem tomorrow. If you know the general line of action pursued in each case will you not be all the better prepared to deal with the matter that calls for adjustment?

There is another aspect to this question that I do not wish to overlook. We are all engaged in a similar business. We have a duty to perform to the publishers who employ us, their interests should be our interests and any movement that will lead to a better relationship between publishers is well worthy of support.

In our own particular line of work we ought to by our united efforts be able to elevate the standards of the circulation business so that all unfair or unscrupulous methods will be entirely eliminated. We can strive to develop more scientific methods of doing business and by so doing make the circulation department a revenue producer instead of a burden to the institution with which it is connected.

There are many other ways in which we can by working together build up a better and more substantial business for our respective publishers. Once we have the organization it will not take very long to prove it's worth.

There is just one thing more to be said, and it perhaps is the most important point of all—the success of any organization is determined by the amount of interest taken in it by its members.

If the circulation managers of Western Canada want to have an organization that will be of real benefit to them, they must be prepared to contribute each one his full share; the obligation you assume when you become a member should be fulfilled and in this way we will lay the foundation of an association that will through time prove of inestimable value to all concerned.

LOUISVILLE POST LOSES.

A judgment of $2,000 has been awarded against the Louisville (Ky.) Evening Post in favor of the Axton-Fosher Tobacco Company. The tobacco company asserted that its business had been injured by articles published in the Post.

The True News FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg., NEW YORK

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes.
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Indiana (Pa.) Messenger has just closed a subscription contest conducted by the John E. Bateman Company. Two automobiles were included in the prize list.

The John E. Bateman Company has begun a subscription contest for the Windber (Pa.) Era.

Percy F. Marshall, recently selected as circulation manager of the Louisville (Ky.) Post, has leaped about from department to department during his thirteen years' connection with the Evening Post and has found time on the side to associate himself with one of the leading law firms of Louisville, devoting three years to the practice of law.

The newspaper career of Mr. Marshall began when he was route manager for the paper with which he is now associated. He was later manager of the soliciting crews and premium canvassers. It was at this time that he branched off to law work, but what few idle hours he had found him back among his former co-workers.

PERCY F. MARSHALL.

Later, Mr. Marshall gave up law to enter the editorial department of the Post as amusement editor, to which soon was added the title of

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric Bulletin Machines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.

Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you one?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.

NEW LONDON, CONN.

PROSPERITY EDITIONS

J. A. McAVOY

National Exchange Bank Building
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Inbad Family

our New Strip Comic by Wood Cowan, begins Dec. 31. Five and seven columns.

The International Syndicate
Established 1899. BALTIMORE, MD.

feature editor. He became assistant circulation manager two years ago and secured his recent appointment when D. B. G. Rose resigned to devote his entire time to outside business.

As a side issue he has contributed short stories to the field of fiction and has also won some recognition among the photoplay scenario editors. Mr. Marshall is thirty-five years old.

William P. Meade has succeeded E. F. Cunningham as circulation manager of the North Adams (Mass.) Herald, the latter having been called to serve in the intelligence division of the War Department.

The Lockport (N. Y.) Niagara Daily Press is running a "Niagara Maid" popularity contest.

The New York American, the Chicago Examiner and the Boston Sunday Advertiser & American will publish in their Sunday editions a pictorial gravure section beginning March 3, 1918.

The International Syndicate is offering a new strip comic, "The Inbad Family," to be released during the week of December 31.

WITH THE "SPECIALS."

Gray Sullivan, formerly with C. George Krogness who retired from the special representative field, has become associated with Guy S. Osborn, special representative, in the Chicago office.

Rufus T. French has become associated with Paul Block, Inc., New York, where he will do special sales and promotion work.

NEW NEWS SERVICE IN IOWA.

The H. J. Toon News Service Company, Des Moines, Ia., of which H. J. Toon is president and Helen Dixon secretary, has filed articles of incorporation. The capital stock is $10,000.

PAPER REVERSE OF YEAR AGO.

A.N.P.A. SAYS PUBLISHERS NOW CAN NAME TERMS OF THEIR CONTRACTS.

The current bulletin of the American Newspaper Publishers Association paper committee says:

"Prospective paper markets give increasing evidence of becoming soft and showing a very satisfactory condition, from the publishers' point of view.

"Many of the marginal mills making specialties are now shut down entirely, or running on part time. News print is the only grade of paper on which mills are running anywhere near production.

"There is now on hand, as reported previously, a surplus of paper of from 250,000 to 300,000 tons, and there will be a further surplus next year of about 200,000 tons, provided publishers carry on their business as economically as they should.

"This enormous surplus will operate to make a slump market for 1918. It must be remembered that the price to be fixed by the Federal Trade Commission is a maximum price and not a minimum price, and at the present time market conditions indicate that the open competitive market will be below any figure set by the commission, and publishers buying in the open market will be able to buy substantially below any price at which they can now buy or which will probably be fixed, because of this enormous surplus and the substantial change in market conditions.

"The committee wishes further to issue a strenuous warning that publishers do not loosen up on their schedule, or increase their sizes, thereby nullifying the benefits for which we have been striving for so many months.

"Advertising has taken a drop in some localities, and there is a prospect of a further slump. This, with publishers running on a close schedule, will keep the paper situation where it ought to be and maintain a satisfactory and competitive market.

"The pulp markets have gone to pieces entirely. Many mills are running part of the time; others are contemplating shutting down. Prices a year ago at this time were over $50 a ton at the mill. Today it is difficult to obtain more than $25. The price on all paper making materials will be changed and fixed by Government regulation. The situation is exactly the reverse of conditions a year ago.

"If publishers will carefully watch their consumption and operate as closely as possible, not making up the drop in advertising by increasing reading matter, the situation will be wholesome for 1918 and the open market price will drop below three cents.

"The paper committee particularly urges publishers not to sign fixed price contracts for 1918 under any camouflage which may be attempted by manufacturers, as they are not in the interest of publishers under prospective market conditions. There are only two ways to buy paper for 1918—both good. The best is in the open market, without any contract at all, and the second best is under the terms of the Federal Trade Commission agreement.

"A big slump in the general paper market is ahead. Stocks on hand should now be used up, as they can be replaced later for very much less money.

CANADIAN EXPORT CONTRACTS.

"The Canadian Export Paper Company is offering all its customers al-

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION'S BOOK PAPER REPORT OCT. 28 TO DEC. 2.

Figures made public by the Federal Trade Commission show an increase in the mill stocks of periodical paper, but a decline in the stocks of other grades of book paper during the period of five weeks beginning October 28 and ending December 2. Stocks on hand at delivery points, however, increased from 9,750 tons to 14,894 tons.

The figures are based on weekly reports to the commission from forty-eight book paper companies operating seventy-four mills. The results of the operations are given for the first and fifth weeks.

The report follows:

	STOCK ON HAND AT MILLS AT END OF WEEK.
	First Week.	Second Week.	Third Week.	Fourth Week.	Fifth Week.
	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.
Total book paper	25,127	25,293	23,507	33,174	32,740
Periodical paper	4,668	4,608	4,755	4,507	4,869
MADE DURING WEEK.
Total book paper	16,499	16,655	16,101	16,941	16,696
Periodical paper	4,860	5,309	5,042	5,950	5,544
SHIPPED DURING WEEK.
Total book paper	17,907	16,294	16,613	16,963	16,506
Periodical paper	5,300	5,145	4,946	5,925	5,529
STOCK ON HAND AT MILLS AT END OF WEEK.
Total book paper	33,532	33,684	33,180	32,847	32,692
Periodical paper	4,697	4,607	4,946	4,903	4,680

Periodical paper includes that known by manufacturers to be used for printing magazines and periodicals. The total figures include the periodical book paper.

The figures show an increase in mill stocks of periodical paper but a decline in the stocks of other grades of book paper during the five weeks period covered. Stocks on hand at delivery points, however, increased from 9,750 tons to 14,894 tons.

LOSS OF TIME.

The weekly reports for the 245 machines included show the following hours lost for the five weeks on account of lack of orders and other special reasons:

	Down For Lack of Orders.		Down for Other Special Reasons.
	Number of Machines.	Hours Lost.	Number of Machines.	Hours Lost.
First week	53	2,834	22	1,114
Second week	39	2,677	29	1,781
Third week	37	2,254	42	2,180
Fourth week	30	3,378	25	600
Fifth week	40	2,954	23	654

The hours lost for special reasons include repairs, lack of materials, car shortage, etc. During the fifth week there was loss of time on account of a holiday, which is not included.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

The exports of book paper from the United States and imports of chemical pulp for the first ten months of 1917, as compared with the corresponding period of 1916, were as follows:

	Ten Months 1917, Ten Months 1916.
	Net Tons.	Net Tons.
Exports of book paper (total)	23,466	48,540
Imports of unbleached sulphite (total)	224,090
From Canada	101,862
From Sweden	114,764
From Norway	5,899
Imports of bleached sulphite (total)	38,797
From Canada	10,030
From Sweden	12,245
From Norway	15,522
Total imports of unbleached chemical pulp	316,225	264,651
Total imports of bleached chemical pulp	40,808	44,892

The table shows a marked decline in the exports of book paper and a large increase in the imports of unbleached chemical pulp for the ten months of 1917 as compared with the corresponding period of 1916.

ternative contracts other than under the agreement of the Federal Trade Commission and is offering these in such a way as to make a publisher who is not fully informed on the prospective market situation, inclined to accept a fixed price for 1918, rather than the Federal Trade Commission agreement.

"This company is offering contracts to many of its customers at below three cents, with the idea of inducing them to take such a price and waive all rights to the Federal Trade Commission agreement.

"The committee recommends to such publishers that unless a price of $2.85 or less is offered under satisfactory contract terms, they sign no contract except one which comes under the terms of the Federal Trade Commission agreement. The waiver now attached to the Canadian Export

Company's contract excludes the publishers signing it from any benefits of the agreement during 1918, according to information from the Department of Justice.

ALTERNATIVE PRICES.

"Manufacturers are offering publishers alternative contracts as against the Federal Trade Commission agreements on the standard form of contracts, the following prices:

"International, $15 f. o. b. mill.
 "Canadian Export Company, $ and under.
 "W. H. Parsons, $.
 "St. Regis, $10.
 "Minnesota & Ontario, $35.
 "G. H. Mead Company, $.
 "J. R. Booth, $10.

"The committee advises all publishers to decline contracts on this basis, excepting only Federal Trade Commission agreement."

ANNUAL DINNER OF CAMERA MEN IN JANUARY.

New York news photographers will hold their annual dinner on January 6 at Keen's 44th Street Chop House.

The managements of the Winter Garden, Century, Hippodrome, Gus Edwards and others have co-operated in the arrangement of the entertainment program.

W. J. Hearfield of the American, W. Warnecke of the World and V. Palumbo of the International Film Service are the committeemen in charge.

WEST A PUBLISHER.

Henry C. West, for twelve years an employee of the Birmingham News has been chosen as the publisher of a new labor paper in Birmingham—the Weekly Call.

THE TOLEDO BLADE

Largest Two-Cent Evening Circulation in Ohio.

THE DETROIT JOURNAL

More than 100,000 of Buying Power Circulation in a City of unusual mercantile activity

The Newark Star-Eagle

Remarkably quick growth of solid circulations offers a rising market for advertising results.

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.

Managers of National Advertising (New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit)

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING CO.

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
 An organization of merchandising people highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.
 SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
 Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
 750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
 40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
 Kresge Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN
 PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
 225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
 11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
 28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.
 Representing Newspapers of
 Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
 Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
 Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

NO SUCH WORD AS SUBSERVIENCE

IN THE LEXICON OF USEFUL, INFLUENTIAL AND THE SUCCESSFUL PAPERS.

Members of the St. Louis Advertising Club invited George S. Johns, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorial page, to tell them, at their meeting on December 11, the relationship between the editorial and the advertising departments of a newspaper.

What he said is significant to both advertisers and newspaper publishers. He declared:

"I know there is an impression that newspapers favor advertisers by suppressing news that is unfavorable to them. I do not hold a brief for all newspapers, but I know and you know that this is not true of the best newspapers.

"We do not dislike our advertisers; we like them.

"We do not want to offend; we want to please them. We want their good will and their business. But we cannot sacrifice editorial integrity and independence to win or hold either—it would be neither good journalism nor good business.

"In the lexicon of the useful, influential, successful newspaper there is no such word as subservience.

"A newspaper is more than a vendor of news and a vendor of advertising space—it is a public servant. The foundation stone of newspaper success is public confidence.

"How is public confidence gained? Certainly not by dishonesty, hypocrisy and subservience to persons and special interests.

"You know and I know that public confidence is won by honesty, sincerity and public service.

"It is gained by printing all the news worth printing, impartially, fully and accurately.

"It is gained by honest, intelligent, vigorous editorial comment on public questions.

"A newspaper to gain public confidence must uncover hypocrisy, fight shams, denounce corruption, expose wrong doing and condemn wrong doers. How can it do these things and favor persons or serve any class of special interest? How can it serve the public and be a servant of private interests?

"What does the advertising department sell? What do the advertisers buy? The policy of the newspaper? As well buy the newspaper. Do they buy the right to dictate what news shall or shall not be printed? As well buy the editorship of the newspaper.

"No; they buy advertising space—nothing more. They pay precisely what they think the advertising space is worth and no more.

INDEPENDENCY MEANS CONFIDENCE.

"The more independent the newspaper, the more impartial and complete its news reports, the more sincere, fearless and vigorous its editorial utterances, the greater the power, influence and popularity of the newspaper, the greater the public confidence in its integrity.

"The quantity and quality of circulation depends upon these qualities of the newspaper and advertising value depends upon the quantity and quality of circulation.

"The relationship between the editorial department and the advertising department of a newspaper is that friendly courtesy between two separate and independent branches of the newspaper organization.

"Their functions are distinct and different. Speaking broadly, without taking into account the various activ-

Any Length of Line in Any Size of Face without Change of Mold

THAT'S the crux of Ludlow simplicity; the machine that sets all display composition up to 48-point.

Users of movable type-caster type, with its complications of machine adjustment, tons of storage, and skilled labor to run it, will appreciate the simple construction, the ease of operation, and speed of the Ludlow.

The Ludlow Typograph

And the cost of the finished product ready for press, foundry or stereotype, is the lowest by a wide margin of any system of Non-Distribution.

A postal will bring convincing descriptive literature.

Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER LINO TYPE CO.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

ities which contribute to newspaper success, I may say that the editorial department makes the newspaper and this creates advertising value which the advertising department sells.

"The two departments are interdependent in the sense that the success of the newspaper as a business depends upon the successful conduct of each department, but the more independent of each other they are the greater the success of each and of the newspaper.

EMPHATICALLY NO.

"I suspect that the pith of the question you expect me to discuss is whether the editorial department ought to permit the policy or conduct of the newspaper to be controlled or influenced by the advertising department in the interest of advertisers for the purpose of holding or obtaining business. Emphatically, no—never.

"Nothing would be more fatal to the newspaper. Nothing would strike a deadlier blow at the business of the advertising department and at the real interest of the advertisers. It would destroy the value of the space they buy.

"The only rule for the successful conduct of a newspaper is absolute independence of its business interests and of any special interest.

"I might stop at this, but I feel it incumbent upon me to tell you not only the rule of conduct for a good newspaper, as I know it, but to give you the logic, the reason that underlies it.

"Intelligent advertisers recognize that they find the greatest advertising value in newspapers that are strongest in public confidence and support. This is a truism.

"If advertisers sought anything more, if they bought the editorial or news policy of the paper, they wouldn't buy its advertising space—it would be a waste of money.

"Show me a newspaper whose editorial policy is controlled by its advertisers or any special interest and I'll show you a newspaper whose advertising space is not worth buying.

"Show me a newspaper which distorts or suppresses news to favor its advertisers and I'll show you a piece of journalistic junk.

"Show me a newspaper that is run by its advertisers and I'll show you a newspaper that its advertisers abandon as a worthless advertising medium."

John Ring, Jr., president of the Advertising Club of St. Louis, presided and the speaker was introduced by Paul W. Brown, editor of the West at Work.

READJUSTMENTS IN BOSTON.

David O. French, formerly of the Boston Herald, has succeeded Francis M. Flanagan as financial editor of the Boston American. Mr. Flanagan was recently commissioned a lieutenant at Plattsburg.

Edward H. Doyle, formerly of the day desk on the American, has returned there after a five years' absence. During that time Mr. Doyle has been editing copy on the baseball desk of the New York Telegram, the New York Press and the Syracuse Herald and Post-Standard.

William J. Thatcher has succeeded James H. Noonan, who covered police headquarters day-times for the American, and who has enlisted as yeoman in the Navy.

New accessions to the re-write staff of the American include Ralph Frye from the Record and John R. Taylor from the late Journal.

LINOTYPE INSTALLATIONS.

Among recent purchasers of Linotypes are:

Philadelphia Inquirer; Springfield (Ill.) State Journal; Los Angeles Herald; Los Angeles Times; Salt Lake City News; Stockton (Cal.) Record; Freewater (Ore.) Herald; Grenora (N. D.) Examiner; Wallace (Ida.) Press-Times; Decatur (Ill.) Review; Centralia (Wash.) Chronicle; Clement G. Viscount, Los Angeles; Adrian (Minn.) Democrat; Schnepf & Barnes, Springfield, Ill.; Sweetwater (Tenn.) News; LaSalle (Ill.) Tribune; Burlington (Vt.) Daily News; Tenaha (Tex.) Patri; Harlow Publishing Company, Oklahoma City; Napoleon (N. D.) Homestead;

New Ulm (Minn.) Journal and Volksblatt; Severinghaus Printing Company, Chicago; Daytona (Fla.) Gazette-News; Stirling Press, New York; Truman (Minn.) Tribune; Wilson Printing Company, St. Louis; Longview (Tex.) Times Clarion; Rosenberg (Tex.) Besedy; Oil and Gas Journal, Tulsa, Okla.; Middleboro (Ky.) Three States; Monumental Printing Company, Baltimore; Alpine Press, Boston; Ahoskie (N. C.) Herald.

IN OKLAHOMA CITY.

Carrol S. Moore, city editor of the Oklahoma City Times, has been named assistant managing editor of the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times. Mr. Moore started with the Oklahoman as a cub reporter in 1910.

Frank Kirkpatrick, for four years city editor of the Pittsburgh Post and later with the San Francisco Chronicle, succeeds Mr. Moore as city editor of the Times.

T. F. Killian, formerly with the Philadelphia North American and the Boston Post, is now city editor of the Oklahoman, in place of H. F. C. Duberg who is connected with the Keeseen Advertising Agency of Oklahoma City.

Captain Sumner T. Biabee, who had been with the Oklahoman as reporter, sports editor, for fifteen years managing editor, and editorial writer, has retired to enter the oil business.

W. W. Will, who is from the editorial desk of the Atchison (Kan.) Globe, succeeds Captain Biabee in his editorial work.

WOMEN SELL PAPERS FOR SOLDIERS' FUND.

Women and girls, wrapped in furs, stood ankle-deep in the snow the other day calling "Yuxtra, Yuxtra," and selling the Memphis (Tenn.) News Scimitar for the benefit of Tennessee soldiers.

All receipts from street sales of the issue were donated to the woman's committee, National Council of Defense, to be used to provide comforts for the soldiers.

The first papers run off the press were sold at auction to the highest bidders by a number of prominent men.

While the women were working the newboys were entertained by the News Scimitar with a luncheon and a matinee party at Loew's Lyceum. They were paid their regular average for the day.

DAILY "COMES BACK."

The White Plains (N. Y.) Daily Reporter has resumed publication after more than two years.

W. Lee Tuller, formerly manager of the Reporter Press, and Walter V. Hogan, formerly city editor of the Daily Record, are the new proprietors, Mr. Tuller managing the business end and Mr. Hogan being editor.

POSSIBLE READJUSTMENTS IN BUSINESS.

BASED UPON ENGLAND'S EXPERIENCES
SINCE SHE ENTERED THE WAR—
ADVERTISING AS A SAVIOR.

By F. A. WILSON-LAWRENSON,

[At their annual meeting in New York, Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson read the following paper to nearly two hundred members of the Association of National Advertisers who were present. Leading men and women in the advertising field of the United States received it with hearty approval.

The members of the A.N.A. decided, although all papers read at their annual conventions are strictly confidential, to establish a precedent by allowing publication of the paper in full so that newspaper publishers, advertising agents and national advertisers who could not be present at the meeting might get the benefit of Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson's valuable advice.

Rather than condense the article, THE FOURTH ESTATE has printed it in full—in two parts. The first part was printed last week and the article is herewith concluded.

Last week Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson told how in Great Britain readjustments of business made necessary on account of the war seem to have taken the following order:

- | | |
|-------------------|-------------------------------|
| A—Labor. | F—Selling and advertising. |
| B—Raw products. | F—Controlled business. |
| C—Transportation. | G—Labor in controlled plants. |
| D—Financing. | |

For the purpose of following what seems to be the chronological order of happenings, in this article and for purposes of discussion, he covered each in the above order.

Last week Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson covered readjustments A, B, C, D and E.—Editor.]

F—Controlled Business: In England today there are more than 5,000 so-called "controlled" plants. The use in this connection of the word "controlled" is misleading. The operation of these plants is not controlled or supervised. In fact, so far as the management is concerned, the owners are quite as free as before the war.

Only profit and labor are controlled. All profit of such companies in excess of twenty per cent beyond the net earnings of the two financial years next before the war are to be paid to the Government exchequer. If, however, these average net earnings, which are termed standard earnings, are not fair in the judgment of the minister of munitions, a different rate of earnings may be established by him. In arriving at this new standard of earnings the minister may consider any personal circumstances, such as increase of output, new machinery, or plants, alteration of plant, etc.

Where the owner has more capital, or has used more capital, or produced a greater volume of output than formerly, the minister is to allow him either eight per cent per annum on the amount the minister decides is the amount on the additional average capital, or such a share of the excess profit as the minister decides to be the amount the owner would have earned by a similar increase of output during the pre-war period.

The owner has the right to have whichever amount is the greater, the eight per cent or the additional fixed sum. In figuring the additional capital on which the eight per cent is calculated, there is included borrowed money (other than Government loans) and also undivided ascertained profits which are reinvested in the business. The additional profit may in the discretion of the minister be in lieu of or in addition to the permitted twenty per cent increase above the standard profit.

LABOR REGULATIONS.

G—Labor in controlled plants: In such plants there may be no strikes or stoppage of work. The following rules apply:

A—All employees shall attend regularly and work diligently during the ordinary working hours of the establishment, including a reasonable amount of overtime, but Sunday work is not required.

B—No employee shall insist, or attempt to insist, upon the observance, either by himself or by any other person, of rules or customs tending to restrict production or to limit the employment of any clerical persons.

C—No employee shall bring intoxicating liquor into the establishment, or be drunk in the establishment, or be guilty of a disturbance, or be disobedient to lawful orders, or tear down or deface any regulations, notices, etc.

D—These rules should not interfere with the establishment's private rules, but these rules are the only rules of the establishment in respect of which proceedings may be taken before a munitions tribunal.

A violation of the rules is an offense under the Munitions of War Act and is punishable by fine.

Those engaged upon certain classes of munition work are forbidden to induce workmen to enter their employ by offer of increased wages, or to bring workmen from a distance of more than ten miles.

Such manufacturers are directed to apply for all men needed to the Board of Trade, Labor Exchange, and to meet such requirements as these above stated there has been created a volunteers' industrial reserve in which are enrolled men and women who agree to go wherever they may be required by the Government and to engage in whatever work is given them.

A large number of men and women have enrolled in this reserve and are acting under the instructions of the ministry of munitions. Such persons receive in addition to their wages a subsistence allowance from the Government when they are compelled to live away from their families.

This is for the purpose of making it possible for workmen to send their entire wages to their families. Where a workman is sent from one district into another, he receives the wage of the old or new district, according to which is higher.

In all industries priority must be given to work under contracts for the Admiralty, the War Office, the Minister of Munitions and the Board of Trade.

Second priority is due to repair of industrial machinery, maintenance of supplies for war purposes, export orders.

Today there is practically no buying and selling of iron or steel, brass, zinc, copper, lead, coal and coke, or metallurgical supplies, without special permits. Practically all private rights have been abrogated.

The Government of Great Britain decides today what may be exported and what may be imported, how much beer shall be brewed, how much flour the miller shall extract from the wheat, what sweets shall be manufactured, how much sugar may be used for icing on cakes, how much the individuals shall pay for potatoes.

The Government decrees that it is an extravagance and a menace to the safety of the empire for a customer to buy or a storekeeper to sell, an ounce of chocolate that costs more than six cents, or any other sweetmeat that costs more than four cents an ounce.

The candy manufacturers have been prohibited during 1917 from using for confectionery more than fifty per cent of the amount of sugar used by them during 1915.

GOVERNMENT PERMITS.

There is not a commodity, not an industry that has not come under the control of an omniscient Government.

The private owner floats a new ship. The Government has said that the ship yard might sell it to him.

The manufacturer carries on his ordinary business. The Government has decided that it is an essential industry to the country.

A man buys a new woolen garment. The Government has given permission for the wool to be sold for private consumption.

He buys a notebook. The Government has granted a license for the importation of the paper.

He buys a pocket cigar lighter. The Government has collected a tax of twelve cents on it.

Many things he cannot buy at all. The Government has so decreed.

Today there are 5,000 controlled establishments in the United Kingdom. The owner of an uncontrolled establishment is not much freer, but he is permitted to retain forty per cent of his excess war profits, whereas the owner of a controlled establishment must hand over all but twenty per cent to the Government.

It is not a far cry measured in years, in months and days, to the time when the old British individualism, which had its roots in the age-long struggle for personal liberty that flowered into constitutional and representative government, but in that brief period a revolution has been wrought in conservative old England—the countenance of Great Britain has changed.

A few specific incidents regarding various industries may be of interest and value.

Automobile manufacturers have suffered very little for the reason that although they are not allowed to manufacture pleasure cars they have devoted their equipment very largely to the making of trucks, engines for aeroplanes and to other essential work. Some of the establishments have already extended their plants. Many of the manufacturers of automobiles believe that the standardization of work which they have achieved under the Government's control and the progress they have made in reducing cost of production, will give them an advantageous position in the making of pleasure cars when the war has closed.

Thomas Lipton, Ltd., has extensive factories in London for the manufacture of jams, jellies, etc. Perhaps because of the very nature of the articles this concern makes, it was able in the summer to report that it had a handsome profit as a result of its operation in the preceding year. As a matter of fact the profits of the preceding year seemed to have been practically doubled. The chairman of the company, in reporting the year's results, laid emphasis upon the rapidity of turnover which followed from a narrow margin of profit and upon maintenance of quality of goods.

A firm which manufactured tobacco made a report in the summer referring to the very difficult circumstances under which it had operated. Nevertheless, it indicated that it had done a larger amount of business than ever before in its history. In order to achieve this result it had to use its employees for long periods of continuous overtime, reduce holidays to a minimum and occasionally work both night and day. It also increased the amount of its advertising and credited part of its success to the increased popularity of its brands which it obtained in this way.

A firm of men's outfitters developed its ladies' department, although it had difficulties in many ways, and operated under increased expenses. It was able to show an increase in profit over the earlier year. In this instance, at least, increase of business and of profit was apparently due largely to the higher values at which goods sold. This company reported that the spending power of the class from whom it derived a large part of its business had risen very considerably.

Gordon Hotels, Ltd., had conducted a number of hotels. Reporting in July of this year, this company reported that four of its hotels in London had been commandeered by the Government, that its hotels at Monte Carlo and Cannes were closed and that in some of its other establishments there were various restrictions. Notwithstanding these circumstances the company reported a profit of $35,000. In the previous year it had had a deficit of $150,000.

Raphael Tuck & Sons, Ltd., manufacturing stationers, reported in September that although they had a deficit of $50,000 last year they had a profit of $55,000 in the year just closed. Apparently they have been able to make Christmas, New Year's cards, etc., of a character so appropriate under existing conditions as to attract large sales.

BUSINESSSES STRENGTHENED.

In some instances war conditions have apparently given enterprises an opportunity to strengthen themselves. For example, Harrod's Stores have had difficulty in obtaining new capital on account of the existence of so-called founders' shares, which were limited in amount and which obtained a disproportionate amount of profit. In September of this year a plan for elimination of these shares was accepted and the position of the company correspondingly strengthened.

Milk dealers in London have apparently experienced great difficulties because of uncertainty of supplies, increasing costs, etc. They have now gone into a combination, Union Dairies, Ltd., which has been operating with a capital of $3,000,000, is to increase its capital to $20,000,000, using the new stock to give in exchange for the businesses of a large number of independent dealers. This project apparently has the assent of the Minister of Food and also the Treasury.

You will recall that the Treasury controls the issue of new capital. In connection with the combination, arguments are being presented such as elimination of the cost incurred when a number of companies have to run their respective wagons over the same route in order to serve their respective customers.

Cement manufacturers have had difficulties because of curtailment in building operations. It happened that a number of years ago a combination of cement manufacturers was formed with elements which at the time were criticised as impairing the chances of success. In October of this year it appeared that the net proceeds of the year which closed with June were $300,000, whereas they had been $1,300,000 in the year which closed with June, 1914. Of course the cement manufacturers have obtained some orders for war work. It appears they also see great opportunities for business when the war has closed, and when rebuilding operations are necessary on a rather large scale on the continent of Europe.

In some instances industries which might be expected to be affected by war conditions have special importance.

For example, the manufacture of woollen dress goods for export has been especially encouraged by the Government in order that shipments of such goods abroad might help to pay for the purchases which had to be made abroad of foodstuffs, munitions, raw materials of various kinds, etc. This is merely an instance of special importance which may attach to an industry when it can, in ways which might be unexpected, prima facie, help general interests.

LESSONS FOR AMERICA.

From the foregoing notes on the situation in Great Britain what are we to learn that will help us?

What conclusions must we come to?

And particularly what lessons has the present situation for those who are responsible for the sales and advertising of so many national enterprises?

I will endeavor to summarize them. Realize that the slogan which was adopted here as in Great Britain and Canada, "Business as Usual," is as foolish as the ostrich putting its head in the sand.

The slogan "Business as Usual" during the war was the standard which the people of England set up for themselves in the beginning. Placards on every wall attested their faith in the country's ability to live up to their standard.

Yet today the "controlled" people of England would be the last to subscribe to such a doctrine. May I quote for a moment from a statement made by Viscount Northcliffe, that dynamo of British journalism and business?

"We in England do not pretend to

BRITAIN'S RESTRICTED INDUSTRIES.

In last week's installment of Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson's article he pointed out:

"From the early days of the war, right through to the present time, Great Britain has had to continually make readjustments in the labor situation. At the present time sixty-eight industries, with wide ramifications, may not employ men between eighteen and sixty-one years of age."

The list of these restricted occupations follows:

I.—METALS, MACHINERY, IMPLEMENTS AND CONVEYANCES.

Carriage building for private purposes, (exclusive of repairs).

Enamelled iron advertisement manufacture.

Furnishing ironmongery, including bedsteads and parts thereof, manufacture of.

Gas and electric light fittings, manufacture of.

Metal articles for garden use (other than garden tools necessary for food production), manufacture of.

Safes and steel office furniture, manufacture of.

Sheet metal japanning, lacquering and decorating.

Steam or hot water heating apparatus for domestic or horticultural use, manufacture of.

Machinery for trades scheduled in this list, manufacture of.

II.—WOODWORKING.

French polishing.

Furniture and cabinet making and upholstery.

Garden seats, summer houses and horticultural buildings, manufacture and erection of.

Picture and show card frames, manufacture of.

Show cases, manufacture of.

Shop fronts and fittings, manufacture and erection of.

Venetian blinds, manufacture of.

Wood carving.

Wood moulding, manufacture of.

III.—STONE AND SLATE.

Enamelled slate manufacture.

Stone, marble, granite and slate quarrying.

Stone, marble, granite and slate cutting and polishing.

IV.—POTTERY, BRICKS AND GLASS.

Bottles for beer, wine, spirits and aerated waters, manufacture of.

Bricks (other than firebricks) and tiles, manufacture of.

Glass bevelling, embossing and silvering.

Glass staining and stained glass fitting.

China and earthenware, manufacture of.

Table and decorative glass, manufacture of.

V.—HOUSE BUILDING AND REPAIRING.

Building (including horticultural houses).

House painting and decorating.

VI.—PAPER, PRINTING, ETC.

Bookbinding.

Letterpress and lithographic printing.

Paper making.

Wallpaper, manufacture of.

be so quickly adaptable a people as you Americans. You are now beginning to face the problems that we faced two and a half years ago—the alteration of your business into war business, and at first sight to the owners of many great establishments the prospect seems a difficult and trying one.

"Many men seem to think that the change will inevitably produce ruin, but that is not the case.

"There are no businesses other than war businesses in Great Britain and France—every business is a war business. But those businesses are none the less not failures. As a matter of fact the brave people of France, by importing every kind of foreign labor, are maintaining their industries in a very wonderful way.

"War in itself is a horrible and disagreeable necessity. It is incumbent upon every man that knows of any business that can be adapted to war to turn the thoughts of the owners of that business to the quick winning of the war.

Almost every business in this country can be used eventually to assist war.

VII.—TEXTILE AND ALLIED TRADES.

Carpets, floor rugs, furniture hangings and upholstery materials, manufacture of.

Linoleum, oilcloth and table baize, manufacture of.

VIII.—CLOTHING, ETC.

Dress, mantle and blouse making (bespoke, i. e., custom-made).

Furs, preparing and making up.

Millinery.

Patent leather and fancy boot, shoes and slipper making.

Tailoring (bespoke, i. e., custom-made).

Umbrellas and parasols, and parts thereof, manufacture of.

IX.—FOOD, DRINK, TOBACCO.

Aerated waters, manufacture of.

Beer, wine and spirits, bottling of.

Brewing and malting.

Biscuits, baking of.

Cakes and confectionery, baking of.

Sugar and chocolate confectionery, manufacture of.

Cigars, manufacture of.

X.—MISCELLANEOUS MANUFACTURES.

Brushes, manufacture of.

Church organ building.

Clock making.

Electroplating.

Fancy leather articles, manufacture of.

Games and sports apparatus manufacture.

Goldsmiths' and silversmiths' ware and jewelry, manufacture of.

Musical instruments, making of.

Photographic apparatus and materials, manufacture of.

Sporting guns and ammunition therefor, manufacture of.

Trunk and portmanteau making.

XI.—COMMERCIAL OCCUPATIONS.

All foregoing trades, distribution and sale of products of.

XII.—MISCELLANEOUS OCCUPATIONS.

Flowers and ornamental shrubs and plants, production and sale of.

Domestic servants, Indian, (including waiters and servants in clubs, hotels, lodging-houses, restaurants and cafes).

Domestic servants, outdoor.

Employes at theatres, music halls, cinemas, and other places of amusement.

OTHER TRADES.

Advertising agents.

Commercial travelers and canvassers.

Commission agents, hawkers and peddlers.

Shop assistants.

Clerks, except those with technical knowledge of a high order, or acting in a managerial or administrative capacity.

"This list," says Mr. Wilson-Lawrenson, "will probably be extended in the near future. It is indicative of the extent to which England has gone after three years of war in her efforts to take men from the less essential industries and concentrate national effort on industries engaged in war work and other work of national importance.

"While the restricted list of occupations may not be so extensive in America, as regards type or age, why not realize that we may be prevented from employing men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-five?"

"In our country those engaged in making furniture and pianos are much more busy than they ever were before making the wooden parts of aeroplanes.

"Those who were making pleasure automobiles are making motor trucks for the war, making war engines for the war, making other vehicles for the war.

"There is no falling off in those businesses. On the other hand the number of people they employ is far greater than before the war, and they have been added to very largely by the fact that our women, without any distinction of class, have gone into those factories and enormously increased the peace time output at this time.

"This war is the greatest business of the world, the greatest business the world ever knew and it has made in our country demands that have brought every man of business to the side of the Government either in Great Britain or else one of the other places where brain activity is needed for the war."

Let us therefore accept the fact that business will not be as usual during the war and set ourselves to meet conditions.

Labor: Our Government will deal with the unions on the matter of restrictions. But let us face the inevitable. Every industry represented here has given of its force to the flag of freedom, the stars and stripes.

WHY NOT CHANGE NOW?

While the restricted list of occupations may not be so extensive in America, as regards type or age, why not realize that we may be prevented from employing men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-five?

Let us face the question of women in industry. They have made good in Great Britain. Are American women less versatile or capable than British women?

Read of the experiences of Gordon Selfridge in the employment of women and you will find that in a large number of departments women have proved so successful that it is doubtful if men will be employed again.

In our production departments women can be used with good results, and in our sales departments (which, of course, includes advertising) women must be used more and more.

We must realize that while the non-essentials may have to go, that there are plenty of essentials to keep every plant busy.

Non-essentials may have to go because those plants which are producing essentials will have first consideration from the Government in the allotment of labor, fuel and transportation, and in some cases certain raw products.

If you are producing something which is not really essential to the winning of the war, why wait for the Government to force your hand?

Why not realize the situation and at once prepare to manufacture a necessity?

Increased production is not only necessary in munitions, but in clothes, shoes, foods, and particularly food substitutes. These necessities will not only mean that you will keep idle plants busy but you will be rendering a patriotic service to your country and the whole civilized world.

DANGER IN CUTTING ADVERTISING.

May I now point out a danger, the ever-present danger which confronts those industries that have to change their product—namely, the tendency to reduce selling cost by decreasing an efficient sales force and cutting the advertising appropriation proportionately.

It must be remembered that while certain established industries will make little or no profit during the period of the war, that there are industries making materials for the various government, be it shoes or guns, which will make large profits during the war. The materials which are being sold to these governments are made in factories which cost large sums of money to erect.

Let us not be so foolish as to think for a moment that at the close of the war there will be no longer a demand for the products of war that these expensive plants will be scrapped.

That would be economic foolishness.

Rather will they be used to manufacture products that will enter the lists in competition with already established business, and, further, this competition will be backed up by money made during the war.

Is it wise to seriously reduce advertising appropriations when we realize that competition at the close of the war is likely to be more serious than ever before?

Can we not gain something from

(Continued on Twenty-fifth Page.)

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company, Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 283 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, $2c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04.

Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices. Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents).

Back Numbers—Less than 3 months old, 25 cents; more than 3 months old, 50 cents.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE

Broadway and 59th Street
283 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.

Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7743 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1243.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 22, 1917

IF WAR REVENUE BILL IS TO BE CHANGED—GET BUSY.

The fate of the attempt to wipe out the increase in the second class postage rate is bound up, to a certain extent, with the broad question of whether or not there shall be any tampering with the War Revenue Act as it now stands.

Congressmen seem to be lining up on the two sides of this question in a manner that threatens to submerge what they are pleased to regard as minor considerations in the main issue. Unfortunately, a good many of the lawmakers have not yet been brought to realize that this proposition to advance mailing rates on newspapers and periodicals is no ordinary case of an industry attempting to dodge an exceptionally heavy tax burden.

Unconvinced that the second class rate issue is a special proposition that ought to be considered separate and apart from all the other details of war taxation, a considerable proportion of the Representatives and not a few of the Senators go right along debating among themselves whether it is wise to permit any reopening at this time of the subject of emergency taxation.

On the one hand there are Congressmen who feel that the whole Revenue Act has been botched; that it is so complex, contradictory and unwieldy that it never can be satisfactorily administered; and that the only thing to do is to rip it wide open and perhaps reconstruct it from the bottom up. In short, these revisionists insist that amendments reaching to the very fundamentals of the law are necessary.

Among the Senators who take this view of the situation is Senator Smoot, who, as explained in last week's issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE, is leading the fight for the abolition of the zone system on second class mail as provided by the new act.

On the score of the broad proposition Senator Smoot says: "There is a feeling growing throughout the country that the law is so full of inconsistencies that a general revision should be made. I cannot find two persons in the United States who construe the law in the same way."

Lined up in opposition to this contingent, which is headed by Senators Smoot and Borah, is a formidable array of lawmakers who demand that

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; again measure (16 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $250; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Vacancies, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 35 lines in depth of column) double price.

there be no meddling with the measure at this time. Leading this faction is Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate finance committee, which handles all matters relating to the raising of revenue and who was active in shaping the law as it now stands.

A good many of this latter clan have taken it for granted that there would have to be some minor changes or amendments to the Revenue Act. All that they insisted upon was that it should not be torn to pieces and rebuilt. Senator Simmons, for example, served notice in the Senate this week that there would be no "general revision," but added: "I understand the committee will call the attention of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to some errors and omissions and possibly some inconsistencies that call for possible legislation."

What, despite this fair though conservative attitude on the part of the finance chairman, serves to alarm some of the newspaper publishers who are on guard at Washington, is the unquestioned growth among a portion of the membership of a sentiment against reopening this subject at all at this time.

The logic of these stand-patters is that if the question of war taxation is reopened there is no telling where the reconstruction or revision will end. Some optimists in the Treasury Department have told these Congressmen that the officials of the bureau of internal revenue will muddle through somehow if left to their own devices and the disposition of these disciples of let-bad-enough-alone is to mark time.

The Congressmen who take this attitude are at present in the minority, but the danger is that they will gain strength. And inasmuch as the new postage rate is due to go into effect on July 1 there is, obviously, no time to be lost if matters are to be set right before the act takes effect.

In passing, mention may be made of the fact that for another reason, in addition to this menace of a postage increase, publishers are justified in fighting any policy of procrastination in overhauling the Revenue Act.

Unless there is revision of this act in its various sections there will be no relief for newspaper publishers from the present denial of adequate valuation for good-will.

This is a big subject in itself, and is an issue that, though it seems to have been generally overlooked by newspaper men, is almost as vital as the postage peril with which it is associated.

Intentionally or unintentionally, the Post Office Department is also "putting in its oar" to prevent the repeal of the second class rate increase. The proposition to sweepingly increase the salaries of all postal employees will operate to cut down or wipe out the Post Office Department surplus, which publishers have been relying upon to prove that the postal establishment is more than self-sustaining and that no increase in postage rates is necessary.

MAIL TUBES MUST NOT BE ABOLISHED.

THE FOURTH ESTATE is heartily in agreement with the New York Tribune in its argument that the mail tubes must not be abolished in New York and other cities, as Postmaster General Burleson again wants to do.

When Congress about a year ago put its veto on the scheme of Postmaster General Burleson to abolish the mail tube service in New York and in other cities which had enjoyed this advantage it was hoped the ill founded idea had perished. Now it seems the whole thing has to be gone through with again.

There is nothing new to be said, either in favor of the Postmaster General's recommendation or in opposition to it. He insists the mail tubes have outlived their usefulness, have proved an absolute failure and should be abandoned.

On the other hand, business men of the metropolis know that the use of the tubes expedites the collection and distribution of mail, not only so far as New York is concerned, but for the country at large and for other countries.

Without them mail for transcontinental trains would have to be dispatched earlier, or would reach its destination later.

Without them a greater time must elapse in the transmission of letters to other cities and to foreign destinations.

Without them the mail service would be slowed materially, important merchants would find their work disorganized to that extent and the entire financial and industrial fabric of the nation would be impaired.

In New York, where week by week traffic congestion has been increasing, the abolishment of the mail tubes would necessitate the use of a greater number of mail trucks, proved to be a menace to life and limb.

The traffic problem of the police, already tremendously vexing, would be added to.

The post office, undermanned and overworked, would perforce have to ask more of its carriers.

If only the delay of truck service compared with tube service were to be considered, it might be possible for business to adjust itself to the proposed conditions. But that could not be, for though this post office district shows a huge annual profit, the operations of government are so fearful and wonderful that appropriations for the extra trucks and extra men to keep the service up to what it has been could scarcely be expected.

The mail tubes are expensive, in that they cost considerable sums of money—that may be conceded. That they cost more than they are worth to the mail service of those cities which enjoy them and the nation at large is something which Mr. Burleson has not yet proved.

In the homely phrase of the street, they come high, but we have to have them.

To abolish them would be to save money, but to injure the postal service to an extent to which the people who make this district show a big profit—the merchants, manufacturers, bankers and their customers—would never be reconciled.

Mr. Burleson has from the beginning seemed to have the idea that the chief concern of his department was to show a profit.

Never was there a more mistaken conception of official duty. If profit be consistent with good service, well and good. But the Post Office Department can less well afford to reduce its service below the point of thorough efficiency than an ordinary business concern, and even Mr. Burleson must know what that produces for the private enterprise.

The mail tubes must be retained, whether privately operated or taken over by the Government.

If the Postmaster General really wants to save money for the Government in the long run, he might try Government capture of the tubes.

To insist on abolishing them is to force an injury on the business of the nation which no official has a right to contemplate.

THE GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY FOR THE NEWSPAPERS.

A national canvass of authorities on advertising, conducted by THE FOURTH ESTATE, has failed to disclose any reason for alarming reports that have been in circulation about the prospects for newspaper advertising in 1918.

With few exceptions the advertising agents of the country say that the outlook is excellent indeed for the volume of business that will go to newspapers next year—based on what they have actually under contract.

Authorities also seem to agree on the fact that 1918 is going to be the big opportunity year for advertising—a chance for its real merits to be disclosed, showing what a nationally important power it is.

With all the good prospects, however, we cannot refuse to admit that we face unparalleled business conditions in 1918, which must be met and conquered.

If the war goes on much longer, it will mean business readjustments for this country, such as we have never known before. This is bound to cause the compulsory diminution of many kinds of ordinary advertising.

It will therefore be up to the newspapers to create new business that can go on in the face of war.

The year 1918 promises to provide the "golden opportunity" for the newspapers to show all doubters that they are the real national advertising media.

The laggard in this emergency is sounding his own death knell.

Even with the excellent foundation the agents have already built, there is no time to be lost in getting to work on the developing of new advertisers from business people who have never been advertisers before.

If any suggestions or war time arguments are needed, this and last week's issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE can supply them plenty.

There never was more valuable advice given to American business men—including advertisers and newspaper publishers—than that in the article by F. W. Wilson-Lawrence, which ran in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week and again this week.

Likewise read what the advertising agents have to say this week.

This is all at your service—make use of it.

ADVERTISING AND AD MEN GET TOGETHER.

The formation of the new advertising division of the Committee of Public information is really the first official recognition the United States Government has even given the advertising profession.

Now that the door has been opened, may we not look forward to a speedy realization that the Government will see that advertising is a national factor, whose power it cannot longer afford to ignore.

A finer group of advertising men could not have been selected for the important work to be done than those who make up the executive board of the new Government division—William H. Johns, L. B. Jones, Herbert S. Houston, O. C. Harn and William C. D'Arcy.

Each man enjoys full faith of the advertising profession and is a patriot to the core. The division members can count on the fullest possible measure of co-operation from THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Under the arrangement, advertisers represented by the members of the division board, pledge the space they buy to the service of the Government.

It will now be most interesting to wait and see if the new advertising division will be able to convince the Government that it ought to buy the advertising space it uses, like Great Britain and Canada do, and as it acquires every other commodity.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Frank L. E. Gauss, who has been appointed advertising director of the Boston Advertiser and Sunday Advertiser and American, is well known in national advertising circles. In recent years he has been with P. F. Collier & Son, New York; general manager of the Leslie-Judge Company, New York; successively vice-president, sales manager and president of the Sterling Gum Company.

FRANK L. E. GAUSS.

New York; and in March of this year he became associated with the Ivan B. Nordhem Company of New York.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post, is the author of "Press Tendencies and Dangers," a timely article appearing in the January issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

Richard H. Lee, in charge of the clean advertising movement of the

D. RUSSELL BROWN.

PROPRIETOR OF THE PROVIDENCE (N. I.) DAILY NEWS, WHICH HAS JUST CELEBRATED ITS TWENTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY.

New York Tribune, spoke to the New York Rotary Club at this week's lunch meeting at the Hotel McAlpin.

Frederick S. Gore, who for a number of years was prominent in the newspaper field in Wilmington, Del., after an absence of several years, was a visitor to that city a few days ago. He received a hearty welcome from a host of friends.

Samuel Mason, publisher of the Business Record of New York, is on his way to Japan, as the special representative of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America, to give relief to Jews who fled from Russia and are now stranded in the Orient. He expects to be gone about six months.

"Kin" Hubbard of the Indianapolis News has issued another volume of "Abe Martin Philosophy." The book is called "Abe Martin's Country Sayings."

Arthur Ford, Ottawa correspondent for the Toronto (Ont.) News, and president of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, is a candidate for alderman in the municipal elections in Ottawa. Before taking up residence in Ottawa, Mr. Ford was for many years a municipal reporter in Winnipeg, Man.

Ross Hammond, editor of the Freemont (Neb.) Tribune, has returned from a seven weeks' trip to Europe, where he was one of the few Americans permitted to observe the battle front in France and Belgium.

Bernard Murphy, for fifty years editor of the Vinton (Ia.) Eagle, has been confined to his home because of heart trouble.

Miss Mary Fay, social editor of the Scranton (Pa.) Times, has taken her seat as a member of the Scranton school board to which she was elected last month.

Tom J. Brislin, sports editor of the Scranton (Pa.) Republican, has disposed of his one-third interest in the Providence basketball team of the Pennsylvania State League.

F. E. Mann, Chicago advertising representative for McClure's Magazine, New York, was robbed recently on the streets of Chicago.

John J. Dillon, editor and publisher of the Rural New Yorker and late New York State commissioner of farms and markets, is being boosted for governor.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Grace Wick of Hartwell, Sunday editor of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune, and Adlai S. Saunders, dramatic critic of the same publication, were married at Indianapolis on December 15.

Walter E. Harrington, formerly editor of the Franklin (Minn.) Tribune, has been married to Miss Anne Lucella Myer.

STAFF CHANGES.

Julien Proskauer, formerly a correspondent for the New York American, has been chosen to succeed Pearl W. Morgan as managing editor of the Kansas City (Kan.) Globe.

A. G. Dulmage, for many years business manager of the Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette, has resigned to become the assistant general manager of McArthur Brothers, one of the largest automobile concerns in the state.

Harold Youell, recently of the Oregon City Enterprise, is now acting as day police reporter of the Portland (Ore.) Journal, succeeding Donald W. Nix, who has gone East to enter business other than newspaper work.

A. S. Johnson, who has worked on several British Columbia papers and at one time conducted a paper of his own, is taking the place of F. H. McNeil on the Portland (Ore.) Journal, on the financial and industrial run, and is in addition handling railroads.

G. Kane of the Iowa City Daily Iowan will hold down the position of city editor on the Press of that city while J. E. Reizenstein is on his vacation in the East.

George M. Hunter, head of the Detroit bureau of the Associated Press, has become city editor of the Adrian (Mich.) Telegram, in charge of local news. M. W. Redfield, managing editor, will give his attention chiefly to telegraph news.

John H. Worst, editor of the New Rockford (N. D.) State Center, has retired from newspaper work and will go West for the winter. R. S. Phillips is general manager and Garold M. George managing editor of the State Center.

Mrs. G. J. Boughner, who has served on both Twin City newspapers and in Chicago, has succeeded James Gahelle as feature writer on the St. Paul (Minn.) Sunday Pioneer Press.

Mrs. Farley Dare, whose husband before his death was editor of the Walker (Minn.) Pilot, has assumed editorial charge of the paper.

Mark Larkin has been appointed publicity director of the Balboa Feature Films, Long Beach, Cal.

Eugene Moore, local reporter on the Wheeling (W. Va.) Daily News, has been shifted to the city hall, taking the place of French D. Walton, who has resigned to become secretary of the Wheeling Commercial Association.

Jay M. Schreck of the Chicago office of the Associated Press has become night pony editor in the Columbus (Ohio) office.

George Gearhart of Lancaster, Ohio, has joined the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal.

A. E. Clark, city hall news writer for the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch, has been appointed editor of the City Bulletin of Columbus to succeed C. E. Dittmer, who has entered Government service.

Mathew Mullany has been appointed sports writer and editor of the North Adams (Mass.) Herald. The Herald has lost two sports writers through the war, but expects to hold Mr. Mullany as he is beyond the draft age.

C. F. Sperry, formerly circulation manager of the Washington Post, is now advertising and business manager of the Washington Real Estate News.

Paul F. Hunter, formerly city editor of the Sheboygan (Wis.) Press, is now with the Madison State Journal.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Samuel P. Johnston has been re-elected president of the San Francisco Advertising Club. There was no contest for the presidency, Johnston being nominated and elected by acclamation. Other officers elected were: Frederick S. Nelson, vice-president; A. L. Crane, secretary; George N. Brewer, treasurer. The new directors chosen were: James A. Callaghan, Harrison Atwood, Charles W. Duncan, Miss Mary B. Ennis, Albert M. Meyerfield, R. C. Ayers, Louis Colton, W. H. B. Fowler, Ramsay Oppenheim, Max Schmidt and R. J. Bidwell.

The first duty of the new directorate will be to prepare for the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to be held in San Francisco in July, 1918. The initiation fee of the club has been raised from $3 to $5.

M. F. Harris, who has been assistant advertising director of Armour & Co., Chicago, for several years, has tendered his resignation.

At a special meeting of the New York Advertising Club on December 12, the annual resident dues were increased from $30 to $50. This includes the Government membership tax of ten per cent. George B. Sharpe, the president, reported that from May, 1916, to May, 1917, the club operated at a loss. Since May, the income has exceeded the expenditures, owing to the two thousand dollars or more in initiation fees and dues brought in by the membership campaign.

The New Year's Party of the ad club will not take place. The committee in charge felt that such an occasion would be inappropriate, just now.

The night meeting which was to have taken place on December 19 has been postponed to January 16. The subject to be discussed is "Advertising when it is hard to get the goods to fill the orders."

Isaac F. Macosson, who is the author of a series of articles running in the Saturday Evening Post on the business of the war, spoke at the noon luncheon on Friday, December 21.

Roy B. Woolley of the American ambulance field service recounted his personal experiences in France in a well received talk before the Young Ad Men's Club of New York on December 14.

The talk was the first non-advertising one heard by the club.

Plans have been completed for the incorporation of the Better Business Bureau of Detroit. The new organization will take over and carry forward the work formerly done by the vigilance committee of the Detroit Ad Craft Club. The bureau will be financed by the newspapers.

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

Holds a commanding position in the progressive and prosperous homes of Detroit and Michigan.

One reason why it gained 35% in circulation and advertising during 1916.

Represented by
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

advertising agencies and retail merchants of Detroit.

J. R. Ozanne, for the past ten years with Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Chicago, in various departments and for the past three years in charge of advertising and sales promotion work, has left that company and is now supervising the advertising and dealer promotion work for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Chicago.

H. A. Harris has resigned as advertising manager of the Pathe Freres Phonograph Company, Brooklyn, N. Y.

At the meeting of the League of Advertising Women of New York on December 18 the first half of the program covered the distribution of the product, dealer work and the selection of the media. Miss Edith V. Righter was chairman of this part of the program.

J. K. Frazer, vice-president of the Blackman-Ross Company, related the specific story of an advertising campaign for Gargoyle Mobiloids covering these points.

The second half, of which Miss Mabel Graswinckle was chairman, referred to merchandising and its relations to advertising.

Roy Soule, editor of Iron Age, spoke on merchandising in the larger sense and its various angles and interpretations. He said that sunshine was one of the essentials in advertising as well as in other phases of life and dwelt on the close relationship between advertising and salesmanship.

Mrs. Anne E. Tomlinson of the European department of the Dry Goods Economist, described merchandising as a living thing.

J. M. Bateman, formerly sales manager of the Western Electric Company, has been made sales and advertising manager of the Arctic Ice Cream Company and the Grand Ledge Milk Company, Detroit.

A. R. Johnson, formerly assistant advertising manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Company, Detroit, has been made assistant advertising manager of the Hyatt Roller Bearing Company, Detroit.

Arthur H. Cummings, formerly in the advertising department of the B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, has been made advertising manager of the Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio.

L. C. Hunt, formerly with Hughes Electric Heating Company, Chicago, has become sales manager of the Wander Company, Chicago, manufacturing chemists.

William H. Mann, formerly advertising and assistant sales manager of Marshall Field & Company, has been made general manager of Marshall Field & Company, wholesale branch, of Chicago.

Victor Schwebel, formerly with the advertising department of the American and Globe of New York, has joined the soliciting staff of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Citizen.

Members of the Minneapolis Advertising Forum were the guests of the Nevens Company at a dinner and Christmas entertainment at the company's new plant on December 18.

While retaining its identity as an organization, the Seattle Ad Club, famous for efficiency and unusual achievement, recently consolidated with the bureau of publicity and advertising of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club. James A. Wood, president of both organizations, was elected chairman of the bureau, and Phil Norton as secretary. Edward A. Batwell is chairman of the executive committee.

The consolidated bureau, in which the indomitable workers of the Seattle Ad Club are now centering their efforts, is preparing a program for achievement in 1918 which, ordinarily, would require five years' steady effort. This includes work for an immediate increase of home industries and the city's factory payroll, constructive work for the development of Alaska, Siberia and the Orient, Seattle being the gateway to each of these world treasure-fields.

George S. Fowler, who managed the Red Cross Christmas membership drive, will continue in Washington for several months more, managing the next Red Cross campaign for war funds. Mr. Fowler is advertising manager of Colgate & Co., Jersey City.

F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson, formerly general sales manager of the Welch Grape Juice Company, Westfield, N. Y., will on January 1 become associated with the Union Carbide & Carbon Corporation, New York.

A "Hooverized" dinner was held by the Goats, an organization of Philadelphia advertising men, Tuesday night, with twenty members present. Irvin Parrhall, "the venerable beard," presided and the principal speaker was Charles C. Green of New York. The organization voted to give $100 to the Red Cross.

E. Marshall Taylor, city passenger agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and secretary of the Butte (Mont.) Ad Club, has assumed the duties of advertising manager and publicity agent for the Ansonia Amusement Company of Butte.

G. A. O'Reilly, foreign trade representative of the Irving National Bank of New York, in a recent address on post-war commerce, before the Cleveland Advertising Club, pledged for nationalization of American trade, methods, processes, and, "to the greatest consistent extent, our contact with both foreign customers and competitors."

At the meeting of the Cleveland club on December 19, Rev. Joseph A. Mulry, president of Fordham University, New York, talked on "National ideals."

E. Elmo Martin spoke on "Compensation" at the Friday noon meeting of the advertising club.

O. C. Harn, advertising manager of the National Lead Company, New York has moved his household from New Jersey to Forest Hills, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

The Bottsford Advertising Company, Portland, Ore., and Barrows & Richardson, Philadelphia, have been recognized by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Robert M. S. Walker, formerly associated with the National Cloak & Suit Company and the Standard Mail Order Company, has been appointed manager of the mail order department of the M. F. Gould Company, New York.

Mr. Walker succeeds Theodore Kirby who has joined the MacMartin Advertising Agency of Minneapolis.

The Fletcher Company, Widener Building, Philadelphia, is displaying in the lobby of its general offices a large service flag bearing eight stars, the concern having given up that number of men to help keep the world safe for democracy.

Edward Cave, formerly president and editor of Recreation Magazine, recently absorbed by Outer's Book, Chicago, has joined the staff of Collier Armstrong, Inc., New York.

Miss Mabel Elizabeth Girling, formerly with Van Hoesen & Collins, Inc., Chicago, is now in the copy department of the William D. McJunkin Advertising Agency, Chicago.

The Sampliner Advertising Agency was incorporated in New York on December 19 by J. and B. Sampliner and H. Oestreicher, 606 St. Nicholas avenue. The capital stock is $5,000.

Arch C. Heller, for four years manager of the advertising department of the Charles Williams Stores, has joined the Philadelphia staff of N. W. Ayer & Son.

B. C. Carroll, formerly with Everywoman's World, Toronto, has become associated with the Hamilton Advertiser's Agency, Hamilton, Ont.

Ernest L. Johnson recently with the Manternach Company, Hartford, Ct., is now on the staff of the Spafford Advertising Agency, Boston.

Charles N. Ascheim, formerly with the Nichols-Finn Advertising Company and the J. Walter Thomson Company, Chicago, has been made manager of the agricultural department of the Burnet-Kuhn Advertising Company, Chicago.

O. H. Blackman, head of the Blackman-Ross Company, New York, is a snow shoeing enthusiast. He indulges in the country around his home in Montclair, N. J.

Max Jones has left the financial advertising department of the New York Times to join the staff of the Guenther Agency, New York.

KATZ STAFF ENLARGED.

W. O. Millinger, recently appointed to the Chicago office of the E. Katz Special Agency, was fourteen years in the Pittsburg advertising field before he became associated with the Scripps newspapers.

W. O. MILLINGER.

He remained with the Scripps organization for eleven years and as its national advertising manager gained a wide knowledge of newspaper conditions throughout the country.

For the past two years he has been connected with Erwin & Wasey, Chicago.

NEWS PRINT PRODUCTION SHOWS LOSS.

Developments in the news print paper situation now await the opening of the Federal Trade Commission's cost conferences which will open in Washington on January 7.

In the meantime it is interesting to note that reports to the Federal Trade Commission on the news print market for five weeks ended December 2 show a loss of production due principally to strikes on the Pacific Coast and breakdowns at mills; a decline in mill stocks of about 4,000 tons, and show about 6,500 tons held at delivery points.

A small decline in jobbers' stocks is indicated and also a decline of about 9,500 tons in publishers' stocks is shown.

Exports for September and October doubled. Jobbers' reports show a slight softening of prices during November.

STRIKE AFFECTS PAPERS.

A general strike and a resulting tie-up of all facilities in Fort Smith, Ark., caused temporary trouble to newspapers of that city.

The strike was inaugurated in sympathy with the striking operators of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

INTRODUCING AD FOLKS.

R. E. Hall, secretary of the Better Business Bureau of Spokane, has been in salesmanship and advertising work since 1902. He went to Spokane three years ago and helped introduce the Distillers Dried Grains as a dairy cattle food in this country, the entire output of this by-product having been formerly exported to Germany.

The Spokane Better Business Bureau is an outgrowth of the vigilance committee of the Spokane Ad Club. The members of the advertising organization combined with the merchants of Spokane to form this bureau, which was organized a year and a half ago on the paid secretaryship plan.

The bureau is attempting to encourage fair competition by reducing false statements and exaggeration in advertisements.

A BETTER I.N.S. SERVICE FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

As a result of its increasing business in Pennsylvania, where it now serves sixty-two newspapers, the International News Service has made a very important rerouting of its New York-Chicago trunk wire to give a much better service to Pennsylvania points.

The wire has been routed so that Pittsburg is included between Buffalo and Cleveland, the trunk wire at Pittsburg connecting with the state wire and the I.N.S. day and night bureau.

Formerly the Pennsylvania points were served on a direct sending out of New York and the new arrangement makes it possible to handle a great deal more Pennsylvania state news on the circuit than formerly was the case. The Pittsburg Sun, Press and Leader, the three day clients of the I.N.S. in Pittsburg, will be served with the reports carried on both trunk and state wires.

In addition to the Pittsburg bureau the I.N.S. Pennsylvania bureaus are located at Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pottsville, and shortly after the first of the year a new bureau will be established at Reading.

The Scranton (Pa.) Sunday Scrantonian has installed a forty-eight page press.

GAGNON NOW A DIRECTOR OF LE SOLEIL.

When the directors of Le Soleil, of Quebec, Can., decided, about four years ago, that things were not going as well with their paper as they thought they should be going, they appointed Henri Gagnon, who at that time was manager of La Tribune, in Sherbrooke, to look after the interests of their property—and that Mr. Gagnon has made good is amply proven by his recent appointment as a director of Le Soleil, the official organ of the Liberal party.

Mr. Gagnon has risen from manager of the classified advertising department of a Montreal newspaper to director and manager of Le Soleil in a period of about five years—a record which any man might well be proud of.

Henri Gagnon as manager of Le Soleil has personally dictated the policy of every department of the newspaper and job printing plant, and has been constantly on the job to see that his orders were correctly carried out.

He went to a property that was not exactly modern so far as equipment or business methods were concerned. While the foundation was in good condition, the superstructure was somewhat down at the heels.

Mr. Gagnon's first task was to find new mechanical equipment adequate to the needs of the paper he had in mind, without asking the directors to open their purse strings. Of the difficulties of this kind of a job, every newspaper man has a fair idea. After the expenditure of $100,000 on mechanical equipment and other necessary expenses, Le Soleil today claims a circulation of nearly 40,000 and boasts that it does not owe a cent in the world—even the paper bills are paid weekly.

During the past three and a half years of war, when many newspapers have gone out of business and many others have had to report decreased earnings, Le Soleil has added circulation and advertising patronage so that its press purchased in 1914 (a Hoe high-speed Simplex of thirty-two-page capacity) has already outlived its efficiency, and a new Hoe forty-eight page press capable of turning out 48,000 papers per hour is now on order and delivery is expected daily.

UNION PRINTERS BASEBALL IN CLEVELAND.

The 1918 tournament of the Union Printers Baseball League will be held at Cleveland, at a date to be determined later.

Arrangements are under way to make it a week of patriotic demonstrations. Boston, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, St. Paul, New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis will be represented.

WANT A SERVICE FLAG?

Press clubs, homes, offices, churches, factories, schools, etc., desiring service flags can have the choice of a big assortment through S. Blake Williden, wholesale distributor, 29 Madison street, Chicago. Mr. Williden announces he is supplying all sizes at reasonable prices and guarantees immediate delivery.

WOOLLEY WITH SUNSET.

C. H. Woolley has sold his holdings in the Oakland (Cal.) Daily Post and has bought a substantial interest in the Sunset Magazine of San Francisco, becoming business manager, vice-president and a director.

The policy of the Sunset Magazine has been changed and it is now being published as "a Western magazine for Western readers."

DEWEY HANDLING PUBLICITY FOR OPERA IN NEW YORK.

Rufus Homer Dewey, who boasts an acquaintance with the business and editorial departments of every newspaper and musical publication in the country, will handle the publicity city of the Chicago Opera Association for its four weeks of opera in New York, beginning January 22.

RUFUS HOMER DEWEY.

For the two seasons prior to this Mr. Dewey was with the Boston Grand Opera Company, and the year before that with Pavlowa. He was for many years publicity director of the Century Opera Company and traveled with it through the largest cities of the country.

CHANGES IN BOSTON.

Hal W. Johnson, day city editor of the Boston Herald-Journal, has taken over the management of the Boston Herald News Bureau, conducted by the Herald-Journal, and will be associated with Harry Puffer of the Boston Traveler rewrite staff. Mr. Johnson succeeds Thomas O'Neil, who has resigned from both the bureau and from the Boston Traveler make-up desk to join the Boston office of the Associated Press.

P. C. O'Brien, for fourteen years on the editorial staff of the Boston Herald-Journal, has resigned to become news editor on the Boston Advertiser and is succeeded by Edward C. Cunningham, formerly of the Worcester (Mass.) Telegram, where he was a sports news writer.

Herbert Seaman, a member of the Herald-Journal rewrite staff, has gone to the copy desk of the New York Tribune.

Charles Inman, an old time Boston newspaper man, has joined the Herald-Journal rewrite staff. He was with the Providence Journal for several years and was a member of the old Traveler staff before that paper consolidated with the Herald.

Walter Murphy, for several years a member of the Herald-Journal sports department, has been appointed automobile editor of the paper, succeeding Herbert S. Laduke, who resigned to join the Washington office of the Associated Press.

C. E. Besanson has purchased the Blunt (Ia.) Advocate.

Finest Quality

FELT PRESS and MOULDING BLANKETS

DIRECT from Factory to Newspaper

at

ONE PROFIT

Write for prices to Newspaper Dept.

Chas. W. HOUSE
& Sons
UNIONVILLE, CONN.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

FOR SALE.

FOR SALE.

GREEN PRINT PAPER FOR SALE

The undersigned, as receiver for the Monitor Publishing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has on hand about 130,000 pounds of green print paper, such as was used by the Monitor for its sport editions when publication was suspended. This paper is 36½ inches wide, basis 24x24x32, and can be sold under the appraisement for 4 cents a pound or less. If interested address E. Howard Gilkey, Box 274, Columbus, Ohio.

$3,000

cash available for first payment on country weekly and job office. Far West locations preferred. Proposition Q. B.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

Newspaper For Sale in the Sunny South

Small daily in growing Southern resort, exclusive field, netting annually close to $7,000. Extraordinary opportunity. Price $20,000, half cash asked. Proposition No. 179x.

Small city daily and high class weekly in desirable Idaho locations. Nos. 7001x and 879x.

Special offer in small city daily in rich Colorado field. No. 898x.

H. F. HENRICH
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS
MAGAZINE NOTES

Oscar Graeve, formerly in charge of the advertising art and service work of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, New York, and George Miller, formerly with the California Fruit Growers Association, have joined the staff of Collier's Weekly.

W. S. Grimwood, formerly with the London Daily Mail, and more recently a member of the British-American ambulance corps with the French army at Verdun, has joined the soliciting staff of the Canada Weekly, Toronto.

John W. Cambridge, formerly with J. J. Gibbons, Ltd., is now connected with the sales staff of Canada Weekly.

H. R. Daniel, publisher of Fashion Art, Chicago, tells THE FOURTH ESTATE.

"There is no truth whatever in a report that I have started a magazine called Grit and I am at a loss to understand how this rumor originated.

"I am devoting my time and energies to the success of Fashion-Art, which is gaining ground steadily. Fashion-Art began, in a small way, three years ago and, during that time, it has achieved national circulation and prestige."

Miss Carolyn J. Townsend, art editor of Punch, London, will be editor of the American Art Student, New York, in the absence of Walter Whiteley Hubbard, former cartoonist of the Manchester (N. H.) Union

Sales Purchases Consolidations Appraisals of Newspaper and Magazine Properties

AUDREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON
Harwell & Cannon
Times Building NEW YORK

PUBLISHERS, ATTENTION—Sample copy addresses FURNISHED FREE in lots of 1,000 or less. Over 2,000,000 book and magazine buyers on our lists. State what you want. 500 copies of any small magazine MAILED FREE if sent to me prepaid. Advertising or mailing service given in exchange for odd lots of interesting books or booklets in good, clean condition. Address: Moore's Expert Service, New Egypt, N. J.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

If your name is not on the subscription list of
THE FOURTH ESTATE
we would like to put it there and Leader, who has been called for service at Fort Williams, Portland, Me.

E. M. Shinkle has taken up the work of George B. Spencer as general manager of Good Health, Battle Creek, Mich.

For the past three years Mr. Shinkle has been connected with Good Health. Previous to that time he was with the Longmont (Colo.) National Bank for three years.

Mr. Spencer expects to work with the Y.M.C.A. in France.

The North American Review will begin in January the publication of a subsidiary magazine to be known as the North American Review's War Weekly. The new magazine will not print advertising and will not be offered for sale on news stands. No separate subscriptions will be accepted, and the weekly will be sent only to the Review subscribers who wish to take the additional magazine. The new weekly is to be issued from Washington with twenty avowed purposes.

Allen Montague, formerly with the Chicago office of Omara & Ormsbee, special representatives, has become associated with the advertising staff of the Farmers Review, Chicago.

Stanley V. Gibson has been made Western advertising manager of Cosmopolitan to succeed J. H. Williams, who will assume special duties in the New York organization.

NEW TYPE CABINETS FOR SALE

Nine new 25-case all-steel type cabinets, 60 inches high, olive green enameled, unusually deep type compartments cannot break type or case; all wired. The best cabinet ever made by the Keystone Type Foundry. Specially made for the new plant of the Detroit News but which proved in excess of our requirements. Price when ordered $82 each. If ordered now would cost 33½% more. Will sell f.o.b. Detroit for $75 each.

THE DETROIT NEWS

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 60,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 8011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 or 24 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

FOR SALE—One late model Goss, two platen steam table with boiler, like new. Extension table, turtles and chases. Price reasonable. Minneapolis Press Herald, 297 Sixth St., So., Minneapolis, Minn.

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

Vaudeville is now being published under the direction of William Reed Dunroy. Harry Rose, formerly managing editor, has enlisted in the Army.

Floyd C. Freeman, for many years secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at home and abroad and for the past two years traveling secretary of the railroad department of the international committee, has been appointed business manager of Association Men, New York.

J. Daniel Bedell, formerly with the Countryside Magazine and the Independent, has joined the Eastern advertising staff of Photoplay Magazine, and will cover New York State and New England.

E. K. Hoak, Pacific Coast manager for Doubleday, Page & Co., Charles Scribner's Sons, and the Review of Reviews Company, has brought the Los Angeles Financial News in company with George C. Ellis, managing editor of the publication.

Mr. Hoak will continue to represent the Eastern publishers, while acting as business manager of the Financial News.

It is announced that around the first of the year a new monthly periodical will begin publication in Chicago called the Soft Drink Journal. Paul J. Mandabach will be business manager, Edward G. Hopkins, advertising manager and Charles F. Marcher editor.

Charles E. Combs, advertising manager of Current Opinion, has purchased an interest in Price's Carpet & Rug News, New York, and will assume the duties of secretary-treasurer.

DIVIDENDS

INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY
New York, November 28, 1917.
The Board of Directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of one and one-half per cent (1½%) on the preferred capital stock of this Company, payable January 15, 1918, to preferred Stockholders of record at the close of business January 4, 1918.
OWEN SHEPHERD, Treasurer.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

AMUSEMENTS.

Week Beginning December 24.

Acolian Hall—43d st., between 5th and 6th aves.—Dec. 29, Jacques Thibaud. Dec. 29, children's concert.
Astor—B'way & 45th—"Why Marry?"
Belasco—W. 44th—"Polly With a Past."
Booth—45th, west of B'way—"The Masquerader."
Bijou—W. 45th—"Odds and Ends."
Brookline—44th W. of B'way—"Lord and Lady Algy."
Bronx Opera House—149th E. of 2d av.—"Leave It to Jane."
Carnegie Hall—7th ave. and 87th st.—Symphony concerts for young people. Dec. 15; Dec. 30, Mischa Elman.
Century—63d and Central Park W.—"Miss 1917."
Geo. M. Cohan—B'way & 43d—"The King." Cohan & Harris—West 43d—"A Tailor Made Man."
Comedy—41st, between Broadway and 4th av.—Washington Square Players.
Carine—39th and B'way—"Oh, Boy."
Coro—45th and B'way—"Flo Flo."
Criterion—44th B'way—"Madame Sand." Ellinger—West of 43d—"Business Before Pleasure."
Empire—B'way & 40th—"The Three Bears." 39th St.—Near B'way—"Blind Youth." 44th St. Roof Theater—"Over the Top." 45th St. Near B'way—"Yes or No." Gaiety—B'way, near 40th—"The Country Cousin."
Globe—B'way & 40th—"Jack o' Lantern." Greenwich Village—4th st. and 7th av.—Three one-act plays.
Harris—West 43d—"The Naughty Wife." Hippodrome—6th av. & 44th—"Cheer Up." Hudson—W. 44th—"The Pipes of Pan." Knickerbocker—B'way and 38th—"The Regiment."
Lycium—West 45th—"Tiger nose." 43rd—43d West of B'way—"Les Miserables."
Liberty—W. 42d—"Going Up."
Manhattan Opera House—West 24th—bet. 8th & 9th avs.—"Chu Chin Chow." Marine Elliott—39th st. East of B'way—"Eyes of Youth." Metropolitan Opera House—B'way and 40th—Grand Opera.
Morisco—45th West of B'way—"Lom hardi, Ltd."
Palace—B'way, near 47th—Vaudeville. Park—Columbus Circle—"The Land of Joy." Playhouse—40th East of B'way—"Elevation." Plymouth—45th W. of B'way—"The Gypsy Trail." Riverside—B'way & 96th—Vaudeville. Standard—B'way and 90th—"Peter Hbbetson." Shubert—44th, W. of B'way—"Maytime." Winter Garden—B'way and 30th—"Dance Our Bit."

urer, as well as advertising and business manager, on January 1.

William G. Norris has been appointed Western representative of Motor Boating, with offices in the Kresge Building, Detroit.

Mrs. Florence M. Crim has been made assistant editor of the Hoosier Motorist, published at Indianapolis.

HELP WANTED.

An unusual opportunity on very prosperous daily in booming town of 12,000 in Southwest state wants

General or Business Manager

One with successful experience as an executive. Big money to right man. Send complete data at once, as old manager must turn over paper in January and enter army. Address L. N., care The Fourth Estate.

A RARE CHANCE

for a man to get in on the ground floor of a unique magazine in New York city as office manager. An investment of one or two thousand dollars necessary. Salary one hundred dollars a month to start. A little energy and interest will rapidly increase this. Investigation will prove that this is an exceptional opportunity. Address A.R.C., Box 955, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Dependable man capable of writing good newspaper advertisements and successful solicitor. Must have constructive methods and be energetic worker. Live small newspaper dominating good field. Give full information in first letter. Address Mid-West Daily care The Fourth Estate, New York

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED.

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessary, 35 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

EDITORIAL WRITER WANTED.

High grade publication has opening for a clear and forceful writer on daily news events and general affairs. He should be thoroughly conversant with public life and men, particularly of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and possessor of a literary style. Preference will be given to good practical newspaper man who has had Philadelphia experience. Applications will be held in strictest confidence. To secure interview, please send samples or specimens of your matter, and full details as to personality, experience, etc. Address Editor, P. O. Box 479, Philadelphia.

For Particular Printing come to the
ALLIANCE PRESS
110-114 West 234 Street, NEW YORK

SITUATIONS WANTED.

MANAGING EDITOR.

Yale graduate, for four years editor of a monthly magazine of international circulation, desires change. Magazine editorship or assistant editorship preferred. Will consider managing editorship of newspaper in city of 25,000 to 100,000 or department work. Wide experience as editorial writer, column conductor and dramatic critic. Salary not main object. Best references in America. Address P. T. G. 3058 Aubert ave., Chicago.

ADVERTISING WOMAN of proven ability, now advertising manager on Southwestern daily desires change to position offering opportunity for advancement; prefers location in city of 50,000 upwards in South or West; has demonstrated efficiency to develop and handle local and foreign advertising; solicitor and copy writer not afraid of work. Must have opportunity to make income $1,800 to $2,500 a year. Full particulars with references by addressing Miss M., care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG LADY

experienced in advertising business wishes position with agency. Ten years' experience with one of New York's leading dailies. Understands copy makeup, entering orders, etc. Address Box 954, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Position as news editor or managing editor with daily in city of from 15,000 to 30,000. Seven years' experience in news game on small city daily, three on desk. Aggressive and not afraid to dig in. Will start at $30 a week, as salary is not only object. Out of draft. Can furnish best of references and leave on ten days' notice. Address G. N., care The Fourth Estate.

City or Managing Editor

City or Managing Editor—Experienced all phases of work, cities 25,000 to 75,000. Thoroughly reliable and capable. Open for immediate engagement on good paper. Would consider future investment. Draft exempt. Not less than $40 to start. Address Box 956, care The Fourth Estate.

Owners desiring to sell newspaper properties may advertise them in these columns over an assumed name, and answers will be received in entire confidence and forwarded without charge.

Rate twenty-five cents per line agate.

SERVICE CORNER.

634.—"Will you furnish me with a list of newspaper syndicate concerns in this country, organizations which either buy articles and pictures outright or market them for the author on a cost and commission basis?"

635.—"What is the present address of Fred P. Appleget?"

636.—"Newspaper men are exceedingly scarce in Oregon and vicinity, it being almost impossible to select men. With the second draft coming on, the situation is anything but reassuring."

637.—"Do you supply binders for THE FOURTH ESTATE, in which we can insert the issues as they come to us? If so, at what cost?"

638.—"Can you tell me the whereabouts of J. H. Penny, formerly employed as a traveling representative by the Montgomery Advertiser and the Pittsfield News?"

Frank T. Sheppard has sold the Wallace (S. D.) Scout to his son.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation Manager

Resourceful, successful business getter, using original campaign methods; many years' experience; methodical; economic; wishes to connect with metropolitan newspaper. Best references. Address Box 841, care The Fourth Estate.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessary, 35 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

If your name is not on the subscription list of THE FOURTH ESTATE we would like to put it there

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present there are letters waiting for

A. E. Codrington	Griffith Bonner
S. Chivers-Wilson	H. H. Patterson
Anna B. Corrhane	Publicity Bureau
Geo. W. Craig	Glenn C. Wilson
Thos. B. Donnelly	O. Wog
Arthur T. Egan	Chas. H. Forman
W. Burton Ellis	A. W. Seaborn
A. Fisher	J. H. Musgat
R. Heris Service	A. P. Robyn
Sam'l M. Evans	Richard Neville
George S. Teall	Clinton P. Woods
J. G. Disbar	W. E. Hornaday
Theodore Bixenz	C. S. Kendall
Ray E. Wilcox	A. E. Bickson
G. S. Myers	Chas. S. Quinn
Henry A. DeMasi	H. D. Lemley
D. C. Frame	C. F. Yeager
W. G. McConnell	James Bell
Albert Letts	Hugh Kapp
John Raridan	Myron W. Townsend

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is $0.000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS
General Offices,
373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

PUBLISHERS:

I have a modern printing plant; would like to contract for printing a weekly or a monthly newspaper or magazine. First-class work guaranteed at reasonable prices. Address Plymouth, care The Fourth Estate.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

You may need to know

How you can get in touch with the right man for a position vacant, or how you can find a suitable opening for yourself or some friend whom you can recommend.

Keep in mind the scope of our work. Ours is a service bureau for employers and employees in all departments of the Publishing, Advertising and Printing field, East, South and West.

No charge to employers; registration free; moderate commissions from successful clients.

Fernald's Exchange

Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Circulation and Promotion Manager with creative and executive ability backed by experience and record of success, is open for a position after Jan. 1. Southwest section of country preferred. Address Box 951, care The Fourth Estate.

MANAGER

thoroughly experienced in news and business ends of small city daily. Have lately sold control of live daily. Open for business or editorial position. College education, married, not subject to draft. Hard worker, with punch and ideas. Will consider investing. Address Worker, care The Fourth Estate.

High Grade Man

with long experience as business and advertising manager, wishes to make change. Excellent record for building up and holding patronage; writes effective copy; pleasing manners and good mixer. Address Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

Over One Thousand Jobs

of building and construction work were let to contractors last year through the medium of proposal advertisements in

THE IMPROVEMENT BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

One building alone cost over $80,000. The contractors and architects who bought the millions of dollars worth of materials and machinery used in constructing these buildings, read The Improvement Bulletin. Such firms as H. W. Johns Manville Co., Atlas Portland Cement Co., and Universal Portland Cement Co. advertise in it. Why don't you? Sample copy free.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the Dominion AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland.

74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU

184 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

THE U. S. PULP AND PAPER USAGE.

FIGURES JUST COMPILED SHOW 1916 WAS RECORD YEAR.

It is only now that compilation of figures of wood pulp and paper consumption in the United States, in 1916, has been completed, and THE FOURTH ESTATE gives the only known presentation of them in the following form.

They show that in 1916 the reported consumption of pulpwood in the United States was larger than for any previous year for which similar statistics were collected.

The total quantity used by the 230 establishments reporting was 5,228,558 cords, an increase of 757,795 cords, or seventeen per cent, over the 4,470,763 cords consumed by the 223 mills reporting in 1914, the last year for which statistics of this kind were compiled.

Of the total consumption, 4,444,565 cords were of domestic production and 783,993 cords were imported.

In addition to the mills which furnished reports, there were five from which schedules could not be obtained. Their output is estimated at 43,518 cords, but this is not included in the following table:

PULPWOOD CONSUMPTION 1916.

Kind of Wood. Cords.

Spruce:
Domestic	2,389,993
Imported	701,667
Hemlock	760,226
Aspen:
Domestic	329,370
Imported	82,326
Balsam fir	801,032
Yellow pine	90,310
Jack pine	80,068
White fir	49,425
Yellow poplar	37,947
Gum	37,391
Tamarack	33,271
Cottonwood	22,211
Basswood	11,481
All other species	90,909
Slab and other mill waste	290,844
Total	5,228,558

RATIO BY STATES.

Maine	18 1/2 %	Virginia	3 1/2 %
New York	18 %	West Va.	3 1/2 %
Wisconsin	12 %	Wash.	2 3/4 %
New Hampshire	9 %	Vermont	2 3/4 %
Penn.	8 %	N. Carolina	2 3/4 %
Minnesota	4 1/2 %	Mass.	1 %
Michigan	4 1/2 %	All other states	4 1/2 %
Oregon	3 3/4 %

The total importations for pulp wood for 1916 were 1,097,577 cords.

The production of wood pulp was: Reported tons, 3,271,310. Estimated tons, 3,294,822.

Only reported tons are included in the following table:

PULPWOOD CONSUMPTION—QUANTITY OF WOOD CONSUMED, BY KIND AND PROCESSES OF MANUFACTURE.

Kind of Wood.	Reduced by
	Aggregate Quantity.	Mechanical Process.	Sulphate Process.	Soda Process.	Sulphate Process.
	Cords.	Cords.	Cords.	Cords.	Cords.
Total	5,228,558	1,584,386	2,856,122	707,419	140,831
Spruce	2,101,660	1,293,508	1,503,217	630	4,805
Hemlock	760,226	84,116	647,738		28,373
Aspen	411,696	14,733	2,323	294,577	68
Balsam fir	301,032	77,313	213,369		10,150
Yellow pine	90,310	15,603	8,209	29,727	36,711
Jack pine	80,068	13,935		61,145	4,968
White fir	49,425	18,660	25,865
Yellow poplar	37,947			37,947
Gum	37,391			37,391
Tamarack	33,271	491	3,775		29,005
Cottonwood	22,211	2,089	668	19,461
Basswood	11,481			11,481
Broulax fir	7,679			7,679
White pine	2,545	1,473			1,072
Sycamore	2,246			2,246
Willow	600			600
Ruckeye	100			100
Cucumber	37			37
Beech, birch and maple	77,762	11		77,761
Slabs and other mill waste	290,844	7,661	140,758	26,620	25,905

Imports of wood pulp for 1916, in long tons of 2,240 pounds each, were: Ground wood pulp, 234,390. Chemical wood pulp, 376,114. The exports of wood pulp in 1916 (all kinds in long tons) were 35,735 tons.

PAPER.

The 1916 imports of paper in pounds were:

News print, 936,466,899. Wrapping, 7,103,681. All others, 1,259,761.

The 1916 exports of paper in pounds were:

News print, 152,655,459. Wrapping, 83,433,793. All others, 123,691,626.

APPLYING FOR AN ONTARIO PULP WOOD PERMIT.

The Ontario government is receiving tenders for the right to cut pulp wood and pine timber on an area situated in the vicinity of the Kapuskasing River, in the district of Timiskaming and Algoma.

Tenders are asked to offer a flat rate per cord for all classes of pulp wood, whether spruce or other varieties, and the successful applicant shall be required to pay a flat rate of $10 per 1,000 feet of red and white pine on the limit.

Mills must be erected on the territory and the wood must be manufactured into pulp and paper in the province.

TWO-CENT POSTAGE FOR ALL NEW YORK CITY.

A bill which would permit the sending of a letter from New York to Brooklyn for two cents has been introduced by Senator Calder of New York. The bill provides two-cent drop-letter postage for the greater city.

Virtually every other large city in the country enjoys the privilege of having mail both sent and delivered in its own boundaries for two cents a letter.

Senator Calder also introduced a bill providing for one-cent postcards.

PUBLISHER SUE FOR LIBEL.

P. McHugh, publisher of the Eganville (Ont.) Leader, has been served with a writ for libel as the result of publication of an unsigned letter which is alleged to have reflected upon the integrity of M. J. O'Brien, of Renfrew, a candidate in the Federal election.

Mr. McHugh refused to divulge the name of the author of the letter, which action would have satisfied the complainant, and the suit resulted.

Unstated damages are asked.

WOMAN PRESS AGENT ONCE TAUGHT SCHOOL.

As press agents women are notably forging ahead. For example, take Miss Beulah Livingstone, who has a publicity bureau of her own in New York.

Born and educated in Georgia, Miss Livingstone came North a few years ago and attended a normal college, later becoming a kindergarten teacher in the foreign section of New York. To bring the work more clearly before the youngsters, she wrote her own stories and finger plays. This was the start. She sold her stories to the New York Tribune and New York Sun.

MISS BEULAH LIVINGSTONE.

At the end of her first year of writing, Miss Livingstone went abroad, where she met Lou Tellegen, Sarah Bernhardt's leading man, who asked her to become press agent, and she later represented such celebrities as Anna Pavlova and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle.

After running the business end of the Times Producing Corporation's production of "The Girl Who Smiles," Miss Livingstone opened her own publicity bureau. Some of the other plays she has publicized from time to time are: "Nobody Home" and "Very Good Eddie," for Miss Marbury and F. Ray Comstock; "Seven Comrades," for David Belasco; "Have a Heart" for Henry W. Savage; and "A King of Nowhere" for Jessie Bonstelle.

Miss Livingstone is at present dividing her time between Elliott, Comstock & Gest, for whom she is handling "Oh Boy" and "Leave It to Jane," and the Petrova Picture Company, acting as Mme. Petrova's personal and press representative.

Miss Livingstone was associated with Eula McClary in having the twenty-five-cent-a-day food demonstration tried out in the New York Police Department to show people how it was possible to economize. This test received nation-wide attention and commendation.

MAKING THE FUTURE SAFE.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: I find so much in THE FOURTH ESTATE that is of interest that I am handing you a check for a year in advance payment instead of six months.

E. B. HARD,
Editor Alexandria (Va.) Gazette.

WANTS BALLOT LAW REVISED

Provisions for counting votes for the head of the ticket, as President in Presidential years, governors in gubernatorial years and state-wide issues in municipal election years, before the remainder of the ballots are counted, were urged by James W. Faulkner of the Cincinnati Enquirer before the state legislative committee to study and recommend revision of Ohio election laws.

Faulkner had been appointed by the Associated Press to make this request of the committee. The Associated Press, according to Faulkner, contends Ohio is one of the tardiest states in the country in announcing results on important issues election nights. This is because the law forbids counting part of a ballot, but requires that every ballot be counted fully as soon as reached.

WITH THE OTTAWA JOURNAL FOR THIRTY-TWO YEARS.

When, on December 10, the Ottawa (Ont.) Evening Journal, observed the thirty-second anniversary of its founding, there was still on its staff one of those who helped turn out the first number of the paper.

This was J. H. Flatters, foreman of the composing room, who was assistant foreman when the paper made its debut as a four-page, six-column sheet.

John W. Dafee, now of the Winnipeg (Man.) Free Press, and Hon. A. H. C. Colquhoun, deputy minister of education in the Ontario government, were editors of the Journal when it began publication.

A HEAVY PENALTY.

Vicente Balbas, editor of La Revista de las Antillas de San Juan, P. R., who was found guilty recently by a jury in the United States District Court on four out of five charges in connection with articles appearing in his newspaper, has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and a fine of $4,000—two years and $1,000 on each of the counts.

The court ordered that Balbas shall be confined in the prison at Atlanta. He will be the first Federal prisoner ever sent to prison outside the island.

Balbas attempted to convince Porto Ricans by a series of articles in his paper that they had no interest in the war and that their call to the colors was illegal.

THE COST OF LIBERTY BOND ADVERTISING IN CHICAGO.

Charles H. Schweppe, who directed the advertising campaign of the Chicago business men for the second Liberty Loan, reports that it cost only about two-thirds of the $80,000 subscribed.

A rebate has been made to the donors amounting to $28,000.

This makes an average of 2.7 cents per $100 bond, as $177,000,000 was subscribed for.

Greatest Gain

The New York Times since 1911—six years—has gained 4,000,000 agate lines (13,513 columns) of advertising, a greater gain than any other New York newspaper.

POSSIBLE CHANGES IN BUSINESS.

(Continued from Seventeenth Page.)
the experience of British manufacturers, who, in spite of the fact that in a number of cases they are not allowed to turn out a single unit of their product, are yet continuing their advertising and in some cases increasing it?

In my judgment the sales and advertising manager who is functioning correctly at the present crisis is he who while endeavoring to line his company up to handle products which are essential, continues to build the best possible selling organization and keeps resolutely before the American people the value of a commodity on which hundreds of thousands, and possibly millions, of dollars have already been spent.

Carefully weighing my words, and with the full realization of the serious nature of what I am saying, I am absolutely convinced that any manufacturer who plans otherwise, who plans with but the present in mind, is taking a step which will bring disaster to his business.

METHODS OF DISTRIBUTION.

In the method of distribution some radical changes will doubtless take place.

Recently I was in a Government conference where the cost to the public of a certain article was under consideration. It was found that the increased price was necessary because of the fact that in distribution three or more concerns would distribute to the same side of the street, and it was pointed out that a decrease of several cents per unit could be made if one firm was allowed to take one street or district and his competitor another, and so on.

The objection to the plan was the Sherman Law, but that law and the Clayton Act will have to be suspended during the war for certain industries. The Government itself as a war measure is breaking the law daily. This war measure principle must soon be in operation for certain lines of commerce.

One thing that Great Britain is busy on at the present time are plans to increase her export trade after the war. Here is another adjustment which we may safely and wisely put into effect. Our export trade in peace time commodities does not reach any considerable volume. Let us during the war years plan for a larger foreign business both in the Orient as well as the Occident.

In this connection do not let the Paris Economic Conference cause you any concern. Lord Robert Cecil, who had a part in the drawing of the Paris pact, recently pointed out that the permanent measure of the pact which has been seriously criticized by the American press, (the one to the effect that the Allies will preserve their national resources during the period of reconstruction for each other, in preference to outside parties, and will permanently facilitate reciprocal exchange of products among themselves) simply means in practice that Belgium, Northern France, Poland and Serbia and such like countries will have first call on British capital, or in other words, the capital which has been the main financial strength of the Allies and has provided many of them with arms, munitions, and food, shall continue to be at their disposal in the work of the reconstructions.

The same kind of considerations apply in the case of the permanent proposal as to reciprocal exchange of products. The measures here proposed are those which every nation in the world, except Great Britain, has employed for years to protect its commerce. They have been alone in having neither a protective tariff nor a system of subsidies. Their merchant shipping has been developed by their enterprise and their building capacity, and they have given no subsidies except purely a postal one.

CAREFUL SURVEYS NEEDED.

May I urge the necessity of every industry making a careful survey of its products in its relationship to the considered essentials by Government? The country is overflowing with patriotism and the members of the Association of National Advertisers are willing to operate in the best interests of the problems facing the country. Patriotism, however, alone will not meet the situation. Nothing but a careful study of the situation, profiting by the experiences of Great Britain will bring our concerns through this ordeal in a condition fit to weather the severe competition which is before us.

May we realize that every action of the non-military and non-naval departments of the Government is a step in the education of the citizen in new habits of life.

Every Liberty Loan teaches more people the value and necessity of thrift; the publicity of the Food Administration urges on the American people new habits of food conservation. Waste is condemned, saving is exalted and substituting recognized as an evidence of loyalty.

The facts given out by the Fuel Administration make the consumer realize the necessity of economy.

All these facts simply mean that the consumer will come through this war with new habits of life. Let us readjust our business and methods to meet these new habits.

In making these readjustments, we, national advertisers, are fortunate in having a most efficient organization to help us—the Association of National Advertisers.

The founders of the A.N.A. builded well and strong, but I doubt if they realized just how valuable an aid the organization would prove within comparatively few years.

I have already pointed out that Great Britain has worked out more efficient methods of merchandising. We must do the same. We absolutely must reduce distribution costs.

INEFFICIENCY MUST GO.

Inefficient advertising and selling are responsible for the high cost of distribution today, the waste of salesman's time, probably the most expensive constituent of marketing.

Advertising can be a great factor in reducing this waste by lessening the period between the salesman's initial approach and the making of a sale.

In American business, in order to effect economies in distribution, advertising must be made scientific and selling more thorough and both more co-ordinated. Unnecessary and uneconomic factors must be eliminated.

One of the causes of waste in distribution resultant in higher costs is the high cost of special service in securing data on both merchandising and advertising. Reliable information is usually very expensive to secure.

May I point out that right here is where the organization of the Association of National Advertisers is equipped to help manufacturers secure information that will enable them to make their marketing more scientific and thorough and to eliminate some of the expensive factors which are continued only because of tradition and also because they have not been provided with a substitute.

A.N.A. service outlined there is most valuable—rather, should I say, it is invaluable in meeting present conditions and also in meeting post-war competition.

I cannot refrain from expressing my appreciation of the efficiency of our organization. In my judgment the Association of National Advertisers is worthy of being called a War Efficiency Department of Marketing. It is in line with Government requirements of economy and efficiency and every legitimate national advertiser should be brought into contact with it without delay.

I am satisfied that the Government does not wish to be arbitrary or unreasonable. It does not wish to take measures which will inflict hardships on established business, but it does expect that every manufacturer will adjust his business to help put through the business of the nation, which is war.

May I quote a few passages from a book by J. P. Marcosson:

"For nearly three years Europe has been drenched with blood and rent with bitter strife. Millions of men have been killed or maimed. Billions of dollars in property have gone up in smoke and ruin—all part of the mighty sacrifice laid on the Altar of the Great War. This tragic tumult must inevitably subside. The smoke of battle will clear; the scarred fields mantle again with Springtime verdure. The fighting hosts will once more find their way to peaceful pursuits. Time, the Healer, will wipe out the wounds of war."

"The world already wearied of the Crimson Canvases plashed with martial scene. Heroism has become the most common-place of qualities. It takes a monstrous thrill to move a civilization sick of destruction. With eager eye it looks forward to the era of regeneration. War ends some time."

"Business never ceases. Under the shock of mighty upheaval it has been dislocated by the most drastic strain ever put upon the economic fabric, but it will march on long after Peace will have mercifully sheathed the Sword. Therefore the permanent world problem is the Business problem."

"Peace will be as great a shock as war. Hence the need of preparedness to meet the inevitable conflict for universal trade. We as a nation are unready for this emergency as we were to meet the clash of actual physical combat. Commercial preparedness is as vital to the national well being as the training for arms."

"Nor will commerce be the only thing that we will have to reckon with. When you have heard the guns roar, and watched the horizon flame with fury and seen men go to their death smiling and unafraid; when the pitiless panorama of carnage has passed before you in terms of terror and tragedy, you realize that there is something human as well as economic in the relentless Thing called War."

"It means that just as there was no compromise with dishonor in the approach to the super-struggle for which nations are pouring out their youth and fortune, so will there be no flinching in that coming contest for commercial mastery the bloodless aftermath of history's deadliest and costliest war."

"We have reached a place in the world trade sun. Unless we are ready to hold it we will slip into the shadow. We must prepare."

Those words of Mr. Marcosson's are electric and vital. They sound the keynote of what should be the thought in our national preparedness of readjustment to meet the war situation and to prepare for war's aftermath.

We must think of the competition, both at home and abroad, which is to come at the conclusion of this war. Do not let us fool ourselves with the idea that we are all powerful in trade. We are not. No industry is supreme.

No particular branch of commerce can afford to pay anything but the most serious attention, not only to the present readjustments necessary, but to the readjustments which will be necessary at the conclusion of the war.

May we with all diligence occupy our minds with plans to meet the present situation and war's aftermath?

Only ONE Machine (The Thompson Typecaster)

can cast everything that goes into the form—Type (5 to 48 point), Leads, Slugs and Rules (9 to 18 point).

Used by 100 Daily Newspapers
Complete Non-Distribution System
Without Type Storage.

THOMPSON
TYPE MACHINE CO.
CHICAGO NEW YORK

NASSAU QUALITY
METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSONTYPE COMPOSITE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
608 West 80th Street NEW YORK

We want you to get into the habit of

Phone the Manhattan Man
for Your Engraving

GOOD WORK
PROMPT SERVICE
FAIR PRICES

Tell the story of 23 Years of Successful Service.

MANHATTAN PHOTO
ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1057-8.

Newspaper PLATE
and MATRICES

60c per page and up.

If you wish to share in the benefits of co-operation, write

The United Newspaper Plate Co
CANTON, OHIO.

At Tempting Prices
Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving
in all its branches

DEFENDAM ENGRAVING CO.
Inc.
1981 Broadway, NEW YORK.

STANLEY PROCESS
the perfect TYPE METAL

MADE BY
SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

Advertising Agencies and Newspaper Syndicates
When in a hurry call 8303 Spring
DAY } MATRICES
AND } STEREOTYPERS
NIGHT } ELECTROTYPERS

J. RUBIN CO.
25 E. 4th St., N. Y. SERVICE

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS
THE Largest
DAILY AND SUNDAY
CIRCULATION
IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
J. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

CAMPBELL-EWALD, 117 Fort st., W. Detroit—Reported will use some newspapers as well as farm journals for Famabella Co., poultry and pigeon feed, Detroit.

DOREMUS & CO., 44 Broad st.,
N. Y.—Making 5,000-line contracts with some Pennsylvania newspapers for Goodbody & Co., financial, 42
B'way, N. Y.

FRANK, 28 Beaver st., N. Y.—
Placing orders with newspapers for Houston Oil Co., financial.

GOLDSMITH, 25 E. 26th st., N.
Y.—Again placing orders with some Southern newspapers for Goodale
Worsted Co. ("Palm Beach Cloth"),
Sanford, Me.

HOYT, 120 W. 32d st., N. Y.;
14 Kelly st., Boston; Leader-News Bldg., Cleveland—Reported will place advertising for Billings-Chapin Co. ("U.S.N. Marine" paints and varnishes), Cleveland.

Orders to a few newspapers for A.
C. Gilbert Co. ("Gilbert Erector Toys"), New Haven, Ct.

Sending out orders for Dental & Pyorrhoeide Co., N. Y.

McCANN, 61 B'way, N. Y.—Again placing orders (stove copy) with newspapers for Standard Oil Co., 26
B'way, N. Y.

MAILORY, MITCHELL &
FAUST, Security Bldg., Chicago—
Placing account of Scholl Manufacturing Co., Chicago, maker of "Scholl Foot Appliances."

STREET & FINNEY, 171 Madison av., N. Y.—Reported will send out orders to newspapers in fifteen large cities for War Savings Stamps for P. F. Collier & Sons, 416 W.
13th st., N. Y.

BUSH, 100 Broad st., N. Y.—Placing advertising for the Locomobile
Co. of America, Bridgeport, Ct.; Monroe Calculating Machine Co., Orange, N. J.; Air-Lite Rubber Mfg.

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

FOR NEW ORLEANS

WISE
ADVERTISERS
USE THE

Daily . . 60,756
Sunday 77,438
Average 63,217

U.S.P.O.
Report of
Oct. 1, 1917
and
A.B.C.

Co.; Bernhard Ullman Co., Inc.;
Crouch & Fitzgerald; Detmer Woolen Co.

WEIL-BIOW & WEILL, Flatiron
Bldg., N. Y.—Placing orders with newspapers for New York Fur Auction Co., 48 Great Jones st., N. Y.

HUSBAND & THOMAS, Marshall
Field Bldg., Chicago—Placing advertising of George Banta Publishing Co. ("What Sammy's Doing"), Men-asha, Wis.

KASTOR, Lytton Bldg., Chicago—Resuming advertising of Adler Organ Co., Louisville, Ky.; in January issues of agricultural publications.

Placing copy for Rand McNally &
Co., Chicago, appearing in daily papers.

CLARKE, Steger Bldg., Chicago—
Placing advertising of National Player-Phone Co., Chicago, in mail order and weekly papers.

FULLER, Studebaker Bldg., Chicago—Has secured account of Fort Wayne Correspondence School &
Hoosier Institute, Fort Wayne, Ind.

CRITCHFIELD, Brooks Bldg.,
Chicago—Placing orders in agricultural publications for R. H. Shumway Co., seeds, Rockford, Ill.

ALDRED & WINN, New Kahn
Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.—Placing orders in a few papers for Bears' Jack Frost Cream.

GRAY, 14th & Oak sts., Kansas City, Mo.—Sending out orders to mail order and class publications for Kawear Manufacturing Co., Kansas City, Mo.

NICHOLS, 20 E. Jackson Blvd.,
Chicago—Sending out orders to Southern agricultural publications for Knickerbocker Tailoring Co., Chicago.

AMSTERDAM, 5 Congress st.,
Boston—Placing orders with newspapers quite generally for Thomas Lawson, Boston.

SHERMAN & BRYAN, 79 5th av.,
N. Y.—Placing orders generally for
S. Sternau & Co. ("Sternau" Kitchenette).

Has been appointed to handle advertising for C. S. Clark Enterprises,
New York.

WADE, Old Colony Bldg., Chicago
—Sending out orders to farm papers for Phelps Factories, carriages, Columbus, Ohio, and also for Wisconsin Incubator Co., and Ironclad Incubator Co., both of Racine, Wis.

OSTENRIEDER, 168 N. Michigan av., Chicago—Placing accounts of Wagner Axle Co., maker of "Liberty

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION NOVEMBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 497,774

The Sunday Post 345,362

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
330 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
C. GEORGE KROGNESS, Western Rep.
Marquette Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid  For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McCLELLAN, Gen. Mgr.
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

Axles," and of H-M Manufacturing Co., manufacturer of radiator covers for Ford cars.

TOUZALIN, Kresner Bldg., Chicago—Placing advertising for Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation,
Chicago.

COLLINS, 120 B'way, N. Y.—Placing advertising for Standard Paint Company, New York, manufacturer of "Ru-ber-old Roofing."

THIELECKE, 327 S. La Salle st.,
Chicago—Placing tractor account for Moline Plow Company, Moline, Ill.

RANKIN, 104 S. Michigan av., Chicago—Placing orders with newspapers for Hartmann Trunk Co.
("Hartmann Cushion Top Wardrobe Trunks"), Racine, Wis.

Placing Chicago newspaper campaign for Knights of Columbus war fund; campaign likely to be extended to other cities.

PICARD & Co., 50 E. 42d st., N.
Y.—Sending out 10,000-line contracts to selected list of papers for Larabee
Flour Mills.

SPAFFORD, 10 Post Office sq.,
Boston—Placing advertising for Fairnir Bearing Co., Hartford, Ct.

Also placing account of Brooks
Barley Co., Boston.

WESTERN, Racine, Wis.—Placing advertising for Sieverkropp Engine Co., Racine, Wis., in agricultural and trade papers.

Also placing accounts for Harvey
Spring & Forging Co., and Racine Candy Co., in newspapers and trade publications.

LORD & THOMAS, Mallers Bldg.,
Chicago—Will conduct campaign for Alfred Decker & Cohn ("Security Brand" clothing), in metropolitan newspapers and back covers of weekly magazines in most extensive campaign ever planned for that firm.

ASKING RATES—Edwin Day Sibley, 62 Reade st., N. Y., is asking rates.

DIRECT—The Detroit Pressed
Steel Co., Detroit, manufacturer of "Disteel" wheels for automobiles, is advertising in trade papers. Colored inserts are being used to feature advantages of pressed steel wheels for pleasure cars.

"Gund's Beverage," a soft drink, made by Gund Co., La Crosse, Wis., is being advertised to consumers through metropolitan dailies and also some country weeklies.

The Blaisdell (N. D.) Mountrail
County Herald, B. J. White publisher, has been suspended.

ST. PAUL DISPATCH

(Evening)

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
(Morning and Sunday)

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures: A carrier delivered circulation in over 90% of English-reading St. Paul homes, and a broad circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation averages for October, 1917:
Dispatch 80,534
Pioneer Press 63,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,751

A.B.C. report and booklet giving circulation by towns furnished upon request.
"In St. Paul it's the Dispatch and Pioneer Press."

YOU MUST USE THE

EXAMINER

TO COVER THE

GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

FILED NO TRANSLATION.

Paul Stoeckel, editor of the Hartford (Ct.) Staats-Zeitung, was arrested on December 13 on a warrant issued by United States Commissioner John L. Rice in Holyoke, Mass., charging that he had failed to file with the postmaster at Holyoke true translations in English of articles and comments relative to the war, published in the Connecticut
Staats-Zeitung, which did not have a Federal license.

Mr. Stoeckel gave a bond to insure his appearance before the United States District Court in Boston.

LIGGETT HAILS FROM OHIO.

Robert Liggett, who has been appointed automobile advertising manager for the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press, was born in Ohio. He received his earlier education in St.
Paul, Minn., later attending the University of Minnesota.

"I have labored, or worked, for seventeen years on five newspapers," says Mr. Liggett, "but still possess an optimistic nature and a healthy constitution."

Previous to his appointment to the Dispatch-Pioneer Press staff Mr.
Liggett was a salesman for Republic Trucks.

WIFE INHERITS INTEREST.

The half-interest of the late W.
Sam Wightman, editor and publisher, in the Bethany (Mo.) Clipper, has become the property of his wife.

Miss Ada L. Wightman, who was junior editor of the Clipper, will be assisted in the conduct of the paper by Perrin G. Wightman, who will be business manager.

LARGEST
Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 800,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
J.A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

SHIELDS BILL PASSES SENATE.

(Continued from Tenth Page.)

ness of their people. The economic and industrial advantages to the people of the United States that will result from the development of hydroelectric energy produced by utilization of water power are difficult to overestimate. There are many things which can be accomplished by it that it is not practicable to accomplish by steam power produced in the consumption of fuel. The value of cheap power for manufacturing, lighting, and transportation purposes is, of course, recognized by every one. Perhaps the greatest necessity and use for it at this time is the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen for the manufacture of fertilizers and explosives, interests that are of too common information to need elaboration.

RESTRICTED POLICY.

The prime reasons which have prevented the development of water-power energy in the United States is found in the restrictive policy of the present statutes concerning the matter, which experience has shown to be practically prohibitory of it.

The Congress, by an act passed September 19, 1890, prohibited the construction of any wharf, dam, or other structure in any navigable water of the United States, in such a manner as would obstruct or impair navigation, without the permission of the Secretary of War, and by an act passed March 3, 1899, prohibited the construction of any bridge, dam, dike, or other structure in or over any navigable water of the United States until the consent of Congress to the building of the same should be first obtained and the plans submitted to and approved by the chief of engineers and the Secretary of War, with the provision that where the proposed improvement was on any river the navigable portions of which lie wholly within the limits of a single state the consent of the general assembly of that state was sufficient.

Previous to the enactment of these statutes the riparian proprietors of navigable rivers could construct dams in them when they desired, provided they did not obstruct navigation, but subject to removal whenever they were deemed an obstruction by the authorities of the Federal Government. But under these statutes no structure can be built over or in any navigable water without first obtaining the consent of Congress by special act for that purpose.

This prohibition is not removed by the statutes known as the general dam bills, approved June 21, 1906, and June 23, 1910. These acts, while providing the terms and conditions upon which riparian proprietors may construct dams in navigable waters with the approval and under the supervision of the Secretary of War and the chief of engineers, do

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpasses the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

320 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C.

Arthur Capper PUBLISHER
TOPEKA, KAN.

not change the law requiring that the consent of Congress be first obtained in every case. The delay and difficulties of procuring special acts for this purpose have caused great embarrassment to those who propose to furnish the capital to make such improvement of waterways for navigation and the development of water power. The present bill authorizes the Secretary of War to consent to the construction of dams, properly safeguarding the public interest, and under it they can be built without the delay incident to a resort to Congress.

The act of June 23, 1910, which repeats by implication that of June 21, 1906, provides for and authorizes conditions upon which the permit may be granted that render the terms of the investment so uncertain and the continuance of the permit or tenure of title so defeasible that those having capital cannot safely and will not make investments under them.

The Secretary of War is authorized by this act to increase the aggregate of the investment at any time by requiring additional locks and appurtenances to be constructed to such an extent that it may exceed any possible earnings that can be realized from the water power developed and arbitrarily declare the permit forfeited, from which action there is no appeal.

The permit cannot exceed fifty years, at the expiration of which time it is automatically annulled. Charges and forfeitures of the most arbitrary character are provided for.

There are no provisions for the protection of the property interests of the investor when the permit may for any cause be terminated, and there is an utter absence of any provision for preferences in favor of public-utility companies and for the protection of the public from excessive and unjust charges and rates by the grantee for hydroelectric energy and other products of the water power developed. In other words, the conditions of the act offer no protection to investors or consumers and are objectionable and unjust to both.

OBJECTIONS NOW OVIATED.

These objections are attempted to be obviated by the present bill. The total investment which the grantee will be required to make can be ascertained and fixed when the permit is granted. The permit is for fifty years and thereafter the grantee remains in possession at the will and pleasure of the Secretary of War,

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.
National Representatives
F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Scolar, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 748 Market St., San Francisco.

PATERSON
New Jersey's Famous
Manufacturing City PRESS
Its BIG Independent Newspaper
GUARDIAN
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

who may extend it for another term, or the property be taken over by the United States and transferred to another grantee.

Forfeiture of the permit for failure of the grantee to comply with the conditions provided in the bill and the lawful regulations of the Secretary of War are provided for. The charges and rentals imposed are to be expended in the improvement of the navigation of the stream in which the dams are constructed, and all controversies concerning the respective rights and interests of the grantee and the United States are made subject to judicial investigation and determination.

The plant and other improvements of the grantee, other than those portions necessary for the development of navigation, are made subject to taxation by the states as other similar property within the states, and the power of the states to require the payment of royalties on the power developed is fully recognized and provided for.

There are also ample provisions to prevent the rights granted and the plants constructed from constituting a part of any trust, monopoly or conspiracy in restraint of trade, and the right to alter or amend the act as the public welfare may require is expressly reserved.

The bill also provides for the lease of water power in excess of that needed for operation and navigation facilities, incidentally produced by dams heretofore or which may be hereafter constructed by the United States in the improvement of navigable rivers with preference as to grantees, control, and regulation of rates and charges of the grantee, and other regulations and limitations provided for in case of permits to construct dams with private capital.

LEASE OF WATER POWER.

The bill is so framed as to protect and maintain the constitutional power and control of the Federal Government over navigable streams, as well as the sovereignty of the states and the rights of riparian proprietors over and in the beds and waters of those streams, and allow the full exercise and enjoyment of the latter, subject to the paramount authority of Congress to regulate the same for navigation purposes.

It is believed that under the provisions of this bill the water-power resources of the country will be developed and utilized and future waste prevented, which is conserva-

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation 95,719
November, 1917,
Gain over 9,802
November, 1916

Special Representatives
DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

tion in its highest and truest sense. The vote showed—yeas 46, nays 18, as follows:

YEAS—46.

Bankhead	New
Beckham	Overman
Page	Page
Colt	Pittman
Dillingham	Pomeroy
Fernald	Ransdell
Fletcher	Robinson
Frelinghuysen	Saulsbury
Gallinger	Shafroth
Hale	Sheppard
Jones, N. Mex.	Shields
Jones, Wash.	Simmons
Kendrick	Smith, Ariz.
Knox	Smith, Ga.
Lewis	Smith, Md.
Loefer	Smoot
McClumber	Stone
McKellar	Thompson
McLean	Underwood
McNary	Vardaman
Martin	Wadsworth
Myers	Weeks
Nelson

NAYS—18.

Ashurst	King
Borah	La Follette
France	Norris
Gore	Poundexter
Gronna	Sherman
Hitchcock	Smith, Mich.
Hollis	Sutherland
James	Townsend
Johnson, Cal.	Trammell

NOT VOTING—31.

Brady	Kirby
Brandagee	Newlands
Broussard	Owen
Chamberlain	Penrose
Culberson	Reed
Cummins	Smith, S. C.
Curtis	Sterling
Fall	Swann
Gerry	Thomas
Goff	Tilman
Harding	Walsh
Hardwick	Warren
Hughes	Watson
Johnson, S. Dak.	Wilkins
Kellogg	Wickert
Kenyon

THE TERRE HAUTE TRIBUNE

The big home evening paper of its section of Indiana.

In Charge of Foreign Advertising
G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that carries its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Publisher
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
250 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK
Lutton Building, CHICAGO.

SEPARATE PLANT AND PAPER IN PERTH AMBOY.

The Perth Amboy (N. J.) Printing Company, Inc., succeeds the job printing department of the Perth Amboy Evening News. The new concern, immediately after assuming control of the business, leased one of the most centrally situated buildings in Perth Amboy, 70 Smith street, where it moved the plant.

The officers of the concern are Leon S. Colby, president; Welcome W. Bender, vice-president; Arthur E. Warner, secretary-treasurer and manager.

Mr. Colby, the senior partner of Colby & McGowan, Elizabeth, N. J., for several years, is a printer of long experience, having learned his trade with the Hanover (N. H.) Gazette. He was later connected with newspapers and printing offices in Fall River, Mass., and Elizabeth.

Mr. Warner, in charge of the business department, has been associated with newspapers for many years. He recently resigned from the editorial department of the Newark (N. J.) Star-Eagle to go to Perth Amboy. He is a member of the New Jersey Legislature from Union County.

SCRANTON NEWS MEN ELECT.

The following officers of the News Writers Union, No. 3, Scranton, Pa., have been elected:

President, Thomas A. Murphy; vice-president, Harold Myers; secretary-treasurer, Jack Druck; recording secretary, Tom I. Brislin; sergeant-at-arms, Joseph N. Butler; executive committee, Encl Dodge, Thomas Gerrity, Edward Hart; examining committee, Miss Mary Fay, Mrs. H. C. Penman and John Ruddy; delegates C. L. U., S. McDonald, Joseph Butler, Edward Gerrity.

This organization has now three women among its members.

CHANGE IN NAME.

The name of the Labor Advocate Publishing Company, Quincy, Ill., has been changed to the Royal Printing Company. The capital stock of the company has been increased from $4,000 to $5,000.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue

Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS and SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY NEWS NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO

(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.

I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

FREEPORT BULLETIN GROWS.

The Freeport (Ill.) Daily Bulletin, recently sold by H. Poffenberger and P. O. Stiver to the Freeport Bulletin Publishing Company, has been incorporated with a paid-up capital stock of $40,000, with $2,000 of six per cent preferred and $38,000 of common stock. The corporation comprises over 100 stockholders.

The plant will be moved into a new building which has been leased for a term of years. A 16-page perfecting press and an additional multiple-magazine typesetting machine will be purchased.

JOHN G. CARY.

The Bulletin is one of the old Illinois papers, having been started as a weekly in 1847 and as a daily in 1878. Messrs. Poffenberger and Stiver have operated the paper for twenty-three years and while they are retiring from active participation in the business, each retains a substantial financial interest.

John G. Cary, the new manager, comparatively young, has been con-

The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia BULLETIN Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net Average NOVEMBER 366,435 COPIES A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

nected with newspapers all his life. He holds the largest individual block of the common stock and is secretary-treasurer of the company. Starting as carrier on the Sterling (Ill.) Gazette, he later went to Davenport, Ia., where he was associated with E. P. Adler, publisher of the Times, for many years, resigning to take the general management of the Democrat of that city. He resigned after two years to purchase a paper in Paris, Ill.

Mr. Cary disposed of his interests in Paris and served as traveling auditor for the Audit Bureau of Circulations for a year and a half, during which time he examined Chicago and St. Louis newspapers in addition to many of the smaller publications throughout the Middle West.

COOK ON OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

B. P. Cook, editor of the Martinez (Cal.) Standard, has been appointed to succeed Harold M. Levy of the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune copy desk, who has been called into the national army.

Mr. Cook was at one time in the Washington bureau of the New York Sun, later becoming sports editor of the Augusta (Ga.) Herald. He has been city editor of the Monterey (Mex.) News and of the Havana (Cuba) Post. Of late years he has filled positions on the Berkeley (Cal.) Gazette, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Stockton (Cal.) Mail.

OKLAHOMA EDITORS TO MEET NEXT MONTH.

The annual mid-Winter convention of the Oklahoma Press Association will be held Friday and Saturday, January 11 and 12, at the Lee-Huckins Hotel in Oklahoma City. Arrangements are being made for the editors to spend one-half day or more at the school of journalism, University of Oklahoma.

The crisis in the newspaper publishing business due to the great advance in the cost of print paper, ink and everything else connected with the business, the part the editors are taking in the war and other topics of vital interest will be discussed.

CANADIAN CLAIMS LIBEL.

Claiming that the statements published concerning the attitude of himself and his son toward the Military Service Act were not true, E. F. Hutchings has instructed his solicitor to enter an action for libel against the Winnipeg (Man.) papers which printed the information.

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917
Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis.—Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening

Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.

C. GEORGE KROGNES, Chicago
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

ASSOCIATED PRESS TO FIGHT PARDO'S SUIT.

The Associated Press filed its answer in the Supreme Court on December 15 to the $250,000 libel suit brought by Dr. Luis Lara Pardo, a Mexican newspaper correspondent in New York.

Dr. Pardo based his suit on an article distributed by the Associated Press which told of German propaganda in Mexico against the United States and the Allies, and said that much of the anti-American matter emanated from the Spanish-American News Service in New York, of which Dr. Pardo is the head.

This article, published in several newspapers, came from the Mexico City correspondent of the defendant news organization and was dated August 22. Dr. Pardo denied the truth of the statements affecting him.

In its defense the Associated Press says that it considered the publication of the article a public and patriotic duty and that it was written and published in the interest of the public and the country.

DENOUNCED DRAFT—GETS FIVE YEARS' SENTENCE.

A sentence of five years in the penitentiary at Jefferson City was imposed by Judge Martin J. Wade of Des Moines on Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, editor of a Socialist newspaper in St. Louis, convicted of making utterances in a speech at Bowman, N. D., last summer tending to discourage obedience to the military registration.

The sentence followed a long speech by Mrs. O'Hare, in which she reiterated her opposition to war and defied the court.

WILMINGTON COAL SHORTAGE.

Due to the fact that the Wilmington & Philadelphia Traction Company, the only electric concern in Wilmington, Del., has had difficulty in getting an ample supply of the right sort of coal, the newspapers of that city have several times lately been handicapped by shortage of power, but so far none of them has missed an issue.

FOR NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE.

The Cavalier County Press is the name of a new weekly launched at Langdon, N. D., by the Non-Partisan League. The officers of the company are Otto Dettler, president; Magnus Snowfield, secretary-treasurer.

THE Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS.

The Hearst organization in New York has given up 133 men for service in the war.

A big bronze tablet bearing the names of all the New York Hearst employees who have enlisted will be placed in the rotunda of the American building at Columbus Circle.

The men serving are:

New York American—Percy T. Edrop, Augustus F. Beach, W. A. Davenport, Arthur Robinson, John W. Newton, M. D. Clofine, W. E. Brown, Harold Thompson, Charles McNally, Robert N. Taylor, Leroy Ferry, Leo A. Pollock, James Murray, Harry O'Brien, Richard O'Keefe, Joseph Gorman, J. R. Binna, John O'Keefe, Kenneth Littauer, H. Brodie, A. Fricker, J. J. Keating, T. Callahan, August Bachus, M. Baslan, James H. Walker, L. Peirano, Edward Astwood, Malcolm Pierce, Bert Colbeck, Thomas Short, Millard F. Jacobs.

Charles Gerhold, John J. Lynch, Jr., Theodore Sullivan, Francis Monahan, Lawrence Stapleton, Edward Lane, George McMahon, Edward Brown, Walter Schumann, Elliott Gouffreau, John Gorman, Edward Kearney, Francis Leonard, Herbert Nixon, Edward Reid, Frank J. Schwartz, Lawrence E. Schwab, W. C. Jackson, J. F. V. Christopher, I. O. Delmonico, Jr., John Murney, C. R. Rommel, H. B. Burnside, Frederick Knoedel, H. Abramson, Geoffrey D. Sutcliffe, Sam August, Ivan E. Harding, Robert Davison, William Rogers, Thomas V. Shiel, Peter Sanderson, S. L. Meulendyke, E. Kelly, A. Kane, Louis Kleinleine, J. Cronlin, Herbert S. Nixon, Jr., Robert Crawford, Maurice Falvey.

Evening Journal—Charles Brodie, William H. Brown, John J. Martin, Robert Goodchild, James McCarthy, Gerald Griffin, Patrick Coughlin, Jr., Frank Gaul, John Murphy, James Carney, Edward Lawless, Robert Bowne, Ronald Graham, Hugh Weiman, John Perry, Pervis McGillcuddy, Andrew Hendry, Edward Fitzgerald, Ralph Boerner, Ralph Lent, John Stuhl-

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)

The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)

Cover This Field Absolutely.

Members of the A.B.C.

JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

JOLIET The PITTSBURGH of the West

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the ILLINOIS corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper, the

HERALD-NEWS

ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

man, William Bell, John Burke, Charles L. Russell, J. O. Mansfield, H. Eckert, Frank A. Daly, W. Murray, P. Scanlon, Isador Isaacson, William White, James A. Murray, Frederick W. Roeding;

International News Service—J. P. Gillette, Clarence Metz, J. R. Broadus, R. E. Allen, F. J. Hunter, H. R. McLean, Robert J. Prew, George R. Holmes, William J. Weissinger, William D. Hassett, Joseph Griffin, C. F. Rex, William Neal, Edward Foillard;

International Film Service—J. Marsland, F. C. Place, Norman Alley, J. Woods, N. McDonald, W. S. Clime;

International Feature Service—Marshall L. Coleman, Walter Hoban;

Deutsches Journal—John Stubbe; Metropolitan Art Craft Company—William Dehncke, John Fitzgerald, Edward Schneider, Tobias Ammon, John Hesselbach.

The 3d battalion of the Duluth Home Guards is issuing Bugle Calls, a four page daily.

Everett E. Brown, former city hall man on the Springfield (Ohio) Morning Sun, is a first lieutenant in the 100th infantry, American expeditionary force in France.

Wilbert Smith, late of the circulation department of the Literary Digest and formerly of Every Week and the Butterick publications, has just received a first lieutenant's commission.

The North Adams (Mass.) Herald has lost seven men either by voluntary enlistment in the Army, draft service or response to other calls of service.

More than thirty per cent of the students in the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University, New York, are in military service.

Over the Top is the name of a newspaper published by the 363d infantry, Camp Lewis. Captain Thomas A. Driscoll is the editor.

John J. Ward of the Frank Presbrey Company's staff, New York, has entered Uncle Sam's service.

R. E. Hollohan, of the photographic department of the Chicago Tribune, is now a member of the aviation corps and after special training in

THE CIRCULATION OF THE CHRISTMAS ISSUE
of

The BILLBOARD

is guaranteed to exceed

45,000 Copies

It will be obtainable wherever papers are sold throughout the entire English speaking world.

No advance in rates.

Last form closes Sunday, December 16

The Billboard Publishing Co.
Member A.B.C.

Broadway & 42d Monroe and Dearborn
NEW YORK CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL Published by A. H. Belo & Co.

Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning.

40,655 NET PAID average during 6 months period ending Oct. 1, 1917.

LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
728 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

aerial photography expects to be sent to France for active duty over the lines.

Six men from the Chicago Tribune received commissions at the recent Fort Sheridan officers training camp at Chillicothe, Ohio. They are:

First Lieutenants Francis L. Haeger and Wallace Kirk; Second Lieutenants Carl A. Krah, Frank H. Murray, Frank M. Smith and Herbert M. Stoops.

Richard H. Waldo, late of the New York Tribune and who was commissioned a captain at the last Plattsburg officers training camp, has been assigned to duty in France.

George Kelly, for the last year and a half advertising manager of the Duluth (Minn.) News Tribune, has joined the signal corps.

Clayton Trost, a new Cedar Rapids (Ia.) newspaper man, has enlisted in the general recruiting service and will assist at the Davenport recruiting station.

A. R. Rankin, for a number of years editor and publisher of the Montesano (Wash.) Vidette, has been accepted in the balloon squadron of the signal corps.

Bert C. Chambers, editor-in-chief of the Lantern, published by the students of the Ohio State University, has joined the quartermaster's corps of the ordnance department.

J. E. Finrock, formerly a member of the editorial staff of the Fargo (N. D.) Forum, is a lieutenant at Camp Dodge.

There are now twelve stars on the service flag of the New York Morning Telegraph.

William W. Reid, a Queens County (N. Y.) newspaper man, is a field clerk in the Army.

Frank L. Westerman and Paul F. Hauptert, former Columbus (Ohio) newspaper men, are among the editors of the Sheridan Revue, published at Camp Sheridan.

A. Bernard Bergman, another Columbus news writer, has been made battalion sergeant-major.

John E. Tiedemann, former San Francisco newspaper man, mail editor of the Associated Press and correspondent of the Associated Press on the Canal Zone, has just been

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City prints a far greater total of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 175,000 Daily. Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representative, People Gas Bg., Chicago

THE JOURNAL
IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

awarded a commission as second lieutenant in the National army.

C. A. Rook, Jr., assistant auditor of the Pittsburgh Dispatch and only son of Colonel Rook, the publisher, is a sergeant in the gas defence service, and is stationed in Philadelphia.

Other Pittsburgh Dispatch men in service now include A. H. Carroll, 111th infantry; T. H. Hazard, Claude R. Bortman and Raymond H. Coll, 15th engineers; W. Don Hise, base hospital unit No. 27; Charles Rairgb, machine gun company, 111th infantry; Philip Zecher, company 1, 320th infantry, Camp Lee, Va.; John Bohn, company 1, 319th infantry, Camp Lee, Va.

Dayton Carle, formerly with the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Record, won his captaincy at Madison Barracks, N. Y.

J. D. Sims, secretary to W. H. Rankin of the W. H. Rankin Advertising Company, Chicago, has resigned to enter training for service in the merchant marine.

Alan Sims, of the same agency, joins his brother in his new venture.

Marshall Frank of the sports department of the United Press in Chicago has resigned to enter the aviation service.

Stuart Dunbar, San Francisco newspaper man, has enlisted in the balloon division of the Army aviation corps.

Ellis L. Loveless, an advertising man on the Birmingham (Ala.) News, has joined the Navy.

William Cullen, circulation manager of the Scranton (Pa.) Times, is

The Circulation of the
NEW YORK EVENING MAIL

represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star 88,752
Evening Times 42,375
Washington Post 47,032
Herald (over) 25,000

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc.
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

If your name is not on the subscription list of THE FOURTH ESTATE we would like to put it there the latest of the newspaper men of that city to enlist in the country's service.

George Warner, formerly with the Scranton Daily News, who has been employed as an advertising writer for a Scranton furniture house for several years, has enlisted in the Army.

James Gallagher, who rose from newsboy to city editor of the Lancaster (Ohio) Gazette, is a second lieutenant in the 148th infantry, Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala.

Phillip Hampson, manager of the Chicago Tribune "morning," has enlisted as a private in the medical corps of the Army. His is the ninety-eighth star in the Tribune service flag.

Ensign J. C. Waldron, editor of the Recruit, the Great Lakes Training Station monthly, was formerly with the Chicago Tribune.

Lieutenant Franklin A. Harwood, a former member of the advertising staff of the New York Times, now with the American Expeditionary Army in France, writes from "somewhere in France" under date November 23: "We're taking our turn in the trenches and the Allies' artillery is kicking up the devil tonight. They say the earth rocks thirty miles away. There is another Times boy in this company. He's Second Lieutenant C. V. Cross from the sports department. Our battalion of this regiment was the first American force in the trenches and first to have casualties."

Carl A. Wilhelm, formerly a reporter on the Dubuque (Ia.) Telegraph-Herald but now in the Army, has been made a sergeant.

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper in Pittsburg

CONB, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

W. D. BOYCE CO.

600-614 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
208 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK

PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Peoria TRANSCRIPT

Only morning newspaper in Peoria.

Peoria JOURNAL

Only evening paper in Peoria with Associated Press franchise. Leads in circulation and advertising. Member A.B.C. SUNDAY JOURNAL-TRANSCRIPT.

Combination Advertising Rate.
HENRY M. PINDELL, Proprietor,
CHAS. H. EDDY CO., Representative.
NEW YORK BOSTON CHICAGO

AD DIVISION FOR GOVERNMENT.

(Continued from Seventh Page.)

sent a writer to Europe and found there many makes and designs of aeroplane motors, with no form of standardization among them, resulting in conditions that made for anything but the best results in building and repairing. This writer wrote a series of articles in his trade paper, which opened the way to a realization by the United States Government that a standard motor was necessary. This was worked out in the Liberty Motor.

The advertising men at the luncheon heartily applauded this tribute to Mr. Tipper, who until he entered the trade paper field a short time ago was one of the most active members of the Association of National Advertisers.

WINNING THE WAR IS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

Mr. Byoir at the conclusion of the luncheon pointed out that it was really a business proposition, pure and simple, to win the war at the earliest moment possible. He said that from the day of Alexander Hamilton up to the time the United States entered the war against Germany, the United States had spent only $26,000,000,000 for all purposes, including carrying on the other wars in which it has engaged.

For this one year alone, Mr. Byoir said, $18,000,000,000 is being spent, and this may go as high as $50,000,000,000.

"When this money has been raised the work of business men in America is not over," said Mr. Byoir. "All this money must be repaid to the people with heavy interest—and the principle and interest will have to be raised by taxation on American business. Therefore it is good for every business man to realize that he must lend every aid to win the war as soon as possible."

GUESTS OF COMMITTEE.

Among those present at the luncheon given by the Committee on Public Information were:

William A. Thomson, John Adams Thayer, O. H. Blackman, W. R. Hine, James O'Shaughnessy, Hugh A. O'Donnell, Floyd V. Keeler, Collin Armstrong, L. D. Fernald, Eula McClary, L. B. Jones, C. F. Byoir, William C. D'Arcy, Herbert S. Houston,

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

The NEWS

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

The LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
860 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Bldg., CHICAGO
801 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Kresge Building, DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.
The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

WM. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

O. C. Harn, George Hopkins, J. George Frederick, Alan C. Reiley, John Sullivan, Jesse Neal, William C. Freeman, John F. Redmond and J. M. Hopkins.

The members of the advertising division had their first meeting and conference with Chairman Creel of the Committee on Public Information on December 20 in Washington.

The official recognition of the force of advertising as a means of aiding the nation is primarily due to a plan suggested recently by a young woman, Eula McClary of San Francisco, who is now with the Committee on Public Information. She presented to the national advertising agents and publishers associations a suggestion, which received their endorsement, to make the month of March a patriotic advertising month—to have advertisers insert in their copy a war appeal to awaken readers to realizing that every one must do what he can to win the war at the earliest possible moment.

The Association of National Advertisers saw the depth of this suggestion and immediately took steps to offer a plan to the Government for the formation of a board, combining all the elements of advertising in America, to serve the nation in any way it could.

President Wilson accepted the offer and the matter was placed with George Creel, chairman of the Committee on Information to develop. He assigned it to Carl F. Byoir, a member of his staff who used to be circulation manager of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, and the latter came immediately to New York and organized the division.

HOPEWELL NEWSPAPER SOON.

Fred Turbyville of the Cleveland bureau of the Associated Press will be managing editor of the new Hopewell (Va.) Record, which the founders expect to launch by January 7. M. Binheim will be the business manager of the Record.

A large portion of the population of Hopewell and vicinity is employed at the du Pont plant.

ADDRESSED BY CHINESE.

Tom Gunn, general director of the aeronautic department of Kwangtung, China, on December 7 recounted to the members of the San Francisco Press Club his experiences as an aviator since he left there five years ago.

THE PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

steadily advances, (not spasmodically) as the leading newspaper in its field.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 235 Fifth Av., New York
Ford-Pearson Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng.

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes

In all VIRGINIA it's the name.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
New York Philadelphia Chicago

EVENING POST AD MEN TALK CONSTRUCTION.

The importance of constructive work by an advertising solicitor was emphasized in an address to the members of his staff by H. A. Ahern, advertising manager of the New York Evening Post, at a dinner given Wednesday at the Cafe des Artistes. He said that the solicitor must not only believe his own arguments thoroughly and state them clearly but be able to give helpful advice to the purchaser.

He related incidents illustrating how obstacles had been overcome by determined, persistent work, intelligently planned. He told how one of the office-boys had shown initiative by devising a plan and "putting it over."

Special guests at the dinner were Charles McDonald Puckette, incoming managing editor, and Walter B. Hayward, city editor of the Evening Post. They presented the editorial view, discussing what measure of co-operation is possible and proper between editorial and advertising departments. Numerous members of the advertising staff spoke.

PAPER CLAIMS DAMAGES.

In connection with the political campaign, a writ has been issued by the Globe Printing Company of Toronto against John Herbert Dickenson in which the newspaper claims $25,000 damages for "slander in relation to its business."

It is alleged that the defendant said on various occasions that the Globe has been bought up by the Union Government.

W. J. Lyons has purchased the Galva (Ia.) Tribune.

One of the many interesting features appearing daily in the

BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

is Arthur H. Folwell's column

Nothing Serious

Mr. Folwell was formerly editor of Puck.

Brooklyn Daily Times

Times Plaza, Brooklyn, N. Y.

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish DailyReaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price
from one to two cents.THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
183 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN
daily newspaper in the United States
and Canada.The only real guide of 350,000 thrifty
readers and positive success to its advertisers.Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-688 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

OBITUARY NOTES.

A. C. HUTCHINSON, formerly editor of the Burlington (Ia.) Gazette, is dead.WILFRED M. PALMER, editorial writer on the Brooklyn (N. Y.)
Standard-Union, and previously a member of the New York Tribune editorial staff for thirty years, died suddenly on December 15, aged sixty-seven years.DAY ALLEN WILLEY, formerly editor of the Baltimore World, died in Baltimore on December 11. He began his newspaper career in Rochester as a reporter for the Democrat and Chronicle, of which he afterwards became city editor.C. C. LEFFINGWELL of the staff of the George H. Batten Advertising Agency, New York, died on December 12 at his home in Hackensack, N. J.JACOB S. ABRAMOVITCH, called father of Yiddish literature, universally known under the pen name of Mendele Mocher Seforim, is dead in Odessa aged eighty-two years. When Abramovitch began to write, in the early seventies, the ancient Hebrew was the literary language of the Jews. Yiddish, although spoken, was generally despised. There was no Yiddish literature and no Yiddish press. Abram-ovitch lived, however, to see the spread of Yiddish to an undreamed of extent. Today in New York alone there are five big Yiddish dailies, and thousands of books have been written in Yiddish.HUGH A. MCGINLEY, for many years editorial auditor for the New York Herald, died of pneumonia in Elmhurst, N. Y., on December 16.ZENAS CRANE, a paper manufacturer, died on December 17, aged seventy-seven years.FRANK TEW, founder of the Joplin (Mo.) Globe and El Paso (Tex.) Herald, is dead in Joplin.ALFRED F. WHITE, editor and publisher of the Banking Law Journal, New York, died suddenly on December 17 in his sixty-seventh year.WILLIAM HENRY EDGAR, who had been connected with the Jerseyville (Ill.) Republican, the Beatrice (Neb.) Express and the Louisiana (Mo.) Pike County News, died last week in Chicago.MRS. M. R. SCOTT, wife of a pioneer editor of Newark, Ohio, and mother-in-law of F. S. Neighbor, general manager of the American Tri-THE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POSTreaches the GERMAN
reading and speaking population of St. Louis
as no other medium can.THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN
NEW ENGLAND.

Kuryer Bostonski

27 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.
reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods.

Use Kuryer Bostonski

bune, dropped dead on December 12, at the age of seventy years.SOLOMON GOSNELL, editor of the Highgate (Ont.) Monitor, was recently instantly killed at a railroad crossing.OTTOMAR REINECKE, for many years editor of the Buffalo (N. Y.)
German Free Press, is dead.H. M. WILLIAMSON, former editor of the Rural Northwest, has passed away in Portland, Ore.HOWARD OWEN SPROGLE, a well known Chicago lawyer and former newspaper man, died December 14. Mr. Sprogle went to Chicago from Philadelphia, where he had been assistant city editor of the Philadelphia Press. He was financial editor of the Chicago Evening Post until 1896.PHILO J. ROGERS, formerly with the New York Herald, died on December 20, in Brooklyn, N. Y.WALTER G. FREEMAN, formerly with the New York Sun and the Commercial, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on December 20.EUSTACE H. WHEELER, founder of the Lynbrook (N. Y.) Recorder, died in Valley Stream, N. Y., on December 18.JOHN MCGOVERN, veteran Chicago newspaper man, died December 17 at his home after a long period of illness. He was sixty-seven years old.
Mr. McGovern's newspaper career began when he went to work for the Tribune as a compositor in the late "sixties." He became proofreader and was later made night editor, remaining with the Tribune sixteen years.
Later he became associated with the Chicago Herald, where he became chief editorial writer before his re-irement from newspaper work about twenty years ago. He was a charter member of the Chicago Press Club.

JAMES RASCOVAR'S ESTATE.

James Rascovar, president of the New York News Bureau and head of the advertising agency of Albert
Frank & Co., who died on September 26, 1916, left an estate of $191,085, of which $179,858 goes to his wife, Mrs. Vera Rascovar. The appraisal of the will was completed December 15 at the office of the state comptroller.Frank J. Rascovar, a son; Jeanette Raudnitz and Marguerite Rascovar, daughters, and Harry Rasco-var, a brother, each receive bequests of fifteen debenture bonds of the

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city
—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it
thoroughly covers Montreal's population,
which is over 700,000, and of which 70
per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.W.M. J. MORTON CO., Special Repr.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 7 rue de Rocher.

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.A Splendid Advertising Medium.
Phone Stuyvesant 3044.
90 East 10th Street, NEW YORKNew York News Bureau, valued at $1,875.Edward Rascovar, a brother, and Sarah Goodman, a sister, each receive the life income of twenty of the same bonds; valued at $2,500.Most of the property of Mr. Rascovar consisted of life insurance, stock of the Hamilton Press and bonds of the New York News Bureau.

RECENT INCORPORATIONS.

NEW YORK—Parker Thrift Corporation; general publishing and book-selling; capital, $100,000; incorporators, S. G. Parker, G. I. Parker, 222
West 23d street; H. St. John, 606
West 116th street.Committee Publishing Company, Inc.; general publishing business;
capital, $50,000; incorporators, J.
W. Pennock, 230 Euclid avenue,
Syracuse; R. Fletcher, 507 Fifth avenue, New York; M. A. Fletcher, Jasmine street, Flushing.Miles Press, Inc.; publishers and printers; capital, $25,000; incorporators, A. Foshay, A. G. Thaanum,
120 Broadway; A. Skillman, 1986
Bathgate avenue, Bronx.Star Advertising Service; capital, $10,000; incorporators, T. E. McEntegar, J. P. Moffatt, R. S. Schoonmaker, 140 Nassau street.Orient Service Corporation; printing and publishing; capital, $5,000;
incorporators, E. M. Noon, S. Lurye,
A. Kaplan, 68 Edgecombe avenue.Wolna Polska Publishing Company; capital, $20,000; incorporators,
S. Mankowski, L. and F. Wazeter,
346 Broadway.Miles Press, Inc.; capital, $25,000; incorporators, A. Skillman, A. G.
Thaanum, A. Foshay, 120 Broadway.
Committee Publishing Company;
Pennock, Jr., M. A. and R. Fletcher
507 Fifth avenue.Copper Engraving Company, Inc.; engravers and lithographers; capital,
$1,000; incorporators, A. Livingston
Norman, Arthur D. Kinney, Edward
Keale.VENTNOR CITY, N. J.—Ventnor
News Company; publisher; capital,
$5,000; Carl M. Voelker, Ethel M.
Voelker, Isaac R. Sweigart, S. B.
Richards, James T. Bew, Robert W.
Bartlett.WILMINGTON, DEL.—Gallen Paper Company; wholesale and retail paper business; capital, $50,000.National Fibre & Pulp Corporation; to manufacture all kinds of box board and paper; capital, $1,500,000.
FORBES, N. D.—Forbes Farmers Publishing Company; capital $10,-The only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.THE 30 pages Weekly
NEWSPAPER
WORLDAnnual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $2.40.
(Established 1896)Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NARODNI List

Briacoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich.,
has just placed 19,888 agate lines of Briacoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
61 Park Row, NEW YORK
Phone 2939 Beckman.THE JEWISH
MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITYcarries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.The Only ITALIAN Newspaper in New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

82-84 Battery St. BOSTON
Consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.
100,000 Italians in Boston.
300,000 Italians in Massachusetts
1,000,000 Italians in New England.000; incorporators, L. Schulestad, Harry Weaver and Henry Wachter.
WILMINGTON, DEL.—Home Pulp &
Paper Company; paper mills; capital, $100,000.

BUSY DAYS FOR BETTS.

Circulation promotion contests have just been concluded by the Selma (Ala.) Times, Portsmouth (Va.) Star,
Charlottetown (P.E.I.) Guardian and Staunton (Va.) News. Each was conducted by the William H. Betts Company, World Building, New York.This company has just started a three-automobile contest for the Madison (Wis.) Democrat and is running a contest for the Worcester
(Mass.) Post and the Meriden (Ct.)
Journal.

MERGER IN FORT WAYNE.

The Fort Wayne (Ind.) News has purchased the Fort Wayne Sentinel, its only competitor in the afternoon field.C. F. Bicknell will be general manager of the News and Sentinel, J. A.
Greene editor and Oscar G. Foellinger, business manager.The paper will be represented in the East by M. C. Watson, New York, and in the West by A. W. Allen,
Chicago.

WEISER NOW MANAGER.

A. P. Sandles has resigned as editor of the Ottawa (Ohio) Putnam County Sentinel and has been succeeded by E. Weiser. The Sentinel Company will probably be reorganized shortly.The Port Umpqua Courier, printed for the past three years at Gardiner, Ore., has moved to Reedsport, three miles away.

Announcement

Beginning Sunday
March 3rd, 1918

THE NEW YORK AMERICAN
THE CHICAGO EXAMINER
THE BOSTON SUNDAY
ADVERTISER & AMERICAN

will publish simultaneously in their Sunday editions a pictorial gravure section. In its novelty of editorial conception, attractiveness of make-up, and mechanical perfection this new feature will mark a significant advance in the art of gravure reproduction.

Moreover, through its combined circulation of over 1,500,000, advertisers are for the first time given an opportunity to use this most effective form of advertising on a scale commensurate with its real importance.

HEARST PICTORIAL GRAVURE

A. J. KOBLER, Advertising Manager

American Circle Building, NEW YORK

A NEWSPAPER FOR
THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS
AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING

Published Every SATURDAY at 252 West 59th St. (near Broadway)

NEW YORK CITY

DECEMBER 29, 1917

THE FOURTH ESTATE

"EDMUND BURKE SAID
that there were Three Estates
in Parliament, but in the Reporters' Gallery yonder there
sat a 'Fourth Estate' more important far than they all."
—Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," Lecture V.

PRICE 10 CENTS.
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

ESTABLISHED 1894.

No. 1244

Looking Back

The year 1917 has been unusually prosperous for Cleveland and surrounding territory. While some other cities have, perhaps, felt a reaction, Cleveland has gone steadily ahead. Workers in every line of activity are making more money than ever before.

Looking Forward

There is every reason to believe that Cleveland and all Ohio, in fact, will enjoy even more prosperity in 1918 than in the year just closing; conditions were never better for the people to profit by this prosperity.

As is well known, wherever there is activity and wealth—there is the most responsive market for every worthy product. If you would succeed with an advertising campaign, come where success is certain.

Come to the territory covered by the Cleveland Plain Dealer—where people have money and will spend it for a meritorious article, especially when they see it advertised in the paper they know and read and believe in—

The Plain Dealer

FIRST NEWSPAPER OF CLEVELAND, SIXTH CITY

Western Advertising Representative:

JOHN GLASS

CHICAGO, Peoples Gas Building

Eastern Advertising Representative:

JOHN B. WOODWARD

Times Building, NEW YORK

NO GOVERNMENT BAN ON FOOD ADVERTISING.

ADMINISTRATOR HOOVER DENIES THE RUMORS AND SAYS HE EXPECTS A BIG ADVERTISING INCREASE.

(Special Correspondence to THE FOURTH ESTATE.)

No damper has been placed by the United States Government upon the advertising of food products.

There is no truth whatever in the report that the United States Food Administration has issued or is about to issue orders, requests or instructions to manufacturers of certain classes of foodstuffs to discontinue or restrict their advertising.

Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator, authorizes the statement to THE FOURTH ESTATE that he has no intention of discouraging or interfering with advertising—least of all with newspaper advertising. He has, he says, far too keen an appreciation of what the newspapers have done and are doing for food conservation.

Far from seeking to check the advertising of food specialties he is actually exerting his personal influence to bring about a largely increased volume of advertising of certain classes of foodstuffs. In consequence he is recruiting some important new advertising prospects for the newspapers, as will become apparent during the month of January when the Food Administration pushes its big drive to increase the consumption of corn products.

The net result of what the Food Administration is doing, say its officials, will be to increase the volume of paid advertising in American publications and especially in American newspapers.

The food officials say that if any manufacturer does see fit, in this period of readjustment, to alter his advertising policy, he cannot put the blame on the Food Administration save in some indirect way, but even at that there will probably be two new advertisers to take the place of every one that drops out on the pretext of loss of incentive to advertise.

Seemingly there is no rumor that is more difficult to put down than the one to the effect that orders have gone forth from Washington to cancel a wide range of food advertising. The proverbial cat of nine lives isn't a circumstance to this bit of heresy. It bobs up serenely despite the most emphatic denials of "Ben" Allen and all his assistants.

This past week gossip came to THE FOURTH ESTATE to the effect that a ban had been placed on the advertising of ham, bacon, flour and all the other foodstuffs that enter into the United States Army ration.

That was merely a revised edition of the earlier whisper to the effect that the Food Administration had compelled the packers of pork and beans to withdraw their advertising.

A little earlier the "I-have-it-straight" fellows had romanced to the effect that Mr. Hoover's intuition had called a halt on the advertising of the popular brands of canned soup.

At one time the supposed ban was attributed to a shortage of tin for cans; then insufficiency of raw materials had to take the blame; next it was Army needs; and now the transportation facilities are named as the goat.

So persistent have been, of late, these false reports to the effect that the Food Administration was interfering with advertising programs that the officials have recently made a thorough investigation in order to discover what, if anything, has prompted the excitement.

It is discovered that the one and talk is to be found in the unauthorized suggestion of a subordinate in the Food Administration that flour advertising should be eliminated by reason of the adoption of a standard flour formula that, in effect, puts all millers on a plane insofar as the character of their output is concerned.

Administrator Hoover and his chief aids not only did not endorse that suggestion, but they were not even aware that it had been made until they were obliged to seek an explanation of the hubbub over the anticipated slump in advertising. Now the Food Administration is busy sending to indignant correspondents assurances that it is not "agin" advertising as such.

MILLERS INCREASE ADVERTISING.

In order to get a bead on the true situation one cannot do better than take a look at the status of advertising in the milling field where, as has been seen, all this trouble started.

Millers are being held to a stand-

(Continued on Thirty-first Page.)

1918 ADVERTISING OUTLOOK.

PUBLICITY MUST BE USED NEXT YEAR ABOVE ALL OTHERS, EXPERTS SAY.

Today many manufacturers face a shortage of supplies.

The natural question comes up: How should this affect their advertising?

The Blackman-Ross Company, the New York advertising agency, offers the following answer:

"In talking this situation over among ourselves a number of viewpoints have come up. Some of them are more or less common-place, but some may be of general interest. We are, therefore, putting a few of them into this form.

"To take an extreme view: Suppose all commercial advertising were wiped out for a period of two years. Then at the end of two years say that advertising were resumed. We would have a grand free-for-all to get in on the new distribution of reputations.

"Many a small live business would stand a good chance to step up with the big ones on the new line-up.

"It is often many months after advertising starts before an appreciable effect is felt.

"After a cessation of advertising, this same condition must be faced again.

"If it were positively known now that on January 1, 1919, a company would be in shape to sharply increase its output, it would be poor strategy to defer advertising until January 1, 1919.

"The effects of the advertising would come long after they were wanted.

"Your advertising of five years ago is working for you today.

"Just as truly, an advertising blank for any considerable period, will be working against you next year and for years to come.

"For what is true of the lasting effects of advertising is equally true of the lasting effects of non-advertising.

"Advertising works up a momentum.

"When we stop advertising we start a momentum downward.

COMPETITION LIKE THE DISEASE GERM.

"In a way competition in business is a great deal like the disease germ.

"We always have it with us.

"So long as we are constitutionally strong, we throw it off. It doesn't bother us.

"When we become constitutionally weak, the germs catch hold and get busy.

"The well-established specialty business has been made constitutionally very strong, through a combination of forces. A very material part of these forces has been the company's publicity.

"Without that publicity we have a weakened business constitution.

"We have a business open to the attacks of competition.

"You know how hard it is to overcome the reputation of being a has-been. In a country which moves along as rapidly as this country moves, the has-been reputation can be picked up very quickly.

"Drop out of the public eye here for a little while and somebody quickly takes your place. When you try to get back you find heavy odds against you.

"This loss of prestige works just as rapidly in the commercial sphere as it works in the personal sphere. It is a very real condition to think about.

Time nowadays is crowded with events. A month in retrospect looks far longer than the average month. A year savors of an eternity.

"The manufacturer who is out of advertising for a year in times like these, is out of advertising for a great deal longer than twelve months. While he is out of the public eye happenings are crowding in to make his former advertising seem like a bit of ancient history.

"One thing we want to watch out for when we have lived with the growth and development of a trade-mark standing is this:

"In the early stages of the upbuilding of a trade-mark reputation, we have a charity patient.

"We have to supply funds for promotion. The profits from the trade-mark standing do not for some time support this expenditure. We are liable to get into the habit of thinking that our trade-mark is always a charity patient, begging for money.

"The successful trade-mark lives through this charity period.

"It reaches the period where it supports itself by its own contributions to profits.

"It puts money into the bank which it is entitled to draw for its own maintenance.

"The maintenance of a trade-mark standing is not complete without the maintenance of publicity.

"Few pieces of merchandise tell their own story.

"The public may think that they

(Continued on Thirty-fifth Page.)

PROTEST SEAMAN CONTRACT.

FEDERAL TRADE BOARD IS HEARING COMPLAINTS OF PUBLISHERS.

The Federal Trade Commission is giving a hearing, at the time of going to press, to the customers of the Seaman Paper Company, formerly Birmingham & Seaman, to adjust the five-year contract which this firm has in force with its customers.

Such serious objection was raised on this contract that the Seaman Paper Company finally offered to allow it to be arbitrated by the Federal Trade Commission.

Originally the Birmingham & Seaman Company offered publishers a five-year contract with a penalty cancellation clause that if at any time during the five years these publishers broke their contract in any way they would be obligated to pay for all paper used on the basis of five cents a pound.

This is such an objectionable proposition that it revised the contract to read $3.10 straight for five years plus any increased cost during any of the years. Since that time, the firm notified its customers that the increased cost for 1917 would be $15 a ton and asked them to remit on the basis of $3.85.

It is hoped that the hearings will be able to arrange an adjustment of this price.

A NEW ASPECT TO COST HEARINGS.

TRADE COMMISSION TO ACT ONLY AS A JUDICIAL BODY.

Under the agreement of the Department of Justice with the several news print paper manufacturers, the Federal Trade Commission is to fix the price and terms of contract after April 1. The commission has announced that it will open hearings on January 7 to hear this information and evidence and has notified all manufacturers and publishers interested to appear and present their evidence.

It has been generally assumed by publishers throughout the country that the Federal Trade Commission, with its staff, would investigate all conditions and upon that investigation would fix the price.

It now appears that the commission will, instead, act as a judicial body and at these hearings will receive the evidence and upon the information so received will fix such a price.

This puts a very serious burden of proof upon the publishers which they do not appear to realize. Certainly the manufacturers' evidence will be submitted in good shape and therefore publishers should be in position to present their case in the best possible way. It apparently is a most critical situation and one which publishers must meet immediately in order to protect their own interests.

CHANGE FOR YOUNG.

W. W. Young, well known in the newspaper and magazine field, will be associated with the editing and management of the Humanitarian Magazine, New York, after January 1. This magazine is issued in the interests of the Humanitarian cult.

McConnell & Fergusson, London (Ont.) advertising agents, have opened an office at Beaver Hall, Montreal, with Lionel Renssion, formerly a local agency man, in charge.

Start 1918 Right

by installing the Monotype and Non-Distribution.

You do not know what the year will bring you; but you do know that if you are equipped with the best, the most flexible, the most versatile composing machine ever invented you will be ready for everything that may come along.

You know that the elimination of all distribution means a big decrease in the productive hour cost.

Why hesitate, then, to install the only machine which makes this possible.

Real Non-Distribution is possible only with the MONOTYPE, which is manufactured by the LANSTON MONOTYPE MACHINE COMPANY, of Philadelphia, and sold from there and from its Branch Offices in New York, Boston, Chicago and Toronto; and by the Monotype Machine Company of California, San Francisco.

Write to the nearest office.

Let the Monotype Help You to Make 1918 the Most Prosperous Year You Have Ever Known

U. S. PROTECTION FOR BUSINESS.

NO DRASTIC ACTION NEED BE FEARED—BUSINESS MEN OWN ALARMISTS.

One of the hardest tasks the United States Government seems to face in formulating its war operations plans is to convince American business men that a most necessary part of its duty is to protect and build up business—not to do every thing to eliminate as many kinds of business as is possible.

Considerable doubt and agitation on this score have gotten into the minds of manufacturers and have undoubtedly affected their advertising campaigns.

Far from this situation is the real case. The fact is that the Government has comprehensive plans to protect and conserve industry in the time of war, which look to the future expansion of American business when peace returns to the world.

The Washington Star, whose business manager, Fleming Newbold, is chairman of the A.N.P.A. Bureau of Advertising, has made careful inquiry into the whole subject of the attitude of the Government towards business and it reports that within the past few weeks final steps have been taken in an unprecedented Government program to protect and conserve industry in time of war. The measures adopted fulfill to the letter promises made long ago through the highest official agencies to the following general effects:

No industry need be panicky through fear of extinction because of war conditions.

No classification of industries as essential or non-essential is contemplated by any branch of the Government.

When curtailment of output is brought about by normal operation of war time demands, every effort will be made for the conversion of the industry to some war time use, or to its gradual curtailment if such conversion is impossible.

Machinery by which these promises are to be made effective have been worked out. The agencies involved, briefly are fourfold.

George N. Peek, newly appointed industrial representative of the War Industries Board, heads a section of the Council of National Defense which is charged with the sole duty of conferring with representatives of industries affected by the war, and advising these representatives how their industries may be converted to meet war time needs.

The United States Chamber of Commerce only last week had its first meeting of several hundred war service committees. Each of these committees was named by the industry they represent, and they are to deal with Mr. Peek's section of the Council of National Defense and with the war industries board. They form the point of contact by which every manufacturer in the country may come directly in touch with the Federal Government, and get authoritative rulings, advice and information.

The third agency is the War Industries Board, concerned primarily with seeing that Government contracts are placed, and that facilities are created, where they do not exist, to fill these Government needs.

The fourth is the Commercial Economy Board, headed by Albert W. Shaw of Chicago, which would be an aid to business in peace time, and becomes doubly valuable to industry in war. For this board seeks to elim-

"Over The Top"—Everywhere in the U.S.

HOLLISTER'S

Big Expert Circulation Organization is Known and Employed by the Leading Newspapers of the Country. At the Present Time We Are Conducting Three Big Campaigns:

C. B. HOLLISTER
General Manager

The St. Louis Republic
Second Campaign on this well-known paper

The Oakland Enquirer
Second Campaign on Oakland's Livest Newspaper

The Tulsa (Okla.) World

Our Repeat Campaigns on the LOS ANGELES TIMES and others, have been NEWSPAPER CLASSICS.

RESULTS MEAN REPEAT!

The largest and most successful circulation contests conducted during the past few years have been under our management.

Our St. Louis organization will be at liberty January 1st.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR RESULTS? WRITE OR WIRE

C. B. HOLLISTER, General Manager

Care of ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC

NORTHEASTERN CIRCULATION COMPANY

P. O. Box 140

DAVENPORT, IOWA

inate waste in labor, material and steps of manufacture.

Despite the establishment of this system by which any industry may gain the co-operation and assistance of its Government, there continue to be reports that this industry or that is to be thrown into the discard, and that this sort of a plant or that is to be scrapped. It takes time for such a mobilization of industry to become effective. But the Council of National Defense and the Department of Commerce, for the Government, and the United States Chamber of Commerce, for the business man, are joining in an educational campaign to reassure business men of the country against the vague reports that they are facing financial disaster.

Here are a few premises on which the Council of National Defense, principal Federal agency dealing with industry, is framing its policy. They sound like a platform of private industry itself. That is not surprising, for the men associated with the six cabinet officers who make up the council are leaders in the commercial, industrial and transportation world.

SITUATION IS EXPLAINED.

These premises, as stated at various times by W. S. Gifford, director of the council, and others in charge of various major committees, are these:

In the broad sense, there is no such thing as a non-essential industry.

Some are more essential than others. To call an immediate halt on any industry not considered especially needful would mean impairment of credit, wastage of capital and unemployment to labor. To announce that any particular industry is not essential would be paramount to bankrupting the owners of that industry.

Many industries which seem non-essential really are essential, when all factors are taken into consideration.

A bulletin from the United States Chamber of Commerce points out: "We need nitrate and copper from Chile. These are essential to a prosecution of the war. We may procure this nitrate and copper by shipping jewelry or pleasure automobiles to Chile. Again, we need from Argentina wool, wheat and hides, and these necessities may be obtained by shipping in exchange sewing machines or typewriters. Thus the manufacture of a limousine or a typewriter may be in fact the means of producing nitrate or wool."

So far as any official ruling goes all industries now termed "non-essential" have thus classified themselves.

Some manufacturers have been eager to convert their plants to uses more directly concerned with the war. Examples are to be found in the cases of jewelry, cut glass and silk manufacturers.

Upon going to Washington manufacturers in all three fields have found the instructions for war-time service awaiting them. The cut glass makers may turn out optical instruments, the silver manufacturers have already found ways of making instruments of precision, and certain fuse parts. The silk manufacturers are experimenting with the manufacture of aeroplane wings.

AN EXAMPLE IS CITED.

One good example of how the Council of National Defense has sought to alleviate necessary readjustment of industry is found in its co-operative effort with wool manufacturers. Wool has been utilized to an enormous extent in uniform making. Production of wool for civilian use has been reduced by thirty per cent, through admixture with other materials.

Even the garment-making trades, men's and women's, have benefited by co-operating with the Commercial Economy Board. Instead of having overstocks on their hands because of the curtailment of expenditure for women's clothing resulting from thrift campaigns, and of men's clothing because of the formation of the new national army, ways have been worked out, through the French embassy here, to get advance lines on next season's Parisian styles, to curtail the use of cloth by eliminating unnecessary pleats, hems, turn-ups on trousers and belts, and to modify hitherto drastic changes in styles.

All this does not mean "business as usual." Men like Frank Vanderlip have shown the fallacy of that slogan. Neither does it mean upsetting of industry. Representatives of Allied governments have pointed out the costly mistakes of overdrastic policies. It means a happy middle course.

Generally the recommendations and expectations of business men have been more drastic than those of the Government. For example, the United States Chamber of Commerce, as recently as October 29, stated, in a bulletin: "No one need be surprised if during the war the use of labor and materials for all unessential purposes is made impossible by regulation or statute."

Such steps have not been taken; nor do they seem imminent.

What has been recommended by the council is that no new industrial enterprises should be undertaken at this time which will not help win the war.

The platform of the council, approved by the United States Chamber of Commerce, perhaps is best expressed in a statement which says:

Every effort that this country is capable of making should be applied to bring the war to a speedy and successful conclusion. The resources of the country in a general way may be said to consist of men, money and material, and during the period of the war any new enterprises or undertakings should be tried and justified by this test: Will the men, money and material so applied best contribute in this way to the winning of the war?

POWER NOT EXERCISED.

Probably the best indication that the Government does not contemplate any wholesale uprooting of industry is that it has not done so, though it possesses the power. It could destroy whole industries in various ways. The Fuel Administration could deprive them of the coal, the priorities director could refuse the use of freight cars, the Department of Labor could induce labor to desert the industries it wished to destroy.

Industries have had difficulties in all these fields; but they have been difficulties induced by conditions which business men must cope with in extraordinary times, and not by antagonistic action on the part of the Government.

We Spend More Than $500,000

per year to produce the features which have created the greatest newspaper following in the world.

"Hearst Features Always Lead"

Write for booklet "A Half-Million Dollar Feature Service."

International Feature Service

729 Seventh Ave., New York City

BOOMING!

IN THE TWELVE MONTHS OF 1917 THE
INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
ADDED 206 NEW CLIENTS

The International News Service beat both the Associated Press and the United Press on scores of important stories in 1917. Among these were:

Dec. 4—Ahead on President Wilson's war message.

Nov. 24—Hours ahead on capture of German submarine crew by U. S. troops.

Oct. 29—Full day ahead on capture of Pershing's first prisoners.

Sept. 29—Ahead on story of move in Washington to oust LaFollette from U. S. Senate.

Aug. 3—More than an hour ahead on DeSaulles murder.

July 20—Beat both A.P. and U. P. by several hundred numbers on the draft lottery. This was the biggest story ever handled by news services.

This is a most significant record, particularly when compared with the two preceding years.

In 1915

116 New Clients

In 1916

135 New Clients

In 1917

206 New Clients

AND THE REASON IS

The International News Service was beaten by the Associated Press and United Press on two or three stories in 1917. It was beaten because it believed the safety of American soldiers to be of more importance than the carrying of a news story. It has kept the faith. It will continue to keep the faith. And it is the only American news service that has not been rebuked by the United States Government for carrying stories which endangered the lives and safety of our soldiers "Over There."

If another news association is trying to "squeeze up" your contract price, please remember, we don't and won't.

The True News First—Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

TENTH FLOOR, WORLD BUILDING

NEW YORK

READY FOR PAPER COST CONFERENCE

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR MAKERS—PUBLISHERS URGED TO BE PRESENT.

By the time this issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE is in the hands of subscribers the news print manufacturers will have received from Washington an elaborate form of cost accounting which has been prepared with infinite care by the Federal Trade Commission to be filled out by each paper maker in anticipation of the coming open forum on news print prices, to open in Washington on January 7.

The Trade Commission, in the interest of a policy of "full speed ahead" when the investigation actually starts, is giving to the paper men the most explicit instructions as to the data that is desired.

In carrying out the provisions of the agreement made with the Department of Justice the Federal Trade Commission desires that each company signatory to the agreement furnish monthly cost and profit reports on news print paper, sulphite, ground wood and prepared wood, to be submitted on the forms prepared for this purpose which are attached thereto. The commission's instructions are:

The first report should be for the month of November, 1917, to be followed by reports for each succeeding month during the life of the agreement. If any company does not keep its books in proper form to make accurate reports in accordance with these cost sheets, it should take immediate steps to do so.

In addition to the regular monthly cost reports, beginning with November, the commission desires similar reports for each month from January 1, 1917, to and including October, 1917. These back reports are to be forwarded as follows:

In December, 1917—report for January, 1917.

In January, 1918—reports for February, March and April, 1917.

In February, 1918—reports for May, June and July, 1917.

In March, 1918—reports for August, September and October, 1917.

By following this schedule all of these reports will be in the hands of the commission before April 1, 1918, as of which date the price is to be determined.

The commission expects the monthly reports to be filed according to the above schedule unless individual representations are immediately made and separate arrangements concluded.

THE INFORMATION WANTED.

All materials must be charged into paper at cost. In other words the cost of prepared wood must be the cost used in sulphite and ground wood and similarly the cost of sulphite and ground wood must be the costs used for these materials in news print paper.

Purchased wood must be charged into the prepared wood cost at actual cost. The proper method of handling wood cut on own lands or limits will be considered and agreed upon at the hearings beginning January 7, 1918. Pending the settlement of this matter the commission desires that the method now employed be continued so that the figures given will be those actually shown by the books. The analysis sheets, supplementing, should show the basis used.

All materials and supplies must be inventoried at cost following the general practice of manufacturers up to this time.

A reserve for bad debts is pro-

"A necessary member of the editorial staff of every newspaper."—The Fourth Estate.

The advertising man writes his best ads from World Almanac facts and figures.

Out January 2d 1918 WORLD ALMANAC

(WAR INFORMATION EDITION.)

Aside from all the features of the great war, in many pages of current information of vast interest to the people of the world, everything is in the volume, as usual, such as the latest records in the progress and conditions of Business, Education, Religion, Industry, Prohibition, Woman Suffrage, Science and Discovery. The sporting record is complete and an important feature, while the election tables are compiled to date. There is nothing in the book but facts you need, comprehensively compiled for quick reference. It cuts the corners to facts and figures.

NEW AND IMPORTANT FEATURES.

New War Postal Regulations.
President Wilson's War Messages.
The Espionage and Trading With the Enemy Acts.
The Pope's Peace Proposal.
National Army and National Guard Cantonments.
U. S. Army and Navy Insignia (illustrated).
World's Food Needs and American Red Cross Work.
The Submarine and Kindred Problems.

United States War Loans to European Belligerents.
One Year's War Expense of the United States.
Signal Corps and Aviation Fields.
First and Second Liberty Loans and Thrift Stamps.
New American Army and Army and Navy Pay.
War Revenue Law.
Poisons Used in Manufacture of Explosives.

AND ALL THE VITAL FEATURES OF OTHER YEARS.

Standard American Annual!

The Greatest Issue in the History of the Publication.

If you have a Son, Brother, Employee or Friend in the Military Service, SEND HIM ONE.

300,000 Copies
Over 1,000 pages, 25,000 Facts and Figures

Price 25c on Newsstands East of Buffalo and Pittsburg.
(West of Buffalo and Pittsburg, 30c. Pacific Coast, 35c.) By Mail, 35c.
Address: Cashier, The World, Pulitzer Building, New York City.
Cloth Bound (Out February 1), 60c.; by mail, 60c.

vided for in selling expenses. This should be based on experience for the previous five years or for the life of a company if less than this. The method of determining this charge should be explained in submitting the first report.

A depreciation charge is provided for in costs. This should be distributed over the sulphite and ground wood produced according to the best practice used. What is a fair rate of depreciation and how it should be computed will be considered at the hearings. Pending the settlement of these questions the commission desires that the figures shown by the books be reported. The method of determining and distributing depreciation should be explained in submitting the first report.

Bond interest and other interest charges are excluded from costs and shown separately on the cost sheets. There should be a distribution of such items over sulphite, ground wood, etc., and the method of distribution should be explained.

Overhead expenses, such as administration, taxes, insurance, etc., should be distributed over sulphite and ground wood, and also over other products manufactured according to some fair basis to be determined by the commission. Until the correct basis is determined the method now employed must be used so that the figures reported will be those actually shown by the books. The method of distributing these expenses must be explained.

Income and excess profit taxes should be excluded from cost. All reports and figures are received subject to check, analysis and revision by the commission.

WANTS PUBLISHERS REPRESENTED.

Meanwhile, in the effort to secure the presence or representation of every newspaper interest at the all-important hearings, there has gone from Washington this week to every association of newspaper publishers and to every individual publisher who is known to be especially interested the following letter:

"DEAR SIR:

"The news print manufacturers listed below have recently signed an agreement with the Department of Justice providing among other things that the Federal Trade Commission shall determine the maximum prices and terms of sale of their output of news print paper beginning April 1, 1918, for the duration of the war and three months thereafter:

"International Paper Company, New York City.
"Minnesota & Ontario Power Company, International Falls, Minn.
"Gould Paper Company, Lyons Falls, N. Y.
"Donnacoma Paper Company, Ltd., Donnacoma, Que.
"Spanish River Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd., Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.
"Abitibi Power & Paper Company, Iroquois Falls, Ontario.
"Laurentide Company, Grand Mere, Quebec.

"Belgo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Company, Ltd., Shawinigan Falls, Quebec.
"Price Brothers Company, Kenosha, Wis.
"Brompton Pulp & Paper Company, East Angus, Quebec.

"To carry out the provisions of this agreement the commission will hold hearings at its office in Washington beginning January 7, 1918.

"At these hearings evidence will be received bearing on the determination of the prices and terms of sale of these companies.

"Any consumer of news print paper or dealer in news print paper may appear in person or by attorney at these hearings and present any pertinent facts or figures bearing upon the determination of a price or prices of news print paper and the terms and conditions surrounding the sale of the same.

"The commission requests that persons desiring to be heard should give reasonable notice so that a definite time may be arranged.

"FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.
"L. L. BRACKEN, Secretary."

FINDING JOBS FOR PEOPLE OVER FORTY-FIVE.

Though its time limit for accepting free advertisements from jobless men who are over forty-five years of age has expired, the New York Evening Mail plans to continue this work of finding positions for men of this class.

In the future, in addition to the regular paid advertising service on the classified page, the Evening Mail invites letters from men of this age period who are out of work, and will try to place them on their merits, as disclosed by their letters.

Plans are being perfected for establishing a permanent medium for bringing the man and the job together, and announcement will be made from time to time of the progress made. It has been definitely decided, for one thing, that women of this class, as well as men, will be provided for in the arrangements.

During the recent campaign, where over 1,000 men applied for positions through the Evening Mail's free service, a number of women also sent in advertisements and these were published, as a matter of course. Several of these women have already reported that they have secured positions through their advertisements in the Evening Mail's free column.

CHOSEN DRAMATIC CRITIC.

Alexander Pierce, formerly assistant dramatic critic of the New York Tribune, is now dramatic critic, succeeding Ralph Block, who has joined the editorial staff of the New Republic.

Miss Salita Solano, formerly on the Boston Traveler, becomes Mr. Pierce's assistant.

MADE ASSAULT ON EDITOR.

Washington Moody, an attorney, has been convicted of assault and battery on Edward Doty, editor of the Tuscaloosa (Ala.) News and president of the Alabama Press Association. He was fined $5.

AMERICA'S FOURTH CITY can be covered by advertisers with just one paper

The DETROIT NEWS

(DAILY AND SUNDAY)

That many advertisers realize this is proven by the fact that the News has printed paid advertising aggregating over

Eighteen Million Lines

in the eleven months of 1917.

There are potent reasons for such extraordinary volume of advertising.

First—Detroit's growth has had extent, speed and stability in a combination rarely if ever equalled in America.

Second—The Detroit News has grown with the city, covering it in the ratio of one copy for every 3.7 English speaking people—men, women and children.

That's why the Detroit News stands where it does as a carrier of advertising.

NET PAID CIRCULATION { 221,000 Daily EXCEEDS { 175,000 Sunday

NEW YORK
I. A. KLEIN,
Metropolitan Tower

Special Representatives

CHICAGO
JOHN GLASS
Peoples Gas Building

The most advertising medium to reach a half million credent speaking people is the U.S. AMERICAN IDENTITY FORUMS IS APOCALYPTICALLY THE ONLY CHRISTIAN DAILY in the U.S. which is published every day in the past.

(Entered at New York, N. Y. Post Office as second class matter under act of Congress of March 3, 1879)

— 64 —

[illegible]

The New York Times states that it has no advertising solicitor on its staff by the name of Stokes, who is described as a man about fifty years old, five feet ten inches in height, smooth face, dark hair turning gray, and a fluent talker.

The AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ANNUAL AND DIRECTORY for 1918

THIS is to announce the publication of the American Newspaper Annual and Directory for 1918—the fifteenth year in which the publishers and advertisers of the country have been served by this book.

Inasmuch as the readers of THE FOURTH ESTATE are nearly all familiar with the scope and character of the A. & D., the chief purpose of this notice is to give them that I-will-order-now feeling.

We shall be glad to send a description of the book to those who may be unenlightened. To old users, we would say that it is the same as ever—only more so. It has more proved circulations, more maps and more data than ever.

The book will be sent by the publishers anywhere in the United States, all charges prepaid, on receipt of price, $10.00. The edition is limited. We do not intend to print any for the paper baler. The earlier the order the longer the use of the book.

N. W. AYER & SON

PHILADELPHIA, PENNA.

A.N.P.A. FOR SMITH RESOLUTION.

WARNS PUBLISHERS ABOUT THE "PITFALLS" IN GETTING 1918 PAPER SUPPLY.

Congressional passage of the Smith Resolution (now in the Senate) giving the Federal Trade Commission the power to fix the prices of pulp and paper, is urged by the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, despite the fact that a settlement has been made of the differences between the news print manufacturers and the newspaper publishers and the Department of Justice.

"The fact that such a settlement has been reached," says the paper committee, "has induced many publishers to think that there is no need to support the Smith Resolution. On the contrary, as there are some mills out of this agreement, particularly those West of the Rocky Mountains, the paper committee urges the support of this resolution."

"The Federal Trade Commission also endorses it, and we therefore urge that it be passed. Although it might be thought not to be necessary, it is required to complete the situation and make it thoroughly effective."

"The report of the joint committee on printing on the Smith Resolution is in part as follows:

"The committee on printing, to which was referred the resolution (S. J. Res. 101) to provide for the national security and defense by assuring to the Government of the United States an adequate supply of print paper at a fair price and by insuring a supply and equitable distribution at fair prices to the industries of the United States, having had the same under consideration, reports the resolution back with the recommendation that it do pass."

"The resolution (S. J. Res. 101) is as follows:

"Whereas, by reason of a state of war now existing it is essential to the national security and defense for the successful prosecution of the war to assure a supply of print paper and its equitable distribution at a fair price in order that the Government of the United States may be assured an adequate supply of paper products and that all proper news may be generally and efficiently disseminated: Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Federal Trade Commission is hereby authorized and empowered to supervise, control and regulate the production and distribution of print paper and mechanical and chemical pulp in the United States, and that all mills producing and all agencies distributing print paper and mechanical and chemical pulp in the United States shall be operated on Government account; that these products be pooled in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission for the term of the war and the emergency occasioned thereby and equitably distributed at a price based upon cost of production and distribution plus a fair profit per ton, as determined by the Federal Trade Commission: Provided, That if the compensation so determined be not satisfactory to the person, company, or corporation entitled to receive the same, such person, company or corporation shall be paid seventy-five per centum of the amount so determined by the Federal Trade Commission and shall be entitled to sue the United States to recover such further sum as, added to said seventy-five per centum, will make up such amount as will be just compensation for such paper, and jurisdiction is hereby conferred on the United States district courts to hear and determine all such controversies."

"Sec. 2. That the President is authorized and empowered to take all proper steps to secure the co-operation of the Government of the Dominion of Canada in the creation of a similar agency as herein provided, with like functions; and the Federal Trade Commission is authorized and empowered to act in conjunction with such Canadian agency, when appointed, to the end of fully effectuating the objects of this act."

"Sec. 3. That the President shall

Announcement

On and after January First The OHIO STATE JOURNAL will be represented in the foreign field by STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY Inc. with offices as follows:

CHICAGO
Peoples Gas Bldg

NEW YORK
200 Fifth Avenue

PHILADELPHIA
Colonial Trust Bldg.

THE OHIO STATE JOURNAL CO.
Columbus, Ohio.

have power by proclamation to declare that imports into the United States during the present war emergency of print paper and mechanical and chemical pulp shall be made only on Government account, to or through the Federal Trade Commission, if and whenever he shall determine such step to be necessary in order to fully effectuate the objects of this act.

"Sec. 4. That compliance with all orders and regulations of the Federal Trade Commission made in accordance with this act shall be obligatory on any individual, firm, association, company, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry, or the responsible head or heads thereof, and shall take precedence over all other orders and contracts heretofore placed with such individuals, firm, company, association, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry; and any individual, firm, company, association, corporation, or organized manufacturing industry, or the responsible head or heads thereof, failing to comply with the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than three years or by a fine of not exceeding $50,000, or both."

PROFITS.

"The report then rehearses at length the procedure by the Government in the news print and book print matters. It draws attention to the profits in the paper industry recently and continues as follows:

"Of course it is very evident from these tremendous profits that the manufacturers of news print paper do not want any Governmental supervision or control over their products. In fact the president of the International Paper Company, Philip T. Dodge, has been quoted as saying:

"I wish to say emphatically that our company will unalterably oppose Government regulation. The minute that begins we will start putting our machines out of business. I oppose Government supervision of our business."

Further advice of the A.N.P.A. paper committee to publishers follows:

"There is on hand today a surplus of news print paper of 300,000 tons. There will be a surplus over 1918, after allowing for decreased production due to shortage of materials, labor and cars of at least 250,000 tons more. This means that for 1918 there will be a surplus of news print paper over consumption of 500,000 tons, that is, twenty-five per cent on the basis of 2,000,000 tons production for 1917. The result of this to the publisher is that for every four tons of paper which will be offered for sale only three can be used.

"There will undoubtedly be an enormous slump in the price of paper should publishers immediately use up all their high priced stocks and continue using as little paper as possible in order to keep the market situation in a healthy condition."

"It must also be remembered that the price fixed by the Federal Trade Commission is a maximum, and that the competitive market now affected by the agreement between the Department of Justice and the paper manufacturers is far more important than the price fixing and other conditions involved in that agreement."

"The present prospect is that competitive market conditions will force a price during next year substantially below any price which may be fixed by the Federal Trade Commission. For that reason the open market is distinctly a safe place to buy paper for 1918, but certainly no formal contract should be entered into except on the basis of the Federal Trade Commission agreement."

"There is a landslide in paper prices. Publishers should take advantage of this by holding consumption down to the minimum; by using up all stocks on hand and buying any surplus requirements next July instead of now."

PUBLISHERS' CONSENT.

"Publishers should be very careful that the manufacturers do not interpret a letter or verbal statement on their part as consent to an arbitrary contract for 1918."

"The agreement signed with the Department of Justice provides that manufacturers may, on request from publishers ask the Attorney General for permission to make with them a contract outside of the benefits of this agreement."

"In view of the manner in which this notice may be given, publishers are particularly urged to be careful that no manufacturer notifies the Attorney General in their behalf that permission is desired to make such contracts, and in a case where there is any doubt, publishers should immediately record their position with the Attorney General against any contract, except that under the terms of the agreement."

The following letter from D. L.

Ward & Co., Philadelphia, is most interesting:

"CONTRACT—Replying to your favor of recent date, we note that you are in the market for a contract for 1918 calling for three hundred and sixty tons. The amount of tonnage can easily be covered by calling it your entire supply. We will name you a price of $3.15 f. o. b. mill, terms eight draft, bill of lading attached, this price to apply for January, February and March, and a revision thereafter every ninety days. This will give you the benefit of declining immediately."

"ADVANTAGE—I will point out to you the advantages of being under contract. If there is any legislation in Washington, unquestionably the mills will start to make other grades where the prices are higher and your name signed to a contract would mean that they would have to supply you at the price fixed by Congress. If, on the other hand, you are not under contract, it would unquestionably mean that the mills would not take on any new commitments at any low prices. We also feel that our Philadelphia stock, which we carry at all times, and all sizes, will be very handy during the coming freight congestion when we can ship you rolls at a moment's notice."

"There is no possibility whatever, as is shown by the book paper report published by THE FOURTH ESTATE last week of the manufacturers being able to turn their mills to other grades to any great extent. The Berlin Mills and the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Company had made plans to develop the sulphate and wrapping paper business and as these plans matured they were able to carry them out. This will divert a few machines from news print."

"The legislation and price fixing in Washington do not affect this tonnage one way or the other. We reiterate our advice that on account of the enormous surplus for next year the open market or Federal Trade Commission agreement are the only ways to buy paper."

SCHLOSSER BUYS PAPER.

George Schlosser, secretary of the National Editorial Association, who was for many years manager of the South Dakota Newspaper Union, now the Western Newspaper Union, has purchased the Westington Springs (S. D.) Republican, a weekly, from Crispin J. Webb.

TOYS FOR FRENCH CHILDREN

The Chicago Daily News was instrumental in raising a fund for Christmas toys for poor children in France. The toys were given out by the correspondents of the paper in France.

Traveling Salesmen who call on newspapers selling features or news services, can make a good deal of extra money by handling a side line. No samples to carry. Genuine proposition. Strictly confidential. Call or write Picture Press, Inc. 450 Fourth Ave., NEW YORK

Making a Soldier of Sugar

AS WE have sent men abroad to fight for America—as we have sent money—as we have drafted steel, with other commodities, into fighting-service or enlisted wheat and other fighting-foods—so we must make a soldier of sugar.

Nutriments for the nations at war is as vital to the outcome as the powder that feeds the guns. A great nutriment in time of peace—in war a veritable sinew—sugar is now called upon to play a heroic part, to supply the peoples of our allies—whose strength is ours.

To wrap up sugar in the American flag, so to speak, and put it into the fight becomes a duty of loyalty. It will be borne cheerfully by every industry, every dealer, and every individual it falls upon. Upon certain industries it falls heavily—and especially on the workers who derive their living from them. Yet the American civilian is in this war with the soldier. American business, great and small, American capital from Wall Street to the remotest country bank, is with the Government every step of the way. The U.S. means Us. We, all of us, are in the fight with everything we have, for the sake of everything we cherish.

This company regards it a privilege to comply with the Government's request, made similarly to all manufacturers employing sugar in quantity, to reduce our output fifty per cent.

To the end of conservation we pledge our further efforts in every direction that opportunity may disclose, in manufacture as well as beyond the scope of our immediate interests; and in this effort generally we bespeak the co-operation of dealers and consumers everywhere.

THE COCA-COLA COMPANY
ATLANTA, GA.

GOVERNMENT-AID AD SLOGANS.

SUGGESTIONS FOR USE OF FILLERS IN NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENTS.

A great many mercantile firms, large and small, retail and wholesale, are contributing advertising space to assist Uncle Sam in his food-saving campaign.

Because the United States must achieve by volunteer effort what Germany achieves through autocratic regulation, it is necessary to keep food-saving before the American people constantly in every possible form. The merchants of the country have been quick to see this, and spontaneously insert food-saving slogans in corners of their regular newspaper advertisements, as well as keying their merchandise offerings on Food Administration principles.

This gratuitous advertising has really just begun. During February and March there will be a great national campaign on war matters in the newspapers and magazines, using space contributed by the leading advertisers of the country, and filled with food and other war announcements written by the country's great authors.

As food saving will be a constant issue until peace returns, such cooperative advertising really represents a great volunteer movement getting under way.

A sort of advertising calculated to produce good effect for food-saving is constant use of comparatively small space for standard food-saving slogans, inserted as fillers between items of large advertisements, or in little boxes in newspaper announcements.

By way of copy, the retail stores section of the Food Administration, Washington, D. C., has issued a bulletin containing standard slogans based upon the policy and purpose of the Food Administration. Here are some suggestions for copy:

FOOD WILL WIN THE WAR— DON'T WASTE IT.

WHEAT.

1. Eat less wheat bread.
2. Don't waste a single slice; make toast, puddings, etc., of all stale bread.
3. Put the loaf on the table and slice as needed.

MEAT.

1. Eat less beef, mutton and pork; use any of this kind of meat not more than once a day.
2. Do not waste an ounce; utilize all leftovers.
3. Save the country's domestic animals; the supply is running short.

FATS

1. Use less butter; eat fewer fried foods.
2. Don't waste any butter, lard or drippings.

SUGAR.

1. Eat less candy; drink fewer sweet drinks.
2. Omit frosting from your cakes.

FUEL.

1. Burn less coal; turn out electric lights and turn down heat in radiators on leaving room.
- TO USE LESS COAL IS TO RELEASE MORE TRANSPORTATION FOR MILITARY PURPOSES.

MILK

1. Waste no milk.
- WE MUST SEND CONDENSED MILK TO OUR FIGHTING ALLIES

INSTEAD OF WHEAT

1. Use more corn bread, oatmeal bread, rye bread, barley bread, and, in the South, eat cotton seed bread, thus saving wheat.
2. Eat oatmeal, barley and corn

A Big Magazine's Biggest Year

Today's Housewife is closing the most successful year in its history.

Here are some of the high spots.

In 1917 the circulation has been increased from 900,000 to 1,100,000.

The circulation income in 1917 was increased over that of 1916 by $39,700.00.

The advertising income in 1917 was increased over that of 1916 by $45,129.00.

And, as an index of what may be expected in 1918—

Today's Housewife now has on its books in the form of definite orders 140% more business for 1918 than it had on its books for 1917 at this same time last year.

Successful advertisers are tending more and more to use sound magazines like Today's Housewife.

TODAY'S HOUSEWIFE

G. A. McCLELLAN, President
461 Fourth Avenue, New York City

breakfast foods, corn and buckwheat cakes.

3. In place of one slice of bread, eat one extra potato a day.

INSTEAD OF MEAT.

1. Eat vegetables, salted and fresh fish, cheese, milk, eggs, poultry and game.

INSTEAD OF FATS.

1. Use vegetable fats or oils in cooking.
2. Use the following animal fats; suet, beef drippings, chicken fats, pork fats from cooking, goose oil.
3. Make your soaps for rough cleaning at home, since soaps contain fats.

INSTEAD OF SUGAR.

1. Use honey, molasses and dark syrups.
2. Can your fruit juices and turn them into jellies as needed.

INSTEAD OF COAL.

1. Use fireless cookers.
2. Use wood, oil and gas wherever you can.

DON'T WASTE MILK.

1. Turn all leftover milk into cottage cheese or use in cooking.
2. Use less cream and more whole milk and cheese.

DINNER TO WILKES.

Representatives of the bench and bar in New York County will give a dinner on January 17 at the Hotel McAlpin, to Robert R. Wilkes in recognition of his twenty-five years of service as a newspaper man covering the criminal courts. George Gordon Battle, the well known attorney, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Mr. Wilkes became connected with the New York World in 1884 as a reporter. He was then sixteen years old. In 1898 he joined the staff of the Evening World, of which he is still a member.

LABOR DAILY FOR SEATTLE.

A daily newspaper is being planned by the union labor of Seattle to take the place of the Weekly Union Record.

BLACKWELL DAILY IS SOLD.

Abraham Steinberger has sold the Blackwell (Okla.) Daily World to E. H. Young.

SEND ONLY CLEAN MAGAZINES TO THE SOLDIERS.

An appeal has been issued to the people of the country by A. M. Dockery, the Third Assistant Postmaster General, to emphasize the importance of seeing that magazines mailed for the use of our soldiers abroad should be current and clean. These are the magazines which may be sent to soldiers by merely placing a one-cent stamp on the wrapper. Mr. Dockery has sent this order covering the matter to the Postal Service:

"It has come to attention that many of the unwrapped unaddressed magazines mailed by the public at the one-cent postage rate for soldiers and sailors are useless for the purpose intended, some being so old as no longer to be of any interest, some are torn and soiled and unfit for further use, while others are of such character as to be totally unsuited as reading matter for soldiers and sailors."

"Postmasters are requested to give this matter publicity and impress upon their patrons that the publications mailed under the arrangement referred to should consist of clean copies of current or comparatively recent issues of magazines devoted to literature or containing matter of general interest. It should be borne in mind that the magazines are distributed merely in a very general manner, and that it is not practicable to place those devoted to special subjects or which are merely of local or restricted interest in the hands of particular soldiers or sailors."

"Complaint is also made that many of the undeliverable magazines sent by postmasters to the assembling points for ultimate distribution among the soldiers at the various camps throughout the country are not suitable for the use intended, and postmasters are therefore instructed to exercise discretion in this connection, and include only such undeliverable magazines as will be appropriate and likely to be of interest to the men in the camps."

COURT RECOGNIZES THEATER ADVERTISING.

Because of their advertising, the appellate division of the New York Supreme Court has granted an injunction to the owners of the Strand Theater, New York, restraining the use of that name by another theater known as the Harlem Strand.

Referring to the original Strand's advertising the decision says:

"Wide publicity was given to the first performance held therein and peculiar interest attached to it by reason of the fact that it was claimed to be the largest moving picture theater in the world. Thereafter the name of the theater was continually kept before the theater-going public by means of most elaborate advertising more than $50,000 yearly being spent in New York City newspapers alone in addition to advertising throughout the country."

THE CANTON NEWS INSURES ITS EMPLOYEES.

The Canton (Ohio) Daily News has entered into arrangements with a large insurance company for life insurance for all of its employees, the premium expense to be borne by the paper.

The insurance begins with an amount approximately equal to sixty per cent of the employee's present salary and will be increased each year until it equals one year's pay.

This has been effective since December 20 and will remain in force as long as the employee is connected with the Daily News.

Some Recent INTERTYPE

ORDERS of interest to the trade:

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) HERALD

10 Model B 1 Model C

3 Model C-s.m.

(with side magazine)

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT

7 Model C-s.m.

(with side magazine)

SEATTLE (Wash.) STAR

3 Model B 1 Model C

1 Model C-s.m.

(with side magazine)

WASHINGTON (D.C.) POST

3 Model B

(repeat order)

BURLINGTON (Ia.) HAWK-EYE

4 Model B 1 Model C-s.m.

(with side magazine)

The Intertype is a flexible machine, so simple and so well built that the more it is investigated by buyer, foreman and machinist, the stronger is their conviction that it is

“The BETTER Machine”

INTERTYPE CORPORATION

Executive Offices and Eastern Sales Department

50 Court Street, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Middle Western Branch
Old Colony Building
CHICAGO

Pacific Coast Branch
86 Third Street, SAN FRANCISCO

Southern Branch
539 Carondelet Street
NEW ORLEANS

VOLUME of Cash Trade

Right now, the paramount issue in retailing is volume of "quality trade." Its importance is felt by everyone.

Cash trade is the real "quality trade"—it has been since the first sale of goods was made—its value is known and granted. But, how to obtain new cash patronage and induce credit customers to "pay as they buy" is the problem to be solved.

Those who pay cash are entitled to a preference over those who do not. The Sperry System enables a merchant to show his appreciation in the most practical and substantial way. It pleases customers at a minimum cost.

As a builder of good will and "quality business" for the merchant, and promoter of thrift and economy in the home the valuable Sperry Green Stamps serve a mighty important function.

The SPERRY &
HUTCHINSON Co.
2 West 43th St., New York

OBITUARY NOTES.

COLONEL JOHN HICKS, editor and publisher of the Oshkosh (Wis.) Northwestern and one of the most widely known newspaper men of the Northwest, died on December 20 in San Antonio, Tex., after only a few hours' illness of heart disease.

Colonel Hicks was born in Auburn, N. Y., April 12, 1847. He moved to Wisconsin while a child and was educated at Lawrence University, Appleton. He began newspaper work when twenty years old with the Oshkosh Northwestern, later becoming owner. He was appointed United States minister to Peru and served here from 1889 to 1893. Following this he made a tour of the world, visiting Egypt, Turkey and all of Europe. In 1905 he was appointed United States minister to Chile, in which capacity he served four years. He was the author of several books dealing with Wisconsin life and people. At the time of his death, Colonel Hicks was engaged in writing his autobiography. He was accompanied South by his wife.

GRANVILLE COWING, a veteran newspaper man, died in Muncie, Ind., on December 20, aged ninety-three years. As editor and printer, Cowing was in the employ of John G. Whittier when the latter edited the New Era in Washington, D. C. As compositor he set up the first edition of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" from the original manuscript. Cowing became acquainted with many historic characters, having come in personal contact with them while a young man in Washington. Cowing had been engaged in fruit farming near Muncie for fifty years. Until recently he had contributed regularly to newspapers and other publications articles on topics of historical interest.

CHARLES RICHARD WILLIAMS, assistant general manager of the Associated Press from 1883 to 1892, prominently known in educational work and at one time professor of Greek at Lake Forest University, died on a train on his way to Mobile, Ala., on December 20. Mr. Williams was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., April 16, 1853, and studied at the University of Rochester, Princeton, Göttingen and Leipzig and in Switzerland and Italy. Appointed literary editor of the New York World in 1883, Mr. Williams left the same year to become assistant general manager of the Associated Press. Later he was editor-in-chief of the Indianapolis News. Among his works are a life of President Hayes and a book of poems, "In Many Moods." He made his home of late years in Princeton, N. J.

CAPTAIN W. M. MEREDITH, former director of the Government bureau of engraving and printing, but recently with the Treasury Department, died on December 24 in Washington. He was eighty-two years old and was born in Indiana. He became director of the bureau of engraving and printing during President Harrison's Administration, and after leaving this position during President McKinley's first term of office was reappointed during President McKinley's second administration.

E. R. BATHRICK, a former Brooklyn (N. Y.) newspaper man, died in Akron, Ohio, on December 24, aged fifty-four years. Many years ago he moved to Akron and at the time of his death was a member of the House of Representatives from the fourteenth Ohio district.

W. B. PHILLIPS, at one time publisher of the Inland Press, Ann Arbor, Mich., but more latterly in the publishing and printing business in Battle Creek, Mich., died in an hospital there recently. He was fifty-two years old.

THE LATE JOHN HICKS.

WALTER G. FREEMAN, for twenty years employed in circulation departments of various city newspapers, is dead in Brooklyn, N. Y., after a long illness.

JOHN JOSEPH WINGATE, veteran newspaper man, died suddenly in London, Ind., the other day, of heart trouble.

MISS ELIZA C. DENNISTON, for four years president of the Women's Press Club of Pittsburg, died in Washington on December 17. At the time of her death she was secretary to the president of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

DANIEL C. McKAY, at one time editor and principal owner of the Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle, died recently in Belpre, Ohio.

GEORGE W. SMITH, for many years with the New York Sun, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, aged sixty-five years.

DR. LEVI P. GILBERT, one of the best known Methodist editors and ministers in the country, died at his home in Cincinnati on December 24. Dr. Gilbert, who was sixty-five years old, was a former editor of the Western Christian Advocate, and had occupied pulpits in Columbus, Ohio; New Haven, Ct., and Seattle, Wash. He was born in Brooklyn August 23, 1852. He was first an editor: of the Daily Christian Advocate and later of the Western Christian Advocate.

JOHN SYLVESTER BOYCE, for many years an employe of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle, is dead at the age of seventy-six years.

JOHN H. REED, at one time circulation manager of the St. Paul (Minn.) Globe, died on December 19 in Seattle, Wash. He was sixty-five years old.

DAVID ALLAN WATT, for a number of years editor of the Canadian Naturalist, is dead in his eighty-eighth year.

A. W. VAUGHN, an old time newspaper man and inventor of the Vaughn printing press, which was extensively used by country newspapers a number of years ago, committed suicide recently in Adel, Ia.

ROBERT MATHESON, successively owner of the Milton (Ont.) Champion, the St. Catharines (Ont.) News, the Clinton (Ont.) New Era and the Chicago Canadian-American, is dead at the age of eighty-three years.

MISS MARY ROWMAN, thirteen-year-old daughter of Albert H. Bowman, publisher of the Evanston (Ill.) News-Index, died last week.

WILLIAM LESTER RICE, formerly of the Omaha (Neb.) Daily News, died in Omaha on December 14.

TRADE AND CLASS PRESS.

F. C. Greene has succeeded J. Leo Meehan as editor of the Intermountain Catholic, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. Greene received his first experience when he issued the Badger, a small magazine on the U.S.S. Wisconsin. The paper went out of existence when the press was wrecked by breaking loose from its moorings in a rough sea.

Abandoning the sea in 1910, Mr. Greene went to work on the Boise (Idaho) Statesman as a cub reporter. When he left the paper, in 1915, he was occupying the city editor's chair.

Since that time he has been connected with Salt Lake newspapers in various capacities and while editing the Intermountain Catholic is still retained as assistant city editor of the Salt Lake Telegram.

Frank M. White of the faculty of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture has resigned to become tractor editor of the Orange Judd Farmer of Chicago.

Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach, pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Hartford, Ct., has been elected editor of the Christian Register, a Unitarian publication of Boston.

Harley Ward of the Chicago staff of Association Men, the Y.M.C.A. publication, will leave Chicago shortly for a business connection in Denver.

The Real Estate World, published at Warren, Ohio, will be merged on January 1 with the National Real Estate Journal of Indianapolis, published by H. L. Freking. The Real Estate World was the property of George M. Smith of Warren.

FOREIGN EDITORS, PUSH THE WAR SAVING STAMPS.

Publishers of foreign language newspapers, officers of benevolent associations and clergymen attended a meeting in Philadelphia last week in the interest of the war savings stamp campaign. It is proposed to organize Pennsylvania in an effort to increase the sale of stamps among foreign-born people.

William Hertzler of Port Royal was appointed chairman of the Juniata County war savings stamp committee. S. H. Pool of Philadelphia was named chairman of the insurance division of the campaign, with the object of establishing 20,000 sales agencies.

A DAKOTA MERGER.

The Pioneer Press and the Spotlight, both published at Mott, N. D., have been consolidated. The merged publications will be known as the Pioneer Press.

THE MACHINE THAT LASTS.

Reputation

YOU buy security when you buy a Linotype—the security of an established trade name with trade reputation and trade honor to back it.

You buy membership in an organization with ample resources, experience and ability to supply your wants with promptness and accuracy.

You buy that peace of mind that comes from the ownership of a composing machine the performance of which can be relied upon under all conditions at all times.

The Linotype in itself is a stable investment. Its continued use represents economies that will pay more than compound interest.

"The Linotype Line" is a 16-page booklet that explains all Linotypes. It is sent on request.

MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE Company

NEW YORK.....Tribune Building
CHICAGO.....1100 S. Wabash Ave.
NEW ORLEANS.....649 Baronne Street
SAN FRANCISCO.....646 Sacramento Street
TORONTO.....Canadian Linotype Limited

WHAT THE FOOD AND DRUGS ACT HAS DONE.

How the Federal Food and Drugs Act has regulated the labelling of patent medicines, corrected advertising, and remedied similar evils is told in the annual report of the Department of Agriculture.

The law requires the labels of patent medicines to declare the presence of any habit-forming drug, such as opium, cocaine, or alcohol, thus preventing the innocent development of the drug habit. This provision of the law is particularly valuable in warning mothers against so-called infants' soothing syrups containing opium.

When the act went into effect, drug addiction was so prevalent that frauds in the treatment of victims were frequent and in most instances the remedy advertised so forcefully by the labels contained the very drug from which escape was desired.

In 1907, the bureau of chemistry found that thirty soft drinks contained small amounts of cocaine. Practically all of these were suppressed. The Food and Drugs Act is regarded as having been an important factor in bringing about passage of the Harrison anti-narcotic law, which more effectively controls habit-forming narcotics.

Much has been done, the report says, to control the indiscriminate use of so-called headache remedies containing dangerous, depressing drugs, and of dangerous cosmetics making claim to healing value; and to raise the quality of crude drugs through the examination of imports.

As a result of co-operative work with the Post Office Department a number of fraud orders were issued by that department preventing the use of the mails in promoting the sale of fraudulent medicines.

FOREIGN MAIL CENSORSHIP NOW IN FULL FORCE.

Censorship of foreign mails, authorized by the Trading with the Enemy Law, now is in full force under a board on which the Post Office, War and Navy Departments, the War Trade Board and the Committee on Public Information are represented.

Through branch offices at New York, the Panama Canal Zone, Porto Rico and such other places as may be necessary, the board plans to carry in the work with as little interference to legitimate correspondence as is possible.

The work of organization was begun on November 1 and at the request of the Government the news was not published at that time. The Government now has withdrawn its request for secrecy.

The board is in close co-operation with the British and French censorship. It will combine with censorship of foreign mails the present censorship of wireless and cables.

Edwin Hands, head of the committee in charge of the New York branch of the censorship board, said there was absolutely no truth in reports that domestic as well as foreign mails are being censored.

"The law gives us the right to open only foreign mails," said Mr. Sands. "Any man who opens a domestic letter renders himself liable to indictment. No domestic letter had been opened by the authorization of our committee."

GERMAN PAPER SOLD.

Hans Bemuth has sold the Sioux Falls (Ia.) Deutscher Herold, a weekly, to a corporation of which Conrad Korneman, who will be editor and manager of the paper, is president. Walter Fischer and Rev. W. Schroeder are stockholders in the corporation.

The William L. Betts Company

NEWSPAPER CONTEST SPECIALISTS

Suite 406, World Bldg., NEW YORK

The Inbad Family

our New Strip Comic by Wood Cowan, begins Dec. 31. Five and seven columns.

The International Syndicate
Established 1890. BALTIMORE, MD.

COMPLETE RECORD CARDS.

MEANS BY WHICH "WHYS" AND OTHER INFORMATION CAN BE KEPT TOGETHER.

By GERALD HERRIDER,
Circulation Manager Rhinelander
(Wis.) Daily News.

It is possible that this record card may be of use to some brother circulator or publisher who is wanting to keep close tab on the "dead ones."

While it is not the rule of a newspaper office to use both sides of a sheet this card forms a circulation stop record combining it with the subscription account.

This card furnishes a complete record. It enables the circulation man to know the "why" of the stops.
It furnishes a record that can be referred to at any time and it serves

Service Flags

FOR THE
HOME, OFFICE, CHURCH,
FACTORY, PRESS CLUBS,
SCHOOLS AND
FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.

All Sizes—Low Prices—
Immediate Delivery.

S. BLAKE WILLSDEN
39 E. Madison St., CHICAGO.

NEWSPAPER FEATURE SERVICE

"The CIRCULATION Builders"
37 West 39th Street, NEW YORK

as valuable information for the circulation man in follow up work.

When a man stops the paper he usually has his reasons. These reasons are placed in record form on this card and as here reproduced the cards are filed in alphabetical order and are gone over once each month.

Hence the prospects for renewal are closely followed with good results. For instance, if Mr. Jones goes away the card says he will return about September 1.

On September 1 Mr. Jones is seen by a representative of the paper and his renewal is secured. This record is a constant reminder and a big help in keeping tab on the most troublesome end of the circulation department, the stops.

It is possible that this idea is not original; but the writer has never learned of anything like it. If this is successfully used by any publisher or circulator, I would appreciate a letter stating results.

Here is the card:

Front.

Year	JAN	FEB.	MARCH	APRIL	MAY	JUNE
1918	5 12 19 26	2 9 16 23	2 9 16 23 30	6 13 20 27	4 11 18 25	1 8 15 22 29
1917	6 13 20 27	3 10 17 24	3 10 17 24 31	7 14 21 28	5 12 19 26	2 9 16 23 30
ROUTE NO.						Began
NAME						Stopped
DELIVERY ADDRESS						Renewed
COLLECTION ADDRESS
Year	JULY	AUG.	SEPT.	OCT.	NOV.	DEC.
1917	7 14 21 28	4 11 18 25	1 8 15 22 29	6 13 20 27	3 10 17 24	1 8 15 22 29
1918	6 13 20 27	3 10 17 24 31	7 14 21 28	5 12 19 26	2 9 16 23 30	7 14 21 28

Reverse Side.

Don't like News.....
Can't afford Leaving city
Taking other paper.....
No time to read.....

Poor service
No reason given.....
Sickness
Will subscribe again.....
Remarks

NICE WAY TO CELEBRATE.

The Charleston (Ill.) Courier, to complete its twenty-fourth year of continuous publication, has moved into a modern new building.

The Nonpareil (Neb.) Grip has been started by Gene Heath.

A "STAR" WITNESS

Thomas Costello, old time Chicago newspaper man, but more latterly a political "fixer," by his own admission, was the star witness for the state last week in the case against former Police Chief Healey and others in Chicago graft prosecutions.

The True News

FIRST

Always—Accurately

INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

10th Floor, World Bldg., NEW YORK

China Premiums ARE THE BEST!

Distinctive Service in Many Sizes.
Write for Samples.

The Limoges China Co.
SEBRING, OHIO

NEWS NOTES OF CIRCULATORS.

The Allentown (Pa.) Democrat, a daily, will sell at one instead of two cents a copy after January 1. The yearly subscription price will be $5 (within the first and second mailing zones from Allentown) and it will be delivered to the home by carrier for ten cents per week.

The Northeastern Circulation Company, Davenport, Ia., of which C. B.
Hollister is general manager, is at present conducting campaigns for the St. Louis Republic (second campaign), the Oakland (Cal.) Enquirer
(second campaign) and the Tulsa (Okla.) World.

In a recent essay contest on "War Savings" for the public school children of Wilmington, Del., the Every Evening of that city awarded three cash prizes.

Newsboys selling the Sault Ste.
Marie (Mich. and Ont.) Evening
News on December 20 kept for themselves the entire proceeds of their sales. It was their Christmas present.

The Dayton (Ohio) News won many friends among the "Buckeye Boys" at Camp Sheridan, Ala., when it published exclusively for their entertainment benefit a little Christmas edition on December 25. It was sent down to the camp and was greatly appreciated by the soldier boys.

The Chicago Examiner managed the erection of large Christmas trees for the soldiers at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

The dailies of Rock Island, Ill., have slightly increased their subscription price.

Chicago newsboys were given a royal Christmas feast in the Chicago city hall.

Chauncey F. Stout, circulation manager of the Plainfield (N. J.)
Courier-News, is back at work completely recovered from his recent illness. As a Christmas present Mr.
Stout distributed thrift stamps to his carrier boys.

The thirty carriers of the Evansville (Ind.) Courier have organized the Evansville Newsies Club. R. C.

KEEN PUBLISHERS Everywhere Are Buying Electric BulletinMachines

They have written us letters giving their opinions. They make interesting reading. We wish we could send them to you complete.
Some of the letters are in our New Illustrated Catalogue. Why not let us send you one?

National Electric Bulletin Corporation.
NEW LONDON, CONN.

PROSPERITY EDITIONS

J. A. McAVOY
National Exchange Bank Building
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Hooley, circulation manager of the Courier, is an honorary member of the club.

The Omaha Bee's circulation department doesn't propose to let its newsboys suffer because of the cold weather. The paper is distributing woolen mittens among the newsies.

NEW POST FOR BIRDSALL.

Dudley W. Birdsall, for four years a member of the editorial staff of the St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch and Pioneer Press and for the past year assistant to Raymond I. Tennant, has succeeded to the latter's position as head of the publicity work in the service department of those papers. Mr.
Tennant, who was at one time city editor, was recently commissioned lieutenant after training at Fort Snelling.

Mr. Birdsall went to St. Paul from Monmouth, Ill., where he was born some forty years ago and where he served as reporter on both of the dailies of that city for six years.
Prior to his experience at Monmouth,
he did some work on Chicago papers.
He served for several years as deputy county clerk of his home county.

THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB ELECTS KRAGFR.

Gus J. Karger of the Cincinnati Times-Star was elected president of the National Press Club of Washington on December 15.

Other officers chosen were Earl Godwin, Washington Times, vice-president; Jesse S. Cottrell, Nashville Banner, secretary; John H. Smallwood, Washington Star, treasurer, and Jay G. Hayden, Detroit News, financial secretary.

12½ Million Lines

The volume of advertisements carried by The New York Times in 1917 is 12½ million lines—a gain of a million lines over 1916, and, deducting help and situation wanted advertisements, a greater volume than any other New York newspaper.

FLORIDA IS TO BE ADVERTISED.

THE NORTH WILL LEARN OF THE ADVANTAGES OF THE PENINSULA STATE.

A practically unanimous sentiment in favor of immediately inaugurating a movement for concerted action to advertise Florida throughout the North was expressed at a meeting recently held at the chamber of commerce in Jacksonville, at which was organized a great booster body for the state of Florida.

In answer to the objection that such a campaign is not justifiable while the war is being waged, it was pointed out that any action which would have for its object bringing into the state progressive settlers for the development of the 30,000,000 idle acres of Florida could not be other than highly patriotic, and of substantial assistance to the Government's efforts to increase production.

The plan of organization provides for equitable representation between all sections of the state, for safeguarding the expenditure of all funds raised; and for a statewide organization to accomplish things for the state as a whole. Shares in the association to the value of $10 each and no expenditures to be made until a maximum of 25,000 shares have been sold should assure ample funds to carry out the plans of the organization, which will be known as the Greater Florida Association, Inc.

In the election of officers and directors, which followed the adoption of the plan of organization, the following were chosen:

G. B. Ware, president, Leesburg; F. C. Groover, first vice-president, Jacksonville; D. C. Gillette, second vice-president, Tampa; Z. C. Chambliss, treasurer, Ocala; J. P. Durler, secretary, Vilas.

Meetings of both the membership and the directors will be held in Jacksonville during the time of the State Fair in that city, when it is expected to adopt definite plans for aggressive action.

"NON-ESSENTIALS" NOT TO BE CLOSED DOWN.

The National Fuel Administration does not intend to close down a single industry non-essential to the war in order to conserve coal.

Instead Fuel Administrator Garfield will put into practice a system of reducing their activities pro rata along lines volunteered by these industries.

It is also suggested by the Fuel Administration that in times of an emergency, such as the temporary tie-up of railroad facilities, coal should be drafted wherever it is found.

ALL THEATERS MUST OBEY "LIGHTLESS" RULE.

The Fuel Administration has refused to consider a plea from the Vaudeville Managers Protective Association against enforcement of lightless nights for the variety houses on Sundays and Thursdays.

"War demands for coal are largely in excess of increased production," the Fuel Administration replies, "and it is unfair to the public to permit display advertising. We rely upon your patriotic co-operation to induce your members to comply loyally with our ruling."

NONPARTISAN ORGAN MOVES.

The Nonpartisan Leader, the official organ of the Nonpartisan League, will move from Fargo, N. D., to St. Paul, Minn., on January 1.

Our products are known for their absolute uniformity
in every particular.

TICONDEROGA SPECIAL MAGAZINE For Half Tone Work

The paper on which THE FOURTH ESTATE is now and has for many years been printed.

TICONDEROGA EGGSHELL BOOK

Unsurpassed for booklets and catalogs containing line plates and straight type matter.

Ticonderoga Pulp & Paper Co.
Mills at Ticonderoga, N. Y.
Sales Dept., 200 Fifth Ave., New York City

DISTRIBUTING DEALERS

NEW YORK CITY
Lasher & Lathrop, Inc.
Commercial Paper Co.
J. E. Linds Paper Co.
Merriam Paper Co.
Henry Lindenmeyr & Sons
Holden & Hawley

CHICAGO
J. W. Butler Paper Co.

PHILADELPHIA
D. L. Ward & Co.

BOSTON
Carter, Rice & Co.

ST. LOUIS
Mississippi Valley Paper Co.

BUFFALO
The Alling & Cory Co.

SAN FRANCISCO
Pacific Coast Paper Co.

CLEVELAND
Central Ohio Paper Co.

BALTIMORE
Smith Dixon Co.

PITTSBURG
The Alling & Cory Co.

BUFFALO
The Alling & Cory Co.

LOS ANGELES
Sierra Paper Co.

MILWAUKEE
Standard Paper Co.

CINCINNATI
The Diem & Wing Paper Co.

SEATTLE
Mutual Paper Co.

KANSAS CITY
Missouri-Interstate Paper Co.

ROCHESTER
The Alling & Cory Co.

COLUMBUS
Central Ohio Paper Co.

TOLEDO
Central Ohio Paper Co.

NEW HAVEN
Chaffield Paper Co.

SCRANTON
Megargee Bros.

SPOKANE
American Type Founders Co.

OMAHA
Carpenter Paper Co.

GRAND RAPIDS
Central Michigan Paper Co.

ALBANY
Hudson Valley Paper Co.

DALLAS
Southwestern Paper Co.

HOUSTON
Southwestern Paper Co.

TROY
Troy Paper Co.

HOLYOKE
Judd Paper Co.

DES MOINES
Carpenter Paper Co.

N.Y. PRICES MAY GO UP.

WITH ALL BUT ONE PAPER IN FAVOR, NEWSDEALERS PREPARE TO ACT.

So far neither publishers nor newsdealers in New York have taken any action on the threat made last week by the newsdealers to raise the price of newspapers to two cents daily and six cents Sunday, with or without the publishers' permission.

As told exclusively in THE FOURTH ESTATE, the dealers have asked the publishers to raise their wholesale price to $1.20 per hundred copies daily and four and a half cents a copy on Sunday, and thus allow the dealers the extra margin between that wholesale price and the two-cent and six-cent retail price.

A committee of the dealers, under the direction of President Pickering of the National Newsdealers Association, made the rounds of the newspaper offices last Friday and Saturday and talked the price matter over with the circulation and business managers, but they were told it was strictly up to the publishers.

But so far the newsdealers' threat has not been brought officially to the attention of the New York Publishers Association, and no call has been issued for a meeting to consider it, according to one of the members.

A man in close touch with the situation did tell THE FOURTH ESTATE, however, that the publishers had considered the case informally and all, except one, in the entire city had expressed themselves in favor of the proposition made by the newsdealers, but until everybody is willing to go in on the price increase, nothing will be done.

He did say, however, that the assenting publishers were hopeful of winning over the single outstanding one and raising the price by unanimous consent.

But up to the time of going to press the situation was about the same as told by THE FOURTH ESTATE last week.

Persons in close touch with the newsdealers say that the dealers will raise the price—possibly tomorrow—selling the Sunday papers at six cents. If not then, the dealers are certain to take action by January 5 or 6, if the publishers do not recognize their proposition.

In the outlying districts of the city, dealers have actually started to sell at two cents daily and six cents Sunday.

Not only in New York, but in all other cities where the prices of papers are one cent daily and five cents Sunday, the members of the National Newsdealers Association are said to be prepared to raise prices on the same basis as in New York.

The dealers say it is absolutely necessary in view of the constantly increasing business expenses and cost of living. The small margin of profit in selling newspapers at one cent and five cents is impossible to live on, they contend.

DURING THE COMING WEEK.

The New York Times will take over the Tidewater Paper Mill on January 1.

The special meeting of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, which was to have taken place in Chicago on December 14 for the consideration of the referendum and rate adjustment, will be held on January 4.

The New York news photographers will hold their annual dinner at Keens 44th Street Chop House on January 5.

THE FUTURE OF FINANCIAL ADVERTISING.

ITS FIELD ENLARGED ONE THOUSAND PER CENT BY THE LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGNS—BIG OPPORTUNITY.

By HERBERT B. MULFORD.

[Mr. Mulford is the writer of the copyrighted pamphlet "Fraudulent Financial Advertising" recently issued by the sub-committee on fraudulent advertising of the Investment Bankers Association of America (which THE FOURTH ESTATE published a short time ago by special permission). For nearly a year, in personally investigating fraudulent financial advertising, and more particularly in the last six months as assistant director of publicity of the Liberty Loan in Federal Reserve District No. 7, and as vice-chairman of Illinois publicity for the war savings stamps campaign, Mr. Mulford has done much analyzing in connection with the general subject of financial advertising, with the result that he makes this statement to THE FOURTH ESTATE: "I feel very keenly that financial advertising is as yet not understood either by publishers or by advertising agents."]

Besides his already mentioned associations, Mr. Mulford was with the banking house of Ames, Emery & Co., Chicago, and for ten years was in charge of the investment publicity of N. W. Harris & Co., and the Harris Trust & Savings Bank.—EDITOR.]

The selling campaigns for Liberty Loan bonds in the past six months have brought about a potential increase in financial advertising lineage of at least one thousand per cent.

A survey of actual lineage figures in the principal publications of the country making a specialty of financial copy would seem to contradict this statement, because in many publications in larger cities there has been a sharp falling off in business from many old financial advertisers. Indeed, some actual deficits have been prevented only by the liberal amount of paid advertising placed through the strenuous endeavors of Liberty Loan committees. Moreover, in a great many important publications any increases in the year's lineage have been due directly to this Liberty Loan copy.

It is only in the papers of the smaller cities that the increase has been actually apparent, and this increase is easily traceable solely to the copy from the Liberty Loan campaigns.

It is not, however, in the narrower and more immediate situation that the increase is seen. Rather it is of the future of financial advertising and its wonderful possibilities that the foregoing statement is justified.

Through several thousand pages of paid copy placed in the Second Liberty Loan campaign, and the large volume of publicity secured through salesmen, posters, street car cards, circularizing, public speaking, moving pictures and the news columns of the entire press of the country, there has been developed in a few months an investment patronage of stupendous proportions which forevermore is to be stimulated by financial advertising of every sort.

Before the first Liberty Loan was floated, bankers conservatively estimated the number of known bond buyers in this country at considerably less than 500,000 persons, or less than one-half of one per cent of the population.

Two campaigns have jumped this number to somewhere between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000.

Other campaigns to follow during the course of the war will undoubtedly result in placing on an average at least one bond buyer in every family in the United States.

This tremendous financial clientele belongs now to nobody but Uncle Sam.

In a good many cases the get-rich-quick fraud is camping on the trail of the Liberty Bond buyer for the purpose of trading him out of the best investment on earth and giving him in exchange certificates of some good-for-nothing promotional scheme; and in the newspapers are appearing a great many advertisements of such fraudulent promotions.

LEGITIMATE BANKERS HAVE NOT BEGUN.

For the most part the legitimate bankers of the country have not begun to campaign for any results from Liberty Bond buyers for two reasons:

First—They are too busy helping in the sale of the Liberty Loan

Bonds to tell the horde of new investors very much of their own business.

Second—They believe it an unpatriotic act to advise a Liberty Bond buyer to sell his bonds, except in case of necessity.

Therefore, for the most part, any immediate increase in financial advertising copy is likely to come from get-rich-quick swindlers.

The shrewd investment bankers, however, can be relied upon to compete strenuously for the patronage of these millions of bond buyers as soon as conditions, both business and ethical, will permit, and they know full well that the prize will go to those who pursue the most consistent and persistent course in publicity.

At once there arises the question as to what form the advertising will take and where the greater part of banking house appropriations will be spent.

In the past, the biggest financial advertisers, in the main, have used three principal media, viz., mail publicity, newspaper advertising, and advertising in periodicals, the latter comprising essentially national weeklies and monthlies, and financial publications going to investors and bankers. In a few cases street car cards have been used.

The copy placed has come from two principal sources:

One—Investment banking houses; Two—Banks of deposit and trust companies advertising general banking and trust company facilities.

Aside from the marked increase in trusteeships for soldiers going to the front, we may pass by the general banking advertising problem as one simply of gradual growth and evolution, and pay attention particularly to increases to come from new savers and new investors.

Little has been said about the new class of savers developing in the country as a result of the Government campaign for the sale of war savings stamps and thrift stamps for this is only just getting under way this month.

The campaign is so young, and its character is so vastly different from that of the Liberty Loan campaigns, that it is almost impossible to forecast the nearby results to accrue therefrom. However, when it is borne in mind that Mr. Vanderlip, the head of the war savings activities, has asked that the committee raise $2,000,000,000 by means of persistent campaign in the several states throughout the entire year, it can readily be seen that there was never such a program to inculcate thrift planned before in the history of the world.

By means of the small twenty-five cent stamps and the larger stamps selling for $4 and a few cents, types of people heretofore utterly careless of the spending of odd pennies are to be led into ways of thrift literally by the millions.

It is hoped that the war will end soon enough to make it unnecessary to sell stamps after next year. It is almost as sure as fate that savings banks immediately after the war will develop for themselves machinery similar to the war savings plan, and will actively compete by advertising for the large volume of business stimulated by the new thrift habits of the people.

The type of advertising, as nearly as can be assumed at this time, will probably be considerable newspaper and street car copy, mail publicity, and a very little increase in advertising in national publications for mail order business.

By far the greater amount of new financial advertising will come from the investment houses, for several very good reasons.

CONDITIONS OF THE PAST.

Heretofore, these houses, going along the line of least resistance, have sought out the larger centers of population for their activities, because in these larger centers money accumulates more rapidly in the aggregate, and salesmen, with less expenses than when traveling on the road, can reach a larger number of prospects for direct personal appeal than by going to smaller places.

This has also been true of whole sections of the country where interest rates have been high and where conservative investments yielding from four to six per cent could not compete with bank rates.

Therefore we have seen little or no attempt at selling in the Northwest, Southwest and Southeast, or in what might be termed the newer sections of the country.

The general situation is emphasized by the utter futility in times past of trying to sell to farmers, as a class, on a profitable basis.

Therefore we have seen not only active selling campaigns, but advertising campaigns, especially in the newspapers, carried on only in the larger cities of the country.

Even cities like Salt Lake City, Omaha, Houston, Chattanooga, Charleston, etc., have seen only a relatively small amount of the more representative investment copy. This has all been due to the fact that the net profit on sales of strictly high class investments has not been much more than one per cent, and the investment merchant has not been able to develop a large enough volume in small transactions by mail order to justify advertising vigorously to get the smaller business.

What has taken place in the past ten years in the evolution of the investment business in the more prosperous and larger cities may reasonably be duplicated in smaller communities in the next decade.

What has happened is that as wealth increased investors were educated by salesmen and the investment business developed rapidly in such progressive cities of the Central and Western states, as Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles, etc.

Many branch offices of established Eastern houses and entirely new houses have sprung up to compete vigorously for the increasing business, and advertising has followed quickly in the wake of this development.

It is quite reasonable to assume

Over 55,000 THE TOLEDO BLADE

A medium of intensive selling power—dominant in its field.

Over 100,000 THE DETROIT JOURNAL

Assuming an ever-increasing influence in a wonderful manufacturing city.

Over 50,000 The Newark Star-Eagle

Forging ahead rapidly—and rooting itself solidly.

PAUL BLOCK, Inc.

Managers of National Advertising
New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit

H. W. KASTOR & SONS ADVERTISING CO.

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS
An organization of merchandising men highly specialized in the solution of advertising problems.

G. LOGAN PAYNE CO.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES
Fifth Avenue Building, NEW YORK
750 Marquette Building, CHICAGO
40 Broomfield St., BOSTON
Krege Building, DETROIT

VERREE & CONKLIN

PUBLISHERS' REPRESENTATIVES
225 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
11 Lafayette Boulevard, DETROIT
28 E. Jackson Boulevard, CHICAGO

JOHN BUDD CO.

Representing Newspapers of
Burrell Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Bldg., CHICAGO
Chemical Bldg., ST. LOUIS

that after the war many branch offices will be opened in cities of a size heretofore too small to justify such action. Moreover, there will be many more salesmen traveling on the road. Activities of both the new offices and the salesmen will require backing up by national advertising to build up good will, a large volume of correspondence for the closer personal contact, and a considerable amount of space not only in the papers of large circulation in the cities, but in the small communities throughout the country.

For several years there has been an increasingly active movement among some banking houses to conduct a profitable mail-order business in investments of small denominations. The problem involved has been one difficult of solution, because it was a long, up-hill road to educate people in the mass to know what securities meant.

Now, fortunately, the mass of the population of the country is being taught, through patriotism and the clipping of coupons for the first time, this month, to know what the best type of security is like. What was heretofore apathy on the part of the potential investor is now becoming a definite appetite for investments, which will be controlled hereafter by the best advertising bankers.

PROFESSIONAL COMMERCIAL AD MEN.
A word should be said regarding the actual transition of professional commercial advertising men, untrained in financial copy, into specialists who are beginning to know now at first hand something of the difficulties heretofore confronting the banker and his rather peculiar type of copy.

Blunders have been made in the Liberty Loan campaigns which would have been suicidal for any individual banking house in the pursuit of ordinary business. These blunders, however, have been covered up largely by the patriotic atmosphere surrounding the campaigns.

For instance, many statements, both by word of mouth of the untrained salesmen and by advertising matter, implied that Liberty Bonds were just as good as money; therefore they were like money, therefore they were money—a misrepresentation which, though minor to the layman, would have been serious to the banker, especially in view of the fluctuation in the market price of the bonds.

Such instances can be multiplied by the dozen. As more and more copy is prepared on subsequent Liberty Loan campaigns, both by committees and by professional advertising men, all hands will learn how to avoid impractical tactics, and as a result of experience, study and analysis, something more nearly approximating scientific processes and profitable cost bases will develop to the good of all concerned.

WHAT NEWSPAPERS MUST DO.

Finally, publishers of all types throughout the country are now learning the lesson of co-operation with the advertiser, which was so profitable with certain national periodicals and the press of the larger cities prior to the new evolution in financial advertising.

Considering the large number of publications throughout the country, only an infinitesimal number have had enough readers interested in investments to consider it worth while to supply them regularly with educational matter and comment on investments.

Publishers who have conducted, in magazines, departments of information on financial topics in the past have profited from financial advertising; metropolitan papers that have

NEW ENGLAND BUREAU STAFF OF THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
Left to Right—Richard L. Howe, Robert Howe, Charles Mooney, M. J. Reidy, H. A. Smith, J. J. McGarty.

conducted good financial pages have been the recipients of the large investment advertising copy of the principal bankers of the country.

With tens of millions of newspaper readers now holding Government bonds, it is but logical that there will be a demand upon the publishers of the smaller publications throughout the country for informative articles on investments in general.

Unless all signs fail, those publishers who are most prompt to meet this demand will be the ones to profit from the potential increase of 1,000 per cent in financial lineage, which is to be distributed immediately after the war.

AN APPEAL FOR PORTO RICAN EDITOR.

Judge Peter J. Hamilton, Federal district judge, has granted an appeal in the case of Vincente Balbas, the San Juan (P. R.) editor who was found guilty of espionage and violation of the Trading with the Enemy Act recently. The defendant's bail was fixed at $15,000.

Balbas was the editor of Revista de Las Antillas, and was convicted of four out of five charges made in connection with articles appearing in his newspaper. He was sentenced on December 19 to eight years' imprisonment and a fine of $4,000.

EDITORS OF NEWSPAPERS IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES LOYAL.

Foreign language editors throughout this country have flocked to the support of the National Security League in its campaign of "Patriotism through education." Not only has widespread assurance of support been obtained, but scores of active paid memberships in the league have been enrolled.

RANKIN'S REPORT HELD UP.

The final report of the National Advertising Advisory Board on the second Liberty Loan campaign has been held up temporarily by lack of complete figures from some of the cities. William H. Rankin of Chicago, chairman of the board, expects to have the report in readiness in a short time.

HOME OF MANY NEWSPAPERS TORN DOWN.

The Austin (Tex.) Gazette Building, home of the Austin (Tex.) Statesman and three preceding publications, has been torn down. It was in this building that O. Henry conducted his newspaper, Rolling Stones.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS IN THE BOSTON OFFICE OF I.N.S.

The steady growth of the New England business of the International News Service has resulted in the opening of an all-night wire at Boston and the removal of the office from 80 Summer street to larger and more comfortable quarters on the fifth floor of the Traveler Building, at 70 Summer street. There the New England bureau has facilities for the expansion which is expected to follow the installation of its night service.

General Manager Fred J. Wilson and News Manager Barry Faris made a recent visit to Boston and reviewed the entire situation in regard to securing additional facilities for caring for the New England business of the service. It was found that the New England bureau had outgrown its quarters. Within two days the American Bell Telephone Company and the New England Telephone Company installed in the new quarters a five-way, trunk line Morse telegraph equipment and a complete special telephone service to care for the large telephone "pony" business out of the New England bureau.

The New England Bureau, which collects and distributes news for all the New England states except Connecticut, where the International News Service has a separate state bureau at New Haven, is distinctively a New England institution. Its policy has been to give the New England publisher a generous supply of news of his own territory—New England.

The bureau is in charge of Herbert A. Smith, who for fifteen years has been connected with New England journalism. Born at Dublin, N. H., Mr. Smith went to Connecticut as a boy and after graduation from the Norwich (Ct.) Free Academy began newspaper work on the Norwich Record. After a year in the City News in New York he went to the Worcester Telegram staff, remaining there seven years, the last two years as fire and police reporter. He went to the Boston Herald and for two years covered ship news, later working as rewrite and desk man on the Herald.

After that Mr. Smith joined the rewrite staff of the Boston American and five years ago took charge of the New England Bureau of the International News Service. At that time there was one New England client outside of the Boston American. In five years the I.N.S.

has gained so that now it is furnishing service to over a score of the best afternoon papers in New England.

Richard L. Howe is Mr. Smith's assistant in the bureau. He served his newspaper apprenticeship on the Boston American staff. His brother, Robert Howe, looks after the carbon copy clients.

The operators in the New England Bureau are J. J. McGarty, Michael J. Reidy and George Simmons, recently of the Cleveland (Ohio) I.N.S. bureau.

AD MEN'S GOVERNMENT-AID PLANS BEING FORMED.

The new advertising division of the Committee on Public Information has announced no new plans, further than those explained in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week. An operating program is now being worked out and will be ready shortly after the first of 1918.

As far as the American Newspaper Publishers Association's co-operation is concerned, Fleming Newbold of the Washington Star, chairman of the advertising bureau committee, told THE FOURTH ESTATE yesterday, probably no representative will be appointed to the advertising division until the directors of the A.N.P.A. hold a meeting on January 4.

RUSSIAN WEEKLY IN CHICAGO.

The Russian Post Publishing Company of Chicago has just been incorporated with a capital of $20,000.

The incorporators are Nathan Nemerowski, Fred Nemerowski, Anatoly Pokatiloff and Homer J. Logue. The company will publish the Russian Post, a weekly.

POLE INTERNED FOR WAR.

Stanley Kempensky, of the circulation department of Dziennik Ludowy, a Chicago Polish daily, has been arrested on a Presidential warrant charging him with seditious utterances and will be interned for the duration of the war.

SPECIAL AGENCY CHANGE.

Columbus (Ohio) State Journal (national representation)—from J. P. McKinney to Story, Brooks & Finley, New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

The New Age, published at Augusta, Me., for more than fifty years, has been sold to the Waterville Sentinel Publishing Company, which will continue its publication.

REALLY NATIONAL A.N.P.A IS NEEDED.

IT SHOULD INCLUDE EVERY NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER, AND STATE DIVISIONS TO GET BEST RESULTS.

By HOPEWELL L. ROGERS,

President of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

In times such as these it is often hard to analyze business conditions except as they are affected by the war, but we are still subject to the ordinary and regular forms of competition, both those in our own line of business and those in other lines of business that are in competition with us.

The newspaper business is one that has always been unusually affected by what is justly termed unfair competition.

Selling goods for a reasonable profit is the general basis accepted for continuous business.

Most businesses at some time or other get to the point where in order to develop, or because they are unable to keep down the cost of production to a proper point, they must for a time be conducted at a loss; but in the main a business must adopt a policy which will in the long run pay its own way.

It is in such times as these that business men get away from the ordinary methods and channels of working and express their ingenuity by developing new ideas and new methods to meet present emergencies.

One manufacturer will add the increased cost of his product to the buyer of one or another of his services or lines of goods, whereas another will endeavor to get his return in a different manner.

Still other manufacturers will endeavor to continue to sell their goods at the same price by reducing the quantity or quality of service given.

Most newspapers in the last few years have had to overcome an increased cost of production and I believe a large majority of them have endeavored to do it by dividing the increase between the advertiser and the reader, and by introducing economies into manufacture.

The papers in several of the large cities, however, have endeavored to get through the present period by putting the cost entirely upon the advertiser and through great economies in their own cost of manufacture, leaving subscription prices of their papers unchanged.

What the natural result of this increased cost of production will be in the long run is hard to predict, but I notice that one paper already has taken the step back from the two-cent to the one-cent price to the reader.

No matter what policy a paper has adopted, however, we must all necessarily introduce a large number of economies in our business if we are to continue.

It is perfectly proper to pass on to the public a legitimate increased cost, but at a certain point the public begins to curtail its purchases, and in order to keep up the sales it is necessary to know just how much the public is willing to pay for an article and not to exceed this limit, unless we are prepared to conduct our business with few sales at the higher price.

As the American has always been a wasteful creature, we will probably never be able to figure the great benefit in economy that this increased cost has brought to the country.

In our effort to get efficiency into our business we find that a certain amount of co-operation is most advantageous if not absolutely necessary.

It is the spirit of the day in which we live.

One of the difficulties in the attempt for co-operation is the development of so many organizations for the purpose of co-operation and this is a most serious difficulty in the work of the Government today.

One finds himself asked to aid in the support of a number of organizations which are covering the same general situation and the work of which would probably be better handled by one general organization.

No large organization is run perfectly satisfactorily to all of its members but if the newspapers of the country are to co-operate in their work, I believe we should have as many as possible in one organization, or at least as many together as are working towards the same end.

There are many papers which, of course, desire to work along their own lines and are indifferent to the interests of their neighbors.

I recognize the difficulty of drawing together the small publisher, say in New York State, and the publisher from the small town in the northern part of Texas, but I see no reason why effort which is of common benefit to both such publishers should not be brought together, either directly or indirectly, through one general organization.

It is for this reason that I have always advocated the organization of the American Newspaper Publishers Association along state and divisional lines.

I believe that every publisher in his every state should be a member of the A. N. P. A. and that the publishers in each state should be organized as a branch of the national association.

By so doing we could bring together a great deal of effort that is now diversified and much duplicated.

STANDARD RATE CARDS AND CONTRACTS.

In the same way I believe that the work of the Audit Bureau of Circulations is entitled to the support of the newspapers of the country.

If we can put the facts in relation to our business before the buyer in a uniform and an intelligent manner, the papers of the country will benefit very materially.

For some years a number of the members of the A. N. P. A. have without success advocated a uniform rate card until, about a year ago, the work was taken up by an outsider.

It may be interesting for you to know, that although John F. Barbour of 538 South Clark street, Chicago, without cost to the publishers, is furnishing copies of these rate cards to advertising agents in standard form, there are many newspapers that have failed to send him copies of their rate cards and many more to whom he has returned his standard rate sheets for their O. K. have not returned them to him.

I believe this man is rendering a real service to the newspapers and that he is entitled to their support.

We are approaching the time when the buyer of advertising space will not be justified in going to the extra trouble and expense of finding out the circulation or the advertising rate of a publication which refuses to put such information in a standard form and present it to him with as little inconvenience as possible.

Publishers may be familiar with the fact that many if not most of the fire insurance companies of the country write their policies on Standard Form of Contract and I believe that you can readily see the advantage to newspapers of having such a uniformity in their own advertising contract forms in order to avoid difficulty in the collection of accounts or even the refusal on the part of the advertiser to sign a contract.

It is very difficult to cover all the conditions which should be expressed in a contract or order for advertising, and if an individual endeavors to put in his contract a large number of perfectly reasonable conditions with the idea that the advertiser will read them he cannot but find that such an advertiser very naturally hesitates to take the trouble in many cases to go through the form of contract as it is presented to him.

If, however, the newspapers had a standard form for covering these conditions and they were common to all newspapers, the advertiser would not only be willing but probably would demand that contracts submitted to him should agree in the main with such standard form with which he has become familiar.

It is easy to see that I am a great believer in co-operation and it does not apply only to those conditions I have just spoken of, but to such matters as free publicity, the soliciting of advertising by the bureau of advertising of the A. N. P. A. and to the question of standardization in the making of union labor contracts.

It seems to be a practice of many publishers in the country, whether members of the A. N. P. A. or not, to make their union labor contracts without reference to those existing in other localities or to the standard recognized and presented by either the A. N. P. A. or by the international officers of the union.

An international arbitration board has been meeting for years and deciding many cases where it had to interpret clauses as they existed in various contracts. In spite of this fact publishers continue to put into their contracts clauses which both sides must know do nothing but lead to controversy.

With the information we have on hand there is no reason why both sides should not make every effort to express their conclusions in the more or less standard form.

We have made a special endeavor in Chicago to get uniformity in our contracts and we have been fairly successful, although we find the whole plan is very much dislocated when we have to go to arbitration—particularly where we get on the arbitration board an outsider who believes he understands how to interpret the proposition without considering the views of either party to the contract.

In lack of co-operation again we probably have only ourselves to blame for not keeping better posted up to the last year or two on the print paper conditions in the period of high prices through which we have been and are even now passing, but the gathering of this information can only be done at great expense and where a line of business is divided into such small units as is ours, those in charge of many of the units often do not see the necessity of spending money in co-operative work until it is absolutely essential to bring conditions back more nearly to normal.

Much of the extra expense could be eliminated and the work more economically done, had the gathering of the information been carried on in normal times, but many members of the A. N. P. A. join organizations formed for doing work which can and should be done by the A. N. P. A. rather than to arrange to have it do the work for itself.

In order that affairs may be conducted efficiently we should have the most efficient unit necessary to do the work.

Whatever organizations are necessary to do it should get the support of all and publishers should not allow time or your money to be diverted promiscuously, thereby lessening the efficiency of such an organization and wasting a portion of investment.

Apparently we are about to have much of the work in reference to print paper, done in the most economical way to the newspapers—that is through the Federal Trade Commission.

The reports which it is issuing should do more than any other one thing to show the condition and trend of the print paper market.

From these reports we should be able to judge whether the increase in the production is keeping pace with the increase in consumption and if it is not, it is for the publisher to see that either the production is increased, the consumption decreased or to prepare to pay high prices.

I commend to consideration and to support the print paper committee of the A. N. P. A.

Publishers may not entirely agree in every detail with its conduct of the business, but no one can justifiably say that it has not in the main been of very material benefit to our business and to most of us individually.

Undoubtedly the most important question before newspapers of today other than the war itself is the question of legislation.

UNFAIR TAXES ON NEWSPAPERS.

We are affected very materially by the new tax laws. In a general way they are not well drawn and could not be under the arrangement or manner in which the work was done.

After attempting for years to have the laws on import duties scientifically made, we jumped into the war tax proposition in the obsolete method of letting committees from the two houses of Congress work out their individual plans and then get together and agree on a compromise plan, which bears little resemblance to either of the others—neither of which was very satisfactory.

In a general way the war taxes do not take into consideration the conditions as they exist, and the House especially seems to have endeavored to take advantage of this opportunity to attempt to punish the reputable business which has been run in a reasonable and conservative way for many years, overlooking the fact that our laws have always recognized that an innocent holder of paper is entitled to consideration where the paper he holds has a supposed face value.

Thousands of people in the last would be taxed in a reasonable or at least a fair manner and on the same general basis as other corporations. The holders of such stock are now confronted with a tax which penalizes them because the originators of the concern into which they have bought did not use—in the eyes of these legislators—fair methods in their organization.

These original organizers, however, have unloaded their stock on the innocent public and the innocent public is to pay the penalty.

The newspapers of the country in the main are among these conservative corporations or organizations which are to be particularly hard hit owing to the insistence on the part of the House on a tax exemption on the earnings of a corporation of nine per cent.

We have no objections to paying any or all of our earnings towards the support of the country if it is necessary, but a successful corporation conservatively run should not be penalized at the expense of a fly-by-night, over-capitalized organization which in the past ten years has reorganized and juggled its figures to such an extent that it would be impossible to do anything, but base the value of its capital stock on the outrageous figures which many of them show on their books.

In addition to the above, the law endeavors to assess a tax up to a three or four hundred per cent increase on second class postage, which at the same time changes the policy adopted by the Government years ago of favoring the man in an isolated community so that he should not be punished because he was willing to assist in the development of the country by moving away from the large centers of population.

Our legislators in some cases seem to forget that the consumer pays the tax in the long run if it is to be paid at all.

In the case of our postal rates it is a question whether the Government will receive the material increase it anticipates, as this enormous increase will certainly force the discontinuance of much of the buying of newspapers and magazines by mail.

There is no reason why sending a package by post should be taxed any more than if the same package were sent by express. If the Post Office Department desires to change the rules for postal matter, let it take up the question on a business-like basis. Let the tax be put on as a tax and not as an increase in postage, and let packages be taxed on the same basis as if they were sent by express.

Two of the great lessons which the American people will learn as a result of this world war are the lesson of saving and conservation and the lesson of efficiency.

These should have been learned years ago as they were in Europe, for the realization of stopping waste comes with great distress to a people who for so long a time have been accustomed to live with no thought of the morrow.

I trust that some of my suggestions may be the means of bringing about greater results to the newspaper business at a lower cost.

There are many whose mission in the newspaper world is the directing of the general policies of newspapers in a larger sense than simply the operation of their business facilities, and I wish to say something of what I believe the position of a newspaper should be as related to its attitude towards public questions.

The time has gone by when the American people can be led blindly by any man or organization of men. They are on the average thinking more than in the past, and the successful newspaper is the one which, by first securing the confidence of its readers by independence of thought

Any Length of Line in Any Size of Face without Change of Mold

THAT'S the crux of Ludlow simplicity; the machine that sets all display composition up to 48-point.

Users of movable type-caster type, with its complications of machine adjustment, tons of storage, and skilled labor to run it, will appreciate the simple construction, the ease of operation, and speed of the Ludlow.

The Ludlow Typograph

And the cost of the finished product ready for press, foundry or stereotype, is the lowest by a wide margin of any system of Non-Distribution.

A postal will bring convincing descriptive literature.

Selling Agents

MERGENTHALER LINO TYPE CO.

Tribune Building, NEW YORK
CHICAGO NEW ORLEANS
SAN FRANCISCO TORONTO

and action, guides them by an appeal to their reason and logic.

AMERICANISM MUST BE NEWSPAPERS' POLICY.

Purely political partisanship on the part of a newspaper has no place in our modern national life.

Purely political questions are of minor importance and differences between the older or the present greater political parties, in so far as the tariff, national and state rights, conservation of natural resources, protection of the weak and unfortunate and similar propositions are being gradually wined out.

The really great question of the present time is what is American and what is not.

To deal patriotically and effectually with those who, within and without our country, by open announcement or deceiving camouflage, are attempting to tear down that which has been built up by the wisdom and sacrifice of our fathers.

The newspaper must meet every question purely on its merits and decide it with absolute independence to secure the confidence and support of its readers.

In my opinion one of the most baneful influences in our American life today, which should be fought by the American newspapers at every turn, is the advance of the forces of so-called but misnamed Socialism. (I do not believe the Anarchists who are today marching under this banner are Socialists.)

In a broad way every good man is a socialist in so far as he believes in social justice and fairness to all and the prevention of the securing of excessive wealth by the few at the cost of suffering by the many, but any man or set of men who attacks our American institutions and seeks to impair the good order of society and in particular to hinder the United States and its Government in pressing forward to a conclusive victory in the present war should be the object of the most effective attack by every newspaper.

In the same class is that small proportion of those foreigners who, having come to our shores to escape tyranny abroad are attempting to defend the form of government under which they suffered in the past and to advocate the superiority of Prussianism over Americanism.

These must be taught by public opinion and public measures and by the American newspaper that American ideals are here to stay and that our country's door is open only to those who are willing to subscribe to them.

Let us, as newspaper men, renew our allegiance to our country in a greater way than ever before.

Let us strive together to practice economy and co-operation in our business, to make those sacrifices which are necessary for our country's good and let us above all things unite in standing for true Americanism and the ideals which have made our country what it is today.

LONDON MAIL HAS A PARIS EDITION FOR AMERICANS.

The London Daily Mail has begun the publication of an American edition from the offices of its Paris edition. The new edition will be for Americans in France and will carry special cables and a page of mail news.

MEETING OF OHIO DAILIES.

The Associated Dailies of Ohio will hold their mid-Winter meeting at the Neil House, Columbus, on January 29-30.

A BETTER WATER BILL.

ADMINISTRATION WANTS TO PLACE JURISDICTION IN JOINT COMMISSION.

Following the passage of the Shields water power release bill in the Senate, a Congressional committee representing the Departments of Agriculture, Interior and War has begun to draft an Administration Water Power Bill, which will probably be introduced soon after Congress enters into its 1918 sessions.

The new bill is being designed to embrace the various measures supported by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and THE FOURTH ESTATE and now before the House and the Senate, with an additional provision that water powers are to be regulated by a commission, rather than by any individual Government department.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association is urging that all publishers get solidly behind this new water power bill.

The advantages of water power for paper making and for meeting many other national needs were pointed out by THE FOURTH ESTATE last week in describing the Shields Bill, which measure, however, proposes to place jurisdiction over water power in the hands of the Secretary of War.

RANKIN, ON N. Y. LIBERTY LOAN ADVERTISING.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: The New York Times of December 8 quoted the writer in a statement the last paragraph of which does New York men and New York advertising, and the very unusual advertising done by New York for the Liberty Loan, an injustice.

I am positive that I have never said to anyone that "New York's big expenditure was due to a lack of a controlling head to supervise the placing of advertising copy."

The statement is entirely unfair to Guy Emerson, Collin Armstrong and W. T. Mullally, who had direct charge of the writing and the placing of the advertising copy.

These men, I believe, did as much as any other three men in the United States to further the interests of the Liberty Loan, and the advertising copy used by them in the New York newspapers has been universally endorsed as the very highest grade of advertising copy.

WILLIAM H. RANKIN.
President the William H. Rankin Company.

An exhibition of original drawings by Alfred Russell of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat is being held at the Y.M.C.A. in St. Louis.

POLLARD-ALLING MFG. COMPANY

System and Machinery for
ADDRESSING NEWSPAPERS
and PERIODICALS
to SUBSCRIBERS

From Thin Aluminum Plates.

Saves considerable money in operating costs and facilitates obtaining renewals at practically no cost for the addressing.

Write for particulars.
812-816 East 2nd St. NEW YORK

THE FOURTH ESTATE

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS AND INVESTORS IN ADVERTISING.

Entered as second class matter in the New York Post Office, March 29, 1894. Issued every Saturday by THE FOURTH ESTATE Publishing Company.
Ernest F. Birmingham, President and Treasurer, Fremont W. Spicer, Vice-President and Secretary, 222 West 59th Street, New York City.

Subscription: TWO DOLLARS a year. Postage free in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines and Mexico. Postage extra to Canada, $5c.; to other countries in Postal Union, $1.04. Subscribers should have their copies of THE FOURTH ESTATE addressed to their homes, so as to avoid chance of loss in the mass of exchanges (second and third class matter) which goes to all offices. Single copies, TEN CENTS (except Special Editions, 25 cents.) Back Numbers—Less than 8 months old, 25 cents; more than 8 months old, $1 each.

OFFICES AND PRINTING HOUSE
Broadway and 59th Street
222 West 59th St. NEW YORK
Columbus Circle.
Telephones, 7740, 7741, 7742 Columbus

ERNEST F. BIRMINGHAM, Publisher

No. 1244. FOR THE WEEK ENDING DECEMBER 29, 1917

ARE PUBLISHERS PREPARED FOR COST INQUIRY?

How many publishers realize the importance, to their own interests, of the news print cost finding hearings that will begin before the Federal Trade Commission in Washington on January 7?

Practically the entire paper making interests of this country will be present at these hearings, represented by experts in every department of the business.

The testimony of these experts will become the records, upon which the Federal Trade Commission will base its action in fixing the price of news print paper after April 1, for the balance of 1918, and for the continuance of the war and three months thereafter, subject only to the review of the Federal Courts.

In view of the fact that the Federal Trade Commission's findings will be subject to such possible court review, it is obvious that they must be based upon the evidence on record taken during these hearings.

Necessarily the evidence of the manufacturers will be to a greater or lesser extent partisan.

Can publishers therefore afford to let it stand unchallenged?

Are publishers prepared to produce, at the hearings, expert evidence covering every phase of the news print industry from the purchase of the timber lands to the delivery of the paper to the publishers?

Have they available, and will they have at hand, a corps of experts who can qualify, each one in his special field, to testify at these hearings, which are in the nature of a trial before a court?

It is possible that publishers may feel the Federal Trade Commission is to, and will, look after their interests.

Let us hope that it will do so.

But is it fair to expect that the Federal Trade Commission will be equipped with experts on timber land values in the United States and in Canada, on stumpage values, the proper charge for adolescence, the proper charge for overhead and management, the proper ratio selling expense shall bear to selling price, the unit investment per ton of paper made per day and on the hundred and one different phases of activity in this problem?

All of these are to be submitted in this testimony and resolved into dol-

The advertising forms close on Thursday. Advertisements should be received as early in the week as possible to insure proper classification.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Transient, 50 cents a line; agate measure (14 lines to the inch; 140 lines to the column; 560 lines to the page).

One page, $250; Front page, $400.

Discounts for consecutive insertions: One month, 10 per cent; two months, 20 per cent; three months, 30 per cent; six months, 40 per cent; one year, 50 per cent. Discounts based upon advance payment.

Small advertisements under classified headings, such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line net.

Advertisements in special position (not less than 25 lines in depth of column) double price.

lars and cents as a basis on which the Federal Trade Commission will fix the selling price.

It is fair to assume that every publisher in the country knows this minute that the Federal Trade Commission is not so equipped with a corps of experts experienced and trained to either suggest the line of examination or equipped to give testimony in rebuttal.

The paper manufacturers in their own interests will appear at these hearings, with their experts, to cover the entire field of their activities and it is fair to assume that they cannot not be expected to submit in evidence minimum figures.

If the publishers of this country do not, in their own interest equip themselves with trained and experienced experts, through whom they will write into the records of these hearings the facts upon which they have the hope that the Federal Trade Commission will be able to fix a proper price, (one, which in the light of the testimony submitted, will stand the test of the Federal Courts) they will have only themselves to blame if the hearings result in the price being set at a figure they will consider too high.

There is no doubt but that the Federal Trade Commission will, so far as it is able in the light of the testimony submitted, protect the newspaper publishers. But, inasmuch as these hearings are of a quasi judicial nature and subject to review by the Federal Courts, it is not fair to expect that the commission's attitude can be wholly partisan.

To what extent the publishers have taken steps to take care of their own interests, THE FOURTH ESTATE does not know, but it is to be hoped that no expense nor effort has been spared to cover the situation.

How many publishers realize that an increase of ten cents per hundred pounds in the price of news print is practically equivalent to $3,000,000 in increased cost to the newspaper publishing interests in this country?

To be forewarned is to be forearmed.

LOSING VALUABLE TIME ON "SECOND CLASS."

Every minute that publishers' factions stand apart, refusing to get together and agree on a basis of repeal or revision of the present discriminatory second class postal increases provided by the War Revenue Bill, they are losing valuable time, as can be realized from the present attitude of leading Congressmen—that they will make no new revenue legislation or changes probably until next June.

Just at present there are two factions among the daily newspaper publishers opposing one another on what should be done.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association as an organization stands for no increase whatever in second class postage, on the ground that second class publications pay their way in the mails and will pay all business war taxes—therefore increased postal rates are discriminatory and unfair.

The Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, many of whose members also belong to the A.N.P.A., disagrees with the A.N.P.A. organization policy.

It and other organizations of publishers of limited circulation newspapers want second class rates fixed on the basis of zones as follows:

First zone, fifty miles, 1½ cents per pound.

Second and third zones, 150 to 300 miles, two cents per pound.

Fourth and fifth zones, 300 to 1,000 miles, three cents per pound.

Sixth zone, 1,400 miles, four cents per pound.

Seventh zone 1,800 miles, five cents per pound.

Eighth zone, all above 1,800 miles, six cents per pound.

They also want these rates to apply only to newspapers—barring magazines and all other classes of publications from the classification.

Both of these factions refuse to get together on any compromise that would be mutually satisfactory.

Recently Senator Reed Smoot told THE FOURTH ESTATE that nothing can be done to revise or repeal the War Revenue Bill's postal increase, which takes effect on July 1, 1918, until the publishers "get together and agree on an increase they feel they can stand," and submit it to Congress. He expressed the belief that there is no hope for eliminating the increase altogether.

So far nothing has been done by the publishers and they now face the situation of Congress deciding to let things stand as they are until it is too late to attempt to remedy conditions.

Why not realize the situation fully and "get together" on the best possible common ground?

WHAT DOES THE YEAR 1918 MEAN TO YOU?

The passing into each new year of one's life brings with it very serious thoughts—with resultant many new resolutions, by which we hope to personally profit.

But the year 1918 comes unparalleled in the lives of most newspaper and advertising folks of today. It means more than resolutions by which each one of us may profit personally.

This new year brings a call to each American to enter the service of our nation, rather than to our private interests.

Nineteen-eighteen marks the real beginning of the United States' operations in the war, which we entered in behalf of humanity's rights some eight months ago. What we have done so far is to make preparations for a flying start when the proper time came. The year 1918 is that awaited time for action.

How quickly we win this war depends on what help each individual American is willing to give his country. No matter how big or how small this item of help is, it will all blend together and into that traditional American spirit, which knows no halt when it sets its mind on accomplishing an object.

That object is today before each one of us, and it is up to everyone to put all we have into generating the power that is going to beat the Kaiser, and bring back Peace to the world and humanity.

The newspaper and the advertising fields form a most powerful element in the nation's arms of war, and they have rendered most valuable aid to the country so far.

But the new year will call for even more from them—and the world can rest assured that we are not going to be found wanting.

It is not to be expected that 1918 will be a year of money-making, but the duty of every newspaper and advertising man and woman in this country, who have not been called to the firing line, will be to do all in their power to work up the volume of business to the very highest pitch we have ever known.

The Government's motive power—money—must be forthcoming in amounts we have never even dreamed of. Business is going to be relied upon to furnish the sinews of war.

If business falls down it will decrease the fighting power of the nation.

The greatest stimulator of business is advertising, and the newspaper and advertising folks who know the power of advertising must work in 1918 as they have never worked before to use advertising, and teach others to do it, to increase the volume of business to meet the Government needs.

THE FOURTH ESTATE has printed so much on the necessity of war time advertising of late, that it seems unnecessary to go into the subject again. But we do want to impress on our readers, who have so much to do with American advertising, that it is not only the present we must look to, but the future also.

The future world competition for business is indeed something that needs quite as much attention, in the interests of our country, as the terrible reality of today.

We must prepare for that also.

These are the thoughts that THE FOURTH ESTATE commends to the serious consideration of its readers, as it today wishes them all a very happy new year.

HELP THE RED CROSS.

In the drive of the American Red Cross for 10,000,000 members by Christmas, the newspapers co-operated most heartily, and the Red Cross executives attribute to their support a big measure of the huge success the campaign proved to be.

The Red Cross propaganda has a semi-official status. It raises its revenues largely by an organized public appeal.

The co-operation of the press must be relied on greatly for support.

A battery of expert makers and marketers of publicity is located in an appropriate Washington home of the organization. These aim to keep the public informed and interested.

What the Red Cross is doing in Europe, what it needs from the American public, how the individual can help with his time and his contributions, these matters are set before the public in expert form through the newspapers that lend their aid.

No industrial enterprise was ever better organized, better promoted, better advertised, better nursed, in public opinion, than is the American Red Cross. For the most efficient experts have either volunteered their services or have been hired to this end.

If the war lasts this will by no means be the last call by the Red Cross for aid, and newspapers can be counted on to render aid in the future as they have in the past.

The Red Cross works for a most worthy cause, as the Philadelphia Inquirer remarks:

"Every dollar given voluntarily for the war means that much less in taxes, and enables the Government to put its own funds in things that are vitally needed. We must lend our moral and financial support, to every movement which will help to shorten and to win the war. The Red Cross is one of the best of these movements."

While the newspapers have indeed done praiseworthy work in the past for the Red Cross, perhaps some of them can do a little more in the future.

The Red Cross certainly is a cause that deserves every American's whole-hearted support financially and morally.

Let the newspaper and advertising fields give it unstintedly.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Bound volumes of THE FOURTH ESTATE for the last half of the year 1917 will be ready January 10. In order to insure immediate delivery it is suggested that persons desiring them send their orders at the earliest possible moment or they may not be able to obtain copies.

There is always a "full capacity" demand and in accordance with the national conservation necessity of the present time bindings will be limited to the number of orders received in advance.

Some London newspapers have been insisting upon a more complete combing out of men for military service and have been arousing the ire of pacifist Parliamentarians. Certain classes of newspaper workers are exempted from military service, although of military age.

In the House of Commons a demand was made regarding the number of men from the staffs of newspapers who are actually in service. The Minister of National Service was unable to answer the question in detail, but he thought the number was very small.

Whereupon a census was made by the proprietors of the Daily Mail, the Evening News and the Weekly Despatch, which showed that of 1,643 members of the staffs at the beginning of the war 1,096 had joined the colors.

Of these seventy-five were officers, the others non-commissioned officers and privates. The publication of these figures ended the inquiry.

The National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs has plans for active work against the wave of fraudulent oil stock promotion schemes which have been sweeping the country. In a single recent month, forty-four oil companies were incorporated, with a total capitalization running into millions, in Illinois alone. A Kansas City oil man has estimated that 1,600 oil companies were organized during the last year.

GEORGE A. MCCLELLAN,

WHO HAS BEEN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE CANTON MAGAZINE COMPANY.

One of the detrimental effects which the activities of oil stock sellers has had on the oil business, has come through the fact they have given the public the impression every oil producing company was rolling in profits, with the result, oil men complain, that Congress looks upon all of them as millionaires, and has shown a tendency to levy against the industry what they believe to be unreasonable taxes.

A novel means of presenting food advertising was offered in an ad by W. E. Lamb of the advertising staff of the Omaha (Neb.) World-Herald which appeared in newspapers throughout the country.

The advertised food products are mentioned in the Hooverized menus which are suggested.

"The largest newspaper in the world is the fac-simile reproduction of the front page of the Chicago Tribune on a tremendous billboard at Randolph and Michigan streets, Chicago. The billboard, forty by sixty feet, is leased by the Tribune and is being used for war publicity only. The fac-simile page of the Tribune, complete even to the cartoon by McCutcheon, emphasizes the importance of food thrift at this time.

M'CLELLAN NOW AT THE HEAD.

George A. McClellan, vice-president and general manager of the Canton Magazine Company, New York, publisher of Today's Housewife, became president of the company on December 24.

William G. Palmer, second vice-president and business manager, is now first vice-president.

Mr. McClellan joined the Canton Magazine Company, which was then publishing Today's Magazine, on November 15, 1916. Two weeks later, he bought the Housewife and merged the two into Today's Housewife.

Previous to his connection with the Canton Company, Mr. McClellan's experience was entirely in the newspaper field. He was general manager of the Star League Newspapers (comprising the Indianapolis, Muncie (Ind.) and Terre Haute Stars) from the formation of the organization to 1907.

He then became owner and publisher of the Dayton (Ohio) Journal, remaining with that publication until 1911, when he became president and part owner of the Indianapolis Sun. In 1913 he bought the Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis, which he sold a year ago last summer.

Mr. McClellan declares that he has become an ardent magazine convert—"but you never can tell."

PURELY PERSONAL.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, New York, has reached his eighty-second year.

Alfred E. McGinley, editor of the St. John (N. B.) Standard, is being urged by friends to accept a nomination to fill the vacancy on the Commission Board of St. John.

Herbert Bashford, literary editor of the San Francisco Bulletin and author of "The Woman He Married," has written another play called "A Light in the Dark."

Miss Peggy Hull of the El Paso (Tex.) Times who has been in France representing her paper, has returned to this country after many unusual and exciting adventures.

Albert T. Reid, artist, cartoonist and publisher, is making a series of lectures in the Southwest in behalf of the Red Cross.

William J. Conners, proprietor of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier and Enquirer, was a visitor in New York during the past week.

Charles E. Gehring, editor of the Hotel Review, New York, is being mentioned for the position of police commissioner for New York.

W. E. Lawson, manager of the Wilmington (N. C.) Dispatch, has just returned home after a trip to New York.

Roy Quinlan, vice-president of the McJunkin Advertising Company, Chicago, has written a book on salesmanship which is now on sale in Chicago bookstores.

Mrs. Julia Collier Harris, wife of Julien Harris, well known Atlanta and New York newspaper man, and herself a newspaper writer, has just written a book called "The Little Foundling Prince."

E. S. Toner, editor of the Anderson (Ind.) Herald, recently addressed the Morton Club of Fort Wayne on the subject of national thrift.

WEDDING BELLS.

Clarence C. Killen, formerly connected with the news staffs of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening and Morning News, now secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, was married to Miss Edith Kenworthy of Every Evening last week.

James M. Ross, managing editor of the Lexington (Ky.) Leader, and Miss Marion Morgan Mulligan, daughter of ex-Senator James S. Mulligan, former United States consul at Samoa under Cleveland, were married on December 23.

Miss Eva Knowles Jones, for the past seven years society editor of the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News, and Henry Edward Hoffman of Newark, N. J., were married in Wilmington last Saturday. They will live in Newark.

Byron Norrell, editor of the Ada (Okla.) Daily News, an ex-president of the Oklahoma Press Association, and Miss Gertrude Case were married at Roff, Okla., a few days ago.

HOWARD'S NEW COLYUM.

"Camouflage" is the heading for a new column in the St. Louis Republic. C. W. Howard is the "colyum-ist."

The Montana-Wyoming and Mineral Journal has been started by the oil and mineral interests of those two states, with Mr. Harris as editor.

W. W. Warner, publisher of the Lyons (Neb.) Mirror, has purchased the Lyons Sun and will consolidate the two under the title Mirror-Sun.

AD FOLKS' NEWS.

Samuel J. Turnes, advertising manager of the George P. Bent Company, Chicago, has become director of the sales service department of the Burnett & Weinberger Company, Chicago.

W. Frank McClure, one of the directors of the Chicago Advertising Association and advertising manager of the Redpath Chautauqua, has been called to Washington by the Committee on Public Information to assist in formulating a publicity campaign for the speakers' bureau. This bureau operates in conjunction with the state councils of defense, and the publicity campaign is to assist state councils in advertising speakers furnished by the bureau for state conferences and other work.

C. S. Crossman of the Curtin Publishing Company, Philadelphia, talked about and exhibited films and slides illustrating the plant of the publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, at a recent meeting of the Rochester Ad Club.

Edward Houseal, Joseph T. Snyder, James Ford, Alex Osborn and J. F. Melia, members of the Buffalo Ad Club, have been active in co-operating with the Army recruiting station in Buffalo to fill the special branches of the Army to war strength.

The Chicago Advertising Association is co-operating with the Food Administration in a practical way, having secured the use of 146 billboards in Chicago for Food Administration posters. C. H. Burlingame, president of the association, is representing it in this particular phase of its activities.

Through the efforts of the Better Business Bureau of Indianapolis, more than $3,000 has been refunded to investors in the stock of the International India Rubber Company of South Bend.

The methods of this company, which unearthed a man named Studebaker at Cincinnati to give an impression that the Studebakers of South Bend were interested in the enterprise, were exposed, some time ago, by the national vigilance committee of the Associated Ad Clubs.

The refunds to the Indianapolis investors in the stock of the company have been made without legal action, and simply upon the demand of the attorney for the local bureau.

From the offices of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, at Indianapolis, word comes of the unusual success which has attended the work of the Stockton (Cal.) Advertising Club in aiding in patriotic advertising movements.

In one week, the Stockton Club.

A Short Story:

DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT

—gained 35% in Advertising and Circulation in 1916

[NOW IN ITS ELEVENTH YEAR]

Represented by G. Logan Payne Co. New York. Chicago. Boston. Detroit.

NEW HOME OF WILLIAM J. MORTON.

THE WELL KNOWN NEW YORK SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE HAS ACQUIRED THIS BEAUTIFUL HOME IN MONTCLAIR, N. J.

By Courtesy of New York Evening Post

under the direction of Arthur O. Kuehstedt, its president, covered the county for the Food Administration, and obtained signatures to food conservation cards from 14,004 out of the 14,734 families. Telephones and automobiles were used in the follow-up work to get the cards in. The club, in fact, mobilized every useful element of the whole community.

A complete office was established, through the contribution of employees by business men, with stenographers and clerks in plenty. The telephone company gave special service.

Through the co-operation of the Library of Congress, at Washington, the business library of the Associated Advertising Clubs, at the headquarters office of the association at Indianapolis, is to be catalogued, and P. S. Florea, secretary-manager of the association, announces the library will be definitely in the service of members of the association by late Spring, when the association will give its members a reference service.

The A.A.C.W. is planning an exhibit at the San Francisco convention of the association, July 7 to 11, which will show visiting business men and women how to take full advantage of the service which will be rendered through the library.

William C. Pelot, a copy writer for the Chappelow Advertising Company, has been arrested in St. Louis on a Federal warrant charging disloyalty.

Mr. Pelot declared that the arrest was a case of mistaken identity.

The Spokane Ad Club handles all matters of national scope requiring local co-operation through a national service committee, of which F. H. Lloyd, manager of the publicity department of the Food Administration for the state of Washington, is chairman.

Jesse M. Joseph, president of the Cincinnati Advertisers Club, and W. T. Armstrong of the Cincinnati Post addressed the ad and sales class of the St. Xavier College of Commerce recently on the value of newspaper advertising.

The Diagonal (La.) Press plant was recently destroyed by fire.

NEWS OF THE AD AGENCIES.

Several New York advertising agencies joined in the donation of a page advertisement in last Saturday's papers to the Red Cross. They were:

Atlas Advertising Agency, Berrien-Durstine, Inc., Boswell & Frankel, Capehart's, Maiknown Methods, Churchill-Hall Advertising Agency, Collin Armstrong Advertising Agency, C. W. Hoyt Advertising Agency, Frank Presbrey Company, George Batten Company, George B. Van Cleave Company, H. W. Fairfax, J. P. Muller & Co., Jules P. Storm, Sherman & Bryan, Ruthrauff & Ryan.

The McConnell & Ferguson Advertising Agency, with its main office at London, Ont., has established an office in Montreal.

L. Benison, formerly of the Lionel Benison Advertising Service of Montreal, has been engaged as manager.

Frederick H. Siegfried, well known in New York advertising circles, is planning to resume his own national advertising work—from which he has been semi-retired for several years because of poor health—in the Spring. In the meantime Mr. Siegfried has moved from Montclair, N. J., to Redlands, Cal., to spend the winter, and he will possibly establish his permanent residence in Los Angeles next season.

Nelson Chesman & Co., Chicago, boast of a service flag with six stars.

J. D. Driscoll of the New York office of the William H. Rankin Company, Chicago, was in Chicago for the Christmas holidays.

NOW IN RUBBER BUSINESS.

O. G. Draper, former city editor of the former Boston Journal, has joined the publicity staff of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, Akron.

"I am trying to feature the news of trade activities, in which I am sure the public is vitally interested," said Mr. Draper the other day.

DEVELOPING THE GRAPHIC ADVERTISING.

The Buffalo Express, Buffalo Times, Detroit News, Newark Ledger, New York Times, Times Mid-Week Pictorial, Springfield Republican, Syracuse Herald and Washington Star have appointed the Photographic News Syndicate, New York, specialist in graphic advertising, as national service representative for their rotogravure or graphic sections, in which capacity the syndicate acts for a list of publishers and co-operates with regular national representatives.

FRANCIS LAWTON, JR.

The Photographic News Syndicate has appointed D. E. Northam, late of the Street & Smith publications and the World Today, as Western representative of its list of "Graphic Newspapers," with offices in the People's Gas Building, Chicago.

George B. Stewart, formerly of Home Life, is Eastern representative with offices in the Astor Trust Building, New York. Messrs. Northam and Stewart succeed W. Russell Gomez and Kenneth T. Kendall, lately called to the colors.

Francis Lawton, Jr., general manager of the syndicate, on his return from a selling trip through the middle West, reports that national graphic advertising will be increased about thirty per cent. in 1918, over the total of 2,000,000 lines (not including local business) carried in all the graphic sections this year. Mr. Lawton is scheduled to address the Syracuse Advertising Men's Club on January 9, on his favorite topic, "Graphic Advertising."

George Schlosser has purchased the Wessington Springs (S. D.) Republican.

If this territory presents a sales problem to you, the Merchandising Service Department of the Boston American will, upon request, make a trade investigation covering various sections of Metropolitan Boston and submit a report which will help you solve that problem. Ask how this department works.

BOSTON AMERICAN

BIG DECREASE IN PUBLICATIONS.

YEAR 1917 SAW FULLY 1,200 PASS AWAY—DAILIES' NET LOSS IS 62.

At least 1,200 publications in the United States and Canada quit publishing during the year 1917. These approximate 925 suspensions and 250 consolidations, each of which, of course, eliminated at least one publication.

The new publications started bring the net decrease for the year to 816.

The principal decrease was furnished by the weekly, daily and semi-weekly papers. The falling off has been general throughout the country.

The forthcoming 1918 American Newspaper Annual and Directory will show that at the close of the year there are 24,252 publications of all kinds in the United States and Canada, of which the United States has 22,842.

Of the total number, the weekly papers showed the greatest falling off during 1917. The daily papers ranked second.

CLASSIFICATIONS.

The United States and territories have 2,465 dailies and Canada and New Foundland 139, a decrease respectively of 49 and 13—a net loss of 62.

The United States now has 15,635 weeklies less by 580 than at the beginning of 1918; and Canada has 964, less by 39 than the number with which it started the year—a net loss of 589.

In monthly publications, the United States added 11, reaching the mark of 3,261, while Canada's monthly publications fell off by 10—from 226 to 216—a net gain of one.

The United States now has 532 semi-weeklies, 58 less than a year ago; and Canada has 575, less by two than a year ago—a net loss of 60.

Net gains in the United States and Canada were: Tri-weeklies, 8; fortnightly, 9; monthlies, 1; bi-monthlies, 30; quarterlies, 31; miscellaneous, 5.

Net losses were shown by: Dailies, 62; semi-weeklies, 60; weeklies, 589; semi-monthlies, 9.

DAILY PAPERS.

The New England states now have 173 dailies, four less than a year ago; New York State 210, increase of five; middle Atlantic states, 271, decrease of nine; Southern states, 421, decrease of three; Middle Western states 401, a decrease of thirty-four; Western states 446, decrease of six; Pacific Slope states 288, the same as a year ago; outlying territories fifty-five, a gain of two.

CITIES AND TOWNS HAVING PAPERS.

The total number of cities and towns in which newspapers are published in the United States and territories and Canada and Newfoundland is now 11,610, a decrease of 160 for the year.

Reasons for the falling off in the number of newspapers are discussed in a digest of several editorials, which recently appeared in Paper, a trade publication, as follows:

"Our attention has been called to an editorial appearing in the Wisconsin State Journal, published from Madison, which affords food for serious thought for those who are already engaged in the publishing business or who are contemplating entering the field. * * * The opening announcement of the article is rather startling, however, and tends to give one the impression that the publishing industry has encountered perils which are not common to other lines of business until a careful analysis is made of the statement, which in the end allays apprehension. The opening paragraphs of the editorial run as follows:

"In any radical economic change, such as is created by a serious state of war, there is an industrial and commercial readjustment which has little or no effect on some business enterprises of other kinds. In the industrial evolution through which we are now going as a result of this war some business enterprises inevitably thrive and grow while others suffer handicaps which make it difficult for them to survive.

"The newspaper business belongs to that class of enterprises that suffers a severe shock by war conditions. The price of print paper has greatly advanced. The price of ink, the change in postal rates have all greatly added to the cost of making a newspaper. There is more news to be gathered and it is expensive news to gather. The price of labor has gone up. It is right that it should. But it all tells on the cost of producing a newspaper.

"There never was a time except during the Civil War period in the Confederate states alone when the newspapers of America confronted so many hazards as now, when so many newspapers were going out of business and suspending publication because they could not afford to keep up the battle, when from every commercial point of view it was a liability rather than an asset to be in the newspaper business. Hence today practically no newspapers except purely propaganda sheets are being born in America."

"The failure of 1,200 newspapers in the United States in the comparatively short period of ten months is an alarming announcement without any explanation of the reasons why it is so.

"One would suppose that in this day, when practically all other industrial enterprise is expanding, there must be something radically wrong to find an actual dropping off in the publishing business to the extent indicated in this article.

"The question arises as to whether publishing interests are having the life crushed out of them by the allied industries or whether the public has lost its taste for reading or what indeed may have happened to bring about this astonishing result. * * *

TENDENCY IS CONSOLIDATION.

"An editorial from the Saturday Evening Post, which is quoted by the Wisconsin State Journal, suggests the real answer. It is that the tendency of the times is consolidation and that many papers are being eliminated in those localities where they have been too numerous to thrive. From this article we quote as follows:

"A contemporary reports that, though the population of the fourteen largest cities in Michigan has doubled, in the last ten years the number of daily papers has fallen from forty-two to twenty-one.

"No doubt like causes have produced a like effect elsewhere. Quite recently consolidations of dailies in first class cities have attracted attention. The number of considerable cities with no morning paper and of still bigger places with only one morning paper appears to increase.

Within our recollection, five papers have disappeared from Chicago, though the population of the city has much more than doubled.

"The cause, of course, is the steadily increasing cost of establishing and publishing a newspaper. The investment which formerly would have launched a daily paper in Chicago or New York now hardly suffices for Kalamazoo, and operating costs are so high that a paper must win very substantial support or lose a lot of money.

"War has greatly increased operating costs by raising the price of paper, other materials and labor. Probably these war costs have been a governing motive in some recent consolidations. The new revenue law, which not only increases postal charges enormously, but provides for a zone system, falls heavily on newspaper profits, and will presumably accelerate the movement toward consolidation, sectionalism and elimination."

"The publishing business in many respects is like many other lines of business. The community requires just so much and no more and the establishment of a greater number of enterprises in the same line means simply spreading the business that much further, and it is possible to spread it so thin that it loses its strength altogether.

"There are towns where one hotel might do a prosperous business and be equal at the same time to all the requirements of the public. Yet if three or four undertake to live where there is only room for one, it means three or four poor hotels which cannot serve the public as well as one could, and some of which in the end must fail. The same is true of banks. Little banks spring up in communities to such an extent that they destroy the possibility of the establishment of any one strong institution, and in the end some of them fail.

NOT EVIDENCE OF DEMORALIZATION.

"We are persuaded that in many localities in this country there have been too many attempts to multiply periodicals where conditions would not justify it, with the result that all of them have starved where a part of them might have fattened.

"If the Saturday Evening Post is correct in its analysis, an attempt has been made by some publishers at least to overcome this difficulty by the consolidation of journals, and the elimination of those that are useless. Instead of its being an evidence of demoralization in the publishing world that certain papers go out of existence, it may indeed often be an evidence of a more intelligent understanding of the situation and the installation of a policy based on a better judgment.

"The article of which we speak is exceedingly interesting because it directs attention to a situation needing correction, whatever the cause may be, and while there are many wise people in the publishing business, we have wondered even before we read this article, if, after all, the publishing interests might not revise their methods and establish themselves upon a saner basis.

"It is perfectly true that the cost of production in every other line has advanced. It may also be true that the public has become more discriminating in the selection of its reading matter and that the advertiser is becoming more particular in choosing the channel of his approach to the public.

"Perhaps it is the application of the doctrine of the survival of the fittest that is consigning some papers to the tomb. If this be true and if the discontinuance of 1,200 or 12,000 papers makes it possible for the rest of them to better their condition financially and at the same time better their standards of quality and service, in the end the occurrence which is cited as a calamity may prove to be a lasting benefit to legitimate newspaper publishers.

"The careful and successful farmer, when he finds his corn too thick to thrive, pulls up the weaker stalks and thus by the thinning process makes room for the more vigorous growth of that which remains. It may be the publishing world is doing a little thinking at this time."

SMALL INK MAKERS SHORT OF CARBON BLACK.

According to Philip Ruxton, president of the National Association of Printing Ink Manufacturers, some ink manufacturers face a shortage of supplies because of inability to obtain carbon black from West Virginia owing to railroad transportation embargo regulations made by the Federal Trade Priority Board.

Mr. Ruxton says he has been unable to make the Priority Board realize the importance of carbon black and he had made an appeal direct to President Wilson to have the embargo lifted.

THE FOURTH ESTATE learns that the shortage of carbon black exists among the smaller manufacturers. The larger companies say they have a supply on hand, which they expect will be sufficient to last them over the critical period, with the proper conservation efforts.

In a telegram to THE FOURTH ESTATE, Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, chairman of the joint committee of printing signified that the carbon embargo situation would be given his immediate attention. The Senator said:

"The successful prosecution of the war depends largely on the invaluable services rendered by the newspapers of the country. The ink shortage presents a very serious situation, which should be relieved at once."

FIX PROGRAM FOR MEETING.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Nebraska Press Association in Columbus, the program was arranged for the convention of the organization to be held in Lincoln in the near future. The extent of proposed work for the field secretary was discussed.

The plant of the State Center (La.) Enterprise, owned by F. W. Beckman, head of the school of journalism of Iowa State College, was badly damaged by fire recently.

THE HALF YEARLY BOUND VOLUME OF THE FOURTH ESTATE is a complete six months' history of the happenings in the newspaper and advertising worlds from July to December will be ready for delivery on January 10.

It contains a great amount of interesting news of the activities of the professions above referred to and is not obtainable otherwise.

THE FOURTH ESTATE,
232 West 59th Street,
New York.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

GREEN PRINT PAPER FOR SALE

The undersigned, as receiver for the Monitor Publishing Company of Columbus, Ohio, has on hand about 130,000 pounds of green print paper, such as was used by the Monitor for its sport editions when publication was suspended. This paper is 36 1/2 inches wide, basis 24x24x32, and can be sold under the appraisalment for 4 cents a pound or less.

If interested address E. Howard Gilkey, Box 274, Columbus, Ohio.

$3,000

cash available for first payment on country weekly and job office. Far West locations preferred. Proposition Q. B.

CHAS. M. PALMER
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
225 Fifth Ave. NEW YORK

INVEST $10

in an expert plan that will build your daily or weekly circulation to a maximum point with least expense, and increase the value of your paper. No premiums; no reduced rates. Endorsed by advertisers. Positively guaranteed and money cheerfully refunded if plan proves unsatisfactory. Address

H. F. HENRICHS
NEWSPAPER PROPERTIES
LITCHFIELD, ILLINOIS

BIG NEW ASSET FOR THE N. Y. COMMERCIAL.

Recognizing the unusual and extraordinary conditions now existing and which are likely to prevail for an indefinite period in the foreign trade of the United States and realizing the importance of the opportunities for the extension of the foreign business of American manufacturers, the New York Commercial, publisher of "America's Leading Manufacturers, the Standard Blue Book of Foreign Trade," has arranged with William E. Aughinbaugh, M. D., LL. B., LL. M., to become its foreign and export editor and to conduct a department that will give to the readers of the New York commercial and advertisers in "America's Leading Manufacturers" detailed information regarding trade opportunities in foreign lands and the best way to use the present conditions and take advantage of the opportunities which will present themselves after the war.

In addition to the special practical articles that he will write for the New York Commercial he will conduct a daily column which will include a question box in which he will answer specific questions relating to any legitimate export business proposition.

Dr. Aughinbaugh is one of the best informed men on export trade in the United States. He holds the chair of foreign trade at the New York University and is the author of "Selling Latin America" and other foreign trade works. For the past

Sales Purchases Consolidations Appraisals of Newspaper and Magazine Properties

AUDREY HARWELL HENRY F. CANNON

Harwell & Cannon
Times Building NEW YORK

Presses and printing machinery of any kind can probably be quickly sold through an advertisement in THE FOURTH ESTATE, which reaches the best line of buyers. Attention

PUBLISHERS, ATTENTION—Sample copy addresses FURNISHED FREE in lots of 1,000 or less. Over 1,000,000 book and magazine buyers on our lists. State what you want. 500 copies of any small magazine MAILED FREE if sent to me prepaid. Advertising or mailing service given in exchange for odd lots of interesting books or booklets in good, clean condition. Address Moore's Export Service, New Egypt, N. J.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

twenty years or more he has been promoting foreign business for American manufacturers. He has sold goods in nearly every civilized country in the world. He is in close touch with every foreign market and familiar with conditions in this country and abroad, based on his personal experience.

Dr. Aughinbaugh knows what foreign countries need; what they will buy and what they will not buy and he knows, too, the methods best calculated to effect sales. He is familiar with packing and shipping requirements, with finance and credit.

Dr. Aughinbaugh's first article will be published on Saturday, January 5, and will be entitled "The Fundamentals of Foreign Trade." It will be followed by daily and weekly articles covering all phases of this big vital question of the present day.

OKLAHOMA MEETING DATES ARE CHANGED.

The mid-winter session of the Oklahoma Press Association at Oklahoma City has been postponed from January 11-12 to January 18-19 in order to give the editors sufficient time to wind up the year's affairs.

C. B. Morris, editor of the St. Louis Gazette, will be one of the speakers before the convention.

The editors will spend an afternoon and evening at the University of Oklahoma.

MACHINERY FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—Goss High-Speed Straight line Five Roll Double Width Press equipped with all modern improvements and in very good condition. This press prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 page papers at 75,000 per hour. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 page papers at 86,000 per hour. For prices and terms write

WALTER SCOTT & Co.,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

LINOTYPE, Model 1, Serial No. 8011, with one magazine, liners, ejector blades, font of matrices. Tribune Printing Company, Charleston, W. Va.

GOSS FOUR DECK PRESS—Prints 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26 or 28 pages. Overhauled and rebuilt. Will sell at very low price. The Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

LINOTYPE—Three Model 1 machines with complete equipment of molds, magazines and matrices. New Haven Union Co., New Haven, Ct.

SERVICE CORNER.

639.—"Some time ago I read in your newspaper a notice in reference to the compilation of a book or dictionary of similes by a certain newspaper man. Can you put me in touch with the concern publishing the book?"

A CRUSADE AGAINST DRUG CURE ADVERTISERS.

An attack on private institutions which advertise cures for drug addicts was made at this week's hearing in New York of the Whitney legislative committee by Assistant District Attorney Unger, who has charge of drug cases for the prosecutor's office.

"More harm is done by the existence of the so-called private cures than any other way," he said, "because they have developed into drug peddling."

"We have been able to drive the peddler from the streets and we have have smashed rings right and left. Today there are few peddlers in the underworld, but the drugs are being dispensed by doctors and druggists who are ghouls in human form. We hope to round up a lot of them and send them to jail."

SALT LAKE CITY CHANGES.

James P. Casey, formerly secretary of the Ogden (Utah) Publicity Bureau and for a number of years managing editor of the Ogden Examiner, is now general manager of the Salt Lake City Herald-Republican.

Before going to Utah, Mr. Casey was connected with the business and editorial departments of various Indiana newspapers.

G. B. Heal, who formerly held the positions of city editor and news editor of the Herald-Republican and who was previously city editor of the Salt Lake City Telegram, has become managing editor of the Herald-Republican, succeeding Arthur J. Brown, who is now on the editorial staff of the Los Angeles Express.

CONDENSED NEWS NOTES.

The Jetmore (Kan.) Republican has been sold by E. W. Harrison and C. H. Wright to F. F. Bailey of Great Bend, Kan.

Donald O. Blett, a sixteen-year-old high school boy, has purchased the Martin (Mich.) Review.

The Baxter Citizen is a new daily paper just launched at Baxter Springs, Kan., with A. E. Pfremmer as editor.

HELP WANTED.

NEWSPAPER POSITIONS OPEN.

REPORTERS (30)—N. Y., New Eng., N. J., Pa., Del., Ala., N. C., O., Ill., Wis.—$15-$25.

EDITORIAL (30)—N. Y., New Eng., N. J., Pa., Va., O., Ind., Wis., Ia., D., Mont., Okla.—$20-$40.

ADVERTISING (10)—N. Y., New Eng., Pa., Ky., Va., O., Ill., Wis., Cal.—$20-$40.

CIRCULATION (10)—N. Y., New Eng., N. J., Va., Ga., N. D.—$20-$30.

All departments represented. Registration free. No charge to employers. Established 1898.

Fernald's Exchange
Third National Bank Building
SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

A RARE CHANCE

for a man to get in on the ground floor of a unique magazine in New York city as office manager. An investment of one or two thousand dollars necessary. Salary one hundred dollars a month to start. A little energy and interest will rapidly increase this. Investigation will prove that this is an exceptional opportunity. Address A.R.C., Box 955, care The Fourth Estate.

Wanted—Dependable man capable of writing good newspaper advertisements and successful solicitor. Must have constructive methods and be energetic worker. Live small newspaper dominating good field. Give full information in first letter. Address Mid-West Daily care The Fourth Estate, New York.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

EDITORIAL WRITER WANTED.

High grade publication has opening for a clear and forceful writer on daily news events and general affairs. He should be thoroughly conversant with public life and men, particularly of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and possessor of a literary style. Preference will be given to good practical newspaper man who has had Philadelphia experience. Applications will be held in strictest confidence. To secure interview, please send samples or specimens of your matter, and full details as to personality, experience, etc. Address Editor, P. O. Box 479, Philadelphia.

TWO MORE PRESSES FOR THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The circulation of the New York Times has grown so rapidly it recently became necessary to add to its press equipment as quickly as possible. Fortunately R. Hoe & Co. and the Goss Printing Press Company each had a high speed sextuple press about ready for delivery and the New York Times has bought both presses.

This brings the Times' equipment up to twelve sextuple presses, a capacity of 300,000 twenty-four-page papers per hour.

Oscar Rosen negotiated the sale for R. Hoe & Co., and Ralph Seymour for the Goss Company.

LOUISVILLE EDITOR DEAD.

Richard Wilson Knott, editor and publisher of the Louisville (Ky.) Evening Post and of the Home and Farm, an agricultural paper, died suddenly in Louisville Thursday night of heart disease.

HELP WANTED.

An unusual opportunity on very prosperous daily in booming town of 12,000 in Southwest state wants

General or Business Manager

One with successful experience as an executive. Big money to right man. Send complete data at once, as old manager must turn over paper in January and enter army. Address L. N., care The Fourth Estate.

SUBSCRIPTION MANAGER WANTED.

By trade paper in New York City. Live young man with initiative who can see opportunities to secure subscriptions and take advantage of them.

Salary to start $25. Future salary dependent upon self. Address Subscription Manager, Box 942, care The Fourth Estate.

STAFF CHANGES.

Bertram D. Wolfe, formerly on the advertising staff of the Richmond County (N. Y.) Advance and previously editor of the Mediator, is now publicity agent for the Rand School, New York.

David DeHaven, who was in charge of the job stock and printers' supply departments of the Wichita (Kan.) office of the Western Newspaper Union, has become manager of the Little Rock (Ark.) office of that organization, in place of E. W. Buckley, who has resigned to take a position in which he will travel through the West and the South.

Albert S. Blakely is the new assistant city editor of the Indianapolis Star, having succeeded Hillard Carretson who resigned to go with the International News Service of New York. Blakely was formerly assistant city editor of the Star, but for the past two years had been doing automobile publicity work in Orlando, Fla.

C. D. Jones, formerly an ink salesman for the Uhlman-Philpott Company of Cleveland, has become business manager of the Maquoketa (Ia.) Sentinel.

Mrs. Demm Hunt, a Paris (Tenn.) newspaper woman, has given up newspaper work.

Walter Miller has resigned his position on the news staff of the Wilmington (Del.) Every Evening to join the Artillery Fuse Company of that city. His place on Every Evening has not been filled.

John M. Grant, for over two years on the reporting staff of the Grantford (Ont.) Expositor and before that on the Free Press and the Journal of Ottawa, has become a reporter on the Toronto Globe.

L. I. Baker of the Bunceon (Mo.) Eagle will become business manager

SITUATIONS WANTED.

MANAGING EDITOR.

Yale graduate, for four years editor of a monthly magazine of international circulation, desires change. Magazine editorship or assistant editorship preferred. Will consider managing editorship of newspaper in city of 25,000 to 100,000 or department work. Wide experience as editorial writer, column conductor and dramatic critic. Salary not main object. Best references in America. Address P. T. G. 2056 Aubert ave., Chicago.

ADVERTISING WOMAN of proven ability, now advertising manager on Southwestern daily desires change to position offering opportunity for advancement; prefers location in city of 60,000 upwards in South or West; has demonstrated efficiency to develop and handle local and foreign advertising; solicitor and copy writer not afraid of work. Must have opportunity to make income $1,800 to $2,500 a year. Full particulars with references by addressing Miss M., care The Fourth Estate.

YOUNG LADY

experienced in advertising business wishes position with agency. Ten years' experience with one of New York's leading dailies. Understands copy makeup, entering orders, etc. Address Box 954, care The Fourth Estate.

of the Sedalia (Mo.) Central Missouri Republican on January 1. Houston Harte, owner, and A. E. Snider, editor of the Republican, will both enter military service.

Press Huddleston, who has been conducting a business feature page for the Atlanta Constitution, has resigned to go into the advertising business. He is succeeded by W. T. Dubose, who formerly conducted the department.

Nelson Shipp has just been placed in charge of the telegraph desk on the Macon (Ga.) News.

J. E. Boggs, mayor of Columbia, Mo., has become editor of the Columbia Daily Times.

Dale Wilson is now editor of the "Speaking on the Public Mind" section of the Kansas City Star.

MAGAZINE NOTES

Edward T. O'Loughlin, who retires from the office of register of Kings County, N. Y., on December 31, has begun the publication of O'Loughlin's Non-Partisan Magazine, which will deal largely with local political matters. Mr. O'Loughlin is a former New York newspaper man.

Because of the high cost of production and a combination of other reasons, the Ladies' World, a magazine with a circulation of 600,000 copies, published monthly by the McClure interests in New York, has suspended publication.

Mr. Moore, secretary of the company, made the following statement: "We have decided to discontinue the publication of the Ladies' World in its present size with the current January number and to postpone the making of the new-sized magazine until after the war. We take this step strictly as a war measure to conserve all our energies and resources for the conduct and development of McClure's Magazine and its allied interests."

Frederick L. Collins, president of the McClure Publications, Inc., and editor of McClure's Magazine, has been editor of the Ladies' World.

Guy Pierce of the Crowell Publishing Company will be transferred from the Chicago to the New York office of that company.

Maud R. Pierson has disposed of her interest in the Havre (Mont.) Daily Promoter.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Small advertisements under classified headings such as Help Wanted, For Sale, To Let, Instruction, Writers, Correspondents, Office Necessities, 25 cents a line (about 7 words) each insertion, without discount. Situations Wanted 10 cents a line, net.

Wanted—Position as news editor or managing editor with daily in city of from 15,000 to 30,000. Seven years' experience in news game on small city daily, three on desk. Aggressive and not afraid to dig in. Will start at $30 a week, as salary is not only object. Out of draft. Can furnish best of references and leave on ten days' notice. Address G. N., care The Fourth Estate.

City or Managing Editor

City or Managing Editor—Experienced all phases of work, cities 25,000 to 75,000. Thoroughly reliable and capable. Open for immediate engagement on good paper. Would consider future investment. Draft exempt. Not less than $40 to start. Address Box 956, care The Fourth Estate.

Situation Wanted

as circulation manager; can furnish both American and Canadian references. Successful business getter; 15 years' experience; at present employed. Address Box 957, care The Fourth Estate.

The problem of covering the Canadian Field is answered by obtaining the service of the

Dominion PRESS CLIPPING AGENCY

which gives the clippings on all matters of interest to you, printed in over 95 per cent of the newspapers and publications of CANADA. We cover every foot of Canada and Newfoundland. 74-76 Church Street, TORONTO, CAN.

TYPO

CREDIT BOOKS, REPORTS, COLLECTIONS General Offices, 373 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

SPECIAL AND CHICAGO NEWS DAILY NEWS REPORTS.

YARD'S NEWS BUREAU 164 W. Washington Street, CHICAGO

For Particular Printing come to the

ALLIANCE PRESS 110-114 West 224 Street, NEW YORK

ENGRAVING BUSINESS OF A.P.A. IS SOLD.

The Standard Engraving Company, New York, has purchased the plant and good will of the engraving department formerly conducted by the American Press Association of New York.

The amalgamated plants will be conducted as the Standard Engraving Company and will occupy the twelfth floor of the building of the American Press Association at 225 West 39th street, New York.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

Circulation and Promotion Manager with creative and executive ability backed by experience and record of success, is open for a position after Jan. 1. Southwest section of country preferred. Address Box 951, care The Fourth Estate.

MANAGER

thoroughly experienced in news and business ends of small city daily. Have lately sold control of live daily. Open for business or editorial position. College education, married, not subject to draft. Hard worker, with punch and ideas. Will consider investing. Address Worker, care The Fourth Estate.

High Grade Man

with long experience as business and advertising manager, wishes to make change. Excellent record for building up and holding patronage; writes effective copy; pleasing manners and good mixer. Address Box 946, care The Fourth Estate.

Advertising Manager

25 years' experience on morning and evening newspapers: (Detroit Journal, evening, 12 years; Duluth News Tribune, morning, 5 years; Omaha Bee, morning and evening, 5 years). A diplomatic executive with ability to successfully handle local and foreign accounts and to originate ideas which result in increased earnings. Particularly fortunate in selection of assistants and in keeping them keyed to maximum of efficiency. References any former employer. (P.F.) Further particulars, if desired, by return mail. G. W. Preston, care Hotel Griswold, Detroit, Mich.

If your name is not on the subscription list of THE FOURTH ESTATE we would like to put it there

OUR LETTER BOX.

Advertisers and all other friends of THE FOURTH ESTATE are invited to make our office their headquarters for correspondence, etc., etc.

At present there are letters waiting for

A. B. Coddington	Griffith Bonner
S. Chivers-Wilson	H. H. Patterson
Anna B. Corbansane	Publicity Bureau
Geo. W. Craig	Glenn C. Wilson
Thos. B. Donnelly	O. Wog
Arthur T. Egan	Chas. H. Forman
W. Burton Ellis	A. W. Seasholtz
A. Fisher	J. H. Mudgett
R. Herts Service	A. P. Robyn
Sam'l M. Evans	Richard Neville
George S. Teall	Clinton F. Woods
J. G. Disher	W. E. Hornaday
Theodore Biscant	C. S. Kendall
Ray E. Wilcox	A. E. Bickson
G. S. Myers	Chas. S. Quinn
Henry A. DeMasi	H. D. Lemley
D. C. Frame	C. F. Yeager
W. G. McConnell	James Bell
Albert Letts	Hugh Kapp
T. R. Moss	W. W. Kourk
John Raridan.	Myron W. Townsend

POLLOCK'S NEWS

You can reach 2,500 Editors and Publishers in the Northwest—the wide-awake ones—every month, through the Classified Ads in Pollock's News. That is 30,000 of them in a year for ten dollars. Send for samples and display rates.

710 Temple Court, MINNEAPOLIS

HEMSTREET PRESS CLIPPINGS

Tenth Avenue at 45th Street
NEW YORK CITY

NEWS PRINT PRODUCTION KEEPS AHEAD OF CONSUMPTION.

The November news print report of the Federal Trade Commission shows increase of stocks as follows:

	Tons.
On hand at mills.....	41,476
On hand at terminals.....	6,500
On hand at jobbers.....	9,917
On hand at publishers.....	138,337
In transit.....	41,624

Total stocks reported to commission.....237,854
Estimated unreported stocks of Canadian mills and small publishers.....75,000

Grand total on hand.....312,854

This report shows that production still keeps ahead of consumption and that stocks are growing satisfactorily.

It is reprinted in full below, as follows: (A brief summary was printed in THE FOURTH ESTATE last week):

Reports received from thirty-six United States companies operating fifty-nine news print mills for the five weeks beginning October 28 and ending December 2, 1917, show the following results:

	First Week.	Second Week.	Third Week.	Fourth Week.	Fifth Week.
PRODUCED DURING WEEK.
Total print paper.....	25,186	25,021	25,427	24,619	24,944
Standard news.....	23,846	22,018	23,450	22,823	22,926
SHIPPED DURING WEEK.
Total print paper.....	23,934	27,147	25,625	27,040	25,285
Standard news.....	21,954	24,935	23,024	25,047	23,573
STOCK ON HAND AT MILLS AT END OF WEEK.
Total print paper.....	46,029	44,607	44,764	43,729	41,476
Standard news.....	40,286	38,171	38,047	36,948	36,430

The decline in mill stocks during the month of about 4,000 tons was due in part to the fact that the Berlin Mills Company has discontinued the production of news print paper and also to the fact that the plant and stocks of the Cleveland Manufacturing Company were destroyed by fire during the last half of the month.

In addition to the mill stocks of news print, there were about 6,500 tons held at terminal and delivery points.

LOSS OF PRODUCTION.

Reports of machine operation show that the principal loss of production during the month was due to strikes on the Pacific Coast and to breakdowns and repairs in various mills. As noted above, the Berlin Mills Company withdrew its last machine from news print during the month and the plant of the Cleveland Paper Manufacturing Company was destroyed by fire. Notwithstanding these difficulties the production for the year continues to exceed that for the corresponding period last year as shown by the following:

	Total Print Paper.	Standard News
Production from January 1 to December 2, 1917.....	1,257,759	1,185,171
Production for same period 1916.....	1,232,848	1,172,618

JOBBER'S STOCKS.

Monthly reports received from 210 jobbers showed the following results.

	Rolls.	Sheets.	Total.
News Print Paper.
Stocks in warehouses at beginning of month.....	2,335	7,346	10,081
Quantity received during month.....	2,661	1,803	4,464
Quantity shipped out during month.....	2,807	2,403	5,210
Stocks in warehouses at end of month.....	2,172	6,745	8,917

The figures indicate a small decline in jobbers' stocks during the month.

PUBLISHERS' STOCKS.

Monthly reports from 645 newspaper publishing concerns show the following:

	Net Tons.
Stocks on hand, beginning of month.....	117,801
Received during the month.....	110,023
Used and sold during the month.....	119,638
Stocks on hand, end of month.....	108,187
In transit.....	41,624

The figures indicate a decline in stocks held by publishers of about 9,500 tons during the month.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

The imports and exports of printing paper valued at not above five cents (*) per pound (practically all news print) and of ground wood pulp for the first ten months of 1917 as compared with the corresponding period of 1916 were as follows:

	10 Months 1917	10 Months 1916
Imports of news print paper
From Canada.....	464,298	395,013
From Newfoundland.....	467,297	392,748
Exports of news print.....	5,658
Total.....	70,146	64,839

Imports of ground wood pulp.....	(Total).....	239,196	197,647
From Canada.....		216,939	197,333
Exports of wood pulp.....	(Total).....	26,974	26,700

*Prior to September 8, 1916, two and one-half cents per pound.

Exports of news print paper for September exceeded 12,000 tons and for October 14,000 tons, which is more than double the monthly exports for preceding months.

NEWS PRINT PRICES.

Monthly reports from news print manufacturers showed thirteen new contracts made during November aggregating 33,847 tons at prices ranging from $3 to $3.50 per hundred pounds f. o. b. mill. Of this quantity 29,987 tons or 88 per cent was at $3.

Current market prices to domestic buyers for the bulk of the tonnage ranged from $2.90 to $3.50 for rolls in car lots and from $3.15 to $3.75 for sheets in car lots. Export prices were somewhat higher.

Monthly reports from jobbers for deliveries in small quantities from warehouses show the following price quotations on rolls and sheets:

	East and Middle West.	Pacific Coast.
Rolls.
Ream lots.....	$4.50-$7.25	$7.25-$9.50
Case lots, 500 lbs.....	$3.75-$6.75	$4.75-$8.50
Ton lots.....	$3.25-$5.75	$3.50-$6.00
Sheets.
Ream lots.....	$4.60-$8.25	$5.00-$8.25

The jobbers' reports indicate a slight softening in prices during November. A majority of them appear to be rather pessimistic as to the future course of the market.

PULP PRICES.

Receipts of sulphite on old contracts during November were at prices ranging from $44 to $100 per ton, the average for the bulk of the tonnage being about $60. Prices of the bulk of the tonnage of sulphite bought on current orders ranged from $55 to $80 a ton.

Ground wood deliveries on contract were at prices ranging from $24 to $45 per ton, the bulk of the tonnage being sold at from $35 to $40. Current market prices for ground wood ranged from $33.50 to $42 per ton.

PACIFIC MILLS.

The first shipment of paper from the Pacific Mills Company's new mills of 2,000 tons was shipped through San Francisco to South America via nitrate boats returning there.

DISCUSSIONS TO BE 'THOROUGH.'

NEWSPAPER PROBLEMS WILL BE THRESHED OUT AT SEATTLE SESSION.

A strict dollars-and-cents war policy has determined the program of the sixth annual "newspaper institute" of the University of Washington to be held in Seattle on January 17-19. In place of many formal addresses, there will be a half dozen or less, each followed by six or eight ten-minute contributions from men especially qualified to treat the matter from their own experience and especially prepared to give the best they have in the allotted time. These will lead to general floor discussion. The purpose of the new plan is to "make coin" of every bit of experience and every good idea that comes to the institute and give the editors more than general ideas.

Among the topics which will claim close to half a day each are "Circulation on the country newspaper," "The country advertising situation," "Co-operation between merchants and newspapers" and "The editorial."

A feature of the country advertising session will be the use of a projectoscope for throwing on a screen good and bad ads from the Washington press, and application of advertising theories by Fred A. Russell, who gives the advertising courses in the University of Washington. Editors will bring in ads from their own papers for criticism.

One period will be given the publishers for informal discussion of their print shop troubles with Fred Kennedy, head of the university printing department.

The Washington Newspaper Association will hold its annual business session and will probably sift out co-operative buying of print paper.

An evening feature will be the annual legislative session, and a paper by Leslie J. Ayer, professor of law in the university, on "Why so many Washington publishers are sued for libel and lose the suits."

NOTES OF SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

Following a disagreement over the election of Benjamin W. Thoron of Colorado Springs as president of the Harvard College Company, which prints the Advocate, the oldest student publication at the university, four of the editors have resigned. They accuse those who remain of "literary degeneracy."

The resigning editors are Royall H. Snow of Chicago, William F. Davidson of St. Paul, Minn., Thomas M. Hodgins, Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., and Samuel B. Goodstone of Pittsburgh.

K. T. Nessler has been elected editor-in-chief of the Purdue Exponent, the university daily at Lafayette, Ind., to succeed K. R. Jamison, who was called to the colors in the first draft. E. M. Wolf has been chosen business manager in the place of H. S. Vaile, who is also in the Army.

W. H. Lloyd is now managing editor.

The girls of the Women's College for Delaware, located at Newark, Del., are arranging to start a paper in the interest of the college as well as women's work throughout the state.

The Spectator, the daily published by the students of Columbia University, New York, will have a woman's board hereafter, in addition to the staff of men.

Miss Augusta E. H. Stanton, who will head the new board, and Miss Helen Ridley are planning to issue two special editions of the Spectator which will be exclusively devoted to the girl students.

THE ORGANIZATION OF A DAILY NEWSPAPER.

ARTICLE XI.

PUBLISHERS SHOULD TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THE PITFALLS OF LIBEL—LEGAL ADVICE—MEETING POSSIBLE DAMAGES.

By EDMUND WALKER,

In the laying out of organization expenses, it is important that proper appropriation should be given to acquiring a capable source of legal advice.

The services of a lawyer, thoroughly versed in the technicalities of libel as well as the routine of corporate work is absolutely essential to the publisher. Likewise proper libel law authority in book form should be acquired for the use of the editorial department at all times, and arrangements made for the possible payment of libel damages.

Setting aside the details of costing and accounting for this article let us consider the necessity of having available at all times the proper legal talent to guide us past the many pitfalls awaiting the publisher through his news columns.

First let us see: WHAT IS LIBEL?

It has been said by Chief Justice Sherwood that the attempts to define libel, although practically innumerable, have never been so comprehensive and accurate as to cover all cases that may arise. A definition however which has met with frequent judicial approval is as follows:

A libel is a malicious publication expressed either in printing or in writing or by signs or by pictures tending either to blacken the memory of one dead or the reputation of one who is alive, and to expose him to public hatred, contempt or ridicule.

Libel offense is more comprehensive in its scope than slander, inasmuch as many forms of defamation, which if made orally would not be actionable without proof of special damage, are actionable in libel, when circulated in a written or printed form, without such proof.

The ground upon which this distinction rests is that imputations against character, when reduced to writing or printed form, are capable of wider dissemination and longer perpetuation than when made merely by word of mouth, and therefore work more lasting effect and injurious results.

Hence certain kinds of charges may be made orally with impunity, which would if published in writing become actionable.

In all cases where a civil action may be maintained—a criminal prosecution may also be instituted.

Libel is deemed a crime because it tends to cause a breach of the peace, and this results in public detriment. In former times it was considered probable that the person defamed would be provoked to assault the libeller, or challenge him to combat, and upon this ground the jurisdiction of the criminal courts was based.

But libel is also considered the basis for civil action, because it is a violation of the personal right of reputation, and not by reason of presumable injury to public welfare. This distinction leads to important results.

Thus it is a rule in the law of libel and slander that there must be a "publication" of the defaming charge—that is, it must be told or made known to some other person than the party libelled.

In criminal law it is deemed sufficient publication if merely told or communicated to the party libelled because it is thought that he might be incensed to commit a breach of the peace. But there could be no civil action maintained unless the charge is communicated to a third party, for the reason that the plaintiff only sues in the civil courts because his reputation has been damaged and reputation is the value others place upon a person's character or ability.

POINTS OF LIBEL DEFENSE.

Proof of the thought of the publication is always a good defense in the United States to a civil action for libel, but at common law this is so far from being maintained that an established maxim is "The greater the truth the greater the libel."

The thought is that the greater the truth the more incensed the libelled party would become and the more inclined he would be to commit a breach of the peace. However, it is quite generally provided that the truth shall constitute a good defense, providing it was published with good motives and for justifiable ends—or in the interests of the public at large.

The publication of defamatory matter which is actionable, entitles the party defamed to compensation for the actual injury done him without regard to the motive with which the publication was made—in other words want of actual intent to injure furnishes no legal excuse.

It has been held to be no defense that the words were spoken in jest, or that the publication was the result of an honest mistake, as for instance the publisher's ignorance that the publication contained any libelous matter.

It is a necessary ingredient in both libel and slander that the publication be malicious.

A distinction is made between malice in fact and malice in law. The former denotes actual spite or ill-will; the latter "that disposition of mind which proceeds wrongful acts done without cause or excuse."

In ordinary cases of libel where there are no circumstances of privilege, which are claimed to render the charge excusable, malice is inferred from the falsity and defamatory nature of the charge and need not be specially proved.

When, however, there are circumstances of privilege, then actual malice must be proved by the plaintiff.

There are two classes of communication which are absolutely privileged.

First—proceedings in legislative assemblies in the transaction of public business, as reports upon any subject, etc., etc.

Second—proceedings in judicial tribunals.

Libel proceedings are essentially different from ordinary proceedings, because practically every procedure is reversed. The prosecution or plaintiff merely proves publication—then the defense must carry on the rest of the case. The prosecution will, after merely proving publication, rest its case. In proceedings other than libel the prosecution is frequently more involved and more tedious than the defense and many points have to be proved to the hilt—the onus probandi resting entirely with the plaintiff.

Referring back to the accounting viewpoint—supposing that our hypothetical company has been sued for libel and has lost, with the result that damages to a considerable amount have to be paid—how would this be handled in the books of the company?

In the first place the amount of the damages plus costs—if that was the verdict of the court—would have to be paid to the attorney for the defense—our attorney, and his account being credited with this amount first, legal expenses would be debited with the corresponding amount.

It would then be in order to charge off a portion of this expense each month until the whole expense had been liquidated.

It would not be in order to charge it all off in one amount as this would throw the monthly Profit & Loss Account out of all comparison with the next preceding month.

It might be treated by debiting Profit & Loss Account as a special entry in the Private or General Ledger—but this would not be advisable because the monthly statements would then show no trace at all of the expense—the only record appearing at the close of the year in the annual statement.

By far the best method is to charge off a portion each and every month and as libel originates in the editorial department it will be charged to that department. If it is a common affair to sued for libel it might be well to appropriate a fixed amount each and every month to meet such expenses.

[NOTE.—This article was intended to appear in THE FOURTH ESTATE of September 1, 1917, but for certain editorial reasons publication was withheld until the present date. This will account for the apparent irregular sequence in the number of the articles. The next number will be XIX.—EDITOR.]

Fire has wrecked the office and plant of the Rugby (N. D.) Farmers News, a weekly newspaper recently established.

The Hamilton (Ohio) Journal celebrated its thirty-second birthday on December 20.

NASSAU QUALITY METALS

ALWAYS UNIFORM

ELECTROTYPE
LINOTYPE MONOTYPE
INTERTYPE
STEREOTYPE
AUTOPLATE
THOMPSON TYPE
COMPOSOTYPE

Manufactured by the
Nassau Smelting & Refining Works
608 West 39th Street NEW YORK

We want you to get into the habit to

Phone the Manhattan Man
for Your Engraving

GOOD WORK
PROMPT SERVICE
FAIR PRICES

Tell the story of 23 Years of Successful Service.

MANHATTAN PHOTO ENGRAVING CO.

251-253 William Street NEW YORK
Phone, Worth 1657-8.

J. M. HUBER

Manufacturer of Black and Colored

News Inks

Main Office: 65-67 W. Houston Street
NEW YORK CITY

Color, Varnish & Ink Factories
BROOKLYN, N. Y.
Carbon Black Works, DOLA, W. VA.

SERVICE BRANCHES
Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Omaha, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Philadelphia, San Francisco

Newspaper PLATE and MATRICES

60c per page and up.

If you wish to share in the benefits of co-operation, write

The United Newspaper Plate Co
CANTON, OHIO.

DEFENDAM

ENGRAVING COMPANY, Inc.,
1931 Broadway, NEW YORK.

Half-Tones, Line Cuts
and Modern Engraving in all its branches at Tempting Prices.

STANLEY PROCESS
the perfect TYPE METAL

MADE BY
SYRACUSE SMELTING WORKS
BROOKLYN, N. Y. and CHICAGO, ILL.

Advertising Agencies and Newspaper Syndicates

When in a hurry call 8303 Spring
DAY } MATRICES
AND } STEREOTYPERS
NIGHT } ELECTROTYPERS

J. RUBIN CO. SERVICE
23 E. 4th St., N. Y.

Guaranteed Unbreakable
HERCULES
STEEL CHASES
and GALLEYS

Send for Quotations

Manufactured by AMERICAN STEEL CHASE COMPANY, INC.
28 Park Row, New York, N. Y.

THE PITTSBURG PRESS

HAS THE Largest DAILY AND SUNDAY CIRCULATION IN PITTSBURG

Foreign Advertising Representatives
I. A. KLEIN, Metropolitan Tower N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

IN THE AD FIELD.

ADVERTISING ACCOUNTS NOW BEING PLACED BY THE AGENCIES.

ATLAS, 450 4th av., N. Y.—Reported will make contracts with some Southern newspapers where they can secure co-operation for Pacific Coast Borax Co. (Twenty Mule Team Borax), N. Y.

DAUCHY, 9 Murray st., N. Y.—Reported anticipating planning campaign during coming year in suburban dailies for Allen S. Olmstead (Allen's Footcase and Mother Gray's Sweet Worm Powders), Le Roy, N. Y.

DECKER, Fuller Bldg., N. Y.—Placing 14-line 1-time orders with mail-order newspapers for H. D. Lincoln (rheumatism remedy), Attleboro, Mass.

FREEMAN, Mutual Bldg., Richmond, Va.—Reported contemplating campaign in Southern newspapers for Polk Miller Drug Co. (Polk Miller liver pills), Richmond, Va.

HOWLAND, 20 Broad st., N. Y.—Placing 75-line d.c. 1-time orders with newspapers generally for Mining & Industrial Age, N. Y.

MATOS, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Reported to be planning newspaper campaign for Polk Miller Drug Co. (Sargents Dog Remedies), Richmond, Va.

MORSE, 449 4th av., N. Y.—Again placing 4-inch 2-t.a.w. copy with newspapers for B. F. Allen & Co. (Reckams Pills), 417 Canal st., N. Y.

PRESBREY, 456 4th av., N. Y.—Reported will confine advertising during the coming year to newspapers and is now placing copy with newspapers generally for Shredded Wheat Co. (Shredded Wheat), Niagara Falls, N. Y.

REMINGTON, 1280 Main st., Buffalo, N. Y.—Placing special copy with newspapers for Foster Milburn Co. (Doan's Kidney Pills), 1280 Main st., N. Y.

SEAMAN, 401 8th av., N. Y.—

THE NEW YORK WORLD

(Morning Edition)

Prints MORE
ADVERTISING
than any other newspaper prints.

The Open Door to the workshop of the world

The Philadelphia Record

Special Representatives
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY,
Fifth Avenue Bldg., NEW YORK
Peoples Gas Bldg., CHICAGO

FOR NEW ORLEANS

WISE
ADVERTISERS
USE THE

ITEM

Daily . . 60,756
Sunday 77,438
Average 63,217

U.S.P.O.
Report of
Oct. 1, 1917
and
A.B.C.

Placing copy with newspapers for Mentholum Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THOMPSON, 242 Madison av., N. Y.—Reported will use combination of national and local farm papers for Corning Glass Co. (Cornaphore Auto Headlight Lens), Corning, N. Y.

GOLDSMITH, 23 E. 26th st., N. Y.—Reported planning newspaper campaign for Carrick, Lerken & Bandler (clothing), N. Y.

WILLIAMS & CUNNINGHAM, Mellers Bldg., Chicago—Planning campaign in agricultural publications for American Tobacco Co. (Lucky Strike cigarettes), N. Y.

ROBERTS & MACAVINCHE, 32 N. Dearborn st., Chicago—Placing orders in mail order, agricultural and weekly papers for Chicago Tailors Assn., Chicago.

HUSBAND & THOMAS, Marshall Field Bldg., Chicago—Sending out orders to magazines for advertising of University Research, Milwaukee.

FOLEY, Bulletin Bldg., Philadelphia—Secured account of H. G. McFaddin & Co. (Emerald electric fixtures), N. Y.

CAMPBELL-EWALD, 117 W. Fort st., Detroit—Secured account of Parrett Tractor Co., Chicago, and will soon release orders to agricultural papers.

DOW, JONES & CO., 208 S. La Salle st., Chicago—Sending out orders to metropolitan newspapers for A. D. O'Neil Co. (investments), Chicago.

RANKIN, Monroe Bldg., Chicago—Renewing contracts for 1918 for advertising of Carnation Milk Products Co. (Carnation Milk), Seattle, Wash.

LORD & THOMAS, Mellers Bldg., Chicago—Renewing contracts with newspapers for Waukesha Pure Food Co., Waukesha, Wis.

REISMAN, People's Gas Bldg., Chicago—Sending out orders to foreign language papers for Edward Illnes Farm Land Co., Chicago.

THOMPSON-KOCH, 3 W. 6th av., Cincinnati—Renewing contracts for Neuralgylone Co., Wheeling, W. Va.

CHURCHILL-HALL, 50 Union sq., N. Y.—Secured account of Dorin's toilet preparations, represented by F. R. Arnold & Co., N. Y.

JOINS THE A.N.P.A.

The Fredonia (Kan.) Daily Herald has been elected to associate membership in the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

BOSTON POST

CIRCULATION NOVEMBER, 1917
"NO RETURNS"

The Daily Post 497,774

The Sunday Post 345,362

KELLY-SMITH CO., Representatives
230 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK

Lytton Building CHICAGO

Today's Housewife

Net Paid For Every
Guaranteed Issue

GEORGE A. McLELLAN, President
461 Fourth Avenue NEW YORK

DON'T CRIPPLE PRODUCING STAFFS.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Sir: The publishers of newspapers have, as well as many national and local advertisers, had the fact demonstrated as clearly and undeniably that a non-progressive or a "let-well-enough-alone" business policy, is not calculated to stimulate business.

The trade journals devoted to the interests of newspapers and newspaper people have spoken from time to time of the great improvement in general business conditions throughout the Dominion of Canada. These articles apparently backed up the different individual opinions that I had received.

Encouraging reports of this nature were very pleasing to me and I was greatly surprised upon receiving, at a very late date, a letter from a Canadian advertising representative sneaking in very emphatic terms of the "hard up" business policy of most newspapers generally throughout Canada. I spent over one and a half years in Canada during which time I formed, from personal observation and reports, a very high opinion of the progressive spirit of the average Canadian publisher.

If business conditions have greatly improved, how can the Canadian newspaper be "hard up?"

How can they, if they hope to secure their share of this increased business condition, sanely adopt a "hard up" business policy?

Canada is a hustling country. Canadians are hustling people and the newspapers, as a class, have proven their right to be called "progressive."

Figuring along the lines of conditions as I personally met them, during my stay in the Dominion—the great energy of the Canadian newspaper—it hardly seems possible, to me, that a false sense of economy would be allowed to take the controlling hand in the management of newspaper properties.

The man behind the advertising campaign cannot be expected to put his money in non-progressive channels.

Newspaper publishers know this and should not allow themselves to drift into too narrow a channel of retrenchment.

Economy is all right and is absolutely necessary in each instance where it reduces waste or luxurious

ST. PAUL DISPATCH (Evening)

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS
(Morning and Sunday)

The papers that go into over 2,900 cities and towns in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin, Montana and Iowa.

The prestige of these mediums is best understood by their own circulation figures: A carrier delivered circulation in over 90% of English-reading St. Paul homes, and a broad circulation throughout the prosperous Northwest. A circulation gained by printing an excellent news service, high grade comics, and well-known special feature articles.

Circulation averages for October, 1917:
Dispatch 80,334
Pioneer Press 68,265
Sunday Pioneer Press 78,751

YOU MUST USE THE

LOS ANGELES EXAMINER

TO COVER THE

GREAT SOUTHWEST

Largest Sunday Circulation—more than 150,000

methods.

It is not economy, however, where it reduces the quality of the producing staff.

The fighting spirit of Canada is strong—Canadian patriotism for the Mother Country is powerful, but beautiful, to witness and know about. I saw it displayed.

With such spirit prevalent throughout, one could hardly expect to find upon the part of the newspaper publishers, any inclination towards timidity.

Economize throughout the entire newspaper plant, where waste or luxury exists, but keep your producing ends—your advertising and circulation departments—properly equipped to bring about the results necessary to your newspaper's financial growth.

EDWIN T. JONES.

GOVERNMENT AD EXPERT COMPLETES WORK.

J. W. Sanger, whom the Government Department of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, recently sent to South America to make a study of advertising there for the information of American business men, has returned to the United States after having completed his mission.

The report on his work has not yet been issued.

"NO CAUSE FOR ACTION."

The jury in the case of Michael McCabe, a Nyack (N. Y.) publisher sued for $10,000 libel by Edward Seifert, a retired New York business man, returned a verdict on December 20 of "no cause for action."

McCabe is alleged to have printed an article stating that Seifert was a German sympathizer.

LARGEST Morning Circulation in the Nation's Capital.

THE WASHINGTON POST

DAILY 2c—SUNDAY 5c

Member A.B.C.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
New York Chicago Boston Detroit

The Cincinnati Community

consists of an area of 70 square miles with a population of 600,000.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

is the MEDIUM YOU SHOULD USE in this unparalleled market.

Foreign Representatives

John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago
I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, New York

NO GOVERNMENT BAN ON FOOD ADS.

(Continued from Second Page.)

ard flour because the Food Administration wants to bring about a condition of affairs wherein flour will be consumed in the district in which it is produced instead of being shipped halfway across the continent. But that is not equivalent to saying that millers have been instructed or advised to stop advertising, or that the Food Administration feels that its advertising is superfluous.

On the contrary, there is a feeling at the Food Administration that millers who want to preserve their goodwill and maintain the prestige of their brand names through this temporary interval of enforced uniformity of quality have more reason than ever to advertise energetically.

In stating their side of the case the Food Administration officials also point to the current big-space newspaper campaigns of the Pillsbury and Washburn-Crosby interests as the best refutation of the theory that standardized flour means a slump in millers' advertising. These campaigns are taken to indicate that when an old-established firm suddenly finds it necessary to take a new tack in advertising, or to advertise substitutes, more space will be taken than would have been necessary to maintain the momentum of a brand, the name of which had already become a household word.

However, the prize "exhibit" of the Food Administration, designed to prove that it is not against advertising but most decidedly for it, is found in the field of corn products. Prior to the beginning of the present movement to encourage an increased consumption of corn as the best and easiest way to save the wheat, none of the firms in the corn milling field, with the single exception of the Corn Products Company, had done much advertising.

Under the new order of things, the Association of White Corn Millers and other producing interests have already taken full page space in many newspapers and the officials of the Food Administration hint that this is not a circumstance to the rush of private advertising that will be placed to enable advertisers to cash in on the Food Administration's propaganda that will start in January.

STRETCHING THE TRUTH.

When THE FOURTH ESTATE correspondent called to the attention of Mr. Hoover and his chief aids the action of certain national advertisers in cancelling or amending their contracts with an insinuation if not an actual declaration that the curtailment was "on orders" from the Government, the comment was forthcoming that any such shifting of responsibility involves a stretching of the truth, to express it most mildly.

Possibly if an advertiser wants to

A Great Food Medium

Implies quality and quantity circulation. Home influence. Responsive attitude of Housewife. None surpass the

Trenton TIMES

Member of A.B.C.

24,000

2c. Circulation.

KELLY-SMITH CO.

220 5th Ave., N. Y. Lytton Bldg., Chi.

Topeka Daily Capital

GOVERNMENT REPORT

for six months ending October 1, 1917, showing net paid circulation

33,924

Member A.B.C.

Arthur Capper TOPEKA, KAN. Publisher

put the blame on the shoulders of Uncle Sam there are circumstances under which he can get away with it. For example, if an advertiser has been advertising pork and beans and Uncle Sam tells the packer that he must not put any of the precious pork with his beans during the war pinch that advertiser might be technically correct if he excused a request for cancellation of contract on the pretext that Uncle Sam has "interfered" with his advertising.

However, the official view at Washington is that such an advertiser would be simply taking advantage of a doubtful technicality. The idea of Mr. Hoover is that an advertiser should, under such circumstances, switch his space to some other line. And because the average big advertiser of food specialties has a whole "family" of products, it is his theory that it should be a simple matter in the average case to transpose the copy and maintain the normal advertising gait.

If advertisers choose to construe as orders to "cease firing" in the advertising columns the regulations that are from time to time issued to conserve wheat, meat, fats, etc., the chances are that they will not lack opportunities in future for this sort of camouflage.

Just as the Food Administration's regulations have in the recent past rendered inaccurate the use on bread of such trade names as "Cream Crust," "Butter Krust" and "Sugar Loaf" so may there be other revisions of the menu as Uncle Sam tightens his belt.

Then again some advertisers may declare that their ambition to advertise has suddenly oozed if the Food Administration decides, as it is very likely to do, to follow the example of Canada and prohibit the marketing of cereals, breakfast foods, etc., in small containers.

NO VETO ON ADVERTISING.

But whether the Food Administration is taken at its word that it has not placed any veto upon advertising or the version is accepted of the manufacturer who contends that it has done what amounts to the same thing by depriving him of advertising capital, it is only fair to give heed to the confident claim made by Mr. Hoover that any loss in advertising will be overshadowed by the gain.

The Food Administrator not only points to the increased advertising that is being carried by some of the producers who have had to rearrange their programs and to the energetic

St. Louis Globe-Democrat

dominates the morning field.

Government statement six months ending September 30, 1917

138,252

The clean home-going family newspaper.

National Representatives
F. St. J. Richards, Tribune Bldg., N. Y.
Guy S. Osborn, Tribune Bldg., Chicago
J. R. Sclero, Ford Building, Detroit
R. J. Bidwell, 740 Market St., San Francisco.

PATERSON

New Jersey's Famous Manufacturing City PRESS

Its BIG Independent Newspaper

G. LOGAN PAYNE COMPANY
New York Chicago Detroit Boston

promotion of substitutes such as the various corn products, but also to the appearance in the advertising columns of the newspapers of a number of new food specialties or novelties which were not strong enough to make a loud advertising bid for patronage until the present disturbance of the food market gave them the opportunity for which they have long been waiting and which has been eagerly seized.

NOTES OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER MEN ABROAD.

Heywood Brown of the New York Tribune, attached to the American Army at its training camp in France, has announced that he will return to America after the first of the year.

Charles Wythe Williams of the New York Times has gone to Italy to witness the Italian stand along the Piave.

Philip M. Powers of the Associated Press, formerly stationed at Berne, Switzerland, has gone to Italy to be stationed with the British expeditionary force there.

Frank Wader of the Associated Press Paris staff acted as publicity agent for the American mission during the Inter-Ally conference held in Paris. He has resumed his duties with the Associated Press.

Robert Doman, formerly of the New York Sun and recently of the Paris edition of the New York Herald, has gone over to the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune.

Naboth Hedin of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle has been transferred from the Paris bureau to the American training camp near the front and J. B. Hirsch is filling in for him in Paris.

Lowell Mallett of the London bureau of the United Press was in Paris handling the British end of the Inter-Ally conference last week.

"Cal" Lyons of the Newspaper Enterprise Association is no longer stationed in Paris. He is now back with the American expeditionary force at its training camp.

Floyd Gibbons of the Chicago Tribune has left the American camp and is now writing from Paris. He expects to visit the Italian front soon.

Joseph Grigg of the New York World's London bureau recently passed through Paris on his way to the Italian front.

Henry G. Wales of the International News Service's Paris bureau recently visited the Lafayette Escadrille of American volunteer aviators at their flying field north of Soissons.

A Gain of 73%

During the past four years the Detroit Free Press has enjoyed a gain of 73 per cent in circulation. Character and solidity explain this increase. ADVERTISING MUST PAY in a medium which calls forth such a tremendous response from the public.

The Detroit Free Press

"MICHIGAN'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER."

VERREE & CONKLIN, Foreign Reps.
NEW YORK CHICAGO DETROIT

Baltimore News

Net Daily Circulation November, 1917, 95,719
Gain over November, 1916, 9,802

Special Representatives

DAN A. CARROLL J. E. LUTZ
New York Chicago

UNUSED WATER POWER.

From the Duluth Herald.

If half the energy that has been put into fighting over the terms on which the water powers in the public domain of this country should be developed had been devoted to developing these water powers, the country would now be getting great benefit from them. While the quarrel about how these water powers are to be utilized has been going on vigorously and often venomously, the water powers have been going to waste and the country's need of them has been increasing every day.

They are going to waste today, and yet the nation's war work could be enormously expedited if it had the advantage of this cheap power now running uselessly away.

These water powers should be developed as speedily as possible. That does not mean that they should be thrown wide open to profiteers, as we did with the coal and oil and mineral and timber wealth of the country to our bitter cost. That should never happen again.

These water powers should never be alienated from public possession and public control. They should be leased on terms that will offer capital the incentive needed to arouse its interest, but that will leave rates, service and profits under Government control in the public interest.

Congress ought, early in this session, to enact a water power development law that will, while fully preserving the public interest, offer ample returns to private capital that is willing to enlist in the public service at fair pay.

Washington Newspapers

Sworn statements of the newspapers at the National Capitol to the Post Office Department for the six months ending September 30, 1917:

Evening Star 88,752
Evening Times 42,375
Washington Post 47,032
Herald (over) 25,000

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS

The only Buffalo newspaper that censors its advertising columns. Many of our advertisers use our columns exclusively. The above is one of the many reasons WHY?

EDWARD H. BUTLER, Editor and Pub.
Represented in the foreign field by
KELLY-SMITH COMPANY
220 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK.
Linton Building, CHICAGO.

Presses and printing machinery of any kind can probably be quickly sold through an advertisement in THE FOURTH ESTATE, which reaches the best line of buyers.

WHAT STATE SENATE WANTS FROM INFORMATION BUREAU.

The Gallinger Resolution introduced in the Senate last week, calling for information about the Committee on Public Information (referred to briefly in the last issue of THE FOURTH ESTATE) follows in full:

Resolved, That, if not incompatible with the public interest, the Committee on Public Information is hereby directed to furnish the following information to the Senate:

"What compensation, in salary or allowance for expenses, is paid to the civilian chairman of the committee?"

"At what date did such salary or allowance begin, and what is the sum so paid up to the first day of December, 1917?"

"What are the names of the persons composing the staff of the committee, when was each employed, what compensation, in salary or allowance for expenses, is paid to each; and what is the total sum paid to each up to the first day of December, 1917?"

"What persons not now attached to the committee's staff have been employed since the organization of the committee and December 1, 1917?"

"What duties did each perform and what sum, in salary or allowance for expenses, was paid therefor?"

"What other expenses have been incurred by the committee in the course of its work up to the first of December, 1917?"

PRIETH CASE NEXT MONTH.

Counsel for Benedict Prieth, Edwin S. Prieth and the staff members of their paper, the New Jersey Freie Zeitung of Newark, N. J., who were indicted on charges of treason, has filed a demurrer to the indictments, which probably will be argued before the Supreme Court of the United States next month.

The question at issue is whether published statements can constitute treason—a capital offense.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR

MORNING—EVENING—SUNDAY

Each Issue

Over 200,000 Circulation

It Pays to Advertise in the ST. LOUIS TIMES

Now generally recognized as the HOME NEWSPAPER OF ST. LOUIS.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
350 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Krepps Building, DETROIT

The DAYTON SUNDAY NEWS and SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY NEWS NEWS LEAGUE OF OHIO

(the two at .055 per line) are a great combination.

I. A. Klein, Metropolitan Tower, N. Y.
John Glass, Peoples Gas Bldg., Chicago

LINOTYPES SOLD.

Among those who have recently procured Linotypes are the following:

Raleigh (N. C.) Independent; Columbia (Pa.) News; Franklin Printing Company, Columbus, Ohio; Marion (Ind.) Chronicle; Cambridge (Mass.) Mailing Company; Ingleside Press, Chicago; Alton (Ill.) Times; Arcadia (La.) Democrat; Fraternal Press, Chicago; Olean (N. Y.) Times; Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union; Bradfield Brothers Printing Company, Dallas, Tex.; Portland (Me.) Express; Scottville (Mich.) Enterprise;

Hartford City (Ind.) News; Tulsa (Okla.) Democrat & Times; Gadsden (Ala.) Journal; Helena (Mont.) Independent; Shelby Printing Company, Shelby, Ohio; Susquehanna (Pa.) Transcript & Ledger; Akron (Ohio) Times; Hartford (Ky.) Republican; Tionesta (Pa.) Republican; Hederman Brothers, Jackson, Miss.; Record Linotyping Company, Pittsburg; Elm Creek (Neb.) Beacon; Saginaw (Mich.) Courier-Herald; Alma Press, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BIG YEAR FOR THE DETROIT SATURDAY NIGHT.

The Detroit Saturday Night is closing the most prosperous year in its history and despite conditions in general made magnificent advertising and circulation gains in 1917. This weekly publication, occupying as it does a distinct position in the newspaper field published over 1,500,000 lines of advertising during the past year, a gain of 350,000 lines as compared with 1916. A net gain of twenty-five per cent was made in circulation.

Following the usual custom the Detroit Saturday Night distributed over $5,000 among employees at Christmas time.

OREGON EDITORS TRADE.

C. Milton Schultz of the Myrtle Point (Ore.) Enterprise has traded his publication for the Oregon Motorist, published in Portland by W. R. Smith. The name of the Myrtle Point publication will hereafter be the Southern Coos County American.

VERNON LEADS GRIDIRONERS.

Leroy Tudor Vernon, Washington correspondent for the Chicago Daily News, has been chosen president of the Gridiron Club, an organization composed of Washington newspaper men.

The NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL

has the largest circulation of any newspaper in America.

THE Philadelphia BULLETIN Dominates Philadelphia

The largest 2c circulation in the East. Goes daily into most of Philadelphia's 375,000 homes.

Net Average NOVEMBER 366,435 COPIES A DAY.

WILLIAM L. McLEAN, Publisher.

SANGREE NOW SONG WRITER.

Allen Sangree, who was one of the first of newspaper and fiction writers to familiarize the public with the life, habits and thought of the baseball player, has achieved a new triumph as the writer of a widely sung war song, called "Your Old Uncle Sam" and sung to the tune of "The Old Grey Mare." It is being distributed on Columbia records and during the first five days of the sale in Harrisburg, Pa., Sangree's home town, where he is now residing, 500 of them were sold.

ALLEN SANGREE.

The Government at Washington has included it in the War Department's collection of martial songs. The New York Committee of Defense is sending it out wholesale to national army, and in Pennsylvania it is sung and played by all troops and bands in the state.

Sangree's sole lyrical activity previous to this was a collection of Boer songs and the third-rail lilt of the Irish Brigade, which he accompanied as correspondent of the Pietermaritzburg Volksstem and representative of American magazines. He wrote the Uncle Sam song one even

THE SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD

October 1st, 1917

Government Statement

Daily (Net Paid) CIRCULATION 54,470

April, 1917 Figures—A.B.C. Basis. —Only morning paper in the metropolis of a rich, agricultural and manufacturing territory.

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.
250 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK
Mallers Building, CHICAGO
201 Devonshire Street, BOSTON
Krepps Building, DETROIT

BALTIMORE CITY OF HOMES

and noted for its great industries and thrifty working classes, affords National Advertisers one of the best fields. Use the

AMERICAN and STAR

Morning—Sunday Evening

Baltimore's greatest newspapers, to thoroughly cover city and state. Member A.B.C.

C. GEORGE KROGNES, Chicago

VERREE & CONKLIN, Inc., New York

ing on the departure of the eighth regiment of the Pennsylvania National Guard and it woke up the city on the Susquehanna, in which the admirable Mr. Tener, a former baseball player, has sat as governor. Indeed, it was a real home run sort of fighting song.

The author of the music is Frank Panella, a handmaster of Pittsburgh. The Columbia promoters are advertising it through the newspapers.

Sangree's baseball character fiction first attracted attention in the Saturday Evening Post, and, with others, was brought out between covers by the Macmillans under the title of "The Jinx, and Other Stories."

REVISING THE PAPER ROLL WIDTHS DIRECTORY.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association's paper committee is compiling a directory of paper roll widths of daily newspapers in the United States and Canada. Proofs have already been sent to newspapers with the request that corrections be made and returned immediately to the committee, 903 World Building, New York.

The final bulletin will be issued late in February, with revised information on 1918 contracts.

PRESS CLUB IN SPRINGFIELD.

The first regular meeting of the Springfield (Ill.) Press Club, just organized, will take place on January 8.

C. Walter Eden of the State Register has been chosen president, with Halbert O. Crews of the News-Record as vice-president and Aubrey Cribb of the State Journal as secretary-treasurer.

AGAIN PUBLISHING.

The Amsterdam (Holland) Vroedarts, the Socialist organ, reported to have been ordered to suspend publication for three days, appeared unexpectedly on Sunday. It says its suspension was due to criticism of the provisioning of war invalids under the heading "Let Them Go Beg."

SENT OUT OF CHINA.

Gilbert Reid, American editor of the Pekin (China) Post, accused of being a pro-German propagandist and sympathizer, has been deported to Manila.

DANA SLEETH RESIGNS

Dana Sleeth, editor of the Los Angeles Record, has resigned.

THE Boston Herald
(Morning and Sunday) and the Boston Traveler
(Evening)

Net Paid Circulation
DAILY, over 208,000
Sunday, over 119,000

Member Audit Bureau of Circulations.

THE JOURNAL
IS THE ONLY MORNING AND SUNDAY PAPER PUBLISHED IN
DAYTON, OHIO

STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.
Fifth Ave. Bldg., NEW YORK.
Mutual Life Bldg., PHILADELPHIA.
Peoples Gas Building, CHICAGO.

Presses and printing machinery of any kind can probably be quickly sold through an advertisement in THE FOURTH ESTATE, which reaches the best line of buyers.

CRAFTSMEN WITH THE COLORS

Edward B. Clark, for several years
Washington correspondent of the Western Newspaper Union and the Chicago Evening Post, has been commissioned captain in the Army and has been assigned to service in the war college. Mr. Clark has represented the Western Newspaper Union and the Evening Post on the European battle fronts.

James J. Shenoha, assistant art manager of the Chicago American, has joined the long list of Hearst men who have entered military service. He is the twenty-seventh man to go from the American office.

O. R. Miner, city editor of the Aberdeen (S. D.) American, and William Mueller, A.P. operator on the same paper, have entered the Army.

Harold H. Stevens, city editor of the Paxton (Ill.) Record, has enlisted in the aviation corps.

Among the fifty employees of the Indianapolis Star who have joined the colors is Harmon Bross, son of Ernest Bross, managing editor of the Star, who is with a headquarters company in France.

First Lieutenant William C. Mc-Clure, formerly assistant city editor of the Star, is now at Fort Riley, Kan.

H. Austin Simmons, formerly a reporter on the Chicago Examiner, is a conscientious objector at Camp Grant, Ill. He has refused to don a uniform and has been placed under arrest.

John S. deLue of the Chicago Daily News sports staff has resigned to become a war aviator.

Capt. Grover Sexton, formerly of the Chicago Herald, has been promoted to the rank of major.

Robert J. Casey, formerly of the Chicago Journal, has been made second lieutenant.

The Country Magazine, published at Madison, Wis., has contributed a

BRIDGEPORT

CONNECTICUT
(The Eden of America)
The Prosperity Center of the United States and the Industrial Center of New England.

THE Post & Telegram

(Evening) (Morning)
Cover This Field Absolutely.
Members of the A.B.C.
JULIUS MATHEWS, Representative
1 Beacon Street, BOSTON
171 Madison Avenue, NEW YORK
Hartford Building, CHICAGO

JOLIET The PITTSBURGH of the West

Surrounded by the most fertile agricultural section in the ILLINOIS corn belt. Covered by but one daily newspaper, the

HERALD-NEWS

ALCORN-HENKEL, Representative
New York Chicago

full quota of men to the country's service.

W. P. Hayes, business manager, and J. A. Anderson, advertising manager, have enlisted in the engineering corps.

Elmer E. Clark, editor, and J. N.
Elliott, former editor, have been given lieutenantcies.

D. L. Runnells, state editor of the Detroit Journal, has enlisted in the quartermaster corps.

The Chicago Daily News is publishing Trench and Camp for the soldiers at Camp Grant, under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A.

Robert Newhall, sports editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, has received a commission as first lieutenant of the aviation section of the signal corps with orders to hold himself in readiness for instant service.

The San Francisco Press Club has fifty-three members and three of its employees now serving with the colors.

Merritt Crawford, managing publisher of the Exhibitors Trade Review, has been commissioned a captain in the 7th regiment, New York guard.

Philip R. Brown of the Wall Street News Bureau is a second lieutenant.

Lieutenant Larkin Flanigan, formerly of the Chicago Tribune editorial staff, has been placed in charge of the press headquarters at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill.

Raymond B. Bowen of Outlook, president of the Representatives Club of New York, has entered the aviation branch of the Army.

The Macon (Ga.) News has furnished Willis B. Sparks to the officers training camp.

A. T. Patterson of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Record has enlisted in the Army.

E. M. Kerr, for many years editor of the Muskogee (Okla.) Times-Democrat, has been commissioned a major in the national army and has been assigned to the staff of the adjutant general. He has disposed of his newspaper interests.

Arthur James, director of publicity
of the Metro Pictures Corporation,

The BILLBOARD

reaching, as it does, all concession-aires at Parks, Piers, Beaches, Fairs, Expositions, Theatres, etc., etc., is an excellent medium in which to exploit.

SOFT DRINKS.

Concessionaires buy in wholesale quantities.

Address

The Billboard Publishing Co
Member A.B.C.

New York, Chicago, Cincinnati.

The Plain Dealer

First Newspaper of Cleveland, Sixth City
prints a far greater total
of paid advertising and paid advertisements than any other newspaper in

CLEVELAND

Over 175,000 Daily. Over 200,000 Sunday.

JOHN B. WOODWARD, Eastern Advertising Representative, Times Bg., N. Y.
JOHN GLASS, Western Advertising Representation, People Gas Bg., Chicago

INDIANAPOLIS STAR BOYS WITH "UNCLE SAM."

When war was declared against Germany the classified department of the Indianapolis Star at once gave the Government assistance.

When the Rainbow Division was formed Edwin Shay Whitaker enlisted, was accepted and is now fighting somewhere in France. When the second Indiana field artillery was formed a few weeks ago four of the six classified solicitors—Albert Hockinsmith, Russell Stevens, Carl Weaver and Albert Evans—enlisted.

The above picture of the boys was drawn by "Chic" Jackson of the Indianapolis Star and was used as a Christmas card by the classified department. These four boys are very enthusiastic to get to the front and do their bit for the Government.

New York, and formerly with the New York Morning Telegraph, has received a commission as first lieutenant of the machine gun company,

The special features of THE BUFFALO TIMES

have made it the most popular newspaper in
Western New York

NORMAN E. MACK, Proprietor.
VERREB & CONKLIN, Inc.,
Special Advertising Representatives,
NEW YORK, DETROIT, CHICAGO

DALLAS EVENING JOURNAL

Published by
A. H. Belo & Co.
Covers the afternoon field as completely as does the Dallas News in the morning.
40,655 NET PAID average during 6
months period ending Oct. 1.
1917. P. O. Report.
LARGEST AFTERNOON Circulation
J. D. LORENTZ, Manager Eastern Dept.
788 Tribune Building, NEW YORK

7th regiment, New York guard.

Charles P. Eddy, treasurer-secretary of the Charles H. Eddy Com-

CHARLES P. EDDY.

pany, Inc., daily newspaper representative, has enlisted in the flying section of the aviation corps and is

THE PITTSBURGH POST

ONLY Democratic Paper In Pittsburg

CONE, LORENZEN & WOODMAN
Special Representatives
New York, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago

W. D. BOYCE CO.

600-614 North Dearborn St., CHICAGO
205 Metropolitan Tower, NEW YORK

PUBLISHER

THE INDIANA DAILY TIMES

INDIANAPOLIS.

BOYCE'S WEEKLIES

The Saturday Blade, Chicago Ledger.

THE LONE SCOUT

"BOYCE'S" IS A SYNONYM for
SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISING

Schenectady POPULATION 100,000
EVENING
EXCEPT Union Star
SUNDAY.

AUDITED
CIRCULATION 20,643

Home circulation reaching best paid
scientific, technical and skilled mechanics
in America.

LA COSTE & MAXWELL
Special Representatives
NEW YORK CHICAGO

awaiting orders to report to one of the training schools for officers.

Captain H. B. McKinnon, R.F.C., who was agricultural editor of the Toronto Globe prior to his enlistment two years ago, has been reported slightly wounded.

T. H. Rentz, sports writer on the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, has joined the Navy.

Dr. Henry Raymond Mussey, who resigned recently from the teaching staff of Columbia University, New York, has joined the Nation, New York, and will take up his work on February 1.

A. L. Hart of the Telegraph enlisted in a cavalry troop that became a divisional headquarters troop.

James Markham, editor of the St.
Peter (Minn.) Herald and formerly a Minneapolis newspaper man, has joined the aviation forces.

OWN AND KEEP YOUR FREEDOM BOND.

EDITOR THE FOURTH ESTATE.

SIR: Advertising merchandise for sale in exchange for Liberty Bonds is unpatriotic and should be stopped.
This is also officially the attitude of the Treasury Department. I was informed last week in Washington.

Newspapers should not tender their advertising columns to the conversion of Freedom Bonds.

Window show-cards making similar offers should also not be displayed.

In future "Own and Keep Some Liberty Bonds" should supersede the poster slogan "Buy a Liberty Bond."

Attention of the trade press and of the vigilance committees of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World is urgently called to this seditious propaganda. Automobile manufacturers and department stores have been especially thoughtless in thus putting their own selfish interests above our country's.

With additional Liberty Bonds to be floated, old issues should be maintained as near par as possible.
Convertibility of Liberty Bonds is a good selling argument, but should not be featured to get citizens to unload their holdings.

Yours for victory,
J. HENRY SMYTHE, JR.

The BEST Advertising BUY in CLEVELAND

Te NEW S

Quality Evening Newspaper
With Quantity Circulation

The LEADER

Sunday

Represented by PAUL BLOCK, Inc.,
260 Fifth Ave., NEW YORK
Mallory Bldg., CHICAGO
201 Devonshire St., BOSTON
Krepps Building, DETROIT

SEATTLE "P-I"

The only seven day A. P. paper in the Metropolis of the entire Northwest.
The one paper in the entire West without competition in its field. It reaches into the homes of the most prosperous people on earth.

W.M. J. MORTON CO., Eastern Rep.,
Fifth Av. Bldg., NEW YORK
Tribune Building, CHICAGO

FAKE CAMP STORIES CAUSE WASTE OF FOOD.

As a warning to the public to beware of published stories that men at the Army training camps are unhappy, lonesome, without food and dejected, the War Department has made public a letter from Postmaster Wolfe at Chillicothe, Ohio, dealing with a specific case.

"Last week," wrote Postmaster Wolfe, "a syndicate set of newspapers published the story about—(soldier's name deleted). He was lonesome and had never received a piece of mail since being in camp.
His picture went with the article and it made good reading.

"In yesterday's mail alone he received 1,200 letters, nineteen special delivery letters and parcels and fifty-four ordinary parcels. It happens he can neither read nor write. Mr.
Gregg made an examination, and he found nineteen soldiers sitting about him helping him read the mail, and they had lots of fun at the expense of sentimental women, but got all the money and stamps enclosed.

"An interesting feature is that — was not accepted by the army, but refused to leave. Other newspaper articles along the same line will simply swamp the camp offices."

Postmaster Wolfe wrote that tons of food was wasted at the camp during the Thanksgiving period due to food shipments sent in by friends and relatives. His office handled an average of 2,000 bags of mail a day for three days.

"Under no circumstances was the food needed," the letter says, "and of course tons of it went to waste. The public is warned not to send too much food."

A.P. EMPLOYEES INSURED.

Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, sent the following Christmas greeting to all A.P. employees:

"In this period of war the activities and the responsibilities of our service have steadily increased. It is a source of great pride to know that the men upon whom the burden has fallen have met their obligations with a measure of faithfulness and intelligence which has commanded the admiration of the membership of the organization and of the reading public alike. I congratulate and thank you.

"Nearing the close of a year of unparalleled trials, in which every

THE

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH

steadily advances, (not spasmodically) as the leading newspaper in its field.

H. C. Rook, Real Est. Trust Bldg., Phila.
W. G. Brooks, 225 Fifth Av., New York
Ford-Parsons Co., Michigan Av., Chicago
W. E. Edge, Atlantic City, N. J.
Dorland Co., 19 Regent St., London, Eng

The City of Richmond 15,309 qualified
VIRGINIA, has voters

THE TIMES-DISPATCH RICHMOND.

is delivered 12,000 of the city's
daily into best homes

In all VIRGINIA it's the same.
STORY, BROOKS & FINLEY, Inc.,
New York Philadelphia Chicago

Presses and printing machinery of any kind can probably be quickly sold through an advertisement in THE FOURTH ESTATE, which reaches the
best line of buyers.

one of you has given unexampled devotion, it affords me the greatest personal pleasure to add to my ac-knowledgegment of your comradeship the heartiest wishes for a Merry Christmas and a New Year of happiness and prosperity.

"And acting under orders of our board of directors, I beg to advise you that, as a partial recognition of your splendid loyalty and efficiency, from and after January 1, the life of each of you while in the service will be insured for the benefit of your heirs or dependents in the sum of $1,000."

WIRELESS TO LINK AMERICAS.

A plan to link the Americas from Alaska to Cape Horn in a system of wireless communication that will enable commercial houses ashore to talk daily to their clients in another continent and with the masters of commercial vessels engaged in trade between the North and South American continents has been formed by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America.

Work on a chain of stations to give the United States direct communication with Argentina will be started early in 1918, and as soon as concessions are obtained in other South American countries the company and its subsidiaries will take up plans for a series of stations on the continent.

The Circulation of the NEW YORK EVENING MAIL represents a greater purchasing power per unit of circulation than is found in any other New York Evening Paper.

NEW YORK

America's Greatest Jewish Community

THE DAY

America's Foremost
Jewish DailyReaches the cream of purchasing power of the Jewish element in America.CIRCULATION OVER 70,000
Despite advance in price
from one to two cents.THE DAY The National Jewish Daily.

Member A.B.C.

Main Publication Office:
163 East Broadway, NEW YORK

"ROMANUL"

The largest and oldest ROUMANIAN
daily newspaper in the United States
and Canada.The only real guide of 350,000 thrifty
readers and positive success to its advertisers.Full leased wire reports of United Press Association.
634-638 Huron Rd., CLEVELAND, O.
DR. D. MOLDOVAN, Pres. & Gen. Mgr.1918 ADVERTISING OUTLOOK.

(Continued from Second Page.)

have discovered the merits of the merchandise by using it. But it is common knowledge that they very seldom do discover these merits unaided.

THE FACTOR OF DEPRECIATION.

"The manufacturer has with him always a factor known as depreciation."If his business is run on a sound basis, he annually puts away a certain sum to keep his plant up-to-date."He knows if he does not spend this sum yearly, he will lose money in the long run. For it is more expensive to repair a run-down plant than to keep a fit plant continuously fit."A trade-mark reputation is just as subject to depreciation as is a manufacturing plant."The expense factor is just about the same kind of a factor."If apparent expense is saved—if the reputation of the trade-mark is allowed to depreciate—then an expenditure of money will repair the damage."But past experience has shown that it is far more expensive to rehabilitate a weakened trade-mark reputation than it is to maintain that reputation from year to year."If a plant is sold, the manufacturer is lucky to get back the cost of reproducing it."The difference between the cost of reproducing the plant and the price that would be commanded by business as a whole mainly represents the value of market good-will."With a successful business this difference is an immense one."It should bring home to the manufacturer very sharply the wisdom of keeping up his market good-will by every possible method within reason.

PUBLICITY HELPS ALL DEPARTMENTS.

"The good-will of one department of a business can seldom be separated from the good-will of the entire business."Anything, like publicity, which helps to give a business a high reputation helps every department of that business."Several years ago, a director in a company which put out a well known specialty product said: "We could afford to lose a million dollars a year on (naming the specialty). We wouldTHE
ST. LOUIS
WESTLICHE
POSTreaches the GERMAN
reading and speaking population of St. Louis as no other medium can.THE JEWISH
MORNING JOURNAL
NEW YORK CITYcarries more advertising than any other Jewish newspaper. Circulation in New York City largest of all foreign language newspapers. Member A.B.C.more than get it back in its value to the rest of our business." This condition, of course, was never faced.
The specialty was a handsome profit maker by itself."The well established manufacturer is not dealing with a month-to-month business. He is dealing with a business which is looking years into the future."He is probably dealing with a business with big aims before it."If these aims have been fulfilled in their progress to date, it seems that we should get it very clearly in our minds that their ultimate fulfillment will depend on the continuity of successful lines of action—whether or not immediate conditions are normal."Here is what other national advertising authorities have to say on the 1918 newspaper advertising outlook:A. H. Wood of Wood, Putnam & Wood Company, Boston:"We have not yet been able to form any definite opinion as to what the trend for 1918 is for newspaper advertising."The bulk of our business this past year has been with the newspapers and it does seem to us that newspaper advertising has not only come back but has come back to stay. In these uncertain times quick action is necessary and many advertisers are hesitating to enter into extensive magazine campaigns. The only thing that seems to be troubling some of our customers is the fear that the Government will take over certain factories of our clients as producers of non-essentials. If there could be some way of determining from Washington, or otherwise, just what list of manufactured articles come under this non-essential class, it would certainly release much advertising which otherwise is apt to be deferred or held up."Robert Tinsman, president of the Federal Advertising Agency, Inc.,
New York:"As to the newspaper advertising outlook for 1918, it looks like a big year to us. Advance schedules show nothing but confidence from our clients. It is a time for courage and not conciliations, and we are glad to say our clients seem to agree with this sentiment unanimously."H. K. McCann of the H. K. Mc-Cann Company, New York:

"With the war absorbing to an in-

MONTREAL

is CANADA'S largest and wealthiest city
—sixth in America in population; fourth largest French city in the world—and a wonderfully fine market for all kinds of advertised goods.

LA PRESSE

is Canada's largest circulating daily—over 145,000 and still growing—and it
thoroughly covers Montreal's population,
which is over 700,000, and of which 70
per cent is French Canadian element. Get particulars.W.M. J. MORTON CO., Special Reps.
NEW YORK, Fifth Ave. Building.
CHICAGO, Tribune Building.
LONDON, ENG., 19 Sicilian Avenue
Southampton Row.
PARIS, 9 rue de Rocher.

TELEGRAM CODZIENNY

A National American Daily and Sunday printed in the Polish language reaching over 150,000 readers.A Splendid Advertising Medium.
Phone Stuyvesant 2044.
90 East 10th Street, NEW YORKcreased extent our men, our money, and the products of our farms and factories, I anticipate a decrease in advertising activity during 1918, and until the end of the war."After the war is over, I look for very much increased activity in the advertising business. I believe that all of the European countries will strive to sell their goods in this market and that the competition and increased business activity will mean good business for all the advertising interests."For the present, however, our first duty is to win the war, and we must make every sacrifice to that end."Franklin P. Shumway of the Franklin P. Shumway Company, Boston."We find that, with the exception of factories that are working on war orders (and therefore largely tied up for 1918), New England advertisers are as a rule increasing their expenditures. There is a large disposition by them to so entrench the merits of their trade marks or trade named products, that at the close of the war they will have them so thoroughly known by consumers that they will not be seriously injured by either home or foreign competition."For ourselves, we have no complaint to make regarding the closing year's business, and indications point to satisfactory orders for 1917."Louis Honig of the Honig-Cooper Company, Inc., San Francisco:"The manufacturers in this section are going ahead tentatively with advertising campaigns for 1918.
Those with established trade-marked advertised brands realize the necessity of continuing advertising. It is doubtful if many new advertisers dealing in goods for which demand is greater than supply will be developed in 1918. In this territory one new national advertiser will make his appearance in consumer work in the Fall of 1918—the California prune and apricot growers. The general situation may be characterized by the phrase "Marking Time," with the possibility of a better advertising year than 1917. As soon as readjustment comes there will be an awakening of all business. In this section retailers enjoyed a larger Christmas business than in many years. The biggest department storeThe only journal outside of the United States published in the interest of newspaper men.THE 30 pages Weekly
NEWSPAPER
WORLDAnnual Postal Subscription
Everywhere $3.40.
(Established 1898)Specimen Copy Sent Free
Address: 14 Cross Street
FINSBURY, LONDON, ENG.

NARODNI List

Briscoe Motor Corp. of Jackson, Mich., has just placed 10,550 agents lines of Briscoe advertising in the Narodni List. This is the best proof that the Narodni List is one of the best advertising mediums in the foreign languages for National advertisers.Ideal Newspaper for National Advertisers
61 Park Row, NEW YORK
Phone 2939 Beckman.THE ONLY POLISH DAILY IN NEW ENGLAND.

Kurier Bostonski

87 Beverly St., BOSTON, MASS.

reaches 600,000 Poles in New England.
They want to buy your goods.

Use Kurier Bostonski

The Only ITALIAN Newspaper in
New England.

Published Daily and Sunday.

La Notizia—The News

33-34 Battery St. BOSTON

Consolidated with La Tribuna del Popolo and Il Messaggero di Worcester.100,000 Italians in Boston.
800,000 Italians in Massachusetts.
1,000,000 Italians in New England.in San Francisco sold more than $100,000 worth of goods on the Monday preceding Christmas."

Frank Seaman, Inc., New York:

"We are inclined to take a moderately optimistic view of the newspaper advertising outlook for 1918. It seems to us that there is likely to be a still more favorable consideration of the newspaper by general advertisers, and that if advertising appropriations are curtailed, the reaction is very likely to be in favor of the newspaper."During war times the newspaper is more eagerly sought for and more widely read than any other form of periodical publication, which, of course, adds to its desirability as an advertising medium, especially when quick action is necessary."H. H. Charles of the Charles Advertising Service, New York:"The immediate outlook for advertising in the field in which we specialize—the agricultural field—is for an increase in the volume of advertising, but how much no one can tell."The majority of our clients are doing as much advertising as last season. A few have curtailed a little, while several have increased their appropriations considerably. War conditions have brought about an abnormal demand for certain lines of goods required by the farmer. The indications are that this demand will continue for two or three years at least. The big problem is to meet these demands."

Advertising Space in the
NEW YORK HERALD is sold on the basis of QUALITY
CIRCULATION.

Advertising in the HERALD gives you an introduction to a Substantial, Permanent and Profitable Public.

Quality Circulation Produces QUALITY
TRADE

